WOMAN QUIZZED IN MAN'S DEATH

German Mine Explosion Causes Death of 144 Workmen

GAS TAPPED WHEN SHOT IS FIRED

"Unlucky" Mine Took 7 Men in Blast Last Year

NEURODE, Germany, July 10. (AP)—One hundred forty-four are dead from the Wencklaus mine explosion, mostly badly burned. There is no hope for others remaining in the shaft.

Forty-nine of the 193 working in the shaft when the blast came, escaped, but they were burned and badly injured.

The blast came when a large gas pocket was tapped during blasting, the fumes spreading quickly through the shaft.

Rescue work, proving increasingly hazardous, was finally abandoned at midnight after many rescuers, some wearing gas masks, were overcome or injured.

Three years ago, a similar blast in the same mine took seven lives, that explosion earning the shaft the reputation of "unlucky mine" among Silesian workers.

Riding Fad Expected To Gain Much Favor

Every Midland road may become a bridle path if the plans of Spence Jowell and "Timberline" Floyd are carried out.

These two owners of Cowboy park propose establishment of a modern riding stable at the fair grounds for men and women in Midland who would like to continue the popular sport they possibly took up years ago.

Horses would be rented at nominal costs to those who would like to ride. Mrs. Clarence Schabarber and several Midland women have valuable saddle mounts and would possibly aid in the establishment of such a club. Midland is pointed out as a town with more sports recreation than most other towns in Texas, and it is the plan of the Cowboy park promoters to give the town another sport, one that should be readily taken up by them.

A place will be arranged at the park where cars may be parked while men and women ride. It is thought that regular club parties will be made up, horses hired and evening lunches eaten at out-of-the-way spots over the country.

Besides this, the promoters are going to keep polo animals and a saddle mounts belonging to town people. They will "board" the animals for a figure that is said to be entirely reasonable.

Midland Registers Low Temperatures

Midland and Del Rio were the most uniform cities in the state last weather week as regarded temperature, and showing cool nights.

The two cities showed 94 degrees for maximum temperature registered during the weather week, ending July 9. Only three cities reported lower minimum temperature than Midland during the same period. Midland had 64. Dalhart was lowest with 58.

Precipitation was listed as .04 in Midland.

This is seasonal temperature in Midland, old timers will say. Summers are more comfortable in Midland, it is pointed out, than most cities of the state.

Patient Is Dead; Doctor Under Bond

SAN ANTONIO, July 10. (AP)—Mrs. W. R. Spence, wife of a city patrol driver, is dead and Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Ogilvie were slightly injured in a shooting last night at the Ogilvie home. Ogilvie is free under $10,000 bond today.

Mrs. Spence, a patient of Ogilvie's, drove up in an automobile, and neighbors reported they heard a voice calling for Ogilvie and the shooting followed. Mrs. Spence was found dead on the sidewalk, and an empty pistol by her. Several bullet holes were through the door of the Ogilvie home.

Just A Prince

Happy days are here again for 8-year-old Michael of Roumania, who is shown in this recent photo with his faithful dog. A Crown Princeling, Michael discovered, has much more fun than a King, now that his father, Carol II, has resumed the throne. And so far as titles are concerned, the boy has been named by Parliament as the "Grand Voevod of Alba Julia," although his tutor warned the legislators that the fanciful term originated in a Viennese operetta.

SMALL MEETS BIG RECEPTION WHEN EAST TEXAS HIT

By WILLIAM LANGLEY, (Special to Reporter-Telegram)

TYLER, Texas, July 10.—Senator Clint C. Small of Wellington, democratic candidate for governor, came to Smith county Wednesday to make votes, and at a meeting held in his honor on the lawn of the court house here Wednesday night East Texas accorded him a genuine welcome.

Two thousand persons heard the candidate from the plains country present his claims to the office of chief executive of Texas, and delegations from nine neighboring counties came to encourage him in his race.

Senator Tom Pollard presided over the meeting. The candidate was introduced by Carl Estes, editor of the Tyler Morning Telegraph.

In his introductory speech Estes drew a colorful analogy between the gubernatorial aspirants and a row of merchants offering bargains in governors.

"Not over twenty-five per cent of the voters have made purchase," he said. "I make this comparison," he said, "to show that not a single candidate has this election in his vest pocket."

"Despite the claims of Mayfield, folks, this is 'any man's race' in any congressional district."

Exhibiting a sheaf of telegrams from practically every newspaper in the eight counties of the third congressional district, Estes said neither Young, Mayfield nor any other candidate had the election in East Texas "sewed up" at this time.

Senator Pollard in presenting Estes said that East and West Texas have much in common in that the vast plains country is populated with pioneers from this section of the state. During his address, Senator Small was applauded frequently, and old political prognosticators openly declared at the close of the meeting that the plains candidate was almost certain to poll a heavier vote than was first expected in this section.

WINS SWIMMING EMBLEM

John C. Dunagan, in competition with hundreds of boys in the CMTC at Fort Bliss, El Paso, won a junior life saving emblem given by the Red Cross, according to a letter to The Reporter-Telegram from Henri A. Luebermann, publicity official for the camp.

OTHER TOWNS ARE INVITED TO COME HERE ON THURSDAY

People from surrounding towns as well as the home town people and rural folk have been invited to Midland on Political Bargain day next Thursday. It is expected that large crowds will be here from Stanton, Odessa and Andrews, especially.

The merchants of Midland started Wednesday selecting their bargains to be offered Thursday. Two big stores which have sales events starting this week will offer extra special bargains along with other stores next Thursday.

A peppy speaking program is now assured. Some of the local candidates will tell how they expect to send their opponents "up Salt Creek." The stump being shipped to Midland will be big enough for the widest footed candidate in Midland county to stand on it with comfort.

Several hundred people are expected in Midland during the day to attend the political rally. Every candidate in the race for governor was sent a wire Wednesday by Homer W. Rowe, inviting them to come to Midland or to send representatives.

Political Bargain day will be participated in by all merchants of Midland who wish to enter this stimulating sales event. The Midland chamber of commerce will provide general publicity for the merchants.

Rotary Delegates Deliver Reports

Reports of delegates who attended the conference of Rotary club presidents and secretaries of the 41st district, at Abilene Monday and Tuesday, were made at the luncheon of the local club today by T. Paul Barron and W. R. Upham.

Detailed outline of the aims and objects plan of organizing committees and club activities was given. W. I. Pratt spoke briefly on vocational services of Rotary clubs.

Leon Goodman outlined briefly a plan of both local and national importance which is to be acted upon through various civic organizations in the near future.

"Fore!" Means Four Minutes to Course

One deacon, one elder and one minister walked about town last night with clubs in their hands.

Not for any purpose akin to abolishing sin was their stealthy progress devoted, however; "just an assault on holes," the Rev. Thomas D. Murphy said when his attention could be got long enough for recognition to show in his eyes.

The minister did not mean "dives" or "speakeasies"; he was playing golf of the miniature variety, and his fellow churchmen were playing with him. They had been seen filing out of the church door exactly five minutes before the deacon was heard to utter a sonorous "fore!" when the elder stepped in front of one of his erratic shots through a hazard.

The men had been to prayer meeting.

Simmons Captain Stanton Mentor

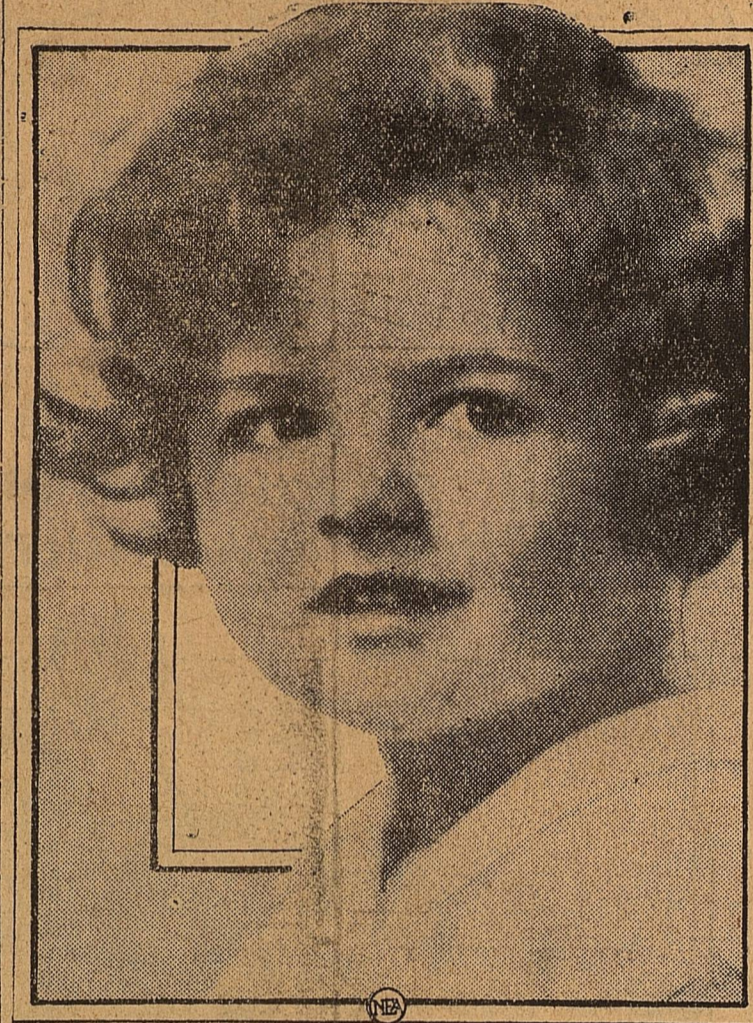

STANTON, Texas, July 10.—Announcement was made today by C. L. Sone, superintendent of schools that Rufus Hyde, former Simmons university football star, was elected athletic coach of the Stanton high school Buffaloes for the coming season, succeeding Briggs Irvin, resigned to accept a coaching position at Merkel.

Hyde comes highly recommended as a leader and it is expected that the Stanton athletic teams will maintain their high standing in the district. The coach was a captain and played quarter on the Cowboy squad last season.

Midland Men Open "Fresh Air" Links

Plans for opening the "Fresh Air Golf Course" at Hobbs are about completed by four Midland oil men: C. L. Jackson, Dan Lillis, Allen Watts and M. C. Lucky. The course, of the miniature type, is in the heart of the business section.

You'll have to agree those contest judges knew what they were doing when they selected John Raymond Le Huquet, above, of Victoria, B. C., as the most attractive child in the United States and Canada. MIDLAND MAY SEE YOUNGEST AND OLDEST PILOTS IF THE NATIONAL AIR RACES GET CONTROL STOP AT PORT

Vickers Wins Colorado Race By Walkover

Paul T. Vickers is a terrapin! Believe it or not.

And he is not only a terrapin, but he is the second of his lineage.

Furthermore, in Colorado they will tell you he ran a race and beat a good field of fast contestants in that place recently.

With apologies to the secretary of the Midland chamber of commerce, it must be explained that a punster, jokester, wag or some other good expression synonymous with prankster entered a terrapin in a derby there last week, and announced its name as Paul T. Vickers II. The flat shell scampered, if terrapins scamper, over the field at a lively clip, if terrapins travel at a lively clip, and brought money to his backers.

But the secretary of the Midland chamber of commerce scarcely saw the point to a headline that read: "Paul T. Vickers Outprints Fast Field Here." That is, not until he read what had happened.

ATLANTIC MAKES FIRST OIL RUN IN NEWEST LINE

The first oil run of the recently completed eight-inch welded line of the Atlantic Oil company from Midland to Hobbs, N. M., was made at 10 o'clock Wednesday, water being pushed ahead. Regular carriage will result this week.

The line was shut down for a short time this morning while a repair was made, a leak having been discovered. Another repair was made Wednesday night.

The line had previously been tested by a water pressure of 600 pounds. It has a capacity of 18,000 barrels of oil a day, and transports crude from Hobbs to the Atlantic farm here, from where the main line leads to Port Arthur. This main has a capacity of 40,000 barrels a day.

If Midland is able to land a control stop in the coming national air races this town will see pilots of every description, and some of the latest production planes that are capable of doing many more hours in the air each day than those seen here during the past two years when the races landed on Sloan field.

Young vs. Old Pilots CHICAGO, July 10. (UP)—The past joins hand with the present this year at the 10th anniversary of the "Olympiad of the Air"—the national air races, which are to be held here August 23 to September 1.

Veteran pilots who can still remember "way back when a flying machine was a dangerous thing to handle meet with yearlings whose wings are freshly won. Men who flew "pusher" planes at a height of 500 feet at a speed of 50 miles an hour, will meet youngsters to whom airplane signifies but one thing—a smooth sleek craft, airworthy, capable of great speed and distance.

Officials of the meet, however, are mainly of the old school—men who have been flying since man first ventured into the air.

Among these old timers is R. W. Schroeder, former army major, and present chairman of the contest committee of this year's races. A native of Chicago, "Shorty" Schroeder has been a pilot since 1912, and in the intervening years has done much to advance the science of aeronautics.

Ranking Ace Reed Landis, one of the ranking American aces of the World War, who had downed nine enemy airplanes and one balloon when the Armistice was signed, directs the advertising for this year's races.

Landis, a former army major, is the son of Kewasaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner. He served with the Illinois cavalry during the border trouble in 1916. One of the first men to be transferred to the aviation corps, he was sent to France and worked with the Royal Air Forces.

In September, 1918, he was transferred to the American Air Service. Landis has flown regularly since the war, and is a member of practically every flying organization in the Chicago area. As publicity director of this year's races, he enters his first official connection with this annual event.

SUPERINTENDENT HUGHES TOOL CO. CHECKS BIDS HERE

The Midland plant of the Hughes Tool company will not only service all Hughes products of the region but will service the surrounding fields when these fields may be reached by truck, Wade W. Hampton, superintendent, said this morning.

Although essentially a servicing plant, workmen will not fail to experiment upon tools calculated to better drilling conditions in the West Texas Permian basin and the Lea county, New Mexico, pool.

Hampton had just come to Midland from Los Angeles, where he was in charge of the servicing plant there. He has been with the company for 11 years, and began immediately upon arrival here to checking bids on steel footings which are to be started soon at the company's location south of town.

One hundred men will be placed on the payroll to begin with, Hampton said. It is expected that the list will be increased soon. Machinery already ordered amounts to nearly $150,000. The floor space of the tile and steel building, that will have concrete floors covered with two inches of wood, will be 20,000 feet. Walls will be of tile and the whole will be nicely insulated so as to make the place cool in summer and warm in winter.

Local labor will be hired as much as possible, the superintendent said. "That is a policy of the company," he said.

The main plant of the Hughes Tool company is at Houston, where 4,500 men are employed. The service plant at Los Angeles and the one at Oklahoma City employ 150 men each. An export office is maintained in New York City.

The company was organized about 20 years ago, the late Howard R. Hughes founding it. The organization is now headed by a son, Howard R. Hughes, Jr. C. Kudell is vice-president and general manager.

Construction work on the building should start soon, according to Hampton.

Andrews Opens Pee Wee Golf and Hotel

Guests are already being received in the new McClung hotel built by John Speed in Andrews. The brick structure is expected to help popularize Andrews as an oil city. Speed will be associated with McClung in the operation of the dining room.

The pee wee golf course at Andrews was opened with a town celebration. Night playing on the course is popular.

Building work in Andrews continues and still other structures are contemplated. The people of Andrews are much interested in a new road directly toward Hobbs, in order to get the oil field traffic from Hobbs to Midland and other points east.

Big Spring Invites Tennis Players Here

Midland tennis players have been invited to enter an elimination tournament at Big Spring, to be held three days, July 18-20.

The Big Spring Tennis association is sponsoring the play, which is for men only. Singles and doubles contests will be staged on the concrete court of the high school.

Recreators will be furnished visitors, and probably board, though this has not definitely been worked out. Entrance fees will be $1 for singles matches, $2 for doubles. This will defray the cost of several dozen balls to be used during the tournament. Entries must be in by Wednesday night, July 16. Ray Brown, box 777, will receive names of entries.

Entries so far include Ray Brown, finalist in the Texas conference championships, Ballard, Simmons university coach, Frank Whitehurst, A. & M. squad man, Leo Brady, joint holder of the interscholastic doubles title, Steakley and others.

Earnest Fulkhouser, now of Abilene but formerly of Midland, and a former star at Texas university, will probably enter the tourney. There will be 18-inch cups given as prizes and consolation prizes, as well.

HOFMEISTER URGES REVIVAL OVER THE ENTIRE COMMUNITY

The Hofmeister evangelistic campaign at the lumber tabernacle on Colorado street, continues to attract the crowds. Local ministers have been in attendance and members of the various city churches are cooperating, the evangelist says.

Singing, under the direction of Ralph L. Morris, is improving nightly. Boys and girls form a junior choir and assist the adult chorus. Musicians and singers have been urged by the evangelist to volunteer their talent for the campaign. The Ministry of Healing continues as the sick and afflicted are prayed for.

Some definite healings have already been claimed by the evangelist in this city. Dr. Hofmeister says: "Jesus is thorough in all His work. I have no hesitancy in urging medical science to examine the cases healed in our campaigns. Jesus needs no help and He need not fear the examination of those whom He heals. Jesus is the healer. We pray and Jesus heals. Jesus never loses a case. If we will meet the conditions of the gospel, there is healing in the atonement for us. It is no uncommon event to have doctors endorse our ministry. No Christian will deny that Jesus heals the body as well as saves the soul. The miracles and manifestations of the Holy Spirit have never been withdrawn from the church. They are for us today."

He continues: "We have compromised and made it easy for folks to become members of the church. We need to raise the gospel standard and demand Bible repentance and confession and salvation from sin. Sin and unbelief have robbed the church of its power. Let us come to the altar of prayer and tarry for the power from on high. The very experience of Pentecost as recorded in the second chapter of Acts is for the church of this century. Jesus said: 'Tarry until' and this needs to be preached today. We have lost our power, we can regain it and make the church a power for God in the world. We can have the Pentecostal power of the Holy Ghost if we will pray and tarry and pay the price."

"DID NOT KILL HIM," SHE TELLS

Relates Story of How Candidate Drank; Was in Row

HUNTSVILLE, July 10.—(UP)—"I didn't kill him but would have if I'd had anything to do with it." With this statement, a woman today added new interest and mystery to the slaying of Earl R. Swanger near here Tuesday night.

The woman, whose name Sheriff N. L. Speer would not divulge, said she drove from Trinity to Huntsville with Swanger Tuesday night, and that they had a dispute when returning about 11 p. m. She said she jumped from the car, and said also that Swanger had been drinking heavily.

She told officers he stopped the car and continued the argument, she leaped out and stopped an approaching car to Trinity. Speer questioned the woman at her home in Trinity. She was not arrested.

Swanger, candidate for district attorney, was found dead in his wrecked automobile. An autopsy revealed three stab wounds and he is believed to have been murdered.

Questioned by Sheriff HOUSTON, July 10.—A woman who left Huntsville Tuesday night with Earl R. Swanger in his car for Trinity, was questioned late yesterday at her home in Trinity by Sheriff N. L. Speer.

Swanger's body with three stab wounds was found beneath a wrecked car near Huntsville. She said she had been to Huntsville on business and had accepted Swanger's invitation to ride back to Trinity with him.

She said that en route to her home a man whom she knew drove up behind them and that she decided to complete the trip with him instead of Swanger. She said that she got out of the car and that Swanger proceeded to Trinity.

She did not even know that Swanger was dead until informed by the sheriff, she said.

The county attorney's force, headed by County Attorney R. T. Burns and Justice of the Peace R. J. Camp, in addition to Sheriff Speer and his deputies, are conducting a probe into the candidate's mysterious death.

NOT TOO MANY PEOPLE

The state of Nevada has gained approximately 11,000 inhabitants during the last 10 years, according to the census figures, and now has a total of 88,000 people within its borders.

Now the state's boosters may have excellent reasons for wanting to make this slogan come true; but one who is compelled to spend most of his time where there are a great many more people to the square mile than Nevada ever dreamed of having may be pardoned, surely, for wondering if the state really knows when it is well off.

Having a numerous population is very likely a good thing. But there can be such a thing as having one that is altogether too numerous for any earthly use. There are worse things in the world than vast, empty plains and lonely, uninhabited mountains; teeming tenement districts, for instance, or down-at-the-heels suburban villages where jerry-built houses are all jammed against each other in maddening propinquity.

The citizen of Nevada, in other words, is luckier than he perhaps realizes. That arid western state has a tremendous charm, and a good part of it is due to the fact that it is so empty. The motorist who struggles wearily with heavy traffic in metropolitan neighborhoods should drive through Nevada some day; Nevada, where it is half a day's drive between towns, where one can drive for hours, sometimes, without seeing a house or a tree or a fence, where the air is clear and the magnificent plains roll to infinite distances, empty and lonely, peaceful and quiet as nothing in an urban state ever is.

We have scriptural authority for the belief that it is not good for man to be alone; but, quite plainly, it is not good, either, for man to be too crowded. And no one is ever too crowded in Nevada. There is room, there, for a man to get away from his fellows—which, if he is the right sort of man, is a good thing for him.

THE REPORTER'S RESPONSIBILITY

The name of Alfred Lingle probably will exist in public memory for a long time. Not because he was murdered by a Chicago gangster—the list of men who share that distinction is too long for memory—but because he was unfaithful to his trust as a newspaper reporter.

The reporter occupies a peculiar position. He works hard, he is occasionally poorly paid, and he is now and then thrust up against temptations against his integrity; and through it all there rests on him a binding, if unwritten, obligation—to serve the public, although he is not a public servant, by telling it the exact truth, as far as lies within his power, about what is going on in the world.

It is a tribute to the class of men who work for American newspapers that so very, very few of them are faithless to this trust. Lingle was one of the exceptions. He will be remembered as a man who was so ill-advised as to take money from the underworld that he was hired to report.

WE HAVE GOOD IDOLS

The American nation seems to be under the necessity of finding an idol every so often and putting him up on a high pedestal. The idol is generally a young man, and the nation—which usually admires him as much for his modesty as for anything—does its level best to destroy his modesty and give him a very badly swollen head.

As it happens, we've been extremely fortunate in our choice of idols lately. First there was Lindbergh, who stood up under the ordeal as well as any young man possibly could have. Now it seems to be Bobby Jones; and he, too, seems to be just the sort of stuff that the nation needs in a popular figure.

Kansas City Awaits Triple Hanging as Widow of Slain Policeman Refuses to Say Word That Might Save Killers

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 10.—Three men will go to their deaths on the gallows in a triple hanging here July 25 because the woman who was made a widow and whose four children were orphaned by their bullets, refuses to say the word that might save them.

With the wholesale execution, Kansas City will have settled its account with the bandits who committed a particularly sensational bank robbery and cold-blooded murder while the Republican national convention was in session here in 1928. And the death of Policeman J. H. "Happy" Smith, one of Kansas City's most popular traffic officers, will have been avenged.

The woman whose silence, despite fearful pleas of relatives, has sealed their doom is "Happy" Smith's widow. If she should ask that their lives be spared they might have a chance. If she does not, they have no chance. She insists that she will not move to save them.

Woman's Home Is Guarded

As the day of execution nears, police have placed a guard at Mrs. Smith's home, for friends and relatives of the bandits have put severe pressure on her in a futile effort to win commutation of the death sentences. Meanwhile, the three condemned men—Carl Nasello, Tony Mangiaracina and John Messino—are under heavy guard at the county jail where machine guns have been mounted to thwart any possible attempt to rescue them.

Several times the mothers of the condemned men have gone to Mrs. Smith's home with other women who identified themselves as mission workers. On each occasion, after pleading with Mrs. Smith, the visitors would fall on their knees. One of the mission workers would say, "Let us pray"; and the visitors would offer a prayer asking that God move the widow's heart so that she would intercede for the murderers.

Mrs. Smith and her orphaned children would stand with bowed heads while the visitors prayed; and each time, when the prayer was finished, Mrs. Smith would say:

"I am sorry for you. It is terrible for any mother to know her son is to be hanged. But I could not interfere even though I wished to."

Now the city is guarding the widow's home, and the bandits' relatives and friends are not permitted to enter.

Another object of attention on the part of the slayers' relatives has been the home of Smith's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Roney Smith, who live on a farm 100 miles from Kansas City. Several times the mother and friends have called there. Mr. Smith, when they went on their knees before him, said:

"Those men did not hesitate to take a life in the robbery. I cannot do anything for them."

And the dead patrolman's mother told Mrs. Lucille Messino and Mrs. Carmella Mangiaracina, mothers of two of the bandits:

"I cannot interfere with the course of law. Your sons should have thought of the previousness of human life before they shot down my son in his tracks."

Guards are protecting the policeman's parents, like his widow, from further visits.

The murder of Patrolman Smith stirred Kansas City as few other crimes have. It took place when the city was crowded with visitors and delegates to the Republican convention. A motor car full of gunmen drove up to the Home Trust Company, near the convention hall. Two gunmen with shotguns stationed

Daily Washington Letter

By Rodney Dutcher
Congressman Fish Admits the Reds Aren't Really a Very Big Menace Right Now, but He Does Think They Ought to Be Investigated—Finds a Red Flag Really Did Fly

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Congressman Hamilton Fish of New York, chairman of the House committee investigating Communist activities in the United States, is satisfied that the Reds do not present enough of the menace to cause anyone to fear the overthrow of our government.

But Mr. Fish believes that this system which operates in Washington is the finest government ever devised by man and he consequently has no patience with those radicals who want to upset it. Even if they are not dangerous, he says, there is no reason why they should be permitted to organize and propagandize in the United States.

There Was a Red Flag

Mr. Fish was kind enough to telephone your correspondent and point out that the committee had discovered that the red flag had actually been flown over the University of Chicago, as Father Edmund Walsh had testified. There had been considerable confusion over that piece of testimony among the committee members, who proposed to keep it out of the record, and also in the mind of your correspondent, who reported that the committee had found there wasn't any red flag at all.

But the University of Chicago now admits it. The assistant to the university's president has written to Father Walsh, noting "unfortunate misinterpretation" of the flag testimony. It appears that a university cop found a big red flag on the campus flag staff about 5 o'clock one morning and hauled it down, but was unable to place responsibility. Other reports indicate that some of the Socialist students were having a little fun. Mr. Fish admits that the flag incident wasn't an especially hot piece of evidence about Communist penetration of the higher institutions of learning. He hasn't anything against Socialists, anyway.

"As I see it, the Socialists are trying to extend democracy," he says, "but the Communists want to set up a dictatorship by a minority. In Russia there are two or three million members of the Communist party ruling over 150,000,000 people. I don't want anyone to think that I'm trying to stir up a red scare, but we ought to know what these people are doing over here.

"The committee has proved that the Communists here take their orders from Moscow to preach class hatred and revolution. They never made any bones about it, so that wasn't any secret, but many members of Congress didn't know it and I doubt whether there was a single member who realized that our government departments had no funds and no authority to deal with the situation. Now that we have focused attention on what is going on I am sure that Congress will want to pass appropriate legislation. A few nights ago 12,000 Communists met in Madison Square Garden in New York and paid 50 cents apiece to get in. We can't let that kind of thing go on. Other countries have secret service men who join these Communist groups and attend their good time—either that or lose my job.

With all this election bargain day and candidate stump speaking business coming up next week, I ought to get in some wise cracks that will either advertise some of the candidates too much or not enough. Candidates, I am putting you on notice that anything you say may be used against you, because it's a long, hot, slow summer and I have to have something to work on.

I've been helping the editor work out a filing system on the alleged news stories that come to our paper from candidates for state offices. We have adopted what is known as the barrel system. Every letter that comes from a candidate is placed in a big barrel—it takes a big one to handle them—and no action is taken on any of this correspondence until it comes up again. The contents of the barrel are stirred occasionally with a large stick, just to keep the principal campaign issues boiling.

The editor was down the country the other day and met an old school mate who lives in central Texas. "Who will lead your part of the state for governor?" Barron asked. "It will lie between Ma Ferguson, Tom Love and Jim Young," his old friend replied. "That's a heck of a country you live in," Barron, who takes no part in politics with his newspaper, remarked.

Old Campaigner to Speak for You

A campaigner who many times has ridden miles by horse and buggy to address audiences numbered in the hundreds, on Friday night, July 11, will step into a comfortably furnished room and address invisible thousands on behalf of Jim Young's candidacy for governor.

M. M. Crane, formerly attorney general of Texas, and Democratic wheelhorse for many years, speaks to the people of Texas on behalf of Jim Young, over KRLL, Dallas, Texas, from 8:30 to 9 o'clock p. m., on Friday, July 11.

General Crane will be on the air again later in the campaign, and will make several speeches elsewhere in behalf of Mr. Young.

Program Is Out For City Union Meeting

Program for tomorrow's meeting of the City League Union has been completed and final arrangements for the evening are underway.

Mr. Ralph Hallman has been chosen leader of the program to be based on "The Bible, Our Source of Religious Knowledge." The Bible reading is to be from Psalms 115. Others to talk on the subject are Mr. Ray Qwyn and Mr. James Killough.

Special music is being planned by a quartet and probably other interesting features will be given.

The Senior Epworth League will be hosts to the young people, who will meet at the Methodist church at 8 o'clock.

Elsie Cone Marries Ft. Worth Man July 3

Announcement was received here today of the marriage of Miss Elsie Cone of Midland to Mr. W. B. Cole of Ft. Worth at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Burney, south of Weatherford, Texas, on July 3.

The marriage ceremony was conducted by the Reverend Cooper of Ft. Worth who read the double ring service.

Floral decorations added touches of summer time to the scene of the wedding.

The bride was attired in an Alice blue chiffon and lace frock of princess style. Her accessories were of eggshell.

Mr. and Mrs. Brannon Bussey, Jr., who were recently married in Midland, attended the couple.

Following the ceremony the couple left for a few days in Dallas, after which they will return to Ft. Worth where Mr. Cole is employed in the First National bank.

Mrs. Cole is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Cone of Tatum, New Mexico, and for the past two years has been employed by the Continental Oil company here. She has been actively connected with church organizations during her residence in Midland.

LOSE FAT Safely and Quickly

Kruschen Salts—(a perfect combination of the six mineral salts your body must have every day to function properly) purify your blood of harmful acids, and aid the kidneys and bowels to throw off waste material—the continual formation of which is probably the cause of your fat.

In this modern age of living, it's impossible to get these salts from the fancy foods you eat—but don't worry just as long as you have Kruschen Salts.

Take a half teaspoon every morning in a glass of hot water—little by little that ugly fat disappears—you'll feel better than ever before—you're younger, more energetic. You'll possess that enviable beauty, clear skin, sparkling eyes, superb figure which only perfect health can impart.

An 85c bottle (lasts 4 weeks) at Mayes-Young drug store, or any progressive druggist in America. Money back if Kruschen Salts doesn't convince you that it is the safest, quickest, easiest way to lose fat. —Adv.

When Femininity Sails Before the Mast

For cool days or going ashore, a yachting suit of openwork white wool, left, is topped by a navy blue flannel jacket trimmed with brass buttons and patch pockets. The hat is a cartwheel sunshade banded in blue. For active yachting, the good little sailor wears a beret, the one shown center of plaited hemp, trimmed with a red, white and blue cockade. The white flannel suit and scarf are trimmed with tricolors, also. Very effective is Jean Patou's yachting suit made of rough but supple white wool fabric, right, with a crepe de chine blouse. It is topped by a panama.

Mrs. Sanders Estes Entertains Friends at "See America First" Bridge and Luncheon Wednesday

One of the most interesting and novel entertainments during the early July days was the party given by Mrs. Sanders Estes yesterday afternoon for friends at the home of Mrs. Aldridge Estes.

At 12:15 guests called at the home, and were served a delightful two course luncheon at tables prettily appointed in green and white. Floral appointments were fresh shasta daisies in bowls and baskets about the rooms.

"See America First"

The announcements of "See America First" delighted the guests, who were passed tallies bearing the name of an outstanding American city with a destination of a summer resort specified. Players soon found their places at tables marked Yellowstone Park, Yosemite Valley, Grand Canyon and Glacier Park. During the afternoon games, the guests traveled from one resort to another, finding interest at each location.

When the games had closed, the hostess presented prizes to Mrs. A. C. Francis, high score, to Mrs. B. C. Girdley, high cut and to Mrs. W. E. Elkin low score. Table cuts were given to Mesdames N. W. Bigham, W. C. Cochran, Jno. B. Thomas and W. B. Elkin.

Those favored by Mrs. Estes were Mesdames Spence Jewell, T. S. Patterson, W. C. Cochran, N. W. Bigham, B. C. Girdley, W. B. Elkin, A. C. Francis, F. C. Norwood, E. W. Cowden, C. A. Goldsmith, G. W. Tom, Jno. B. Thomas, Bud Estes, B. H. Blakeney, and T. D. Kimbrough.

Personals

Tom Green Farmers To Get Good Yields

SAN ANTONIO, July 10. — Crop yields in Tom Green county will be from 10 to 30 per cent higher than in 1929, if the present outlook is to be depended upon, according to W. I. Marshall, county agent.

Crops generally are in better condition now than at this time a year ago, the county agent learned thru a questionnaire answered by representative farmers from all parts of the county.

In addition to the more favorable outlook for greater yields of cotton, milo maize, cane and the other row crops, farmers are better prepared to cope with any marketing conditions that might arise during the harvest months, the county agent learned. Reduction of the cost of living by producing at home more of the family needs has been affected on many farms in the county, while profitable farm side lines have been added, the county agent said.

Honey bees, small flocks of sheep, poultry and well kept gardens are the principal factors used by Tom Green county farmers in bettering their economic positions, and in some cases material additions to the farm purse have been made. County Agent Marshall said. In addition to ready money obtained from the sale of wool and lambs, sheep have contributed a great deal to many of the farms by keeping down surplus growths of weeds and grass along fence rows. A number of farmers have found that small flocks can be kept without cost, and without reducing pasturage for other farm animals, the county agent said.

A more thorough check on the addition of farm side lines in Tom Green and adjacent counties will be made at the West Texas Exposition here Sept. 22 to 27, the county agent pointed out.

Farmers who have found these side lines profitable will be glad to exhibit their products at the West Texas Exposition. We expect the agricultural show this year to be better than ever before, he said.

In addition to the large number of ranchers who will place entries in the feeder lamb show at the exposition, farmers who own small flocks will offer strong competition.

Lightness and Flexibility Are of First Importance in Slippers

By WILLIAM H. BALDWIN Author of "The Shopping Book" Written for NEA Service

Slippers should be light and flexible. Their construction is not so rigid as shoes, the leather is not so stiff, the soles are thinner and softer.

Slippers come in a variety of patterns, with or without heels, lined with fur or fleece or unlined; of kid, alligator, calf, or side leather or felt. The sewing or stitching should be closely examined because upon this feature of construction depends to a great extent the wearing quality of the slipper. Note the thoroughness of the stitching where the sole is joined to the upper, the stiffness or rigidity of the part which fits around the heel, and the flexibility of the slipper as a whole.

Ease of fit is an all-important consideration. The slipper should be wider than the shoe size usually worn, as comfort is the prime essential in a slipper.

EXTRA! HOW MR. BOBBIE JONES OF WILD ACCLAIM MIGHT POSSIBLY BE DUMPED FOR LOSS IN U. S. OPEN

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER, NEA Service Sports Editor.

Great approach shots are required at Interlachen. If there is a flaw in the golfing repertoire of Bobby Jones, it is his short iron shot. Therefore Bobby Jones will not win at Interlachen. Now you tell one.

The "big idea" at Interlachen, judging from the description of the course, is to get to the greens. After you're there, all you have to do is to putt into the little cup. It's just like flicking the ashes off a cigarette for Jones to sink the little white globule by hitting it with a putter. But it is just possible that Interlachen will play foul tricks upon the Jones irons.

Interlachen's greens are bounded with trouble. There are few courses in America with more bunkers scientifically placed to catch misplaced iron shots. Most of the 100 traps around the place are near the greens. The man who wins will have to be deadly with his approaches. It just happens that Horton Smith is superhuman on short approaches. It might be well to keep an eye of the young Missourian.

Another young man to keep track of at Interlachen is Tommy Armour. If he is up to his usual iron game, he is just as likely to shoot par for the course as the next one.

Jimmy Johnston of St. Paul, who knows Interlachen well enough to be quite respectful of the Minneapolis course, thinks a score of 294 will win there.

"I'll be surprised," he says, "if the golfer who wins the open averages par (288) for the four rounds. Interlachen is as tough as any course I ever played. It is a stroke stiffer than Pebble Beach (where he won the national amateur title last fall) and I think Scioto, Inverness, Skokie, Oakmont and Olympia fields are easier."

Johnston says he believes Interlachen a stroke stiffer than Oakmont. Curiously enough, Bobby Jones has found Oakmont his one abiding Waterloo in the last ten years of tournament play.

"Nearly every green at Interlachen," says Johnston, "is small and narrow. And they are all fast and difficult because of the trickery of bent grass."

Jock Hendry, professional at the St. Paul Town and Country Club, who nosed out Jimmy Johnston in a playoff for the Minnesota open championship at Interlachen last year, observes that the golfer who plays long approach shots with unerring accuracy will have the best chance to win the open.

"Look to the second shot artists," says Jock. "The small, well-trapped greens, in relation to the increased length of the course, will necessitate longer approach shots and here, I believe, the new champion will be crowded. Pitching to the small green is not the easiest task from any distance over 75 yards."

Leo Diegel lays great second shots up there. So does Walter Hagen, especially from behind a bevy of trees. Horton Smith, I think, is one of the greatest recovery-shot makers on the fairways today.

The length of the course should not bother Jones. He is long and straight off the tees, longer and straighter than any other golfer this side of Mars. There is no better putter in the world. If the approaches click for him, he probably will win.

But this tale is not meant to tell how he can win, but how he could lose. Now you tell one.

Move For Change of Primaries Opposed

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 10. (AP)—Proposals by Hugh L. Small of Fort Worth, county democratic chairman, to change the date of primary elections from July and August to March and April have met with the opposition of John K. Weber, Bexar county democratic chairman.

In objecting to the plan, Weber said: "Elections and attendant politics tend to disturb the peace of mind of the people, and upset the equilibrium of a community and to retard progress."

"If the primary date was set up to March and April the country would be kept in a state of turmoil for practically a whole year. There would be the pre-primary campaigns from the first of the year on, then the primaries, then the disturbance would continue through the summer until the final election date in November."

"The summer months are the best for campaigning because speeches can be made in the open. There is an expense of hall hiring, I am against any extra election expenses. They already are enormous."

OAKES REPLACE PALMS

BEAUMONT, Texas, (AP)—Last winter's severe cold here has transformed a spot of tropic beauty into temperate zone scenery.

Forty palms surrounding a downtown park have been felled after it was demonstrated they were lifeless as a result of the freeze.

The palms were 15 years old and had reached a stately height of from 35 to 40 feet. They will be replaced by oak or some more nearly native tree.

KONJOLA PUT KANSAS MAN BACK TO WORK

"Proved To Be A Wonderful Medicine In My Case" Says Former Sufferer.

MR. H. C. SHERMAN

Any medicine that can win more than a million friends in seven years must have merit, and that is exactly what Konjola has done. You wonder why Konjola has become a household word? Well, read what Mr. H. C. Sherman, painting contractor, of Goddard, Kansas, says: "Konjola proved to be a wonderful medicine in my case. Last July I was hurt in an automobile accident, and was in the hospital many weeks. When I got out, I was in a badly run down condition; had rheumatism in the shoulder, arm and hand, and my stomach was out of order. I suffered terrible pains, and medicines did me no good. The many endorsements of Konjola led me to try it, and six bottles of this wonderful medicine made me able to resume my work. I am feeling better in every way than for a long time."

Konjola's 32 ingredients work together, battling at their very source, the causes of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Konjola is sold in Midland at Mayes-Young drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

LEADERSHIP is the coveted prize in every industry, and the rubber industry is no exception.

So it is only human that our aspiring friends occasionally indulge in the thrill of talking about Leadership, whether they have it or not.

We mention this in all good humor, and merely to explain the somewhat confusing advertising you see now and again, in which one rubber company or another blithely forgets its definitions and shoots the works.

The justification for such a fling is that the use of the term Leadership in most cases is qualified, even if obscurely, by being based on some subordinate phase of the business in which the advertiser claims to excel.

BUT what's all the shootin' for—is Leadership really an important matter?

We think it is, as the most dependable indorsement of a product that the public can find upon which to rely.

When a plurality of the world's motorists, for example, year after year singles out one make of tire as the highest representative of value and merit, that is tremendously important.

It affords the average buyer the finest and safest possible guidance in his purchasing—and for his good and our own we desire to keep that guidance clear.

DISPENSING, then, with equivocal claims, evasions, qualifications and adroit expression, what company actually holds Leadership in the rubber industry?

The public has decisively answered that question in concrete terms of dollars and cents, and has conferred the award upon Goodyear.

Goodyear in turn submits to you the solid facts which support its Leadership.

It does this in no spirit of boastfulness; on the contrary with a privileged sense of the responsibility which its outstanding position entails:

In both volume and value of annual sales, Goodyear is the largest rubber company in the world.

Goodyear consumes 1/6 of all the crude rubber used annually in the world—approximately 50% more than any other manufacturer.

Goodyear builds more than 1/4 of all the tires sold in America, the remainder being divided among some forty manufacturers.

For years Goodyear has factory-equipped between 1/4 and 1/3 of all the new motor cars manufactured.

Goodyear exports approximately 40% of all the tires exported from the United States and Canada for other parts of the world.

Goodyear maintains the largest development laboratories and corps of experimental engineers of any rubber company in the world.

In the last seven years Goodyear's annual production of pneumatic tires has increased 172%, as against an increase of approximately 75% for the industry as a whole.

WITH special reference to tires, Goodyear holds Leadership because:

Goodyear has made more tires for motor vehicles than any other manufacturer—by millions.

Goodyear is making, today, more tires than any other manufacturer in the world—by millions.

Goodyear's tire business has increased faster in the last five years than any other manufacturer's—by millions.

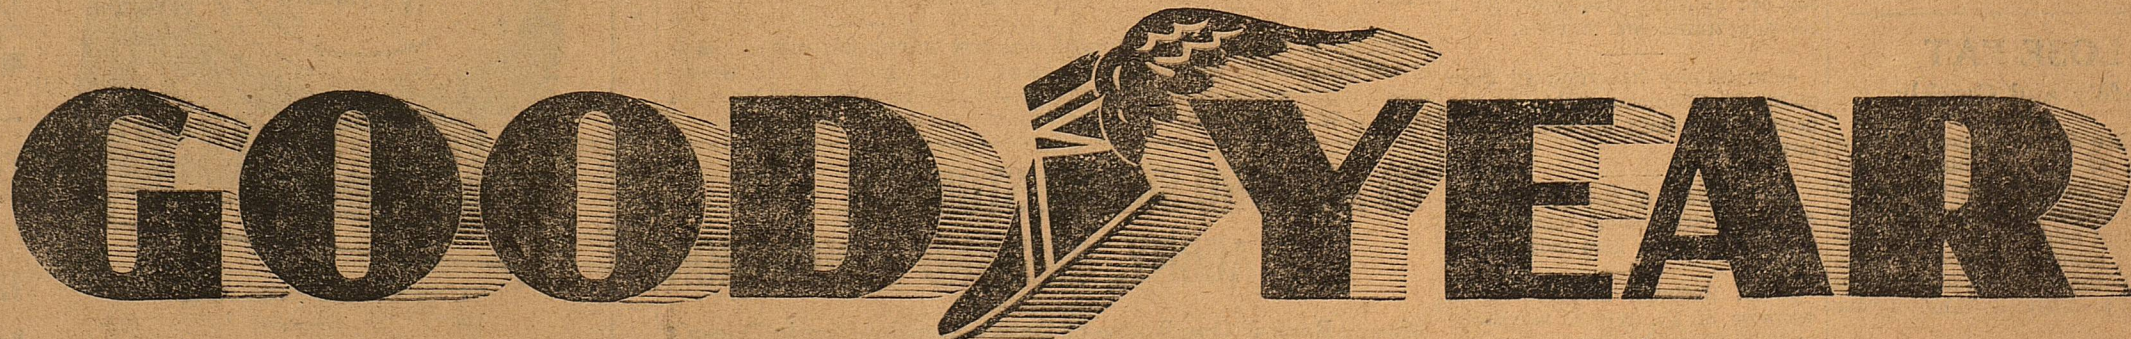

More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind—by millions.

THERE'S the story, good people, figure it out for yourselves.

Certainly it means that in Goodyear Tires the average user finds a quality and a value which he cannot equal elsewhere.

Certainly it means that when you buy a Goodyear Tire you buy something good enough, outstandingly good enough, to have won a special and unrivalled place in the confidence of the public.

And when any other rubber company confuses you with talk about Leadership, just treat yourself to a knowing grin and say: "Sure! We know — You're Napoleon!"

DALLAS MANAGER SHOWS GOOD HEAD WORK IN SIGNING WORN OUT MAJOR LEAGUE PITCHER; IS MAKING MONEY

By GAYLE TALBOT, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer.

DALLAS, July 10. (AP)—Bob Tarleton, vice president and business manager of the Dallas Steers, doubtless started something when he brought Grover Cleveland Alexander to the Texas League at the unprecedented salary of $1,800 a month. Don't be surprised if there is a swarm of former major league idols within a season or two.

There were those who suspected that the heat had at last gotten to the May Boss when he disclosed the salary he proposed to pay Old Pete. It is doubtful any other club in the circuit would have taken such a gamble. There was nothing to tell them that the era of the showman in baseball was just around the corner—nay, had arrived. So they dozed.

There no longer is any doubt that the signing of Alexander was one of the shrewdest moves in Tarleton's career. It was his ten-strike. Had seven other owners known what they do now, there would have been some wild bidding for the old boy's services. He already has proved himself the greatest individual drawing card in the league's history.

Whether Alec can win consistently in the Texas League still is a moot question. In three starts he has been whaled from the box twice, displaying almost no trace of the genius that made him feared of National League batters for 20 years. In his other appearance he cut the Wichita Falls Spudders down with six scattered hits and generally was a ball of fire.

But, the important thing is this: Regardless of whether he wins another game for the Steers this season, Alec has already paid for himself. In his first three starts he drew an average of around 5,000 paid admissions through the gate, perhaps 4,000 more per game than the Steers would have played to otherwise. He has done as much to pull the Bovines out of the financial ruck as has night baseball for Waco. And the beauty of it is that he is not through. He will draw similarly large crowds at every city the Steers visit the remainder of the season.

Not the least remarkable feature of the deal that brought Alexander to Dallas is the "personal liberty" clause in his contract. There never was another like it and probably never will be. Only an Alexander could have gotten away with it.

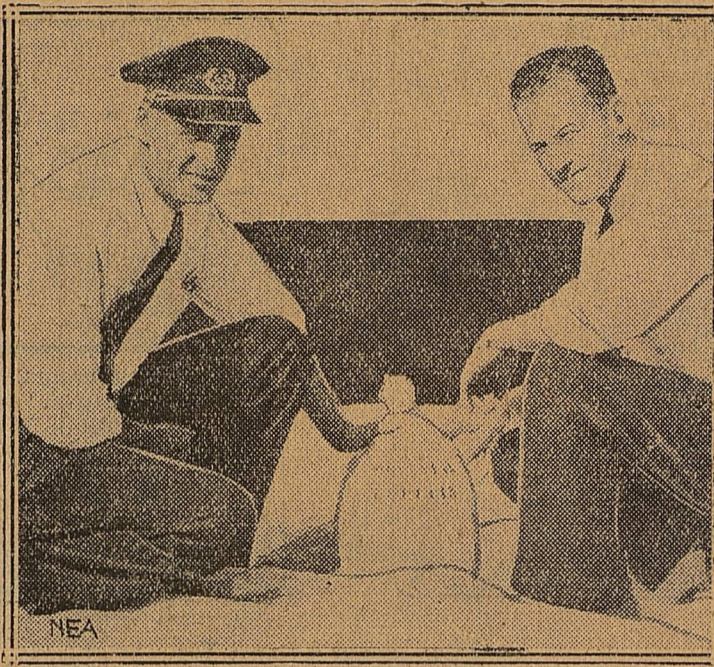

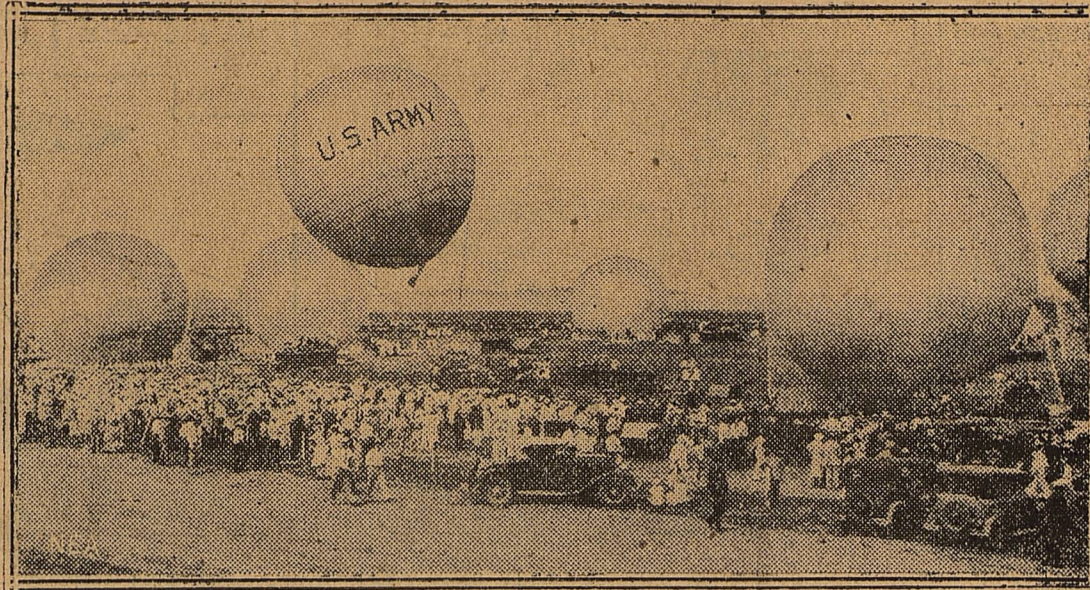

"How are you going to handle him?" the writer queried Manager Jackey Alz the morning Alec reported. The writer, of course, had heard tall tales of Pete's prowess at burning both ends of a candle. "Has he promised to behave himself and pitch ball?"

"Naw," replied Jackey, "he's going to do as he pleases when he's off the field. He asked me to let him know ahead of time when he was due to pitch and he'd be ready. That's fair enough."

So far Alec has not, to be perfectly frank, lived up to the letter of the strange agreement. He was not quite as ready as he might have been when he faced the Fort Worth Panthers in his third start. In truth, but for the fact that some 6,500 spectators were on hand for the express purpose of seeing the old master toil, he probably would have been given the afternoon off to go sight-seeing.

Being an observant man, Manager Frank Snyder noted that Alec was not his usual robust self and ordered his athletes to hunt him dizzy. That they did, with gusto, and it was not time before old Pete was a fit candidate for the showers. The rushing around and bending over disturbed his equanimity, not to say his equilibrium.

As Balloonists Competed In Big Race

Manned by the nation's most daring airmen, balloons entered in the national elimination race are pictured above at the take-off at Houston, Texas. Below are R. J. Blair, left, pilot and F. A. Trotter, aide, of the Goodyear-Zeppelin entry, of Akron, Ohio, which came to earth at Greensburg, Ky., 780 miles from Houston and was, according to first reports, winner of first place. Winners of first and second places will compete in the Gordon Bennett interational race starting at Cleveland on Labor Day.

Air Races--

Clifford W. Henderson, general manager of the air races, this year for the fourth time. When the war started, he applied for admission to the air corps, but was assigned as an ambulance driver. By a turn of fate, he secured transfer to the air service just a few days before the Armistice was signed. After he returned to the United States, he purchased a plane and became a member of the 476th Pursuit Squadron Officers' Reserve Corps.

Several Pioneers

As general manager of the air races at Los Angeles in 1928, he engineered the first financially successful air race in the history of this event, and duplicated the event at Cleveland last year.

Maxwell M. Corpenning, executive director and secretary of the National Air Race Corporation learned to fly in 1928, after he had earned some measure of fame as a horseman and polo player. A graduate of West Point, he returned to the academy to serve as head of the equitation department. After his resignation from the army, he became first commander of the famous Black Horse troop of the Illinois National Guard. Flying consistently since he earned his wings not so long ago, Corpenning is equally at home in a pilot's cockpit, or astride a polo pony.

Other aerial pioneers, besides the race officials, will be at the meet when on August 27—designated as "Early Birds Day"—famous men and women fliers whose names are linked with the birth of the airplane, will again take to the air to prove to the crowd assembled at the field that they are still alive in spite of many precarious flights in wobbly pushers.

First Wright Student

Walter Brookling, first student of the Wright Brothers, and Frank Coffyn, the second pupil of the inventors, are planning to fly in newly-built replicas of their early craft—machines similar to those in which they won their reputations. J. A. D. McCurdy, Glenn Curtiss, Charles Willard, Bud Mars, and Colonel Charles D. Chandler, the first American pilot to use a machine gun on an airplane, will represent the "Early Birds" at the meet, as will Ruth Law, Katherine and Marjorie Stinson, and Mrs. Floyd Smith, women members. Two famous foreign aircraft designers, Igor Sikorsky and Anthony Fokker, who by their early activities are qualified members of the "Early Birds" will take part in the exercises.

The "Early Birds," whose membership list includes about 200 fliers who soloed planes prior to December 16, 1916, will hold their annual meeting during the period of the races—a meeting which will stress the growth of aviation.

Revival Urged--

of modernism into motion, the gospel plan of evangelism was the first agency to be attacked by the enemy. Mass evangelism was supplanted by the card signing, every-member canvass or better known as the modern visitation evangelism. In fact it is not evangelism, it is mere card-signing and church joining made easy for the sinner. The sinner can enter the church with his sins unmolested and his life unchanged. He is now a sinner within the church. We need to clean down the cob-webs of the church. We need a great church revival.

"Too many church members are living exactly the same as the sinner on the outside. When we talk salvation to them, they point to our dead wood. Let us have a house-cleaning and pray for a real revival. The young people in the church of today are guilty of every sin committed by the young people without the church. That's the reason for the lack of religion among the youth of today. We need to life a standard and preach the gospel and pray for a revival, then we can reach the world for Jesus Christ.

"The youth within the various churches of this city drink, smoke, play cards, dance and commit all the sins on the catalogue, and then dress up on Sunday and go to Sunday school and church and call themselves Christians. We must fight sin and preach holiness of life. We need a revival within the membership of the churches of Midland."

Dr. Hofmeister will continue to preach every night this week. A special prayer meeting will be conducted at the tabernacle on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Those seeking the baptism of the Holy Ghost are urged to attend and bring Bibles.

MRS. COWDEN'S SISTER ILL

A message from Mrs. Ellis Cowden today from Jasper, Texas, where her sister, Mrs. Ted McCrocklin is seriously ill following an acute attack of appendicitis, said that Mrs. McCrocklin's condition is still critical. Mrs. J. Wiley Taylor, her mother, was to have left today for Jasper, Mrs. Cowden having gone from here Wednesday.

EVEN RIN-TIN-TIN FALLS FOR LUPE

A one-man dog is an established institution, but Rin-Tin-Tin has just varied his versatility by becoming a one-woman dog.

The dog star appears in "Tiger Rose," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone version of the Willard Mack drama of the Hudson Bay country which comes to the Ritz Theatre tomorrow.

He is known as Scotty, and belongs, in the story, to Lupe Velez, who is co-starred with Monte Blue in this new picture.

Although Rin-Tin-Tin never loses his loyalty to his real master, Lee Duncan, when he works with male stars, he showed an unusual affection for the dynamic little Mexican star, and soon came to obey her commands just as if he belonged to her!

"All Hollywood does that," commented Director George Fitzmaurice.
