THE CHALLENGE OF OUR LEISURE

Back in the palmy days of the stock market boom we used to hear a good deal about the "era of human leisure" that was just dawning, or just about to dawn. Five-hour days and four-day weeks were predicted for the immediate future, and a society in which man would spend more time at play than at work was forecast on every side.

We don't hear so much of that sort of talk nowadays—probably because so many millions of Americans have so much more leisure than they have any use for. But Dr. Robert A. Millikan, famous physicist, returned to the topic in a speech at Akron the other day and remarked that "the great job of the coming century" is to learn how to use the leisure that is going to be available.

The development of machinery and the advance of science, he said, are "making man the master of his fate and providing the opportunity for a civilization enormously more beautiful and more beneficent to every man, woman and child on earth."

This may sound like mockery, just now, when our inability to master our fate is more painfully apparent than at any time in years, and when so many men would gladly embrace any kind of drudgery if only it provided regular wages and steady meals.

But it is the kind of thing that needs to be said, nevertheless.

The motor that keeps our industrial civilization moving ahead may have stalled, but it still has tremendous capabilities. If we are bogged down just now, we should never forget that these bright visions of our technologists are perfectly in line with the facts.

Beyond the tragedy of unemployment, idle factories and breadlines there stands the dazzling fact that applied science has made it possible for the work of the world to be done with far less human effort than ever before, has made it possible for every mortal to have enough of everything if only the system of distribution is properly organized.

From the depression we can emerge into an era finer than anything we have known before. The tools are in our hands; we need only learn how to manage them.

VICE PRESIDENTS

Every four years the conventions of the two great political parties serve to remind us anew what a peculiar job the vice presidency is.

In theory, the vice president is the second man in the land. At any moment he may be pitched into the presidency. Logically, he should wield a power and shoulder responsibilities commensurate with the job.

But he doesn't. He presides over the Senate, makes speeches and communes with his soul in a spacious office—and that is all. It is a common saying in politics that to be elected vice president is to be consigned to oblivion. An ambitious and capable man will sometimes actually reject a vice presidential nomination.

It shouldn't be that way. The next time Congress tries to reorganize the federal government it should find some way of making the vice presidency the job it ought to be.

OUR SUBSTANTIAL PLANES

The amount of hammering the modern passenger-carrying airplane can stand when it has to be splendidly illustrated the other day when a commercial plane carrying two pilots and seven passengers landed at Kansas City after an exceedingly rough flight from Albuquerque.

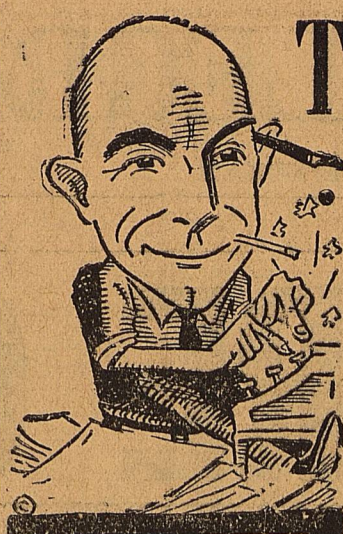

During the flight the plane ran into what evidently was the great-grandfather of all hailstorms. Its shatter-proof glass windows were all cracked. Dents two inches deep were found in the fuselage. Corrugations in the wings had been hammered out flat. Department of Commerce inspectors who examined the plane expressed complete belief in the passengers' statement that it had been bombarded by hailstones "as large as apples."

A few years ago such a storm would have wrecked any plane. This plane came through on schedule and landed its passengers unharmed. It is a splendid testimonial to the substantial way planes are built nowadays—and to the skill with which they are flown.

Side Glances By Clark

"I warned him, doctor, that if he didn't quiet down I'd bring him to see you."

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

There is a good man here in Midland, slightly past middle age, who has led a very active life in central and West Texas and who likes to see good work going on without attracting any attention to himself. He has a way of putting good suggestions up to the people who can, or should, carry them out. He does not want personal publicity but enjoys seeing constructive things done.

This citizen, who may be seen almost any day around the "cowmen's corner," sent me an idea which is worth the thought of everyone and which should be considered in everything we do. It is the simple statement, "there are others."

It was pointed out that a lot of people don't bear in mind that there are other people affected. When they park on the curb in such a way that too many spaces are taken up or perhaps that some other car cannot back out, this is true especially around churches, theatres and on streets away from the more carefully policed zones.

In almost any conversation heard on the streets, the fellow will make a statement about politics, prohibition or kindred subject, which is so positive that he fails to show consideration for opinions of others. This is a degree of selfishness in a different form.

This man who wants to see the idea of "there are others" substantially impressed upon the citizenry said that he remembered a song which was sung by a homely little guy about thirty years ago, entitled, "You're Not the Only Frog in the Pond," or some such title with that meaning.

It might just as well be expressed by the one we heard back in 1912 or 1913, "You're Not the Only Pebble on the Beach," but the idea is the same. Whatever you feel so positive about, if you will just remember that the other fellow is entitled to his opinion, his say and to his own action, you will get along better and will have more friends.

It seems that a lot of people here were well pleased with the various sections of the July Fourth program. I got a letter yesterday afternoon from some fellows who wanted to express their appreciation for the race program, so here it goes:

Dear Quack: There's a lad working in your office we want frankly to brag on. He is the publisher of the whole paper which you, Mr. Quack, sometimes adorn with your column and sometimes suborn.

I and a lot of other horse fanciers and race lovers of Midland wish to put your Mr. T Paul Barron on the head, metaphorically speaking. He is the boy who put over the July 4 races. He worked up the pep, induced entries and then matched the races.

One of the things about the races Monday which particularly pleased the crowd was the lack of delay between races. I have heard many persons in Midland who really like races, say they wouldn't go because of the agonizing delay between races. T. Paul, along with his good helpers snapped the races through, one right after the other. I predict if future race managers will make their races as fast and the program as free from delays as the one Monday, Midland people will fill the grandstand. Nearly everybody had rather see an hour of snappy races than two hours of draggy races and will pay more for a fast hour than for a slow two-hour program.

Yours for More Curricombs, Offie Walker, H. E. Lewellen, Geo. D. Phillips, Cotter Hieft, J. C. Locklar, and a dozen like them.

Eventful Hunt Returns Jewels

BRECKENRIDGE, Tex. (UP)—After a five-months period, during which it seemed many times that the trail was hopelessly lost, Louis Dalches, local jeweler, has finally received what he declares is the last of the jewels stolen from him by a bandit on the morning of Nov. 9, 1931.

The last installment came from Popularville, Miss., in a package containing 13 diamond rings valued at $2,000.

But it was not as easy as that sounds. The bandit robbed the store as a clerk opened for business. Local officers traced all leads, and seemed to have come to a standstill. Then a farm youth kicked over a coffee can on a Palo Pinto county farm and saw a $2,500 diamond ring and several expensive wrist watches roll out.

The can also contained an undershirt with the initials "J. W. W." It was the clue that finally led to recovery of the jewels. The bandit was identified, and a Stephens county grand jury indicted him, but his whereabouts was unknown. There followed a bank raid in Louisiana, and a man was shot down by officers. In the lining of his cap were found $2,000 in cash and 14 diamonds.

Daiches made a trip to Mississippi, and, by paying for the bank robber's funeral, obtained the jewels, which he had identified as his own.

Trout Saves Man From Snake Bite

DURANGO, Colo. (UP)—A big Rainbow trout, regarded as a prize for fishermen, proved to be a life-saver for Tilton Macy, Durango angler.

Macy, his wife, and Merritt McKenzie were enjoying an afternoon of fishing on the upper Piedra. Macy cast his line into the water, then sat down upon a convenient boulder to wait for a moment or so. Suddenly the line tugged. Macy leaped to his feet and seized the pole. At the same instant his wife screamed, and turning Macy saw a rattlesnake flatten out on the rock he had just left. The reptile had struck at the small of Macy's back. The trout's tug had moved the man just in time.

Macy fired a shot at the snake. The bullet pierced it about ten inches from the tail. The wounded reptile then disappeared into the brush. Macy and McKenzie searched the thickets for the snake. It had disappeared as completely as it had appeared.

Meantime, the trout on Macy's hook was having its troubles. The hunters looked up to see the fish start down stream, trailing the line and pole with it. Again it proved a life-saver, for as Macy left the thicket and dashed onto the boulders to seize his pole, he almost stepped on the rattler. He almost stepped on the rattler, he almost stepped on the rattler, he almost stepped on the rattler. Macy killed the reptile.

TRIAL A DAY

HOUSTON—In March Ben Marcus was taken into court to answer to 38 traffic tickets. He was fined 50 cents a ticket and given a chance to pay off his fine in installments. He paid $10 and then quit. He was haled back into court and asked to explain why he hadn't finished his fine and why he had received 18 additional tickets. He said that he had been very careful with his driving and that none of the tickets was given to him. Judge Turner decided to try every one of the violations on separate days despite Marcus' plea that he hadn't time.

NOW THAT WE'VE SPLIT THE ATOM, ROCKET TRIPS TO MOON, GOLD AND SILVER FROM BASE ORE POSSIBLE

Above are some of the feats scientists believe possible in the near future as a result of the splitting

Rocket trips to the moon, changing baser metals into gold and platinum, power without coal, gasoline or oil, and an entire change in the present method of living—these and many other astounding feats are promised by science as a result of the splitting of the atom. Within the past two months two successful experiments have been made along this line. Drs. J. D. Cockcroft and E. T. S. Walton of Cavendish Laboratories, Cambridge University, England, were the scientists successful in one test. Drs. Fritz Lange and Arno Brash, noted German physicists, were the atom-splitters in the other. The English scientists, experimenting with hydrogen atoms, were successful in transmitting hydrogen atoms into helium particles, and these particles were released from the hydrogen with energies of from one to two times that of the particles fired into the hydrogen atoms. Three Times More Energy Drs. Lange and Brash were more successful in energies received. They report splitting atoms of five different elements—aluminum, boron, sodium, beryllium and lithium—and increasing the energy received to more than three times that employed in the splitting operation. In the case of the splitting of an aluminum atom, helium atoms were the derivative. They release of atomic energy enough energy in one drop of water to furnish 200 horsepower for a year. While uranium releases its atomic energy automatically, other metals do not, at least visibly. For this reason it has been necessary to unlock the doors by some other means. Drs. Cockcroft and Walton used 120,000 volts of electricity and submitted hydrogen to it to achieve their results. The German servants used a much higher voltage—2,500,000 volts—to tear atoms apart. Harness Needed Now that the atom—named by the Greeks to mean "uncuttable"—has been split, the big problem is to harness the untold energy in these small particles as the perfection of the splitting mechanism, to derive a much higher percentage of energy, and to construct apparatus to store and control its energy. Then we will be able to "make gold and silver at will, or any substance we desire, by synthesizing atoms of common elements," as predicted by Dr. H. B. Kippner, industrial chemist, in 1921; or "All power industries would become valueless. It would set at rest all anxiety about exhaustion of coal and oil supplies," as Dr. Leon E. Jenks of Worcester Polytechnic Institute expressed it in 1924. When it is realized that one grain of sand is composed of several elements, and that each of these elements is composed of billions of tiny atoms, and that these atoms are traveling at speeds up to 20,000 miles a second, it seems entirely feasible that the liberation of this energy driving the particles at that rate of speed will enable man to fly to the moon and other heavenly bodies at untold speeds, to make gold from baser metals, and to have an inexhaustible source of power.

Novel Plane to Have High Speed

BERKELEY, Calif. (UP)—An icebox and a sand pile were exalted to new scientific heights at the first Pacific Coast aeronautics meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, here. Both are important auxiliaries in the construction of a new type airplane being built by Dr. John E. Younger, University of California professor of mechanical engineering, and S. H. Capelis, inventor of the original Capelis plane, of which the one now being built is an improvement. The icebox is used because of the peculiar properties of the aluminum alloy of which the entire plane is being made. "Usually, rivets are heated to make them soft and workable, then plunged into cold water and used at once," Dr. Younger said. "We found that by keeping our aluminum alloy rivets in an electric refrigerator at a temperature of about 10 degrees Fahrenheit, they retained their pliability for several days." The 12-passenger plane now being built at an El Cerrito factory, is a preliminary operation to the construction of high speed transport planes seating from 50 to 100 persons, Dr. Younger said. Test flights of the plane, expected to have a maximum speed of 230 miles per hour and a cruising speed of 200 miles an hour, will be made at Oakland airport, in September. "We believe it will be safer than the planes now in passenger service," Dr. Younger declared.

PLANE'S THE DOCTOR

LONDON—The tonic effect of an airplane many aid in the cure of illness in the near future, according to Dr. E. Goodwin Rawlinson, director of the British Royal Institute of Public Health. In a recent report he states: "Persons with a bothersome cold who want the condition cleared up on short notice could get up a little early, slip over to the doctor's and 'knock' the cold with a jaunt in the sky. In the more serious diseases, like tuberculosis or heart disease, patients would be prescribed a certain number of minutes at a certain altitude so many times a day." The tonic effect comes from a sharp increase in the rate of metabolism, or energy obtained from oxygen and food, the scientist says.

STORK IN COURT

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—The stork delivered two boys to police here. But the stork wasn't the usual one that delivers children. It was an ornamental one used to decorate lawns, and it was stolen by two youths, who were hauled to court. It was found that the car with which they made off with the bird was equipped with stolen tires, gas and oil headlights and other accessories.

Miss Lena Solomon And Mr. Delo Douglas Wed

Miss Lena Solomon became the bride of Mr. J. Delo Douglas of Midland, Tuesday at 9 o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Solomon, Jr., Tyler. The home was beautifully decorated with pink roses, the living room fireplace, before which the ceremony took place, being banked with palms and ferns.

The bride was lovely in a royal blue crepe dress with a yolk of lace. She wore accessories of the same shade and carried a bouquet of pink radiance roses. Miss Mary DeLay entered with the bride and was dressed in a blue dress of a lighter shade, with white accessories, and had a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses. Miss DeLay was the bridesmaid and the only attendant. They were met at the fireplace by the groom.

Miss Fannie Albertson sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Miss Dora Wall of Midland. Miss Wall played the wedding march. Miss Albertson and Miss Wall were both dressed in blue and wore a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses. The ring ceremony was performed by Dr. E. W. Solomon, grandfather of Miss Solomon, and immediately afterward the couple left on their honeymoon, to be gone about a week, when they will make their home in Midland.

Woman's Place Is in the News

Pioneer Horsewoman Mrs. E. H. Harriman, widow of the late railroad magnate, has the distinction of being one of the first women, if not the actual pioneer, to venture into light harness sport. She holds the woman's record for pacing over a mile course. She is able to give an accurate appraisal of a horse's worth by a superficial examination, veteran horsemen say.

Hollywood Speaks At Grand Theatre

A microscopic view of Hollywood's inside life—the side that never reaches publication in the newspapers—will be offered to the patrons of the Grand theatre Friday and Saturday, we present "Hollywood Speaks."

How does a movie star become a movie star? What chance has the extra girl to attain prominence on the screen? What is this strange thing called a screen test? What is a Hollywood party like? What makes a world premiere so glamorous and spectacular?

These questions are on the tips of everyone's tongue. Those questions "Hollywood Speaks" answers in a dramatic fashion that distinguishes this picture. Genevieve Tobin and Pat O'Brien are co-featured in a cast that is superb in reputation and performance. The megaphone was handled by Eddie Buzzell, the man who rose from actor to director in two short years in Hollywood.

"Hollywood Speaks" takes audiences on four through Hollywood, showing scenes of studios and sets, Hollywood parties and interesting outdoor scenes of the place.

Realism is the keynote of "Hollywood Speaks," as the film points out the temptations and pitfalls which the aspirant for screen stardom must guard against.

DO YOU INHALE?

"We've spilled the beans" in the smoker's interest

DO you inhale? "You've spilled the beans!" said the cigarette trade when first we asked this simple question—a question which long had been treated with silence that would "shame a Sphinx!"

Why? Wasn't the subject vital enough to pursue? Or, was there a hidden reason for the general avoidance of the question by others?

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has chosen to raise this question... because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Of course you do—and so, in the smoker's interest, Luckies have not feared to "spill the beans."

PRESTO! EVIDENCE

By NEA Service
DENVER—When "Slim Wentworth," 40, tried to sell some dainty underthings to a waitress, she became suspicious and phoned police. At police headquarters, Wentworth admitted having stolen a silk undergarment Capt. James Childress held as evidence. Patrolman led Wentworth away to jail.

"Wait!" hounded Childress. "Where's the evidence?"

Policeman frantically searched. After a time they came back to report to Childress. They informed him, somewhat reluctantly, that Wentworth, with all the dexterity of a Houdini, had stolen the evidence from in front of their eyes and had donned it beneath his outer clothing.

ROBINSON WALKS MAN WITH BASES LOADED IN 11TH, LOSES GAME

DOC ELLIS' PILL ROLLERS SKIP THROUGH WIN OVER SECOND PLACE UNITED CLUB IN LONG, HARD GO

Doc Ellis and his scrapping Pill Rollers won a thrilling 11-inning endurance contest from the United Dry Goods company under the lights at Scharbauer diamond last night, 2-1.

After several innings of scoreless ball, Robinson, United hurler, walked in the winning run. Slow as the score was, interest was kept fanned to a popular heat.

The hits were evenly distributed between the clubs, each getting six. Slim Newton, pitching for the Pill Rollers, made a nice play on a hard hit ball from the bat of Cook in the seventh, when a hit meant a run. Newton also scored the winning run.

The 11-inning game was the longest ever played in the Industrial league, it is believed. Once or twice before there have been 10-inning affairs.

Scorer Herb A. Rountree gives a play-by-play report of the eleventh inning as follows:

United Dry Goods—H. Howard fanned. Hedges whiffed. L. Nicholson singled. J. Woods was out, short to first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Petroleum Drug—Newton was safe at first on Joe Pierce's error after Woods had fielded the ball perfectly at third. The ball went over to the bench and the first base umpire sent the runner down to second base. An argument resulted. L. Nicholson went out of the game, and Jess Rogers took over second base. H. Howard taking right field, Ellis hit a long fly to right field, but Newton snuck to second. Roderick hit through second base, Newton advancing to third. Roderick went down to second. Lynch hit a ground ball to first and was safe as Pierce held the ball threateningly for a throw to cut off runners at second and third. With the bases loaded and Red Moore at bat, Robinson could not get the ball over and Moore walked, forcing in Newton with the winning run.

Yucca Announces New Serial, Sale

"Heroes of the West," a brand new chapter is announced for the Yucca, starting Saturday with the first chapter. It is said to be one of the most interesting and thrilling serials ever attempted to portray the difficulties of pioneer adventures. The chapter picture is based on a Peter B. Kyne story, and that alone should recommend it to those who enjoy thrilling entertainment.

The feature picture for Saturday is "The Texas Bad Man," with Tom Mix. It is claimed to be the finest picture the famous western star ever made. As usual Tony assists his master in the thrilling photography.

Yucca Horns In On Special

The Yucca management comes out with a special sale on Saturday. Such a plan seems to fit into the regular run of merchandising right now, and according to manager John Bonner the one cent sale at the Yucca is probably the first of its kind ever offered by a Midland theatre. Buy one regular price ticket and you may have another for one cent. That policy holds good for both adults and children. The sale price will be in effect during matinee and night performance.
