MIDLAND CELEBRATION STARTS

Early Morning Explosion Wreaks Death, Destruction

POLO AND RACE PROGRAM FAST TODAY

FIVE RACES WITH 27 PONIES ARE SCHEDULED

Polo and race fans will see one of the fastest cards in the southwest this afternoon...

Abilene, defeated Wednesday in the first of three games with the Midland boys...

Griffin in Line-Up Griffin, prominent young Abilene rancher, comes here touted as a fast and heady player...

The Abilene players have 18 horses here for the series, well bred and well trained animals...

The same teams will meet again Sunday afternoon, making the last of the three-day polo tournament.

Table with 2 columns: Position, Player. Lists players for Midland and Abilene.

Five Fast Races Five races, with a total of 27 horses and riders...

The first race, for three-eighths of a mile, has six entries of ponies three years old and up...

The second race, for three-eighths, will be run by the six winners of the two quarter mile races for two-year olds Wednesday...

The third race is just like it, except that the entrants are non-winners from Wednesday's two-year old race...

It was a heartbreaking race, for the three quarters post the horse narrowly missed clipping time off the world's record...

"Life Preservers" for Airplanes

Now this is a new idea! A parachute by which passengers in transport planes can be on their way safely to earth 10 seconds after danger develops...

MIDLAND HORSE ALMOST BROKE WORLD RECORD IN RACE WITH BRADLEY COLT

Whether Midland people at Fair park today will see Foreign Relations, beautiful race horse of the Buchanan-Bloss stables...

It was at the Coney Island track at Cincinnati. A riot of color overflowed from the great stands and splashed against the track fence...

The finest looking horse of the lot was probably Col. Bradley's Boone's Companion, a $50,000 stake horse that had been "cleaning up."

Yet when the wire was lifted and the horses began sifting through the field to take places near the fence for the start of the mile grid...

Wonderment in the crowds of the stands gave way to a rising rumble that broke into cheers. At the quarter post the horse was timed at :22 1-2...

This was Foreign Relations, the horse that will be seen at the park today. At the end of the mile time caught on him was 1:36 2-5 as compared with the record of 1:34 2-5.

It was a heartbreaking race, for the three quarters post the horse narrowly missed clipping time off the world's record...

CHEMICAL PLANT IS DEMOLISHED

Entire English Town Shaken By Blast; Cause Unknown

An explosion that shook the entire town of Castleford, Eng., is believed to have brought early this morning death to many employes of the Hickson & Parsons chemical plant.

Many persons were in the various buildings of the company at the time of the explosion, which started from causes not determined.

A telephone call to the Associated Press at Dallas this morning at 8 revealed that firemen and police detachments were making an effort to comb the ruins of the afflicted area in an attempt to recover those buried in the debris.

Early cablegrams said it was expected that the death toll might be enormous.

ENDURANCE PLANE DRONING ALONG ON FOURTH HOLIDAY

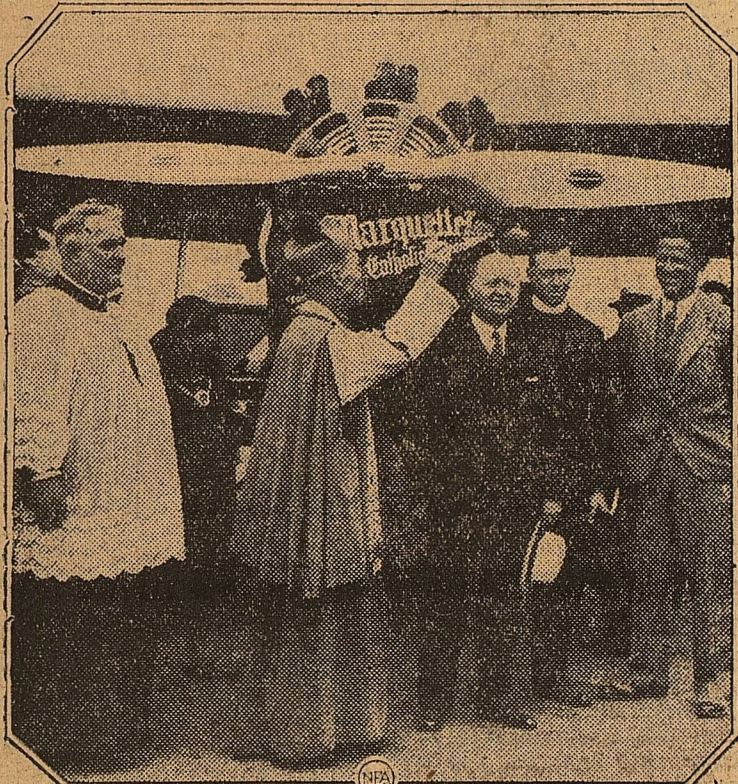

Under skies that suddenly had changed from a forbidding aspect of murk and fog, the City of Chicago roared through the ceiling above Chicago this morning to clearer, sunnier skies...

The 214th refueling contact with the Big Ben, refueling plane, was successfully made at 6:15 a. m., and the plane had been aloft 543 hours at 6:40.

The flyers appeared to be in better spirits than they registered yesterday, when there was vitriolic criticism directed at their brothers and family on the ground for allowing the press to publish the private messages they had been dropping.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 4. (AP)—John and Kenneth Hunter, co-pilots of the "City of Chicago," which started yesterday on the 520th hour aloft at 6:40 a. m. (C. S. T.) threatened a half hour later to bring down the plane which has exceeded the previous non-stop record by almost 100 hours...

Plane for Alaskan "Sky Pilot"

A flying missionary, real "sky pilot," here is shown receiving a new monoplane in which he is to travel among the scattered missions of Alaska. A gift of the Marquette League of New York, the Diesel-powered ship was presented at a ceremony at Roosevelt Field, Long Island...

Candidates Like This Maybe!

The Stokes community, always thought of merely as a residence of progressive farmers living 13 miles from Midland, has come into the limelight that may focus them in the attention of national publicity.

For Stokes has advertised a candidates gathering there for Saturday evening, and has, believe it or not, posted rules saying candidates present must speak or be fined $5!

It is generally believed that when the house is called to order at 8 o'clock the noise of the candidates nailing down their platforms will be deafening.

FRENCH AIRMAN LANDS SAFELY; HAD BEEN LOST

Dieumode Costes, famous French airman who was apparently lost yesterday, safely landed his plane that is to try an assault on the distance between France and America.

TAKES OFF ON A WEST-EAST HOP; TRY FOR RECORD

Taking off from Los Angeles, J. H. Collins is headed into the east this morning in an attempt to better the west-to-east flight of 14:45 held by Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

PLAN PERMANENT POLO AND RACE TRAINING CENTER

Development of the race and polo meets at Cowboy Park into a permanent affair is the plan of B. W. Floyd and Spencer Jowell, who recently bought the former fair grounds property from a holding company.

Both men are engaged actively in breeding good horses, as are their sons. The Jowell and Floyd boys are skilled and experienced polo players, and it is planned to develop the Cowboy park into a year-round training center for both polo and race horses.

A number of Midland ranchmen have race and polo stock coming on, as is evidenced by the large number of ponies entered in the Hotel Scharbauer Handicap for two-year old half breeds.

The Bloss-Buchanan stables are becoming more and more important, having headquarters here, and are attracting attention and winning purses in leading race meets.

CROWDS ARRIVE EARLY FOR BUSY PROGRAM IN CITY THROUGHOUT DAY

Polo And Races At Cowboy Park Feature Early Afternoon Entertainment. Free Fireworks Displays, Swimming Contests, Are Attractive. Band Gives Concerts

Opening with a breakfast dance at the Midland Country Club, Midland's Fourth of July celebration was well under way at press time. Already hundreds of automobiles had brought visitors for the day from over the surrounding territory.

At 10 o'clock, the baseball game between the Bushers and Oilers, at Cowden park, was started, a formidable line-up of players from the Tri-County League appearing on both teams.

A band concert by the local high school organization, directed by Thomas Inman, is scheduled for 11 o'clock in the down town section.

The afternoon program will begin at 1:30 at Cowboy Park, or the old fair grounds, with a free fireworks display, just across from the park.

At 2:30, the polo game between Midland and Abilene, the second of a three-game series, will begin, being played for a full eight chukkers.

Horse races will follow the polo game, one admission ticket being good for both polo and races, also for grandstand or anywhere in the park.

Swimmers To Compete Swimming contests at Pagoda pool, in west Midland on the highway, begin this evening at 6 o'clock. Thrills for both contestants and spectators are promised.

Between 3 and 7 o'clock, free picture shows for visiting women and children will be given by the Griffith Amusement company at both the Ritz and Yucca theatres.

Mayor R. E. Thomason of El Paso will speak at 8 o'clock at the district court room in the 12-story Petroleum building.

A dance at Hotel Scharbauer, beginning at 9, will end the day's official program. Miniature golf courses and other places of amusement will be open all day.

Opening with a clear sky and indication of a typically hot Fourth of July, Midland's Independence Day celebration was under way early this morning.

Well dressed couples were on the streets early, prior to attending the breakfast dance at the Country Club. Race horse owners, jockeys (See CELEBRATION page 4)

PENN OPERATORS TO FORT WORTH MEETING JULY 7

FORT WORTH, July 4. (AP)—Operators and others identified with the business of producing oil in the Penn pool of West Texas, have been called to a meeting in Fort Worth July 7, by the Texas Railroad commission.

Testimony on the need, if any, and the desirability of prorating oil production which now exceeds 20,000 barrels daily from that pool will be taken and a ruling rendered by the commission. R. D. Parker, chief supervisor of oil and gas division of the commission, will preside.

HERE FROM HOBBS John Scharbauer, of Midland, Fort Worth and Hobbs, is here from Hobbs, his most recent field of operations, to attend the celebration today. "Uncle John" has made big investments in real estate and buildings at Hobbs, and has turned much of the property at handsome profits, it is reported.

VISITORS ARE WELCOME

For 40 years or more, Midland has had occasion every year or two to play host to the people of this section at some form of celebration. This year, both Midland and the territory have grown. Celebrations are being held over the country on the same day, but to the great crowds assembled here to observe July Fourth, Midland extends a warm and hearty welcome.

With the changes of time, forms of entertainment change. The people demand the best. The program given in Midland today is designed as nearly as possible to meet the demands of all people, and the entertainment is the result of weeks and weeks of study and work.

Visitors, if you enjoy today in Midland, come back often. The facilities here for entertainment of visiting people are at your service the year round.

SAFETY AND PATRIOTISM

The state health director, in a call sent out yesterday, called upon the people of Texas to observe safety precautions in celebrating July Fourth, saying that the greatest patriotism is in preventing sending of people to their graves or to the hospital.

Care in the handling of fireworks, observance of strict caution in traffic, general interest in the prevention of accidents should be looked to carefully by every patriotic citizen on July Fourth.

Midland has its safety problems today, but close cooperation of citizens with those who bear the responsibility of handling traffic and law observance will go a long way toward getting the day off without a black mark. One serious accident mars the greatest celebration that could be staged.

KEEPING THE WEST ALIVE

A group of Midland livestock men, in owning and breeding up well blooded horses, are making strides toward keeping alive the spirit of the west.

Such a race and polo program as is being provided for the people of Midland and surrounding country today is possible only because there are still horse lovers who will put money, time and experience into the kind of horses that give a thrill on the field or on the track.

Midland at the present has coming on a wealth of race track material, as well as of horses that will break into national and international polo. "The sport of kings" in the west, is the biggest sport of all.

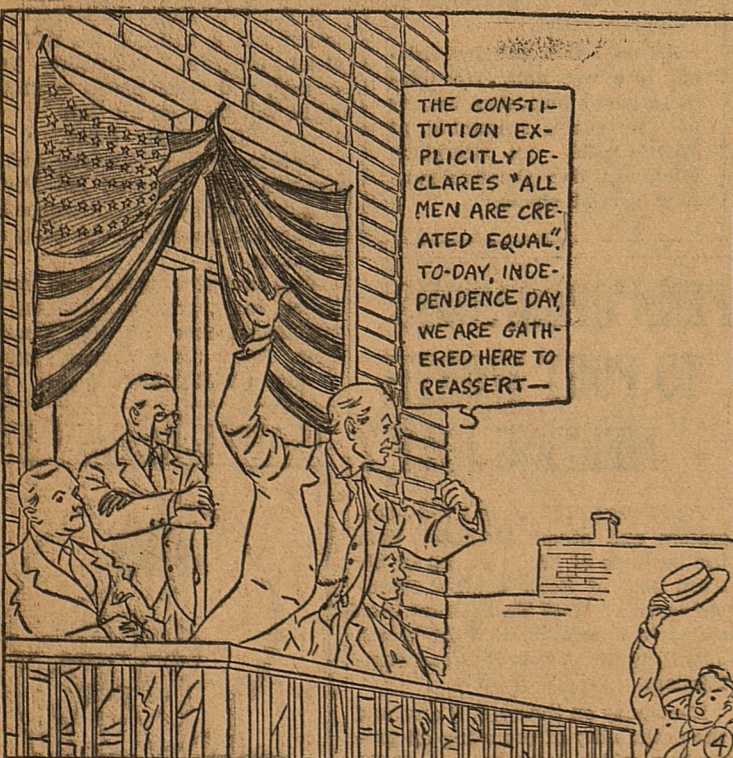

PROSECUTING OFFENDERS

When a recent ultimatum was issued by the mayor that traffic offenders would be prosecuted, a wave of sentiment in favor of stopping traffic violations was expressed. It became the popular idea.

As prosecutions are put through, a "kick-back" occasionally is heard. It is even remarked on the street that traffic officers are out of line when they give a card to people who drive over the stop signals, or who persist in making considerably more than the legal speed.

If violations are to be prosecuted, whoever is affected should "grin and bear it", because the reckless driver is no more to blame than the cautious and skillful driver who, feeling confident of his ability, uses his own judgment instead of obeying the law.

The Greatest Fourth of July Race of Them All

The Prodigal King

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of six stories on the romantic life of King Carol II of Rumania. Previous stories have told of his youthful morganatic marriage, his royal marriage and his elopement with a red-haired mistress.

By MINOTT SAUNDERS, NEA Service Writer.

PARIS, July 4.—The lure of a pretty woman may have had much to do with the present King Carol's action in renouncing the Rumanian throne when he was crown prince, but the unscrupulous brand of political intrigue and trickery as practiced in his native country certainly had a part.

The suddenness with which the errant prince was catapulted to the throne when he returned to Bucharest from exile recently shows that anything may happen in Rumania, and frequently does. By the same token, it probably explains much in connection with his departure nearly five years before.

Viewed from one angle, Carol may be a reckless and irresponsible royal vagabond, more concerned with feminine charms than with the welfare of his country.

Viewed from another angle he may be a young man who was unhappy in a loveless royal marriage that was not of his own choosing and disgusted with the machinations that surrounded the Rumanian throne and therefore sought to get away from it all.

Certainly his father, old King Ferdinand, was king in name only during his last years when Carol was growing to manhood. The powerful Bratianu family, which had imported the royal family from Germany a generation before when Rumania gained its freedom from the Turks, really ruled the country. Ion Bratianu, prime minister, led the king around by the nose—politically speaking.

Queen Marie, Carol's mother, tried to buck this outfit when she came from England as the young granddaughter of Queen Victoria to become Ferdinand's wife. She failed and, being wise, promptly joined them.

Crown Prince Carol, however, was imbued with more independent ideals. He looked forward to being his own master when the time should come for him to take the throne, and made no secret of the fact that when his day arrived the Bratianu influence would perish.

He hated Bratianu and the latter's brother-in-law, Prince Babu Stirbey, a mysterious figure at the Rumanian court.

"When I am king I will clean out your whole crowd!" he is once reported to have told them.

And so there was war within the royal palace.

One can hear almost anything in Rumanian political circles, depending on which side he listens to. And so, truthful or not, strange stories have been told.

It is even charged that Prince Carol's youthful marriage to Zizi Lambriano, a commoner, was the result of a deep-deyed political plot engineered by the Bratianus in an attempt to discredit him and thus prevent him from ever ascending the throne.

It is also rumored that Mme. Lupescu, his beautiful mistress, was secretly in the pay of the Bratianus who had a similar motive in this case.

THE BOY WHO ONCE WAS KING—Above, Rumania's boy king, Michael, is shown between Queen Marie and his mother, Princess Helen. As he reviewed his army of 100,000 men at a grand military display. The smaller child is Prince Paul of Yugoslavia, his cousin. Below are Queen Marie, King Michael and Princess Helen as they appeared when he ascended the throne at 5 years.

When Carol fled with Mme. Lupescu a graft scandal was promptly discovered in connection with the purchase of military airplanes. He had approved the contracts in question, to be sure, but his friends say he countersigned them innocently.

"To the devil with this crooked business!" Carol is said to have exclaimed when these accusations of dishonesty reached him. "I am sick of it all. I am going to enjoy life normally as any man should."

It was the Bratianu influence, it is claimed, that compelled King Ferdinand to demand Prince Carol's renunciation of the throne after it had been represented that Carol in Paris was plotting a revolution in Rumania.

Bratianu quoted the king, then, almost on his deathbed, as saying "Carol is the foul branch of the dynasty which must be cut off to save the tree." And when Ferdinand died and 5-year-old Michael became king, Bratianu followed this up by appointing himself executor of what he called the last will of the dead king. Moreover, he became Queen Marie's Disraeli, guiding her as he had guided Ferdinand.

The brand of Rumanian politics that Carol had assailed was notorious. The Liberals, with Ion Bratianu at their head, ran the country. The profits of members and friends of the government were not a subject of gossip or scandal. They were mentioned in a matter-of-fact manner as a sort of accepted and expected practice.

Ion Bratianu's brother, Vintila, was minister of finance and thus in control of bank credit. Credit was both scarce and expensive in Rumania, costing ordinary folk from

Daily Washington Letter

Insull's Effort to Prevent Sackett From Attacking High Cost of Electricity in U. S. Gave Senate Progressives Some Fine Ammunition for War on "Power Trust"

WASHINGTON, July 4.—Ambassador Sackett told the World Power Conference at Berlin that the difference between the cost of production and the selling price of electricity was altogether too steep, and thereby created more of a sensation than he ever stirred up in the United States Senate.

The ironical phase of the incident was that Sackett's speech would not have attracted such international attention if Samuel Insull, the Chicago public utilities magnate, hadn't tried to persuade the ambassador not to make it.

Insull not only put over Sackett's speech for him in a big way; he also gave the Senate progressives some fine ammunition to use against the "power trust" which, according to Senator Norris of Nebraska, is now following Americans all over the world and attempting to muzzle them—even the highest diplomats.

Furthermore, he called attention all over again to what is known here as the power fight and the frequent charges that electric power companies are making exorbitant profits despite their status as public utilities.

Many Agree With Him

Leaving aside the question of government ownership, it has been demonstrated that there are many in power industry itself who agree with Sackett—a public utility veteran himself, by the way. The ambassador's speech was loudly applauded at the Berlin conference. At home here there are many who hold that if the utilities have to make so much money, they can do it just as well by lowering the cost per kilowatt hour and profiting by the resultant increased volume of business.

The experience of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power System is most often used to demonstrate the eagerness with which domestic consumers of electricity increase their use as the cost goes down.

The last figures available showed that in 1914 there were 64,866 Ontario consumers, using 14,359,000 kilowatt hours for the year, at an average cost of 5.08 cents a kilowatt hour, with an average monthly bill of $1.06 and an average monthly consumption of 21 kilowatt hours.

In 1928 there were 408,000 domestic consumers who used 531,010,000 kilowatt hours at an average of 1.71 cents, with an average monthly bill of $1.97 for an average monthly consumption of 113.5 kilowatt hours.

These figures applied to all municipalities, including smaller villages where higher overhead tended to keep the general average cost higher than in the larger municipalities.

Low Rate Firm Prospers

Commissioner C. A. Maguire of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission recently reported that the commission now had a reserve of $86,000,000.

Demand for power at the low rates, from both domestic and industrial consumers, had been so great that the commission doubted whether its program for obtaining power would be sufficient to cover as far as 1936, as was intended. Power has been brought in from other provinces and the commission has been especially careful in guarding against the actual possibility of not having enough power to go around.

"The other day I met a gentleman from Pennsylvania who has located here," Maguire remarked. "He uses only a small block of power. I asked what brought him here, and he said: 'In my line of business this is the only place where I could hope to build up with the aid of cheap power.'"

"Every day new industries are coming here because we are able to place the resources of our entire water power development at their service." A year previously, Maguire said, the commission had thought that 80,000 horsepower would take care of the year's load increase. But the figure went up to 153,000.

Ambassador Sackett is not a government ownership advocate, but he knew what had been demonstrated in Ontario. Consequently, he was able to talk to the power men with the belief that no one would be able to controvert him.

Such is politics in Rumania.

The Carolists' strength continued to grow and the time for his return ripened sooner than even he himself had expected. Announcement that everything was ready came to him in a telegram from his brother, Prince Nicholas, while Queen Marie was en route to the passion play at Oberammergau.

Carol responded quickly, arriving in Rumania by airplane at midnight.

Next day the National Assembly met, solemnly decided that Carol had never renounced his rights, that little Michael had never been king, that since Ferdinand's death the rightful king of Rumania had been "Carol II," and therefore proclaimed his kingship by a vote of 486 to 1. The one vote was that of Vintila Bratianu. . . the old hatred of the power behind the throne still lived.

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

About the biggest joke yet is for me to write this column today. In the first place, I have no desire to do anything but celebrate, and in the second place, the readers have no desire to pick up the sheet for anything more than to see where to go and what time to be there.

All the same, I'm paid to turn in the Quack column, and it must be in the paper if there is a paper.

Kenneth Ambrose is about to find out the identity of the Quack. He tells Paul Barron something and sees it in this column. He also gets to it through Hankins, Jim Harrison and Pearl Wimberly. Thus he has it down to four possible authors. I laugh up my sleeve when I think what any of those four would do if they had this column to chap-erone.

Barron would write it a day or two and quit. Hankins would inject I Seen Today in it on Monday and get off on the Brisbane stuff Tuesday. Jim Harrison wouldn't write it at all if there was a chance at a printing job or if he had to catch up with the book keeping. Pearl would handle it like she would write up a fire in which a house was destroyed at midnight, telling just what everybody wore and who the bride's father was.

Anyway, it doesn't make any difference who writes it, there's nothing in it today. I'm off for the races.

PECOS ATTIRE FOR 4th

Pecos has taken on a gala appearance, each place of business on the main streets and the Bankhead highway being decorated in keeping with the Fourth. Every place of business will fly the national colors, according to tourists who spent the night in Midland.

Carnivals and concessions will take up the greater part of the mornings, but there will be no danger of time lagging in the afternoons or nights. The rodeo, for which many have entered, will begin at two. Eight events are scheduled each afternoon, and prizes for the two days total $1,340. The events are for amateurs only, and this ruling has found favor, judging by the long list of entries. Baseball each day with the strong Fort Stockton team, will follow the rodeo. After time out for a wash-up and a feed, everybody will be primed for the big dance each night. Jack's Illinoisians will furnish the music.

As soon as dusk comes Frank Vaughn and his crew will begin touching off one of the biggest assortment of fireworks ever brought to this section of the West.

PEN DISBURSES CROWD
 DETROIT, July 4. (UP).—The interesting spectacle of a police official who unintentionally celebrated the beginning of construction on a new police station by bombing himself with a tear gas bomb was presented to startled authorities here recently.

William R. Logan, secretary of the Police department reached into his pocket for a cigar while he was attending ceremonies at the ground-breaking, and pulled out instead a trick cigar gas bomb in the form of a fountain pen which a salesman had given him shortly before.

There was an immediate pop! and Logan began to weep copiously while other officials, including Superintendent O'Grady and Chief Inspector Frahm fled.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Text: Gen. 12:1-3; 13:7-12; Heb. 11:8-10.

Now the Lord had said unto Adam, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto a land that I will shew thee:

And I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and thou shalt be a blessing.

And I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee; and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed.

And there was a strife between the herdmen of Abram's cattle, and the herdmen of Lot's cattle; and the Canaanite and the Perizzite dwelled then in the land.

And Abram said unto Lot, Let there be no strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdmen and thy herdmen; for we be brethren.

Is not the whole land before thee? separate thyself. I pray thee from me: if thou wilt take the left hand, then I will go to the right; or if thou depart to the right hand, then I will go to the left.

And Lot lifted up his eyes, and beheld all the plain of Jordan, that it was well watered every where, before the Lord destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, even as the garden of the Lord, like the land of Egypt as thou comest unto Zoar.

Then Lot chose him all the plain of Jordan; and Lot journeyed east: and they separated themselves the one from the other.

Abram dwelled in the land of Canaan and Lot dwelled in the cities of the plain, and pitched his tent toward Sodom.

By faith Abraham, when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed; and he went out, not knowing whither he went.

By faith he sojourned in the land of promise, as in a strange country, dwelling in tabernacles with Isaac and Jacob, the heirs with him of the same promise:

For he looked for a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God.

Through faith also Sara herself received strength to conceive seed, and was delivered of a child when she was past age, because she judged him faithful who had promised.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 6. A Man Who Found Friendship With God. Gen. 12:1-3; 13:7-12; Heb. 11:8-10.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of The Congregationalist.

The general title of this lesson is "Abraham, a Pioneer of Faith." Abraham was a pioneer in more senses than one. Even apart from the matter of religious faith, he stands as the great prototype of those who have felt the urge to leave their old established home environment to go forth seeking new adventures and new opportunities in the building of new civilizations.

It is interesting to note how much of that poor urge and activity have been associated with religious aspiration and motive.

America was settled to a large extent by those who came seeking liberty of conscience and of worship, and the movement out from older communities has always had the inspiration of faith-inspired people seeking a larger field of freedom and expression. Many of these interesting pioneer movements have been associated with forms of religion that have been outside the range of regular movements of church life. The Mormon movement is a conspicuous example of the association of certain forms of religious belief with the pioneer spirit.

Getting Away from Idolatry The distinction of Abraham religiously, however, was as a pioneer of faith. Whatever may have urged him to leave his home in Ur, seeking new opportunities in Palestine, it is religion that in our biblical record of Abraham's life is the dominant motive and interest.

Many believe that this movement was occasioned on Abraham's part by the sensing of a nobler and clearer conception of God than he found in the idolatrous environment of Ur. If the records suggest what was actually present in Abraham's mind rather than what was read in by a later writer, there was in him a sense of empire building, a consciousness that he was to be the head of a great people.

But one of the most noble things concerning Abraham is the foundation upon which this empire was to be built. He was not a military conqueror, a man of ruthless ambition. He appears, rather, in one of the most enlightening and beautiful passages of the whole Bible as a man whose peaceful spirit and ideals rebuke the plans and purposes of nations still unduly occupied with war and bloodshed.

The moral daring of the man matched his vision and his common sense, and when one thinks of the greed and selfishness of individuals and nations that have brought about all manner of conflict and tragedy and that have been at the very foundation of world tyrannies, one has profound respect and admiration for this man who, when his herdmen were in strife with the herdmen of Lot, his kinsmen, said, "Let there be no strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdmen and thy herdmen; for we be brethren."

Nor did Abraham merely express the ideals of peace. He put his ideals magnanimously into practice by allowing Lot the first choice of the country that they were to divide. In that recognition of brotherhood Abraham defined the true foundation of peace and good will.

Let us pause and consider how far this world with all its supposed advancement, its scientific enlightenment, its progress is actually in matters of faith and spirit far behind a pioneer of faith like Abraham. If we could be saved from something of our pharisaic sense of superiority, and could really appreciate in humble and prayerful spirit the ideal of goodness and greatness of the spiritual leaders of the past, we should be much more truly in the way of progress.

Still Need Pioneers The great truth is that the world today still stands in need of pioneers. So far as geographical tracts are concerned, the world is fairly well filled up; there is no unexplored and unsettled territory westward where the ambitious man of today can go or where the course of empire can lonker take its way; but the larger field that none the less opens up to this world of knowledge and enlightenment is the pioneer field of social, moral, and spiritual enterprise.

There are great new triumphs to achieve in the attainment of human welfare and in the progress that is registered not merely in material prosperity but in the goodness and happiness of a people.

Foreign Relations, Buchanan horse which won money time after time at New Orleans, Kansas City, Tulsa, and other race meets, is now in training at the local park.

Midland business men, on being questioned, have expressed the desire to see the Cowboy polo and race meets developed into regular events.

Several May Go To Short Course

Interest in the farmers short course to be conducted at Texas A. & M. college July 28 to Aug. 3 appears to be intense here, farm leaders say. This is open to men, women and children and it is likely that persons from each community of the county will attend.

Miss Genevieve Derryberry, home demonstration agent, will likely head a delegation of farm women that will go to College Station.

It is announced that Midland county is to have the biggest agricultural fair of its history is made in the catalogue sent to the printers this week by the committee in charge.

"We expect the biggest crowds we have ever had," said the county agent, Frank Wendt. "There will be two days, in the last week of September. Premiums offered are liberal and cover more ground." More definite announcement will be made soon, the agent said.

Racing Comes Easy To 10-Year Jockey Curtis Cook, although only 10 years old, is one of the best jockeys in the horse races at the fair grounds this week. He weighs only 60 pounds, but rides hard like a veteran.

NIGHT BASEBALL MAY HAVE ITS BAD MOMENTS, BUT THE FANS ENJOY IT; AS PROVED BY THE SHEKELS GIVEN

By GAYLE TALBOT, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer. DALLAS, Texas, July 4. (AP)—Although exponents of night baseball insist that the nocturnal brand has not yet been given a fair test in the Texas league and will not be seen in its best light (positively no pun intended) until the Houston Buffs turn on their standard system July 22, the owners already have seen enough to convince them they have been passing up a bet.

Three Here Observe July 4th Birthday

Only three persons in Midland celebrate July 4 as their birthdays. But these have the proud anniversary of the birth of a nation and of ex-President Calvin Coolidge observing with them their natal days. J. A. Thrower, 610 South Colorado, is one of these. His birthday celebration is necessarily less hilarious than the other two, due to the illness of Mrs. Thrower, who was injured in an automobile accident several weeks ago. He will remain at home with Mrs. Thrower, trying to make the Fourth a sort of easier day for her to pass. Two little girls, Georgie Mae Grae, and Myrtle Beatrice Shultz will also celebrate. They will attend the program today that carries them to the fireworks celebration, to the polo and horse races at Fair park, and to later fireworks displays and swimming events at Pagoda pool.

In other towns of the nation it has been found that a considerable number of persons have July Fourth for birthdays. Democracy in New York has never been styled a characteristic of Manhattan, but one of the great metropolises' daily newspapers came out recently with pictures of high officials next to street sweepers and nursemaids—while above and margining the layout three symbols of the nation—all born on the same date.

Paralysis Scare Almost Dissipated

Whatever fear resulted in Midland from the announcement that a case of infantile paralysis had been reported here has practically been dissipated through favorable bulletins on the condition of the patient, a child of E. O. Shubert, McCamey man.

Dr. W. E. Ryan said when questioned that the child appears to be recovering and that it may regain partial control of members paralyzed. The disease was termed earlier in the week sporadic, not an epidemic.

Hamrick Gets Dedo; Woman Beats Doctor

C. C. Duffey, Bill Hamrick, and Dr. Mrs. W. E. Ryan were the first ones to play on the new Scharbauer Hotel miniature golf course but, early as they were, there had been others ahead of them for the honors.

These, however, all of them practical jokesters, came before the course opened. Paul Barron came down to work early and left a card saying he had "been here." He made his appearance at his desk at 5:43. To Bill Hamrick goes the distinction of making the first ace, sinking his first putt on the No. 10 hole.

At the eleventh hole Hamrick had stroked a 40, Duffey a 38, and at the sixth hole Mrs. Ryan was one under her husband, with a 26.

Race Officials Are Veterans At Jobs

John Tolbert, veteran race horse judge of West Texas, will officiate in the Cowboy Park races again this afternoon. Harry L. Haight, who judged and started races in the east for a quarter of a century, is one of the officials, and Bert Trammell of Sweetwater, one of the southwest's leading race horse breeders, is the third judge.

Elliott F. Cowden is time-keeper. Cowden has served as an official time-keeper and score keeper in all of the rodeos, race meets and polo games here for years.

Two Year Old Colt Stronger Than A 3

Bert Trammell of Sweetwater, veteran horse breeder, says a two-year old pony can carry more weight than a three-year old, and in most races, a two-year old will win over a three.

Trammell said he had a two-year old filly once that he carried to the leading races over the United States, and won over all ages and all sizes of horses, carrying a jockey weighing 134 pounds. "A two year old is just in better condition," Trammell said.

Homer Ingham is in from his ranch, celebrating the Fourth.

79 First Reports From Permian Basin

FORT WORTH, July 4. (AP)—From 27 West Texas counties, including the Panhandle, Permian Basin and Central Basin and Central West Texas areas, 79 first reports for oil and gas exploration were accounted during the week ended June 28. The Central West Texas region, featuring spirited activity in a shallow pool near Newcastle, Young county, led with 48 first reports. Twenty-two were credited to Young county.

"Say, who in the hell put that slush in the paper about 'Beats' getting worried and nervous," the note read. "Whoever done it had a damn little to do after him crawling around on this ship night and day, trying to bring the record to Chicago. Then somebody put that line of slush in the paper."

"Can't I write a damn thing to you guys without it getting in paper? I only told you that he was hard to wake up, and so am I. This caused plenty of hell between me and him. He came damn near jumping out in chute, and it wouldn't take a hell of a lot to make me do the same."

"Now I want this corrected, or this ship may land quick. If he was that way anybody had damn little to do after him staying this long."

"We want this bull stuff stopped and put in right stuff."

plus entrance fees, this being the second half of the Scharbauer Hotel Handicap.

The fourth race, for five-eighths of a mile, will include some real race stock. This is the Merchants' Stake for $100 and entrance fees. Horses entered are Milton, by Clayton Stewart; George Keith, by Clarence Scharbauer; Delhi Boy, by George Buchanan; and Miss Christian, by Clayton Stewart.

The fifth race will bring the stands to the feet before the boys who stage the polo games will have a chance to show what their fastest ponies can do on a quarter mile dead run. Five polo ponies are entered, each one having played in the games both Wednesday and Friday, and must be ridden by the owner. Included in the race are King Toney, by Jay Floyd; Split, by Clay Floyd; Dick, by Dick Whittemburg; Lura Lee, by Myrl Jowell; and Skeet, by Phil Griffin of Abilene.

and race fans got a daylight start to the track at Cowboy Park, working out the ponies or watching them train for the strenuous races which follow the polo game this afternoon.

Polo players were busy early, working out their mounts and getting in some practice with the mallet.

Visitors Arrive Before the sun was high, automobiles from neighboring towns and from farms and ranches over the country were rolling up on Midland's paved streets, transporting hundreds of interested spectators who were enthusiastically bent on spending a big day in this city noted for its hospitality and entertainment.

Midland Horse-- (Continued from Page 1) The Bradley entry won by a nose, flashing ahead by the narrowest sort of a nose to cop the event. Foreign Relations had run himself off his feet in the first two quarters when he had come so near to breaking the record.

It was at Latonia, Ky., the famous race course that has a history of its own, that Foreign Relations was acquired by the Midland stable. In July of last year the month he was purchased, he won two races, making the three-quarter distance in 1:12 1-2 to beat a fast field.

He was bought from J. D. Resbess. Buchanan and Bloss have three other horses, Isogoles, George Keith and Delhi Boy. These horses have not been run since wearing the colors of this stable, having been bought only recently at Tulsa. They have won several races each, however, on northern tracks.
