SMU MUSTANGS IN CONCERT TONIGHT AT HIGH SCHOOL

A program at the high school at 2:30 and a street parade at 3:30 put the town in the right fettle for the concert tonight at the high school of the SMU Mustang band.

"Cy" Batcus, director, and two famous football men, "Speedy" Mason and Bob Gilbert attracted much attention because of the press notices which have introduced them all over the state and throughout the north.

The program tonight will be in three parts, the first a band of 50 pieces, the second a skit, "Peruna," and the last a stage band. The program begins at 7:30.

MASS MEET HELD THERE LAST NIGHT

Steady Building Goes On; New Oil City Progressing

By BRUCE ALLINGHAM ANDREWS, Feb. 5.—In keeping with the rapid strides being taken in the development here, a mass meeting was held last night, sponsored by the local chamber of commerce, to present to voters of the Andrews school district a plan for the erection of a new school building.

The move would necessitate consolidation of the two schools of the district, said to be the largest common school district in the state of Texas. At the present there are two buildings for the district, one at Andrews proper and the other at the McCaskey community, and sentiment seems to be highly in favor of the move.

At the meeting last night, a sketch of the proposed new edifice was displayed along with an outline of the floor plans. As outlined, the building will be so arranged and equipped as to make it possible for the school to become affiliated with the Texas conference.

BUILDING INCREASES

ANDREWS, Feb. 5.—Building projects here, though somewhat hampered by the inclement weather of the past week, are going ahead steadily.

The foundation on the new Andrews State bank building was laid yesterday, and the tile and stone of the walls will be laid next week. Ground has been leveled, and the work started on the walls of the Underwood Chevrolet garage.

Five residence cottages were completed this week, and work is going ahead on half a dozen more. All of them have been rented in advance.

A new cafe is going up on Blanco street, and a new barber shop opened this week.

Another filling station is being erected at the intersection of the Odessa and Midland highways at the outskirts of the town. Real estate transfers so far this week total nine, and according to agents here many more are lined up for completion before the week is over.

OIL ACTIVITY IN ANDREWS COUNTY TO GET STARTED

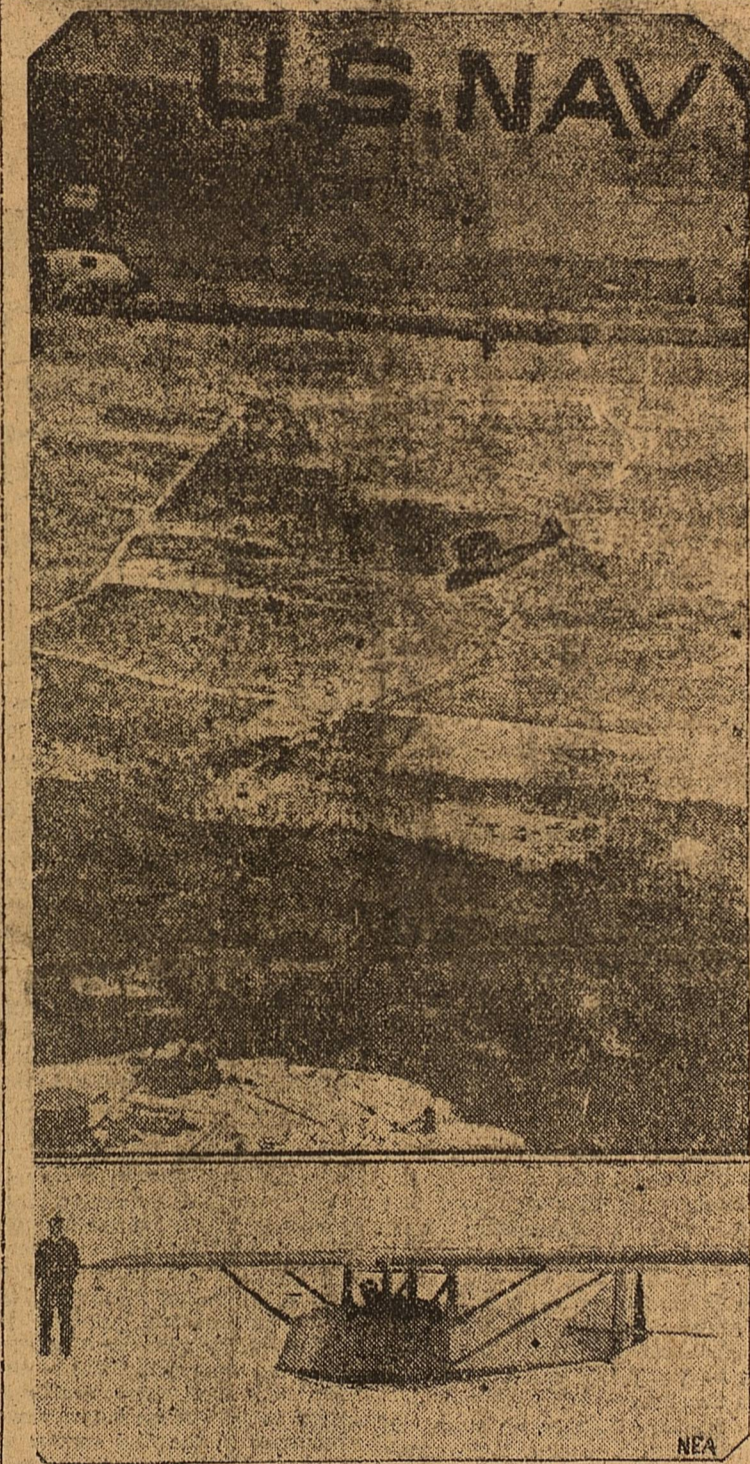

ANDREWS, Feb. 5.—(Special).—Representatives of the Deep Rock Oil company, which brought in the Ogen No. 1, first producing well in the Andrews field, have announced another new location.

It is 990 feet east of the west line and 990 feet north of the south line in the southwest corner of section 4, block A-46. Preliminary work on the cellar should start in a week or so. Rumors to the effect that still another location will be made soon, presumably in section 22 of the same block, indicate that the company is leaving nothing undone to discover the main trend of the pool. The new well in section four is on the land of W. J. Mathis of Graham.

The cellar of the King No. 1 is practically completed and the rig will be put up immediately. It is likely that drilling operations will start in about ten days. Ogen No. 1, the discovery well, is flowing by heads at an average of about 35 barrels every four hours.

West Texas oil men are constantly advancing the opinion that the tide drilling has been confined to the bare outer edge of what appears to be a great pool.

Navy Pilot Glides Down From Dirigible

These pictures prove, according to naval aeronautical experts, that the motorless glider can play an important part in the safe operation of huge dirigibles. In the aerial view above you see how a tiny glider, piloted by Lieut. Ralph S. Barnaby, was launched from the Los Angeles high above the air station at Lakehurst, N. J. The arrows show how he dived almost vertically after releasing the craft from its fastenings under the hull of the dirigible. Twelve minutes later, as pictured below, he landed safely on the field.

WEST TEXAS DRY GOODS COMPANY IS SOLD TO TOM WILSON AND MRS. ADAMS

Completion of a deal whereby the West Texas Dry Goods company was transferred to T. R. Wilson and Mrs. C. D. Adams as owners was announced this morning. Sale was made by Levy Brothers, operators of stores in Colorado City and Sweetwater.

Involving started this morning. A. P. Baker, former manager of the dry goods company, has not announced his future plans, he told The Reporter-Telegram.

Wilson will be in charge of the new store. He and Mrs. Adams were with Wadley-Wilson company for several years, holding stock. Wilson was with the Wadley-Wilson company in Odessa for three years.

The West Texas Dry Goods company has been established in Midland four years. The former manager said his company appreciates patronage given by the Midland people, and recommended Wilson and the new organization to its former customers.

Wilson, in an interview this morning, said he would have an introductory sale just as soon as the stock can be inventoried and arrangements made.

"We were allowed a $5,000 cut back, leaving the stock in excellent condition. Mrs. Adams and I believe the public will be interested in the reduced prices and quality of our merchandise."

More Flights of Army Planes Due Here Soon

The flight of eight army planes to Midland today as a detachment of army cadets will be one of two expected this week, Sloan field attaches said at noon.

From 15 to 20 planes will probably land Thursday. Flight officers to go Field Manager Becherer.

Zero weather in El Paso this morning resulted in arrival of only eight of the 15 planes expected here by 1 o'clock this afternoon. The last plane landed at 12:40.

Lunch was served to Major Bevan flight surgeon, Lts. Crow and Robinson, instructors, and to the following students: Cadets Litzig, Nelson, Scott and Sgt. Kub. Sterling and J. Donnell.

The flight came here from El Paso on a flight from San Antonio. The flight will strike a direct route back to San Antonio.

BOY LODGED IN JAIL AFTER CAR PURSUED TUESDAY

One boy leaped from the car and escaped and J. C. Cox, 16, was brought to Midland and placed in jail to await arrival of an officer from Dallas, where he must face a charge of car theft, a result of a chase one mile east of Midland yesterday.

Sheriff A. C. Francis became suspicious of the boy's attitude and drove in behind them. When he did this one of the boys jumped from the car and escaped through the brush on the side of the highway.

A charge will be filed when the Dallas officer arrives.

CHICAGO HAS TWO MURDERS WITHIN LAST 24 HOURS

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—(UP)—An explosion believed to have been caused by a bomb roared through three west side stores early today spreading flames doing a $50,000 damage, rounding out a week of crime terrorism, with six gang murders and two shootings which will perhaps prove fatal.

Two murders have been committed in the last twenty hours. The blast wrecked an army shoe store and a confectionery, and shattered windows all over the district. Officers said the cause was undetermined, though it resembled a dynamite bombing.

Mexico Attired For Inauguration

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 5.—(UP)—The capitol was gaily decorated today, celebrating inauguration of President Pascual Ortiz Rubio. Emphasis was placed on the cordial relations between United States and Mexico, in Ortiz' inaugural address.

The 50 to whom letters have been sent, together with the 21 directors will make 71 men who will be given definite duties which will require but little time and effort, but which will mean much to Midland. The meeting will start at 7:30, and will end not later than 8:30.

NO HOPE OF AGREEMENT SEEN NOW

Judge Indicates He Will Hold Jury Indefinitely

AUSTIN, Feb. 5.—(UP)—A dispirited jury sent word that it was deadlocked and held no hope of reaching an agreement as to whether John Brady was sane in the eyes of the law when he killed Leilia Highsmith.

Judge J. D. Moore indicated that he would keep the jurors for an indefinite time. He did not call them to ascertain whether they are in controversy over the question of guilt or innocence or punishment, saying he would not confer with them unless specifically requested.

The jury late last night asked Judge Moore to clear up a point in his charge, starting again with the point apparently settled.

The court of criminal appeals ordered a new trial.

BUSINESS AS DICTATOR

Chicago's experience with municipal bankruptcy, dismal as it is, may yet provide a considerable gleam of light for the mis-ruled American city dweller.

Chicago is broke and has been broke for quite a while. Now a committee of prominent citizens, holding tax anticipation warrants as security, has pledged a fund big enough to carry the empty city treasury along; but it has tacked a kicker on to this pledge that may spell confusion for the politicians.

This kicker is a simple stipulation that the money be properly spent. Not a penny is to be disbursed without the full knowledge and approval of the committee, which is composed of business men and not of politicians.

There is just a faint bit of light in that procedure. In the long run it may turn out to be a beacon of considerable importance.

Chicago, harassed by politicians who have led the city through financial extravagance, incompetence and graft into a hopeless wilderness of debt and penury, has the germ of a big idea in this citizens' committee. If present trends continue this idea may prove the salvation, not only of Chicago, but of many other cities.

It is a commonplace among students of municipal government that the average American city could be operated with the utmost efficiency for far less money than is usually the case. The necessary departments such as police and fire forces, hospitals, schools, lights, water supply and street maintenance could be run better than they ordinarily are, for less money than is ordinarily spent on them.

Politics stands in the way. Padded payrolls, favoritism, incompetence and downright crookedness keep the tax bills rising; and, as a by-product, they impair the kind of service that these municipal agencies render.

Suppose, now, that a big city like Chicago suddenly puts all of its expenditures in the hands of a non-partisan committee of business men.

How long would a departmental payroll be kept at twice its rightful size for the sake of ward-heeling runners and their friends? How long would expensive contracts with the friends of political big-wigs be tolerated? How long would an official last who had nothing to recommend him but the fact that he had always played ball with the boys at election time?

The answers are obvious. A stunt of this kind could free a city, overnight, from the dead weight of politics that afflicts nearly every municipality in America.

Of course, the remedy is drastic. It runs counter to our cherished ideas of self-government. Government by big business could be quite as disturbing as government by cheap politicians.

But that is the end toward which present trends are taking us. Chicago has just about reached it. Other cities, following the same path that Chicago took, can take warning. When mis-rule continues too long, business will assume the dictatorship. And it, at least, will give us efficiency and economy.

The "Camel" at the Needle's Eye!

WASHINGTON LETTER

IF Britain is Making a Mere Gesture in Cruiser Cancellation, Then We Are About Even for Mr. Hoover Once Made a Gesture Himself.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—There is something in the Bible about notes and beams in people's eyes and someone had better get Senator Kenneth McKellar off in a corner and read it to him before the Senator makes any further attempt to demonstrate that Albion is still perfidious.

It may be as McKellar says, that Great Britain's canceling of two new cruisers is so much misleading "balderdash" and "claptrap" despite its interpretation as a pleasant gesture on Premier Ramsay MacDonald's part during the naval arms limitation conference.

If so—and those are harsh words—we two countries would appear to be about even. For it may be recalled that President Hoover once undertook to make a cruiser gesture himself.

McKellar's Story
But first to hear Senator McKellar's story.

He read to the Senate a dispatch from London citing the announcement that construction of two of the newest British cruisers had been canceled. These were the cruisers Surrey and Northumberland, the dispatch said, on which MacDonald had suspended work shortly before his visit to the United States last year.

"I think that the American people thought work had begun on them and that Prime Minister MacDonald had directed that the work stop," McKellar said. "In other words the prime minister said work would be discontinued. When it was resumed we do not know. Now the British admiralty says work on these two ships is going to be discontinued again. . . . Work on these two ships has never actually been started. Yet Prime Minister MacDonald stopped the work on them when he came here last fall and now the British admiralty, it has said, has stopped work on these ships again, and at the same time, it appears that work has never been started on either of them."

McKellar was sure Senators Robinson and Reed, delegates to London, wouldn't be misled by such balderdash and claptrap. Senator Fess of Ohio said there was a difference between cancellation and suspension of work, but he admitted himself "startled" when McKellar read from the dispatch that "work on these ships never had actually been started."

"What are they doing to us?" McKellar demanded. "What do they take us for?"

Well, it would appear that the British first suspended construction and then canceled the two authorized cruisers altogether. Investigation reveals that there had been no keels laid, that preliminary steps in cruiser-making, which naval men commonly class under the head of "construction", were suspended before MacDonald came here and that now the two ships have been abandoned altogether.

Our Own Case

Now consider our own case. Doubtless many Americans still have the impression that we suspended construction on three cruisers pending the London conference. Mr. Hoover, on July 24, as a gesture of good will, said something which led to that belief. He said there were three cruisers in this year's (the fiscal year beginning July 1) construction program which had been undertaken in

NEED FOR FREIGHT CARS POINTS TO RECOVERY

Table with columns: District, Actual First quarter 1929, Estimated Percent. of First quarter 1920, Change. Rows include New England, Atlantic States, Allegheny region, etc.

By ALLARD SMITH
Vice President, The Union Trust Company, Cleveland, O.

There are a number of indications that business is picking up somewhat more rapidly than seemed likely when the recession in all lines of activity appeared late last year. One of the more important of these is the forecast by the car service division of the American Railway Association that freight car requirements for the first three months of 1930 will approximate those of the first quarter of 1929.

The association estimates the freight car requirements for the government navy yards, detailed drawings for which were in the course of preparation. The actual keels would, in the ordinary course be laid down some time this fall. . . . we shall not lay down these keels until there has been an opportunity for full consideration of their effect upon the final agreement for parity which we expect to reach."

But the White House issued no orders for suspension. The Navy Department didn't change its plans. These three cruisers were to be undertaken in the year beginning July 1 and one learns at the Navy's Bureau of Construction and Repair that it always takes from eight to twelve months before keels are laid, making February the earliest time when keel laying might begin. Neither has keel-laying begun on the two cruisers undertaken by private yards at the same time. The other preliminary work is under way. The navy is proceeding with its cruiser-building work "in the ordinary manner" explaining that it always takes time to get material assembled and to try out new improvements.

It takes about 36 months to build a cruiser and about the time the London conference breaks up the time for keel-laying doubtless will have come. It is commonly expected that the United States will not only finish the three cruisers dealt with in the Hoover statement and the two now being made by private yards, but also the 10 others authorized by Congress. Britain has so many more cruisers than we have that cancellation will have to be left to her.

But thus far no one has arisen in the British parliament and talked about us as Senator McKellar talked about England.

first quarter of this year at 7,664,499, as against the actual loading of 7,708,404 cars in the same period of 1929—a decrease of only 0.6 per cent. This estimate is based upon the indicated requirements of regional shippers' advisory boards all over the United States for 29 principal commodities.

Some of these commodities are expected to require more cars than last year. The estimated increases are: agricultural implements and vehicles, 7.3 per cent; coal and coke, 2.9 per cent; petroleum products, 3.7 per cent; brick and clay products, 2.1 per cent; and cement, 3.3 per cent. According to the same estimates car loadings and automotive vehicles and parts will drop off 15.3 per cent, and iron and steel, 4.6 per cent. This reflects the drop in motor car output following last year's overproduction.

The Atlantic states, the Allegheny region, the Ohio valley, the southeastern states, and the central west will probably show greater prosperity than in the first quarter of last year on the basis of car loadings. The remaining sections may show some declines.

These estimates tend to justify the predictions of those who believe that 1930 will be a year of stable and fairly active business.

Former President Coolidge does not play golf "because it takes too much time to change clothes." Once upon a time, however, we saw a man play a round in long pants.

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

The Greyhounds have changed their schedule to Odessa and our circulation department has no 3:15 bus on which to send the papers over there for delivery by the route boy. The bus leaves now about 6:40, throwing Odessa readers after dark to get the papers.

Aubrey Legg took care of the delivery the first day. He was en route to Skeeen, New Mexico, and said he would take the papers to Odessa for a cup of coffee.

"Who's going to buy the coffee?" he asked over the phone. "Baxley," he was informed by the editor. "When?" Legg asked. "As soon as you get back," the editor said. "I'll have it before I go or I won't take em", Legg said. The editor and Baxley and Taggart met Aubrey at the coffee shop and arrangements were completed and the papers were delivered.

Legg was petitioned to carry the papers over there every day at the same price. "I don't mind taking my turn," he said, "but I won't take 'em every day."

Stock in the new corporation to be known as "Seymour-Legg", with Aubrey Legg, M. M. Seymour and a third man whose name has not been announced, as incorporators, will be offered to the public as soon as charter is obtained. The charter hasn't been applied for yet on account of failure of the members of the firm to state the purpose of the company.

All of which reminds me that Seymour said something about the S. M. U. band coming here tonight, and from what he said you had better not miss it. When they crack down on "Peruna" it's just like the old saying "when the band played Annie Rooney."

Walsh Was a Great Lefty Grove Hurler Best Pinch Pitcher But Lefty Grove Pinch Game

Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of articles by Billy Evans, recalling thrilling deeds he has witnessed on the big league diamonds in his 22 years as an umpire.

Great pitchers are usually at their best in the old pinch. They used to say of the old master, Christy Mathewson, that no pitcher was easier to hit with the bases empty and none tougher with a couple of runners on and the game depending on a base hit. What held good for Matty is true of all other great pitchers—they have something in reserve for the pinch. That is what makes them great.

Ed Walsh, famous spitball pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, liked nothing better than to pitch himself out of deep holes. Over a period of perhaps 10 years, I think I am conservative in saying that I have seen Walsh do the seemingly impossible at least 50 times in subduing the opposition, when a base hit would have meant ruin to his team.

Lange was the starting pitcher for Chicago in a game in 1908 and for eight innings he held a one-run margin. In the ninth he passed the first three men to face him, filling the bases. It was such a cold day that Jimmy Callahan, then managing the White Sox, hesitated about asking anyone to go to the rescue. Then someone asked me to call time.

Looking toward the Chicago bench I saw Ed Walsh place a slippery elm tablet in his mouth and take a drink of water. That was Walsh's method to get up quite a flow of saliva. He started toward the pitcher's box, removing his sweater. He threw five balls, then went to work. Walsh pitched just 10 balls to retire the next three batters, on strikes. At seven of the pitches the hitters swung and missed, two were called strikes and one a ball. Not so much as a foul was made.

However, for the greatest concentrated exhibition of pinch pitching I have ever seen, I need only go back to the season of 1929. I was a spectator, Philadelphia and Cleveland were the opposing teams. The starting pitching selections were Miller for Cleveland and Grove for the Athletics. Hudlin was the finishing pitcher for the Indians, but Grove went all the way.

Going into the eighth inning, Philadelphia was leading 3-2. Two hits and an error filled the bases with no one out. This seemed to be the turning point of the game. It was Walter Miller's turn to bat. Peck had Hudlin warm up and sent Hartley to bat for Miller. He forced Hodapp at the plate. Morgan sent a sacrifice fly to right, sending over the tying run. A pass to J. Sewell again filled the bases, but Averill flied out.

For the next eight innings both Grove and Hudlin pitched unless ball. Grove was always in trouble, Hudlin seldom. Yet in the 17th inning, a home run broke up the ball game, Philadelphia winning 5-3.

In the 17th inning of play, Cleveland made 20 hits. Grove gave four bases on balls, also contributed the only error of the game, yet Cleveland could only make three runs and did not score after the eighth inning. A hit on eight occasions would have won the ball game, and it was never forthcoming. Joe Sewell made five hits in eight times at bat. On the three trips that he felled, runners were on the bases each time. Earl Averill had several chances to break up the game but Grove was too much.

Cleveland had 23 men left on the bases. Philadelphia had only eight runners stranded. The Athletics made 13 hits count for five runs. Grove had terrific speed that day, yet the Indians hit him hard in spots. With men on the bases, he was invincible. I think I fell out of my seat a half dozen times that afternoon pulling for a hit that never came. It was the most remarkable exhibition of effectiveness in the pinches I have ever seen.

JUDGE USES AN OLD CHARGE

When District Judge Charles L. Klapproth charged the grand jury of the February term of district court this week, he quoted almost verbatim a charge prepared by W. R. Smith in the early years of this century when he was judge of this district.

The district at that time comprised the territory from Sweetwater to Pecos. Sharp delineation of the responsibility of a grand jury, of its essential fairmindedness and lack of bias, is found throughout.

Excerpts from the charge are given below:

Gentlemen of the Grand Jury: The Grand Jury is an institution that had its origin in the early periods of the common law of England. It was established and jealously guarded as one of the essential bulwarks of British liberty.

And in laying the foundation of the Government of Texas our forefathers evidenced their appreciation of the value of the Grand Jury by placing a provision in the Constitution making it essential to the administration of criminal law when of the grade of a felony.

Both in England and in this state the Grand Jury system has always been highly esteemed and venerated as one of the safeguards of the liberties of the people against the encroachments and oppressions of political power and against unfounded accusations prompted by private malice, personal animosity, or other improper motives. Likewise, it has always been esteemed and venerated as an effective arm of the courts in bringing to trial before the bar of justice persons who violate the laws enacted for the public peace and safety.

You may be called upon to pass upon the conduct of your neighbors or your friends or persons with whom you have pleasant or advantageous business relations or with whom you are associated in the lodges or fraternal orders or in the church. For this reason men are selected for grand jury service who are esteemed for their high character, for their probity, for their stern qualities of citizenship, and for their recognized sense of duty, and who are believed to possess the disposition and the courage to place the public welfare above the individual violator of the law, whoever he may be, who can do impartial justice under all circumstances and conditions, and who are interested in preserving the peace, good order and well being of society.

And each of these departments of government is itself subdivided and each subdivision has its peculiar and exclusive function to perform. For instance, the grand jury is a subdivision of the Judicial department. It exercises an exclusive function of the court. Our state constitution declares that "No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense unless on an indictment of a grand jury, except in cases in which the punishment is by fine or imprisonment otherwise than in the penitentiary." An offense of this grade is known in our law as a felony.

A "felony" is defined to be a crime, the punishment for which may be death or confinement in the state penitentiary. Thus it will be seen that no person can be put upon trial in the courts of Texas for a crime punishable by death or by confinement in the state penitentiary except under indictment by a grand jury. Such crimes must go unpunished—such offenders must not even be put upon trial wherever grand juries fail to measure up to their responsibilities and fail to do their duty.

The judges of the courts have many important powers conferred upon them by law, so have the District and County Attorneys, and so have the sheriffs and their deputies, but they are each and all without power to put any person upon trial for a felony until after he has been legally indicted and presented by a lawful grand jury.

Misdemeanors, or offenses below the grade of felony, are those which may be punished only by fine or imprisonment in the county jail, or both, may be presented in the court of proper jurisdiction by the District or County attorney by information based upon the affidavit of a credible witness, as well as by indictment of a grand jury. So that if the grand jurors should fail in their duty to present misdemeanors, the laws relating to them could never be enforced. But not so as to felonies, as I have already pointed out.

The offense, gentlemen, with which it will be your duty to deal, are those which arise from the violation of the penal laws enacted by the Legislatures of the State of Texas.

Comparatively speaking, the penal laws of the State of Texas as enacted by the Legislature are numerous. To undertake to analyze and explain them all to you now would require a labor and consumption of time which would not in my opinion be a corresponding benefit. They are all plainly written and you will constantly have at your services the District Attorney and the County Attorney, who will call them to your attention and give you such advice regarding their proper construction as you may require. It will be your privilege also to seek and receive advice from time to time from the court, as well as from the District and County Attorneys respecting the proper charge of your duties, or any matter of law about which you may require advice.

I cannot impress upon you too strongly the necessity of observing all the safeguards the law provides for the efficient conduct of the business of the grand jury. One of the most important of these is that your deliberations shall be secret. The statutes require it and you have just taken an oath that the State's counsel, your fellows and your own you shall keep secret unless required to disclose same in the course of judicial proceeding in which the truth or falsity of evidence given in the grand jury room in a criminal case shall be under investigation.

On the other hand it is equally important, if not more so, that the investigation of the case of a guilty person shall not be divulged. There should be no unnecessary hampering of a grand jury in making a fair and impartial investigation of a case brought to their attention, and they should be absolutely fair and unhampered by outside and extraneous influences in their deliberations and decisions. But they cannot enjoy such immunity if their investigations and deliberations are not kept secret. When the work of a grand jury is known innumerable outside influences are set to work to prevent a bill of indictment—witnesses are by various methods induced to evade service and get out of the way or to change or modify their testimony. Individual members of the grand jury are approached in various ways and innumerable insidious influences are brought to bear upon them and many improper things are attempted to improperly hinder and prevent the grand jury from a full and faithful performance of its duty.

The decisions of a grand jury should be based solely upon the law and the evidence. It is not their function either to shield friends or punish enemies. The oath which you have taken recites that you shall present no person from envy, hatred or malice, and on the hand that you will leave no person unpunished for love, fear, affection or hope of reward. All of these considerations and motives must be left behind when you enter the grand jury room and if you have any envy, malice, or any hatred towards the person under investigation, you must free your mind from such evil passions or else you are not worthy nor qualified to pass judgment upon his case.

The grand jury should act as a body in its investigations, its deliberations, and in its decisions. Any evidence or argument that is to have any weight or influence upon the findings of the grand jury should be submitted in the proper way to the whole body, and not to individual members in private.

I have in mind those smooth individuals who violate the law and who either in person, or through friends, oftentimes influential, think they can privately influence a sufficient number of the members of a grand jury to prevent an indictment. They cannot hope to accomplish anything for themselves by submitting their evidence to the grand jury in a body, by submitting their cases to the searchlight of investigation. So they usually pick out such members of the grand jury as they think susceptible to extraneous influence and bring such influences to bear on them outside the grand jury room.

Any member of a grand jury thus approached ought to consider it a reflection upon his official integrity and therefore an insult.

No member of a grand jury should permit himself to be approached in private about his official duties. It is improper, is demoralizing, and it is a betrayal of public trust.

The supreme object of the court is to administer justice. The grand jury as an arm of the court should have no other object in view. As defined by one of our great judges: "Justice is the dictate of right, according to the common consent of mankind generally, or of that portion of mankind who may be associated in one government or who may be governed by the same principles and morals."

"Law is a system of rules, conformable as must be supposed to this standard, and devised upon an enlarged view of the relations of persons and things, as they practically exist. Justice is a chaotic mass of principles classified, reduced to order, and put in the shape of rules agreed upon by this ascertained common consent. Justice is the virgin gold of the mines that passes for its intrinsic worth in every case, but is subject to a varying value according to the scales through which it passes. Law is the coin from the mint, with its value ascertained and fixed, with the stamp of government upon it which insures and denotes its current value.

"Whoever undertakes to determine a case solely by his own notions of its abstract justice breaks down the barriers by which rules of justice are erected into a system, and thereby annihilates law.

If this definition of justice be correct, and we must concede that it is our sole guide in the administration of justice is the law purely interposed. What you may think or what I may think is right and just, if it run counter to the law, is not justice. What you may or may not think ought or ought not to be law affords us no standards. The rules for our guidance are prescribed by the law making power of the government and it is our duty to follow them, and only by following them can we do justice. We, as a part of the judicial system of the government have nothing to do with the policies of the government—with the question as to whether the laws enacted by the Legislature are wise or unwise. It is our duty only to administer them as they are written and when we have done that we have done justice. When a case comes before the jury and they have heard the evidence, the balance in which it shall be weighed, the square and compass with which it shall be measured, is the law as it has been written by the Legislature of the State of Texas. Looking solely to the law, if you find it has been violated by the accused, he should be presented by indictment. If not, no indictment should be returned. The protecting shield of the law should be thrown around those who walk within its rules. But its strong arm should follow with certainty be laid upon those who transgress its provisions. We cannot merely follow our own senses of right and wrong as a guide to justice, if we should attempt that, we would immediately find that each of us in many cases would have his own individual standard, differing to such a degree as to make concert action impossible. And confusion, chaos, and complete failure of justice would be the result.

Now let me say a word as to the nature of your duties. The grand jury is an independent investigating body, whose duty it is to hear such evidence as may be brought it, and after consideration determine whether or not there is probable cause or reasonable ground for presenting an indictment—an accusation, for a violation of law. It is what is called an ex-parte proceeding in which the defendant is not as a matter of right entitled to be present in person or by counsel or to be confronted with the witnesses against him. Your proceedings of course should be fair and impartial, but you should not attempt to try the case. That is the function of the petit jury. Your investigations should extend only so far as to say whether or not the person under investigation should be put on trial. Ordinarily the evidence before you should make only a prima facie case that is to say, show a strong probability that the offense has been committed. When the indictment is presented then the public trial is had before a petit jury (See CHARGE, Page 6).

Daily Market Report

The cotton market reflected a better general tone but still somewhat unsettled. Fluctuation was less erratic, apparently less pressure demand for near months.

Despite very disappointing action Liverpool opening markets were steady 3 to 10 points higher. There was good demand from spot interests during initial trading. March in New York sold at 16.20, May 16.42, June 42, July 16.59, October 16.79, or 4 to 10 points net higher. Advance was checked by ring traders selling market with scattered liquidation. Price fixed call cotton which sold 8 to 10 points under previous close. Late noon calls were active with lists quiet but steady, 4 to 7 points net lower on morning. Liverpool early private came unchanged to 1 higher, against 2 to 8 points higher as due, while close was quiet, 1 higher to 1 lower, or at low of session.

TCU BASEBALL CHARGES BEGIN WORK IN RAIN; 17 CANDIDATES ARE OUT

FORT WORTH, Feb. 5.—A slow drizzling rain greeted seventeen members of Coach Dutch Meyer's Texas Christian University baseball squad this week, as first call for the 1930 diamond candidates went out. Nineteen men were issued equipment, seventeen of whom were sent through light throwing and limbering up exercises in the Frog gym.

Daily workouts will be held in the gym until the weather clears sufficiently to allow Meyer to lead his squad men out in the sunshine of Clark Field. The squad that reported for the initial practice session will be augmented during the week by two or three more candidates, and, after March 1, will be increased by seven men who are now serving on the basketball squad. Meyer expects the squad to number between twenty-five and thirty men after the basketball campaign closes.

The Frog mentor is highly optimistic over the team's chances in the 1930 Southwest Conference race. He bases his optimism on the fact that only one of last year's eleven letter men is lost to the squad. That one is Gene Turner, shortstop who dropped from the list last week. Meyer also sees much to be elated over in the fact that the Christians have a lucky break in the schedule for this year that gives the Purple a real opportunity to get off on the right foot, providing they take advantage of the break.

Repatriation Move For U. S. Mexicans

LAREDO, Tex.—(P)—What may be the nucleus of a repatriation movement of Mexican families back to Mexico after living in the United States 25 years or more is under way with the emigration of fifty families, consisting of about 125 persons, who were passed through the Mexican consulate and allowed the privilege of taking with them free of duty, farming implements, etc.

The repatriation movement promises to assume larger proportions with the completion of irrigation projects by the Mexican government including the great Don Martin project near Cameron, said to be owned by the Mexican government, will be sold to Mexicans in tracts of from about ten to forty acres for development purposes when the project is completed in a few months. Each tract of land so sold, all virgin soil adapted to agricultural and horticultural husbandry, must be fully developed by the purchasers, who will make their payments therefor on easy terms. Besides the 160,000 acres directly susceptible to irrigation this acreage can be practically doubled through construction of laterals and flumes, it is said.

The Sunsets were winners of the South Texas Gulf semi-pro and the Southern Pacific league pennants in 1928 and 1929 and the performance of Devereaux contributed much toward their success. He possesses a good arm and a very fast recovery and whip to first that is dazzling. He has a good eye and ended the 1929 season with his batting average near the 400 mark. He was signed with the Steers through the efforts of Claude Robertson, catcher on that team, who owns a farm near Yoakum.

Graphic Movement Ships Is Watched

DALLAS—The movement of ships on scheduled flights over the whole system of the Southern Air Transport division of the Aviation Corporation is graphically represented on a new dispatching board in the operations office at Dallas.

Arrival and departure of ships from Houston, Waco, Brownsville, San Antonio, Austin, Fort Worth, Big Spring, Midland and El Paso, together with information as to pilot and passengers are listed on the passenger board. Plaques with pilots names and ship numbers are moved about the board following the movement of the ship, so that at any moment officials can give the location of any ship or pilot.

A similar board records mail plane flights. Complete weather information collected from stations over the system is posted on a third board. These and similar boards in the Fort Worth operations office are believed to be unique in airline operations.

SOME INCREASE

YOAKUM, Tex.—(P)—As a result of an extensive diversification program for farmers in the Yoakum trade territory, promoted by the Yoakum chamber of commerce, the value of farm products shipped has increased almost 1500 per cent since 1925.

Despite the fact that the weather, insect and other conditions governing crop production, have remained practically the same over the entire period, the value of farm products has steadily increased year after year, this being partly due to new crops being added to the diversification program and partly to an educational program.

LANDMARKS TO GO

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(P)—Two landmarks at Fort Sam Houston will be lost soon, when the giant radio aerial towers will be removed.

New aerials will be erected on a hilltop north of the army post. The change is a part of a $10,000 improvement program, which will be underway in three or four months, army officials say. A $25,000 telephone exchange is also proposed for the post.

WATCH DIGGER

WICHITA FALLS, Tex.—(P)—Nineteen gold or gold plated watches have been plowed up on the S. N. Reed farm, two miles west of O'Brien, Haskell county, indications were they had been buried some time.

Officers believed the watches were hidden by burglars who had robbed a jewelry store, although there was no record of such loss in nearby towns.

Paris Author Is J. B. Barleycorn

PARIS, Feb. 3.—(UP)—A newcomer in the field of literature, the works of J. B. Corn are having a tremendous sale in Paris. They are thoroughly modern in conception, but far from dry, and their greatest sale is with homebound American tourists.

All of J. B. Corn's poems are bound in leather, with beautiful gold lettering. As you open the clasp to read the interior pages, you find to your surprise four neat bottles, with plenty to each to allow the mixing of a dozen cocktails.

"Poems of Spring, in four chapters," is one of the most successful of J. B. Corn's books. It is especially popular because it has an unusual form, being thicker than most books of poems, and allowing much more material inside.

There is also a "History of France" with four bottles ranging from "fine" Napoleon, of 1814, through Alsatian Kirsch, of the Franco-Prussian war years of 1870-71, on up to Victory Cognac, put into vats in 1914. The history is also quite popular when extended in two volumes.

The volume "Biblical Stories; Christ turns water into wine," contains four very interesting chapters, one Bordeaux, others Burgundy, Angers and Moselle.

An English pathologist has discovered that bad temper increases the amount of sugar in the blood by 10 to 30 per cent.

Californian Loses Money To Worms

LOS ANGELES.—(UP)—Microscopic bugs made $780 in currency lock like a small helping of cold spinach for N. L. Biddle, 80, who thought a tin tobacco box buried in the ground safer than a bank.

Unwilling to entrust his savings in the usual manner and fearing burglars might find them if deposited beneath the mattress, the aged man tied his $780 worth of greenbacks in a small sack and then sealed the sack in a tobacco tin.

The tin box was buried beneath his house. That was nine months ago.

The rains came, but Biddle did not worry. His can was waterproof.

Recently he needed a little spending money. The can was dug up, badly rusted, and when Biddle opened it he found only a soggy mass of greenish paper.

Placed under the microscope, the former greenbacks were found to be filled with tiny bugs, invisible to the unaided eye.

Now Biddle is trying to convince the United States Treasury that the emaciated mess was legal tender. A handwriting expert dried out the lump and was able to peel off parts of several bills. The silk threads which strengthen currency were intact.

The can, its contents and a full account of the burial are to be sent to Washington, D. C., to learn if the treasury will make a refund of the money.
