CAPTAIN HAWKS WILL LAND IN MIDLAND THIS AFTERNOON

SCHEDULE TIME OFF SLIGHTLY

Had to Spend Night In Tucson, Not El Paso

Is this an April Fool joke? An El Paso wire said Captain Hawks flew his glider from Tucson to El Paso at the rate of 120 miles an hour! Here is the wire:
"Captain Frank Hawks arrived here this morning in the cabin glider Eagle, completing the flight from Tucson, Ariz., 300 miles away, in two hours and 25 minutes en route to New York from El Paso. He expects to continue to Sweetwater today."

The hour of arrival at Sloan field, Midland airport, this afternoon of Captain Frank Hawks, famous transcontinental-record-holding aviator who is making a glider flight across the country, was somewhat vague in the early afternoon.

Trouble with a tow cable, which Monday afternoon parted in a stiff wind out of Tucson, Ariz., caused the gliding pilot to volplane back into landing in the Arizona city and kept him there overnight. He was to land in El Paso for lunch, according to a wire at 11 o'clock today from the Associated Press.

No statement from advance men of the Hawks glider flight informed when landing would be made in Midland, though it was generally believed here that it would be in the middle afternoon. An Associated Press dispatch said Captain Hawks would take lunch in El Paso. This wire read:
"Captain Hawks' interrupted transcontinental glider flight was resumed today when the start was made for El Paso. Hawks announced he would make up for lost time yesterday, when his tow cable broke. After a brief stop at El Paso for lunch, the refueling tow plane and glider will take the air in an effort to make Sweetwater in time for a night stop, after first landing for fuel in Midland."

Landing Time Indefinite
Hawks' itinerary this afternoon carries him from El Paso to Pecos, a distance of 175 miles, from Pecos to Midland, 100 miles, and to a night landing at Sweetwater, a distance of 100 miles.
Estimating a possible takeoff from El Paso at noon, although this hour of take off had not been announced by noon even though he was to have lunch there, it is estimated that Captain Hawks will land in Midland sometime between 4 and 5 o'clock. He cruises at a rate of 70 miles an hour behind his powered Waco plane, and will possibly spend from 30 minutes to an hour there.

A telegram sent The Reporter-Telegram Monday evening from Lee Trenholm, flight manager, read: "Hawks and the Texas company air train due at the municipal airport to gas about eleven (mountain time) Tuesday morning flying through Tucson to Sweetwater."

This wire, since the Midland airport is often designated as municipal, was misleading to the extent that it was supposed Trenholm meant Midland. It was afterward interpreted that he meant El Paso, from where the wire was sent.

Would Land in Dark
Capt. Frank Hawks was to make a test of an air current aloft at 3:45 o'clock Monday afternoon and take off from El Paso from Tucson if air conditions were satisfactory. He stated that he would risk landing in (See CAPTAIN HAWKS page 6)

Ulmer to Preside at Dallas Goodwill Banquet In City

Clara Lets Her Tresses Grow

The most famous red hair in America soon will be twice as famous—or perhaps it would be better to say twice as much of it will be famous. Yes, folks, Clara Bow is letting her hair grow. It is almost down to her shoulders now. And she intends to let it grow on and on.

BEARD OF ANGELO TO BE IN CITY

Enumeration To Take Most of Month, Said Here

The fifteenth census in the history of the U. S. will begin Wednesday morning, April 2, throughout every community, hamlet, countryside and city of the 48 states.

The mandate follows precedent established by George Washington, first president of the union, in 1790. The census has been taken every 10 years since that time, as required by the constitution.

Census enumerators will go from house to house all over the nation, until everyone has been listed. Every census-taker will have a certificate of appointment from the government. Any person not having this is an impostor.

President Proclaims
Raymond F. Crist, commissioner of naturalization, is in general charge of the national census. President Hoover proclaimed the fifteenth decennial census at the city of Washington Nov. 22 of last year. The census was approved by an act of congress June 18, of the same year.

C. C. Beard of San Angelo is district supervisor and will be in Midland this afternoon for perfecting of plans necessary to launch the movement Tuesday.

There are two districts to the city of Midland, and four for the rest of the county, according to Alton Gault, one of the enumerators here.

An army of 100,000 enumerators will set forth tomorrow to devote a month to the problem of listing every inhabitant of the United States. The 15th decennial census is expected to show that the population has increased to 123,000,000.

William Mott steuart, director of the Census Bureau, declares the enumeration "the most colossal of all statistical projects." In addition to the data collected concerning human beings the government seeks detailed information on 6,250,000 farms, 2,500,000 mercantile establishments, 200,000 manufacturing plants, 14,000 mines and quarries and more than 100,000 irrigation and drainage projects.

The census schedule this year as applied to individuals is more elaborate than ever before. The first census, taken in 1790 when the population numbered only the name of the head of the family and the number of persons in the family.

Among the new items on the schedule are those regarding the value of homes or monthly rentals, ownership of a radio, state of employment and degree of military service. Of these the most important, in the eyes of government officials, is that concerning unemployment. Authorities hope that by accurate data they may be able to eliminate a great deal of enforced idleness.

The United States is more considerate than Turkey in the taking of a national census. In Turkey on Oct. 28, 1927, virtually the entire population was required to stay in doors for the day. Only officials and enumerators were permitted to go out on the streets, no trains or street cars were run and guards were on patrol to arrest anyone found at large. In Constantinople it was not until 10:15 p. m. that the firing of guns signalled completion of the census and permitted release from homes. Here it is done more humanely. The government merely assumes that sometime during a month you or a member of your family will be found by an enumerator.

Party To Arrive In Middle Of The Afternoon

Marvin C. Ulmer was Monday night elected by directors of the Midland chamber of commerce to preside tomorrow at the Hotel Scharbauer meeting to welcome the Dallas visitors. Ulmer is mayor pro tem, as well as vice president of the chamber of commerce.

W. I. Pratt, chairman of the chamber meeting Monday night, pointed out that since Dallas is sending her biggest business men here Wednesday that Midland's biggest business men should greet them when they arrive on their special train tomorrow at 3:45 p. m. and should crowd the Crystal ball room of Hotel Scharbauer at 4:45 for the short speaking program.

Midland's handsomely uniformed high school band directed by W. S. Lanham will start playing at the railway station at a little before 3:45 to add their material part of the greeting given the Dallas visitors. Superintendent W. W. Lackey said a large group of high school students would be present to help swell the ranks of greetings.

Business and professional men and women of Midland and all others who are jealous of Midland's good reputation are being urged by the chamber of commerce to crowd the Scharbauer ballroom to capacity. Some short witty talks are on the program.

C. C. AUTHORIZES MORE EXPANSION IN TRADE AREA

Further expansion of Midland's trade area was authorized Monday night by directors of the chamber of commerce when they authorized publicity in three out-of-town newspapers, and approval of recommendations of the auto and retail committee for good will trips to Stanton, Odessa, Penwell, Monahans, Wink, Kermit, Jal, Eunice and Hobbs.

Directors voted to continue Midland's exploitation as an oil headquarters city. Two road reports were heard, and C. W. Post made a talk urging a good will trip to Iran and other points south. His recommendations were referred to the auto and retailers committee for action.

W. I. Pratt, vice president, was chairman of the meeting. Other directors present were: R. J. Moore, Malcolm M. Meek, R. M. Barron, George D. McCormick, Clarence Scharbauer, John O. Nobles, Marion M. Seymour, Marvin C. Ulmer, Kenneth E. Ambrose, J. E. Hill, W. Edward Lee, M. F. Peters. Members present were: Alvin Hicks, B. N. Aycock, Frank Elkin, C. W. Post, C. A. McClintic, Frank Wendt, and Ira F. Lord.

Wild Gusher Is Threat Of Fire

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 1. (AP)—Defying man's efforts to restrict its flow, the Mary Sudik No. 1, wild oil gusher of the Oklahoma City field, today hurled a constant menace of thousands of barrels of oil into the air.
A sudden flash of flame, igniting the oil, would carry disaster and tremendous loss to citizens here. All precautions are being taken against the possibility of fire.
A high wind caused the countryside to be sprayed with oil.

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP)—Nomination of Phil Bar for appointment as United States marshal for the eastern district of Texas was sent to the senate today by President Hoover.

Mixed In Court Room Witch Drama

Lila Jimerson, above left, Seneca Indian art model, is pictured in court at Buffalo, N. Y., as she watched Nancy Brown, right, aged squaw, tell the story of the "witch murder" of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand for which the state is trying to send Lila to the electric chair. The prosecution charges Lila, in love with Mrs. Marchand's artist husband, persuaded old Nancy to commit the murder by telling her Mrs. Marchand was a witch. The inset in the middle picture shows how Nancy Brown, aged Indian squaw, appeared to 12-year-old Henri Marchand, Jr., youthful artist, as the boy sketched her in court, while Nancy told how she had murdered his mother. Seated beside Henri as he draws are left to right, George Marchand, his brother; Mrs. George Marchand, and Henrietta Marchand, a sister. Henri Marchand, below, noted Buffalo artist and sculptor who is held as a material witness in the strange Indian murder of his wife, continues his art work even while in jail. He is shown here making a clay model of Trudy, a dog owned by Jailer Charles Diebold.

POLL LIGHT TODAY FOR COUNCILMEN

Harper Says Did Not Know He Was Named For Trustee

BULLETIN
Although 1,867 Midland citizens paid poll taxes and are eligible to vote, an unusually small number had been to the polls before press time today, according to city employes who have watched the progress of the election for two city aldermen. The names of Percy J. Mims and J. M. Speed, candidates for re-election to the council, are on the ballot, with two to be elected.

Withdrawal by O. C. Harper of his name as a candidate for member of the school board, on his return to the city Monday night, leaves as candidates for trustees the four men whose names appear on the ballot now on file at the county clerk's office. Harper authorized The Reporter-Telegram to say that he did not know of the announcement of his name as candidate until he returned to the city Monday night, and that he had no desire to run for the office. He referred to his business interests which keep him from the city a great deal, and said that he would not be able to give the time necessary for work of this importance.

Four On Ballot
On the ballot are the names of J. E. Hill, B. Frank Haag, John P. Howe and W. A. Yeager, all of whom are now members of the school board. Their names were placed on the ballot ten days prior to the election, as required by the absentee voting law, after a petition had been signed by several business men asking them to run for re-election.

Yeager was named recently to fill the unexpired term of Millard Eldson—who has moved to Lovington. N. M. Yeager is head of the operations in this area of the Prairie Oil and Gas company. Hill is a wholesale grocer, with ranching and farming interests; Haag is a Midland attorney and Howe is head of a plumbing and heating business. Hill has served as president of the school board during the period of Midland's rapid growth, and the board has had the responsibility of providing additional buildings, teachers and all other accommodations to keep pace with the increased number of scholars.
The election for trustees will be held Saturday, April 5, at the high school auditorium.

How to Make a Hole in One—(An April Fools' Day Tip!)

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

The Crusading South Keeps Up Its Interest in National and Moral Purity by Bringing Pressure to Bear on Indecent Literature and Illegally Admitted Aliens
WASHINGTON, April 1.—Many Southerners will take this as a compliment and others may get sore about it, but the fact is that the South has done and is doing far more than any other section to keep the country "pure."

OUR UNSUNG HEROES

A faithful reader of the daily newspaper may be pardoned if he develops a certain amount of cynicism regarding the human race. The daily account of human beings' crimes, follies and weaknesses that the newspaper provides is surely enough to make anyone wonder if mankind isn't, after all, a good deal farther down in the scale than we like to suppose.

From Mansfield, O., comes a story telling how a Pennsylvania railroad engineer sacrificed his own life to save the lives of his passengers when his engine jumped the tracks, staying in the cab, when he might have escaped by jumping, in order to set the airbrakes and keep the whole train from being wrecked.

From the east comes a story telling how a negro clerk in a railway mail car, injured in a wreck, refused to go to a hospital but stuck by the mail pouches that had been entrusted to his care and saw to it that they were safely disposed of.

From Chicago comes a story telling how a girl arrested there for vagrancy found kind-hearted officials in the police court and was enabled to complete her journey to her mother in Indiana when they took up a collection to furnish her with food, clothing and a railroad ticket.

None of these stories took up much space. None of them got very big headlines. If you skimmed through your paper hurriedly you may have missed them altogether.

But they're important stories, just the same. They stand out, behind the ugly stories about gangsters, divorces, bootleggers, murders and crooked politicians, like beacon lights. If the crime stories tell us that the race has unsuspected depths in its make-ups, these stories make it plain that human beings can also rise to noble heights of devotion, courage and unselfishness.

It's the old, old story all over again. There's a great deal of wickedness in the world—and a great deal of good to balance it.

And it's worth while to remember that every kind, brave or unselfish act, no matter how small or insignificant, adds just so much more weight in the right side of the scales.

The Town Quack
Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.
April Fool's Day, can you beat it? I was never more sorely tempted to play hooky from my job than I am today, but I have developed a conscience that keeps me thinking of how my readers would miss this column, so here I am back at work, same as usual.

April Fool's Day, can you beat it? I was never more sorely tempted to play hooky from my job than I am today, but I have developed a conscience that keeps me thinking of how my readers would miss this column, so here I am back at work, same as usual.

The April Fool joke Jim Fitzroy played on Percy Mims was a good one, thinking of April Fool's Day jokes. Percy had all day Sunday to think up campaign propaganda with which to go up against Jim Monday, but on Monday he found that Jim wasn't a candidate.

Fred Wemple had a good April Fool's Day joke played on him. He got hold of some "secret formula" to shine his car. When he took the car home late yesterday it looked so much like a new one that his wife made him walk to town this morning to keep from exposing the gloss of the car to the possible sand and wind.

Neal Stator had a real joke played on him. He had been after Paul Barron ever since January 1 to render his taxes, and had about decided he would have to prosecute him, but late in the evening of March 31, Paul hunted him up and completed the job which required about half a minute.

Hubert Drake got in an April Fool's Day joke on the evening before. He went home all shaved up to take his folks to the show and his wife reminded him that it was clean-up week. When last seen about dark.

South stood firm. Only George of Georgia was found voting with Republican progressives and northern Democrats as the Ramsdell motion was passed by more than 2 to 1.

Murder Backstairs By Anne Austin

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Doris Matthews, lady's maid, is murdered in a summerhouse on the Berkeley estate, by blow from heavy perfume flask, given Mrs. George Berkeley by Seymour Crosby, engaged to Clorinda Berkeley, whose scarf binds the rock-weighted body when it is taken from the lake by Detective Dundee.

Evidence involves Mrs. Berkeley, Clorinda, Dick Berkeley, Doris's fiancé, Eugene Arnold, chauffeur; Gigi Berkeley, 15, who unaccountably stinked everyone Friday evening with perfume from murder flask, and John Maxwell, former suitor of Clorinda, admitted in the summerhouse after the crime.

CHAPTER XXXI
For one uncomfortable minute Dundee was afraid his chief would turn nasty. But Captain Strawn contented himself with saying, "Remember me to that young man, the police commissioner's nephew, and therefore a privileged character, eh? All right! Have a good time with your society friends."

"I shan't be entirely idle," Dundee assured him cheerfully. "I'll ask Mrs. Lambert to lend me her typewriter, and transcribe this bunch of notes I've taken. . . . By the way, chief, since you're satisfied that Johnson solves everything, there won't be any need of airing the Berkeley family troubles in the newspapers, I suppose?"

cop interrupted. "Yes, Wickett?" "Mr. John Maxwell, sir." "Show him in, Wickett darling," Gigi ordered. "And I'm going to stay, my bonnie lad!" she added emphatically to Dundee. "Oh, hello, Johnny Maxwell! Whoops! How you've grown!"

"The tall, broad-shouldered young man swung Gigi off her feet and kissed her soundly, to her evident relief. "Brat," he apostrophized her, "you're a wow! Cutie'n a Scotch terrier!"

"Go on! Say it! If you weren't already wild over Clo, you'd give me a whirl! Lord, I'll be glad when that sister of mine gets married, so I can have a chance. . . . 'Scuse it, please! This is Bonnie Dundee. Johnny—a detective! And if the police hadn't already picked out their criminal, you'd be in for the nearest third-degree."

"I see," said Dundee thoughtfully. Then, "You are positive you saw no one at all during your walk or as you were leaving the grounds alone?" "No one! Until I was passing through the gates," Maxwell answered positively. "And I did not actually see anyone then. Just the Berkeley limousine. It was turning in toward the gates as I passed through them. I was running to make the interurban. I'd heard the whistle before I reached the gates, and through I'd

THE NAVAL HOLIDAY

The suggestion for a six-months holiday in the naval disarmament conference may turn out to be a life-saver for the proponents of naval reduction and world peace. It is disappointing, of course, when we recall the high hopes that we had when the conference opened. But it is becoming apparent that our hopes were unjustifiably exalted. We expected more than we had any right to expect.

Unusually Well Presented Play Seen By Women of Seven Churches

Before an audience of 135 women, members of the Presbyterian Auxiliary presented "Mrs. Slacker is Converted to Foreign Missions" in the main auditorium of the Presbyterian church Monday afternoon.

Representing auxiliaries and missionary societies of seven churches of Midland, the Methodist, Baptist, Christian, Church of Christ, Episcopal, Catholic, and Presbyterian, the crowd of women filled the front section of the auditorium, and many were seated in the back section.

Rev. Thomas D. Murphy led the opening hymn, and Mrs. Murphy read a brief devotional dealing with foreign missions. Rev. Murphy led in prayer, and Mrs. Andrew Faskin, president of the Auxiliary, introduced the play.

Stage settings were all old-fashioned, and were perfect in every detail, including an old red album, the now popular "what-not" in one corner with its array of clever novelties, old time pictures on the wall, and other objects.

Mrs. Harvey Sloan was excellent as Mrs. Calvin, hostess to the Skaggs Corner Missionary society and its president. Her old-fashioned dresses made her into a typical well to do old-time lady.

Her friend, Mrs. Slacker, opposed to foreign missions, played by Mrs. Florence A. Richardson, played her part well, crying audibly when she realized the error of her ways in not believing in foreign missions and emptying her pocket of money for the cause.

Mrs. Puffett, the minister's wife, played by Mrs. A. Harry Anderson, brought much laughter by her characterization of a woman a little bit overwhelmed by her own sense of importance at being the wife of the Rev. Puffett. She was dressed in ruffles and plumes in the latest fashion of those days.

Mrs. Pokey, played by Mrs. T. D. Kimbrough, with draggy feet and a voice to match, who even forgot her answer to roll call when she got up to say it, was nevertheless the first to come to missionary society meeting, afraid she would be late if she didn't start early.

Mrs. Plumery, staged by Mrs. Hayden Miles, breezed into the home of Mrs. Calvin, indignant at Mrs. Toodles, because she was angry simply because Mrs. Plumery's twins engaged in this harmless pastime of setting fire to Mrs. Toodles' barn.

Mrs. W. P. Knight, as Mrs. Toodles, carried a shining egg trumpet and misunderstood everything everyone said, bringing a great deal of laughter by her cranky ways. She complained through the meeting of those Plumery twins.

Mrs. Goggles, newly married, very proud of her husband, bringing his name into every discussion, was played by Mrs. J. A. Finlayson, pertly and saucily dressed, "just returned from New York."

Mrs. Andrew Faskin, who played the part of the Irish Bridget O'Hara, was dressed in a style to give as a witty woman, with an accent that would do credit to any Irishman. She was "so" in her ways, but she asked forgiveness and applies for membership in the society before the meeting is over.

Mrs. J. G. Gossett, as Mrs. Schultzer, Dutch and very dumb, nevertheless emptied her pockets into the offering plate when the time came. She looked the part with her old sailor hat, and even wearing her apron to "meetin'."

Deacon Doolittle's widow, dressed all in black, having her own ideas, was very pert, and not so generous with her offering as to give her all, was played by Mrs. S. E. Cragin. She was very pious, but evidently had ideas of her own as to how good one had to be.

Mrs. F. E. Cragin's part, that of Mrs. Hankins, a mountaineer woman, was well played. She remained a stolid old pipe-smoking woman throughout the meeting, with never a change of expression under the wide-brimmed bonnet she wore.

Mrs. J. M. DeArmond as Mrs. Shang Ho from China, and Mrs. Fred Turner as Mrs. Tia Itt of India, gave talks most interesting and enlightening to the audience off the stage as well as on, as they told of the customs of their land, and sketched their own wretched lives there, telling of the change since they had come to America. In both their cases they had been saved by missionaries in their countries, and converted the unbelieving Mrs. Slacker and Mrs. O'Hara at the close of their talks. Both brought applause from the audience by their stories.

After the play, Mrs. Finlayson and Mrs. Faskin sang a duet, and a silver offering was taken, which amounted to about $40.

A delicious plate of sandwiches, cake, coffee and candies was passed to each one present.

An effort was made to have everyone register before they left the church, and the following names were written:

Pipe Dreams

By Fanny Darrell

PIPE dreams! Vision that appear, trantalize with their nebulous beauty and then fade into the land of mists where shadowy shapes move mysteriously like half revealed memories that creep along the horizon of own thoughts. Beautiful faces that appear even more alluring in the gray mists curling from a tobacco laden pipe. Wonderful dreams these, when at the end of a care-filled day, a man can withdraw into his own world where he is absolute ruler, the world created by his own thoughts, dreams and hopes. But no word whether one of reality or a visionary planet can ever be quite complete without the haunting sweetness of the lovely face of the most perfect girl in the world.

"UPSIDEDOWN PANG" COMING HERE HAS BUNCH OF PECULIAR RECORDS HUNG UP

When Clyde E. Pangborn, known as "Upsidedown Pang" to millions, sets his plane down at the Garrard farm, on Lamesa road for a two-day series of free exhibitions Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, Midland will have as its guest one of the most unique characters in the history of aviation. Pangborn, unassuming and silent, has set more records, official and unofficial, than any other pilot in the United States, and his name will rank high in the history of commercial aviation.

Pangborn has brought his ship in safely after catching fire at four thousand feet—he was the first man to change from an automobile to an airplane—he holds the world's endurance record for open-cockpit airplanes, having remained aloft with a co-pilot in Syracuse, N. Y., for 130 hours—he has flown from more than 2500 corn and oat fields, pastures, plains, airports and sand lots in all of the forty-eight states—has carried more than 100,000 persons aloft in Jennys, Stanards and other barnstorming equipment, and was one of the first American aviators to fly upside down.

Pangborn is known throughout Texas as one of the participants in the most amazing rescue in the history of commercial aviation, in Houston, in 1924, when he was with the Gates Flying Circus, he was asked to take Rosalie Gordon, an actress, aloft, and to let her make a parachute jump. He permitted her to do so. At 1500 feet above Ellington field, with Freddie Lund now a famous test pilot, in the front cockpit, he signalled Miss Jordan to jump. She went over the side, her harness hitched to a parachute which was inside a case. The case was tied to the under-carriage. A string holding the case-mouth was supposed to snap and permit the chute to slip out. It did not snap.

The girl hung twenty feet below the plane, swinging backward and forward in the wash of air. Lund immediately climbed out of the cockpit, dropped to the under-carriage, and tried to pull Miss Gordon back. Being of slight stature, he was unable to do so. Those on the ground realized that the girl was in trouble. A second ship took off, with Milton Girtan and Lowell Yerex in it. With the girl hanging beneath his plane, Pangborn jockeyed his ship close enough to that piloted by Yerex so that Girtan could change planes. Girtan swung from wing to Pangborn braced his cheek against the landing gear wires and held the few inches they had gained while Girtan got a fresh grip. Inch by inch the girl was pulled up. She had fainted. Pangborn grabbed her under the arms and pulled her onto the under-carriage. Girtan held her there, and landed, holding her on the narrow axle, as Pangborn flew in.

Thus ended the greatest and most sensational event in the history of commercial aviation. During the last six years, at least a score of fiction stories and articles have been written about the episode, which is just one of the events which have crowded Pangborn's life.

UNDERSEA SHOTS IN PICTURE AIDED BY NAVY DIVERS

Despite the fact that it is a motion picture, there is nothing "movieish" about the diving scenes in John Ford's newest Fox Movietone production, "Men Without Women," a thrilling story of the submarine service which comes to the Yucca Theatre tomorrow.

The sequence in which the rescue vessels assemble above the doomed undersea craft and send divers down to clear the fouled torpedo tubes that the survivors may escape, was filmed exactly as it appears on the screen, and beneath the Pacific Ocean.

Two of the navy's crack "deep sea" experts, Chief Torpedomen J. H. Vonder Wall and Arthur Geising were obtained.

Kenneth MacKenna heads the cast. Frank Albertson, Farrell Macdonald, Walter McGrail and Paul Page also have prominent parts in this picture with an all male cast.

PRICE RECORD SET IN SALE OF BULL SERVING IN RANCH HERD

What is believed to be the highest price ever paid for a registered Hereford bull, from Midland, that has been in service with a full blood but unregistered herd was received by Elliott F. Cowden this week from D. L. McDonald of Hereford for a 4-year old bull to be used in McDonald's well known registered herd. The consideration was $2,400.

Henry Pegues, about ten years ago, sold a registered bull, Beau Blanchard, to a Nebraska breeder for $7,000, the bull being resold later for $16,000, but he had been in service in a registered herd.

Has Fine Breeding The bull is The Prince Domino 2nd, No. 1479245, sired by The Prince Domino No. 1473770, the bull that Dr. Chas. H. Harris of Fort Worth paid $10,000.00 for last year, and is out of Blanch Mischief 2nd, by Beau Mischief. He is what pedigree authorities pronounce a straight bred Anxiety 4th. (Air) bred bull and possesses an abundance of quality, a diamond in the rough just discovered.

He was bought from Mousel Bros. of Cambridge, Nebraska, by Cowden in December 1926, when just one year old, and has been used for three years in Cowden's herd on his ranch near Odessa.

McDonald maintains one of the very choicest herds of registered cattle in the Hereford country, proof of which is in the fact that he has a selling average of something over $700 per head for the bulls he has raised, and it was McDonald who consigned the heifer Donna Anna 66th to the sale last fall, at Hereford, that sold for $5,200. She is sired by the same bull as the bull he is buying from Cowden, and it will be remembered that the heifer that was Grand Champion at Fort Worth last month was out of a Dam of very similar breeding, and to be able to own and sell a bull that is good enough to go at the head of a herd such as is owned by McDonald is an accomplishment of more than ordinary importance.

Bulls Here Outstanding Cowden says that there is no other place where range cattle are raised that as many and as good bulls are used on herds that are not registered as are used in the herds in the Midland county. Just a few years ago the Grand Champion car load of bulls at the Denver car load at Fort Worth this year were brought to Midland by Foy Proctor and numerous other purchases of chiefly bred bunches of bulls are coming in each year and always at the sales of individuals Midland is represented in the purchases of the best of breed offers. Evidence of their use in the herds is plainly noticeable as the quality of the cattle raised here is always in demand by feeders who are looking for choice quality cattle.

Not so many years ago, Cowden said he helped drive several herds of steers from this country to the Hereford and Amarillo country but "His Royal Highness" the Prince Domino 2nd, will make the trip in a well bedded truck, as McDonald is sending a private car and a skilled driver over after him. "Some change" in the method of transportation as well as in the quality of the cattle.

Captain Hawks--

the dark in order to maintain his schedule and arrive in New York Sunday. The wind above Mayse field in Tucson was described as "atrocious."

Gliding Innovation In his flight Capt. Hawks rides at an elevation 100 feet above the towing plane, piloted by J. D. Jer-nigan. This elevation is maintained to keep out of the slipstream and other air currents created by the plane ahead.

His "Eaglet" closely resembles a plane except for motor, having a wing spread of 50 feet and a length of 21 feet. It is the first cabin glider that has ever been made. In addition, it has the first instrument board, with altimeter, speed indicator, clock, barometer, and other standard flying devices. It is painted bright red with distinctive white marks. For landing purposes it has a wooden skid underneath in the center of which is a single wheel. Balanced on this wheel, the "Eaglet" takes off behind the tow plane without difficulty.

To Drop Tow Capt. Hawks is to drop his tow line when in sight of Sloan field and then glide to earth. Hovering over Tucson airport he remained in the air 55 minutes before landing. Gliders, when air currents are "right," are able to stay above for considerable lengths of time. The American record is slightly over nine hours. The Germans have established a 13-hour record.

Buzzard Follows Him Balance, depending on updrafts and various direct winds, are closely followed by the glider pilots. Capt. Hawks said that a buzzard, hovering over Phoenix airport, followed his turns and banks identically, utilizing the same air currents in the same way.

Capt. Hawks will go from here to Sweetwater, then to Wichita Falls, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, East St. Louis, Columbus, Buffalo and thence to New York city.

ENROLLMENT OF SCHOOLS IS 100 OVER LAST YEAR

Total enrollment in the city schools is practically 100 more than the highest number enrolled last year, it was revealed in a count this morning. There are in the public schools 1,430, and in the Catholic school, 95, making a total of 1,525 pupils enrolled. The total last year reached 1,426.

The scholastic census for next year is being taken through the office of the superintendent of the independent school district, and already 1,684 have been enumerated for next session. This will be practically 250 more than was enrolled last year, and is a basis for determining a substantial increase in population figures for the city.

MONEY VOTED FOR FARM EXPANSION BY MIDLAND C. C.

Appropriation of $750 for agricultural work was made Monday night by the Midland chamber of commerce.

This includes $500 for club work of the county farm agent, Frank Wendt and home demonstration agent, Genavieve Derryberry, and $250 for a farm advertising car, or other farm promotional work. The club prize money will go to rancher and farmer boys who feed out calves and for prizes on other farm products. A sum of $250 is included in the $500 for putting on a county fair. This fair will feature farm products, possibly poultry, and beef cattle feeding prizes.

The agricultural program is to promote the cattle industry through feeding tests and to increase interest in better farming. The home demonstration agent will use her share of the $500 for club work among rural women. It is likely that most of the $250 appropriated above the $500 asked by the county fairfair. This fair will feature farm products, possibly poultry, and beef cattle feeding prizes. Action of the board was taken on recommendation of the agricultural committee called together last night by Ira F. Lord, chairman. Agricultural committeemen who met were B. N. Aycock, J. E. Hill, W. I. Pratt, C. A. McClintic and Frank Elkin.

Magazine Writes On Midland Rodent War

The determination of Midland county commissioners to rid the area of prairie dogs, even to the work entailed in execution of the order by the sheriff's department, is the substance of a Midland story carried in the April edition of the Southern Agriculturist.

The order was issued by the court when it found negligent execution of its demands that the state law on killing the rodents be conformed to.

HUSTON NAMED IN PROBE OF LOBBY COMMITTEE TODAY

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP)—The ten year old problems of what to do with the government's $10,000,000 nitrogen power plant, constructed during the war at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, confronted the senate again today.

The name of Claudius Huston, chairman of the republican national committee, again was brought before the lobby committee after Chester Gray, representative of the American Farm Bureau federation, was questioned about a letter in which he said Huston was "O. K. and doing all he dares to do in his position."

ATLANTIC GIVES CONFIRMATION TO PIPELINE REPORT

Confirmation of the proposed construction of a pipe line from the Midland tank farm to the Hobbs, N. M., area via the Andrews production field, was given this morning by several officials of the Atlantic Oil Co. here.

The line was surveyed about 90 days ago, but is being re-surveyed. The new survey will be completed in three or four days, engineers say. The line will be an 8-inch welded duct, with a gathering system on the other end. The length will be approximately 70 miles. A tank farm will be started in the Hobbs area, several tanks having been contracted for and scheduled to start immediately.

LITTLE HOPE FOR BOAT VICTIMS IS HELD TODAY

HOUSTON, April 1. (AP)—A hundred rescuers, who for hours have dragged the San Jacinto river for three men who are believed to have been drowned in a sinking motorboat, met with no success today.

Joe Scott, 35, Albert Miller, 26, and a negro are missing. Three other members of the party, en route on a fishing trip, swam to the shore when the motorboat sprang a leak and sank before it could be steered ashore.

Two Players Needed By Little Theatre

Two male characters are needed for the next production of the little theatre. These should be slender and able to wear clothes faultlessly and adapt their mode of speaking to that of an English lord and of a fop. Full announcement of the next presentation, a full three-act comedy-drama which has been played by leading companies on the legitimate state, will be made this week or Sunday.

The new play was selected from suggestions made by Cameron King, director of the Fort Worth little theatre; and the nationally known director of the Dallas group, Mrs. George Abell, director of the Midland stage group, went to those two cities to select the play.

The new play is written by Guy Bolton, co-author of The Love Parade, now showing at the Ritz theatre, and George Middleton.

Midland Horses To Big New York Arena

Johnnie Mullins and Ray Ball, members of the Madison Square Garden Rodeo association of New York City, have purchased from Scharbauer Cattle company 28 paint horses which they declare are the best ponies they have seen in years.

Mullins said they rank with the best ever shipped out of Texas. They will be used in the rodeo that is held in the Garden in October. They are in splendid condition and will be entered in the prize classes for roping, riding and all of the other events that go with rodeo performances. They were purchased expressly for the Garden show, which runs for ten days.

Mullins and Ray traveled through three states and were unable to find any ponies that compared with the Scharbauer breed, they said.
