GOODWILL VISITORS CITE MIDLAND AS CONVENIENT CITY

LEAVE HERE TUESDAY AT 8 O'CLOCK

Signs on Bus Carry Greetings from 'Nearest' City

Signs reading "Howdy Rankin, Iraan, McCamey, Crane; Midland is your closest city" will adorn both sides of the big 42-passenger bus which will carry the Midland goodwill party to those towns Tuesday.

The bus will be loaded in front of the chamber of commerce office at 7:45 tomorrow morning and will leave town promptly at 8. The schedule calls for convenient stops

Goodwill Trip Schedule

Leave Midland 8 a. m. Arrive Rankin 9:30, leave 10:15; Arrive Iraan 11, leave 11:30; Arrive McCamey 12:30, have lunch; Leave McCamey at 2 p. m. Arrive Crane 2:30, leave 3; Arrive Midland, via Odessa, 5 p. m.

at Rankin, Iraan, McCamey and Crane; and will bring the Midland people home by way of Odessa where a special invitation was extended today by J. P. Donnell, president of the chamber of commerce, to "stop and shake hands."

Seven "jump seats" were available on the bus at press time today, and those who decide at the last minute or late today to make the trip may secure such seats for $1.75 at the chamber of commerce.

J. H. Baldwin of Everybody's Store and Harry Tolbert were fortunate in buying tickets at two business men had found it impossible to make the trip, all of the 33 regular seats having been sold out early Saturday morning.

Advantages Cited

The goodwill trip is made in the nature of a friendly visit, not to encourage citizens of those towns to trade away from home, but to come to Midland for such facilities as are not found in their own places. It will be pointed out, through literature, to be distributed and through talks by business men, that Midland is the closest city, having the advantages of a city of 25,000 population, and that any other city is twice as far.

John Bonner is marshal of the trip, having been named by R. D. Scruggs, chairman of the auto and retailers committee of the chamber of commerce, sponsors of the trip.

Fitting Mascot for Midland's Polo Team

"Monkey," six, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myrl Jowell, and his young filly, King's Apron, drew much attention at Texon when the Midland polo team was there Sunday.

The boy, known to most of the range riders of this section for his having ridden to round-ups when only three years old, took care of the Jowell mounts before the Sunday game. He is called "a veteran horseman" by the Texon squad. Young Jowell used to get up at 5 o'clock without being called and work as a regular "hand" during the round-ups. His colt is out of Apronette, fast polo mare belonging to Myrl Jowell.

NICHOLS IS SPEAKER

HOUSTON, Sept. 15. (UP).—Nearly 200 Texas postmasters gathered here today for the annual convention of the Texas League of District Postmasters. The welcome address by Postmaster Ray Nichols of Houston preceded the business session.

American Boat Takes an Early Lead in Races of International Yachting

NEWPORT, Sept. 15. (AP).—The American defender yacht, Enterprise and Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock V, started today's race at 10:40 this morning. The Enterprise was steadily drawing away from the Shamrock. Rounding the ten mile marker, the defender had a six minute margin. At the 20-mile marker the Enterprise was leading by nine minutes and 10 seconds. Shamrock's only chance to win seemed to be an Enterprise breakdown which seemed unlikely. The Challenger was only two miles behind with 10 miles to go.

TEXAS LEAGUE TO COMPLETE PLAYOFF THIS AFTERNOON

FORT WORTH, Sept. 15. (AP).—Today's fifth and final game of the Texas League championship series stood between Wichita Falls and Fort Worth and the Dixie series against Memphis.

The winner today will play Memphis for the southern title. Wichita Falls beat Fort Worth yesterday, evening the series at two all.

Larry Batten court untied the ball game, tied up the pennant playoff series with one swing of his war club Sunday afternoon.

Batten court, home run king of the Texas League, doubled over Eddie Moore's head in the ninth inning to score Fitzgerald, breaking a deadlock, giving Wichita Falls victory, 5 to 4, in the fourth game of the series with Fort Worth.

This double came to spoil a great day for 13,000 fans, greatest crowd of the series, who the preceding evening had been thrown into cheerful, howling insanity by Stuart Clarke's home run. Clarke, sent into the game as a pinch hitter, socked a home run with two men on bases to put the Panthers in a tie with the Spudders. It was the big moment of the series for Fort Worth—a moment that Clarke, if he plays ball 20 years, will never forget.

This Clarke four-base blow was not the only drive that cleared the fence. Nap Kloza and Batten court parked the ball for the Spuds.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. (AP).—President Hoover today told Mayor Harry A. Mackey of Philadelphia that he would attend the opening of the world series in Philadelphia October 1.

To Compete Soon With Speed Typists

Miss Evelyn Garlington, Midland girl who as senior in the high school last year won the district and state typewriting contests, will leave here September 22 for Richmond, Virginia, to compete in the international typing contest, the trip being given by the Underwood Typewriter company in recognition of her state winning.

She will be joined by winners of the state contest in New Mexico and Arizona, all three going to St. Louis for a conference with the manager of the Underwood Typewriter company, thence to Richmond, being joined en route by the Illinois state champion.

The contest will close in time to leave Richmond Saturday, September 27, for Washington where sight-seeing trips are offered the contestants prior to their return to respective homes.

Miss Garlington, after winning the local contests, won at the district typing contest at Lubbock, going then to Austin where she was an easy winner in the state contest. Her remarkable typing speed indicates that her as a strong competitor for international honors. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Garlington of Midland and has enrolled as a freshman at the Tech college at Lubbock.

Delayed Collection Of Taxes Expected

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 15. (UP).—More than $2,672,698 in taxes to be due from drought-affected counties need not be collected at once if the state legislature in January takes the same drought relief measures adopted for dry counties in 1917.

The legislature, meeting then in extra session, ordered that no suits for collection of taxes in the dry counties might be filed until after Jan. 31, 1919. This in effect extended the tax payment time for a full year to give the counties time to recover.

Total tax valuations in the 38 counties which Gov. Dan Moody recently listed as needing relief are $387,347,621.

Enrollment in the Midland city schools had increased by 39 students Monday morning, reaching a total of 1,086, or a gain of almost eight per day for the first five days of school.

Enrollment on the opening day was 1,047, compared to 943 a year ago. The total enrollment during last year reached more than 1,500, indicating that the total this year may run to from 1,600 to 1,700.

BIRD IS BOY'S PET

AUBURN, Neb. (UP).—"Drummer" is only a red headed woodpecker, but he's a real pal to Ted Cline, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Cline of Auburn. Ted found the bird helpless one day and he nursed it until it was able to fly. The bird makes its home in a nearby tree, but comes to the boy whenever he calls for it. He has named it "Drummer" because of its habit in drumming into trees.

Sand Screen Sunday Night Revives Old Tradition; Blow Is Felt in Oklahoma

Only the long time residents of Midland could remember sandstorms similar to one which swept across West Texas late Sunday, approaching like a heavy cloud and settling over the country like dense smoke. Midland was in only the western end of the sand cloud which traveled from the north and went south-east, hence the effects here were not as noticeable as at points north and east.

C. Y. Barron reported that the wind was more violent in the Lubbock area, blowing down signs and awnings in the city of Lubbock. He ran ahead of strong wind and sand as far as Lamesa, but from there the speed of the wind seemed to diminish.

Chas. Trammell, driving ahead of the wind and sand from Levelland to Brownfield made a similar report. The storm hit that section about 4 o'clock, crossing this area at about 7.

Cooler temperature was registered here today. Oklahoma Gets Damage OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 15. (UP)

Wild Disorder as Argentine Revolted

Here's the first action picture from Buenos Aires, Argentina's revolution-torn capital, showing mobs that swirled through the streets as President Irigoyen and a provisional military government established. This picture was taken on the Avenida de Mayo, at the end of which is the Plaza de Mayo, where alleged ringleaders of post-rebellion riots were publicly executed. Notice the red and white flags that the revolutionists are waving in their demonstration. This picture was flown from South America to New York and transmitted to Cleveland by telephoto to NEA Service, which serves this newspaper.

GEARGETOWN, Sept. 15. (AP).—J. B. Cousins, 34, Runnels county farmer, and three of his family were killed in a grade crossing wreck near here yesterday, a Missouri-Kansas and Texas train hitting Cousins' automobile.

The other dead are Mrs. Cousins and two children, Archie and Harold. J. B. Cousins junior probably was fatally hurt. They were cotton pickers out for a Sunday afternoon ride.

Byrd Writes Book Will Reach Peters

Commander Richard E. Byrd, famous explorer, has written Marion F. Peters of Midland that as soon as the Antarctic library is unpacked he will send to Peters the book promised him by radio from Little America.

"Your cable was received on arrival at Panama and I regret that in the stress of work a reply was not filed there," Commander Byrd wrote.

The correspondence between the two began when Peters lived in Ranger and was teacher of an outstanding Sunday school class. Commander Byrd promised the book to this class, but when Peters moved to Midland and the class was dissolved he offered to send the book here. His letter today was from Dublin, N. H.

"Doom Book" One Name Short

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 15. (UP).—Mrs. Anna Stasi, 27, is dead and there is one less name on the "book of doom" today.

Radium poisoning, contracted while she painted watch dials for the United States Radium corporation 10 years ago, was given as the cause of her death. Fifteen fellow workers have succumbed to the slow poison.

The book of doom is a secret list of company employes who painted dials and apparently face the same fate.

The attorney general's office also pledged its support, announcing the appointment of a member of the attorney general's staff to aid West Texas citizens in gathering information.

Cashier and Wife Are Forced to Lie On Floor

HOUSTON, Sept. 15. (AP).—Two unmasked bandits robbed the Belvieu State bank at Mount Belvieu, Chambers county, of $7,000 to $10,000 this morning, escaping in an automobile.

The bandits made Cashier C. A. Banks and his wife lie on the floor while the money was being taken. Both bandits were about 25 years old.

LEGISLATIVE IRE MAY BE AROUSED DURING THE YEAR

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 15. (UP).—Seasoned political observers here foresee a renewal of legislative controversy over several issues which were not entirely disposed of during the turbulent sessions earlier this year.

Status of both house and senate members in their affiliation with public utilities is due up for discussion early in January. Criticism was directed at house members in the last sessions for their connection with utilities and other enterprises. The body responded by having its members record such connections.

The senate voted against such action. Demands for such a record of both branches at the ensuing session are anticipated. Many members feel that the matter may best be settled by submitting such a record.

Experience of the year has augured friction over the operation of the state auditor's department. Suggestions of reorganization of some state branches will probably be the subject of verbal battles in the legislature.

Highway Projects Submitted Today

AUSTIN, Sept. 15. (AP).—Acting in accordance with request of the Texas drought committee and the governor, the state highway department maintenance division today submitted to the commission for consideration 55 projects, calling for a million dollars expenditure in 35 counties. The commission is expected to act Wednesday.

MCCAMEY DEATHS FOLLOW EFFORTS RECONCILIATION

MCCAMEY, Texas, September 15.—Tragedy was visited upon McCamey Sunday afternoon when Leon Ueckert, 33, and his estranged wife, Dorothy, 26, met death in a double shooting at the home of Mrs. George Finch, a sister of Mrs. Ueckert.

A coroner's verdict was the Ueckert shot and killed his wife and then ended his own life.

The Ueckerts had been separated. They formerly lived in Odessa, but three weeks ago Mrs. Ueckert came to McCamey to obtain work in a laundry as a bookkeeper. With her she brought her 7-year-old child.

Ueckert had operated a laundry agency at Crane. He disposed of his interests there Saturday and Saturday night came to McCamey. He registered at a hotel and Sunday morning went to the Finch home, where he talked with his wife and they went for an automobile ride.

Shortly after noon he returned to the Finch home and began flourishing a revolver. He promised Finch, however, that he would not molest his wife.

A short time afterward the shooting occurred. There were no eye-witnesses. One bullet, which caused Mrs. Ueckert's death, struck her in the breast. Ueckert then fired a bullet into his own breast and another into his brain. Both died instantly.

In a note found in Ueckert's pocket, he asked that in case of accident his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Ueckert of Fletcher, be notified.

Mrs. Ueckert was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mattoon, of Lawton, Okla.

RANKIN, BUILT UPON FAITH

Midland goodwill visitors to Rankin Tuesday will see a community which, although for years was only a small trading post, has long served a vast cattle and sheep country in a big way.

Rankin was built upon faith. With few of the natural advantages enjoyed by some cities, it was built in the open cattle and sheep country to serve, and this service to its territory has made it one of the most important towns in the Permian basin country.

Its builders were not only pioneers of Rankin but were also pioneers of West Texas. Well known to Midland people through pleasant business and social relations for years, these pioneers and the citizens who have followed to Rankin within recent years enjoy the admiration of all Texas for taking advantage of opportunities and building a substantial and important town.

Rankin, with banking, hotel, educational, religious and other facilities, has aided greatly in the development of the livestock and oil industries in its area. To know its people is sufficient to convince the Midland visitors of its permanence.

IRAAN AND ITS IDEALS

Situated in the heart of the Yates pool, recognized as probably the world's greatest oil field, the town of Iraan has set a record enjoyed by few oil towns.

The rough element common to oil towns were squelched from the start. One of the first buildings in the town was to serve church and Sunday school gatherings.

Iraan was building to stay. Instead of inviting the lawless element that usually swells the oil town population into the thousands over night, and then suffers a decrease in about the same length of time, Iraan was built for those citizens connected with the Yates field who desired a home and a community with advantages.

Proof of its success is seen in the fact that many of the original citizens of Iraan are still living there. They have town and community pride second to none, and the Yates pool town has ambitions to be one of the best towns in its area.

SHACK TOWN TO METROPOLIS

One of the Permian basin's first oil towns was McCamey. With a competing town only a half mile away, McCamey early "seized the bull by the horns," landed switch tracks, began to have tank farms, refineries and other large investments as result of the nearby Upton county oil field, and was soon in the throes of a boom.

Its original narrow streets became lined for blocks, almost overnight, with shacks. The element common to the boom oil field town poured in. Peace officers had their hands full. State rangers were on the job. From the start, McCamey was a boom town.

Through this period, there became established many citizens who saw possibilities of permanent things, and who cast about for ways and means of getting the town

Shucks! The Real "Drought" Is Only Commencing!

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

The Women Geographers Are Keeping Busy, and They've Been Just About Everywhere—Except for North and South Poles. They Keep Pace With Men Explorers

WASHINGTON—No one ought to be surprised any more to learn about anything women are doing, but it's something of an eye-opener to discover the Society of Woman Geographers and the many exploits of its members.

Membership in the society, which has its headquarters in Washington, is open only to those women who "have done distinctive work where-by they have added to the world's store of knowledge concerning the countries on which they have specialized, and have published, in magazines or in book form, a record of their work."

Harriet Chalmers Adams is the society's president. Recently she was through all the countries along the Mediterranean on a seven-month tour, making a special study of Sicily's historic connection with Spain.

Law and order began to prevail. Schools and churches were established, better citizens continued to come and the less desirable citizens followed the boom trail.

Situated in the edge of Upton county, near the Upton, Crane and Pecos county oil pools, McCamey soon grew to a town of several thousand people and has maintained its growth.

The narrow streets gave way to wider ones, pavement was laid. Brick buildings replaced the shacks. McCamey continues to grow and to improve, and is now one of the leading business centers of west and southwest Texas.

A TEN-YEAR CONTRACT

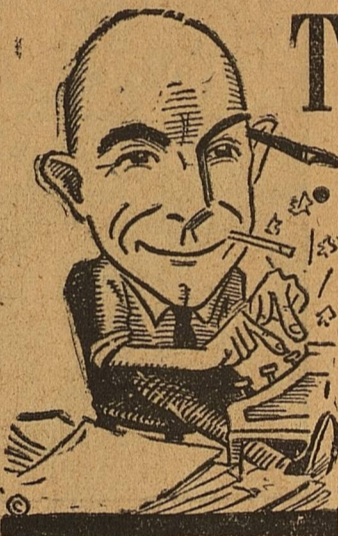

When the 1920 census was taken Crane county had the reputation of being the nation's smallest county in point of population, having 35 inhabitants. Before the 1930 census was taken, the entire aspect was changed, and the town of Crane itself had several thousand inhabitants.

Crane came into being when the Church and Fields oil pool of Crane county was discovered. One of the sensational town lot programs of West Texas was staged there, the property soon reaching handsome values which have been maintained.

The huge oil production made the county rich. Substantial road building, school buildings and other programs have followed, making of Crane a steadily improving center of an important county.

Surrounding Crane are oil producing lands which will require decades to work. Vast leases continue to be extended in production, with a dry hole being almost unheard of. New oil areas have been found even since the town of Crane came into being, guaranteeing the town's permanence.

A splendid cattle country lies about the inland town, making of Crane a distributing center of ranch supplies as well as of oil supplies. Gasoline plants and other industries provide payrolls, and Crane stands ready to serve its territory as the natural course of development proceeds.

The Town Quack

Early this morning, it began to look as if Kenneth Ambrose had lost control over the weather situation, as it cooled off considerably. Ambrose has had an ideal job this summer, combining the duties of manager of the ice company with the position of weather man. He proved that he could suit the weather to the ice business.

It seems that a lot of people who have bought tickets on the Cotton Belt bus which has been chartered for the trip to Rankin, Iraan, McCamey and Crane and trying to swap for seats in the little Austria to be taken along by Charley Culp. Midland will be represented in those towns in a little way as well as a big way Tuesday.

I remember Rankin when it was just so much grease wood country, Iraan when it was inhabited by nothing but an occasional sheep and then a coyote. McCamey when it was just an open space to approach Castle Gap from when you wanted to hunt a bob cat, and Crane when it was just part of the waste country you saw when you were going fishing at Horse Head crossing on the Pecos. True Orientals Must Have One Flaw

By WILLIAM H. BALDWIN
Author of "The Shopping Book"
Written for NEA Service

"Only Allah is perfect," according to the devout Persians who make many of the finest Oriental rugs. Hence they see to it that there is at least one flaw in the perfect symmetry of their designs, and in this fact lies the particular charm of the true Orientals.

But the market for rugs of this type has grown so large in America that Big Business has entered the Orient to speed up production. Yarns dyed in Manchester, England, and designs worked out to the last detail in America are sent to India to be worked up in mass production. The result makes for excellent rugs, so far as durability and color-fastness are concerned. Technically Orientals, these products differ from the true Orientals much as reproductions differ from the authentic antiques in the American furniture market.

Midland People Attend Texon Polo Game

Midland was well represented at the Texon-Midland polo game in Texon Sunday afternoon with approximately fifteen from here besides the players.

PENWELL HURLER GOES EIGHTEEN INNINGS AGAINST MIDLAND OILERS

Definition Lacking in Busher Game; Dizzy Base Running Apparent

GRISSETT TAKES ONE GAME AND LOSES ONE

The biggest feature of the split double header between the Oilers and Penwell Sunday was the iron man stunt by T. Grissett, Penwell pitcher, who came back to win a game after he had already pitched nine innings.

Grissett lost the first game to Timmons, Oiler hurler, but beat out Carroll Hill in the second. The scores were 8-7 and 8-2.

Midland was out-hit by the Penwell crew in both games, but managed to bunch blows in the first affair.

The two teams will play a return engagement at Penwell Sunday.

Evacuation of Barren Island

Here is the beginning of the evacuation of the island of St. Kilda, off northern Scotland, where 35 persons—and their ancestors for hundreds of years before them—have struggled for existence. The natives are shown loading their new household effects before going aboard a ship sent to take them to Ayrshire, where land has been provided for them. The exodus was compulsory, for the Marquis of Ailsa, new owner of the island, decided it was unfit for human habitation. It is too cold and rocky for tree or game, is stormbound eight months of the year, and has no means of communication with the outer world.

EVERY PLAYER AND BROTHER TAKES BIG HAND

In a comedy of errors, Pleasant Valley did such things to the Bushers yesterday as have seldom been heard of. When a team gets one hit and makes seven runs from it, something smells like fish—and the incident mentioned was just a happening of one inning in the game that resulted in Midland losing 21-4.

Let C. F. Just, scorer, tell you of it.

"The Bushers paid a visit to Pleasant Valley Sunday and were treated rather unpleasantly both by the weather man and their hosts. In the first place, the wind 'she blew, then she blew some more,' and the Bushers were unable to connect with the delivery of Mr. Huff. Only in two innings were they able to solve his curves, in the fifth and eighth innings, and the hits were really gifts, as Pleasant Valley was leading 21 to 1, and Huff was simply tossing a straight ball, trusting to his support to retire the side.

"The Bushers used 10 men and they succeeded in filling 21 different positions, also gathering 13 errors while thus employed.

"The game started off rather smoothly. Neither side scored in the first inning. The Bushers failed to score in their second, but the Valley boys were successful in making one run in their half. The Bushers again failed to reach the home plate in their half of the third, but the Valley boys ruined the game in their half, to wit:

"Huff, the first man up, doubled. Elmer, the next man hit for two bases, scoring Huff. Jacks singled; Gibb doubled, scoring Elmer and Jacks. Gene reached first on an error of Mills. Bennie drew a pass. Three were on and no outs. Rotan doubled to score Gibb, Gene and Bennie. About this time, Doc Ellis concluded he would give Johnson a rest and Gardley took the mound. James struck out. Lynch singled. Huff was passed. Elmer flew out to first. Jacks doubled, Gibb singled, scoring Jacks, but was caught out trying to steal second. This concluded 9 hits and 10 runs.

"Now take a look see! at the sixth inning: James walked. Lynch walked. Huff hit to Mills who fumbled the ball and all were safe. There were three on bases and no outs. Elmer hit a grounder to Ellis, who tossed to Whaley on first. Whaley dropped the ball in the meantime. James and Lynch scored. Elmer going to second. Jacks was safe on first on an error of Mills. Gibb singled to score Huff and Elmer. Jones flew out to right field. Jacks scoring on the sacrifice hit. Bennie was safe on an error of Johnson.

Gibb scoring. About this time, Doc Ellis fried his hand as a pitcher. Rotan was out. Gardley to Heath. James was safe on an error of Gardley. Bennie scoring. Lynch was safe on an error of Wilmesmeier. Huff flew out to Stevens."

MIDLAND ANNEXES BIG TEXON SERIES

CARMINE WINS 9-6; NOLKE AND M. JOWELL STAGE LIVELY BATTLE FOR SCORING HONORS; RIDING IS HARD

Midland will play Texon a special handicap match at Texon Wednesday afternoon. Bill Lane, whose name is linked inextricably, with polo there said Sunday he would have a group of new men to throw into the breach against the Midland riders, winners of the series finished Sunday. A large crowd is expected to be present from Midland.

Amid sensational riding and stroking that brought an unusually large crowd to its feet repeatedly, Midland took the polo series with Texon Sunday afternoon when the Greenies failed to rally early enough to balance the score chalked up by the carmine riders from cow country.

Nolke, dangerous at all times, particularly Sunday, sent the bamboo root sphere zipping through the uprights three times toward the close of the hotly contested session to keep the crowd aglow with anticipation of a Texon win, but Jowell, Floyd and Evans evened the Texon rider's scoring spree by collecting together three goals for Midland about the same time.

The score was 9-6, and the game looked as if it belonged to anyone most of the afternoon. Play was unusually fast and thrilling. Horses leaped against each other, players looked mallets, set-ups were scattered thickly through the afternoon and the interest of the crowd was entirely focused in the drifting clouds of dust that formed about the play despite the recent oiling of the field.

The nth degree of good sportsmanship was exhibited by both clubs as the afternoon grew late, despite the fact that both clubs grew more desperate in attempts to score. Midland scored at least one goal in every chukker except the sixth, a pair of goals dribbling into the total in the second and in the third periods.

Sonny Nolke was the individual offensive star of the afternoon, driving five of his team's six goals. Jowell for Midland scored four times, to bring up his total during the series to an impressive figure.

Clay Floyd played a beautiful defensive and offensive game for Midland. His mounts, with the exception of one chukker when he was "on his feet," ran circles around opposing mounts. Cowboy Evans, a new recruit, played a strong game and showed real form in stroking, although he shows a bit of inexperience at times. He has a left-handed handicap to fight. Myrl Jowell played his usual unselfish game, always trying for set-ups for his mates. Time after time he stole the ball and quickly passed it to a team mate so that tries for goal could be made more quickly and certain. As No. 1, he broke loose to score four times. Bum Cowden, who scored seven goals in Wednesday's encounter, dropped back to protect the goal several times as Floyd went out of position, as did Jowell. The whole club at times showed more teamwork than at any time this year. Neither team changed lineup

As Midland and Texon Looked Wednesday

As Farrington and Jay Floyd tried to ride each other off the ball near the Texon goal last Wednesday. Jay, represented above to the right, was unhorsed by Farrington, who is shown in the white jersey about to connect with the ball. Jay locked his mallet, took a cropper over the goal post and, in general, provided thrills for the fans as he prevented the goal. Myrl, in the dark jersey to the left, and Chaffin are represented as drawing up their horses short. Midland won the game and Sunday cinched the series with a 9-6 win.

SCHOOLS TO BE ASKED TO HELP FIRE DOCTRINE

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 15. (UP).—Fire Prevention week will be observed Oct. 5-11, according to the announcement of J. W. Dewese, state fire insurance commissioner.

He addressed a plea to mayors, fire chiefs and fire marshals of Texas cities and towns urging that they begin to make immediate preparations for the period in which particular attention will be paid the elimination of fire hazards.

To the mayors he issued a request that they issue proclamations for Fire Prevention week at an early date, and make it their particular duty to see that a program appropriate to the occasion is sponsored in their municipalities.

"Our enormous national fire waste not only constitutes an ever-present danger to life and property," said Dewese, "but has reached the proportions of an economic burden. This destruction is properly termed waste because it always results in the loss of time, labor and materials and is largely preventable. Fire also causes serious interruptions to business and takes out of circulation in productive channels the tremendous aggregate of insurance payments that otherwise would be used to promote commerce and industry, which means the fostering of employment and prosperity.

"It is an agreed fact that carelessness is the cause of 85 per cent of all fires. Therefore the one purpose of fire prevention is to remove this cause. There are three ways in which the cause of carelessness may be corrected, namely, engineering, enforcement and education, of which the latter is the greatest."

Seals in the north Pacific have multiplied to such large numbers due to protective legislation that they have become a menace to the fishing industry in those waters.

Sweetheart Accused As Gang Accomplice

CHICAGO, Sept. 15. (UP).—A gangster's sweetheart, who fainted when his enemies ambushed and shot him, was accused today of having been an accomplice in the slaying.

Margaret Reardon was walking with Jack Costa, northside gangster, when his enemies opened fire. "I didn't kill him. I loved him," the girl cried when police accused her of having lured him into range of the gangster's guns.

Polo Crowd Has Its Road Troubles

Part of Midland's motor caravan from Texon Sunday night took part of Monday morning as a part of the general Sunday festivities, reaching Midland at various hours after midnight.

To begin with, Myrl Jowell, Bum Cowden and "Chunky" Cowden drove out of Texon together, their three automobiles being kept together against a possible breakdown. Bum's car was being used as an ambulance, carrying Trainer Henry for the Floyd and Cowden polo stables. It went ahead with the sick man, who had been placed in the Texon hospital for ptomaine illness shortly after reaching the oil town Sunday. Before reaching Midland, however, the motor of the machine began missing and took many minutes longer than it should have in making the distance.

Chunky Cowden's big car had a flat, and it was found that there were no wrenches with which to repair the damage. Finally this damage was repaired and then the big car ran low on gasoline. At Rankin, every gas station in town was found to be closed, but one proprietor had failed to lock his pump so the motorists were forced to help themselves. Money was left for the owner, however.

Then the big car drove around Myrl's car and headed for Midland. The trouble was just beginning, for while his tires were good, Jowell had two flats and one blow-out. A farmer had to be awakened so that his pump might be borrowed, then a passing motorist flagged so that a member of the party could ride into Midland and send back a casing.

Another car ran out of gasoline and Midland motorists were said by drivers along the road to have been scattered all the way from Texon to Midland, pumping up tires, changing the spare or searching for gasoline.

It was just one of those nights. While the party left about 7 o'clock, the last car got to Midland at 2:30 this morning.

PLANES LAND

Five planes landed for fuel at Sloan field Sunday afternoon with a sixth stopping for the night and taking off this morning.

Lieut. Patterson, who spent the night, was flying an army pursuit from Rockwell field to Wright field.

Lieut. George Hausen was going to Cressy field in San Francisco in a Douglas O-2.

Douglas, Thomas Chapman and A. S. Alvord were piloting Douglas O-2s from Duncan field.

Lieut. E. R. McReynolds was en route from Wright field to Los Angeles.

Carl Cover was taking a Douglas plane from the factory in Santa Monica to the east coast.

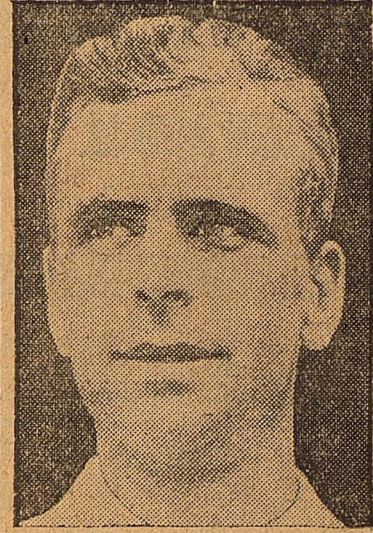

Many a New York baseball fan, it is said, goes to the Yankee Stadium to be entertained by the Shawkeys.

Hit Governor

Because Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana called him an unprintable name, William G. Wiegand, former Princeton student and now a reporter for the New Orleans Item, struck the governor in the mouth. Long's armed guards then seized Wiegand and while they were holding him Long struck him in return. The governor, since nominated for the U.S. Senate, later apologized as did Wiegand.

the play." Mrs. H. R. Rehders, "Everybody that I talked to who saw it said that it was a crying shame that the play was not well attended."

Mrs. M. F. Peters, "I thought the musical comedy was very clever. I have worked with Miss Horne in two Wayne P. Sewell company plays in Ranger and have never known one of their productions to fail to be well supported by the general public. The chorus work of the high school girls was especially good. I should like you to bring the play back. If better advertised I believe the people of Midland would support it well."

Mrs. J. M. White, "I thought that 'Here Comes Arabella' was by far the best thing that I have ever seen in Midland. I have never seen a home talent play where there was so much action. Delo Douglas and Mrs. Jack Hawkins were not amateurs but as they played the leads were professional in their parts. I thought it was the cutest thing that I ever saw."

HE KNEW HIS CAR

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (UP).—When Bill Briggs, local garage electrician, informed police his car had been stolen he told them if the thieves drove it more than 15 miles an hour it would burn up. The charred car was found on the Arkadelphia road several hours later. The speedometer was stuck at 25-miles an hour.

Moye Made to Get Return Engagement

Plans are underway now for a return engagement of the musical comedy, "Here Comes Arabella," according to announcement made today by officials of the W. C. T. U., sponsoring organization.

In expressing her satisfaction of the production, Mrs. T. D. Murphy, president of the W. C. T. U., said, "We wish to express our gratitude to every one who had a part in making the play a success. The members of the cast were faithful and merchants showed a splendid spirit by helping us finance the play through their advertisements."

Others were quoted by the W. C. T. U., as follows:

M. C. Ulmer, "One of the best home talent plays that I have ever seen."

Mrs. S. R. Preston, "I have never seen a better home talent play."

Mrs. Susie Graves Noble, "I believe it was the best balanced home talent play I have ever seen. There wasn't a weak player in the cast."

Mrs. Sumner Cragin, "Delo Douglas playing the lead was as good as I have ever seen. He was not an amateur but a professional in his playing. One of the finest plays I have ever seen."

Mrs. Clarence Ligon, "I thought the play fine. I surely did enjoy it."

Mrs. J. A. Tuttle, "The people of Midland do not know what they

Midland Water Plant Gets Much Publicity

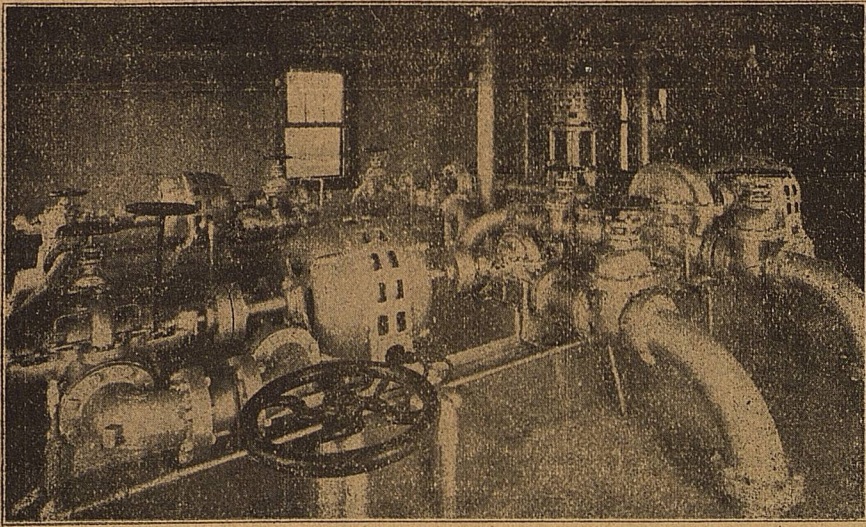

Nature's compensatory laws were proved by the City of Midland through its water supply. Though farming is a proved success in the Midland area, it still remains a so-called semi-arid country, but under the soil a few feet lies an inexhaustible sheet of water.

The City of Midland has developed for its 5,482 consumers sufficient actual water to more than five times supply their actual needs, and the city has a potential supply for a city of the size of Dallas.

Midland under the business management of Abe J. Gates and the mayoralty of B. Frank Haag and Leon Goodman purchased and developed a water farm of 320 acres. Two wells were drilled only 110 feet deep each. They produce 500 gallons of water per minutes each. These wells are about sixty feet apart. They were pumped eleven days and nights continuously, and the pumping of one failed to affect the other.

The water in the holes was lowered to 60 feet, but continuous pumping failed to lower the head of water below that point. The water is biologically pure and of a good potable quality, free from many of the unpleasant chemicals which impregnate so many of the shallow water wells in the western part of the state.

The Midland water farm lies in the midst of 30,000 acres of land estimated by the Federal government to be irrigable. Geologists say an underground stream sweeps

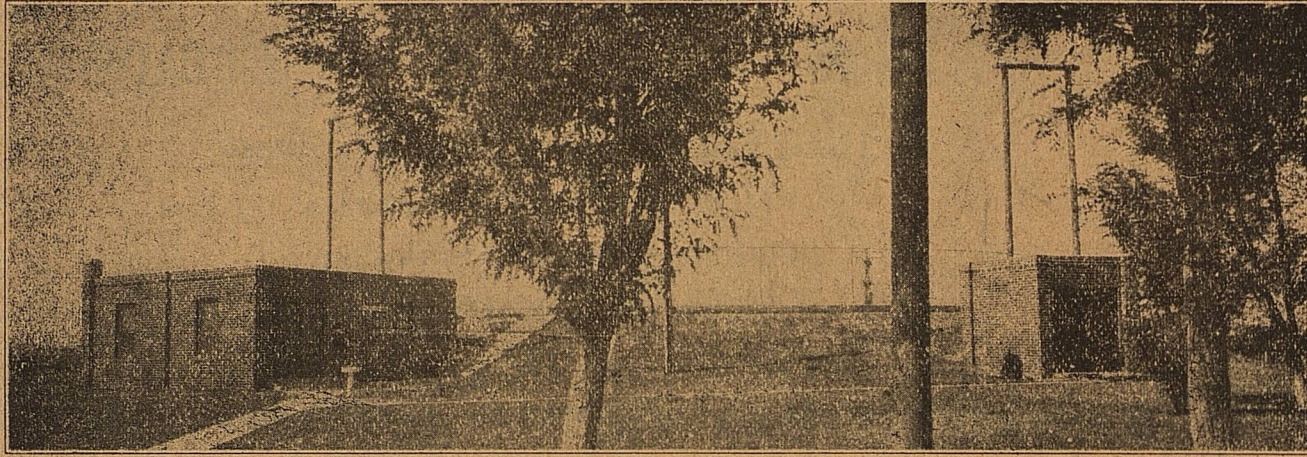

Fairbanks-Morse Motor Driven Pumps at Midland

The new water farm was bought and the eleven-day test conducted. Two 500 g. p. m. turbine pumps driven by 15 h. p. motors were installed. A 1,000,000-gallon reservoir was built, and additional overhead storage built close downtown to which the water was brought a distance of 21,252 feet through a 10-inch cast iron main. A duplicate line will be laid when consumption warrants. The static head of the line is 165 feet.

A fireproof pump station was installed to house one well pump and four booster pumps. These were a 450-g.p.m. pump, and a 750-g.p.m. pump, and two 500-g.p.m. pumps set in series to take care of emergencies and insure adequate fire protection.

Three acres of the water farm were set in grass and trees. Tables and a barbecue pit were built, lights installed, drinking fountain and rest lift system raised the water to an overhead reservoir of 50,000 gallons. When the city started growing, more wells were drilled and the pumping capacity increased. INDESCRIBABLE HORROR SUCCEEDS IN CHINESE WAR

PEIPING, Sept. 15. (UP).—While Chinese politicians in the north are using the Communist uprisings south of the Yangtze as a pretext to attack General Chiang Kai-shek for permitting them, reliable reports from Honan province, largely controlled by the northern coalition, show that conditions in Honan, although they have not been so widely advertised, are just as bad or worse than those in Hunan and Kiangsi provinces.

Reports from missionaries and Chinese travellers in Honan reveal a situation so appalling that it can hardly be comprehended in the west, where such conditions have not existed since the Middle Ages. Scores of towns and villages have been captured, looted and burned this summer, and thousands of Chinese have been killed with torture, or carried off for ransom.

It is estimated that between 40 and 50 fairly well-organized bandit gangs are active in western Honan at present, and few cities and towns have escaped their ferocity.

An eye-witness describes the capture of Yikingpu, a good-sized town about 30 miles east of Loyang, which is fairly typical of dozens of similar outrages in Honan. A robber band numbering about 5,000 descended upon Yikingpu and surrounding villages. First the villages were looted thoroughly, hundreds of Chinese were killed after slow torture to learn where the money was hidden, and finally the villages were burned to the ground. They are a heap of ashes.

The robbers then attacked and captured the town, where they remained for two days, looting and killing. The deaths are estimated at 500, while 2,000 men, women and children were wounded by the robbers, who hacked at anyone they encountered. The robbers rounded up everyone suspected of having money, and carried them off for ransom. The eye-witness declares the bandits were incredibly cruel. He declares they nailed small children to walls, and left them hanging alive and in agony.

South America Statesmen Fall Before Military Men

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The South American dictators who lately have been losing their jobs seem to be men who have lost touch with their national armies.

When a dictator loses his grip on the army he is virtually sunk. At least, he is in no position to weather a storm. Dictator Juan Vicente Gomez of Venezuela keenly appreciates that. He is probably more cordially hated than any other Latin-American dictator has been, but Juan Vicente lets other men be presidents for him while he remains as commander-in-chief of the Venezuelan army and so keeps control of the country.

The "strong men" in emergencies seem to turn out to be generals. Mexico produced General Plutarco Calles, who became president and established a strong government and today, with his military influence and hold on the army, is the power behind the existing government. Nobody hears much about a possible revolution in Mexico at this time because Calles has such an excellent reputation for putting them down.

Chilean Government Strong

General Carlos Ibanez is president of Chile, another military product. His government believes in putting down opposition firmly and effectively, but it does not give the impression of a one-man show as have the administrations of Augusto Leguia and Hipolito Irigoyen, the deposed presidents of Peru and Argentina. The Chilean government appears to have the cooperation and support of military leaders, intellectuals and both Chilean and foreign business men. It would appear that Chile has a government as likely to stand through the present generally economic depression as any in Latin-America, but the collapses of Irigoyen and Leguia were so unexpected that it doesn't seem quite wise to be making any prediction.

Nevertheless, there probably is something in the point that neither Leguia nor Irigoyen had military background. Each appears to have tried to play politics with his army, causing disgruntlement by conspicuous cases of favoritism according to reports, and when the pinch came each discovered that he had little or no military support.

The methods by which the overthrow of the two dictators was accomplished was in considerable contrast with the traditional Latin-American revolution. After long periods of control, Leguia and Irigoyen found their countries in the grip of economic depression and there wasn't anything they could do about it. Their people became fretful and dissatisfied. Suddenly the two presidents found themselves so unpopular that they were ready to give up without a struggle when army officers called upon them and demanded resignations.

Neglected Their Armies

When President Hoover was in South America two years ago the name of Leguia was on every lip in Peru and the name Irigoyen was on every lip in the Argentine. In neither country did any other man's stature appear to compare with theirs. Leguia was much more iron-handed than Irigoyen, but both seemed secure. But they were both towering, shining marks for whatever came along—public approval or public resentment. If they had shared authority and limelight their governments might have proved more stable. Or if they had paid enough attention to their armies.

The story of President Siles of Bolivia, another non-military executive and the first of three dictators to be ousted, ran parallel. Siles high-hatted his army, too. He also tried to run the show by himself. Economic depression hit Bolivia hard, too. The army began to boil when he placed it under an imported old Prussian general who adored goose-step discipline. One day the army walked in to tell Siles that he was through. And he was.

Perhaps the next dictator to fall will be a military man. But thus far the generals among the tribes appear to be holding their own.
