A British chemist predicts that cellulose, the raw material of paper, may soon be obtained from the air. Some day that's going to be news.

STORMS BEAR DEATH ON CREST

Political Races Grow Warmer as Election Date Nears

SATURDAY LAST DAY OF FILING

Two Additional Men Reported Filed Saturday

By R. C. HANKINS

With the office of the county chairman, Homer W. Rowe closed most of the afternoon, it was impossible to learn whether additional applicants for places on the democratic ballot had been filed, but it was generally understood that A. A. Jones had filed for commissioner of Precinct 4, and more or less understood that Charles Ponder had filed for constable of Precinct 1.

Saturday was the last day to file.

It was thought probable by several who keep close to the political situation that these might have been the only additional names.

ORDER TO BE DECIDED DALLAS, June 14. (UP).—The order in which state and local officers will appear on the ballot July 26 will be decided at meetings of democratic and republican county committees all over Texas Monday, when names are certified for the primaries.

With 14 candidates for governor, placing of names will be of unusual importance.

The order on the ballot will be decided in each county by lot.

The political angle has changed subtly during the past week, candidates who were conceded little chance of getting into the run-off now being touted by supporters as sure bets for going that far, if not to election even.

Those who pretend to have noticed the elections in the past here say that Midland is typical of other communities as regards the polling of votes. In case any particular elections unusually heated, voters turn out in unprecedented numbers.

Total poll taxes, including republicans and negroes, paid totaled 1865. It is presumed by many that the usual 70 per cent balloting will be bettered this election. In other words, as many as 1400 votes may be cast. Conservatively, it is estimated by others that from 1200 to 1400 may be polled.

List of Candidates: The list of candidates, with offices, published by The Reporter-Telegram prior to Saturday, the last day for filing applications for a place on the ballot, follows:

For county judge: C. C. Watson, M. R. Hill (re-election), W. T. Bryant, W. Edward Lee.

For county and district clerk: Susie Graves Noble, Ira F. Lord, J. William Arnett, J. Paul Rountree, Nettie C. Romer.

For county sheriff: A. C. Francis (re-election), Ulysses S. Huntsman, W. T. Blakeway.

For county commissioner: Precinct No. 1, S. R. Preston, H. G. Bedford, J. Arthur Johnson, Precinct No. 2, L. M. Estes, B. T. Graham, J. T. Bell, Precinct No. 3, D. L. Hutt.

For county attorney: T. D. Kimbrough (re-election).

For county treasurer: Mary L. Quinn (re-election), J. V. Gow.

Rank Outsider Cops Derby At Washington Park; Pays Big Money; Beats Favorite

WASHINGTON PARK, Chicago, June 14. (AP).—Reveille Boy, an outsider in the betting, won the $50,000 American derby by four lengths before a sweltering crowd of 35,000 today. Gallant Knight, second to Gallant Fox in the Kentucky derby, was second and Xenofol third.

BONNER CITY MGR. MIDLAND THEATRES INCORPORATED

John Bonner has been made city manager of the Midland Theatres, Inc., Griffith interest houses, upon the transfer of Fred Morley to Roswell, N. M., where he will be district manager of New Mexico theatres and two Texas towns, Wink and Midland.

Bonner who has been connected with the executive staff of the Midland theatres, Yucca and Ritz houses, following the incorporation recently, was formerly house manager of the Yucca when that house was of the Southwest Theatres, Inc. Announcement that Bonner is to remain in Midland was received with pleasure Saturday by civic and business leaders as well as theatre patrons who learned that he was not to leave. Bonner is prominent in civic affairs, a capable public speaker, a splendid leader in movements requiring executive ability, a diligent worker for his city, and a man always willing to do more than his part for his community, his friends and associates declared.

Bonner is a long experienced showman, having managed some of the best theatres in West and East Texas. He was among the outstanding civic workers in all cities in which he lived, residents of those cities stated. The new town manager for Griffith is credited with building up out-of-town, as well as local patronage through friendships he has formed, and through his acquaintances made at the head of Midland good will trips as well as his cordial reception here to visitors.

Bonner took charge of the Midland houses Friday night, upon receipt of information from Griffith Brothers of his promotion. Relative to the continuation of policy carried out under former management, Bonner said when asked by The Reporter-Telegram that it had been understood in the organization that the Ritz will continue as the Class A house only as long as franchise problems at the Yucca persist. He said there will be an attempt to change back to the Yucca as the first house as soon as it is feasible.

Negro Buys First Midland Post Cards

It remained for a darky, one of that kind who reads and writes and yet preserves his dependent kinship to the white race, to buy the first colored cards Midland waited 40 years to get.

The leban man walked into a drug store and threw down some money, asking for 20 of the bright colored post cards. He explained he wanted people up north to see what a town he lived in.

He said a former employer in Boston would "sure be" surprised to see that big building in this little town." He referred to the 12-story Petroleum building.

The cards were secured through the chamber of commerce and distributed to merchants at cost.

MINISTER FINDS SELF "DUAL PERSONALITY" ON RETURN

To return home and find oneself elected the week before to the head of one of the strongest service clubs in the city must be a peculiar sensation—but this happened to the Rev. Leslie A. Boone.

The minister found upon arriving at his home from the Brady district conference and a several-day business visit in San Antonio that he had a big volume of Lions club letters among his personal mail. Several of the letters were addressed,

SMOOT-HAWLEY TARIFF PROBLEM PASSES HOUSE

WASHINGTON, June 14. (UP).—The Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, raising duties on imports, passed the house this afternoon, and will be sent to President Hoover.

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP).—Nearing the last of the scores of roll calls, the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill was taken up in the house for a final vote today, with republican leaders confident of its passage with at least an eight-point margin.

Republicans brought out the rule calling for a single vote on the two-conference reports, waiving all points of order, and shutting off of debate after three hours discussion following the adoption rule.

Council Formed To Abet Work of Scouts

Because of their desire to arrange programs and synchronize work of men and boy scouts, several men met Friday evening at the Higginbotham-Barlett company and organized into a body, the Home Organization of Boy Scouts, and elected officers.

W. Ily Pratt was elected president, L. O. Smith vice-president, Alvin Hicks secretary-treasurer and C. A. McClintic goat.

Other members of the council, which will meet once a month, are: the Rev. Leslie A. Boone, B. G. Grafa, J. E. Hill, John P. Howe, John Butler, Buster Howard, Alvin Patterson, the Rev. Thomas D. Murphy, Fred Middleton, W. W. Sharp, K. E. Ambrose, Mr. Holt and Field Executive Williamson.

Probe Shooting Of San Antonio Man

SAN ANTONIO, June 14. (UP).—Private John Corbin of the military police company at Fort Sam Houston was shot to death last midnight at the home of a local business man. His former wife, Mrs. Ruby White, was questioned. Military police are seeking soldier said to have been intimate with Mrs. White. She was employed in the home where the shooting occurred as a maid.

Biggest Cast Ever Assembled In City

Something unusual—extremely unusual—has marked the method of selling tickets for "Corporal Eagen," three-act rookie comedy to be staged at the high school auditorium June 19 and 20.

Nearly 250 tickets were sold to the American legion production before the director, Miss Dorothy Deck, arrived to start rehearsals.

Several features have been incorporated in the program for the two nights: a patriotic pageant will be staged; Ned Watson and a select orchestra will play and other general support has been enlisted.

Mrs. George Abell, director of the little theatre, and Paul T. Vickers, secretary of the chamber of commerce, are the latest members to join the cast. Mrs. Abell will play a nurse role, the other which is played by Miss Blakeney, and Vickers will do a song in a sailors role.

About 200 youngsters, as well as all the men in the sailor chorus, soldiers and girls choruses will be used in this flash of color and patriotism. "My Dream of the Big Parade" will be given at this time.

This scene will be more like a presentation act, and has never failed to go over "big" with other audiences to whom the popular play has been presented.

SMOOT-HAWLEY TARIFF PROBLEM PASSES HOUSE

WASHINGTON, June 14. (UP).—The Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, raising duties on imports, passed the house this afternoon, and will be sent to President Hoover.

SMALL HITS NEW NOTE IN ADDRESS AT ROCKWELL SAT.

ROCKWELL, June 14. — Passage of state laws requiring high standard of efficiency and moral character in members of all professions was advocated by Senator Clint C. Small, candidate for governor, in an address here Saturday.

Speaking before voters of Rockwell county he said that protection of the general public and members of various professions against unscrupulous or unethical charlatans made such measures necessary to the proper encouragement of experts who devote their lives to highly specialized vocations.

Cadet Flyers May Land Here Monday

The third of three contingents of flying cadets will land at the Midland airport about June 16. A group of 17 planes landed at Midland two weeks ago, and a group of 13 planes landed this week. The fliers were guests of Harvey Sloan, manager of the Midland field, at lunch. Midland is the refueling point for all army and navy planes bound to or from Fort Bliss to Fort Sill, San Antonio or other fields east or west over the southern route.

Business College Here Discouraged

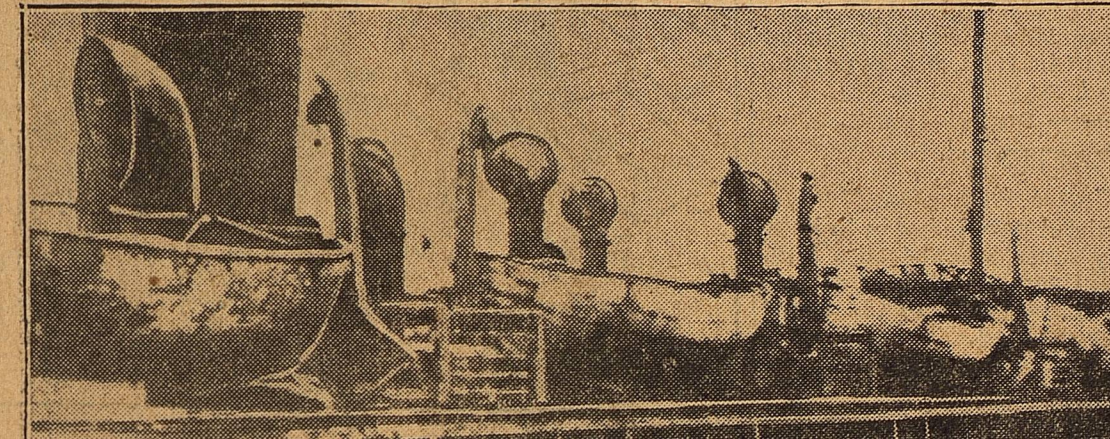

Keeping a business college from locating in Midland marked the unique action of the chamber of commerce Saturday.

The chamber has no empowering agency with which to restrain such location, an official at the headquarters office said, but can suggest eventual trends of business, which is generally the basis upon which such location is made.

The business college in question was described by the chamber of commerce official as unsuited in standard to needs of Midland. This, together with lack of strong financial backing, caused the commerce body to feel no hesitancy in turning down the proposal that the college be located here, it was explained.

It was said at the chamber of commerce office that any business office which would find encouragement here would be one that primarily boasted two qualifications: perfection of instruction and financial backing that would protect students who should enroll.

Above is the S. S. Fairfax of the Merchants' & Miners' Line, as the big passenger ship limped into port at Boston after a collision at sea with the oil tanker Pinthis in which approximately 40 persons lost their lives, according to first reports. Note the burned lifeboats on the Fairfax's deck, charred by the streams of flaming oil that burst from the tanker. At the right is a closeup of the great hole ripped in the Fairfax's bow by the collision.

AMARILLO TO BE SCENE OF BIGGEST FAIR IN HISTORY

AMARILLO, June 14. (Special).—The Amarillo Tri-State exposition will be held this year, September 22 to 27, inclusive, in "dressed up" surroundings.

Between $30,000 and $35,000 will be spent improving and beautifying the home of the Tri-State fair before the exposition opens in September.

Construction of an automobile building—the first permanent structure to be erected—will be the biggest item of cost, but will be smaller than other projects in adding to the appearance of the fair grounds. Contract for this building was let last week on a bid of $22,034.

This building also will house the annual tractor and implement show each spring.

The two cattle barns and the hog barn are being enlarged and improved at a cost of approximately $3,500.

But of greater outward attractiveness will be the repainting of all buildings, whitewashing of the race track fence, planting of trees and grassy spots, and other improvements that are under way.

Exhibits this fall will be placed in halls freshly painted white and striped with red. The old grandstand and water tower will be included in the campaign to make the fair park attractive.

Of no little interest is the new Potter County Zoo, immediately to the left of the main entrance. Although the zoo is small in comparison with others, it is a new attraction, and now contains 40 or 50 animals. This number will be greatly increased by fair time.

One of the entertainment features will be the Beckman & Gerety shows which are the world's best and they go from here to the Dallas fair for two weeks. Ernie Young's Revue in "Spanish Nights" and Leonard Stroud's Rodeo under the management of C. A. Studer will be given before the grandstand each day and night. Other features will be announced in the near future but the fair is facing its most successful year, in the opinion of Wilbur C. Hawk, president.

Cotton Consumption For May Lighter

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP).—Cotton consumed during May was announced by the census bureau today as 473,917 bales of lint, and 68,779 bales of linters, compared with 532,382 of lint and 66,951 of linters the previous month.

SOLVE MILK PROBLEM

Cooling station in Stanton would solve the problem of a milk route to the powered milk factory in Lamesa. It is thought by secretaries of the chambers of commerce in Stanton and Midland.

The two have held several conferences relative to the matter, both towns wanting to market its milk in Lamesa.

PRESS MEETING ENDS

CORPUS CHRISTI, June 14. (UP).—A motor tour of the Rio Grande valley marked the close of the annual convention of the Texas Press Association here today. San Angelo is expected to be named the convention city for next year.

MANY HURT AND FLOOD TOLL BIG

One Is Drowned Near Angelo; Rain Here .45

Culminating reports from throughout the United States of deaths from hurricane and flood, heavy rains fell in West Texas, .45 inch falling in Midland in the late hours Saturday, making the total since Friday's check .78.

The rain obstructed highway traffic around Midland, although buses had arrived before the general downpour started about 7 o'clock; the airport reported water standing a half foot between the administrative building and the army radio and meteorological station; a San Angelo telephone call revealed that the Concho had fallen back into its banks, but not until after nine greens in Santa Fe park's municipal golf course had been ruined.

San Angelo Hit

The San Angelo Standard-Times said the municipal course had been under water for more than three hours, and that three cabins and a $400 bridge of the boy scout village near there had been wiped out. There had been no rain during Saturday, but heavy rains over Friday, especially in the head country of the river, had inundated the whole country in that section.

Rainfall there was reported to have been .73 inch.

The body of Troy C. Lee of Luling, drowned one mile south of Carlisbad, had not been recovered.

Other calls revealed that rain had fallen, in some cases accompanied by storm, at most places over the southwest, especially in the Panhandle district of West Texas. Lubbock was the only place heard from late in the afternoon that had no rain reported.

Plane Stays Over

At Monahans a fair rain had fallen. Abilene reported sprinkling and a heavy cloud coring up; Big Spring had just experienced a storm and heavy rain; it was sprinkling at Fort Worth and storm clouds were gathering.

These reports were furnished through the courtesy of the telephone company, the weather station here and the airport.

The east bound Western Air Express plane on the Los Angeles to Dallas route spent the night in Midland, after landing in the murky weather more than two and a half hours late.

A light rain fell at Andrews, and at press time a report came into the newspaper office, saying Lamesa was at that moment weathering a storm.

One Dead

ABILENE, June 14. (AP).—One person is known to have been drowned and two families are reported as missing late today as result of floods, near Monday and Goree in Knox (See STORMS page 8)

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS

A cutting remark requires a sharp tongue.

Like to Know When Rain Falls? Ask Ray

When Virgil Ray cocks his eyes towards the clouds they have a habit, these cattlemen and others interested in weather conditions, of waiting to see what he has to say.

For Virgil is the unofficial weather prophet.

Dropping in for a visit with the editor of this newspaper Friday and finding him absent, Virgil remarked on the weather.

Thinking he was dodging the issue slightly, and making the weather just another utilitarian topic for passage of time, the staff writer, who talked with the cowman paid little attention to the prediction that it would rain more than a quarter-inch before night. And why not? There was not a cloud in the sky and smoke from a trash pile over the way was ascending straight towards the meridian.

In less than five hours, however, it was raining. The weatherman gave the precipitation as .33!

In this rain country they say there is need for more "Prophet Rays" than sun rays.

TEXAS GOES URBAN

The total population of the State is not yet known, but it is expected to be between 5,600,000 and 5,700,000. If it is more than 5,600,000, and the urban population should be 2,600,000, the state would be shown to be 53.6 per cent rural, and 46.4 per cent urban. However, it is probable that the percentage of urban population will be shown to be slightly less and that the rural population slightly more than the above figures. Ten years ago, Texas had 67.7 per cent rural population, and 32.4 per cent urban. It was expected that Texas would show at least 40 per cent urban population in 1930, but apparently it is greater than that.—The Texas Weekly.

USE OUR ATTRACTIONS

This is the season when Midland people begin to have summer guests. Not to be in any sense a resort city, Midland affords splendid vacation attractions. These attractions often appeal more to the guests than to the home people who simply take them for granted.

In entertaining your summer guests, remember that Midland has one of the best swimming pools in the state, take them out to see Cloverdale, one of the state's best water plants and one of the beauty spots of West Texas.

Dine your friends at local cafes, at some of those on the outskirts of the city, show them our hotels, office buildings and theatres. Acquaint them with every show place in Midland so they will go away with lasting impressions that Midland is something and has something.

Take them to oil fields and oil towns within a few hours of Midland. Take them to the ranch of a friend. Drop back to the old custom of giving the visitors a touch of horse back riding and cowpunching. Get a guest card and let them play some golf on one of the best courses in West Texas, or take them to a "peewee" course for a good time.

There's a lot of fun and entertainment in and around Midland, and if properly utilized, a lot of vacation dollars will be spent right here, and a lot of guests will have a far better remembrance of Midland than if they simply sit on the front porch and learn nothing about the place and its surroundings.

ANOTHER CINCH BET FOR YOU

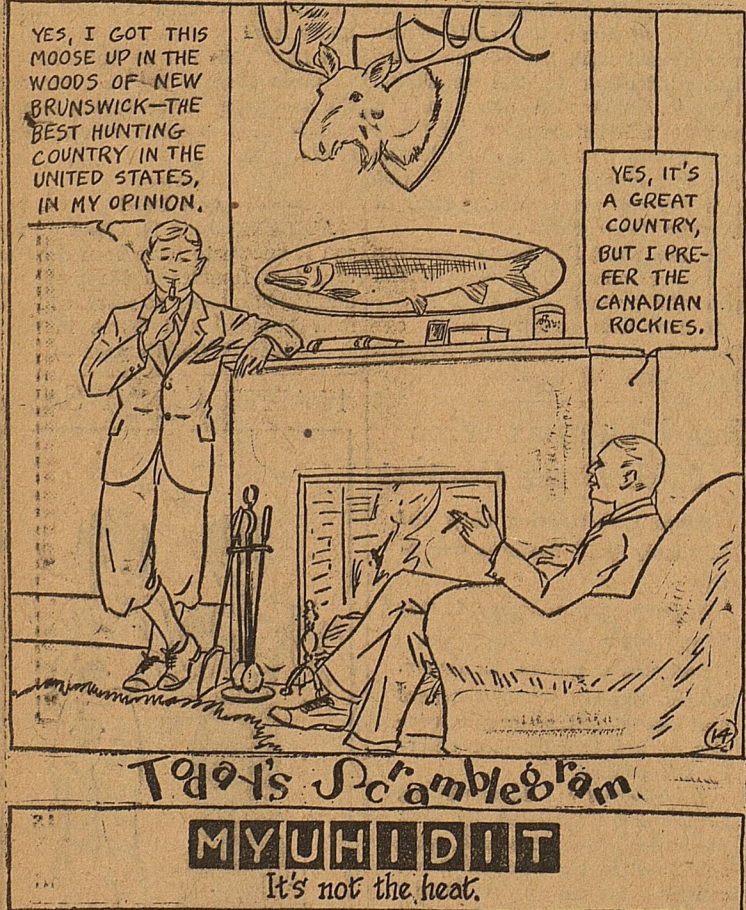

Today is Father's Day throughout the nation, yet it is to be doubted if many sons who wear Dad's neckties, attach his socks and "borrow" money for that date will remember. Dad doesn't mind, perhaps, being masculine, but he is born of woman and, for that reason, might glow inwardly from even a tacit recognition.

STILL BEHIND THE MAYOR

Do you want to be a murderer? Midland men and women who have the facility for reasoning are praising Mayor Goodman to the exclusion of talking campaign matters or the future of the town. They base their agreement with the logic of his decision on the fact that figures do not lie. Last year more than 31,000 persons were killed by automobiles in the U. S., more than 55 per cent of which were pedestrians. More than half of these pedestrians were killed at street intersections, by motorists who "did not stop."

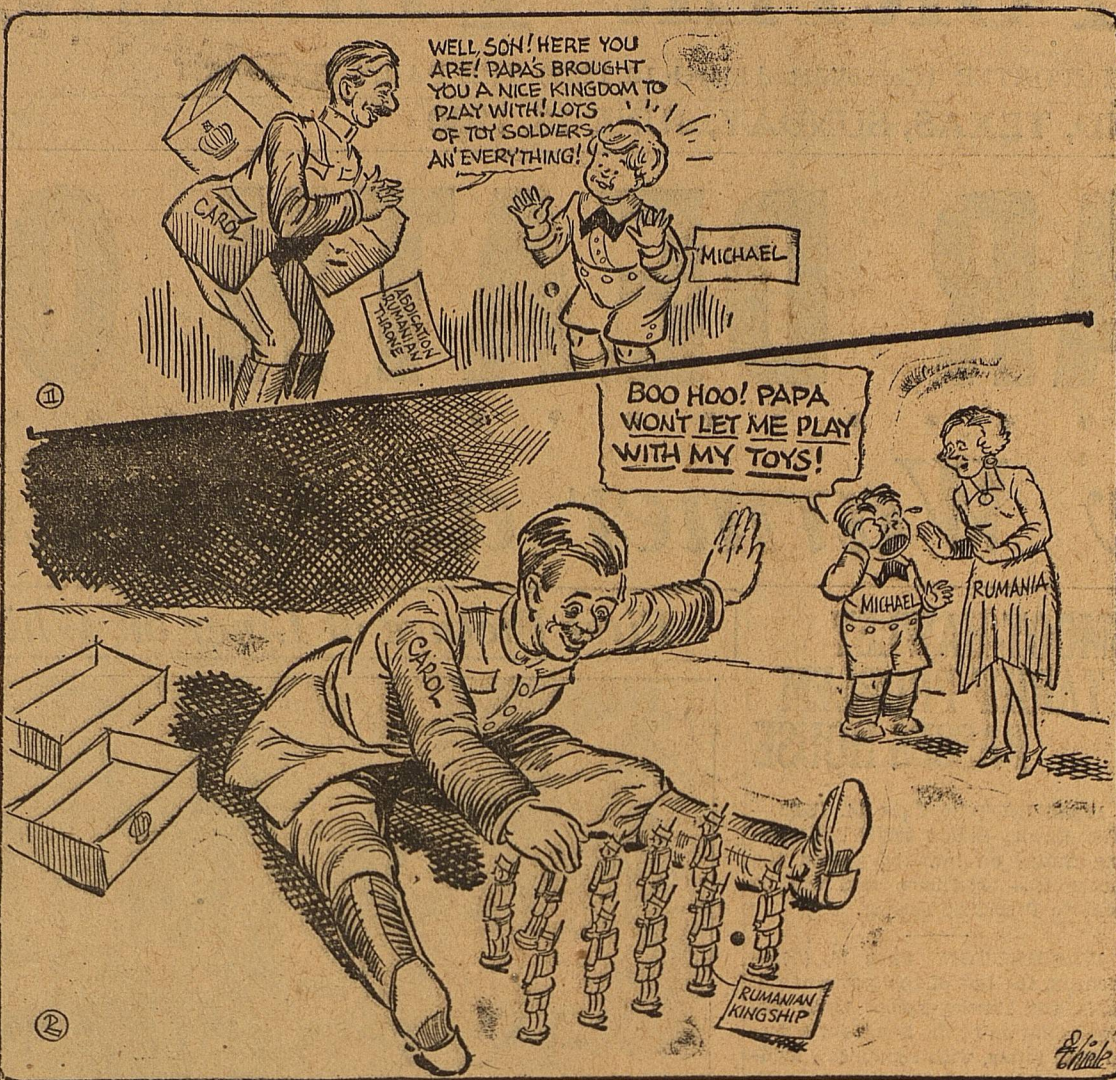

Women and girls are the chief violators here. Black lines will someday be spread across the front page of this newspaper, and some woman will feel remorse. She may be sent to the penitentiary. Certainly she will be made party to a heavy damage suit. She may have occasion to remember just how right the mayor really was. It would be better to think now.

ERRORGRAMS

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below — and unscramble it by switching the letters around.

Prohibition and Presidential Talk About Morrow Make N. J. Primary Interesting

By RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer

TRENTON, N. J., June 14.—Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, candidate for the senate, possible next president and fondest idol of the wets, will discover on the night of June 17 whether he is to be the brightest rising star on the political firmament or merely the world's most distinguished granddaddy.

This thing will be revealed to him by the voters of New Jersey in their Republican senatorial primary, which has kicked up a lot of more national interest than any other primary this year.

Morrow's opponents are: Franklin W. Fort, congressman, dry, Hoover spokesman in the house. Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, wealthy ex-senator, recently turned wet after defeats as a dry in the senatorial contests of 1922, 1924 and 1928.

This is a wet-dry fight, almost exclusively, in a wet state. So wet is New Jersey that if Morrow, with his very strong organization support, were running against Fort or against Frelinghuysen separately he would be bound to win by a large majority. It is Morrow's first campaign for political office.

Fort's entry raised the fear in Morrow's ranks that, with Morrow and Frelinghuysen splitting the wet vote, Fort would win the nomination by collecting a more or less solid dry vote despite its minority. Lately that possibility has been somewhat discounted by reports that Frelinghuysen's campaign was sagging badly. The dries are angered at him because of his apostasy and the wets dislike him because of his record. A great many persons think Frelinghuysen will run a poor third and Morrow will win.

Lindbergh a Factor An intangible but exciting factor is Morrow's very famous and popular son-in-law, Charles A. Lindbergh. Of course, Lindbergh has kept out of the campaign, but everyone knows the relationship and the reports that Morrow would soon become a grandfather on the many voters who are inclined to get sentimental. Organization support is very important and the Republican organization in Jersey is almost solidly behind the ambassador. Fort has almost no organization except the Anti-Saloon League which has put up quite a little money and the hardest fight it knows how to make. Frelinghuysen went to work months ahead of his opponents, spent a lot of money and rounded up many small local leaders.

Just where President Hoover gets off is a question. One hears that the failure of the state organization to back Fort instead of Morrow indicated a complete lack of co-operation with the administration; that Frelinghuysen is anti-Hoover because after long and faithful service and great aid to Bishop Cannon's anti-Smith campaign the best Hoover offered him was the governorship of Porto Rico; that Morrow entered the fight only after receiving unofficial White House approval; that the White House finally put Fort into the race in order to head off Morrow and back up Hoover's dry attitude, and so on.

The Presidential Aspect The Morrow presidential boom has greatly interested the national capital. The feeling in Washington that Hoover will have difficulty being renominated has strengthened rumors that Morrow will be his principal opponent at the 1932 convention in case of his election to the senate. Morrow has denied any such intentions. Nevertheless, both former Governor Stokes and President Hibben of Princeton have both publicly declared for his nomination for president.

Among Republicans who vote Republican rather than wet or dry Morrow has great strength, for it is generally conceded that he would have much the best chance to beat the wet Democratic candidate, Alex Simpson, next November. The Anti-Saloon League, believing it a matter of paramount importance to keep the Republican party dry, threatens to run an independent dry candidate in the election if Morrow wins. That would be rather likely to give Simpson the election.

Morrow, since his memorable speech announcing his belief in returning prohibition and its enforcement to the states, has not exactly made a flaming campaign. He depends on his record, his organization and his moist plank rather than any personal spell-binding.

Morrow "Running Twice" The ambassador is a candidate for both the remainder of the term of Senator Edge, now being temporarily served by Senator Baird and expiring next March, and the six-year term beginning at that time. Fort and Frelinghuysen are running only for the long term. Morrow probably will lose quite a few votes when voters fail to mark both crosses for him.

None of the candidates has any great personal popularity. Frelinghuysen was once head of the state grange and a favorite of the farmers. But most of the farmers are dry.

Fort doesn't mind being looked upon as the defender of the Hoover administration. He is very dry and has been denying that he personally ever drinks liquor. Once Fort made a speech in Congress and attracted national attention when he seemed to say that it was legal for people to make beer and wine in their homes. But lately Fort has been explaining to New Jersey's dries that he meant "non-intoxicating beverages."

PRIZE FISH STORY

CEDAR LAKE, Ind. (UP).—The prize fish story of the year is told by Alex Surprise. A pickerel in Cedar Lake is credited with retrieving a golf ball belonging to Dr. C. H. Crews, Hammond, when he over-shot the first hole recently. Surprise, who claims the fish as a pet, said the pickerel is grateful because he prevented its death by choking on a minnow.

TRADE RECESSION IS NOT DUE FOR A LONG LIFE

By ALLARD SMITH Vice President, The Union Trust Company, Cleveland

The American mass mind is subject to moods which fluctuate over a wide arc. In good times business sentiment is likely to swing up to a rather ridiculous pitch of unguarded optimism. Conversely when times are bad, pessimism is carried in extremes.

A year ago when trade and industry were making new high records and the speculative fever was rampant, men were talking in all seriousness about the "new era." The opinion widely prevailed that nothing could prevent the indefinite expansion of activities and rise of security prices. Then came the most devastating stock market collapse in history.

Optimism is frequently most pronounced, especially in the security markets, just before the crash comes. Similarly pessimism is usually most unanimous just at the moment that improvement in conditions is near at hand. Nothing is so characteristic of an American trade recession as the general belief that the country is in for a prolonged period, perhaps years, of poor business. Something like this feeling exists in some quarters now. Actually during the present century periods of receding business have never lasted more than about one year. Moreover from the point on the calendar when business falls as low as it did last December, genuine recovery in the past usually has gotten under way in from four to eight months.

There was some evidence that the turn appeared in April, but further weakness appeared in some important lines in May, indicating that real recovery may not appear until later in the year. The federal reserve board index of industrial production stood at 106 in April against 104 in March and 122 one year ago.

Factors at work to bring improvement include an ample supply of easy money, low commodity prices, some improvement in construction, and prospects of some gains for retail trade, as employment improves.

The Sailor Leads a Hard Life, Especially Now That Hornets Have Grown Sea-Going—Michigan's Chase S. Osborn Outlines His Qualifications for Office

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Heaven pity the poor sailors out on the sea tonight! The hornets are after them now.

Swarms of the insects, blown four or five miles out from land, settled on two large gas and whistling buoys off the Massachusetts coast and put out the lights. The Lighthouse Service of the Commerce Department reports.

Attracted by the heat, the hornets crawled in the ventilator holes in the lantern tops and found their way around the intricate arrangement of baffle plates to the gas burner.

The gas buoys have flashing lights which are turned off automatically every few seconds and relighted from a small pilot flame. A hornet got on the pilot flame and put it out. Dozens of the darned things were still in the lanterns when the lighthouse tender arrived.

Two years ago the Lighthouse Service was having trouble with hornets which took a fancy to some of the off-shore buoys and extinguished the lights.

Perhaps the frankest announcement of political candidacy for 1930 is that of former Governor Chase S. Osborn of Michigan, who will contest Senator James Couzens for the Republican senatorial nomination.

"As I see it," Osborn announced, "the nation cannot endure unless women and men who have fitness and taste for public position offer themselves.

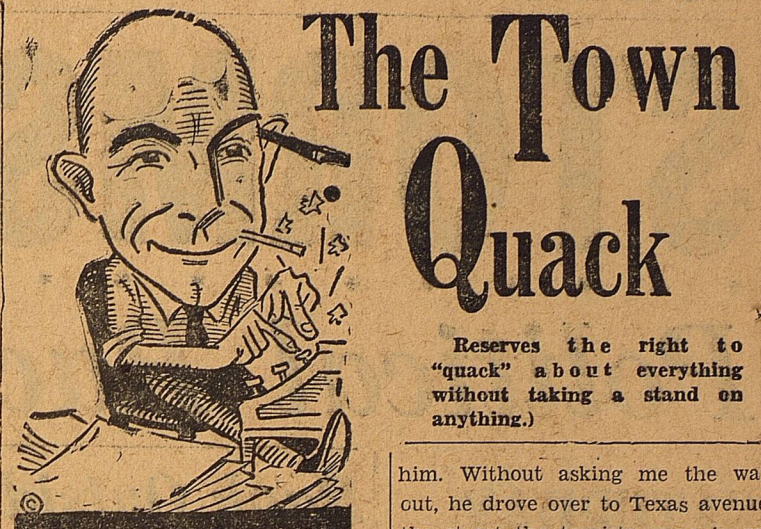

"These are critical times in the world, America is a serious object and subject in all political considerations. There is a demand for the best material that can be obtained in all that comports.

"I greet the citizens of Michigan respectfully and affectionately and offer myself."

Osborn was governor from 1911 to 1913. He will run as a dry as well as all those other things.

However, the London treaty eventually fares in the Senate, the navy engineers who are in charge of the designing of new warships are preparing to make America's new cruisers just as efficient as possible. It develops now that the three cruisers which were to have been laid down this year have been delayed because the engineers have re-designed them, giving them considerably increased speed and much greater fighting efficiency than their original plans called for.

In addition, final plans for the five cruisers that are scheduled to be laid down next year are being held up so that similar changes can be made in their design. Secretary of the Navy Adams has pointed out that it is this re-designing

People who have been worrying about where the postoffice is to be located received the startling information yesterday that Dr. Thomas had one wall up for his building. On investigation, they found it to be the north wall.

I don't think this happened to Midland, anyway not in a store that advertises. A bachelor bought a pair of socks and found in the box a note saying, "I am a young lady of 20 and would like to correspond with a bachelor with a view to matrimony." Name and address were given. The bachelor wrote, and in a few days got this reply, "Mama was married 20 years ago." Evidently the merchant from whom you bought the socks did not advertise.

The other day, a friend of mine who lives east of here, came through Midland en route to Odessa. He stopped by and asked me to go with that has temporarily postponed cruiser work, and not any uncertainty in the Navy Department over the Senate's action on the treaty.

Speaking of the London treaty brings to mind the fact that some of the Washington wits are using it as a peg on which to hang various jokes about Senator William E. Borah of Idaho. One wag has said that Senator Borah wants to support the treaty, but is holding back because he can-

THE TOWN DOCTOR

"DOCTOR OF TOWNS"

THERE ARE TOWNS THAT ARE GETTING SOMEWHERE

It has been my experience that the fellow who does the most crabbing about his community should have and what the people should and should not do, is the very fellow who does the least.

Some people are always ready to come to the party, but they are scarce as hen's teeth until the show starts, and they are always the first ones to make excuses and leave just in time to get out of playing the fiddler.

This kind of people are always ready to take but never want to put. If things go right they will take all the credit and shout to the world what a wonderful thing they did; but if things don't pan out one hundred per cent it's always the other fellow's fault. They would rather pull back than push forward, even though it takes more effort to pull than to push.

Sometimes you'll even find this kind of person in chambers of commerce and Lions clubs, but as a rule they are round sitting on the outside of the ball grounds waiting for a "doer" to knock a fly ball out of the lot so they can get a free ticket for carrying the ball back in. And when they get in, due to somebody else's effort, they are the first ones to give the home team the razzberry the first tough break they get.

Every community has a few such people, but some communities are full of them. They are the people George Ade referred to when he uttered the now famous saying, "about all that some towns need is a few first-class funerals." I have often thought that Mr. Ade surely had just gone through an attempt to induce some community to think about themselves and following through by doing something for themselves, when he made this remark.

There are towns that are going places and getting somewhere. There are communities that have come to the realization that because their community has always been in existence as far as the present generation is concerned, is no sign that it will continue to exist. Such communities can "take telling" and are doing just that. They are alive—they think, feel and act. They are the towns that are growing, where business is good and fast getting better.

The people in these communities are "sold" on their town and "sell" it to others, after getting it ready and suitable for sale; the merchants work together, go after and get what they require. Everybody who amounts to anything belongs to an up-and-at-'em organization which works for the betterment of the community, and every one of these organizations works with and for all the others.

You know where you stand. You know where Midland stands. I don't have to tell you, and you don't have to tell anyone else; for all anybody has to do to see where you and your community stands is to look at it.

HASTINGS, Mich. (UP)—Alexander Mayville, 99, is still following his favorite trade, that of a lumberjack. For the last 10 years he has resided at Irving, near here, and has cut wood on nearby farms. Simpson Comes Back After First Defeat

IN THE WORLD OF AVIATION

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
United Press Aviation Editor

WASHINGTON, (UP)—The air accident files of the Commerce Department have been turned over to the Actuarial Society of America for a study to determine the element of danger in modern flying and what modifications, if any, can be made in insurance policy clauses affecting flights.

Many years ago, when the public first began flying, a large number of insurance companies ruled their policies would be invalidated if the holders were killed in airplane accidents. Naturally, this risk of leaving one's family financially unprotected kept many persons from flying. In the last few years some insurance companies have modified these cancellation clauses. Nevertheless, they are still retained to some extent and the Commerce Department believe they act as a deterrent to increased flying.

If the analysis of the Department's accident statistics reveals that flying is much safer now than it was five years ago—and, judging by previous reports, it will—the insurance companies may liberalize their policies still further.

The Fifth International Air Congress will be held at the Hague from September 1 to 6, under the auspices of The Netherlands, it is announced here. The American Commerce Department has been asked to take part. Previous similar conferences were held at Paris in 1910; London, 1923; Brussels, 1925, and Rome, 1927.

The name of a young Navy aviator who was a member of the Navy-Interior Department aerial expeditions, which mapped a large, uncharted part of Alaska in 1926 and 1929, has been memorialized by having a prominent Alaskan mountain named for him. This peak, seven miles north of Devil's Thumb, has been designated by the Interior Department as Mount Burkett, in honor of the late Lieut. Eugene F.

Burkett, U. S. N.

Something new in juvenile parties was given at Miami, Fla., recently by Mrs. Alexander, a private pilot and mother of a young daughter. She celebrated young Mary's birthday by chartering a large transport plane and taking 14 children for an afternoon's flight over Florida and the Gulf of Mexico.

New Zealand is the proud possessor of the first "home-made" airplane, according to Commerce Department reports. The builder is a member of the Auckland Aero club, which shows its delight over his accomplishment by subscribing a fund to help him to qualify for a pilot's license. The plane is a one-seater monoplane, powered by a two-cylinder, 28-horsepower motor.

Incidentally, a greatly increased interest in private flying is reported by New Zealand clubs. There are now 35 private and club-owned planes in the southern continent as compared with only three a year ago. A remarkable safety record has been achieved by this group of pioneer fliers. They have had only one serious accident during the last year.

The first of the Navy's two new dirigibles now under construction by the Goodyear-Zeppelin Company at Akron, Ohio, has been designated the "Akron," by Secretary of Navy Adams. Previously it has been known by the military title, ZRS-4. The ring of this ship was laid by Rear Admiral William A. Moffett last October. It is to be completed by July, 1931. A second ship, similar in type, is to be ready about a year later.

Voice transmitters have been installed by the National Air Transport on a number of its planes flying the New York-Chicago-Southwest route. It is thus made possible for fliers, while traveling 125 miles an hour, to talk with ground stations up to 200 miles away. As a result of the new equipment, it is announced, pilots can report their exact position every 10 minutes and ask for weather information whenever it is needed.

This marks an expansion of the National Air Transport's radio facilities, which were inaugurated about 18 months ago by the installation of receiving sets in airplanes.

Little Theatre Is Starting Its School

DALLAS, Texas, June 14 (AP)—The annual Little Theater School of the Southwest, started three years ago under the supervision of Oliver Hinsdell, Director of the Dallas Little Theater, will be conducted here from now until July 12.

Nox Branch of Little Theater activity will be overlooked in the course which will include acting, directing, stagecraft, lighting, voice and diction, makeup, organization and business methods. Besides Hinsdell, the staff of instructors will include Miss Louie Britton, executive secretary of the Dallas Little Theater, Miss Mary O'Dell Mitchell, member of the faculty of Kidd-Key College, Sherman, the past winter, Lester Lang, Technical Director of the Little Theater here, and Miss Margaret Barron, makeup artist for the Dallas Little Theater.

The course will give each student an opportunity to practice the producing methods which resulted in the Dallas Little Theater winning first place in the national competition three years in succession.

In addition to the regular courses, students will be given the benefits of lectures. Emma Petsey, well-known puppeteer of Dallas, will demonstrate the various types of puppets and the mechanics of a puppet show on an especially constructed portable stage. Julia Hogan, who recently returned from a year's study and travel in Europe, will talk on the European theater-goer and the religious drama. Dramatic criticism for little theaters will be discussed by John Rosenfield, Jr., dramatic critic of the Dallas News.

SAT Pilots Have Own Idea of Pets

Dogs and goats that fly may sound as though they belong in a freak zoo, but their only difference from the common variety is in their masters. They are pets of pilots of the Southern Air Transport division of American Airways, Inc., and do their flying in airplanes.

When Walter B. McAllister, pilot on the Dallas-Brownsville run, found a goat in Brownsville that he wanted, he borrowed a ship on his day off and flew down for it. His pretty blond bride flew all the way back beside the "critter" to supervise its first trip by air. By this time, the flier is tired of his odiferous, omnivorous pet and the goat may get another ride if he finds a more tractable pet along his route.

Homer Rader, now pilot on the Tulsa-Kansas City leg of the Dallas-Cleveland service but formerly on the Dallas-El Paso line, found a Chihuahua dog in El Paso that won his heart and an air trip back to the Dallas base. Bledsoe (Slim) Payne has two canaries, "Juarez" and "El Paso," who hail from the respective cities and who have broken all canary records for speed and distance in flight.

Other pets belonging to the S. A. T. pilot personnel include a police dog, spitz dog, fox terrier and goldfish.

DUELING SCENE OF RAMON NOVARRO'S "IN GAY MADRID" FILMED AT DAWN

"Novarro Company. Verdugo Woodlands. Sound. Shooting 5 a. m. Report in makeup."

Such was the startling announcement posted one night in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer casting office when Ramon Novarro was working in "In Gay Madrid," his new all-talking and singing picture which will open today at the Yucca Theatre.

It meant that Robert Z. Leonard, the director, was going to follow the script in minute detail and the script described the duel scenes at taking place at daybreak.

Technicians Arrive Early

Out in the woodlands, the camera crews and technicians worked in darkness making ready for the coming of dawn when actual filming was to begin.

"Gosh, I wonder how the crack of dawn will record?" kidded a sound man.

"Probably blow out a valve," growled a growchy cameraman who hadn't had his morning coffee.

A sporty roadster lurched around the bend and the mountainous figure of the director loomed out of the low seat.

"Ready boys?" he greeted. "If we don't hurry we'll have too much sun!"

Another car pulled into the clearing framed by dripping cypress and pepper trees. Out stepped Novarro, swathed in the traditional Spanish student robes he wears in the picture.

"I feel just as though this were a real thing—like I was about to be shot!" he sighed, rubbing his eyes as he paced to the makeup table.

"Make me up for a corpse!"

Cameras Click As Sun Rises

As the sun poked up behind the purpled hills, trying its best to pierce the gray shroud that hung over the hillside, the cameras and microphones were swung into position and the dueling scene was enacted in the natural light of dawn.

When this was ended, Dorothy Jordan, the leading lady, was drawn away from the warming fire built of tree branches, and played the field of honor love scene with Novarro, one of the dramatic moments of the production, an adaptation of the romantic Spanish classic by Alejandro Perez Lugin.

Included in the supporting cast of the new Novarro picture are Lotice Howell, Beryl Mercer, Claude King, William V. Mong, Nanci Price, Herbert Clark and David Scott.

Mrs. Z. T. Cox left for a visit to Ft. Worth this morning.

Mrs. Legg Gives Resume Of Reports Given By Miss Beecher Here Thurs.

By MRS. AUBREY S. LEGG. Miss Elizabeth Beecher, representative from the National Council of the Episcopal church, chose as the subject of her address Thursday to the Midland body "Religious Education."

"Our Lord defined His mission as that of bringing a super-abundant life, and the gospels afford proof of the fact that in applying his mission he ministered to the physical and mental well-being as well as the spiritual. These three objectives are closely interwoven. His thought - provoking teaching was given to all who would listen, but much of the period of his active ministry was spent in arousing the mental activity of twelve ignorant men along religious lines. His mission was a mission of life, but it was man's three-fold life which interested him. The visible church—Christ's body on earth—must have the ideal of one mission, composed of three essential elements—physical well-being, mental well-being and spiritual well-being.

"The early church fostered education—religious and secular — and laid the corner stone of civilization in far places. The modern church strives to render itself adequate to the Christian needs of the present; it offers an authentic message concerning God; it offers acquaintance with the great men of the past; it gives men a long view of life—from the great civilizations of the past to the great eternities; it offers a fellowship with the host of believers of the world; it enriches us with the noblest traditions of the past, gives us comradeship with the loftiest spirits of the present, and challenges us to the task of devoting our talents, our keenest wisdom and highest genius in making the work what it should be.

"The greatest need of the modern world is education into right thinking. It is not a corruption in its most overt forms with which the world is menaced; it is rather the sordid and vulgar spirit which apparently engulfs the masses, magnifying money and power—the dominating forces of the world today. Any nation which has become cynical or tolerant or complacent in its attitude toward corruption in high places or the lowliest existence, in public life or which has for any reason become morally torpid, is in grave danger, no matter what its wealth or what its power.

Few Books For Jr. Readers At Library

The Midland library still has a few of the little "Books I have read" to give out to Junior High School children.

Some of the children are enthusiastic about the plan. They are asked to keep a brief record in a blank book which the library gives them of their summer's reading and to present the books the first of September for examination. Those children who have the best-kept and most interesting books will be given prizes. They read any books they want to read, and are not even required to get the books at the library.

As to whether or not such a plan appeals, depends entirely on the temperament of the child. Many children of their own accord keep at least a list of the books they read.

These small books merely provide space for "what I think of this book" in addition to the author and title and the date of the reading.

There are not many books left, so if there are other children who want them, they should call at once.

Mrs. H. D. Holley and daughter, Myrtle, of Post, are spending today with Mrs. J. H. Dean and daughters.

They will be taken to that city by aeroplane, will have a special car in the parade and will be honor guests at various social functions. The Midland duchess was officially named by Chris Ming, business man of Big Spring, who is general chairman of the Oil Men's Jubilee to represent Midland in all the social affairs of the three-day celebration.

The social events include a tea, a banquet, coronation of the queen and the queen's ball.

BARBARA STANWYCK DANCED HER MERRY WAY INTO SUCCESS

The frolicsome path of Terpsichore has started many an actress on the more serious road of dramatic endeavor. It was the ability to dance that started Barbara Stanwyck on a career that won for her an established reputation at the age of twenty-two.

Barbara Stanwyck, who plays a featured role in "Ladies of Leisure," the Columbia all-talking drama adapted from the David Belasco play by Milton Herbert Gropper, now showing at the Ritz Theatre, danced from her earliest childhood. When she was sixteen she signed her first professional contract to dance. It was a Broadway cabaret. A chorus engagement in the musical show, "Keep Cool" followed. It was during the run of "Keep Cool" that Miss Stanwyck first received recognition. She and five other girls were picked to do imitations. Barbara's bit was to impersonate Louis Wolheim in the "Hairy Ape." After that she continued with dancing parts.

Barbara's real chance came in the Willard Mack opus, "The Noose." She was engaged for the cabaret scene. When Mack needed three girls to do bits, Barbara was chosen as one. She did so well that he gave her a few lines to read. Again she scored, and when the opening presented itself, Mack promoted her to the lead. Arthur Hopkins saw her in the lead and engaged her for the principal role in "Burlesque." Her success in this role established her definitely as a Broadway star.

Her role in "Ladies of Leisure" is a different one—one that demands artistry. She is co-starred with Lowell Sherman and Ralph Graves. Supporting roles are played by Marie Prevost, Nance O'Neil, George Fawcett, Johnnie Walker and Juliette Compton. Frank Capra, ace director, handled the megaphone.

Connelly, Marc, "The Green Pastures." This was awarded the Pulitzer prize as the best play of the year. Says Heywood Brown, "... easily the most gallant and glamorous dramatic use which anybody has ever brought forth from the rich vein of American negro material. Personally, I would rather have written this play than made Lindbergh's hop to Paris."

"The Green Pastures" reaches moments which are for me more stirring than anything I have ever seen in the theatre."
James, Marquis, "The Raven." This great biography of Sam Houston took the Pulitzer prize as the best biography of the year. Every person in Midland should read it. It is free at the Midland county library.

Jones, E. S., "The Christ of every Road," a study in Pentecost. By the author of the very charming "The Christ of the Indian Road." Both are at the library.
Mr. Jones was elected bishop of the Methodist church, but declined the honor and returned to the mission field.

Woolf, Virginia, "A Room of One's Own." Essays on women. Seems to be about those women who want to lead creative lives instead of being mothers. But Mrs. Woolf writes pretty well.

Miss Hazel Herron is expected in Midland in a few days to visit her sister, Mrs. W. C. Kinkle. Miss Herron has just completed a year's work in Simmons University, having received her degree this spring.

CHURCHES

THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

George F. Brown, pastor

"The Revival of a Dead Church" will be the pastor's theme for this morning's message. Every member should make it a point to be present. The remedy will be taken directly from God's Book.

"What Think Ye of Christ?" will be the evening theme. We have opinions about nearly everything else and do not hesitate to express them, but our opinion of Christ will and does color our lives for more than we think. What do you think about Him?

Sunday school at 9:45. B. Y. P. U. at 8:00. You have our most cordial invitation to come.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Thos. D. Murphy, Pastor

"Religion vs Life" will be the theme for the morning service today by the pastor. In connection with this service Mr. H. L. McClintic will give a brief report of his trip to the general assembly in Charlottesville, Va. He was a commissioner from El Paso presbytery.

At the evening service the pastor will speak on the subject "Does It Make Any Difference What You Believe?"

The Sunday School and Endeavor societies will meet according to the regular schedules today.

It is the plan to hold a daily vacation church school in the latter part of the summer, beginning about the 17th of August. Miss Sarr, director of religious education in El Paso presbytery, will be general director.

Poem Is Dedicated To Local White Ribbon Recruits

Mrs. Florence A. Richardson, who is widely known for her delightful story writing and poetry, has composed a poem in honor of the Midland White Ribbon recruits of the W. C. T. U. In her recent dedication of twenty-five recruits, Mrs. Richardson read this poem, which has also appeared in the State W. C. T. U. paper, The White Ribbon.

TO OUR WHITE RIBBON RECRUITS

Florence A. Richardson Oh, dear little woman and man soon to be— To the great cause of Temperance we dedicate thee. On each little wrist we will tie ere you go The symbol of purity—the white ribbon bow.

And when you grow older we hope you will stand For Temperance, and drive alcohol from our land; And help us to make it a place of delight, Encircled and twined with this ribbon of white.

May the white bow of ribbon be precious to you Its influence follow all your life through— And we pray the dear Father to be near you each day— To bless and protect you and guide you always.

TRI-COUNTY LEAGUE STARTS WITH EIGHT TEAMS

Schmeling Recognized as Champion of World

BUSHERS-OILERS TO PLAY HERE AT 3 TODAY

By "MISS" HERB ROUNTREE (Sports Staff-Writer)

In four towns of three counties, baseball games this afternoon at 3 o'clock will start the first half of the Tri-County league, made up of eight towns and villages that organized Friday night week in Odessa, under Nash Tucker, president and Dickey Dickenson, secretary-treasurer.

In Midland the clouting Bushers go to bat with the Oilers, who are ready to concede their rivals nothing but the winning of a recent practice game.

Relatively nothing is known of the prowess of the Oilers' pitching staff, but it is no secret that the Bushers have four pitchers groomed, including the former Texas league prospect, Forney—who, incidentally did report to training camp but who did not last because of his feet giving him trouble. The other pitchers are Girdley, Hill and Sheppard. Cook will do the receiving.

Pennwell plays at Stanton, Odessa at Lenora and Valley View at Pleasant Valley, all games to start at 3 o'clock.

Unofficial figures which include Wednesday's game gave the Washington veteran a mark of 394, ten points, down from last week, while Simmons with an increase of ten points, was but five points behind. Rice's margin over Simmons a week ago was 18 points. The best gain of the week was produced by Lou Gehrig, Yankee first baseman, who hiked his mark 36 points to enter the leading ten circle for the first time this season.

TEXAS ELECTRIC STAGES UNIQUE DEMONSTRATION

The Texas Electric Service company has had on display some of the new General Electric commercial refrigerator models during the past two days.

B. F. Taylor, merchandising manager of the Midland district, found upon experimenting that the new models will likely solve many perishable problems for hotels, restaurants and other like places.

The large refrigerators, ranging in size from 17 to 130 cubic feet capacity, like the small domestic models, have the same efficient, trouble-free, hermetically sealed unit. This requires no servicing, due to simplicity of make and perfection of details, which are fully protected.

The cabinets of these commercial line refrigerators can be obtained in many different styles, with meat hooks or without. In addition to the cabinets there are water coolers for any service, milk coolers, ice freezers, biological and ice cream cabinets, etc.

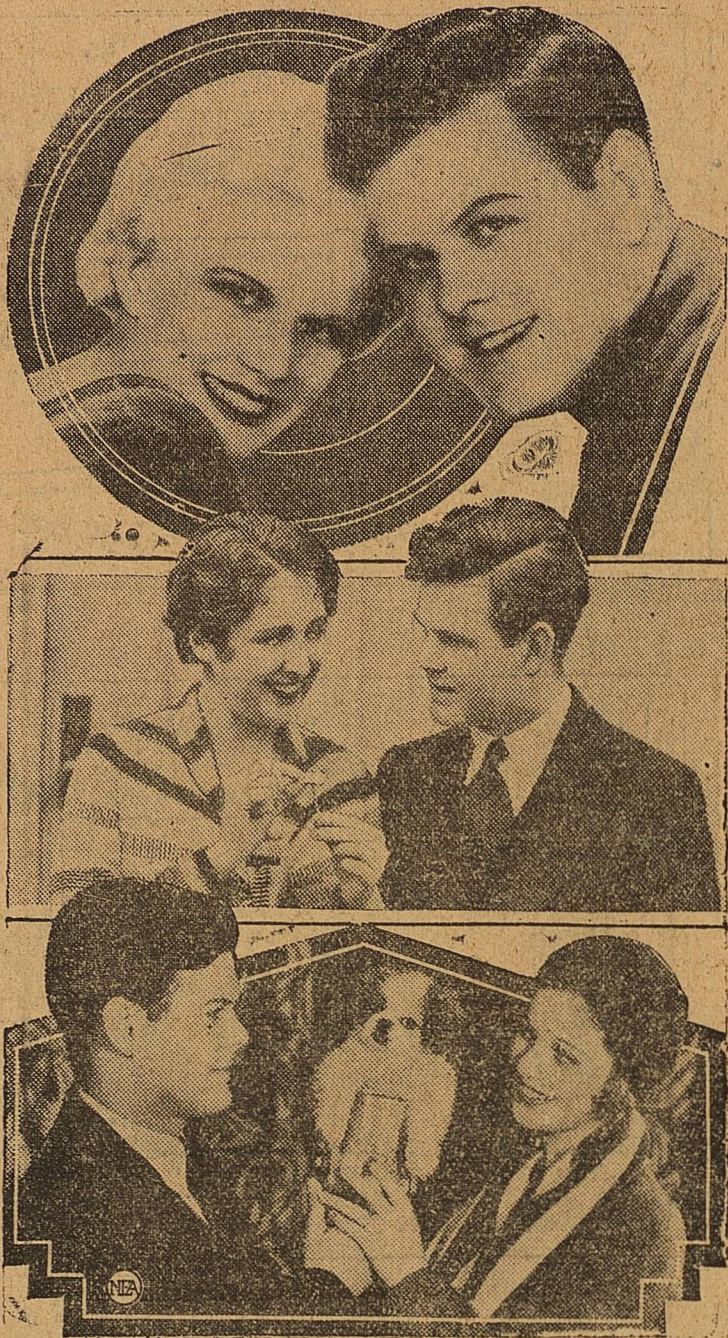

According to Taylor, more of this brand of refrigerator is going into the American home than any other. He attributed this overnight popularity to the fact that, of all the hundreds of thousands of owners, not one has spent a cent for service or repair.

The Midland district has sold more than six car loads of these refrigerators since January 1.

The exhibit here Friday and Saturday was carried on a three-ton truck with a special body. J. E. Vaughan and E. R. Morgan of the E. O. Cone Co., El Paso distributors, were in charge.

Similar demonstrations will be made in all the larger cities of West Texas and the Panhandle.

IT'S A TOUGH JOB!

STEEL ROADS

LONDON.—Roads of steel are scheduled for the future if one such road built on the King's Road, Chelsea, proves practical. It is a continuous network of tough steel, whose interstices are filled with concrete. On the surface, however, the metal grid is directly exposed to the wheels of vehicles. It is expected to last twice as long as any other road.

Races Far On Stock Generals

In the opening championship race of the 1930 auto racing season, at Langhorne Speedway, near Philadelphia, Pa., R. W. Painter, daring race driver, found that after covering the entire course at a terrific rate of speed, the stock General Dual Balloon 8 tires, with which his racing car was equipped, showed no signs of wear whatever. Painter is shown above in his car.

Before the race started, the same tires were driven on Painter's racing car 100 miles in practice heats without requiring any attention.

In making his plans to enter his car in the annual Memorial Day race at the Indianapolis Speedway, Painter said he expected to use the same tires there as he had used in the East.

"Having proved their right to be known as 'blow-out proof' tires, I am convinced that General Dual Balloon 8's are the safest tires for race drivers as well as the ordinary motorist," Painter said, after the race. "Although they are stock tires, not made specially for racing, I selected them in preference to other specially-made racing tires, which have not stood the tests that the Generals have stood."

ANCIENT CHESS

CARIO.—It is now thought that the ancient Egyptians, and not the Chinese and Persians, were the first to play chess. This thought is brought about by the discovery of a complete chess board and men in the tomb of Ra Quer, near the pyramids. The board and men were in good condition considering the centuries they have been entombed.
