Iron Hand Policy Is in Force at Missouri Prison

HUNTSVILLE RECEIVES RIOT GUNS

Adjutant General Is Using Precaution At Prison

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 27. (AP)—More than 3,000 of the 4,000 prisoners in the Missouri penitentiary were breakfastless today as prison authorities began a new regime of stringent discipline and "hard boiled" methods after two mutinies in two days.

With the exception of the chair factory, all factories are closed until Monday. The men will either work or take the consequence of the new rules, Warden Leslie Rudolph said.

Blame for the trouble is ascribed to lenient methods in vogue at the prison and "outside interference." Guards, later in the day, clubbed 15 convicts following the iron hand policy.

Texas Uses Precaution AUSTIN, March 28. (AP)—A shipment of riot guns and tear gas bombs has been forwarded to the infantry company at Huntsville for use in emergency at the state penitentiary.

Adjutant General R. L. Robertson said he did not anticipate a mutiny but deemed it wise to take precautionary measures.

On account of overcrowded conditions at Huntsville prison and the state prison farms, the state prison board recently ordered Warden Harrell to admit no more prisoners until the prison population receded toward normalcy.

The board had given fear of a mutiny as one reason for not overcrowding the prison facilities.

GUARD INDICTED CORSCIANA, March 28. (AP)—T. N. Franks, county farm guard, today faced indictment for murder, returned against him in connection with the death of Ralph Graf, 20, former United States marine who was shot and wounded fatally when he jumped from a truck in which Franks was conveying prisoners to the county farm Tuesday.

The youth was held on a charge of unlawful train riding. Franks told the grand jury yesterday that he shot at Graf's leg, but when the lad stumbled and fell the charges entered his back.

Texas Acreage To Gain This Season

AUSTIN, March 27. (UP)—Federal statistic Carl Robinson issued a report here today, saying that 14,012,000 acres of crops other than wheat and cotton will be planted by Texas farmers this year, two million acres more than was planted last year.

This is believed the result of an intensive state-wide campaign for diversification to combat the one-crop system of farming.

School Census Is Being Conducted

A school census is being conducted in Midland for determining of the number of scholastics in the school age.

Hero Fights for Life

Major-General Ulysses Grant McAlexander, outstanding hero of the second battle of the Marne, is seriously ill in San Francisco, following a recent operation. General McAlexander commanded the Thirty-eighth Infantry Brigade during the war and earned the title "Rock of the Marne" following that historic battle.

CAPTAIN HAIGHT LEAVES AFTER A CONFERENCE HERE

Captain Edward Haight left Midland this morning after going into conference Wednesday night with members of the aeronautics committee of the chamber of commerce on extension problems of the Midland airport.

He expressed appreciation of cooperation among Midland men on the project and told Midland to continue the pressure being put forward towards securing for this place a stop on the airmail line to be put through the Midland South Atlantic route across continent.

Wendt Tells How To Plant Sorghums

Midland county, faced with the ever increasing problem of growing its own grain sorghums, should observe certain important steps, according to Frank Wendt, county farm agent.

The farm agent quoted some of the instructions of E. A. Miller, extension agronomist of A. & M. college who was here a few months ago.

Terrace the land if it is subject to washing, or in West Texas if there is any water-run-off.

In Northwest Texas, prepare the land by deep listing or flat breaking in the spring. Preparing the land in the spring in that section will give as good yields as when listed or plowed early.

Plant only well bred pure line seed which was bred by the Agricultural Experiment Station or by breeders. At the Lubbock Experiment Station Dwarf yellow Milo, Spur Peterita and Texas Blackhull Kafir, gave the highest yield and at the Beeville Station Texas Blackhull Kafir and Hegari were the best yields.

Do not plant grain sorghum seed too early. In Northwest Texas the best dates are from May 15th to June 15th. If planted earlier, the plants will head out during the dry summer period and will result in low yield. Kafir may be planted somewhat earlier than the other grain sorghums. Hegari should never be planted until the ground has become thoroughly warmed up.

Do not plant too thick. At the Lubbock station the best yield of Kafir has been obtained by spacing the plants from 3 to 6 inches apart, in 3 ft. rows; and for Milo Maize by spacing the plants from 24 to 36 inches apart. The difference in spacing is due to the ability of Milo to produce suckers, and thereby adapt itself to conditions of moisture. The method of planting two rows of Milo Maize and then skipping one, often produces larger head and better yields during dry seasons than one row every 3 feet.

ROAD BILL IS PASSED IN CONGRESS

Will Be $3,000,000 More Than Was Expected

AUSTIN, March 28. (AP)—Approximately $22,500,000 of federal funds will be available for road projects during the next three years in Texas, Gil Gilchrist, state highway engineer, announced today after receiving a report from Washington that congress had passed the federal aid road bill.

There will be $3,000,000 more than was anticipated would be available July 1 for road work.

WASHINGTON, March 28. (AP)—After meeting for five minutes, the senate recessed again today until Tuesday when it will start consideration of Muscle Shoals legislation. Leaders will seek adoption of the conference report on the bill, increasing appropriations for federal roads from $75,225,000 for each of the next three years before the Shoals legislation starts.

Odneal Sentenced 5 Years In Prison

FORT WORTH, March 28. (AP)—Ceel Odneal, 26, was convicted of murdering without malice Audie Ferriss, 18, last July at Lake Worth camp and was sentenced to five years imprisonment, the jury reported at noon after taking the case last night. Attorneys announced plans for a new trial.

Dallas Fire Loss Today Is $75,000

DALLAS, March 28. (UP)—Fire swept two buildings in the business district here today, with damage estimated at $75,000. The fire originated in the Foxey Brooks, Inc. store and spread to another building, damaging the stock of three concerns. Origin of the fire is not determined.

Passion Play Plans For City Dropped

Efforts of local citizens to bring to Midland this spring Freiberg Players who present the Passion Play have been abandoned. It was advised yesterday. Inability to determine at an early date just when the company could come here, and to obtain definite terms and information about the size of stage required, led the local people who planned to sponsor the attraction to abandon plans for the present.

HANSEN BACK TO TEXAS

A. C. Hansen, formerly of the Midland office of the Lydick Roofing Co., is moving with his wife and child, Mary Anne, back to Texas. He will make his home at Dallas. He has been in Milwaukee.

BODY FOUND IN RIVER

FORT WORTH, March 28. (UP)—The body of Fred Baumer, 35, Cotton Belt railroad employe, was found in the Trinity river early today. Police believe he jumped from a bridge as his lunch, hat and coat were found on the bridge.

VAN'S 16th PRODUCER

VAN, Texas, March 28. (AP)—The Shell Petroleum corporation's No. 3 I. P. Tunnell was brought in today with an estimated flow of from 10,000 to 12,000 barrels daily. It was the sixteenth well for the field.

Z.T. Brown, First Man to Fence in County, Is Dead

The death today of Zachariah Taylor Brown, 79, marked the passing of one of the last of the "old timers" from this cattle country. Walter Cochran being the only one remaining.

Death came at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. E. Dorsey, 213 North Weatherford street. Bright's disease was given as the cause of his death. He was stricken directly after noon Wednesday.

Funeral services were to be conducted at the Ellis funeral home this afternoon, the Rev. Leslie A. Boone, pastor of the First Methodist church, reading the ceremony. Burial is to follow at the cemetery here.

Brown came to West Texas in 1884 with his wife, Sara Mulholland, driving a herd of 1,000 sheep through the country from near Corsicana, where he had moved when he left in 1877 his native state Illinois, where he was educated and obtained two degrees, one in engineering and one in law. He didn't practice either of these extensively. The degrees were taken from Blackburn university.

Main street at the time Brown came to Midland was one block east of where it now is. He drove his sheep along where some of Midland's largest buildings now stand. It was about eight miles southwest of Midland, on the property now known as the Old Scharbauer place, that Brown took up a section of land. He fenced this, being the first man in the history of the county to enclose land, according to stories told here. He contracted to pay 25 cents an acre for the land, but being unable to pay what then constituted a high price, the land reverted to the government.

About that time, right after the railroads had built into the area, the first white baby was born, his daughter-in-law, Mayme, now Mrs. John Howard of El Paso. The child was born on Dec. 10, 1885.

Brown ran sheep without trouble on the broad acres where the longhorn grazed. The proverbial grudge between cattlemen and sheepman was not a problem in his life, his sons tell.

Selling his sheep herd, Brown went in 1890 into the mercantile business with Frank Crowley and J. H. Barron. It was about 1894 that he sold his interests in the mercantile business and bought a 75-section ranch 35 miles southwest of Midland, what is now the O. P. Jones ranch.

The ranch property, destined to rise in value to what then would have been incomprehensible worth because of the potash deposits underlying it in layers as deep as places as eight feet, also had a showing of oil.

At one time Brown was having a water well dug. A good oil showing caused Brown to worry that the water for his cows would be "ruined." This worry is classic now in that great oil areas surround Midland county on all sides.

Continuation in the cattle raising industry extended up to 1905, when he built five business houses with H. M. Garret. Two of these red rock structures were still owned by him at the time of his death, those occupied by the Food Palace and the United Dry Goods store.

Survivors in the immediate family are four children. Charley Brown of Cisco, Mrs. H. E. Dorsey of Midland, Mrs. W. C. Dorsey of Ranger, and Paul Brown of Eastland, a sister, Mrs. Jennie Stockton of Powell, Texas, and a brother, J. C. Brown of Plainview.

Relatives here for the funeral: a grandson, Joe T. Brown of Seymour, and Mrs. Paul Brown and Mrs. Charley Brown. Pallbearers are C. L. Sinclair, R. M. Barron, J. A. Throver, John Fowell Lee Bradshaw, Elliott Baruch, James Flanigan, Percy Mims and Billy Moran.

While Here Captain Addresses School

Captain Edward Haight, chief of the Southern Airways surveys, spoke to the junior high school students at assembly this morning on the difference between modern and war-time methods of flying, especially in regard to safety factors.

He interested the students by telling of actual war adventures on the Western front.

PEDEN AND PARTY TIP RETAIL MEN ON CHAIN MENACE

A new note was sounded in the business competition of independent and chain store retail merchants when R. B. Galloway, D. D. Peden, J. W. Bowler and other well known merchants were at the Midland Hardware & Furnishing Co. where Galloway talked before an audience of 40 gathered from Midland and surrounding towns.

Galloway stressed the use of pure ethics in competitive retail merchandising. He said that psychology is primarily in favor of the local merchant, who is known to the public, who hires local clerks and who, as a general rule, pays a standard of living wage out of proportion to the chain store because of his interest in those who work for him.

He said nothing disparaging nothing that could be interpreted as a fair-minded discussion of the worth of the competitors.

The chain store is on the downhill slide and is beginning to bog down fast, he pointed out. He declaimed against destructive legislation which would limit chain stores, as advocated by more rabid propagandists stating that it is in the independent retail organization that competition must be waged, not in the halls of government. This is not a fight, he said; it is a fair contest. "We who are independent retailers want to be as fair-minded in this matter as ethics require fairness among ourselves."

Galloway spoke from experience during his figure-crowded talk. He has conducted a survey throughout the country during the past year and is well qualified to give his opinions.

Harvey Rix of the Rix Hardware & Furnishing Co., Big Spring, said the talk was the "most instructive and inspiring sales argument I ever heard." This opinion was shared by everyone present.

After the meeting at the hardware store was over, Manager Geo. D. McCormick had the assembly as guests in the private dining room of Hotel Scharbauer for sandwiches, coffee and cake.

Galloway expressed appreciation of Midland and surrounding town merchants for being out at the meeting, and quoted from the much considered book, "The Danger of Crooked Thinking," to begin his talk. He spoke of the "ever changing mind" as being essential in modern selling and merchandising. With-out this, he pointed out, there is marking of time while others step out ahead in the path to modernization of methods.

"It is not possible to succeed in 1930 under 1903 methods," he said. He pointed out instructions to be used by employers and employees.

"Weighted and found wanting" is common today, when so many sales methods are being resorted to, he said. "Belshazzor was not the only historical character to realize the meaning of this expression." He said, indeed, that only five out of every 100 are successful, the same ratio applying to their sales methods and possibly their conception of ethical value.

At times, corrections of failure to properly conduct ones business are wrongly made, he showed. He related an incident to illustrate this. "A man found his telephone would not operate. He went to the top of his building and found where a power line had lodged against it. 'Ah, this is the trouble,' he said. When he reached up to remove the wire he was electrocuted."

"Competition is at its height," he pointed out. "Something must be done. As has been shown throughout history, renovation, reformation and other plastic movements are resolved from inquisition of self—not a frontal attack on competition. The latter is not always necessary. The trouble is generally remedied by diagnosis conducted under the condition of objective methods. That is what the retailers of Texas must do."

Behind Atlantic Line

Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the Board of the National City Bank, signed an agreement with Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, the German Zeppelin Co., The Goodyear Zeppelin Co., and The United Aircraft and Transportation Corp., The International Zeppelin Transport Corp., and other banking and industrial organizations to proceed with plans for establishing a trans-Atlantic Zeppelin service.

NAVAL POWERS TO URGE ITALY COME BACK TO PARLEY

LONDON, March 28. (AP)—Having succeeded in drawing France back into the five-power naval conference, the American and British delegations today turned their attention to Italy: with hope of some sort of compromise from representatives of the Mussolini government.

Hubbs Praises City Goodwill Trippers

New Hubbs felt a community of interest with Midland people who visited that place recently when a goodwill autodecade went there, to Lovington, Old Hubbs, Nadine and Andrews, according to the following found in The Hubbs Reporter:

The spirit of New Hubbs met a kindred spirit here Tuesday, enjoyed the experience immensely, learned much, profited greatly, when the Midland goodwill motordcade tarried for a brief thirty minutes; the remarkable demonstration presented by our Texas neighbors was just as educational as it was impressive.

This was really a remarkable visitation. The city that made itself a center of petroleum activities, though distant from petroleum production, and thereby established a record distinctly its own, dissipated much of our wonderment as to how the feat was accomplished by parading before us the spirit that initiated and executed that unprecedented accomplishment.

Because this unusual goodwill motordcade proved an exemplification of the will to do. That will to do is what builded Midland to its present envied eminence; that will to do is the "IT" of structural fabrication in community building. New Hubbs has that "IT"; therefore the Midland goodwill motordcade spoke a language that this young community understands and appreciates. It was truly a mingling of convivial community interests.

Midland Does Its Best

They came, 55 autos and 150 people strong, notwithstanding the trip entailed a trip of more than 200 miles, a start at 5:30 a. m. and a continuous journey of fifteen hours short stops only. The splendid personnel of the delegation included a score of ladies, who braved the rigors of the journey in their enthusiasm, a contributing factor of success. The Midland high school band of boys and girls, twenty-five promising musicians, and a street serenade was enjoyed by the gathering at each point visited. A number of the autos bore attractively arranged standards and decorations fittingly setting forth the objects and purposes of the cavalcade. All-in-all, (See HOBBS page 6)

THIS AREA IN NEED OF MORE WATER

Second Snow Help To Ranges, Farms Of Territory

Low, hanging clouds which may contain moisture for West Texas ranges and farms are watched with anticipation by stockmen and farmers of this area today with hopes of more precipitation.

Snowfall this morning for the second consecutive morning will aid crops and early grasses. Frost is thought to have killed most of the fruit, however.

The mercury fell last night to 29 degrees.

The March cold wave made its bid last night for a share of the weather history-making honors, allotted Texas almost unprecedented blizzard of January.

In advance of weather forecasts, snow which struck the Panhandle regions Wednesday had advanced Thursday into northeast and central Texas as far south as Bryan and as far east as Naacodoches. The fall in several cities, including Bryan, was said to be the heaviest for this season in this area.

General In This Area

Snowfall which was general over West Texas Wednesday night continued in many places Thursday morning and reports were that the moisture was sufficient to be a great aid to crop prospects.

And although temperatures were scarcely below freezing at any point—the minimum in Abilene was 33—West Texas Wednesday night faced a forecast of freezing weather with probable rain and sleet.

Abilene's fall registered 1.7 inches, with the melted precipitation totalling 3 inch, the weather bureau reported. The snow was heavier eastward, with Cisco registering a fall of four inches, and Albany and Breckenridge getting heavy precipitation. Midland got a quarter inch.

The snow was some lighter west of Abilene, with Colorado and Big Spring getting only flurries, the snow melting as it fell. Just north of those places, however, Snyder and Brownfield were blanketed by a two-inch fall.

WHALES HERE TODAY

Many Midland people saw the 60-ton whale and the 10-ton baby whale on display today from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. on the tracks close to the depot, where they were displayed on the special built railroad car required to carry them.

BENEFIT FROM MOISTURE

Midland county and the cattle territory around Midland received some benefit from the snowfall and the slow drizzle which occurred here Thursday. Grass and weeds already were becoming green, and the light precipitation will be a stimulus to quick growing vegetation that is looked forward to with anticipation by cattlemen.

Farmers can hardly begin breaking their land for planting without more moisture, taking the county as a whole, but from reports of heavier snow in the south part of the county, it is believed that the fields in that section will be scenes of much work during the next few days.

AFTER BIG CONVENTION

Rotarians of Midland, in asking for the 1932 district conference of Rotary, comprising clubs of a great portion of Texas, will attempt to bring Midland some 400 to 500 leading citizens of some of Texas' best smaller cities. Midland can take care of these men amply, provide them the kind of accommodations they need, and the local Rotary club can be counted on to furnish the kind of entertainment Rotarians want.

THE ODD MR. CAPONE

Whatever else may be said about it, American civilization of the year 1930 at least furnishes plenty of interesting spectacles.

Not least among these, during the past month, has been the return of Al Capone to his native heath.

Capone spent a year in the Philadelphia jail. Finally, on a bright spring day, he was released. Instantly the attention of the nation was focused upon him. He vanished from sight; one would have thought the heir to the British throne was missing. He was reported in Chicago, in Indiana, in Florida and on the high seas. The public could hardly stand it.

Then, after days of almost unendurable suspense, the great man appeared. Straight into the office of the commissioner of detectives and Chicago he stalked, to draw up a chair and hold a lengthy discussion behind closed doors, while the nation waited with bated breath.

It was a peculiar spectacle. In the anteroom, gazing rapidly at the glazed door, was the armed might of Chicago, as personified in the sturdy forms of two dozen or more detectives. Mingled among them were reporters and photographers, in equal number. Breath continued bated.

There was a low hum of conversation, but it never lasted long. Someone would look up at the door; others would notice, and all glances would fix on the same objective. And, finally, he appeared. Except for the booming of flashlights, the audience was silent, almost respectful.

Out he went, flanked by two lawyers, to enter an automobile and whirl away. There was something about it all reminiscent of the departure of a presidential candidate from his campaign headquarters, except that there was no cheering.

All of this, of course, derives its special interest from the fact that the center of all this fuss is—unless everybody is mistaken—one of the greatest criminals ever harbored on the American continent.

The doctor who found a cure for diabetes could come and go without causing a single head to be turned. No living American poet could hope, by the mere fact of his arrival in town, to get front-page newspaper space. Photographers do not go out in droves to photograph great scientists or humanitarians.

But Al Capone is one of that select band whose every move is news; a member of a small group which includes movie stars, professional athletes, criminals, and—now and then—real public servants.

We'll Make Him Do It—Even If We Have To Arrest Him!

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

With Hoover and Mellon Involved, Washington is All Hot Up Over Davis-Grundy Senatorial Primary in Pennsylvania—Davis Likely to Remain in Cabinet During the Campaign

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Thus far the senatorial primary in Pennsylvania has stirred up more general interest in Washington than all the other forthcoming senatorial primaries put together. It's easy to see why. Senator Joe Grundy, who has had more notoriety in this last year of tariff history than any other senator will seek the nomination against a member of the Hoover cabinet, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis. The figure of Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury and a great power in Pennsylvania politics, stands in the background—behind Grundy, incidentally. And even President Hoover gets dragged in because Davis has decided to campaign while remaining in the cabinet—where his position is a valuable item of political capital—and because pressure is sure to be brought on Hoover to persuade Davis to resign.

Murder Backstairs By Anne Austin

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Doris Matthews, lady's maid, is murdered in a summerhouse on the Berkeley estate, by blow from heavy perfume flask, given Mrs. Berkeley by Seymour Crosby, engaged to Clorinda Berkeley, whose scarf is found bound about the rock-weighted body when it is removed from the lake by Detective Dundee.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVIII "Well, what have you got to say now, Crosby?" Captain Strawn snapped, when Seymour Crosby had silently read Doris Matthews' letter to her sister and was returning it with a trembling hand. "All I can say is, that I wish to God Doris were still alive to tell me what she knew or suspected, so that I could avenge my wife's death," Crosby answered. "As it is, I don't know what she meant."

ter dinner on the night of Sunday, May 6. Your wife ate nothing, burst into tears at table, and fled to her room in hysterics. You followed her and she refused to admit you. About 10 o'clock that evening, Mrs. Lambert, who had been a guest in your home since the previous Sunday—summoned by you from Blarritz to cheer your wife up—discovered that Mrs. Crosby had left her bedroom. She traced her to the roof of the apartment hotel, found her weeping inconsolably, tried again to learn what was wrong, and finally, at your wife's request, returned to the apartment to tell you that Mrs. Crosby wished to see you.

jumped to her death to the court below!" Only an agonized groan from the bowed head answered him. "Now for Doris Matthews' story at the inquest," Strawn went on implacably. "She testified that she rang for the elevator which opened for her almost immediately—" "A point in Mr. Crosby's favor, Captain Strawn," Dundee interrupted quietly. "The elevator operator testified that he was ascending in answer to a previous ring, recorded when his car was on the first floor."

ALL HOPE GONE THEN KONJOLA GAVE RELIEF Time And Again New Medicine Wins When Hope Is At Its Lowest Ebb.

MR. W. L. COMBS One of the amazing properties of Konjola is that it triumphs over the most stubborn cases of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. And remember that Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief. Its goal is new and glorious health. Read, for instance, the words of Mr. W. L. Combs, 2236 E. 65th street, Kansas City, who says: "For three years I suffered from indigestion, rheumatism and neuritis and so many medicines and treatments failed me that I had given up hope of ever finding relief. But Konjola solved all my health problems in quick time. When I started the treatment I had little hope, but what a happy surprise was just around the corner. In five weeks Konjola drove the rheumatism and neuritis from my body, and my digestion was as good as over. In all my experience I never even heard of a medicine of such astonishing powers as Konjola. Konjola is sold in Midland at Mayes Young drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section."

Letters to the Editor

Editor Reporter-Telegram: Washington.—Every one of the hundreds of thousands of veterans who have helped strengthen The American Legion this early in 1930 through their enrollment, in the hope that it would show Congress the concern of veterans in legislation for the relief of disabled comrades, is vitally interested in the situation over the Johnson bill, now pending. This bill, which is the House of Representatives' Veterans' Committee Omnibus bill 10,381, was introduced by the chairman, Royal C. Johnson, following the approval by the committee and The American Legion after thorough study and much testimony. It has been declared by O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander, as one of the best pieces of legislation for the disabled that has ever come out of a committee hearing. One provision, alone, would relieve 84,000 disabled cases. The national commander has urged that no further delay be permitted in the passage of this bill. In general, the bill conforms to the legislative program of the Legion, which also meets the approval of veterans in general. It grants important additional benefits, and it cures sundry administrative defects that experience has disclosed. The national commander urges that this legislation be enacted upon its own merits without delay by debate. The interest and sincerity of the veterans throughout the United States is shown by the continued increase in membership, which up to date has far surpassed any other year in Legion history for early results. During the week ending March 14, alone, more than 16,000 names were added to the list of several hundred thousand already paid up for 1930. This report has been received in Washington to be available for the information of Representatives and Senators. Austin, Texas. Geo. E. Hughes

Live Wire Class Entertained At Methodist Church

The Live Wire class of the Methodist church was entertained in the church parlor Thursday evening. Immediately after arrival of the class members, they read a play which they plan to present in about a month. As the class will have charge of opening exercises at Sunday school next Sunday morning, plans were perfected for the program to be carried out. A round of jolly and interesting games filled the remainder of the evening. Delicious refreshments were served to:

Midland Orchestra Sees Play

Misses Lydie Watson, Lillian Dunaway, Velma Winborne; Dr. D. K. Ratliff, and Messrs. Ned Watson, Thomas Inman, Jack Garlington, Lester Hawkins, Hoyt Baker, and Maurice Kirby composed a group from the senior orchestra of the Watson school of music, who played at presentation of a play at Cotton Flat school last night. The play was directed by the teacher, Mrs. Marshall Wheeler, and the Midland people attending reported an excellent performance.

Mrs. Hill Hostess To Delphian Society

A study of the French drama of Athalie was subject for discussion at meeting of the Delphian society Thursday morning with Mrs. Carroll Hill. Mrs. W. G. Whitehouse was leader, and introduced three topics for general discussion. They were "Introduction to the Play," "Beginning of Action," and "Athalie's Demand Through Mattan." Mrs. Ralph Barron gave a very interesting paper on "Jehohada's Plan," and Mrs. A. J. Gates gave as the concluding topic, "The Outcome."

Club Plans To Send Women To State Meet

Cakes, dressed chicken, jelly, preserves, butter, eggs and relishes are a few of the home-prepared foods which will be on sale Saturday morning by the Busy Bee Home Demonstration club at M store No. 2. The work is being carried on under the supervision of Miss Genevieve Derryberry, county home demonstration agent. Money received from the sale will go towards sending some member of the club to College Station in July to the state agricultural meet, where she will take a week's course in all methods and improvements of home demonstration work under some of the best instructors in the United States, according to Miss Derryberry. Miss Derryberry will resume her work among these rural clubs beginning Monday. She has been confined to office work for some time, following a throat operation.

Instructor Says Study of Psychology Is New Vocational Field For Women

By BERTHA K. DUNCAN, Instructor in Mental Hygiene, Texas State College for Women. Written exclusively for The Associated Press.

DENTON, Tex., March 28. (P)—The study of psychology has opened up possibly the newest vocational field for women. The vocation is so new that the workers themselves have not fully realized the opportunities that are opening to them. It is a field in which the woman is on an equal footing with men for advancement.

There are three vocational branches leading from psychological training. The first of these is psychiatric social service work which includes personal investigation among individuals who come in contact with child guidance clinics, psychopathic hospitals and larger social organizations. The worker's job is to look up the family history of the individual, his economic position, personal relations between members of the family, the type of home from which he comes, and any other information that might aid in the diagnosis of his case.

Visiting teachers are classed in this field. They are in reality psychiatric social service workers and do no teaching. They are employed by the larger school systems to become acquainted with conditions in pupils' homes and seek remedies for maladjustments.

Work in clinical psychology offers the second type of vocation. Such work is done in child guidance clinics, psychopathic hospitals, larger school systems, army posts and aviation schools. It consists mostly in work with mental, emotional and motor tests and measurement with the purpose of determining native intelligence, ability and school standing. Preparation for this work is the most elaborate of all, requiring a doctor's degree for the better positions.

The third vocational type lies in work with the pre-school child, or parent-child education, as it has later been termed. Nurseries are established for the study of children under 4 or 5 years in charge of director, trained nurse and physician. Workers in this field usually organize study clubs and parents of small children and discuss problems with them.

A definite statement in regard to any of the branches is impossible because of the newness of the work and the conditions that change almost overnight. The salaries usually range from $3,000 to $3,500 a year for those who have had some experience. The beginner can obtain a salary equal to or above that of the average teacher and can advance rapidly. Comparatively speaking, there is no competition. The number of jobs exceeds those who are qualified to fill them.

The preparation is technical. A college education in liberal arts serves as a basis upon which to build up the necessary work in psychology and mental hygiene. Post-graduate work is practically indispensable. Of the three branches, clinical psychology requires the most preparation and gives the highest pay. Experience is necessary but can usually be acquired simultaneously with the school work.

Dodge Eight Has Striking Features

Many admirable features are found in the new eight cylinder product of Dodge Brothers, according to Manager Ellis of Hendrix-Woldert, local dealers for Dodge cars.

Four-point suspension system is used in mounting the engine of the new Dodge Brothers eight-in-line in the frame. Rubber insulation is used between the rear engine mountings and the frame to absorb vibration and prevent its transmission to the frame and then to the body of the car.

The fuel tank mounted at the rear of the frame has a capacity of 15 gallons. It is rustproof. Terne plate construction. An electrical fuel gauge is mounted on the instrument panel.

Hydraulic, double-action shock absorbers are installed as standard equipment on all models of the new eight.

Son's Blood Thin and His Stomach Disordered

Wichita Falls, Texas.—"My son was in poor health when he was about twenty years of age. His blood became thin and he was pale. He was also troubled with his stomach and his face broke out with pimples. Finally, I decided to have him try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. By the time he had taken a few bottles of the 'Discovery' he was completely relieved of all these troubles, his blood became healthy, and he had no more stomach trouble."—Mrs. Beulah Singleton, 808 Austin St. Druggists.

Write to Dr. Pierce's Clinic in Buffalo, N. Y., if you desire free advice. Send 10c for a trial pkg. of the tablets.

AUSTIN SCENE OF GREATEST TRACK GATHERING KNOWN IN TEXAS

GREATEST STARS OF FIRMAMENT DON CLEATS TODAY

By BOB ARCHER.

AUSTIN, Tex., March 28.—Stars from half the states in the United States will grace the stadium of the University of Texas in the sixth annual Texas relays to be held today. Record holders in almost every class of event will defend their titles against all hopeful track men. Trophies worth in excess of $1,500 will be awarded to individuals, squads, teams and schools.

The University of Iowa is sending four noted men for the event. They are L. D. Weldon, national Amateur Athletic Union junior champion javelin thrower, with a distance of 198 feet, 4 inches; George J. Saling, junior high hurdler, who has a mark of 14.9 seconds for the 120-yard high hurdles; Clarence Hubbard, anchor man of the Iowa mile relay team; and Henry F. Canby, holder of the Western Conference indoor pole vault record of 13 feet, 7 1/2 inches. Canby is also the co-holder of the Texas relay's record, T. M. Warne of Northwestern university being the other holder.

There will be numerous special events and contests with special interest. The pole vaulting between Canby and Warne, who also holds the national title in pole vaulting, will be unusually exciting, as these men tied last year for the Texas relay record of 13 feet, 3 1/2 inches.

There will be a special exhibition race of 660 yards between Nelson Green, southern Amateur Athletic Union in 440 meters with the time of 49.3 seconds; Clyde Blanchard, Los Angeles Athletic club and former captain of the University of Arizona track team; and Robert Greenwade, San Francisco Olympic club and Swedish record holder in the 300-yard dash with the time of 36.2 seconds.

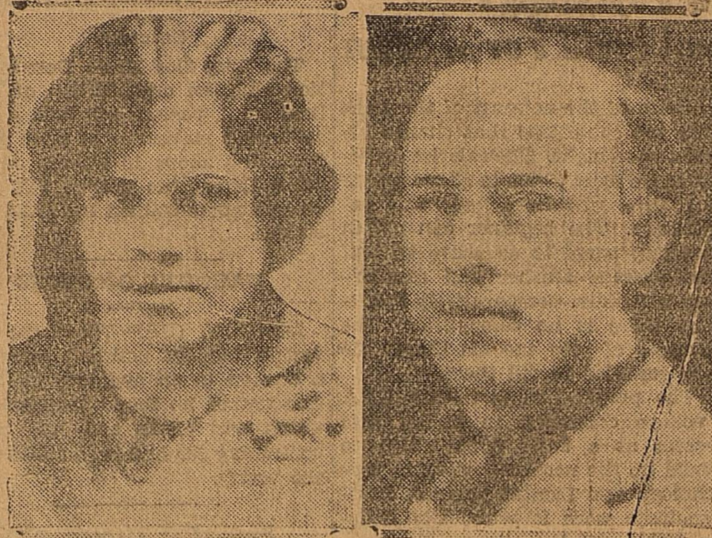

Dash events which should be particularly interesting to relay fans are those between Claude Bracy of Rice, present Texas relay record holder in the 100-yard dash with the time of 9.5 seconds; Cy Leland of T. C. U., Scott Wilkey of Texas, probably Simpson of Ohio and other outstanding dashmen of the country.

Henry F. Schulte of the University of Nebraska will be referee. Schulte was a member of the American Olympic coaching staff in 1928. Michael Mahoney of Dallas, former track coach of Columbia university and a member of the French Olympic coaching staff in 1920, will be the associate referee. "Tiny" Frazier will be official starter. "Tiny" Gooch, "The boy with the foghorn voice," former star Longhorn tackle and weight man, will do the announcing for the relays; he will be assisted by Allen Steere, Longhorn drum major.

Other schools and universities which have entered the relays up to date are: Iowa State College Ames, which has entered six special events; the University of Kansas Lawrence, which has entered 21 men; Butler University, Indianapolis, which has entered 13 men, including Eert Nelson, holder of the world indoor high jump record of 6 feet, 6 3/4 inches; the University of Nebraska, with its entire squad of 27 men.

The University of Chicago will be here for a dual meet with the Longhorns March 25, and its entire squad of 25 men will stay over for the relays. The University of Missouri has entered 14 men; Arkansas Poly-

Teacher Who Died Following Operation and Missing Coach

Miss Gladys Allen (left), 26-year-old music teacher in the schools of North Webster, Ind., who died from effects of an operation and whose body was shipped to her home in Olivet, Ill., without a report having been made to the coroner. Miss Allen was taken to the Lennox Hospital in Columbia City, Ind., last Saturday by Dr. Alice B. Williams and died a few hours later. Dr. Williams denied having performed the operation, from the effects of which the teacher was suffering when she was taken to the hospital. Sunday afternoon Dr. Williams was found dead in her home in Columbia City, heart disease being given as the cause of her death. Robert Lee (right), athletic director of North Webster High School and friend of Miss Allen, who disappeared a week ago.

technic college, Russellville, entered 6 men; the Bradley Polytechnic Institute, Peoria, Ill., will feature John Russell in the running high jump. Besides Warne, Northwestern university has entered 11 men. North Texas State Teachers college will have 11 men on the field; Southwestern university, Georgetown, Texas, has entered 9 men. Southwestern university of Lafayette, La., will have a representative team present, as will the University of Oklahoma.

All the Southwestern conference teams, including A. & M., Rice, T. C. U., S. M. U., Baylor and Arkansas, will be present to uphold their honors against the invaders of other conferences.

Among the prizes to be given are gold watches, beautiful plaques with a distinctive Texas relay design, bronze trophies and statuettes, and gold, silver and bronze medals.

Cocanuts are the chief money crop of the people of Guam.

FOLLOWING WEEK TO SEE STAGED GREAT CLEAN-UP IN MIDLAND

CITIZENSHIP IS TO BE ENLISTED IN BODY, PLAN

The most systematic clean up ever staged in Midland is to get under way Sunday and last throughout the week.

Led by the mayor's proclamation, issued this week, community interest is to be worked up in various ways calculated to rouse the greatest possible interest.

In the schools, churches, clubs, service organizations, boy scout meetings and elsewhere will the spirit of a cleaner Midland be infused.

With clean up comes the request from the National Clean Up and Paint Up campaign bureau to "regardless of religion, creed, race, prejudice or politics, unqualifiedly get behind the movement."

It is pointed out that the campaign will develop community spirit, make for clean streets, reduce fire losses, improve vacant grounds, renovate public buildings, beautify homes, make a more healthful city, improve the general morale, advertise the city and help business.

It is planned by the city government to enlist in the campaign the mayor, health board, fire department, police, newspapers, chamber of commerce, scouts, schools, women's organizations, business men, dealers' association, real estate exchanges, churches, welfare organizations and the like. All these will not conduct separate lines of activity, but will be expected to work in conjunction with possible committees to be appointed, as will various individuals.

The cleanup and paint up campaign develops a city into the class desired for it by leading citizens.

Peden Here--

The Peden company has in the retailer, Calloway said E. D. Peden vice-president and secretary of the Peden Co. Houston, San Antonio, Shreveport and Beaumont had announced the erection of a great million dollar building, in which is to be a model retail store.

Peden was present and heard Calloway read the Ten Commandments of the Peden Seven Point program both for the retail clerk and for the dealer.

- 1. Dealer's own mail order catalogue.
- 2. Time payment plan.
- 3. Stock control.
- 4. Buying arrangement.
- 5. Store arrangement.
- 6. Free Panel board service.
- 7. Clerk's school.

The commandments were in the form of questions:

- 1. Do you come to your store each day in a pleasant frame of mind?
- 2. Do you insist that your clerk be neat and clean in appearance?
- 3. Do you waste your time on petty detail work or are you an executive?
- 4. Do you respect and hold friendship with your local competitor?
- 5. Do you allow your clerks to smoke or chew while on duty?
- 6. Do your employes respect you as their leader?
- 7. Do you hold weekly meetings with your clerks?
- 8. Do you trim your windows attractively and change them often?
- 9. Do you patronize your local merchant in your personal buying?
- 10. Do you command the respect of the people in your community?

For the Retail Clerk

- 1. Do you try with all your ability to sell every customer you wait on?
- 2. How many customers slip away because you did not know your stock?
- 3. How many customers leave the store because you did not take enough time with them?
- 4. How many customers walked out without being introduced to another clerk?
- 5. How many customers' names do you obtain each day?
- 6. How many customers leave your store in a pleasant frame of mind?
- 7. How many customers have you contracted through mail, telephone or personal call?
- 8. How many store helps have you offered the boss?
- 9. Are you a one-hundred percent employe?
- 10. Are you big enough to be the manager?

The speakers were brought to Midland by McCormick, who made the arrangements in Houston last year. They came to Midland from Ballinger, where they talked on a similar problem, and left today direct for Houston.

Mrs. Carrie B. Kilgore was the first woman admitted to the bar in the United States. She was admitted to law practice in Delaware county, Pa., in 1884.

duced by cutting important feeder roots when cultivating too deep. Experiments have proven that the main object of cultivation is to keep down weeds.

If any off-type of hybrid stalks appear in the field, they should be pulled up to prevent any crossing of pollen from the hybrids.

If pure line pedigreed seed has been planted, select a sufficient amount of seed from good vigorous stalks, producing plump and well matured seed for planting the following season.

Thresh the planting seed by hand on a washboard to prevent the seed from cracking, or with a hand-thresher and store in a dry place away from rats. If necessary, fumigate with highlife in a tight bin for 24 hours at the rate of 1-2 lbs. for every 100 feet of cubic space, and then thoroughly ventilate so as not to injure the germination. Keep fire away from highlife, as it is very inflammable.

Harvest the crop as soon as it is ready, as otherwise it may be seriously damaged by being exposed to the weather and birds.

Hobbs--

this trade cavalcade truly represented the spirit and enterprise of a metropolitan city.

Mutual Interests

Uppermost in the minds of the Midland chamber of commerce, of course, is trade intercourse with the territory visited; this brings to the fore the point of actual consideration, which is highway accessibility, heretofore stressed by the strenuous efforts supporting the Midland program that outlines the double purpose of connecting up that city with Dal Paso highway at the most convenient point, and at the same time providing a short line to this oil field.

New Hobbs is just as wide-awake to this program as is Midland. Our road program in part at least, dovetails. As to progress, Midland has been most aggressively working to forward the sentiment in Andrews county for immediate highway construction; and at the same time has not overlooked her duties, for we understand the Midland - Andrews highway is taken care of as far as the south line of Andrews. In practical construction Midland can do no more, and is at this time concentrating on encouraging Andrews county to act energetically and promptly.

While here Tuesday, Paul Vickers, secretary of Midland C. of C., stated that at a very early date New Hobbs will be requested to sit in on a general road conference, at Midland, with a view to uniting all interested communities on the common highway project.

Visitor's Astonished

Needless to say, the visitors were highly pleased to observe the New Hobbs movement for highway construction and betterment; moreover, they were astonished to see that this city has advanced so far in practice as to purchase a complete tractor-power road construction outfit, now in operation on the Nadine-Eunice cut-off.

And when our visitors viewed the magnificent 5-passenger airship that it now launched upon our most unique plan of publicity, they openly expressed wonderment at the progressiveness of New Hobbs and freely acknowledged a kindred spirit here, in recognition of the will-to-do—the all-powerful community motive. It was plain to be seen that while our visitors brought much to this city, they carried away a great deal also.

ATTEND PLAY CONTEST

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Cowden, Walter Faye Cowden, Jean Wolcott, Mary Caroline Sims, Ida Beth Cowden, and Ruby Hodges left this afternoon to attend the one-act play contest tonight when the Midland group will present their play.

SEAMSTRESS AT 89

BATTLE CREEK, (UP)—Wearing a birthday gown made by her own hands, Mrs. Rose Weller, celebrated her 89th birthday by entertaining her friends here recently. The occasion also marked her 70th wedding anniversary.

Winds are produced by difference in atmospheric pressure in various locations.

Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of five instalments dealing with the high-lights of the career of "Scarface Al" Capone.

Through the surging pandemonium of Chicago's traffic-jammed Loop, the swaggering Al Capone, 19 years old and just in "from the East," finds his way to the gaudily draped cabaret at 2136 South Wabash avenue—Jim Colosimo's place.

Al Brown (as he preferred to be known during these humble 1915 days) is not unexpected. He has been invited by his well-known cousin, Johnny Terrio, to come west and give the Windy City the once-over. Johnny, it must be remembered, is at this time the aide-camp and personal bodyguard of "Big Jim" Colosimo himself. And what "Big Jim" doesn't have to say about vice dens and gambling joints in the Windy City—simply isn't worth saying.

In fact, the man who was a street cleaner during the gay World's Fair days has at this stage of the game (1915) obtained such a strangle hold upon the vice concessions of Chicago's restricted area that his personal staff has to be augmented—and augmented quickly.

Johnny Terrio recommends Cousin A. from New York, for the new job. And so young Al Capone, or, rather, Al Brown, becomes a humble acolyte of the Vicar of Vice himself. If the dark-skinned boy from Brooklyn had any presentiments of the grand day when he himself would wear Chicago's crown of crime, he kept them carefully to himself.

Meanwhile, he busied himself with his new duties, which were but a variation of the shady profession he had studied back in New York. True, there was a veritable network of "ropes" to learn in the new surroundings. But they were not too subtle, and Al could pick up a good bit of handy information on the rounds of the redlight district, which he regularly made for the purpose of collecting tangible tribute to Czar Colosimo.

The boy was just beginning to win his spurs in the higher branches of his chosen profession when Uncle Sam stepped in to inform him that his services could be used to advantage at the world's oldest racket—war. Al Brown was drafted, spent a preliminary period in a southern camp, then was loaded on a transport with a few thousand other Americans, ranging from schoolboys to ex-murderers, and dumped into France.

But Al didn't see any fighting—at least, any trench fighting. According to his army record, on file at Washington, D. C., he fought the war from the backline trenches at Brest, Bordeaux and other French ports. Thus dies the glamorous legend that "Scarface Al" won his famous scars fighting for his country. He is said to have once told a girl reporter that the unhandy nickname referred to the gash he received on a French battlefield.

Incidentally, a young woman who visited the Capone mansion at Miami Beach, Florida, several years later, was treated to a still different "legend of the scar." True, she did not know that her socially inclined host was "Scarface Al." In fact, she only knew that "he was playing polo with the Prince of Wales when the Prince's mallet flew off and hit him in the face. Wasn't that just too romantic?" However, "romantic" the explanation may have been, the story must have been true, for it came, according to the young lady, from the lips of the gentleman himself.

His war days over, Al Brown returned to his Chicago general. But he was no longer Al Brown. It was Al Capone from now on. (To Be Continued)

TAXIING AROUND THE AIRPORT

A Murray Tool and Supply company ship, carrying Mr. Murray and a passenger landed for refueling at Sloan field this morning on its way from Oklahoma City to Hobbs, New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Post, going from Fort Worth to Los Angeles in a Lockheed, took off early this morning, after spending the night here, landing just before dark.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Since several of the members will be in San Angelo for the declamation contests tomorrow night, the Loyal Workers of the Methodist church will not have their regular meeting.

STANTON DEBATING TEAM WINS 2-1

The boys debating club of Midland high school met the Stanton boys Monday evening at eight o'clock in a debate of the state question, "Resolved that the Sterling Plan for Financing State Highways Should be Adopted." The first speaker on the affirmative, Herman Walker of Midland, made an impressive talk. G. B. Shelbourne, of Stanton, was the first speaker on the negative side. He declared his speech with the effectiveness of an experienced orator. Ralph Hallman was the second speaker of the affirmative. He made a very good talk. He was followed by the second speaker on the negative, Hilton Kaderli. A three minute rebuttal was made by Hallman. G. B. Shelbourne made a rebuttal five minutes long. Hallman again made a three minute rebuttal. After Kaderli's five minute talk the judges turned in their decision and they were read, Midland 1, Stanton 2.

THE PURPLE DREAM

Midland High School students will carry a very unique play to the one act play contest, which is to be held in San Angelo this week.

The play centers about a romantic little maid in the home of a wealthy family. Dorothy Bess Stanley plays the part of the maid and is ably supported in her role by Leland Murphy as the man servant of the same family.

In a dream which comes to the maid, the Prince charming (Thomas Lee Speer) appears and woos her in approved "story book style" much to the discomfort of her erstwhile mistress (Mollie B. Bagley) and the young daughter of the house, Nancy Rankin, who had hoped to win this dashing Apollo for herself.

At the very height of the little maid's triumph, however, she awakes and finds it has all been a dream. However, there does appear a real life and blood Prince charming (C. W. Edwards) on the scene, and the little maid's hopes are revived. The encounter with the second Prince charming, however, is most disappointing, as he has eyes for nobody except the daughter of this wealthy family. So the little dreamer's hopes are completely cast down at the disparity between life in a book and real life.

CAN YOU IMAGINE

Jean W. not finding fault with other people's admirers? Ruby not being right there when the army planes took off? Dorothy Bess making faces? Miss Hefner with an army pilot? Ralph Draper not fixing his hair? Joe Bean not having chewing gum? Zonelle not being busy? Johnny Helen not using all the boys? Maxine liking Bull? Someone not getting Addie's notes?

BITS O' INFORMATION

Well, here goes: All are so enthusiastic about going to San Angelo that they forget to tell me any gossip, but I fooled around over this fair city and made some. Dorothy Bess is so in love with one of our sophomore boys that she wore her dress wrong-side-out Thursday. Someone should tell Bush she is tripping on him. Ruby and Archie are on speaking terms again. What happened to Ruby's "S. L."? Ida Beth already has a date for Friday night. Fast work if you ask me. Miss Solomon almost had a fit when those airplanes came over the other day. I'll just bet that she has a crush on one of the aviators. Alice is also a fast worker. It is rumored that she is wearing a lieutenant's pin.

By These Signs Ye Shall Know Their Natures

Seniors: By their idling in study-halls, saying "Oh, we should worry, we'll pass anyway."
Juniors: By their continual boasting about how they will beat the seniors at the big Junior-senior fight.
Sophomores: By their aversion to the "slimes" having to come to school in the same building with the "upper classmen."
Freshmen: By their talking in the halls.
The literary minded: By their always carrying a novel and reading it during lunch period.
The athletically-inclined: By their taking petitions to Mr. Lackey for a new gymnasium. (They probably won't take the course if we ever get one.)
The love-lorn ones: By their going around looking at everyone moon-eyed and at that special one with a love-sick look.
The demerit receivers: By their walking slowly by the stairs to 300 at 3:15 with a medium-sized white card.

THE QUICK RECOVERY

By Dorothy Hines

"Oh, gee," sighed Jack one bright May morning. "How nice it would be to stay in bed and sleep forever." Jack thought that the bed had never seemed so soft and comfortable. As he lay there allowing plans to race through his mind, he cried aloud, "I'll just tell mother I'm sick, and that will be all there is to do. I'll get to stay in bed all day."

His thoughts were disturbed by a voice calling, "Jack, it is time to get up."
"Oh, mother, I'm terribly sick. Do I have to get up?"
Hearing this, his mother went to his room and exclaimed, "Oh, is my boy really sick? Poor little thing. I must call the doctor at once."
"Now, what shall I do?" he whispered to himself.

From the time he was a very small child he had feared doctors, especially the ones who had long white beards and wore glasses. The thought of a doctor was enough to make the poor child really sick.

Suddenly a loud knock was heard at the door, and the doctor was soon admitted. To Jack's surprise the doctor was not so large as he had pictured him. The doctor had a very pleasant smile on his face as he asked, "What can I do for you, young man?"
"Get out for the first thing," he replied, being somewhat angry because his plans had been interrupted.

"Oh, let's be friends," the doctor answered in a friendly voice.
Jack soon yielded to the doctor's thumping around on him and began to like the pleasant-faced doctor.
"Now, the medicine," he said, somewhat amused, as he went to the table and began to write. When he had finished, he spoke a few words to Jack's mother and departed.

"Dear, this is what he has left for you to take," said the mother in sympathetic tones. "Each morning until the patient is well, apply freely a thin board mixed with several ounces of strength."
Jack jumped out of bed and rushed to school with less fear of doctors and a stronger belief that medicine for external use only gives quicker and surer relief than medicine for internal use.

CHAPEL DAY BY DAY

Monday: Mr. Barry made an announcement concerning the baseball games.
Mr. Cotner made an announcement about the debate between Midland and Stanton.
The annual queen was announced, the lucky girl being Miss Ida Beth Cowden of the junior class.
Mrs. Barry made an announcement about the one act play to be given in San Angelo, Friday night.
We read "The 23rd Psalm," "The Chambered Nautilus," and "Love of Country." We sang "Come Tidy Fount," "The Lord is My Shepherd." The boys sang "The Volga Boatman" and the girls sang "Nightfall."
Mr. Maddrey, whom Mr. Lackey introduced as the English shark, complimented us on our singing and reading and our building. Comments were also made by another visitor.

An old favorite of ours, Madison Sandidge, was here today and of course he made a short talk.
Tuesday: We read "Crossing The Bar." An election of the most popular girl and boy, the best all round girl and boy, was made. The result was Nancy Rankin, most popular girl; Lloyd Burris, most popular boy; Lillian Dunaway, best all round girl; C. C. Foster, best all round boy.
Wednesday: We held no chapel today, as everyone was given an opportunity to visit the airport and watch the nineteen planes take off.

CLASS FAVORITES NAMED

Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock a favorite from each room of the high school grades was selected, from which one student in each grade will be elected. Voting boxes will be placed in all the rooms and each will be one cent. The contest will close Wednesday, April 2. The following favorites were named:
8A.—Dick Verdier.
8B.—Marie Cook.
8C.—Fount Armstrong.
8D.—W. E. Osborne.
9A.—Vann Mitchell.
9B.—Lucille McMullan.
9C.—G. B. Hallman.
9D.—Phyllis Lowe.
10A.—Ruby Hodges.
10B.—Frank Midkiff.
11A.—Ralph Hallman.
11B.—Mary Lou Thrower.

IDA BETH COWDEN SELECTED

Rumors of an expected "upset" in selection of the queen for the high school annual, were confirmed Wednesday morning when votes were counted and the name of Ida Beth Cowden, a junior, until the last minute at the bottom of the list, headed the other candidates with 5,060 votes.
Ernestine Zigler, also a junior, was second with 2,000 votes, and Mary Lou Thrower, a senior, came next with 1,335 votes. Ella Mae Newman, a freshman, with 655, and Johnnie Helen Cowley, a sophomore, with 160, finished the list.
At 7 o'clock Saturday Miss Cowden's name held the lowest position on the ladder, with only 20 votes to its credit. Her advocates used a bit of diplomacy and no one was able to guess that the votes were being held back.
Out of 938 deposited in the voting boxes only 32 cents was in coins of a lesser denomination than a ten-cent piece, the lowest coin recognized in the counting of votes.

HIGH SCHOOL SPONGES

Webster says that sponges are found in the sea. This is true to a certain extent, but usually there are numbers of sponges roaming our high school halls. Perhaps we would be better off if all sponges were in the sea.

You may wonder what a high school sponge is. He is the person who borrows your history outline, Spanish translation, and English exercise every morning. He is gifted with a way of finding you every time he needs you. You promise yourself that he has copied for the last time your outlines, translations, and exercises, but the next morning, the minute you enter the school building, he comes running to you and before he can utter a word you have thrust upon him all your papers and hurried away muttering some excuse over your shoulder. You no longer hate this person—fear has taken the place of hatred—pure fear.

But now let's go back to Webster's definition. He says that the sponge never accomplishes anything, and once a sponge always a sponge. We agree with Webster on this. If there are any sponges among us, let's try to decrease the number, and by all means we must not in create the number.

POPULARITY CONTEST

There was a great interest manifested in chapel Tuesday morning when the house was called to order.

by president, Ralph Hallman, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the favorite section of the annual. Nancy Rankin, Maxine Tom, and Juanita Johnson were candidates for the most popular girl. Lloyd Burris, Archie Estes, and Whitten Pinnell, candidates for the most popular boy. Lillian Dunaway, Mary Caroline Sims, Dorris Harrison, and Marie Hill were the candidates for the best all round girl. Frank Midkiff, C. C. Foster, Barney Grafa, Jr., and Ray Parker were candidates for the best all round boy.

An hour of suspense followed while Mr. Lane and Miss Milley counted the votes; then the report was announced in each room. Nancy Rankin was elected as the most popular girl. Lloyd Burris the most popular boy, C. C. Foster the best all round boy, and Lillian Dunaway the best all round girl.

VENTURES IN VERSE

By Lila Bogue

One day I was asked by my teacher To make a little rhyme. "It doesn't make any difference," she said "About the place or time."

So I took my pencil and sat down by the fire And tried for an hour or more When finally, after thinking and thinking And tacking my brain o'er and o'er To find two words that would rhyme, As all agree that they must, I gave up in despair, fell asleep in my chair, And then went to bed in disgust.

VENTURES IN VERSE

A Spring Reverie

By Ted Dozier

Who ever thought to start a school? None would attend except a fool. It is no place for one to be because he can't be free.

Why study when Napoleon died Or of Bevere's great ride? Why think of France or of Japan? We live in Texas sand.

But school's a very good place If one can keep the pace. I ought, instead, to dig a ditch And not wear out my teacher's switch.

FAVORITES CHOSEN FOR SCHOOL ANNUAL

High school favorites were selected by the students Tuesday morning following nominations made in assembly.
Nancy Rankin, a junior, was elected the most popular girl. Lloyd Burris most popular boy, Lillian Dunaway best all round girl, and C. C. Foster Jr., best all round boy.

The list of candidates for the honors, together with the number of votes each polled as follows:
For "Most Popular Girl"—Nancy Rankin 99, Maxine Tom 53, Juanita Johnson 95.
For "Most Popular Boy"—Lloyd Burris 123, Whitten Pinnell, 64, Archie Estes, 56.

For "Best All Round Girl"—Doris Harrison 44, Lillian Dunaway 129, Marie Hill 67, Mary Carolyn Sims 6.
For "Best All Round Boy"—C. C. Foster 96, Frank Midkiff 54, Ray Parker 10, Barney Grafa Jr. 88.
