Midland to Hobbs Airline Plans Extension to Caverns

8 PLACE STEARMAN ON LINE

Control of East and West Traffic to Caves Seen

Extension of the Midland to Hobbs line of Texas Flying Service, Inc., when arranged by wire reservation, to Carlsbad, N. M., and eventual changing from the five-place Ryan brougham to an eight-place Stearman, were announced this morning by Jack P. Maples, operations manager of the line which was established a few days ago.

This marks Midland as the only town on the Middle South Atlantic air route across continent to ambitiously make a move towards getting a jump on air traffic bound for the caverns. Passengers flying here over SAT and WAE can deplane and make immediate connection for the caverns, as the Midland to Hobbs airline Ryan takes off immediately after the WAE planes land from the east, and is on the field before the west bound lands, ready for another take off into the west if necessary.

Maples arrived in Midland from Fort Worth this morning, bringing with him an automobile that will be used in conveying passengers back and forth to the airport.

Homer Truax flew to Fort Worth Saturday in the line's plane, and brought back Bill Stoorza, shop foreman of the Fort Worth shops, who will be located permanently here.

Under a law of the department of commerce, which provides that no pilot engaged in flying passengers may be in the air more than 90 hours a month, the Midland to Hobbs airline will arrange for relays of pilots. Homer Truax to be sent back to Fort Worth and be replaced by Fred Wimberly sent here. Fred is a war time pilot who flew in France. Stoorza was a mechanic with the air service during the war, also.

There is a provision of the company which allows for no pilot flying passengers on the line who has not had at least 2,000 hours in the air. This is a strict requirement and one to which close adherence is made.

The line is doing good passenger business at the present, and possible future announcements are expected to extend the route considerably.

All American Plane Derby May Land Here

The All American flying derby may make Midland a control point. The derby officials want to establish a control point somewhere 700 miles from Houston, and prefer an airport with high speed re-fueling facilities, according to Roy Cooper, pathfinder. The race begins at Detroit, July 21.

The chamber of commerce aeronautics committee is in touch with officials, but so far has made no definite arrangement and will not unless the matter can be economically handled. A minimum of 30 entries is expected to fly from Detroit to the Pacific coast, touching enroute at Montreal, New York, Atlanta and Houston.

Hold Waco Suspects For California Job

WACO, June 3. (UP)—Detectives received information from San Jose, California, today positively linking two men arrested here as suspects in the holdup and robbery of a theatre there February 10.

They advised that extradition papers are being prepared and that California officers are coming for the men. The men were arrested as suspects and had two automatic pistols and a complete set of burglary tools. Fingerprints first connected them with the California holdup.

Foes of Pact

These three high ranking American naval officers delivered verbal broadsides against the London Treaty, in hearings before the Senate committees on Foreign Relations and on Naval Affairs, at Washington. They are Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, top, superintendent of the Naval Academy and a former commander-in-chief of the fleet; Rear Admiral L. M. Nulton, center, commandant of the First Naval District at Boston; and Rear Admiral R. E. Coontz, bottom, former Chief of Naval Operations.

CRIMINALS GET FREEDOM BREAK IN MICHIGAN

IONIA, Michigan, June 3. (UP)—Armed with razors and knives, 13 desperate inmates of the state reformatory for the criminally insane here today made a successful break for freedom. Five of the 13 are killers, authorities said.

With the entire countryside in arms, private citizens joined with posses of sheriffs, state troopers are vigilantes in a search for the escape madmen. Two later were captured.

They escaped when they threatened to kill Eugene Owen, superintendent, whom they had captured and held prisoner. The 13 then unlocked the cells housing 131 others who refused the opportunity to escape. Telephone wires were cut.

Officers expressed the belief that all would be captured. Tension in or near Ionia grew as the day went on with 11 of the madmen still at large. Homes were kept locked.

Limited facilities, requiring that 16 men with dangerous reputations be kept in one ward, rather than in separate cells, was blamed for the trouble.

Wealthy Woman Is Fired On Today

CHICAGO, June 3. (UP)—Two bullets today were fired by an unseen hand in an attempt to assassinate Mrs. Lottie Brenner Dechow, wealthy wife of Henry Dechow, young German adventurer. The bullet shattered her bed room window.

POSSIBILITY SEEN FOR FEDERAL BLDG.; CONALLY INFORMS

Midland has been placed on the 10-year building program, which indicates that a federal building will be erected here in the course of time, a letter from Congressman Tom Conally to the chamber of commerce explains.

The letter was sent in reply to one mailed from the chamber, inquiring about a displace sent the Dallas News from Washington listing Midland among other towns and cities of the state having minimum annual postal receipts of $20,000 and therefore qualified for a federal building.

The building program is launched by the treasury and postoffice departments. The departments will send a representative to Texas this summer for a survey of qualifying towns, and are asking that additional data be collected and sent them.

Conally pledged his support in the enterprise.

ATLANTIC STARTS LAYING LINE TO HOBBS, N. MEXICO

Seventy-five men were working in gangs with the Atlantic pipeline company this morning, the second day on construction of the Midland to Hobbs 8-inch welded line.

Laying of line this direction will be at Hobbs Wednesday.

It is expected that a total of approximately three miles a day will be completed. A period of 40 days will probably elapse before the first oil run is made.

YANCEY STOREY HELD IN JAIL AT FT. WORTH TODAY

FORT WORTH, June 3. (P)—Yancey Storey, who appeared at the state penitentiary seeking admission, is in the Tarrant county jail today, balked temporarily at least in his expressed desire to "do the fair and square thing."

Fugitive from justice since April 14, when his bonds of $33,000 were forfeited against him in 25 felony cases, Storey was taken into custody at Huntsville where he tried to enter prison to serve a five-year term assessed against him for robbery of the Krum State bank.

He expressed surprise that he had been the object of wide search, saying that he had been at his farm near Denton.

Recapture One Of Michigan Robbers

MANCELONA, Mich., June 3. One alleged member of the gang that yesterday robbed the Mancelona State bank was captured early today, attempting to leave his hiding place in a swamp near here.

He surrendered without making a fight. The robbery was followed by confused pursuit in which two citizens were shot. The gang, composed of masked men and a negro chauffeur, obtained $500.

Local Oil Man's Wife Dies on Visit

Mrs. G. E. Wimberly, wife of a Midland oil man, died Monday night at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. P. Pogue, in Commerce, Texas. The Wimberlys have made their home in Midland since September. Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, at Commerce.

Mrs. Wimberly had been on a visit with her mother when stricken.

DELIVER PRISONER Lee Haynes, city marshal, and Mrs. Haynes, returned Monday night from Gatesville, where they delivered Warren Goode to the reform school. They left Midland Sunday.

LATE FLASHES

TAMAQUA, Penn., June 3. (UP)—Three men were killed when the gelatin mix house of the Atlas Powder company exploded today.

WASHINGTON, June 3. (UP)—The national elimination balloon race, scheduled at Houston, Texas, June 10, was postponed today by the national aeronautical association until July 4.

ALEXANDRIA, La., June 3. (P)—Levee workers today tried to hold to the minimum flood damage from the swollen Red river as the overflowed area became larger. Homeless refugees reached 15,000 in number.

LAKEHURST, N. J., June 3. (P)—The Graf Zeppelin was headed out over the Atlantic ocean today for the seventh time. The ship which started the homeward journey during the night to Friedrichshafen, Germany, planned to stop at Seville, Spain, which Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, expected to reach in 50 hours.

BROWNSVILLE, June 3. (P)—Gradual recession of the Rio Grande last night and today eliminated the danger of the river inundating Matamoros, across the international boundary. Mexican soldiers and volunteers worked during the night to save the town from being flooded after the river broke out of the levees nearby.

Three More Flowers Necessitate Painting Being Re-Done

Three more wild flowers have been found in Midland county. This makes a grand total of 63 varieties of wild flowers known to grow in this county.

Mrs. Hallie Rippeteau, who has already painted 60 of the flowers, will add the three new varieties she found, and the painting with its 63 varieties will be back on exhibit Thursday afternoon in the office of the Midland chamber of commerce.

West Texans have been startled to learn that daily they were crushing underfoot 63 different kinds of beautiful wild flowers. The average guess at the number of wild flowers about Midland has been 12 varieties. It remained for a Dallas artist but recently come to Midland to unfold to nature people the beauties of Midland they had seen but not observed for many years.

The picture is a riot of color. Reds, yellows, blues, pinks, whites, browns, purples, greens, and many other shades and combinations to reveal every color in the spectrum are seen in the Rippeteau painting. The new Midland artist was engaged on the picture intermittently for six weeks. It might be said of her picture as Lowell said in his nature poem: "reveals a soul in grass and flowers."

Midland Official to Plainview Meeting

Annual convention-school of Texas chamber of commerce secretaries will open in Plainview Thursday and last until Saturday at noon. Paul T. Vickers, accompanied by Mrs. Vickers will leave tomorrow for the meeting. Vickers is secretary of the Texas Commercial Executives association, and will go to Plainview a short time ahead of the opening of the meeting to supervise the convention set-up.

The Midland man has been state secretary for 13 months, and during that time Midland advertising has been carried each month for the 13 months to 150 of the leading towns and cities of Texas through a monthly news letter issued at Midland.

The annual meeting of the secretaries is not the usual type of convention. The meetings are chiefly for business and study. The secretaries exchange experiences and hear papers by authorities on chamber of commerce work. The meetings are in reality more of a school than a convention, officials say.

Hotel Acquires Storage Garage

A deal has been made by Stillier Bros. and the management of Hotel Scharbauer whereby the hotel has acquired the large storage garage in the building. Al Stillier retains the store room of the garage and continues as distributor here for General tires, handling a large stock. J. O. Nobles is in charge of the hotel garage.

CLINT SMALL TO SPEAK IN MIDLAND THURSDAY NIGHT

Clint C. Small, West Texas' candidate for governor, will speak at the district court room Thursday evening at 8 o'clock according to a letter from Lee Satterwhite, Small's campaign manager, from the Texas hotel campaign headquarters.

Satterwhite said the campaign conducted by Small is making satisfactory progress and that West Texas is seemingly just waiting to cast a heavy vote for him in the first primary election.

B. Frank Haag, Midland attorney, will introduce the candidate from the platform in Midland.

SEEK BANDITS IN MEXICO IN DEATH OF AMERICAN MAN

BISBEE, Ariz., June 3. (P)—Federal troops in the mountains near Cananea, Mexico, today were seeking twenty bandits who killed Charles Koehler, 50, America, and a Mexican policeman; and then burned Koehler's home.

Koehler was slain at a mine. Belief was expressed that the riders were employees of another mine where the American formerly was foreman. One outlaw was killed in the skirmish.

Fires Rage In Ontario Forests

WINNIPEG, Canada, June 3. (UP)—Raging forest fires crackled through thousands of acres of dry timber in western Ontario today as forest rangers and volunteers hastened to aid threatened communities.

A light rain this morning aided the forces who believed they had the situation well under control unless fresh winds whipped the flames anew. Many residents vacated safely, but expressed fears for the welfare of others.

Definite reports on loss of life were lacking. A party of five reached safety last night after being surrounded by fire and reported dead. Several others are reported to be missing.

Gang Wars Claim Another Victim

CHICAGO, June 3. (P)—Joseph Ferrari, 26 year old Sicilian, was the ninth victim today of gang wars which marked renewal of hostilities over weekend. Possibility of a tenth victim was seen in policeman's report that he saw a slumped body in an automobile as it drove away from the hotel where shots were fired.

The epidemic of murder is being treated by police who are rounding up bad men. Two hundred persons have been arrested. Police Commissioner Russell has concentrated men in Sicilian section where they have been killed.

INTER-STATE BUS LINE ESTABLISHES TERMINAL IN CITY

Southwestern Transportation Co. has designated Midland as a terminal point for its trans-state line. Midland is the principal point for the bus line between Dallas and El Paso.

It is planned to have three huge 32-passenger busses stored at Midland for servicing, and Midland will either be a night stop or a meal stop, according to present plans.

The Southwestern Transportation Co. is a subsidiary of the Cotton Belt Railway Co. It does only trans-state business, and does not carry passengers from one local point to another, its business limited to carrying passengers bound for some point outside of Texas.

The company was assisted in its choice of Midland as a terminal point by the Midland chamber of commerce. Another city was being considered till the Midland chamber convinced the officials of the advisability of coming to Midland. A small pay roll with added business for hotels, restaurants, drug stores and other lines will result from the company's selection of Midland. Headquarters of the concern are in Texarkana.

Scarborough Lodge A SIT ON PORCH AND FISH Paradise For Fisher

You can sit on the back porch in a low wicker chair and lazily throw a line into the water of the Riohoso, at either of two new expensive summer lodges recently finished by W. F. Scarborough near Ruidoso.

Scarborough and family, and his brother, the Rev. L. R. Scarborough, president of the Southwestern Baptist seminary, Fort Worth, and family, are leaving today for the camp and summer. Scarborough will make brief flying trips to Midland for business, then repair to the fastness of his quiet retreat.

A "surprise" awaits the minister brother of Scarborough: one of the lodges is to be decided over to him upon arrival at the place.

The lodges are equipped like motion picture scenes of mountain retreats, and are quite modern as regard convenience features.

Pearl Wimberly Is On Society Desk

Miss Pearl Wimberly has returned to the society desk of The Reporter-Telegram, following the closing of the Spring semester at WTSTC at Canyon, where she has been enrolled.

Mrs. S. M. Warren has been on the desk during the time Miss Wimberly was away at school, kindly taking the position for that period. During that time she not only wrote society, but served as staff writer, dramatic critic and telegraph editor.

Miss Wimberly was formerly society editor of the Midland Reporter. While in Canyon she was society editor of The Prairie, and wrote feature material under a by-line.

BACK ON MOTORCYCLE

Bryan Middleton, city traffic officer, is back on his motorcycle today after being dismounted for several weeks with a broken leg which he sustained when a car ran into his machine. Middleton has been working at traffic duties on foot for some time.

DE CROW CATCHES WHALE

Thomas De Crow and other members of a fishing party returned from the Guadalupe river near San Antonio with the chesty feeling that comes from catching a 74-pound catfish. De Crow is accredited with pulling the fish from the stream.

The party also visited with De Crow's family in Austin.

An Admiral

A future admiral, maybe, is Midshipman Andrew McBurney Jackson, Jr., of Baton Rouge, La. Here you see him smiling because he has been chosen 1930 Honor Man at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md. Regimental Commander of the midshipmen, he obtained the highest mark in studies and drills.

FRANCHISE TAX IS MUDDLED IN IDEA HELD BY PUBLIC

AUSTIN, Tex., June 3. (P)—The secretary of state's department is faced with the necessity of sending out 18,000 letters in an effort to explain the new franchise tax law to Texas corporations and get them to respond properly. Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state announced.

"Many corporations are under the impression that they are not affected by the new law because they have paid the tax under the old law," Mrs. McCallum said. "Others, unaware of the change in the law, continue to calculate their tax at the old rates. Every corporation subject to a franchise tax is affected by the new law, and if they will fill in these reports and return them regardless of whether they have paid before or whether their tax is increased or reduced by the new law, they will save time and possible forfeiture and heavy penalties."

The new tax now in effect and due before August 1 is at the rate of 60 cents per $1,000 or fraction up to $1,000, and 30 cents per $1,000 or fraction on amounts in excess of that sum. In addition to being based on the subscribed or issued capital stock and surplus and undivided profits, the tax also is payable on notes, bonds and debentures with a maturity date of one year or more from date of issue. These schedules apply to ordinary business corporations. Public utility corporations pay at higher rates, but not on fixed borrowed capital. The minimum tax for all corporations is 410."

REED CASE SET

SAN ANGELO, June 3. (P)—The King Reed murder trial Monday was transferred from Stanton, Martin county, to Colorado, in Mitchell county, on a change of venue, after two juries had failed to agree in trials at Stanton. Reed was charged with slaying J. C. Holcomb, night watchman in Midland.

Former Pastor Here Married in Angelo

The Rev. J. C. Burkett, pastor of the Southside Baptist church of Abilene, and his bride, formerly Mrs. Laura Irene Willard, who were married Sunday night at San Angelo, left Abilene Monday for a trip to the Rio Grande valley.

The marriage ceremony was said at the home of Mrs. Willard's daughter, Mrs. W. J. Powell, by the Rev. E. D. Dunlap, San Angelo Baptist pastor.

Miss Mabel Griffith of Abilene and Mrs. J. Hodges of Cisco, friends of Mrs. Willard, witnessed the ceremony. The couple will be in Corpus Christi for a few days and Mr. Burkett will hold a two weeks revival near there.

Mr. Burkett is well known throughout West Texas. Before going to Abilene, several years ago, he was pastor of the Baptist church at Midland.

LIBERAL PENSIONS COSTLY

Says Rich Men Should Not Draw Pension Bill Funds

WASHINGTON, June 3. (A P)—President Hoover held out today his objections to the overwhelming vote of congress yesterday in passing the Spanish-American war veterans' pension bill.

With few preliminaries, the Senate voted 61 to 18 to override the first veto message of Hoover to be acted upon. Within an hour, Administration leaders in the House were trampled down as they sought to defer a roll call until Thursday and the House at once proceeded to vote, 298 to 14, in favor of enactment of the bill.

The roll calls showed the most solid lineup against a presidential veto in recent years, only a handful of Republican regulars in each branch standing by the president. The Republican young guard in the Senate joined the Western independents in the uprising and some of the old guard machine also left the fold on the vote.

WASHINGTON, June 3. (P)—President Hoover said today that he had not changed his opinion that the Spanish-American war veterans' pension bill enacted by congress over his veto yesterday, was unwise.

He said that the bill should have been worked out so that rich men should not draw pensions from the government. Authorizing a more liberal pension basis, the bill would benefit 114,000 veterans of the Spanish war, the Philippine insurrection and the China relief expedition, and would cost the government eleven and a half million dollars annually.

Midland Boy Member Cornell Ye Hosts

H. C. Ward, Midland boy, class of '21, at Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., and a member of Ye Hosts, honorary society in hotel management is a prominent student, according to a letter sent out by L. C. Bochever, publicity student there.

The final elections of students at Cornell to Sigma Delta Chi and Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalistic fraternities, Ye Hosts, and the announcement of new officers in various clubs found Ward prominently mentioned.

THE LAST OF ROWDYISM

It comes as considerable of a shock to learn that bosses in certain lumber camps of the Pacific northwest have taken to laying out golf courses among the stumps of the cut-over mountainsides where their gangs have been working.

The resulting picture is easy to imagine; the heavy-fisted bull of the woods, arrayed in golf knickers, checkered socks and a form-fitting sweater, waggles his golf club in a clearing that only recently rang to the sound of axes, and whacks the elusive ball over slopes where sweating lumber-jacks toiled to bring ancient trees down to the matted sod.

It is all very surprising, and doubtless it is extremely significant, in one way or another. At all events, it would seem to indicate that the horny-handed rough-necks of tradition are growing tamed at an unprecedented rate.

A lumber-jack on a golf course! Well, times do change. But there are places where this bit of information ought to be received with loud cries of unbelief.

Peddle it through the old, cut-over Michigan white pine country, some day, and see what response you get. Michigan knew the lumber-jack in the day when he was a sign and a portent for the timid; the day when he worked like a Trojan all winter long, rode the logs down foaming rivers in the springtime at high peril to his unwashed neck, clung to one shirt throughout his life and wound up each annual drive with a two-fisted bender that jarred the whole lower peninsula of the state.

The Pacific northwest knew him in the same incarnation. Washington and Oregon can remember when the woodman's one great diversion was a semi-annual drunk that invariably ended in an epic fight—a fight in which steel-spiked shoes descended lustily on brawny bodies, a fight in which eye-gouging and hitch-kicking were accepted as perfectly proper methods of offense, a fight which as like as not would tear down a whole building and think nothing of it.

That is the lumber camp tradition. But now—golf courses! Something has changed, somewhere.

Rowdyism is more intimately interwoven with our past than we usually think. The lumber-jack was only one among many; sailor, cowboy, miner, longshoreman, steel worker—all of these were hairy-chested, rough-and-tumble trades with no niceties or refinements.

But the old order does change, and the lumber-jack is like the rest of us. We seem to have lost the frontier forever, somehow. If they can build golf courses adjacent to lumber camps, our riotous past has been eternally buried.

TOO NEAR PERFECTION

A young man who is just learning a new sport, a new art or a new profession is generally advised to watch the leaders in that line and see how they do things. Ordinarily that's good advice; but it occurs to us that in golf there are times when it doesn't work.

Take, for instance, Bobby Jones. In the recent British tournament, Bobby teed off on a 430-yard hole with a 300-yard drive that landed-plunk in a deep sand trap. Then, unflustered, he proceeded to sock the ball out of the sand, drive it to the green, 130 yards away—and watch it trickle into the cup. Despite the fact that his drive landed him in a trap, he had made a par four hole in two strokes!

The novice, instead of learning anything from a performance like that, is apt to be plain dismayed. Such a stunt looks so super-human that the beginner might well think that there was no use even to try to copy the great Bobby.

The Wrong Kind of Filling Station!

Iceland to Celebrate Thousandth Year of World's Oldest Parliament

By MILTON BONNER, NEA Service Writer.

LONDON, June 3.—Along about the middle of June something like 2000 Americans of Icelandic origin and about 1000 Canadians from the neighborhood of Winnipeg will land in the old home country of Iceland to celebrate with the natives the thousandth anniversary of the Althing, the Icelandic Parliament, which is claimed to be the very oldest in the world.

Taking part in the festivities, along with the native Icelanders and those who have come back from the North American continent, will be King Christian of Denmark, who is also King of Iceland. Crown Prince Olaf of Norway, and Crown Prince Gustaf of Sweden. Great Britain is recognizing the unique event by sending her crack battleship, the Rodney, on which will live the representatives of the representatives of the British Parliament—Lords Newton and Marks representing the House of Lords, and Sir Robert Hamilton and P. J. Noel Baker, representing the House of Commons.

Historical Pilgrimage
There is something historically fitting in this pilgrimage of Icelandic Americans, sailing eastwards to Iceland, because in the year 1000 Leif Edikson, the Norseman, sailed westwards from Iceland and discovered the North American continent, starting a colony called Vinland, probably the present site of New Bedford, Massachusetts.

Iceland was settled by Norsemen in the ninth century. Cut off from the rest of the world, they developed their own system or government, including a projected Parliament to represent the voice of the people. Grim explored the island in search of a suitable meeting place while Ulfjotur went to Norway to study law.

The one chose a site at Thingvellir and other drew up a code of law, and just one thousand years ago this first Parliament met under the open sky. It has been a going concern ever since.

The main millenium festivities will take place from June 26 to 28 inclusive. The government has arranged to house many of the visitors in tents at Thingvellir, which is about 30 miles from the capital of Reykjavik. Others will be housed in the capital and the rest will sleep and live in the steamships which bring them to Iceland. On the opening day of the ceremonies the peasant farmers from all parts of Iceland will come to Thingvellir on their pack horses as did their ancestors 1000 years ago, for there are no railways on the island.

A very extensive program has been prepared, opened by a mass assemblage of natives and visitors at what is still known as the "Law Rock." Here speeches will be made by the acting Premier and the King. Then the Althing will hold a session and an address will be made by the speaker. In the afternoon speakers representing the Icelandic Americans and Canadians will deliver speeches. On the opening day and those following there will be the singing of Icelandic cantatas by a great choir, historical plays, displays of peasant wrestling, folk dancing, mountain climbing and horse racing.

Most people think of Iceland as a tiny speck up in the frozen waters of the north Atlantic. As a matter of fact, it is 20 per cent bigger than Ireland and about the same size as the state of Kentucky. It is of volcanic origin and has a number of volcanoes, the most celebrated being Hekla, which is over a mile high and had an eruption as late as 1912. There are over 800 hot springs and geyzers in Iceland. The population is about 100,000 of whom 22,000 live in Reykjavik, the capital. Only the valleys are given over to cultivation, the main industries being sheep raising and fishing.

Independent Republic
Iceland was an independent republic from 930 to 1263 when it joined Norway. The two came under Danish rule in 1381. When Norway separated from Denmark in 1814, Iceland remained under Denmark. But the Icelanders always were a stiff and independent folk and, finally, in 1918 Denmark acknowledged Iceland as a sovereign state, united with Denmark only in that the Danish King is also King of Iceland. In all else it is absolutely free, except that until 1940 Denmark has charge of its foreign relations.

Though the little island state has no railways, it has an extensive system of good roads and an excellent system of telegraph and telephone service, schools and a university. Crime is almost unknown. Education is universal and books are widely read. In proportion to its small population, it has also contributed much to Danish art and literature.

FINDS INVESTMENT FIELD IS GOOD FOR ALL BUT THE SPECULATORS

NEW YORK, June 3.—Investment conditions in general are sound in every part of the United States and disquieting talk of depression and market uncertainty is confined very largely to speculative circles. In the opinion of E. Paul Young, authority on public utilities securities.

Mr. Young, president of E. Paul Young and Company, New York, has just returned from an extended trip through the country, during which time he conducted a financial and industrial survey in the principal centers.

"Contrary to pessimistic reports, I found conditions good," continued Mr. Young. "Firmness in investment buying is apparent and there is a decided trend to reinvestment, particularly on the part of customer holders of public utilities; preferred stock.

"The present erratic and somewhat nervous condition of the market has affected, undoubtedly, professional and outside public speculators who engage in the hazardous business of gambling on a tury of the market, but I found no indication whatever of adverse reaction among the purchasers and holders of solid and dependable securities.

"I learned, too, that a large and ever-increasing percentage of the preferred stock of utilities is owned by customers and employees. It is significant proof of the stability of such investment that at the time of the big market break last autumn and during the subsequent flurries there were few instances of customer purchasers turning in their holdings.

"This particular type of investment reaches the mass buyers, the investors and not the speculators. Customers' stockholders, my analyses show, are anticipating additional investment funds and this is a splendid argument against the depression talk which has its inception in the realms of speculation."

Daily Washington Letter

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The national spotlight again swings on Senator Hiram Johnson of California, a leading figure in the fight against the London naval treaty—though as usual with the odds strongly against him.

Few men in politics have played against the fate as Johnson has. Fewer still have been able, as he has, to come up for more with the same fighting enthusiasm.

He missed the presidency by a close margin when he declined the offer of Warren Harding in 1920 to run as vice-president. In 1924 he made an early start for Republican presidential nomination but was compelled to retire when early primaries indicated Coolidge was a strong favorite. After a long period of embitterment, Johnson finally reconciled himself, declared during a call at the White House one day that he had become immune to the sting of the presidential bee, and has since been pretty much his normal self, regaining fully his personal popularity with fellow senators.

Johnson gained national fame in prosecuting the San Francisco graft cases nearly a quarter of a century ago. He was elected governor twice, ran as vice-presidential candidate with Roosevelt in 1912, and then in 1916 he was sent to the Senate by California at the same time the state voted for Woodrow Wilson and turned the balance in the electoral college against Charles E. Hughes. It was reported at the time that Hughes had snubbed Johnson because he had gone Bull Moose in 1912. Though it is now said by many that Hughes was a victim of tactless friends who did not advise him that Johnson was stopping at the same hotel during a California campaign trip, the voters of the state at the time thought Hughes had snubbed Johnson and their resentment from that impression, whether true or false, cost Hughes the presidency.

Johnson made a dash for the Republican presidential nomination in 1920 but failed. He then refused to become Harding's vice-presidential candidate, and thus missed two chances at the White House in one election year. In 1924 he attempted to get the nomination but early primaries showed Coolidge a popular favorite and Johnson withdrew. Then in 1928 came the most bitter dose of all—when Herbert Hoover was nominated for president, a fellow Californian who had stood for many things Johnson opposed—had been for the League of Nations, had associated with the anti-Johnson faction in California and whose prominence in the Wilson and Harding administrations always was a tender spot for Johnson.

Johnson's office was rifled on two successive nights recently and his personal correspondence was inspected. He offered no theory and his only comment was that the letters were such as to burn the ears of those they concerned. He was inclined to pass the incident off lightly though some of his colleagues, whose offices also had been tampered with, were indignant.

Johnson long has been associated with Borah in Senator fights. They were leading figures in the defeat of the League of Nations. But on the London naval treaty they have split — Borah is supporting it as chairman of the foreign relations committee. With Borah's aid Johnson might have been able to defeat the London treaty, but unable to obtain it, his chances appear remote at this writing.

as they had to use that day to get out the monthly statements, they really should have one where they could lay off all day.

Getting out their statements to celebrate a holiday is like the postman who, when given a day off, took a long walk in the woods. That didn't happen here, because Midland doesn't have free mail delivery.

All of which reminds me that I haven't heard much from the sidewalk committee lately. Maybe there are plenty of sidewalks already. I know the boys get in some good work but if we have plenty of sidewalks, where is the free mail delivery?

If there's anything to this report that we can't get free mail delivery as long as all of the houses are built in outlying sections instead of settling up the central areas a certain per cent, how would it do for all of those in the additions to Midland to move their houses in on the vacant lots nearer town? I don't say that's the best thing to do, I'm merely offering a suggestion.

SOCIAL NEWS PAGE FOR WOMEN

Changes Made In Meeting Of Baptist Women's Society

Several changes were made in the summer plans for the Baptist Women's Missionary Society yesterday afternoon during a business hour at the church. It is decided to hold the regular business meeting on the same day the social meetings are conducted and the Bible study classes to be held on the business meeting afternoons.

After the business changes the Reverend Brown led the regular Bible study on the book "Child Psychology."

Baptist Auxiliary Meets At Church Monday Afternoon

The regular meeting of the Girls' Auxiliary of the Baptist church was held yesterday afternoon in the church parlors. A devotional reading by Laura Shelburne opened the program which included a talk "Mother," by Lorena Gann and a story told by Barbara Gann.

Girls present were Dorothy Dunagan, Barbara and Lorena Gann, Laura Shelburne, Janis L. McMullan, Roberta Dumagan, Clarine Parrett, and Mrs. C. C. Hiatt, sponsor.

Whitmire-Blackburn Invitations Are Out

Invitations are being received in Midland for the coming marriage of Miss Lenora Whitmire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Whitmire, to Mr. Willis C. Blackburn of Corpus Christi which is to take place at the Methodist church Thursday morning, June 19.

The first of pre-nuptial affairs honoring Miss Whitmire was a luncheon given by Mrs. Paul T. Vickers today at her home in Belmont.

R. D. Scruggs and daughters, Kathleen and Mary Beth, and Mrs. Ed Rountree, left Monday for El Paso. Mr. Scruggs is leaving there tomorrow with the El Maida Shrine Temple's special train for Toronto, Canada. Mrs. Rountree and the Misses Scruggs will meet Miss Jean Smith of Phoenix, Arizona, and will return here.

EDITOR "WATCHES" ON DATE OF ANNIVERSARY

When Editor T. Paul Barron realized simultaneously that Mrs. Barron's wrist watch was on the blink and that the day was his wedding anniversary, he paused in suspicion at the coincidence.

Not for long, however. Suggesting that he and his wife go to the jeweler's and get the watch repaired, the jeweler, who had been warned in advance, handed Mrs. Barron a new watch.

Then it was found that another coincidence had entered; it was 9:30, the hour at which the Barrons had been married.

Announcements

Thursday

REAL FIGHTS, NO PUNCHES PULLED, IN MOVIES TODAY

A movie fight under a microphone must be a real fight. It is no longer possible to "pull punches" and give the appearance of fighting hard when you are really "saving" your opponent.

These facts are attested to by Charles Delaney and Wheeler Oakman, who staged a battle for "The Girl From Woolworth's," starring Alice White. This First National and Vitaphone picture comes to the Ritz Theatre tomorrow.

In fact, Oakman can attest to the realism with conviction, for he was completely knocked out by Delaney in one scene when the leading man put a little too much power behind the blow.

"The sensitive microphone picks up every sound now," Delaney said. "You have to sock and sock hard, or the fight will not be at all realistic when the sound effects are heard."

Delaney plays opposite Miss White and Oakman is the "heavy" in the story.

Name New Officers At Christian Women's Meeting Yesterday

Annual officers of the Christian Women's Missionary Society were named at a business and program meeting held at the home of Mrs. G. H. Butler Monday afternoon, with Mrs. B. F. Whitefield as co-hostess.

Mrs. Lee Cornelius was selected as the new president with the following as her assistants: Mrs. Frank Elkin, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Howard Peters, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Jack Kuykendall, secretary; Mrs. Glenn Brunson, treasurer.

Following the election of officers Mrs. G. W. Breneman led the program hour. Mesdames Kuykendall, Pemberton, Hall and Smith developed a novel play on "The Fifth Gospel." The Reverend Peters also talked to the group on "Pentecostal Year." The worship theme "Our God Is Able" was conducted by Mrs. Cornelius.

Plans were announced for the installation service to be conducted just previous to the church hour next Sunday evening.

Couple Are Wed Sunday In N. Mexico

Miss Clara Wagster and Mr. H. D. Brown motored to Lovington, New Mexico Sunday and were married at a quiet ceremony.

The bride has been living in Midland for the past six months as an employee of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company. She is the daughter of Mr. J. T. Wagster of Eldorado, with whom she made her home before coming here.

Mr. Brown is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Brown of Midland and has lived here all of his life. He is now employed at the Lydick Roofing Company.

The couple are now at home to their friends at the Estes apartments, 609 N. Lorraine.

Friendly Builders To Go On Picnic Thursday Eve.

Plans are being made for a picnic supper to be given by the Friendly Builders' class of the Methodist church this week. The group will motor to Cloverdale park on Thursday evening at 6:30.

Vann Mitchell has accepted a position with the Ritz Theatre.

Novel Presentation of Books and Magazines Made by Jr. Endeavor

Books and magazines of every type were demonstrated by the Junior Christian Endeavor of the Presbyterian church Sunday evening. The presentation was given in honor of the Senior Endeavor who were special guests.

Mrs. Florence Richardson was director of the event and as each person entered she explained something of the type of book or magazine represented and asked the audience to give the proper name, also telling whether it is the best, a good, bad or indifferent type.

The first to enter was the Bible by Elizabeth Wolcott dressed as a man; next came Mother Goose by Edythe Sundquist and the McMullan twins; Treasure Island by Fred Stout, John Gay and Billie Smith; Little Women by LaVerne McMullan, Ruth Ruse and Thelma Sundquist; Tom Sawyer by Joe Seymour; Huckleberry Finn by Thos. D. Murphy; Fairy Tales by Jessie Lou Tuttle, Virginia Gay and Eloise Sundquist; We by Isabelle McClintic dressed in aviation togs; Good-housekeeping by May McMullan.

Cosmopolitan by Louise Wolcott; Holland by Janelle Slaughter; Red Book by Lexie Jane Cragin; American Boy by Junior Sundquist; Western Stories by John Ed Crabb; Texas White Ribbon by Lois Murphy; Last of the Mohicans by Jack Neal; Reporter-Telegram by George McMullan and Slaughter who carried toy ducks representing the Town Quack; American Magazine by Edythe Sundquist.

As the last person appeared the audience stood and sang "America."

Jack Hazeltine has returned from a three weeks trip to California and Arizona. Mrs. Hazeltine, who accompanied him, remained in Los Angeles to visit relatives for a part of the summer. Mr. Hazeltine stopped in Prescott, Arizona, for a visit with his parents.

Mickey West of Hamilton has been visiting Mrs. H. L. Straugham for a few days. She has now gone to Hobbs to visit her sister, Mrs. Oscar Yates.

Mrs. Etta Clark, president of the Lamesa Business college, was a business visitor in Midland yesterday.

Mrs. H. L. Cullom of Dallas is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Rose.

Misses Ruth Bryan of Andrews and Katherine Jones of San Angelo were visitors in the home of G. E. Bryan, 301 S. Baird, Sunday.

R. M. Barron, W. S. Hill and Chas. L. Sinclair left this morning for Wink and Hobbs, to look over the oil fields in those areas.

Mrs. Bartlett Tells Of Living Room

Editor's Note: The second in a series of three articles written by Midland county farm women who are winners of a living room contest, appears today written by Mrs. J. D. Bartlett.

My Living Room
As we were crowded in our Living Room I decided to change and make things more convenient and comfortable.

The room was used both as a Living Room and a Dining Room and contained several chairs, a dining table, a safe for dishes and food, a cooler for milk, butter, eggs, and perishable food stuffs, a victrola, a small reading table, and a stove for heating purposes.

I moved the dining room furniture out and into another room, set aside for dining purposes alone. When this was done I repapered and repainted the walls and woodwork including the doors, windows, and ceiling. The ceiling and other wood work were originally a very dark brown in color and by painting over this with white paint I obtained not a pure white but a dove-grayish color which made the woodwork look much better and also gave the room a much lighter appearance. Therefore the room was lighter and the reading facilities were greatly improved.

I only placed such furniture back in the room as would be necessary for our family for the most comfortable living as could be obtained with such furniture as I had on hand.

In re-arranging the furniture I tried to place each piece where it would be best located for the purpose to be served.

The reading table I put where the light would fall over the left shoulder. The children's reading table I placed in the same way. The sewing machine I put where the light would fall from the back and not glare in the front of the person sewing.

I have dark green shades with glass curtains of white with a green and pink figure in them; but I could not obtain the exact material I desired in the other draperies so I did not put them up new.

I have not put any covering on the floor yet as I could not secure the pattern that I wanted at present as they were out of stock here. I merely cleaned the floor thoroughly and am leaving it bare for the time being, but intend to put a Congoleum Rug 9 by 12 on the floor as soon as I can get it.

The entire cost so far for all purposes including draperies, paper, paint, cleaning, etc. is ten dollars ($10.00). But when I get the rug the cost will be brought up around twenty-five dollars ($25.00).

Sharkey Seems In, But Maxie Has Big Chance in Coming Bout

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a series of stories and sketches from the training camp of Max Schmeling, who meets Jack Sharkey June 12 for the world's heavyweight championship.

By WERNER LAUFER, NEA Service Sports Writer.
ENDICOTT, N. Y., June 3.—They say that Max Schmeling might as well keep his left hand in his pocket during a fight—

And that Max's right hand, "with a cowbell on it," never can beat an experienced ringman as Jack Sharkey—

But, I believe that if that right hand ever lands plump on the Sharkey chinworks, the next heavyweight champion of the world will be a bottle-browed young German from Hamburg.

One big chance to tag Jack Sharkey early in the fight is the hope and prayer to Der Maxie's following. Jack Sharkey is the greatest in-and-out-er in the ring. On occasions when he was in good form and had an incentive to win, he was the master fighter. On others, when he was in the doldrums of indifference, he looked like a bum.

Sharkey has everything along the mechanical lines to make him a great champion. He boxes superbly—he can hit with either hand and has plenty of courage. He was accused of being a front runner and a fighter who couldn't take it after Jack Dempsey knocked him out. But the only mistake he made that night was to look toward the referee and take his eyes off Dempsey's fists. The mistake was mental and gave evidence that Sharkey is not a smart fighter.

When he dropped a decision to John Risko and barely drew with Tom Heeney, Sharkey substantiated this evidence. Against both of these fellows, he was the soul of non-chalance. He boxed cautiously and met their clumsy rushes with clinches. Not once during these two performances did he drive himself to fight. He let Risko and Heeney take the play away from him at the opening gong and keep it.

In his first Miami fight against Young Stribling, he fought much the same way. It was only that the southerner was even more loathe to mix it that brought the referee's nod.

But against Jimmy Maloney, Jack Delaney and Tommy Loughran, and even in the first three rounds of his fusing fight with Dempsey, Sharkey demonstrated that he can be a great fighter if he wants to be. In most of these fights Jack was riled by dislike for his foe. He fought with savage ferocity—going into emotional outbursts after he put the knockout punch on his hated opponents' chins.

Schmeling has a more stable disposition. As soon as the gong rings, Max digs in to do his utmost. He is cool and deliberate and concentrates on finding openings. He boxes as well as he knows how until he sees the chance to shoot one to a vital point. And when he shoots it there is plenty behind it. He demonstrates this when he put

Against Paulino, he fought with caution until he had the Spaniard's style figured out. Then he rushed in to do a most workmanlike job of bruising the Basque. It is said that both Risko and Paulino had been softened considerably before they met the Teuton Schlager. That doesn't take away the fact that Schmeling has done all they asked of him since he has been campaigning on these shores.

Sharkey has stated that he has not much use for the young man from Germany. That may be too bad for Max. Sharkey also has expressed the patriotic determination that a foreigner shall strip this glorious country of its heavyweight crown only over his dead body.

Whether or not the flag-waving is sincere, Jack Sharkey would like to be the heavyweight champion for his own satisfaction and for the prestige and money. Therefore, he ought to go into the ring on the night of June 12 with the same inspiration he had the night he knocked Loughran-Delaney and Maloney kicking.

And that's why we think he will win. As much as we like Schmeling for his claim and personality, we are afraid that experience and skill will triumph over youth and energy. (If the reader's name is Otto Schimmelpenning, we will argue the case no further.)

OWNER OF SUNSET TRUCK LINE TALKS

"Since Taking Orgatone (Argotane) I Have Gained Six Pounds and Feel Like A New Man," Says San Angelo Man.

Still another link is added to the long chain of evidence regarding the remarkable merits of Orgatone (Argotane) in the case of Mr. Walter Cowley, 301 Upton street, San Angelo, Texas, whose phenomenal health and strength by the use of the medicine was reported to an Orgatone (Argotane) representative.

"I have suffered for sometime from what appeared to be a general rundown condition and nervousness. I had no appetite and hardly ate enough to keep me alive. I was so nervous that I couldn't get any sound sleep and would get up in the mornings tired and lifeless without any energy. Gas formed on my stomach and caused shortness of breath which made me very miserable for hours afterward. I had a very bad case of constipation and had frequent headaches. I had a dead liver, I was told and so had pains in my back and always felt worn out and sluggish and just going down hill.

"I had read and heard so much about what Orgatone (Argotane) was doing for others that I decided to see if it would help my case, and I will say that it has proven to be the right medicine in my case. No one has a better appetite and I eat anything I want and digest it perfectly. My nervousness has disappeared and I sleep fine every night, and I get up in the mornings full of life and energy. My kidneys and liver seem to be in good condition and my constipation is a thing of the past. In fact, my general health has improved, and I have actually gained six pounds in weight. Orgatone (Argotane) has certainly helped me and I am glad to recommend it to my friends."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Midland at the Mayer-Young Drug Co. —Adv.

PRIZES AT THE LIBRARY; READING CLUB MAY BE FORMED; EIGHTY BOOKS A MONTH ON AVERAGE ADDED THERE

The county library has a plan for the summer reading of junior high school boys and girls which it offers without urging. We have at the library a number of little books entitled "Books I Have Read." Inside are blanks, each one for the name of an author, the title of a book, the date of the reader who starts it, the date he finishes it, and 10 lines for "What I Think of This Book." A book filled will be a record of the reading of 31 books.

The library has a limited number of these, and offers them to boys and girls who will be in September, in the fifth, sixth and seventh grades and to these children only. The books are to be kept during the summer, and brought into the library the first week of September. Neither before that nor after that. Six prizes will be awarded, two in each grade, for the nearest and most interesting books. Since we have only a limited number of these books, all those children who want them are urged to come at once. Three registers of names will be kept. Indeed, we shall think of the children as groups, or even as clubs—the fifth grade club, the sixth grade club, and the seventh grade club. And if the children themselves like it, and the groups are congenial, and everybody wants it, we may form eventually some reading clubs like many of the city libraries have. But that is something for the future. Just now we have only to offer these little books with six prizes in September.

Each child's book will be returned to him after the prizes are awarded, and they will be interesting keepsakes, we believe. These books are being distributed now.

With nearly two hundred loans for home use. Saturday was one of the busiest days the county library has ever had. This is perhaps partly due to the closing of school. Also the closing of music classes and expression classes and dancing classes and all sorts of classes. Also the closing of clubs, and the easing up of church work. Anyway, there seems to be in the air a "school's-out" feeling, and many people of all ages and conditions have come into the library with, apparently, the intention of enjoying themselves for a while. All luck to them!

New books are constantly being added. Indeed, we have averaged adding some eighty odd books every month since we opened, and that isn't bad for a little library.

Market Report

Continued favorable weather over cotton belt coupled with somewhat lower cables than due reflected in further easing cotton on opening and during narrow and featureless morning session, opening 1 higher July New York while new crop options 7 to 11 net lower during initial session. New Orleans market closed. Late morning July off to 15.96. October old 14.85, new 14.54. December old 14.91, new 14.63. or 5 to 11 net lower at about which levels market stood noon.

Liverpool early prices quiet unchanged at once. Three registers of names will be kept. Indeed, we shall think of the children as groups, or even as clubs—the fifth grade club, the sixth grade club, and the seventh grade club. And if the children themselves like it, and the groups are congenial, and everybody wants it, we may form eventually some reading clubs like many of the city libraries have. But that is something for the future. Just now we have only to offer these little books with six prizes in September.

One Point Margin Beats Midland Band

The Midland high school band through being awarded second place in its class at the competitive contests held during the meeting of the WTCC in Abilene last week, received much attention when Herbert L. Clarke, world's greatest cornetist and conductor of the finest municipal band, in Long Beach, made the following statement: "The band of the Midland high school looked splendid. The first trumpet (played by Jack Garlington) had a nice tone, and the basses (Ralph Hallman and Herman Walker) and trombones (Carl Reeves, Conrad Dunagan and M. D. Johnson) were good. Director W. S. Lanham handled the group in an excellent and capable manner. The band had a snappiness of finish in the overture that was pleasing."

The Midland band was defeated by a single point margin, scoring a total grade of 450, to Haskell high school's 451. Average grade was 90, as opposed to 90.2. The band played two concerts a day, and at such hotels as the Wooten, Grace and Hilton. The concert played in competition with Haskell was Friday afternoon.

Tanker Crushed in Collision

This is how the oil tanker W. W. Bruce looked when she limped into port at Staten Island, New York, with a twenty-foot hole torn in her port bow after a collision with another tanker in a fog off the New Jersey coast. The crew was forced to pump half the cargo of petroleum overboard to keep the vessel afloat. The damage to the ship was estimated at $50,000.

Cannon Claims Is No Lobbyist

WASHINGTON, June 3. (AP)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., informed the Senate Lobby committee today that he was no lobbyist, in the popular sense, but gave the best effort to promote prohibition by every "legitimate Christian means." Cannon said he seldom used personal persuasion with congressional members and rarely interested in office appointments. He also said that the Southern Methodist Board of Temperance, of which he is head, has done nothing but send out literature. "We have taken no part in elections," he concluded.

A BIT ERROTIC

LAREDO, Texas. (AP)—No deaths, no wounds, two errors was the way citizens of Nuevo Laredo, across the internal boundary, described a duel—not a baseball game—which ended harmlessly. After a quarrel two men started at each other one with a revolver and the other with a machete, more commonly used to trim cactus. Witnesses said the men with the gun fired but the bullet went wild. Score: one error.

The other principal made a wide swipe with his machete, likewise missing. Score: two errors. Bystanders rushed in and separated the contestants. Both were jailed.

MORE PLAYGROUNDS

PARIS. (UP)—Paris, whose Jardin de Luxembourg cannot be dissociated in the minds of tourists with hundreds of smartly dressed tiny tots, has decided to expand the number of playgrounds in the metropolitan area by authorizing the construction of seven new ones immediately, with still other sections of the city in mind for a later date. The playgrounds will be equipped with the latest word in children's sports paraphernalia, including merry-go-rounds and Punch and Judy shows, slides, teeter-totters and sand pits.

TOLD DAUGHTER TO TRY CARDUI

Mother Had Taken It and Thought It Would Help Weak Young Woman.

Elizabeth, Ind.—Mrs. C. O. Sutton, of this place, writes as follows, describing her experience in the use of Cardui: "My mother first recommended Cardui to me. I was weak and could not do my work. "I had pains in my back and side. It seemed like when I would get up, I would drag around to my work, and had had headache. "I seemed to need a strength builder, so my mother told me to try Cardui. She had taken it herself and had found it a good medicine. "I took several bottles of Cardui and it helped me very much. I felt stronger and was able to do my work without any trouble. I rested well at night and had a good appetite. I think Cardui is a good medicine. "Many other women have reported that they began taking Cardui on their mother's advice, for this medicine has been in use so long its real worth is known by several generations of women."

SUES FOR TREE CUTTING

HIGH POINT, N. C. (UP)—Charging that trees on his property were cut down to prevent "poor and unfortunate boys" from seeing Piedmont League baseball games and to maliciously damage his property, J. Maynard Kennedy has brought suit in municipal court for $500 actual and $500 punitive damage against C. T. Willis. Kennedy said Willis referred to the former's property adjoining the ball park as "Hell Hole," thereby dissuading a number of people from buying home sites there.

PLAY TO BREAKING POINT

EPPING, Eng. (UP)—The Royal Air Force of the Epping football teams were playing a match in aid of the Epping Hospital funds and at the end of the ordinary period each team had scored six goals. Extra time was played to decide the match and in this period one member of each side sustained a broken leg. They were conveyed to the hospital for whose benefit they were playing. Epping won by seven goals to six.

NIGHT PARK FLIGHTS

BUTTE, Mont. (UP)—Long a vague possibility, night flying over the National Parks Airways, Inc., line will be an actuality this summer. Bids are being let for the establishment of 16 intermediate landing fields and the government will also establish beacon lights at intervals of 25 to 30 miles. The National Parks Airway is from Great Falls to Salt Lake City via Helena, Butte and Pocatello, Ida.

DIVORCES BANDED

BUDAPEST. (UP)—Under the leadership of their president, Mrs. Ede Langer, several hundred Hungarian women of strongly feminist tendencies have organized into a "League of Secure Equal Social and Economic Rights for Divorced Women" and are now in the midst of a campaign to get the remainder of Budapest's 5,600 divorcees to join them in their fight.

CATTLE ELECTROCUTED

BROADUS, Mont. (UP)—Eight head of cattle owned by the Gilmore Brothers were electrocuted during a thunder and lightning storm recently. The carcasses were found along side a barbed wire fence.

Rocket Experiments Set For Summer On Baltic Sea

By FREDERICK KUH
United Press Staff Correspondent

BERLIN. (UP)—Shooting one's self off to the moon may still be impossible, but Professor Hermann Oberth, using his moon-going rocket, hopes to make a few pertinent experiments in that general direction some time in the next few months.

Just what has been holding up these experimental flights has never been quite clear. Now, however, all difficulties appear to have been cleared away and plans have been made to set the rocket off early this summer. The remarkable event will take place on the shores of the Baltic near the town of Horst.

While Professor Oberth would be most happy to see his present rocket reach an altitude of 50 kilometers, his ultimate goal is, of course, the construction of a rocket that will go to the moon. That it is not impossible Oberth is certain, but as to its practicality the professor wishes at the moment to remain silent. One of the most enthusiastic supporters of Oberth's idea, Robert Esnault-elterie, a French scientist, has taken a franker view. He is certain that "within 10 or 15 years a journey to the moon and back will be perfectly feasible." He believes it to be merely a question of experimentation and financing.

Oberth's present rocket stands about 2.15 meters high and it has an average width of 30 centimeters. It is made of steel, looks like an oversize oxygen container and has an outer covering of magnesium to protect it against the great change in temperature that it must endure. This magnesium shell because of its luminosity will also help observers on earth trace its course. Two observation posts will be established at a considerable distance from one another for this purpose.

A part of the rocket's equipment consists of a parachute arrangement, the parachute opening automatically when the force of the original explosion that sends the rocket off from the earth has been spent. By means of this parachute Oberth hopes to save the huge shell from dashing to pieces as it returns to earth.

Power for the propulsion of the rocket through space will be provided by the igniting of a special hydrogen gas composition that Oberth himself has invented. The gas will burn for 80 seconds at the start and Oberth hopes that the resultant, prolonged explosion will give the device a starting speed of 4,000 yards a second. The "oven" of the rocket, where the explosion takes place, is fitted with a cooling arrangement to prevent melting of the metal from which the rocket is made. Another part of the rocket is designed to give it stability in flight.

As the rocket begins to descend and the parachute opens a brilliant red signal light, a part of the parachute, will light itself and thus not only enable observers to follow its downward course but also warn other persons so that they will not be standing in its path as its great weight settles down to earth.

SAVED BY COATTAIL

DETROIT. (UP)—Only his coat-tail saved Henry Tucker from suicide. As he was about to leap into the Detroit River a 15-year-old boy grabbed the end of his coat and yelled for assistance. Help came.

YOU CAN'T HIDE FAT CLUMSY ANKLES

When tempted to over-indulge "Reach for a Lucky instead"

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Lucky Strike has an extra, secret heating process. Everyone knows that heat purifies and so 20,679 physicians say that Luckies are less irritating to your throat.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough

*"No special dietary, but moderation in eating and drinking and not more than three meals daily," is Dr. F. McKelvey Bell's advice in the New York Medical Journal to all men and women who want to keep a proper figure. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.
