Butler, Rowe Address Lions

"Money is something that you give the other fellow for what he has that you want," was the explanation used by John P. Butler, in his educational talk today before the Lions club.

Butler traced the origin of the medium of exchange through its coin state, adoption of the gold standard, and described briefly the inflation of paper money and the seven different kinds of that money.

Following Butler, Homer W. Rowe outlined in summary the process of voting. He cited excerpts from various court decisions as they effect questions that have arisen in Midland county.

Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney Saved Life Of Midland Horse That Runs in Race Here Saturday; Mother Broke His Hip

The negligence of a mare in rolling over on her colt on a pasture of the famous Harry Payne Whitney stable six years ago was an incident which allows for a remarkable race at Cowboy park, Midland, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Wessie B, dam of George Keith, Midland's well known 16 1-2-hand race gelding, broke the little colt's hip in a stallion which had established himself as a remarkable race horse.

George Keith was bred to run 1-16 to 1-4 miles. He was shipped by his owner to Miami, Fla., where he won the 3-4 mile in 1.12. It was seen that with careful handling, he would live up to his breeding even with his knocked down hip.

At Pimlico, Maryland, he won the Havre de Grace. He was sold and months later, made his appearance at Tulsa. Here, Dr. William Bloss, trainer and rider for the Buchanan-Bloss stables of Midland, saw him run. The horse was being given no oats, and was running after having nothing to eat except what he found while grazing.

With Delhi Boy, a big gelding that formerly had been George Keith's stable mate, George Keith was brought to Midland, Tex. It is remembered, was sent to Mexico subsequently and won 120,000 pesos, the equivalent of $60,000 in American money. He ran this race at Mexico City in the mud, thus bringing back into the light of publicity the "like father like son" press notices he had been getting on Eastern tracks.

An amusing incident resulted the day following the second race of George Keith and the army mount. "We don't want to run that old horse," said Mrs. Whitney, "but a high ranking army officer said, 'but we'll take on that little fat bay over there.'" The "little fat bay" in question was none other than Foreign Relations, one of the finest horses Doc Bloss ever straddled.

SWEETWATER, July 20.—L. M. Parks went back to jail, denied bail by Justice Ike Brashear after an all-day examining trial in the case in which Parks is charged with the murder of his wife, Mrs. Joe Bob Parks.

The defendant did not take the stand. He sat quietly with his attorneys, silent and watchful, as the state revealed two links in its circumstantial case—one, life insurance; the other, the defendant's relations with Mrs. Fay Condit, 24-year-old woman who is charged as an accomplice.

Girl Testifies A crowd which overflowed into the windows of the district courtroom, making the place almost unbearably hot, heard Mrs. Condit testify for more than an hour. She was brought here from the Colorado jail, where she was confined by George Mahon, district attorney, and put on the stand as a state witness. Mahon drew from her the following statements:

Information of Drowning She heard about the drowning of Mrs. Parks "on Monday after it happened on Friday," Parks himself sending her a clipping telling of the tragedy. (Mrs. Parks was drowned the 10th. Mrs. Condit was then in Oklahoma.)

To Meet at Fort Worth She was in love with Parks and had hoped that sometime they would "like to live together and have a baby." She had told Parks she would meet him in Fort Worth on July 22. Mrs. Parks did not know of their relationship.

Life Insurance From a succession of agents the state produced testimony that Parks had been insured for $14,000 in mutual companies; at the same time buying some insurance on his own life, and two policies on Mrs. H. L. Condit, in which he was named as beneficiary and described as the insured's uncle. Mrs. Condit testified to having knowledge of the policies taken on her life, and of the assured's relations with Parks.

Stokes, Epley Are Picnic Speakers

J. V. Stokes and Homer Epley of Midland were the principal speakers at the old settlers reunion at Stanton Tuesday evening. John Hix entertained with violin solos.

George Keith's racing in Midland began a year ago last July, when he won the third and fourth of July. Running in shorter races than those he prefers, he won the five-eighths event July 3 against Fox, a Scharbauer horse, and a Floyd mare. He won under pull. On the fourth, he won from Jewell's Floydada and Jewell's Golden Dreamer—coming in ahead about 18 lengths.

His next race here was against Maude F. Floyd mare, and Piccolo Pete, Bryant Animal, in a Lions club benefit. With only three days' preparation, he was slow to leave the barrier, getting away three lengths behind, but came out on top during the last 70 yards, his long strides eating up the margin held by the leaders, and won by three good lengths.

OPINION HANDED DOWN YESTERDAY

SHERMAN, July 20. (UP).—Federal Judge Randolph Bryant yesterday handed down the opinion of a special three-judge court denying the application of E. Constantin and other oil operators for a temporary restraining order to prevent the Texas railroad commission from enforcing orders concerning allowable production of oil.

The opinion resulted from a conference May 30 at Houston in which Judge Bryant considered the case with Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson of the appeals court at Houston and Judge William I. Grubb of Birmingham. Nine consolidated cases were covered in the opinion.

"In the last analysis these cases present another stand by some of the producers of oil in the East Texas oil field against the claimed usurpation of power on the part of the agencies purporting to act for the state," the opinion said.

THE GREATEST HIGHWAY MENACE

One of the interesting bits of information of the month comes from the National Safety Council, which reports that—contrary to popular belief—it is not the drunken driver who is the greatest menace on the highway, but the plain, ordinary careless driver.

If the 33,500 automobile traffic fatalities in the United States last year, less than 2 per cent were caused by drunken drivers, the Safety Council reports. The completely sober driver who failed to exercise proper care was by far more dangerous.

People who have been pretty well educated to the fact that a man with a quantity of booze in his stomach has no place behind the steering wheel. They have not yet realized that no man has any business driving a car unless he keeps his mind on his job every second, abstains from too-great speeds, observes the rules of the road scrupulously and keeps always in the back of his mind the consciousness that the slightest lapse on his part may cause a tragedy.

Dieting Does Not Worry Kay Francis

Keeping fit—preserving one's figure—is a perpetually haunting problem of the modern American woman, but it is neither a problem nor a mystery to Kay Francis, playing at the Yucca Theatre today in "Street of Women."

"Diets may be the most important things in the world to thousands of women, but they are just a pain in the stomach to the screen's most striking brunette."

She doesn't know one vitamin from another. She has just as little use for calories as she has for mosquitoes.

She eats what she pleases, when she pleases and the hobgoblin of undesired weight has never troubled her for an instant.

Ask Kay Francis what her beauty secrets are. She will flash you a quick look of surprise and then break into a good-natured laugh. "I have three," she will tell you, "and you're welcome to all of them. Sunshine, fresh air and sleep. All I can get of all three. You can't buy anything in a bottle or a jar that will take the place of them."

"I spent all the time I can get out of doors between my pictures. During production, I'm in bed often by eight o'clock, never later than nine, unless I'm actually working on the set at night. In which case, I make up my lost sleep the next day."

"Exercise? Well, I've never taken exercise for the sake of exercising in my life. I enjoy tennis. I adore sailing a boat. By the time I've tired myself out doing one or the other, I've had all the exercise I want."

Albert Seeler of Derry, New Hampshire, is in Midland visiting his classmate, Bush Elkin. Both are students of Harvard university.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Elgin, Texas, July 16, 1932.
Dear Editor:
Last July the ginners of this vicinity met at a barbecue near Elgin, and decided that owing to the low price of cotton and other farm commodities, they should reduce charges paid by farmers.

They agreed to handle cottonseed without charging any commission and to reduce their charge for ginning from 30 cents per hundred pounds to 25 cents, thus giving the farmers of this section a considerably lower ginning cost than was prevailing generally.

As a result of this effort to help the farmers in a period of depression, ten individual ginners and three ginning companies were sued by Attorney General James V. Allred as violators of the anti-trust law.

The suit was filed in the 53rd district court at Austin, Texas, and asked penalties of $1500 per day of these men of moderate means whose whole offense was entering into a verbal agreement to charge the farmers less for their ginning.

Facing the prospect of trial away from home and the expense of employing counsel over a long period of time, the individual ginners joined with the companies in entering a plea of nolo contendere and paying a fine, after explanations of their action and its good purpose had failed to satisfy the attorney general.

This punishment of men who sought to aid our farmers in a time of distress has convinced the people of this section that Texas needs a new attorney general—one who will exercise reason in the conduct of his office and who will not make grandstand plays at the expense of the people and then proclaim himself their friend.

That Allred's prosecution of local ginners had a political angle was evidenced by the manner in which it was given publicly at the time.

This plain statement of the case is given to the public at this time as a matter of duty to Texas. We know the man and his methods. We want a new attorney general, and we call upon other farmers and business men to join with us in electing Clem Calhoun, an able man, a fair man and real friend of the people.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

If you didn't come from Iowa, you are probably like a lot of other natives around here, you don't know how to "ring a hog." Some of the boys were telling about a conversation between Johnny Miller, of the Scharbauer Coffee shop, and Mayor Leon Goodman, both of whom hail from Iowa, in which Miller asked the mayor if it hurt a hog to ring him when he was half grown.

"Now, you can ring 'em any time," said the mayor.

"Well, what do they squeal for?" asked Johnny.

"Well, I was just like you. How do you ring a hog? It's just the simple process of putting a ring in the hog's nose to keep him from rooting up the ground, and in this country we thought it was a question of 'root hog or die.'"

Golfers have computed that the club head of a driver, when swung by Harry Tolbert, travels at the rate of 125 miles per hour about the time it hits the ball, which is just half the time it takes for news to travel if the ball hits the cup.

"Straws show which way the wind blows," said Billy Walsh as his lid blew off his head and out of the car.

Harry Haight said that the so-called inflation bill sounds like so much hot air to him.

Either today or tomorrow, we are planning to re-run the copy of the ballot which voters will use in the Saturday election. We hope everybody will study this ballot, as there are a lot of candidates this year, and try to find out some definite information.

In parts of Victoria, Australia, mice have become such a pest that they run over the beds of sleeping people and even attack cats.

I have just received the following letter and, as it doesn't make any difference to me whether the name is signed or not, I'll give my best and most scientific horticultural and highly cultured advice:

The Towne Quackie, Midland, Texas.

I am badly worried and am wondering if you could give me a little information. I am very fonderful, which is the cause of much worry to me.

My roses are all dying so I wrote to a nursery at Dallas to find out what to do for them. Now I have forgotten the name of the nursery. They told me to fertilize them with old cow manure and what I want you to tell me is how old the cow should be.

Yours truly,
(I forgot to sign my name.)

I know my fertilizer. It doesn't make so much difference how old the cow is. It's a case like the time a mother told her little girl to go across the street and ask how Old Mrs. Jones was, and the kid came back soon with the report that Mrs. Jones said it was her own business how old she was.

The main thing about fertilizer is that it should not be too dry when applied to the rose beds, so be sure the cow is not a dry cow.

Congressman-at-large, criticizes expenditures and abuses of the franking privilege. He says that "the height of folly was reached when the department of agriculture, at big expense, issued a pamphlet on 'THE LOVE LIFE OF A FROG.'"

Shame on you, Oscar. Would you deprive agriculture of its romance?

The Whole Trend is toward a Milder Cigarette

Do you remember the days when you first started to smoke?

ALL CIGARETTES tasted somewhat alike to you, but after a while you noticed that some cigarettes were decidedly stronger than others . . . Remember?

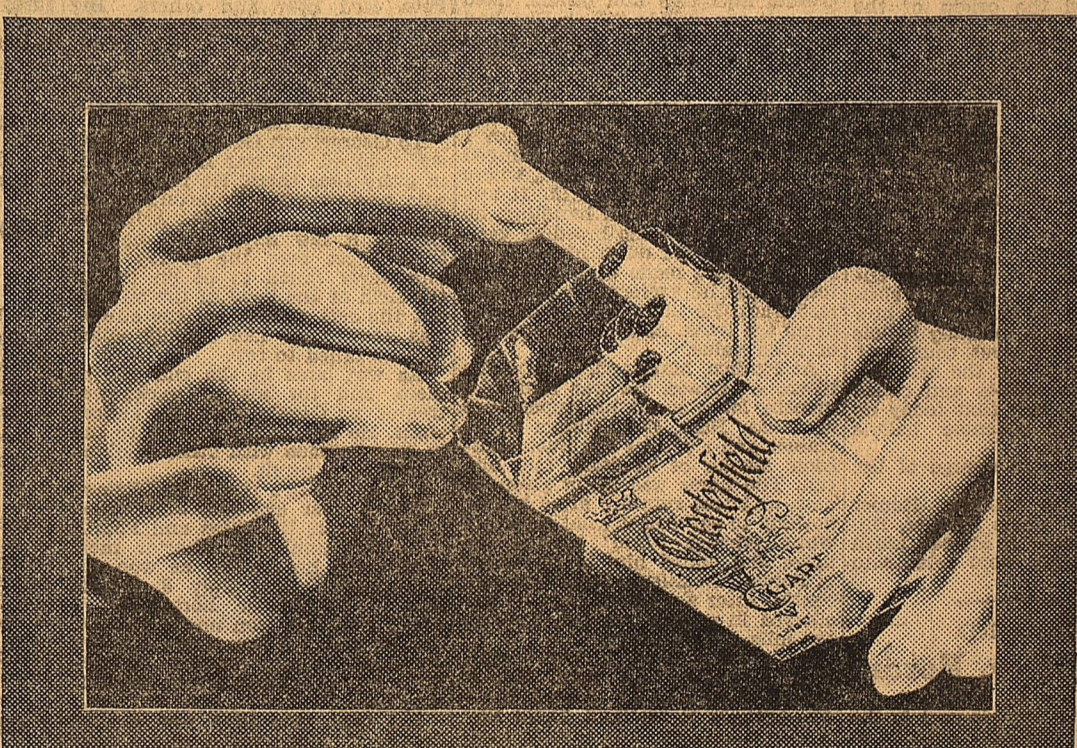

As smokers become more experienced, they demand milder cigarettes. Chesterfields are milder. There is no argument about that. Their mildness is a feature as distinctive as their package or their trade mark.

Their tobaccos are mild to begin with. Patient aging and curing make them milder still.

Chesterfields contain just the right amount of Turkish—but not too much—carefully blended and cross-blended with ripe, sweet Domestic tobaccos.

In this nerve-racking time, smokers—men and women—are showing a decided preference for milder cigarettes.

Chesterfields are milder. They taste better. That's why "They Satisfy."

NOCTURNE CLUBS QUICK TO REFORM INTO ORIGINAL STANDINGS

HARDWARE, TESCO, UNITED AND THE REPORTER TELEGRAM IN THE FIRST DIVISION; ADAMSON HAS SHOW NIGHT

By HERB ROUNTREE

With the Nocturne season only two nights deep in the second half, the alignment of clubs has already assumed regular positions as regards first and second divisions.

Texas Electric, Midland Hardware, United Dry Goods and The Reporter-Telegram, clubs that ended in the first division during the first half of the league race, are in that position today, with one game played and won. Hokus-Pokus, Cowden-Epley, Bell Telephone and Petroleum Drug have lost their only engagement.

Midland Hardware won a close game, 8-6, last night from Hokus-Pokus. Branch and Baker hit home runs. Branch and Pyron pitched steady ball.

United ran away with the game with the Fords, Jimmie Adamson giving a regular three-ring performance, including giving up but one hit, hitting four times out of four trips, including a home run. He had scored four runs he would have equalled Eb Estes' record of the night before.

country the legal shops have not yet been opened; that many restaurants were still waiting to be given their liquor license; that the hoped-for Finnish manufacture of strong spirits had not yet been begun on any extensive scale, nor the manufacture of liquors and berry wines.

George Keith--

ed name of Lipstick, he won two races, the first by a neck when Pete Patterson, who was up, lost his saddle as a gun broke and neck the next race, after getting away two lengths behind. Many bets had been placed on his nose for the second race.

His last race found him running in hard luck. This was at Odessa, and he didn't place in the money. At the start, he and Harry M. bumped. Harry M. getting thrown forward nearly for lengths. In the meantime Joker Joe, who had not been touched in the bad start, took the rail and won handily. Harry M. ran second, but George Keith had not boxed in an Pete Patterson, jockey, could not get him out.

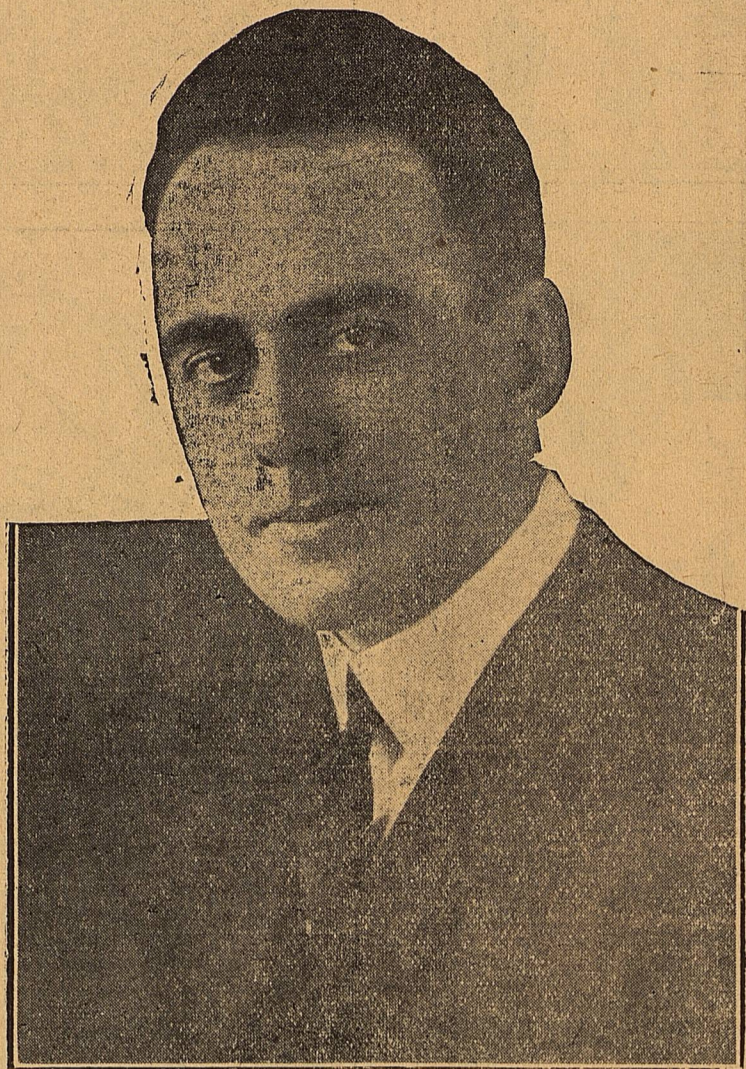

To Gerald Bloss, George Keith is just a pet. He'd rather ride the big Whitney colt over the prairie than on the track. He may be seen at almost any time, riding in unfrequented country, bending low over his horse's withers, the big bay cantering his "crab" course and flinging his head in an effort to race. He seems always ready to run, and is always in the best of humor. Gerald never uses an alarm clock, as he can depend on George Keith whinnying at the same hour in the morning for his feed.

Gerald's representative day runs something like this: Up at 6 at George Keith's whinny and a feed and rub-down, 10 a. m., cuts grass for horse. 11 til 12, pets and talks to him. Short workout. Noon, hay. 1 o'clock, more petting and talking. Workout followed. Gerald reports later to Midland Drug store, then goes back home and gives George Keith a workout, followed by rub-down. Litters stall with straw and Whitney colt goes to sleep.

This may or may not be so, but Gerald's friends supply the information. Gerald himself will admit that George Keith is the only horse in his young life.

Big George has his playful moments. On two occasions he has broke loose while Gerald was gone, and come to town in search of him. He has his own way of search, incidentally, running down the paved avenue of Texas like he were finishing a mile run, and cantering with his eyes in an effort to race. He crossed the beautiful court house lawn. No one else can catch him, but Gerald whistles and the horse comes straight to him and is returned to his stall. He delights in getting other horses to kick loose from hitching racks. His methods here are relatively simple. He gets out, goes to where he finds horses hitched and begins dancing, bucking and kicking up his heels. Soon

Thompson to Lead Encampment

Dr. E. L. Thompson of the Central Christian Church at Shreveport, La., who led the preaching at the West Texas Encampment of Christian Churches at Mertzon three years ago, will lead the services again each night from July 22 to August 7. Plans are nearly completed for the event, according to Mrs. W. W. Carson, president. The Rev. W. H. Kindred, missionary for the Christian churches in this area and candidate for justice of the peace, has been secured to be the Bible teacher each morning. San Angelo, Eldorado, Coleman, Valentine, Big Spring and Sweetwater Christian churches are to participate in presenting program at the encampment. Several delegates are expected to camp throughout the sessions. The Rev. J. T. McKissick of Mertzon is platform manager for the event.

Olympic Tourist Traffic Sought

Bonner Gives Party at the Yucca For Players of Nocturne League; Passes to Be Invalid After Tonight; 40 to Attend

John Bonner, Yucca theatre manager, will be host tonight to more than 40 members of the Nocturne league, and representatives who have qualified themselves for passes he gives away weekly will see Kay Francis in "Street of Women."

Decision to give the party tonight, while there are no games played on the league calendar, resulted from a mix-up of the sport desk of The Reporter-Telegram. Bonner expected the desk to fill in signed passes, but the desk believed the passes would be distributed at the box office of the theatre.

Due to the mix-up, about 40 players had not received their passes, and Manager Bonner resolved the complexity by giving tonight's party. The passes will not be good after tonight. More than half the players received their passes last night. Those remaining may get their's by asking for them at the Yucca box office tonight.
