"Master Farmer" Defined at Last

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Aug. 4.—"A master farmer is the type of citizen, husband, father and farmer who has no apologies to offer in the here and on excuses to make in the hereafter," said Eugene Butler, Dallas, editor of The Progressive Farmer, speaking before the field groups of the farmers short course at the A. & M. college of Texas Thursday.

"These men are keeping step with progress," the speaker continued, "and the methods used on their farms are concrete evidence of the fact that they are utilizing the latest discoveries from the Texas Experiment station released through the A. & M. college and the extension service. An analysis of the master farmers, their farms and their methods shows that the man, his methods and his equipment have more to do with success or failure than the size of farm, character of farm or its location."

"The average Texas master farmer owns 375 acres of land with 250 acres under cultivation. He has ten head of high grade or registered dairy cattle, two good brood sows, 150 standard-bred laying hens, and has four or five sources of annual income from crops and livestock," Mr. Butler explained.

"More important still," he added, "the master farmers are applying the best methods of today to every phase of today's farming and when tomorrow's accepted methods come they will apply them tomorrow."

Twenty Million Gallons Of Water Are Used in July

Through error, it was stated in the Sunday issue of The Reporter-Telegram that more than 2,000,000 gallons of water was the amount pumped and distributed by the city water works during the month on July.

This figure should have read more than 20,000,000 gallons. The city set an all-time record for water consumption during the month.

KNIFE, PLIERS AND GIN USED IN OPERATION

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4. (UP)—A cook's carving knife, a pair of pliers borrowed from the carpenter, a bottle of Holland Gin, and a needle and linen thread, saved the life of a seaman stricken with appendicitis, and as a result, Dr. David R. Robbins, Los Angeles surgeon, recently was presented with a large silver loving cup by the Planet Steamship company.

A little more than a year ago Dr. Robbins and his wife left Los Angeles on the steamship Noorderdyk for Germany, where the doctor was going to study for a year. He left all his surgical instruments at home, intending to buy new ones in Germany.

Three days out of Panama, the Noorderdyk received an S. O. S. from the steamship Corvus saying that Henry Lohse, 21-year-old sailor, was stricken with appendicitis.

The Noorderdyk steamed to the Corvus and when they met, Lohse was transferred to the Noorderdyk. Dr. Robbins was asked to save the man's life.

Dr. Robbins borrowed a carving knife from the cook, made the incision and with the pliers removed the appendix. He then sewed up the incision with a needle and thread borrowed from his wife and disinfected the wound with Holland Gin. A piece of rubber tubing from a shower bath was used for drainage. As a result of the operation, Lohse is hale and hearty, hauls on the main brace and lustily sings, "Blow the Man Down."

Mercury Reaches 113 In Oklahoma And Kansas Points

With local temperature again over the 100 degree mark, the mercury running as high as 113 in parts of Oklahoma and Kansas, a number of prostrations in the middle west, and with government forecast of continued drouth and intense heat, the attention of the nation again is turned to the unprecedented heat waves which bid fair to surpass even those of July.

Maximum temperature at the Midland weather station for Sunday registered 101 degrees, with minimum 71; and today at 1:30, the mercury had risen to 100, indicating that yesterday's high mark would be surpassed. Minimum temperature reported for today was 72 degrees.

MIDLAND'S WATER SYSTEM

Midland tax payers may well be proud of the city's water system and of the manner in which officials are handling it. Two substantial water rate reductions have been granted to water users within recent months, and now comes the announcement that the system is making a profit and that further reductions may follow.

The effect is seen in more beautiful yards, in flowers gardens and other beauty spots over the city. Due to the arid climate, more water per capita is used here than in the average city. Those who have used the city water freely have made it possible for the system to be operated at a greater profit, the benefits being passed down to the consumer.

DEPORTING THE BOOTLEGGER

Plans for deporting alien violators of the prohibition statutes, under terms of the Jones law, are announced by the newly organized enforcement bureau. Officials believe that aliens are leaders in the big liquor and rum running syndicates around the big cities, and that if these violators are eliminated, the remainder of the enforcement work will be made easier.

It's a long way from the Chicago beer trusts to the cross-roads, or filling station, bootlegger in West Texas, but the new bureau, under the direction of the justice department, may have some far-reaching work done within the next few months to make it harder and harder for the bootlegger to exist. Deportation of alien bootleggers is no more important than prosecution of the native engaged in the same trade.

IN A SINGLE LIFETIME

Many living persons can remember when the first oil well in the United States was drilled. It produced 30 barrels a day. Now we have 330,000 producing wells, in 19 states, and eight barrels of oil are being produced annually for each person of our population.

Fifty years ago most people would have laughed if it had been suggested that petroleum and its products might become essential to the life of the world. But the pioneers had faith in the industry. They knew it would provide light and lubrication. And today our great machine civilization could not exist without oil.

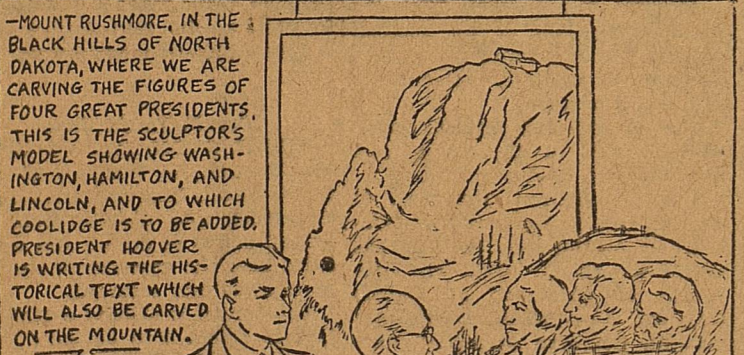

Vast scientific progress has been made. Wells are sunk to great depths, un-dreamed-of even 15 or 20 years ago. By cracking, hydrogenation and other processes, we are extracting a constantly higher percentage of gasoline from crude.

TIME TO WATCH GRASS FIRES

Those who remember some of the disastrous prairie fires which have occurred at about this time of the summer during dry spells can readily realize the necessity of watching carefully to prevent similar occurrences now.

Much of the grass is long, but due to the lack of summer rains, is considerably dry. One spark from a match or cigarette thrown away by a careless smoker going across the country in an automobile, or the remains of a camper's fire, would ruin section after section of badly needed grass. It's time to be careful.

Canada's Ban on Exports Of Rum Brings Gang War

Well-Ordered Smuggling Business Succeeded by Fierce Competition as Source of Supply Is Suddenly Changed

Editor's Note: Here is another of Bruce Catton's exclusive stories on the amazing situation that has developed in Detroit since the gang murder of Gerald Buckley, "radio martyr."

By BRUCE CATTON NEA Service Writer

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—By a queer turn of circumstances, a Canadian law that was supposed to help American cities enforce the prohibition amendment turned out to be one of the major elements in plunging Detroit into a bitter gang war.

During the fortnight immediately before its recent recall election Detroit had 11 gang murders. These murders, according to an underworld explanation, were largely due to Canada's new law prohibiting the export of liquor to the United States.

That law raised hob with Detroit's gangs. Like all big city gangs, these mobs drew most of their revenue from the illegal liquor trade. In Detroit that trade was highly systematized. The bulk of the supply came straight across the river. Speed boats brought over cargoes every night. The business was well

HOW DETROIT IS TO BE KEPT "DRY"

"Detroit is closed now and it's going to stay closed!" declares Police Commissioner Wilcox, who—temporarily, at least—has actually "dried up" America's fourth largest city for the first time since the prohibition law was enacted.

Wilcox tells how he proposes to keep the city dry in an exclusive interview obtained for The Reporter-Telegram and NEA Service, which will be published soon.

Then, almost overnight, this business was broken up. Canada put into effect a law requiring any exporter who cleared a cargo of liquor to return to Dominion authorities his clearance papers duly stamped by the authorities at the foreign port of entry. This, of course, made it impossible for a Canadian to send booze legally to this country, as had been possible before. It also made it impossible for the exporters to "short circuit" a cargo—to clear from Windsor ostensibly for Havana, for instance, and land the cargo in Detroit instead.

In brief, it became just as illegal to export liquor from Canada to the United States as it is to bring it into this country.

The gangs at once lost their source of supply. In consequence, a whole series of alley breweries and fly-by-night alky joints sprang up. What had been a well-regulated business became a free-for-all. The killings were one of the by-products.

Before that, Detroit had not had a great deal of open gang trouble. Until early this year the city was fairly well divided into two territories, east side and west side. Woodward avenue was the dividing line, and the east side mob, under the leadership of an Italian who had ruled for nearly a decade, was the dominant one. This Italian settled most gangland disputes without having to use guns. There were few attempts by either side to "muscle in" on the territory of the other, and gang murders were relatively scarce.

But this Italian died early this year, and shortly after his death came the new Canadian export law. Disorder followed, bringing the series of killings that alarmed the town and contributed materially to the defeat of Mayor Charles Bowles in the recall election.

Detroit's Purple Gang, which has been widely publicized during the last two years, is pretty well broken up now, according to underworld stories. In fact, the Purple Gang was never one of the dominant mobs here. Its members were mostly young men, and its activities were confined to various forms of "muscle work." It never held a key position in the booze racket.

Police Commissioner Thomas Wilcox confirms this. "I helped break up the Purple Gang while I was with the federal men," he told me. "I got Louie Fleisher, the first of that gang to go to prison, for theft of an interstate shipment, and he was sent to prison for 10 years. We put four more away for liquor law violations, and then we sent up two more for theft of an interstate shipment."

"Fleisher stuck up a truck load of rubber that was found for a Detroit auto plant. He got the truck and trailer and $3,700 worth of rubber. We restored the goods and got Fleisher the maximum sentence. "The kidnaping ring that was active here is pretty well broken up, too. There were nine men in it, and all but two or three are in prison."

It is hard to learn just who the gang leaders here are now. One, Chester LeMare, is said to have exercised a good deal of power for some time, but the law recently got on his trail and he has drifted away. A set of Italian brothers are also said to be highly influential in gang circles, and "Black Leo"—now said to be so "hot" that his murder is daily expected—is also named as an underworld "big shot."

Detroit's gangs do not seem to have reached the up-to-date level of the Chicago gangs. They do not, for example, use machine guns. For a time the sawed-off shotgun was a favorite weapon here, but two or three important murders were bungled by shotgun artists this spring, the intended victims being merely wounded instead of killed outright; so now the gangs have gone back to the more reliable automatic pistol.

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

Senator Fess Ought to Be a Huge Success in Huston's Job, Assuming That He Gets It—He'll Be the "Front" and Mr. Lucas Will Do the Work

WASHINGTON, August 4.—It is almost impossible to imagine that Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio will not be an unqualified success in the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee being vacated by the Hon. Cladius Huston.

Senator Fess will not do the party any harm, which is much the most important thing, and he is caught to do it considerable good by reinvesting the chairmanship with the odor of personal and political purity which is possessed in almost unbelievable quantities by the gentleman from Ohio.

His principal job, assuming that he is appointed to the chairmanship as everyone expects, will be to sit benignly as the party figurehead, issue inspirational statements and do nothing whatever which might tend to damage President Hoover's prospects for renomination in 1932.

What Mr. Lucas Will Do It is obviously very good strategy on the part of the Republican political wizards to insert Robert H. Lucas of Kentucky, the commissioner of internal revenues, as chairman of the national committee's executive committee with the assignment to do all the heavy work in the coming campaign.

While Senator Fess is fuming the precincts with his well known odor of sanctity Mr. Lucas will be out working with the boys. His job will correspond to that of Mr. J. M. Shouse, who holds a similar title in the Democratic party and is the party's real active head despite the retention of the chairmanship by Mr. John J. Raskob.

Because so many Democrats hated the sound of Raskob's name it was good strategy to have him step into the background behind Mr. Shouse, just as it is fine Republican strategy to have the saintly Senator Fess—or someone just like him, which there isn't—step into the shoes of the rather shopworn Mr. Huston and show the country that the party can still produce a chairman with a halo if necessary.

No one hereabouts thinks less of Mr. Fess, and sees less evil than Senator Fess. Once your correspondent ran across the senator in front of a bootleg joint at a summer resort. Customers were coming in and customers were coming out, but the senator remained completely innocent of the hideous traffic which was being carried on so close at hand.

It is a mistake to describe Senator Fess as a solemn, sober, humorless gent. A man can be spokesman for the Anti-Saloon League and the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, as well as the most regular of all regular Republicans, as Senator Fess is, and still not be like that.

As a matter of fact he has the happiest smile that you could find in a day's walk. Just as long as you take the Republican party and Prohibition seriously you will be rewarded by that happy Fess smile and in case you have any trouble taking such things seriously it's almost worth it.

He is 69 years old now and the Edna—$31,942 paving contract let to pave approximately 27,000 square yards in business section.

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

Speaking of vacations, Baxley took out this morning, and to be sure and have a good time, he is having his tonsils removed.

Ralph Barron, after making an 85-mile an hour drive bringing in the injured highway patrolman Saturday night, almost proved that a Buick is faster than a motorcycle. Patrolman Croft, opening up the road, said he almost got run over trying to keep in front.

I heard the other day that there would be another election August 23. Had you heard about it? If you insist, I will tell you who is running, and if you want still more, I may outline some of the qualifications of the candidates. Let me hear from you at once if you are interested, because it takes me 10 to 15 minutes to get busy and write up a job like that.

Warning to scoutmasters: Did you see the "Believe it or not" picture of the Russian army officer who, on being displeased with his troops on inspection, ordered them to Siberia and never heard of them again? Don't be too final in your commands. The troops may take you seriously.

chairmanship would come as a fitting reward. There has never been any occasion on which he was not willing to champion his party, and his president and that is more, probably, than you can say for any other Republican senator. No matter how many others might run out on Mr. Coolidge or Mr. Hoover, you could always depend on Simeon.

There will be some wets running on Republican tickets in this year's congressional campaigns, but Simeon's creed takes care of such minor embarrassments as that. No matter what else happens as long as the country keeps on electing real Republicans everything is going to turn out all right. Senator Fess has only the deepest sympathy for anyone who feels otherwise.

SUGAR HALTS SLEEP HAMILTON, N. Y.—Those who have trouble sleeping at night probably are consuming too much sugar, according to results of experiments conducted in laboratories of Colgate University. There it was found that it is possible to stay awake a much longer period by eating sweet foods than others. The sugar produced restlessness which hindered sleep.

Family's Needs Fix Size of Cabinets

By WILLIAM H. BALDWIN
Author of "The Shopping Book"
Written for NEA Service

In kitchen cabinets the requirements are pretty much the same in all homes except as to size, which, obviously, is regulated by the needs of the family.

Color being desirable in many instances, it is well to remember that paint can, and sometimes may, cover a multitude of construction blemishes. Examine the joints. See that they fit closely.

Steel cabinets are about 50 per cent more expensive than those of wood. The color is usually sprayed on, and when this is properly done it is a good and lasting job.

THAT'S what big sister said to her boy friend as he pulled little brother out from under the sofa. But wait till big sister and the boy friend are man and wife, with a home of their own to run. Then how much more she'll realize the truth of her observation!

For then the age old problems will come pressing hard. So much in the pocketbook. So much on the shopping list. Will it fit? Then's when the little things make the big difference. The little savings—the small economies—the slightly better values of which a good housekeeper takes advantage.

Then's when big sister will read the advertisements as she never read them before. Comparing values; learning reliable brands; watching the bargain and reduction announcements. . . BUSHERS SLITHER INTO A LEAGUE TIE AS STANTON IS CRUSHED

Big Spring Stymies Midland from Cup Win in Play There Sunday

OILERS TUMBLE AS BUSHERS' GUNS SHELL LOT SUNDAY

The Bushers and Lenorah did it Sunday afternoon—beat the Oilers and Stanton—and now the Bushers sit in at a two handed game with the Stanton club for first place. The Bushers won 9-6 and Lenorah beat Stanton 16-10.

It remained until the last game of the half for these effective changes to be registered in the Tri-County league columns. Stanton had led all season. The Bushers and Oilers and Lenorah had been in a three-place tie for second place a couple of Sundays ago. Then the Oilers dropped below the percentage of the Bushers and lost again yesterday while Stanton was losing to Lenorah.

It was Lenorah that knocked the Oilers out of classification and again it was Lenorah that administered the last-minute crushing defeat to the league leaders.

Possible Play-Off

As a result, there will probably be a play-off between the Bushers and Stanton for the supremacy of the first half flag. That will be decided one day this week when officials of the league meet, probably in Midland.

Yesterday's game showed a Bush-or team that delivered in the pinches. The aggregation collected nine runs from 13 hits while the Oilers were making six runs from 11 hits. The Oilers erred six times while the Bushers saw only three bobbles chalked. Scoring started in the second inning for the Bushers, ringing the scoring pan three times. The Oilers came back in the fourth to score two times, but the Bushers annexed three more in their frame. The Oilers scored one in the fifth the Bushers two in the sixth and one in the seventh, and the Oilers made a strong comeback in the ninth to flow three more. This was not sufficient, however, to turn back the Bushers and the tables were turned. The Bushers had gone into a tie for first place with the Lenorah team whamming Stanton offerings to all corners of the lot.

Hill Is Retired

Carroll Hill, starting for the Oilers against his former team mates, pitched better baseball than the tabulation would show. He was faced with the jinx that has dogged him all season. His men were bobbing behind him at every turn, and he was removed for Timmons after hurling for four frames. He struck out two men, hit three, and gave three passages on balls during this time. Timmons struck out six and was tight on issuing passages, never throwing any given man four balls. Forney of the Bushers staved the entire route, striking out six and issuing only two free trips.

The Oilers had five men left on bases, the Bushers 10. The Bushers had the Oilers outclassed Sunday in almost every department.

Wade Heath had a big day out there in the Busher outfield. The left fielder draws not racial demarcations, racing at one time over to the negro bleachers for a foul ball. He was everywhere, handling five chances without a bobble. Two of these were sensational. Ellis, Bush-er skipper, made all the errors for his club while playing second base. He hit twice out of four appearances, however, as did Heath.

Forney Swipes Bases

Timmons and Smith collected one hit out of three trips to hold the day's highest batting average for the Oilers.

The joke of the game was the stealing of two bases by Forney, Busher pitcher. He is recognized as the slowest man on the paths of anyone, possibly, in the league. He has always used the old bean, however, say those who have watched him and he pilfered those bags in the Sunday game to the evident satisfaction of the stands.

"First American," Gigantic Indian Spectacle, Announced

By IDALEA ANDREWS HUNT, Special to The Reporter-Telegram

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 4.—America's gigantic Indian spectacle—The First American, that is making New Mexico increasingly the mecca of vacationists will be presented August 19th, 20th, 21st and 22nd in Albuquerque.

Here in this metropolis of the Sunshine State visitors will find 5000 Indians, representing nearly fifty of the 235 tribes of North America, ultimately to be included—encamped in the foothills of its picturesque Sandias. This believed to be the largest aggregation of Red Skins ever to be assembled in one place will participate in this brilliant and amazing four-day production.

Here all eras of our country's history, as they have touched the life of the Indian from the primitive "Skin Age" to the present time will be authentically portrayed in this stupendous drama that is destined to mean to America what the Passion Play does to Europe.

Though this entire country of ours was once the sole domain of the Redmen, with the onrush of civilization, only the Southwest has remained essentially his habitat. And it is in New Mexico that the most famous tribes—one-fourth of the Indian population to North America have continued to live just as did their forefathers before the birth of Christ—an ethnological unit, largely untouched by pale-face customs.

Because of this fact, it is to the First American as presented at Albuquerque, portraying the colorful life of these primitives that America is turning to gather to its better understanding a more enlightened appreciation.

Albuquerque located in the midst of the most noted tribal reservations is peculiarly fitted to carry this message. It is in the heart of a country of exotic, scintillating color, of moving sentiment and primitive beauty and on it seems to rest the benediction of long dead civilizations of the mystic spell of a great and vanquished people. Older, perhaps by thousands of years is the civilization that has left its monuments about it—in the crumbling ruins of cliff-dwellings and pueblos of unestablished antiquity.

The First American was inspired by the desire to awaken country-wide interest in the preservation of the picturesque life and traditions of the North American Indian, as well as the need to save from oblivion his native arts and tribal ceremonies. It is entirely altruistic in purpose and not designed to exploit the Indian for commercial gain.

This spectacle pulsating with life and mystery is more than just an Indian festival. It is the Indian of the Ages made a throbbing power and reality to modernity. Big business, vast capital and the indefatigable efforts of Albuquerque's citizenship backed by the age-old friendship of the largest and most distinguished tribes of the Southwest have evolved this presentation.

The First American Association aspires to encourage the Indian of today to realize his highest selfhood; to inspire him to keep unswayed from modern commercialism the arts of his fathers. To that end a comprehensive exhibition of his creative arts and crafts is a feature of this spectacle.

Mike Kirk, nationally known authority on Indian life, a doughty Irishman, who left his native Virginia twenty years ago and established a trading post in the Painted Desert is the founder-impresario of this spectacle. Because of his profound understanding and appreciation of the Red Skin he has been able to gain the interest of the most adamant tribal councils and the result is that they treke here each August to give their sacred dances and ceremonies.

Among the tribes coming this year are the Apaches, Acoma, Chickasaw, Cherokee, Comanche, Cochiti, Hopi, Isleta, Jemez, Laguna, Mohawk, Navajo, Osage, Ponca, San Juan Santa Clara, San Ildefonso, Santa Ana, San Felipe, Sandia, Santa Domingo, Sioux, Taos, Tesuque Yakima, Zia and Zuni.

Here one does not encounter Broadway actors masquerading as Red Skins. But one does thrill to Shown above are a few of the individual dancers and tribal groups who will participate in the spectacular ceremonies that will be outstanding at the gigantic Indian spectacle. The First American to be held in Albuquerque, New Mexico, August 19, 20, 21 and 22. No. 1 shows a Cochiti Chief, leader of the White Buffalo Dance given by that tribe. No. 2, "The Eagle Dance" of the Tesuques. No. 3, Grand Review of tribal dancers before the great four-story pueblo setting, opening the second episode. No. 4, A Taos Hoop dancer. the glorious voices of the greatest Indian Singers of all time and behold famous tribes negotiating their wiled and sacred ceremonials that until a few years ago, the white man was not often permitted to witness even on their reservations.

The spectacle opens with dawn in a primitive Indian village of centuries ago. As the glow of the rising sun bathes the topmost point of the great four-story pueblo behind which towers the rugged Sandias, a bronze figure clad only in brough-cloth poised with up-stretched arms becomes the focal point of interest. Then, the glorious voice of Haske Naswood, young chief of the Navajos now a famous baritone negotiates the vibrant notes of his tribal supplication to the Sun-God—"The Sunrise Call." It is then, the village awakens and watches the making of fire with two sticks and the carrying of fire to the sunstone. Then, the drama moves with increasing action, revivifying a day as it might have been before the birth of Christ.

Succeeding episodes depict the coming of the strange white race, the subduing of resisting Red Skins; the beginning of Spanish rule and later the surrender of Hispanic domination to American protection. Many features of Indian life are injected—many spectacular and beautiful dances including the paganistic Fire Dance of the Navajos, their eerie "Night Chant" and the war dance of the Apaches—making the presentation a kaleidoscope of color and action. Then comes the era of '49, replete with the romance of the range and the days of the covered wagon.

With the closing episode there is the magnificent spectacle of these thousands of Red Skins massed before the great pueblo singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee" as high on the pueblo the losing of the "Last Arrow"—the final gesture of a vanishing race, no longer belligerent. And no one has ever heard the national anthem sung with such beauty, such fervor until they have listened to these thousands of Indians—true "First Americans"—in voices reminiscent of "wind-tossed pines" chaunting out in many tribal tongues, "Sweet Land of Liberty of Thee I sing."

That America is interested in this great spectacle of the Indian, there is eloquent proof. A hundred of the nation's great leaders—capitalists, members of cabinet, leaders in all spheres of our national life representing all sections of the country have accepted membership on its recently created National Board of Honorary Directors.

This board headed by Vice-president Curtis, himself of distinguished Indian lineage; Secretary of Interior Wilbur and Governor R. C. Dilling of New Mexico, includes such widely known "first citizens" as Rufus C. Daves, president of the Chicago 1893 World's Fair; Louis L. Tiffany, Cyrus F. K. Curtis, Martin J. Insull, Edward L. Doheny, William Allen White, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Nicholas Longworth, Theodore Roosevelt Jr., Will Rogers, Harry Chandler Adolph S. Ochs, E. W. Marland, Zane Grey, Walter P. Chrysler, Frank Phillips, Gutzon Borglum and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Among prominent Texans on its roster are: Col. R. S. Sterling, Houston, Amon G. Carter, Ft. Worth; G. B. Dealey, Edward T. Moore, E. B. Doran, Col. W. E. Easterwood, Dallas; Gutzon Borglum, San Antonio; A. M. Hughes, Gene Howe, Amarillo and D. D. Roderick, El Paso.

HOTEL FEED IS PUT BEFORE BOYS AT NOON HOUR

Big Spring golfers defeated those of Midland Sunday over the 18-hole route by four points and 33 strokes. Win or loss was based on low score and on bracket total per hole.

A big feed at noon in the Crawford hotel started the afternoon, and teeing off started at 2 o'clock.

The low scoring foursome was composed of John Northington and Frank Barron of Big Spring and Ellis Cowden and Billy Moran of Midland. The Big Spring bracket shot two 89's and the Midland bracket two 85's. This match was tight throughout, with Cowden shooting and hitting straight, spinning iron shots that stuck where they struck. Moran played steadily out of about all the traps on the course—having to play difficult shots out of deep lies seven times.

John Northington played the steadiest game, chalking up a 75 for total score. Cowden was one stroke higher, Northington edged him with phenomenal putting, though Cowden's approaches were better.

Barron hit long iron shots all afternoon and played a good game. He holds membership in both the Big Spring and Midland country clubs.

The total strokes for Big Spring's 14 players amounted to 1294, Midland's 1332. Points ran 39-35.

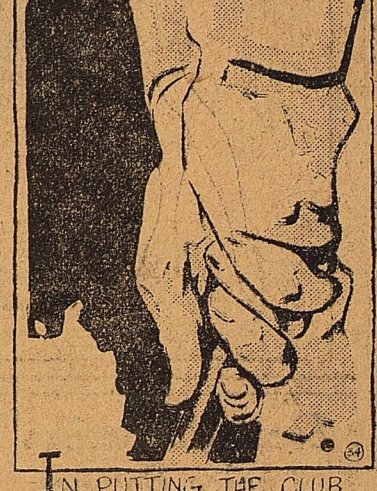

The Big Spring course is unusually guarded by hazards. Every fairway is flanked by tree-dotted roughs, beset by shallow and deep ditches, criss-crossed by knolls and leads to a sand green guarded by traps and bunkers. Only the careful golfer escaped the hazards of this course.

SHOOTING SHUTE

IN PUTTING THE CLUB SHOULD BE HELD A TRIFLE MORE LOOSELY.

Pendulum Stroke May Be Fine but Shute Advises Loosely-Gripped Club and Slight Sway in Hitting

Advice with regard to the necessity of putting overspin on your putts and of taking a comportsable position in the address with the wright thrown on the left foot, naturally should be followed by a few words on the actual hitting of the putt.

Most authorities believe it necessary to make what is called a pendulum swing—that is, holding the club so that the clubhead does every bit of the work in striking the ball.

I do not agree with that, although there probably are a number of better putters than I who hold to that principle. My disagreement, if it may be called that, is in my belief that they do not use the pendulum stroke as faithfully as they teach it. A lot of them get clear away from the pendulum swing probably without realizing it.

I believe that the club should be gripped practically the same as in the making of an iron shot, the only difference being that for a putt the club should be held a trifle more loosely. And then, in hitting the ball, swing into it the least little bit.

TOMORROW: Lining up the putt.

After Quake Spread Great Destructoin in Italy

A graphic impression of tragedy is conveyed by this picture of a lone mother, with a baby in her arms, leaving behind her the ruins of their home in earthquake-torn Melfi, Italy. A few belongings that escaped destruction have been packed on the back of a mule for the long trek out of the devastated area. Note the shattered house in the background.

Standing amid the jumbled ruins of their homes, survivors of the earthquake which rocked Melfi, Italy, here are shown as they awaited the arrival of food and supplies from nearby relief centers. Many children were reported to be suffering from lack of nourishment. Buildings in Melfi were literally torn in two by the fiercest temblors which left virtually the entire town uninhabitable.

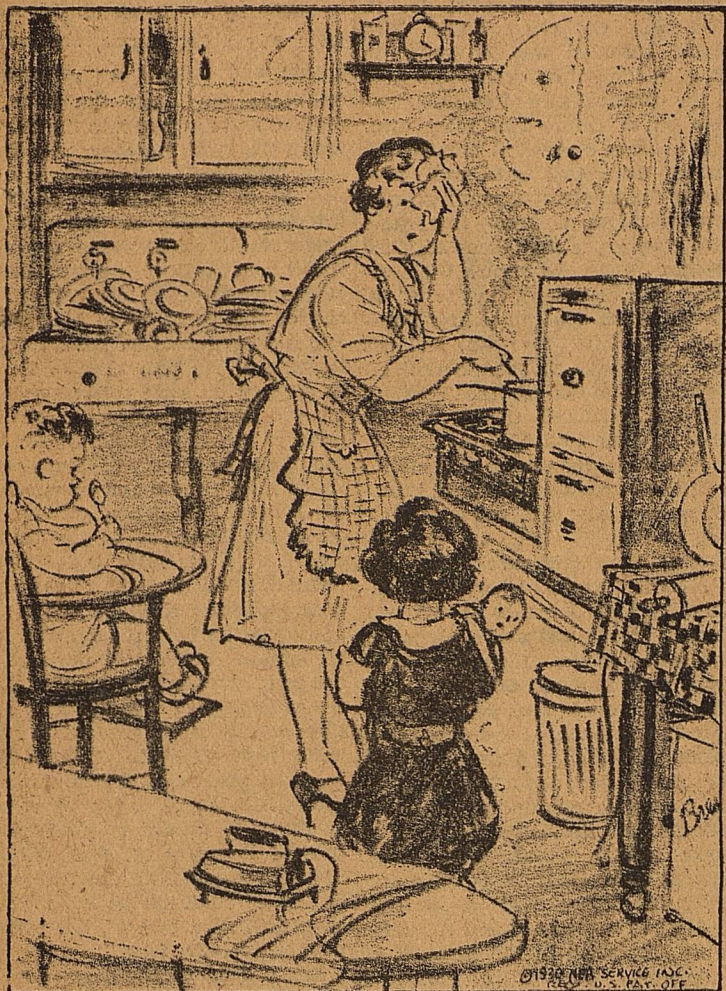

Homeless, bereaved and stricken by the swift disaster which overtook them, refugees from the earthquake zone are pictured above as they gathered in groups on the outskirts of Melfi, Italy. Note their picturesque peasant costumes. More than two hundred deaths were reported from Melfi and thousands were driven from their crumbling homes.

WACO CUBS FAR FROM BEING READY TO GIVE UP FRANCHISE; BATTLING WICHITA FOR LEAGUE SUPREMACY

By GAYLE TALBOT JR. Associated Press Sports Writer.

DALLAS, Aug. 3 (AP)—The redemption of the Waco Cubs in 1930, A. D., will be remembered as one of the most amazing chapters in Texas League history.

Today the Cubs are right at the top, battling the Wichita Falls Spudders for the second half flag, being taken more seriously every day.

It may be told now. Emissaries actually were scouting about the state trying to pick a city capable of supporting a club.

Had the Cubs not sold Hank Thormahlen for $10,000 and invested the down payment in a lighting system, and had not the team become immediately inspired under the aegis and begun drawing banner crowds, there might have been an announcement ere this that Waco would be just a flag stop for Texas League teams in 1931.

But, the Cubs did sell Hank and string bulbs about Katy Park, and the rest is current history.

Texas fans will watch with considerable interest the continuation of Grover Cleveland Alexander's minor league career with the Toledo Mud Hens.

Stengel always has been an excitable fellow. He is likely to explode all over the premises the first afternoon he expects Old Pete to toil and the oldtimer wobbles into the dug-out just before game time munching cloves.

Sentimentalists to the contrary, the writer does not believe Alec received a raw deal from the Dallas Steers.

There was no contract, incidentally: The only visible connection Alexander had with Dallas was a telegram from Tarleton, accepting his terms.

In the TRI-COUNTY League

By R. C. Hankins

Haphazard prophecy seems to have been realized. The Bushers and Lenorah won, and a Midland team is tied with Stanton for top position.

About the playoff. There is nothing definite about this, though an effort it to be made this week to obtain it, League officials, are to meet to draft the schedule for the second half, and Midland will ask that the playoff begin immediately, rather than after the second half.

Paper dope gives the Bushers a big edge on the Stanton club in the playoff. The Midland club should be able to win three straight games from the boys over to the east of here.

There is criticism heard here to the proposal, whether authentic or not, to cut Valley View and Pleasant Valley during the second half.

The second half of this league should be a wow. All teams have found their strength and weaknesses, as well as those of other clubs.

BANK REPORTS BUSINESS LOW; ACTIVITY DOWN

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 4. (UP)—With construction in the eleventh federal reserve district declining in the past month, Dallas, Post Arthur and Shreveport reported substantial increases over the previous month and the same month a year ago.

Total valuation for the district amounted to $4,771,689, a decrease of 16.7 per cent over the preceding period and a decline of 22.3 per cent below the month of 1929.

A slight increase in amount of federal reserve notes in actual circulation is noted by the report. The total of $31,847,500 was more than $400,000 above the month earlier figures.

Department store sales in the principal cities declined more than the usual seasonal amount, and were substantially smaller than in the corresponding month a year ago.

While the demand for help in outdoor activities has absorbed part of the unemployed, a general surplus of labor still exists, the survey notes.
