Hoover Ends First Year; Great Accomplishments Behind

In Bas-Relief
Independence Day
For Solons' Mulling
Cockeyed Justice
Crepe for Trade

By E. C. Hawkins
Today is Texas independence day, due to the fact that March 2 fell on Sunday. Regal celebration is planned in several Texas cities. It was 64 years ago when pioneers met and the prepared constitution for a state destined to remain the largest in the Union and become one of the most substantial business and health "nations" of the world.

Announcement was made Saturday at the University of George that Dr. J. H. Miller, professor of botany, and George Crissfield, a collaborator, have discovered an insect that may combat the boll weevil. It is called the bracon mellitor.

The insect itself previously has been known, but Dr. Miller has found that it is a parasite on the boll weevil without injuring the cotton. The larvae of the bracon mellitor devour the weevil larvae in the cotton boll.

With the announcement comes the rather sarcastic observation of several farmers of the so-called pink boll worm infested area, which includes the Midland area, that a state which shows hesitancy in repaying them for costs incurred in fumigating and sterilizing cotton which had none of the worms, as shown by surveys, would probably not be interested in importing some of the worms for "combating" the worm here. The reason is simple: there are none of the worms here. But the farmers had to pay out needed money on the assumption of a few representatives and senators that they were. That is not so simple.

Leah Bailey got 99 years for shooting a man who it appears from evidence given on the stand, was trying to get into her house and club her with a gun. H. W. Haynie, from the evidence, got 20 years for protecting his home. A man in the north went into a restaurant and shot his way about, "forgot" about the "incident," and was given only 10 years. Justice must have headed her scales. Here is the incident referred to:

McCoy took a dislike to the interior of a restaurant and all its occupants. He vented his ire through the muzzle of a six-shooter and when the smoke cleared away, Branham was dead.

He appeared at a police station and informed the day sergeant there were "a couple of men killed up the street," and that he "ain't sure but what I was responsible," but he forgot to whom he shot, how many or why.

DEFINITE PROGRAM IS AHEAD

Commissions Study Problems Which Will Arise

By THOMAS L. STOKES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 3. (UP)—President Hoover completes a first year in office that rarely has been equalled for the number of new projects initiated, both domestic and foreign, but the end of the year finds him in the midst of several knotty problems in the handling of which may depend, ultimately, the success of his administration.

Three major problems—naval disarmament in the foreign field and the tariff and prohibition in the domestic field—have reached a critical stage just after the year comes to an end. All three of these are in the field of politics, and the two domestic issues are just as certain to be campaign issues three years hence when the country goes to the polls in a Presidential election as they will be in the congressional elections this fall.

Because of their nature they more or less submerge those other projects of the first year, in which may be seen the hand of Hoover the engineer rather than Hoover the chief figure in the national political arena. These others are matters lying in the domain of the social and economic—oil conservation, preservation of public lands, inland waterways, the Nicaraguan canal, child health, social welfare, problems with which Mr. Hoover is most closely identified in the public mind.

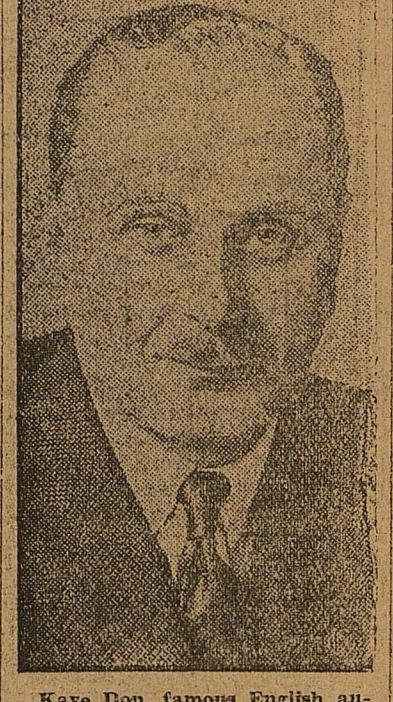

Far Reaching Program
He has initiated a program in this field, still largely in the formative stage, which is far-reaching. He is laying foundations to be built upon not only in his administration but perhaps in many administrations to come, for these things take time and patience.

Politically, the end of the first year finds the President having difficulties with congress, because a republican majority in the senate has melted, largely through new alignments developed by the tariff fight, into only a "paper" majority, with control in the hands of a coalition of democrats and western republicans, some of the latter being campaign aides who have broken with the chief executive, notably Senators Borah of Idaho, Brookhart of Iowa, and Nye of North Dakota.

These troubles are accentuated by a slackening of business caused by the stock market crash last year. The President took quick measures to stabilize business, calling in leaders of industry here and securing from them pledges to go ahead with various projects involving the expenditure of billions of dollars. A commission appointed by business leaders now is supervising stabilization measures.

Prohibition Future
On top of his troubles with congress, prohibition broke out into a veritable furore during the Christmas holidays which has continued, unabated, up to this time.

Kaye Don, famous English automobile racer, will make a desperate effort to wrest the world's speed record from his countryman, Major Seagrave. The challenger hopes to attain the unheard-of speed of four miles a minute over the sands of Daytona Beach, Fla.

INDEPENDENCE IS CELEBRATED OVER THE STATE TODAY

AUSTIN, Mar. 3. (UP)—Ninety-four years ago, March 2, pioneers met at Washington, first capital of Texas, and prepared the constitution declaring independence.

In Austin today, business enterprises stopped, schools were closed and offices were emptied, paying homage to the signers.

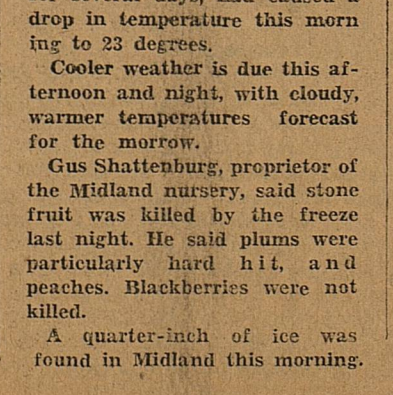

In San Antonio, ceremonies were picturesque. A program featuring scenes of Texas pioneers fighting outlaws and protecting their lives was enacted.

Because the anniversary fell on Sunday this year, today is observed as the legal holiday.

BANKS CLOSED HERE

The two banks of Midland observed a holiday in celebration of Texas Independence Day. An Independence Day program will be observed by the Lions club Wednesday.

ANDREWS WORKER BEATS DEATH IN 40-FOOT TUMBLE

L. C. Jones, 28, may recover from one of the most remarkable falls recorded in construction annals of this section.

Working at removing scaffolding on the newly completed water tank at Andrews, the man slipped and fell 40 feet, striking the ground on his head and shoulders. He fractured his spinal column but broke no bones.

An ambulance was called from Odessa and the workman carried to a hospital. His condition was pronounced serious but not necessarily pointing to death.

Jones was with two others on the tank, which was being built by the Finlayson Tank Co., of Midland. He will be sent to Fort Worth for treatment.

No one seems to know how he happened to fall.

CRANK MURDERER TO TRIAL; DALLAS COURT HEARS IT

DALLAS, Tex., March 3. (P)—Luther Whatley, young truck driver, is docketed for trial starting today for a slaying for which L. W. Conway, his companion on the night of the crime was sentenced to 99 years imprisonment.

Conway was convicted of murder in the killing of J. L. Broome, a 43-year-old special officer serving his first night as watchman for a gasoline warehouse at a cemetery here. Police called the crime one of the most brutal in Dallas records.

Broome, who presumably surprised men attempting to break into the storehouse, was beaten with an automobile crank the night of Dec. 15, 1928, and left to die. He was found unconscious the next morning and died a few hours later.

Conway at his trial admitted that he and Whatley were at the scene of the attack on Broome. With three women, one of them Conway's affianced, he said they were driving on the highway near the cemetery in a rented car, and ran short of fuel. He testified that he and Whatley went to the warehouse to replenish their supply. He declared the watchman accosted and fired upon them, but denied that he struck Broome. He fled back to the car, begging to follow him and not hurt the middle-aged officer, he said.

Their car fuelless, the five started out afoot. Two boys gave them a ride to town. The boys noticed blood on one of the men and through this act and through the rented automobile, the five persons were apprehended. The women were released after testifying before a grand jury. The two men were held on charges of murder.

Cool Driving Saves Lives of Two Boys

By cool handling of his automobile, Sam Warren probably saved the life of two youth on the west highway Sunday afternoon.

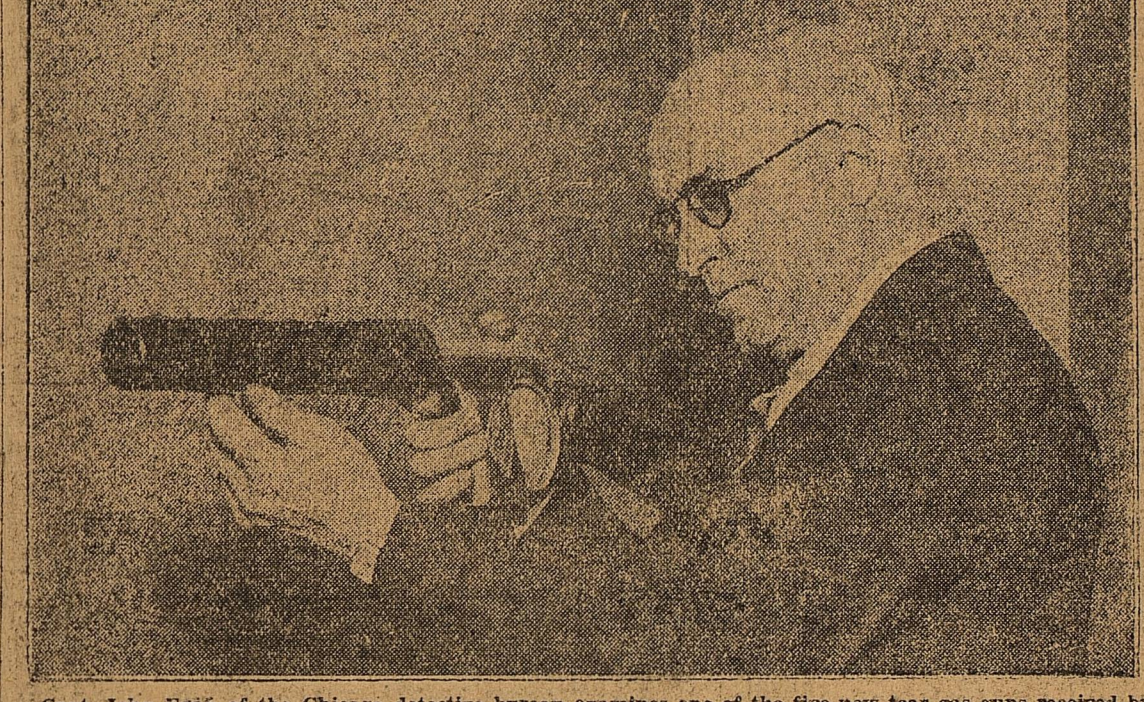

The boys were riding a motorcycle with an attached sidecar. As they turned aside to pass cars ahead of them they found themselves in the path of Warren's machine. Both the car and the motorcycle were moving fast. Warren pulled over to a lateral ditch but the boys could not turn their cycle. Just before the boys went into the ditch Warren whipped his car into the line of automobiles coming his way, forcing several of these to the shoulder of the road, and the motorcycle crashed into the ditch, across it and into a sycamore tree.

Neither was injured and the motorcycle was not badly damaged.

Strenuous Year Leaves Hoovers Physically Fit

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 3. (UP)—President Hoover has shown no ill effects from a year's service in the White House, despite the fact that he has spent longer hours at his desk each day than any president in recent years.

This is the opinion of Dr. Joel T. Boone, White House physician, as Mr. Hoover completes his first year as president. A strong constitution combined with regular habits and vigorous morning exercise are the factors to which the president's good health are attributed, Boone believes.

In fact, Boone said recently, Mr. Hoover is better "toned up" now than when he entered office. At that time the president had just completed a strenuous campaign in which unusual political problems along with constant journeys, interviews and speeches combined to dissipate his energy.

Regular Exercise
Immediately on entering the White House, Mr. Hoover began playing hand-ball early each morning with Boone, Assistant Secretary of Navy Jahncke, Associate Justice Stone of the U. S. Supreme Court and other friends.

This regular exercise has kept the President in excellent physical condition despite the fact that his official duties have called for long hours of work. Congress has been in session almost constantly since Mr. Hoover entered office and naval negotiations with England occupied the first six months of his term. But he has managed to keep fit despite the worries and labor occasioned by these two activities.

White House attaches often comment on the noticeable difference in Mr. Hoover's physical appearance from day to day. One day his face will be drawn and he (See STRENUOUS YEAR page 6)

MOODY HAS 25 TOPICS SCHEDULED

Legislature Session May Be Completed End Of Week

AUSTIN, March 3. (AP)—The bill sponsored by members of the Independent Petroleum association, to safeguard the interests of the so-called "little fellow" in the petroleum field, was introduced in the legislature today after Governor Moody had submitted the general subject.

The governor amended his message of Thursday, which was sent after both houses had adjourned for the week end, to include regulation of pipe lines.

A number of local bills and a few of general application were submitted, including a proposal to extend the laws of libel and slander to statements over radio; a proposal to grant authority to the commissioner of the general land office to procure and file in the land office papers about survey of lands, by virtue of certificates issued by Texas to railway companies, which records now are held by individuals and private interests.

Submits 25 Topics
Legislation preventing maintaining special accounts of state officials similar to those probed in Terrell impeachment charges was proposed.

Moody met the threats of legislators to adjourn with submission of 25 legislation topics, 18 having been requested by individual legislators. Members believe this will be the last week of the fifth called session.

REPRESENTATIVES RETURN FROM TRIP TO LEGISLATURE

E. G. Bedford, Harvey Sloan, C. A. McClintic, Joe Crump, and B. H. Blakeley have returned from Austin, where they went last week to join independents, royalty and land owners and others interested in protective legislation for the independent oil man.

The men represented Midland in a protest on the proposed tax on natural gas and were proponents of a resolution asking that major pipelines be made common carriers.

Goes To Trial In Pro Murder Case

SAN ANTONIO, March 3. (UP)—Another chapter was written in the Charles Stevens prohibition killing today when Joe Hobrecht went to trial charged with murder. He is alleged to have been a member of a gang plotting Stevens' death. Stevens was shot from ambush.

Naval Conference Ends Sixth Week

LONDON, March 3. (P)—The sixth week of the five-power naval conference ended today with conference activities in virtual recess, awaiting the reappearance of the French delegation to replace the one sent home after the Tardieu government was overthrown.

Paris advices indicate that the new Tardieu cabinet probably will pass in the chamber of deputies with a small majority Wednesday.

Incubator Lamp Causes 2 Deaths

WICHITA, Kan., March 3. (UP)—Two children died here today from burns suffered when the lamp of a chicken incubator exploded, setting fire to the home. Amos Case 8, and Betty Case 3, were the victims.

A BIG ACCOMPLISHMENT

The vote taken in the senate on the proposed oil tariff is a signal victory for the independent oil men. Starting on the job of securing such legislation only a few weeks before the bill was actually brought before the senate, the fight was so well organized and had such merits that it came near passing, securing 27 votes with 39 against.

It is said that in the history of tariff legislation, no similar bill has made such progress in so short a time.

And now the independent oil men will work on the project with renewed fervor, and they will have backing that they did not have before. There is no more reason for oil being on the free list than for any other commodity.

AVIATION BRANDED SAFE

A well known life insurance company, operating in the southwest, has notified its agents and patrons that from now on no extra charge will be made in the premiums of policies because the insured plans to take airplane flights. Full permission is given him to fly when and where he desires.

This is the beginning of recognition by life insurance companies that aviation is on a safe basis, or is rapidly becoming so. Other companies will follow. Life insurance govern their rates on all hazards by actual statistics, which means that they have made surveys and have determined that airplane risks are not great, else they would not permit the risk without extra charge in premiums.

TO THE JUNK HEAP

When an old automobile has served its time on the streets, it has always been a problem among auto manufacturers and dealers what to do with it. Neither wanted to undergo the expense or loss of junking it, so back it went on the market unless it was too far gone for any practical use.

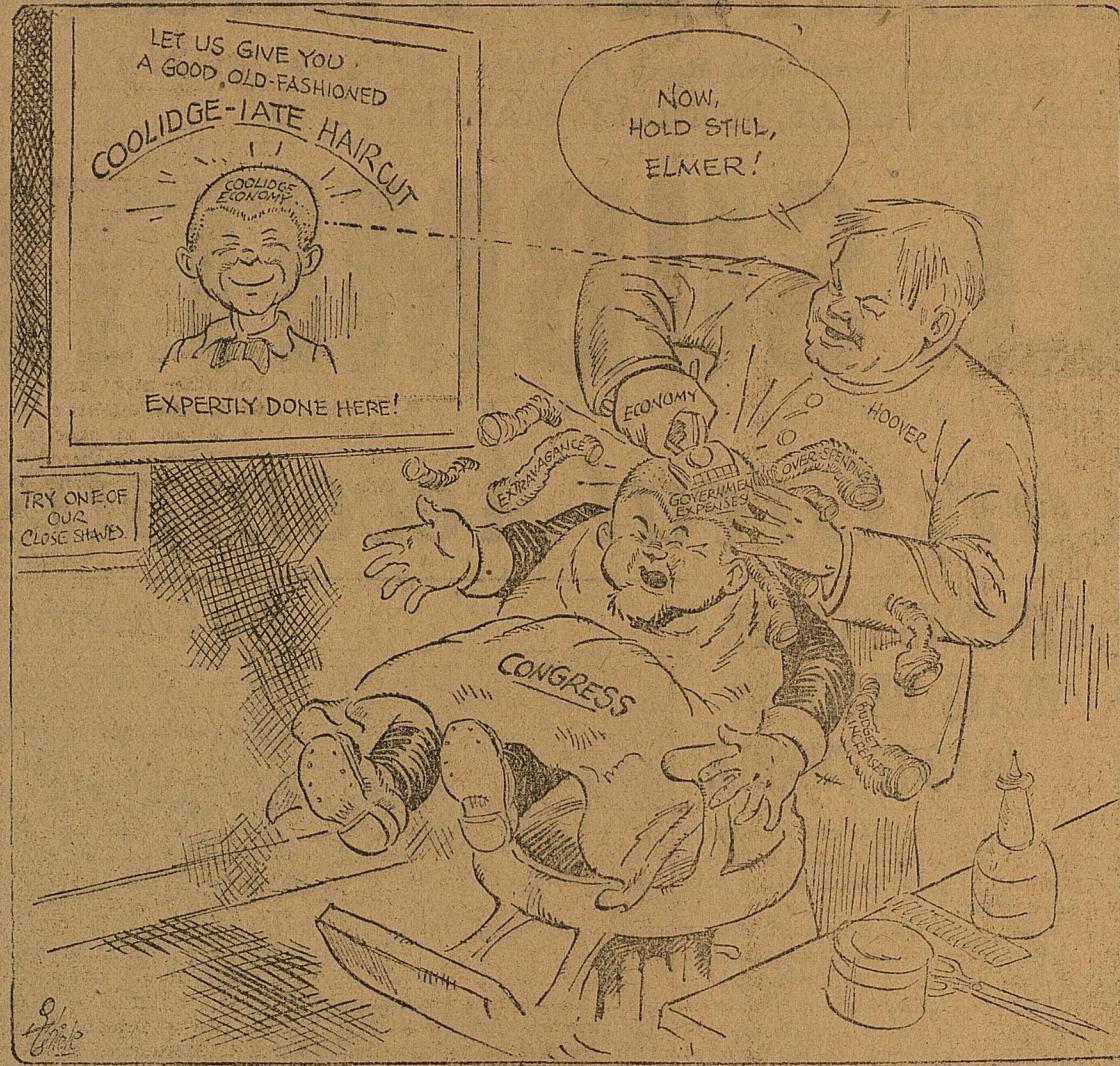

After many years of dickerings, the manufacturers and dealers have finally come to an arrangement whereby they would split up the expense of junking the old cars so that some of them may not reappear on the streets. Within the next year, these companies expect to spend $15,000,000 to scrap some 400,000 old and decrepit vehicles.

That's quite encouraging not only from a common sense business viewpoint, but from the angle of traffic safety and convenience. More new cars may be sold because of the resultant decrease of used cars on the market, and accidents may be lowered because of the elimination of vehicles that most generally cause them.

But this action only partially involves the problem of the old and unfit vehicles still in use. There will still remain many thousands of cars barely struggling along under the hands of drivers who can hardly afford to buy gas and oil to keep them running; let alone keep them in proper and safe operating condition. These conveyances will remain menaces to human safety, whatever the auto manufacturers and dealers might try to do about it.

To rid the streets of these "rattle-traps" the police ultimately will have to step in. Many a car, almost on its last legs, should be condemned as dangerous and sent to the public pond before the auto manufacturers get it or before it runs down a pedestrian.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Never Mind About the Coast Guard's Prohibition Duties—It Still Goes at Its Life-Saving Job With Great Earnestness, as This Story From Icy Lake Michigan Testifies. BY RODNEY DUCHER, NEA Service Writer

Comes a report, to which your correspondent is made familiar, concerning a recent exploit of the guard in the heart of Chicago.

It was 7 a. m., on a morning this month, that the coast guard station at Illinois Central Pier No. 1 received a frantic telephone call from a copper (cop) on Lake Shore drive, concerning a woman who had fallen into Lake Michigan and was gradually drifting out from shore. This woman later turned out to be Mrs. Etta Wiener, 50 years of age.

So Boon J. C. Anderson and a crew of four or five men put out from the station in a rescue motor boat, headed for the sinking Mrs. Wiener. Unfortunately there was plenty of heavy ice in the channel and after a hundred feet of going this ice broke up the propeller.

The gallant coast guardsmen, intent upon the rescue of Mrs. Wiener, hopped onto a small floe of ice and left their craft floating between the cakes. They reached the pier safely.

Then they dashed to the nearby lighthouse, where, thanks to somebody's forethought, a skiff had been placed on a wheeled trailer for emergencies just such as that presented by the perilous plight of Mrs. Wiener. A police car was hastily commandeered and the trailer attached thereto. Up famous Michigan Boulevard, at top speed, dashed this skiff on wheels to Lake Michigan at the end of Superior street.

You might suppose that by this time poor Mrs. Wiener had been spurious versenkt—in fact, that Mrs. Wiener was no more. Nothing of the sort! There was Mrs. Wiener, still floating out toward the middle of the lake, still yelling, still struggling.

Boon Anderson and two men tossed the skiff over into the lake from a deep ice bank. Then they scrambled down into it, a perilous feat in itself, loudly cheered by such early-rising bystanders as had gathered. In no time at all they had reached the struggling, yelling Mrs. Wiener, 400 feet from shore.

With a rope they pulled Mrs. Wiener back up from the skiff onto the shore. Once on the seawall they hurried her to the nearest hospital. There they helped undress Mrs. Wiener and all kinds of hot things were applied, externally and internally. At last accounts Mrs. Wiener had virtually recovered.

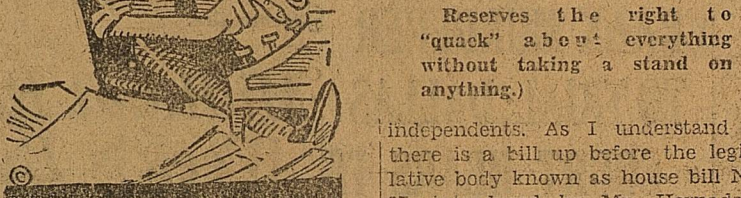

The official report said that Mrs. Wiener had floated 15 minutes. The fur coat which she wore had created a bulging air space which had kept her on the surface while the coast guard was on the way after its various fashions.

The coast guard's iceberg patrol is out in the north Atlantic earlier than ever this year and into headquarters here comes the annual crop of suggestions from the populace.

One school of thought thinks it would be a good idea to put red lanterns on all bergs.

Another suggests that each berg independents. As I understand it there is a bill up before the legislative body known as house bill No. 57, introduced by Mr. Hornaday, classing any group of individuals, whether local, or foreign having three or more stores in the chain class. All well and good Quack, but now say that all of a sudden all of the chain organizations in Midland shut their doors, what would be the outcome? Frye Rubber company would shut up, All Tire company would shut up. All of your Gulf, Texas, Magnolia, etc., filling stations would shut up, the Hogan building or rather the Petroleum building would have to shut its doors for the want of occupants, United Dry Goods company would shut up, so would the Acorn Store and Grissom-Robertson, and Ily Pratt at the Hassen company would be looking for another job, even Eob Scruggs would have to leave town to look for his money.

The Town Quack

I hereby extend to W. K. Henderson an invitation to write me a letter, saying anything that is not too highly explosive by way of rebuttal to the following letter from A. N. Omyonous who seems to have taken a sudden serious turn on the chain store question. Read it: Midland, Texas, March 1st, 1930.

Dear Quack: Well, well, well, so this is March! Well, don't worry quack it doubtless will come in like Mr. Henderson of Louisiana, and doubtless it will go out the same way. Like a Lion and like a Lamb. Just read an article by the Texas Retail Dry Goods association where Mr. Henderson is sorter peered because the promoters in Texas began to organize an anti-chain organization and would not give him half of the receipts which he thought he was justly due for all of his talk on chains, so the outcome is that he turned on them, and handed them a hot package and they in turn went to the courts to get savy for their wounded feelings. Too bad that normal minded business men have to take up such petty squabbles.

Listen, Quack, say you take the chain stores or chain organizations out of Midland and leave it to the be given a number and these respective numbers be painted upon them in black, so as to keep track of them.

But the most popular idea of all, proposed year after year, is that the navy be turned loose on the bergs and use them for target practice. Thus, it is pointed out, the bergs would be blown to smithereens and the navy's aim perfected.

But the coast guard has experimented in blowing up these icebergs and it says that firing a shell into a berg from a 16-inch gun would have the same effect as firing a BB shot into an ordinary cake of ice—just a few splinters and nothing more. The bergs weigh from 500,000 to 1,000,000 tons and one must depend on the caressing waters of the warm Gulf stream to melt them after they get below the forty-third parallel. After that their average life is about 10 days. Last year an estimated 676,000,000 tons of icebergs came down below the forty-third parallel.

Underneath his surface disgust, however, there is a growing uneasiness. Doris Matthews most decidedly had not looked like "that kind of a girl," and yet what other explanation of Dick's all-night absence could there be? The girl had certainly agreed, however unwilling her consent had appeared to be, to meet Dick after the household was a-bed.

"Well, what shall I do?" Dundee asked himself gloomily, as he returned to the bathroom and prepared to take a cold shower. "Alarm the family? It's early yet. The young rake may come sneaking back in time for breakfast, and be properly indignant at my interference. Yes, I guess I'd better give him a little more time—and quite a large piece of my mind when he does turn up!"

After the biting cold of the shower, followed by a vigorous toweling, back upon the lake. "Don't be a spoil-sport, Clo!" Gigi begged, hopping upon the springboard. "You'd only be cold a feeny minute, and then— Goodness!" she broke off suddenly, and raised her short little nose to sniff, as a sudden breeze from the south rippled the rose-and-silver surface of the lake. "Fleur d'Armour! Can't you smell it, everybody? It must have soaked clear through to our bones, to keep on smelling like this!"

"Don't be an idiot, Gigi!" Clorinda commanded angrily, as the little orange-and-brown figure darted from one to another, sniffing like an eager puppy. "It's just your imagination—"

"I do smell Fleur d'Armour!" Gigi insisted. "But come on! Let's swim! Bet I can dive farther than you can, in a racing dive. Bonnie Dundee! One for the money, two for the show—come on, Bonnie! Let's show 'em some real diving!— three makes ready, and four we go!" And on the last word she released her next playmate's hand and ran, executed a racing dive from the edge of the lake as the athletic young detective had ever seen.

How little and brown and adorable she was, with her fire-fringed brown curls, which scorned a bathing cap, glinting in the sun!

Her dive took her far into the lake, or rather far to the west side of the lake, alarmingly near the little circular summerhouse upon the very edge of the water.

"Swim, swim!" he sang out, as the wet curls emerged. Then because there was a queer expression on her dripping face, he shouted anxiously: "What's the matter, Gigi? Did you hurt yourself?"

"Hurt myself?" she echoed, her voice queerly muffled and trembly. "Of course not! But—and she began to swim rapidly toward the springboard on which he stood. "I think—I think I saw a—a mermaid down there!"

"A mermaid?" Dundee stooped to give her a hand and she clattered upon the board, shivering violently. "Don't pay any attention to the little idiot!" Clorinda commanded with contemptuous anger. "I told you it was too cold for swimming, Gigi. Come back to the house."

But Gigi had drawn up her goose-fleshed knees and had dropped her head upon them. She was trembling more violently than ever, and suddenly Dundee knew it was not from cold. She had gone to camp in New Hampshire, as she had told him the night before, had swum every sunrise in an icy lake—

The hair stirred on his scalp, with that horrible prickling he had experienced twice the night before. Without another moment of hesitation his long legs climbed over the huddled, shivering little figure, stepped to the edge of the springboard.

"No, don't!" Gigi cried, when she realized his purpose, but only a mighty splash answered her.

His dive took him many feet short of the spot where Gigi had gone under, but when he had risen and got his bearings he plunged again.

When the detective rose the second time, after a long minute under water, his face was a ghastly gray-white. But he did not speak, until powerful, overhand strokes had brought him swiftly to the springboard.

Gigi stared up at him, dumb with horror, and he comforted her with a hard grip of her shaking shoulder before he addressed Clorinda Berkeley:

"Take your sister to the house immediately, Miss Berkeley! Crosby, I'll need your help."

and she shivered and turned her

The WOMAN'S DAY

On the theory that education should include the training of people for the things they like to do, Shorewood High School, in Milwaukee, is giving lessons in bridge two nights a week.

And some 250 suburbanites gather there every session and are initiated into the mysteries of grand slams and no trump bids.

The women outnumber the men two to one in this school, but at that there are a goodly number of men in attendance who make up in interest and enthusiasm what they lack in numbers.

Higher education in bridge is sponsored by the Shorewood Opportunity Club and this is, to my knowledge, the only school which provides for just this type of vocational study.

It is to be hoped that the instruction includes a course in bridge manners as well—that students are warned against holding post mortems after each hand, and taught to count ten before they tell their partners what they really think of a person guilty of trumping an ace.

I have a theory that bridge players should be graded as prize fighters are, and the bantam-weights should never be put into the ring with heavyweights.

Certainly it is no fun for exceptionally fine players to play with people who have no card sense, and can never remember the trump, even with an indicator. But it is agony, indeed, for the poor player to be fed to the sharks. Only education and standardization will bring about equality.

A TEA-TOTALER

As another social item, I notice that Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has caused, if not a tempest in the teacups, at least a ripple when she denounced tea cup politics.

We are a long way past the period, she believes, when tea can be substituted for political argument, and when political results of any great importance can be achieved while the real attention is being focused on the cream-or-lemmon, please.

Said she: "During my political experience, I have found that the gentle pleasures of social entertainment lie in a field far away from the practical matter of gaining converts and it is only by gaining converts from the other side that political success may be got."

Which is quite true. As long as women consider politics and tea parties synonymous, and as long as they will accept nice bouquets and flowery speeches, instead of actual political recognition, the politicians who work out the real strategy need not worry about women at the polls.

The alligator has no lips, and its teeth, especially those in the lower jaw, are naked and prominent, even when the mouth is shut.

HE'LL MAKE ALL CHICKENS WALK

WABASH, Ind., March 3. (UP)—Jack Gillen doesn't mind taking chickens for an auto ride, but hereafter he warns she may have to walk home.

The other night he drove into town and parked his car at the curb. Almost at once a group of young men gathered around the car, with remarks "Introduce us," "Who is the girl friend?"

Sitting on the running board was an old hen with one of her chicks tucked under a wing. They had hopped on the running board at the Gillen home and had ridden to town.

SELLING USED CARS

The greatest ten-day sale of used cars ever staged locally is announced for the first 10 days of March. Jackson, Chevrolet dealer, with 45 automobiles of all makes offered.

"Unused transportation" is the key-word of the sale, according to Mr. Jackson. "That is what these cars really mean, service that has not yet been used."

"Too many persons have the wrong impression of used cars and the values that lie in them. This results from the unfortunate employment of the word 'used' which implies a previous ownership and a reduced worth. Today cars are built with years of life and limited thousands of miles in them. Drivers are more efficient today. Cars are serviced more often than formerly. Better roads reduce abuse of travel. Cars are traded in when the bulk of their lives still is ahead of them."

PROTEST MODERN AGE

JEFFERSON, N. Y., (UP)—Public-spirited citizens of this Schenectady county community are aroused because of the fact that only one mail delivery daily is made, whereas 20 years ago, there were three. What with automobiles and airplanes and other modern means of travel, one mail delivery a day is entirely inadequate and not up to standards of these days, the village folk contend.

Lord is Good and Looks After His Sheep.

Just one more question, Quack, and I will ring off. What becomes of the $12.50 that the independent merchants sends to Mr. Henderson? Does it go to the Salvation Army, Red Cross, churches or charitable institutions? I wonder.

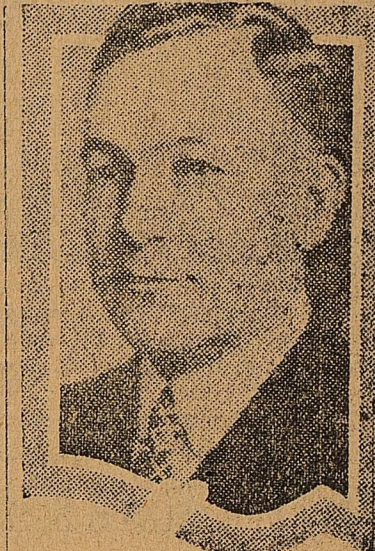

Fraternally yours, and yours in your effort to boost for Midland and bring in those organizations, whether chain or independent that will upbuild Midland and make it a more desirable place in which to educate our children, raise your family, do our shopping and live.

GREAT FAITH IN THE NEW KONJOLA MEDICINE SHOWN

Many Prominent Midland People Among the First to Call at The Mayes Young Drug Store

From every section of Midland and many nearby towns, there came a vast number of people to find out about this new Konjola medical compound. It is appalling to note the great majority of modern people who are suffering from different forms of stomach, liver, kidney, and bowel disorders. Several prominent well-known citizens were among the first to purchase this medicine.

Konjola is being sold in large quantities at the Mayes Young drug store, this city, where large crowds are calling to purchase this medicine or ask for information and advice.

Konjola takes a different form of action on the human system than any previously known remedy. It is a liquid, taken immediately after meals, which works with the sufferer's own food. It contains the medical ingredients of twenty-two natural plants. These have the best possible effect on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels so that your food works with Nature, restoring a more healthy, normal action to these important organs. After all, it is Nature that really does the work, and Konjola simply brings the help that Nature requires. This is the safest surest and best way to conquer the ailments so many people are suffering, for example:

Sharp pains over the kidneys, a dull aching feeling across the back, swollen limbs, frequent night rising, dizziness, spots before the eyes, liver trouble, including biliousness, sick headaches, yellowish complexion and constipation, wild heart palpitation, feeling like fire from the throat to the pit of the stomach, intense pains and a feeling like a rock in the stomach, sour acidic risings in the throat, cramps, etc.

Many other forms of suffering frequently arise from the disordered condition of the stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels. Rheumatism and neuritis are common. Catarrh of the ten develops, which is one of the most stubborn diseases mankind is heir to, with the ringing and roaring in the ears, clogged nostrils and a general wasting away of flesh and energy. This ailment must be conquered from the system within.

The new Konjola comes to Midland for the first time direct from successes in larger cities. Its appearance in one large Indiana city, recently brought so many restorations to health that 561 public statements of indorsement were issued in praise of this remarkable remedy, many from the public officials, nurses, ministers, and people in all walks of life.

Konjola is now being sold in Midland at the Mayes Young drug store, where many people are calling to find out about this surprising new medicine.

Watch Your Step in The Boston Balance

EDITOR'S NOTE: The "Boston Balance" is described below by Arthur Murray, noted dancing teacher, in the series on "Stepping in Style" which he is writing for The Reporter-Telegram and NEA Service. This is the eleventh of twelve articles.

Quickly place the right foot directly to the right side and hold the weight on the right foot for three counts—4, 5, 6.

Repeat the entire movement of six counts, beginning with the left foot.

After learning this step to waltz tempo, practice it to fox trot time. Whereas a balance step is given three beats in the waltz tempo, it is given only two counts in fox trot time. The quick steps in the waltz also are done quickly in the fox trot.

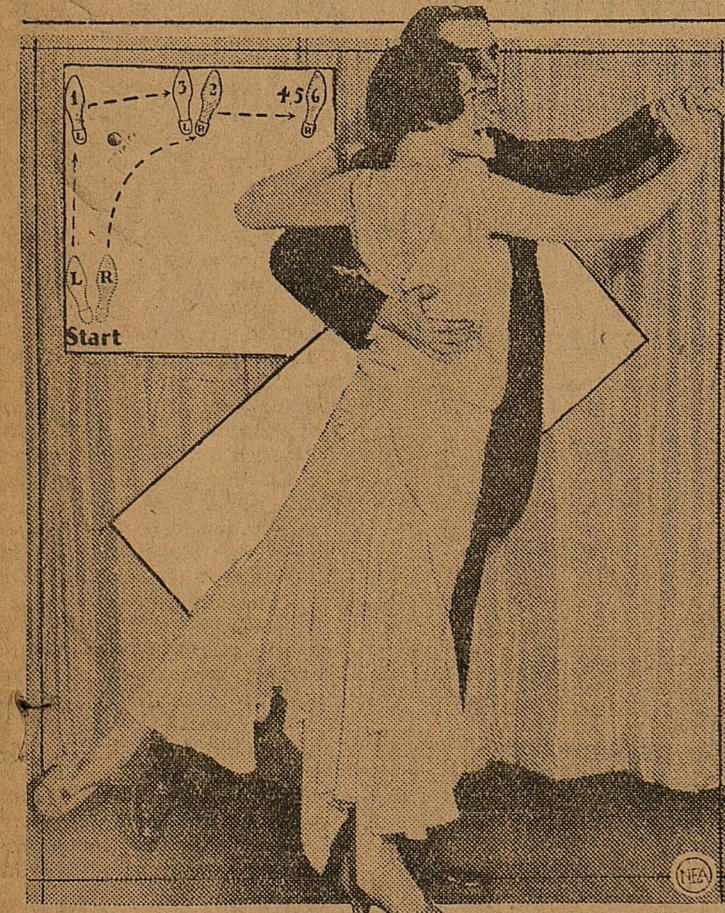

Either "Singing in the Bath-tub" (fox trot) or "Love Me" (waltz) is suitable music for the Boston Balance.

By ARTHUR MURRAY

There is versatility to the Boston Balance. Danced equally as well to fox trot and waltz music, it possesses the grace and refinement which removes modern dancing from the romp and stomp of past years.

But "watch your step." Only practice makes perfect this novel dance.

Begin with the left foot and do a forward waltz step of three counts—1, 2, 3. (See diagram.)

OLD FASHIONED SLUGGING BEE RESULTS IN INTEREST

By BOB ARCHER.

AUSTIN, March 3.—Annual boxing exhibition at the University of Texas opened Wednesday night, February 26, with several rounds of good old fashioned slugging. As usual, there was not much of the art of boxing present; this comes later on.

There are 51 entries this year, an increase of four men over last year's fighters and three more than tried out in 1928. In 1928, four of the winners were sent to New Orleans to compete in the Olympic try-outs.

These fights are boxing exhibitions and not prize fights. Berry M. Whitaker, instructor in physical training for men, announced. Some parents object to having their sons participate in prize fights. These are not profession matches. They are held for the benefit of those athletically inclined boys who want to demonstrate their prowess in the manly art of self defense, or, judging from the first matches, the manly art of give and take.

Seven Classes
Up to this year, there have been seven classes of the following weights to enter: 115, 125, 135, 145, 158, 175 pounds, and the heavy-weight. This year the 158-pound class has been discontinued, a 155 and 165-pound class having been substituted. Because of this, all contestants are required to weigh-in before their bouts. In previous years they have been allowed three pounds leeway. The boxers are allowed to wrap their hands only in gauze or flannel with just enough adhesive tape to hold it in place.

As usual, gold medals will be awarded to the winner in each class. In addition, this year, Stanley Cox, who won the 135-pound championship the last two years, has sent a trophy for this year's winner in that class. Dean T. U. Taylor of the College of Engineering is giving a small statue of "Alec", the Engineer's patron saint, to any winner who is enrolled in the College of Engineer-

27 WEST TEXAS HIGH SCHOOLS ENTER INVITATIONAL TRACK MEET STAGED IN SNYDER; 400 ATHLETES THERE

SNYDER, March 3.—Entries that closed Saturday for the first Snyder Invitational Track and Field Meet totaled 27 West Texas high schools. Coach Les Cranfill, Simmons University; Coach Raymond Berry, Breckenridge; Coach "Doc" Herring, Mineral Wells, and Coach Milton Beavers, Canyon, will head the list of official judges and starters.

Teams entered include: Lubbock, Lamesa, Post, Tahoka, Ralls, Spur, Colorado, Slaton, Roby, Rotan, Sweetwater, Big Spring, Merkel, Stanton, Anson, Albany, Fluvanna, Dunn, Hobbs, Blackwell, Pylon, Lorraine, Coahoma, Gall, Knox City, Sudan, Lomax and Wells.

More than 400 thinly-clad will be the guests of the local school and preparations are being completed for one of the greatest athletic events ever held in West Texas. This track and field meet is the first of its kind to be staged on a large scale in West Texas and the success of it is shown in the large entry list of some of the best schools of the district.

Principal W. N. Corry of Snyder High is the director general of the meet and has a long list of silver loving cups, medals and ribbons for high winners in both Class A and B schools.

Come! Find Out For Yourself About The Medicine That Is Helping Thousands To Health

THE NEW KONJOLA

A new joy in living comes when the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are in a healthy condition. Rheumatism vanishes, Neuritis amazingly relieved, Nerves strengthened, Good Digestion restored, Night Rising, Sleeplessness, Back Pains, Dizzy Spells—all disappear and a new feeling of health takes reign over the body in general. Such abundant health and new life energy is far greater than all the gold and riches in the world.

YESTERDAY GREAT QUANTITIES OF THIS NEW MEDICINE WERE SOLD TO THE PEOPLE OF MIDLAND AT THE MAYES YOUNG DRUG STORE

"A straight line is the shortest distance..."

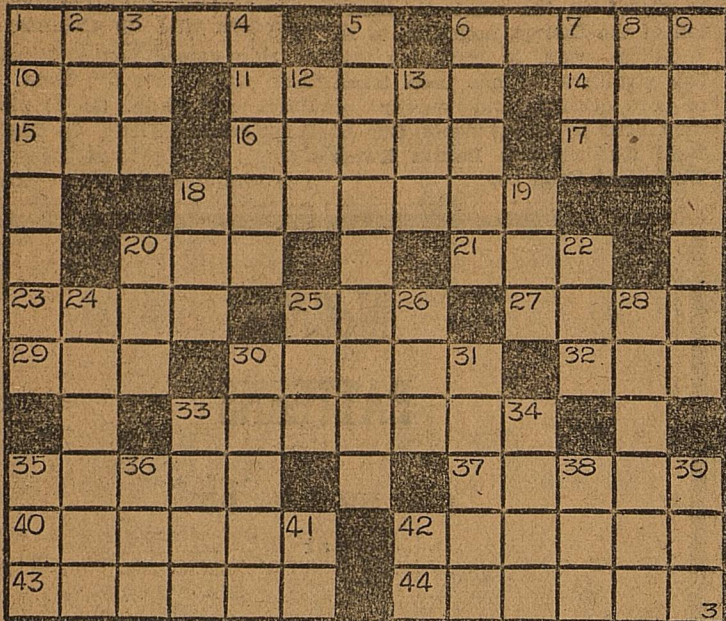

YOU need a flashlight or an alarm clock. That's one point in a common geometrical problem. Somewhere a manufacturer is making, a store is offering for sale, exactly the flashlight or alarm clock you should have. That's the second point in your private problem. . . . And advertising is the straight line that shows the shortest distance between the two!

Day after day, in the advertising pages, you'll find straight lines drawn direct to the products you need. Look for them. Follow them. They may save you hours of searching.

And more than time, they'll save you money. Advertised products are those whose honest worth has made them popular. Merchants and manufacturers who advertise regularly have passed the public's test of fair dealing and reliability. By studying their announcements in the light of your own needs, you can buy most wisely and well.

BALLOONIST OF WAR FAME HIDES FOR 11 YEARS

CINCINNATI, O., March 3. (UP)—The last time James A. McDevitt tumbled over the bridge of a balloon basket and floated safely to earth under the comforting folds of a parachute, he resolved upon a life of security and quiet.

That was back in 1918 when dropping through thin ozone occurred with more marked regularity than lunch hours.

For more than 11 years McDevitt, a lieutenant, kept his resolution. He lived in such obscurity that not even his most intimate neighbors guessed that this mild, unobtrusive man was the possessor of the coveted Distinguished Service Cross.

As a member of the 11th Balloon Company, he served the major part of America's service in the war in France. He does not recall the number of times he was shot down. Probably they were frequent since on one 24-hour shift, he did the spiral act three times.

The first time he leaped from a burning craft occurred shortly after he landed in France, having had one leap to his credit while in training camps. Doing observation duty, an enemy plane applied a torch and as the former balloonist explained, "I jumped. There was nothing else to do, previous experience to the contrary notwithstanding."

On another occasion, his parachute was riddled with gun fire as he descended. An Allied plane barged his craft upon another occasion but McDevitt has his doubts that the plane was flying under its true colors.

The identity of the modest ex-lieutenant was recently established by Major H. H. Arnold, commander of Wright Field, Dayton.

Hoover—

him, suggesting various reforms to aid enforcement, chiefly transfer of the Prohibition Bureau from the Treasury to the Justice Department and changes in court procedure.

This did not still the clamor, but served to accentuate it, throwing prohibition directly into congress again. House vets, jubilant in reopening hearings before the judiciary committee, and wet and dry arguments were carried to the public again.

Leads By Persuasion President Hoover has demonstrated in his first year that he does not intend to wield the "big stick" over congress. He chooses rather to lead by persuasion and indirection, through suggestion here and there to those in charge of affairs at the capitol.

Any review of Mr. Hoover's domestic achievements in his first year naturally falls into two parts—those matters which the President has initiated as an engineer, and there are many, and those ventures into the realm of the politician.

In dealing with social and economic problems, the President has introduced a new idea into government, a government in this field by commission. He has appointed scores of commissions to which he has entrusted this problem and that problem. These commissions are to get facts. All of them still are busy.

Some of the outstanding commissions are:

- 1. The law enforcement commission which is delving into all forms of law violation, including prohibition violations.

- 2. A commission to determine a policy relative to public lands, surface rights of which Mr. Hoover wants to turn back to the states.
3. A commission to study measures for oil conservation.
4. A commission to study means of aiding child welfare work.
5. A commission to study many sociological problems, such as housing congestion.
6. A commission to study ways to rehabilitate business.
7. A commission to investigate conditions in Haiti and to recommend a permanent policy there.

These are but a few of them. Despite attacks by democrats that the commission is merely a means of "burying" a problem, the President has announced that he intends to appoint many more.

River Front Fire New Under Control

NEW ORLEANS, March 3.—(AP)—The river front fire of undetermined origin which burned one man fatally and injured 13 others was brought under control today after damaging the wharf, two warehouses and a steamship, with loss estimated at $3,000,000.

The charred body of Joseph Ruan, 46, was found aboard the steamship Scandia which drifted into midstream after flames had severed its moorings. The injured members of the crew or visitors from New Orleans, were trapped aboard the ship.

Katy Extension To Roswell Is Sought

STAMFORD, March 3. (UP)—The chamber of commerce today revealed plans to persuade the Katy railroad to extend its line from Rottan to Snyder and west to Roswell, N. M., thus opening up a new agricultural area.

Little Theatre To Try Another Wedding

It would seem that stage marriages are not of a lasting quality. Lizzie Perkins was taken aback to find in one of the state papers that her half-wit husband, Tom Scott, had applied for divorce, within five days after their marriage.

It all happened in the last little theatre play, "Call of the Banshee." Mrs. George Abell as Lizzie was wed to Chambers Peak as Tom Scott and found the notice of the latter's suit for divorce in a prominent newspaper.

And now, Sam Warren and Miss Stella Mae Lanham will try a stage marriage in "Sun-Up." Little Theatre's coming production. They will be the leading characters.

Other roles: The Widow Cagle, past middle age. She has great strength of character and is very stoical. She says "There is no danger unless you are afraid."

Rufe Cagle, her son—a good looking young mountaineer, a positive character, kind and determined to do what he believes to be right.

"Pap" Todd, a slender, tall, wiry old man of the hound-dog type. He likes his moonshine whiskey, even though it cost him 20 years in jail.

Emmy Todd, his daughter—a very pretty girl who has unusual poise and is entirely unspoiled.

Bud Todd, his son-in-law, both mentally and physically.

Jim Weeks, deputy sheriff—a typical mountaineer, arrogant.

Preacher, a typical mountaineer, tall and slender.

Stranger, a young man from civilization who brings with him an element of mystery and a great deal of excitement; wiry and capable of quick action and changing emotion.

Bob, rough mountaineer assisting the sheriff.

"Sun-Up," written by Lula Volmer, ran in New York for several consecutive months, and the Midland organization is proud to be able to stage it.

A half-wit who can whittle and whistle, and a tall man for a character part are needed to complete the cast. Mrs. Abell may be called by telephone at her residence by anyone who wishes to try for these parts.

quire as to the death in the grocery store. "Who's dead," they asked. "Oh, just business, that's all," said Simpson. Thereupon the shoppers undertook to revive business by making purchases. Simpson later removed the crepe.

With a local theatre showing a rather modern version of Shakespeare's immortal "Taming of the Shrew," students of history recall that rural English is still filled with some of the ancient customs noticed in the photoplay. For instance, Josiah Hinks, student of Shakespeare, summoned before a justice on a charge of obstructing a main thoroughfare with cattle, quoted Shakespeare's statement that the annual Stamford stock fair had always been held in the principal streets, whereupon the justices decided that they had no jurisdiction in the case.

Granting a license to a public house in London called The Silent Woman that had formerly been named The Angel, the chairman of the licensing commission remarked that the new name meant "the same thing."

Gastonia Trial Is Resumed; 5 Charged

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 3. (UP)—Trial of five non-union textile mill workers on charges of participating in the murder of Mrs. Ella Mae Wiggins at Gastonia, in September, was resumed today.

The state moved swiftly to close the case against the five accused of waylaying a truck which was going to a strikers meeting, shooting Mrs. Wiggins to death.

San Marcos Murder Trial Is Scheduled

SAN MARCOS, March 3. (UP)—A. J. Wimberley goes to trial March 10 on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Riley Plant here last fall, the district attorney announced today.

He said grand jury indictments had been returned. Plant was shot to death the day after the district court had continued a case charging him with a statutory attack on Wimberley's daughter.

will appear tired and worried. But the next morning all signs of fatigue are gone and the president will appear fresh and alert.

Those in close touch with Mr. Hoover say this marked change is due to the fact that he concentrates on a problem until it is finished and the long struggle sometimes leave him tired and worn. But as soon as a worry has been disposed of, it is said, the President relaxes both mentally and physically and his marked recuperative powers soon restore him.

Mrs. Hoover Healthy The president is said to have a marked resistance to disease germs. His associates point out that although he receives hundreds of visitors each week, some of whom carry cold germs and other bacteria, Mr. Hoover suffers no ill effects from these contacts.

Likewise, Mrs. Hoover is said by Boone to have completed her first year amid the strenuous social duties incumbent on a First Lady of the Land without a depreciation in health. She keeps fit by spending much time in the open.
