Farm Board Speaker Asks for Patience of the Public

PROGRESS REPORTED BY BOARD

Williams Is Speaker Today At W T C C Convention

ABILENE, March 30. (P)—Carl Williams, cotton member of the farm board, today asked the public to be patient while the federal body attempted to work out the problems it was created to solve, in his address to the West Texas chamber of commerce convention here.

"If things we are doing now don't react to the benefit of the farmers, we will change them," he promised.

"I want to assure you that the board is not actuated by politics or anything other than the welfare of agriculture. We are making progress toward the goal of giving the producer at least equality in bargaining power with the purchaser."

Address by Carl Williams, cotton member of the federal farm board, high school band contests, breakfast for legislators, and luncheon of press representatives of West Texas comprised the principal sessions of the West Texas chamber of commerce convention at Abilene on the second morning. Saturday is the final day of the meeting.

Midland's high school band of 30 pieces was to compete in the class D contests today, all classes of A, B, C and D being scheduled to be held at the high school auditorium beginning at 9 o'clock. The contest was expected to last for several hours on account of the number of bands represented.

Below are listed bands entered in the various divisions, with the division in which they are competing. (See CONVENTION page 6)

IN RE MEMORIUM

Amanda
Feb. 14, 1870—May 27, 1909
A score and one year ago today
The reaper of death on his mission for prey
Sought thee from among the angels on earth
And carried thee on to thy heavenly berth.
Leaving me naught but sorrow and woe,
Yearning and praying the same path to go;
And fate alone decrees I await
Your smiling face at the golden gate.
—C. F. J.

I have built a wall around my heart, a convent wall of grey,
That I might lead my life apart, and pursue my lonely way.
All my days are as one day, each like unto the last,
For time itself has gone astray, back somewhere in the past.

One day a strolling minstrel came and touched his quivering string
Out underneath my window frame where all the wild bird sing,
And with his lingering touch awoke the captive heart of me;
For from the haunting past he spoke: "My name is memory."

Haag's Old Press To Find Service In Andrews Print Shop

An old printing press used by B. Frank Haag in 1913 is to figure in a return of the printing industry to Andrews, according to announcement made in a recent issue of the Andrews County Journal.

At present, the newspaper is printed at Barstow, where the old press is crated away in storage. But Andrews feels that the town has grown in such proportion that it should have the chance to boast of its own newspaper plant, so Editor B. W. Barnes will have the press hauled overland and installed. Haag, Midland attorney, ran the first newspaper in Andrews.

BODENHAMER BEGS CONSIDERATION IN MEMORIAL ADDRESS

BROWNWOOD, Tex., May 30.—In the name of the dead who have found their eternal rest, and in the name of the living heroes to some of whom he declared even death would be a relief, O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion in the Memorial day address here today pleaded for the same consideration, in the pending legislation for the disabled veterans, as the American people today are giving to those who have passed to their reward.

"In all reverence to those who have paid the supreme sacrifice in the service of their flag, and on this day of hallowed memories, I say, in all sincerity, that if I had the choice of having died for my country on the battlefield, or of lying day by day, and night by night, suffering the continuous tortures of death, I would rather be with those to whom we pay tribute today," he said.

"Then cannot we, as grateful American citizens, and cannot the senate of the United States, representing the citizens, and where there is now pending legislation for the relief of our living disabled patriots, give the same consideration and attention to them, as we do to those who have found an everlasting surcease?"

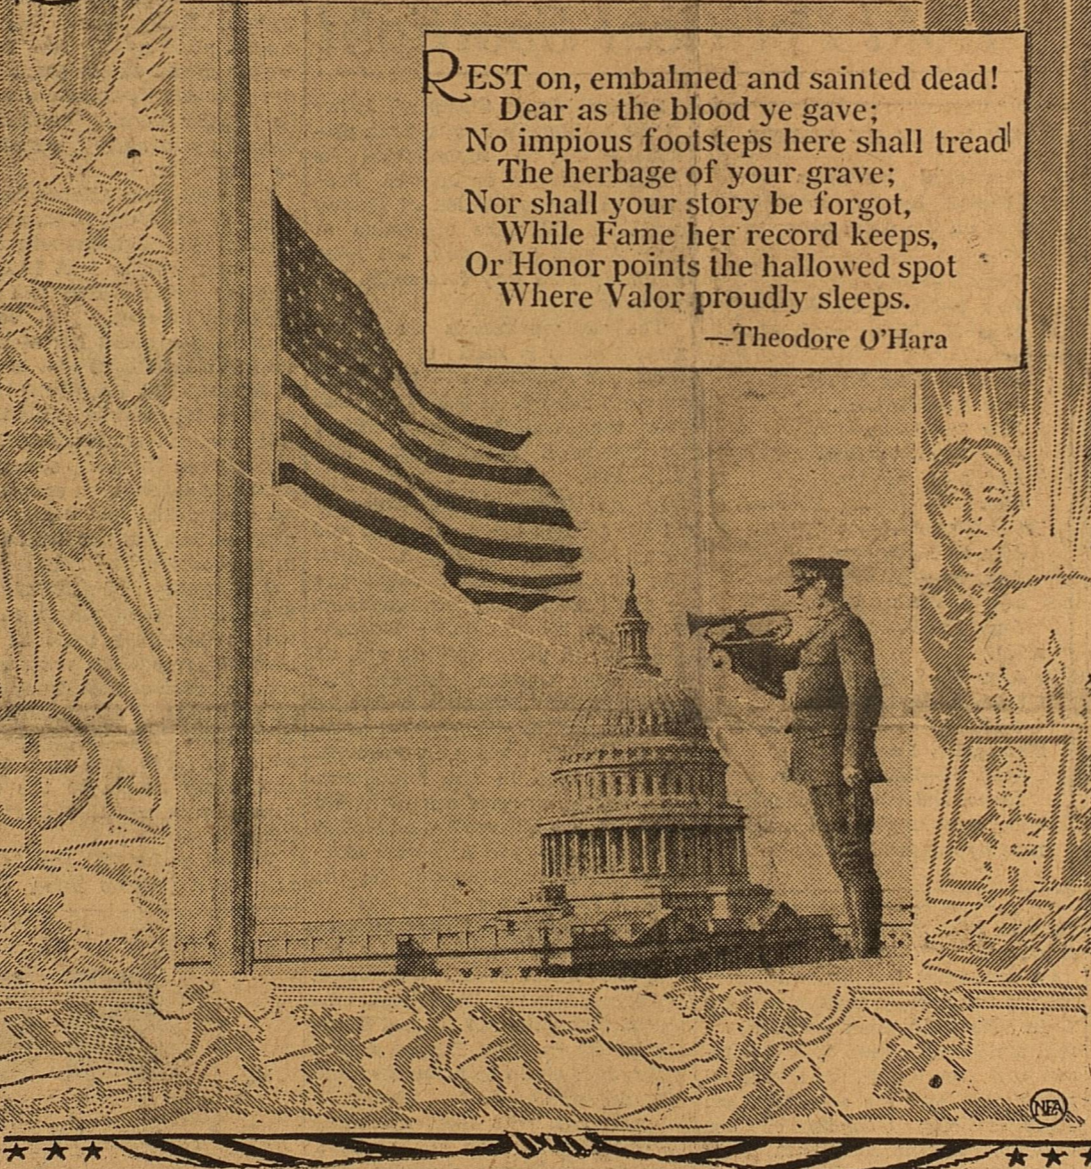

Speaks of Legion
"The American Legion, composed of 800,000 of the same men who fought for America twelve years ago and in whom the American people had confidence at the time, seeks to render a conservative, unselfish and constructive service in behalf of our disabled comrades. We seek to render a loyal and unselfish service, at the same time, to our country, for which we fought."

"We have believed in the justice of every piece of legislation which we have supported. We have advocated earnestly, but unselfishly, the program of the Legion. In this spirit, we have supported certain pieces of legislation having to do with our disabled and with the conduct of our government."

"At the Louisville convention of the Legion, we adopted certain resolutions with reference to our disabled men's legislation. These recommendations were embodied in a bill and presented to congress for its consideration. This bill together with other bills dealing with this type of legislation, was sent to the veterans' committee of the house. In due course of time, and as a result of conferences between representatives of the U. S. veteran's bureau, the veterans' committee of the house, the American Legion, and other interested groups, a bill, known as the Johnson bill, was reported favorably to the House of Representatives."

SOLDIER, SLEEP!

REST on, embalmed and sainted dead!
Dear as the blood ye gave;
No impious footsteps here shall tread!
The herbage of your grave;
Nor shall your story be forgot,
While Fame her record keeps,
Or Honor points the hallowed spot
Where Valor proudly sleeps.
—Theodore O'Hara

OHIO CONVICT IS SHOT TODAY IN ATTEMPTED BREAK

LONDON, Ohio, May 30. (P)—Sam Mazello, Trumbull county convict, was shot to death today when prison guards at a prison farm fired on 47 convicts who attempted to batter their way from a cell block. Convicts attempted a break and when they refused to obey instructions of guards to quiet down they were fired on. Unruly prisoners were among a delegation brought from the Ohio State penitentiary after a fire a month ago which took 320 lives. The guards fired on the orders of Superintendent W. F. Amrine.

SECOND OPERATION

Mrs. M. M. Seymour of Midland underwent a second operation in a Dallas hospital this morning, and was reported to have withstood the operation nicely.

100-HOUR ENDURANCE DRIVE TO END AT 5:00 SATURDAY

The 100-hour motor run of an automobile being driven by Lieut. E. Williams will draw to a conclusion Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The driver will sleep in the window of the Home Furniture company. Tired and sore by hours in the same posture and a threat of blood poisoning occasioned by the bite of insects, exhausted by the piling up of hours devoid of sleep, Lieut. Williams says he "will sleep twelve hours" when he completes his run. Harold M. Moss, radio operator in charge of the U. S. government

Seventeen Due to Be Here for Landing This Afternoon

No report of 17 observation aircraft bound to Midland from Fort Sill, Okla., had been received early this afternoon at Sloan field.

The planes were due to arrive by 2 o'clock it was believed. They are O-2's, flown by cadets from Kelly field.

The Flying Service, Inc., took off for Hobbs at 9:30, carrying engine parts.

Western Air Express 1 left the field at 9:15, late. One passenger was aboard the trimotor.

Southern Air Transport landed at 11:30, the cabin full. One passenger had to be turned down here.

A Travel Air landed just before press time. The name of pilot and passengers could not be ascertained at the moment. The plane was out of the west.

There was a possibility the planes would not arrive in Midland until Saturday, Field-Manager Becherer told The Reporter-Telegram, just before press hour this afternoon.

MEMORIAL SERVICE TO BE HELD HERE; LEGION IN CHARGE

Memorial services in Midland will be held Sunday, members of the American Legion said today. The hour and place will be announced in Sunday's newspaper.

Announcement of the order of service has not been made.

All service and ex-service men have been asked to watch for the announcements, so that they may attend the service, if possible, in a body.

MRS. WIMBERLY ILL

Mrs. G. E. Wimberly, formerly of Midland, is critically ill at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. P. Hogue of Commerce, Texas. It was learned here today by friends of Mrs. Wimberly. Doctors pronounced her condition serious.

First Gold Star Mother Proud Of Son As Anniversary Memorial Day Is Celebrated Again

GLIDDEN, Iowa, May 30.—With a smile on her lips and an ache in her heart, a gray-haired woman, who was one of the first two of the nation's Gold Star mothers 12 years ago, looks back on war this Memorial Day with the mingled emotions that only a mother can understand.

The smile is one of pride, for her boy died a hero—honored by a nation and hallowed by history as one of the first three American soldiers killed in action in the World War. The ache in her heart is the price that motherhood pays for a martyred son.

But Mrs. Carrie L. Hay—mother of Private Merle D. Hay, 21, of Company F, 16th Infantry, slain Nov. 3, 1917, in the German's first raid on American trenches—is of the Spartan sort.

"Nothing," she says, "could ever make me feel sorry for Merle, because I am proud. He gave his life for his country. I have another son and if war should come again tomorrow I would proudly let him go."

Her voice was calm, but her eyes were moist.

Private Hay's death is written in history, and with his own blood. So are the deaths of Corporal James B. Gresham, of Evansville, Ind., and Private Thomas F. Enright, of Pittsburgh, Pa., who fell beside him near Bathelemont, France, in the foggy dawn of that November morning.

The first Yanks had moved up to the front line only a few days before. There was a barrage and then the Germans came over. There was fierce hand-to-hand fighting in the American trenches, but the line held. When the invaders withdrew, Hay, Enright and Gresham were dead.

It is impossible to tell which of the three was the first to die, but Private Hay had been shot under the right eye and apparently killed instantly. Enright and Gresham had been stabbed with bayonets.

Young Hay was buried in France, Enright and Gresham beside him. Over their grave the French government erected a monument; a German air raid was in progress at Nancy, less than 10 miles away, on the day and at the moment it was dedicated.

Translated into English, the inscription carved on the shaft by the French read:

Here in the soil of Lorraine rest the first American soldiers killed facing the foe, on Nov. 3, 1917: Corporal J. B. Gresham (of Evansville)—Private Thomas Enright (of See FIRST MOTHER page 6)

Coach is a Cinch Better; It Ought to Be Easy

Coach L. K. Barry builds sportsmanship among members of his athletic teams.

But he is not sporting with his wife, they say.

Here it is—the whole hypothesis upon which the statement is built: The coach has quit smoking—or hopes he has. Mrs. Barry hopes so, too, and has made him an offer. If Barry quits smoking permanently, he will be given a registration fee of $300 for summer football coaching school; if he doesn't quit permanently, he still gets a dollar a day for the days he does observe abstinence.

Where does Mrs. Barry come in? If the coach is seen with a cigarette between his lips and Mrs. Barry wears a new fur coat next year, it may be taken that the coach has thought the matter over and has become a convert to this suggestion.

RANGES, CROPS; GIVEN IMPETUS BY GOOD RAINS

With a total of .80 of an inch in the city of Midland, and from three-quarters to an inch and a half over the country, the three day and night rain that has fallen slowly in this territory seemed uncertain as to its continuation of termination early this afternoon.

Young crops, set back by devastating winds and sandstorms last week, have been materially benefited by the slow precipitation, as have pastures in the cattle territory.

In some sections, the slow rainfall was followed up by harder showers late yesterday. Cattle, already in good condition at the end of a moderate winter, are expected to put on flesh rapidly from the impetus given grass and weeds by the recent rains.

LATE FLASHES

(P)—The Graf Zeppelin will reach its American home port, Lakehurst, New Jersey, sometime tomorrow morning on a direct journey from Porto Rico over which the ship was last reported. Dr. Hugo Eckener in a radio message, today made it known he would not go to Havana, Cuba. Shortage of fuel due to shortening the Graf's load at Pernambuco where the dirigible was water-soaked, was believed the cause of the changed plans. The Graf was a thousand miles from Lakehurst at dawn.

WASHINGTON, May 30. (P)—Confident of final approval of the tariff bill in two weeks, republican congressional leaders tentatively set June 20 for congressional adjournment. A special session for consideration of the London naval limitations treaty will follow immediately. It is believed this can be disposed of by July 4.

WASHINGTON, May 30. (P)—President Hoover and a small party of friends left early today for Gettysburg national cemetery where the chief executive was scheduled for an address late today as a part of the nation-wide celebration of Decoration day.

FREDERICK, Okla., May 30. (UP)—H. J. Fahring, 25, Lebo, Kansas, was killed and Lloyd E. Hunt, 23, Cincinnati, escaped uninjured today when an army observation plane in which they were taking cross country training, crashed near here. Both were students of the army training school, Kelly field, San Antonio, Texas.

DALLAS, May 30. (P)—Bonds of $65,000, signed at Sherman for 13 men held in jail here in connection with rioting there May 9, will be presented tomorrow. The cases were sent here on a change of venue.

CANDIDACY IN DOUBT, AS RESULT

Governor Says Had Meant Announcement On This Sunday

AUSTIN, May 30. (P)—Although declaring he "would not like" to run against his "staunch political friend," R. S. Sterling of Houston, Governor Moody in a telegram from Teague, where he had a speaking engagement today, left his attitude toward candidacy for a third term in doubt.

"It had been my intention to announce for governor in Sunday's papers and to file with the executive committee Monday for a place on the ticket. I had a number of speaking engagements in Texas. This caused me to feel that I should not announce until I filled the last of these engagements at Lancaster tonight. Mr. Sterling has been a staunch political friend of mine and I would not like to run against him. My concern is to see continuation of the present well-ordered, efficient, and honest administration of state government."

He reiterated his opposition to former Governor James Ferguson and former United States Senator Earl Mayfield. Announcement of Sterling, chairman of the state highway commission came as a surprise to followers of Texas politics here yesterday.

PLANE OFF ON REFUELING TRIP OF 6,000 MILES

HARTFORD, Conn., May 30. (UP)—After one false start a big single motored monoplane took off for Buenos Aires today on its 6,000-mile nonstop refueling flight. The gold and white Stinson cabin plane carried Captain Herbert C. Patridge, Lieutenant—Commander George Pond and Lieutenant Carl Peed. A companion refueling plane will accompany the Stinson, which planned to refuel at Havana, Cristobal, Lima and Mendoza.

The monoplane took off earlier in the morning but was forced to return here after the first refueling contact failed.

MEMORIAL DAY, 1930

Men are marching on many streets today. Old men whose battle songs make faint music now, and young men whose lips still whistle the tunes that brought courage when they followed the flame of a scarlet banner in an alien land, are keeping step again.

The spirit of crusade has come back for a little while and age and youth seek the accolade that comes to those who go forth to right a wrong.

Across the Argonne, Chateau Thierry, Soissons, down Flanders way men march again, mud-caked, bruised, bleeding, going to death perhaps—but going unafraid. Khaki lines swing by to keep a tryst with yesterday.

And as they march thin lines of older men, in faded blue or gray, catch the same refrain and follow tattered flags across the field to Gettysburg, Vicksburg and other famous, half-forgotten fields.

There will be a hush in the waiting crowd and the drums will be muffled sometimes while a bugle sings a requiem for those who do not march today.

Through the ages there has been a thrill to marching men. Ever since the first knights went forth, steel clad, to seek the Grail, high exultation has gone with those who fought a good fight.

Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friend," we have been told. However, if a way is found which will permit men to live that life for others there will be greater rejoicing as the parades go by.

NOT MARTYRS; JUST SILLY

Three Communists, arrested at Martin's Ferry, O., last summer, were held up to their red contemporaries all over the nation as "martyrs" after a judge sentenced them to five years in prison and fined them $5000 apiece.

Their sentences helped other Communist agitators very materially. They gave them something to talk about; enabled them to declare that the Communists in this country are being "persecuted."

Now, however, these Communist props have been knocked out. The Ohio court of appeals has reversed the convictions of the Martin's Ferry trio.

This action will do more to slow up the Communists' work than the stiffest prison sentences that could have been pronounced.

Senatorial Primaries in Many States Hold Political Spotlight

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer. (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The biennial primary season is under way, congressional elections loom ahead in November and it's a great year for all politically-minded citizens who get excited about issues and personalities.

The voters are going to have a chance to give the Hoover administration a vote of confidence or disapproval. Democratic leaders are hopeful that they can overturn the Republican majority, not only in the Senate but also in the House of Representatives; they contend that the country is dissatisfied.

Meanwhile, the nominating primaries are full of political thrills. A few of them have been held, eliminating prominent figures from public office, but the majority remain to be run off between now and fall.

In these primaries the greatest interest centers on the fond hopes of the wets to replace dry members and on the political fate of such statesmen as Dwight Morrow, Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska and Senator Furnifold Simmons of North Carolina.

The most exciting primaries to date have been those of Illinois and Pennsylvania. In the first, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick was nominated by the Republicans to oppose J. Hamilton Lewis, Democrat, in November. Theirs will be one of the best of the wet-dry fights and will also decide the first, serious attempt by a woman to enter the United States Senate.

The recent Pennsylvania primaries nominated and assured the election of Secretary of Labor Davis to the Senate and of Gifford Pinchot to the governorship. They also drove Senator Joe Grundy back into the lobby, proved that Andrew W. Mellon has no political influence in Pennsylvania and left crippled Boss Vane of Philadelphia the undisputed boss in the state.

Next comes North Carolina on June 7. The question is whether Senator Simmons, longer in the Senate than any other man and 70 years old, must pay the price of political retirement for his temporary desertion of the Democratic party when it nominated Al Smith for president in 1928.

The wet issue and the future of brilliant Dwight Morrow are before the voters of New Jersey on June 17. Morrow, former Senator Joseph T. Frelinghuysen and Congressman Franklin Fort are after the Republican senatorial nomination. Morrow and Frelinghuysen are wet. Fort is dry and there seems to be a good chance that he will walk away with the nomination while Morrow and Frelinghuysen split the wet vote.

The stake in the fight is a regular six-year term, but Morrow is also a candidate for a short term expiring in March next year and his Democratic opponent will be Miss Thelma Parkinson, organization candidate, whose campaign will be managed by Representative Mary Norton. If Miss Parkinson should be elected she would beat Mrs. Mc-

THE DATES BY STATES

- June 2—Iowa.
June 7—North Carolina.
June 14—Maine and Minnesota.
June 17—New Jersey.
July 5—Montana.
July 12—Alabama.
July 29—Oklahoma.
Aug. 2—Kentucky.
Aug. 5—Kansas, Virginia, West Virginia.
Aug. 7—Tennessee.
Aug. 12—Alabama, Arkansas, Nebraska, Ohio.
Aug. 19—Mississippi, Wyoming.
Aug. 26—South Carolina.
Sept. 2—Michigan.
Sept. 9—Colorado, New Hampshire, Louisiana.
Sept. 16—Massachusetts, Idaho, Delaware, Rhode Island, New Mexico will nominate by conventions.

Cornick into the Senate by several months.

Of somewhat less general interest are the Iowa primaries on June 2, in which Governor John Ham-mill and Congressman L. J. Dickinson seek the G. O. P. senatorial nomination and are accusing each other of being disciples of Joe Grundy, and the Minnesota senatorial primary on June 16 in which Governor Theodore Christianson is trying to grab the toga from blind Senator Schall.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh will be renominated by Montana Democrats on July 15 unless National Committeeman J. Bruce Kremer, a wet, decides to oppose him—and perhaps in any event. The Republican primary in Montana is a fight between Supreme Court Justice Albert Galen, wet, and O. H. P. Shelley, dry. The chances are that Walsh, dry, and Galen, wet, will fight it out in the fall.

Senator Morris Sheppard, father of the Eighteenth Amendment, presumably will be renominated by Texas Democrats on July 26. Senators Capper and Allen of Kansas doubtless will have opposition in their August 5 primary, but none which appears very formidable has yet arisen.

The other primaries are so far away that it is hard to forecast what the situation will be when they are run off. At this time, however, the greatest interest centers on Nebraska, Massachusetts and Wisconsin.

Senator George W. Norris deserted the Hoover ticket in 1928 and campaigned for Al Smith. Norris has been one of the Senate's two or three most conspicuous members as well as its outstanding independent foe of public utilities and all reactionary elements. Regular Republicans, the Anti-Saloon League and the utilities will try hard to remove him as a thorn in President Hoover's flesh in the Republican senatorial primary of August 12, but it is not yet apparent whether his main opponent will be former Governor Sam McKelvie, now on the Federal Farm Board, or another.

In Massachusetts former National Chairman William M. Butler, dry and close friend of Calvin Coolidge, is opposed for the Republican senatorial nomination to succeed Senator Gillett by Eben Draper, a wet. Butler is likely to be nominated and then defeated by the wet Democratic candidate, who may, according to last reports, turn out to be a man named Marcus Coolidge. The Massachusetts primary, on Sept. 16, will be the last of the senatorial nominating contests.

On Sept. 2, however, Wisconsin Republicans will decide whether they want a Governor La Follette and a Senator La Follette at the same time. "Young Bob" La Follette is in the Senate and is not up for re-election this year, but his brother Phil is campaigning for the nomination for governor against Governor Walter J. Kohler. Whether the magic of the La Follette name is sufficient in the Badger State to bring about such a unique situation as the election of Phil in addition to Bob will be a question of national interest.

Congress Delays Building Prisons, but Convicts Are Housed Temporarily in Vacant U. S. Army Cantonments

WASHINGTON, May 30.—While Congress takes its time about authorizing a couple of new federal prisons the Hoover administration is taking no chances on a disaster similar to the holocaust at the Ohio state prison in Columbus.

The existing federal prisons are crowded to about twice their capacity, by official admission. Recent policy has been to get the boys out of the cells and behind barbed wire or in some other safe place. Army camps are being used to handle as many as possible and the Department of Justice is trying to extend its policy of arrangements with local jails for the incarceration of short-term federal convicts.

Prisons Now Hold 13,000

Present population of the three federal prisons at Leavenworth, Atlanta and McNeile Island is about 13,000. Approximately an equal number of federal prisoners are awaiting trial or serving short sentences in more than a thousand different county or local institutions throughout the country.

The first batch of men to be sent from penitentiaries to army camps numbers about 1000. More will follow as facilities for handling the prisoners are extended and further arrangements are made between the Justice and War Departments.

Early reports are that everyone is happy about the experiment. Sanford Bates, superintendent of federal prisons, who is credited with the idea, is relieved at the prospect of temporarily relieving congestion. The War Department doesn't mind getting free labor for improvements on its property. And the prisoners themselves are said to be happier working outdoors than cooped up in narrow, crowded cells as they were.

Prisoners from Atlanta have been sent to Fort Bragg, N. C., and Camp Meade, Md. Leavenworth inmates are being sent to Fort Riley, Kan. Another prison camp will be established at Camp Lee, Va., with facilities for about 600 men. Some 200 there have been sent to a camp at Alderson, W. Va., where they can work on improvements for the federal women's reformatory. Further extension of the camp system is expected. Whether such camps will be operated during the winter will depend on what winter conditions are in the vicinity.

The policy of Superintendent Bates is to send picked men into the camps. They must be strong, adapted for outdoor work and reasonably trustworthy. They will be well guarded, of course, but the idea is to make them regard camp work as a privilege and to establish compulsory return to the cells as a penalty in case they don't behave themselves.

In return for the free labor the army will provide living quarters, medical treatment and hospitalization. The prisoners will be entirely separated from the military units. Although they may occupy barracks alongside those used by troops, these barracks will be surrounded by barbed wire and strict prison discipline and supervision will be maintained.

Federal prison officials are now studying the new law authorizing them to contract with local authorities where suitable accommodations for federal prisoners are available. Existing government property will be adapted for jail purposes wherever that is feasible, but the government will continue to use local institutions when reasonable rates can be obtained.

Constantly increasing congestion of federal prisoners is noted along the Canadian and Mexican borders and in some places in those areas temporary federal workhouses or jails may have to be erected.

"ACH! DAS IST SCHRECKLICH!" SAYS GOLFER MAX SCHMELING

GERMAN TAKES HIS BOXING GAME SERIOUSLY

EDITOR'S NOTE: The third article of Laufer's series on Max Schmeling, who fights for the heavyweight championship June 12, deals with the German's golf game, written after Laufer played a round with Max. Max's ambition is to "break" 100 before he leaves the training camp to fight Sharkey.

By WERNER LAUFER
NEA Service Sports Writer

ENDICOTT, N. Y., May 30.—Golf for Max Schmeling in the Schwartzwald of Germany is no different from golf for Max Schmeling on the Community course at Endicott.

A dubbed mashie shot at Baden Baden will bring forth the same guttural grunt of chagrin that accompanies such a performance on any American course, from Kennebunkport to Frisco.

"Ach! Das ist Schrecklich!" (Ouch! This is terrible!) fumed Max Schmeling. He had just lifted his head a bit too soon and the powerful swing that should have sent the ball on an 180-yard ride, resulted in a dribble of 20 feet. If he would cuss in English, you'd never know Schmeling from Homer K. Hanganail, playing the first nine at Spring Valley.

Max is still much of a dub on the links. His best score to date has been a 104 for the 18, on the easy and uninteresting layout at the shoe city. But he has cut his score down 13 strokes during the short time he has been in training and is determined to break 100 before he leaves to fight Jack Sharkey.

SICK IF SHE ATE CERTAIN THINGS

Carolina Lady Tells How She Was Helped By Theford's Black-Draught.

Winston-Salem, N. C.—"I grew up knowing about Black-Draught—it has been our standard standby all my life," says Mrs. P. H. Dunnagan, 238 Cleveland Avenue, this city. "My father and mother use Black-Draught, and after I got married and began house-keeping, I kept on using it in my home. I don't think there is anything like it.

"Whenever I am troubled with constipation, or bilious indigestion, I immediately begin to take Black-Draught, and soon am feeling like myself again. Sometimes I have spells of indigestion when I have heaviness in my chest and shortness of breath. Whenever I would eat meat, and some other things, I would almost smother. I found that taking Black-Draught relieved this entirely, and I am not bothered with indigestion any more.

"This summer, when I went on my vacation, I took Black-Draught with me. I recommend it to others, because I have found it to be so good, for in a day or two after I have taken Black-Draught, I feel splendid."

The Funeral Of "Mexico's Lindy"

The most largely attended public funeral in Mexico City's history was that of Colonel Pablo L. Sidar, "Mexico's Lindbergh," and Carlos Reviresa, who died with him in an attempted non-stop flight to Buenos Aires, pictured above as the procession, the ashes of Sidar and Reviresa were brought back to Mexico City by airplane from Puerto Limon, Costa Rica, where the flyers crashed, and then transferred to Sidar's favorite plane, Ejercito Mexicano, which was draped in black and drawn through the streets to the palace by fellow aviators. A closeup of the funeral plane is shown at the right.

The writer, having lost his sixth and last ball in the rough, bordering the second fairway, decided to walk out the string and more closely watch the battle between the German-Dempsey and his trainer, Max Machon.

The German kid takes his golf seriously. He wants to cut his score down. He uses an iron from the tee, knowing that he has not as yet learned to conquer the slice, that results from using his wooden driver. He studies every lie carefully, but quite often when he has his shot figured out, he forgets one of the rudiments of the golf stroke and things go wrong.

He solemnly addresses a ball he has sent to the edge of the rough about 150 yards from the pin. He comes up nicely with his backswing, but on coming down, gouges a prodigious divot from the terrain. Maxie Schmeling is burning up. No man with less powerful wrists could lift out so large a piece of turf.

He quickly regains his self-control and grins. He knows he has to learn how to curb his temper on the fairway as well as in the ring. "Ach, it makes you mad," says he, "to know that after you try so hard and get everything right, you can't even hit that little thing!"

"But did you watch how I putted that ball up that round hill back there, right into the hole, ja. That made me feel quite good, not so?"

He was referring to a putt, sunk on a three-teraced green, the most interesting one on the course. The caddy here whispered the information that this terraced green is the joy of Maxie's heart. He has the knack of allowing for its slope and has been very successful on it. The caddy also confided that Maxie had broken two of his best steel-shafted iron clubs in playing balls from wagon ruts since he has been assaulting Kid Par at Endicott.

On the last green, after Schmeling had holed out for a copol 108, "one of the boys in the gallery remarked that it was quite a distance to the nineteenth at Max's farmhouse. Herr Schmeling overheard and indulged in a chuckle.

"That is what you get for voting for prohibition, ain't it?" said he.

Schmeling plays golf every day. When he boxes in the afternoon, Max is out on the first tee by 9 in the morning. He reads as much of the golf stuff on the sports pages as his limited knowledge of English type will permit. He religiously clips and files all illustrated golf instruction.

POTENT BREW

TACOMA, Wash., — "A bomb!" cried the occupants of a local apartment house when a blast shook the building early one recent morning. Police investigated and found a shattered electric range, a kitchen chair splintered and an oven door blown off. But a bomb didn't cause the explosion. It was home brew which the owner had put in the oven and turned on the heat to make it come "to" quickly. The heat exploded the bottles.

more stress on the business side of the convention. Pageants, band contests, and a number of highly entertaining features that have distracted from the business part of the convention in the past would be eliminated.

Lubbock citizens are firmly of the opinion that such procedure at the convention will be a constructive step on the part of the West Texas chamber of commerce. It is their opinion that a small group of well picked business men from each community in West Texas can accomplish much more by meeting and thoroughly discussing West Texas' problems than has been possible in former conventions.

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES

DIARY
Oh, Lee! I went over to the hospital today and they told me all about Mister X! He's suffering from a lapse of memory. Somebody hit him on the head, the night I was kidnaped. I feel so sorry, because he must have been trying to help me. My cute policeman told me that he (Mister X) has been coming to our old meeting place, in the park, every day, like he used to. That ought to prove something!

IF I COULD ONLY DO SOMETHING TO HELP HIM! I'VE HEARD THAT SOMETHING, SOMETHING, OUT OF THE PAST, WILL RESTORE ONE'S MEMORY!

Sure, He Knows Boots!

BUT... I JUST CAN'T TELL HIM ANY OF TH' THINGS HE USED T'SAY T'ME... OR, I TO HIM... HE'D THINK I WAS AWFUL!... THERE HE IS NOW... HELLO!

OHH, MISTER X... LOOK AT ME, SEE? IT'S BOOTS! DON'T YOU... CAN'T YOU REMEMBER?
WAY, OF COURSE, I DO, PERFECTLY! YOU ARE THE YOUNG LADY I HELPED RESCUE FROM THE KIDNAPERS!

WASH TUBBS

ON THE SEVENTH DAY OUT, THE THREE COMPANIONS RUN INTO A SCHOOL OF WHALES. ONE HUGE FELLOW GIVES THEM AN AWFUL SCARE. HE COMES UP TO BLOW ALMOST BENEATH THEM, THEN DIVES AGAIN, NEARLY OVERTURNING THE BOAT WITH A MIGHTY SPLASH OF HIS TAIL.

Having a Tough Time

TWO DAYS LATER THEY JOYFULLY COME UPON A LUMBERING CHINESE JUNK. BUT THEY ARE EVIDENTLY TAKEN FOR HEAD-HUNTERS, FOR AN ANCIENT BRASS CANNON IS FIRED AT THEM, AND THE JUNK WADDLES HURRIEDLY AWAY.

A WEEK PASSES. A WEEK OF WIND AND RAIN AND SUN. A WEEK OF MISERY AND DESPAIR. THEY HARDLY NOTICE THAT BIRDS HAVE APPEARED, GIVING PROMISE THAT LAND IS NEAR.

UPTON COUNTY IS OUTSTANDING IN ITS CENSUS GAIN

(Staff Correspondent)
 McCAMEY, May 30.—Upton county showed a gain of 5,713 in census figures released this week by P. C. Beard, supervisor of San Angelo. The 1930 total is 5,966. The 1920 total was only 253. This represents a gain of 2,253.1 per cent, which is an increase probably without a parallel among organized counties in the state.

In 1920 there was no city of McCamey. According to records only one citizen was present in the locality now embraced by the municipality.

The gain has been brought about through the development of oil not only in this county, but in all neighboring counties which include Pecos and Crane.

The increase in these two counties, which corner near McCamey, likewise has been notable. Pecos is one of the richest counties in the state and its population has passed through an amazing increase. In 1920 the population of that county was 3,857 and in 1930 it was 7,843.

Crane county's population in 1930 is announced at 2,194, according to the district supervisor.

Upton county's population of ten years back was mostly ranchmen and their families.

Of the 5,966 the gains have been at Rankin, McCamey and in oil field camps near McCamey. The ranch population has passed through practically no change. At least 5,000 of the Upton citizenship reside in McCamey and environs within a few miles of her business district.

Although it is not expected that the current ten years will bring about a percentage gain equal to the past ten-year period, yet it is generally conceded that the chances are bright for the population increase to be equal in numbers to what it was between the years 1920 and 1930. McCamey's goal now is "10,000 by 1940."

The development of the highway system; the fact that this is the railway and shipping center for oil fields of long life ahead and oil fields yet undiscovered; the presence of the Humble refinery, the largest institution of its kind in West Texas, and the service to this section of nearly a dozen big pipe lines that intersect here are among the factors that promise a future.

In addition interest is being manifested in the development of agriculture, and the added importance of McCamey as a geographical center for a territory unserved by other cities is a convincing reason why the goal is not too much to be expected.

CROMWELL AIRLINE INVITED TO BUILD CONNECTION HERE

Invitation has been made by the Midland chamber of commerce to the Cromwell airlines for the latter to extend its San Angelo to Big Spring line into Midland, where it would connect with the Midland to Hobbs line of the Texas Flying Service, Inc., which serves the oil territory of eastern New Mexico.

Advantage of a connection of this kind would allow for swift, safe transportation between San Angelo, Big Spring, Midland and Hobbs, with the eventuality of connection as far westward as Lovington and Roswell, it is pointed out.

The Cromwell lines have extended the San Angelo line to San Antonio, thus giving outlet of passenger traffic over a wide area.

Refers to Bills

"More than a month ago, on April 24, the House of Representatives passed a measure for the relief of the disabled, after adding amendments which greatly increased the expenditures requested in the original Johnson bill as reported by the veterans' committee and as supported by the American legion. This legislation is now pending in the senate.

"The legion has been, and still is, in favor of a conservative and constructive piece of legislation in keeping with the known needs of our disabled, and at the same time in accordance with the principles of economy. Likewise, the legion is in favor of a practical plan of procedure with reference to our disabled men's legislation. We believe in supporting legislation that can and will be enacted and approved, and thus become of benefit to the disabled. Proposed legislation, as attractive as it may be, is of no benefit to the suffering comrade, unless it becomes effective by presidential approval.

"Our disabled are in need of immediate relief. Because of this need, the legion supported the Johnson bill as it came originally from the veterans' committee of the house. It would have benefited some 84,000 disabled men. etoinetaoin'sL)ow would likely have met with the approval of the President. We were willing to go so far as to amend this bill in order to reduce the cost, if necessary to receive presidential approval.

"We want immediate relief for these veterans. What the disabled need is immediate and material assistance and not a lot of idealistic proposals which have no chance of maturing for years to come. The original Johnson bill is not perfect, but it would give needed assistance. Perfecting amendments could have been offered later without endangering the present approval of the basic provisions of the Johnson bill.

"The legion is a practical and unselfish organization, interested in our disabled and our country alike, and desirous of rendering service in keeping with a conservative and constructive program.

"It is our hope, therefore, that a splendid piece of legislation will be agreed upon as a result of senatorial consideration, and thus make it possible for our disabled to receive immediately the benefits of such legislation.

"The delay already has been too long. In the name of the dead whose memory is sacred to us, and in the name of the living heroes to some of whom even death would be a relief, may we ask that congress, that the senate and the house of representatives, give these disabled heroes the same attention, which the American people on this day pay to those who have passed to their reward."

R. E. Thomason To Speak Here Soon

Mayor R. E. Thomason of El Paso, candidate for congressman from this district, will be in Midland about two weeks from now to make a campaign address, he told Reporter-Telegram representatives, when he passed through here late Wednesday, en route from Colorado to El Paso.

He will open his campaign in San Angelo next week, going then to Fredericksburg, Junction and the lower part of the district.

First Mother--

Pittsburgh)—Private Merle D. Hay (of Glidden). Worthy sons of their great and noble nation, they fought for Right, for Liberty, for Civilization, against German Imperialism, the scourge of mankind.

"Mrs. Hay is the only surviving mother of the three. Enright's mother died before he enlisted; Gresham's mother passed on a few years ago.

"My boy failed to come home on the night of May 2, 1917, telephoning me that he and eight others were on their way to Des Moines to enlist in the war," she relates.

Thrilled by the prospect of war, Merle came back to Glidden a few days later to say farewell to his mother, dad and younger brother. Then he departed for camp at Fort Worth, Tex., and on June 13 he sailed for France from Hoboken, N. J.

The last time his mother saw him was when he kissed her goodby in Glidden that day in May 13 years ago.

"Lucille McMullan won much applause but not the judges' decision," the wire said.

The Midland band paraded over the city today, Saturday is the day set for the big parade in which Midland is to enter an "advertising stunt" car.

Midland Invited To Stockton Reunion

Midland people are invited to the Old Timers Reunion at Fort Stockton June 15 and 16, according to a letter to Elmer Jones from Raymond McKay, director of the reunion to be held in connection with the two-day celebration.

McKay is a successful rodeo director, having put on the one at El Paso for three or four years, and being the only director ever to put on the rodeo there at a financial success, Jones said.

Ropers and rodeo men from Midland and adjacent territory are expected to compete at the Fort Stockton Reunion.

PLUCKY

BATH, England—Doreen Brookes, 13, is a plucky little lass. While walking across a field recently on the way home from school, an enraged cow attacked her. The girl waited until the cow was almost upon her and then jumped to catch hold of the animal's horns. She held on until help arrived.

FISH STORY

PEKING, — Rev. David C. Graham, missionary at Suifu, China, recently caught the largest minnow ever captured. It measured 38 inches long and checked exactly with common minnows found elsewhere, with the exception of its size. It is to be preserved in alcohol at the National Museum in Washington, D. C.

T. M. Combs returned to Midland last night from Hobbs, New Mexico.
