FARM BOARD SHIFTS ATTENTION TO LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

WHEAT TO SOLVE OWN SITUATION

Legge Says Farmers Forced To Market Their Cattle

OMAHA, Aug. 6. (UP)—Battle lines of the federal farm board shifted from efforts to help the wheat farmer to the livestock industry, Chairman Alexander Legge said in an interview here today.

He said wheat constitutes eight per cent of the agricultural wealth and the livestock industry forty per cent.

The wheat situation will solve itself because of the drought burning up pastures and cornfields, Legge said.

Farmers are being forced to discard dairy cattle and steers on the market with absolutely no feed, which means the breaking up of dairy herds which would take at least six years to rebuild, Legge declared.

He said that for this reason, the farm board is shifting its attention to ranching.

Meat Prices Probed DENVER, Aug. 6.—The executive committee of the American Livestock Association Tuesday took steps to bring wholesale meat prices, now at the lowest level since 1922, back to normal.

Increased consumption, the committee said, was necessary for any upward trend, but members said it would be necessary, first of all, for the national retail meat prices to be brought into line with wholesale prices.

The committee adopted a resolution endorsing the recent recommendation of the livestock advisory committee of the federal farm board that urged cattlemen to hold back their usually heavy fall shipments of cattle and to feed them into the markets later in the fall and winter.

This indorsement, said Herbert Russell of Los Angeles, vice president of the association, will mean all state and national organizations affiliated with the association can take steps to curb cattle shipments to market in an effort to gain back the more than $4 a hundredweight drop in the price of live cattle in the last few months.

Wool On Increase Estimates Show

The amount of wool shorn in the United States in 1930 was 327,989,000 pounds according to the preliminary estimate of the 1930 wool production of the United States department of agriculture. This is 19,042,000 pounds or 6 per cent greater than the revised estimate of 308,947,000 pounds shorn in 1929.

The increased production this year over last was due to the larger number of sheep shorn and an increase in the average weight per fleece. The number shorn this year was 41,930,000 head compared to 40,425,000 in 1929. The average weight per fleece was 7.8 this year and 7.6 last year.

The increase in number of sheep shorn in general throughout the country, all of the important sheep states except Michigan, Utah and Nevada reporting more this year than last.

Fair Pilots Invite Hoovers

Carrying a huge bouquet of roses, Phoebe Fairgrave Omic, left, and Blanche Wilcox Noyes, right, are shown here leaving Chicago for Washington, D. C., where they were to present the floral invitation to Chicago's National Air Races to President and Mrs. Hoover. The bouquet is composed of Herbert Hoover roses. Both flyers have landed planes in Midland—having raced here in the women's Air Derby of 1929.

Four Protestant Churches To Combine Services Each Sunday Evening of Month

Beginning Sunday evening, pastors of Midland's leading Protestant churches will combine services, with a pastor of a different church speaking in an auditorium not his.

The Rev. Leslie A. Boone, pastor of the First Methodist church, will speak at the First Christian church, to start the movement. On August 17, at the Presbyterian church, the Rev. Howard Peters, pastor of the First Christian church, will be the speaker.

For the next two Sunday evenings the Rev. Thomas D. Murphy will speak at the First Baptist church, and the Rev. George F. Brown at the First Methodist church.

Decision to combine services under the leadership of visiting ministers was arrived at in the latest meeting of the pastors association. It is expected that the choir of the church at which any given service is held.

COUNSEL MAY BE EMPLOYED AGAINST RAILWAY COMPANY

Signifying full sympathy with Mayor Leon Goodman's demand of the Texas & Pacific Railway Co. that trains proceeding through Midland move with safe speed and with a minimum of whistling, the city council Tuesday authorized Goodman to employ additional counsel if needed for assisting City Attorney Charles Yonge in enforcing the safety and convenience ordinances.

The mayor has also demanded that trains cease blocking crossing longer than the legal limit. He has been carrying on negotiations with the railroad company for several weeks, and the railroad has been notified that suit will be filed unless conformity to regulations is made.

Two records were broken during the match which was a return tilt with the Scurry contains, Earl Fisch, Snyder golfer playing on the fourth hole, sank a tree shot for 135 yards to make a hole-in-one during the match while Frank Rose of Lamesa broke the low score record for the course, making 33, two below par for the nine holes.

VIRGINIA ELECTIONS ARE WARM

Governor Reed Loses Nomination For Kansas Job

(By Associated Press) Senator Henry J. Allen, supporter of Hoover administration policies, yesterday won the republican nomination to complete the unexpired term of Vice-President Curtis. Frank Hauke won the gubernatorial nomination over Governor Clyde Reed, of Kansas. Reed is an opponent of the farm board policies.

Virginia democrats nominated T. C. Burch for congress, defeating the Rev. Joseph Whitehead, anti-Smith democrat of the fifth district. Howard Smith, wet, defeated his dry opponent, Frank Ball, in the eighth district.

E. L. Rosenbloom, modificationist, lost to J. E. Jones in the West Virginia senatorial republican race. Missouri renominated all ten Republicans and six democrats to congress.

LLOYD CASE STILL WAITS EXAMINING TRIAL OF SUSPECT

Examining trial for A. C. "Chick" Richardson, Midland man held in the Reeves county jail as a suspect in connection with the death of Mrs. Jean Lloyd, murdered July 27 near Toyah, has not been held. It was learned from Pecos this morning. It had been announced for last Sunday morning.

Richard Toll, county attorney, said the trial is pending the arrival of Roy I. Biggs, district attorney, who is conducting the case. Biggs has been in Midland most of the time since suspicion fastened on a reported number of Midland people.

Richardson is being held in the county jail at Pecos. He has made no statements beyond strict denial of complicity in any way with the murder. Toll said. The young man's morale appears to be good, the attorney said.

Mrs. Lloyd had started hitchhiking to El Paso on the night of Saturday, July 26. She rode as far as Odessa in an automobile and then is supposed to have "picked up" a ride towards El Paso. Her body was found beaten and sliced with an instrument, lying in the middle of the highway near Toyah. Several Midland persons have been grilled in the case.

Richardson, who has lived in Midland since January, stayed at the same rooming place as Mrs. Lloyd. He was born in Cisco, or near that city. It has been learned. He has not demanded an examining trial, though no probable date has been made for such trial.

INVITED TO LAMESA

Midland business men and chamber of commerce executives have been asked to attend the opening in Lamesa Aug. 8 of the West Texas Dairy Products company's powdered milk plant.

There will be a program held in connection.

MISS UNIVERSE NAMED

GALVESTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—Dorothy Dell Goff, 17, blonde New Orleans high school girl, today held the title of Beauty Queen of the Universe in Galveston's International Pageant of Pulchritude. She was selected last night from among the world beauties, Helen Hannan, Miss New Jersey, took second place.

Amarillo Attorney Hidden; Suspect in Death Bombing

PAMPA, Aug. 6. (AP)—Pampa officers reported that A. D. Payne, attorney who is held in connection with his wife's death through an infernal machine blowing up in the Payne automobile, is not in Pampa. Amarillo officers had announced that they were taking Payne to Pampa for safe keeping, fearing violence. He was arrested Tuesday.

Secretary Implicates Him AMARILLO, Aug. 6. (UP)—A. D. Payne, prominent Amarillo attorney, was hidden away in jail today after his ex-secretary had implicated him in the death of his wife. Mrs. Payne was killed when a bomb wrecked her automobile and injured their son in the down town section in June.

Payne's arrest was accompanied by a police statement that Mrs. Vernon Thompson, young widow and Payne's former private secretary, had declared that Payne promised to marry her after "taking care" of his wife and children. Payne was taken to Pampa when officers feared mob action. A crowd mobilized here today and started for Pampa after storming the Amarillo jail and finding Payne gone. Police revealed today that Payne has been under suspicion since the tragedy, officials investigating him even while he was hiring private detectives to probe the case.

Lions Have Good Luncheon Program

There was a delightful sense of freedom from the strict usages of department at the Lions club luncheon today in the Scharbauer. Informalities were quite in order and formalities were swished into the back-ground with the result that badinage between the members kept the large attendance in a whirl of gaiety. Lion Tail Twister Ellis was on his toes every minute of the luncheon hour and gave a splendid exhibition of the requirements of his office. Mrs. Forey and Delo Douglas sang a duet most delightfully and fully merited the encore they received. Later in the program Douglas, upon request, sang a verse of Rose of No-man's Land in excellent style.

One of the best baritone voices heard in this neck of the woods is possessed by Horace Woodruff. He sang twice and exhibited a timbre in quality that would be hard to equal. Claude Crane was responsible for the musical program which could not be improved upon. Lilly B. Williams, now Mrs. Holt Jowell, presided at the piano in her usual capable manner. Her capabilities in this respect are proof of her most excellent musical capacity. Ned Watson and the other members of the Lions orchestra again demonstrated their value to the community as musicians. Barney Grafa, mayor of Andrews tried to make a speech but as no one paid much attention to him borrowed some other members hat without consent and went home. John B. Thomas otherwise known as "doctor," tried to tell one of his famous stories but upon a dark look from President Boone switched to an introduction of Dr. Klapproth who is a brother of our newly elected judge. Ruby Moore pulled two or three of his rusty stories. A report to Secretary Peters from headquarters stated that of all the service clubs in the United States the Lions came to the front with the greatest increase in membership. The local club is preparing many suggestions for the improvement of Midland which are to be submitted to the authorities for their approval. These will be made public shortly.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS WILL OPEN HERE SEPTEMBER 8TH

Public schools of Midland will open September 8, it is announced by school officials.

Two days of institute for teachers will be held on Thursday and Friday of the preceding week, September 4 and 5. Details to be announced at a later date.

Superintendent W. W. Lackey, who has been on the teaching staff at Texas University during the summer, is expected to return here late this month, and announcements affecting teachers, assignments to buildings and other details will be shortly thereafter.

Course Flooded and Drowning Reported

Reports that a Midland house was flooded this morning was finally traced to the Hotel Scharbauer golf course where one of the hazards, a house, stood inundated.

Several on the streets called The Reporter-Telegram to inquire about the reports. One rumor said a child was almost drowned.

Manager Hill at the course denied the possibility of any of his greens keepers being in the tiny house and getting too much of this morning's rain. The rain completely covered several of the greens, so that cups could not be seen from the sidewalks running by the course.

MIDLAND GETS 1.8 INCH FALL

Precipitation Is Said General Over District

Rainfall in Midland today totalled 1.8 inch at 2:15 this afternoon, it was reported by Weather Observer Buster Howard.

A cooling, beneficial rain fell today on Midland, the surrounding cattle and farming country, on many surrounding counties and in various sections of the state. The blighted, parched ranges in many districts of the state received moisture for the first time in weeks.

Deterioration of ranges had not struck Midland county as hard as numerous others in Southwest Texas, but the effect of the dry spell was beginning to tell. But the 1.50 inch rainfall registered before 1:15 was sufficient to do a great deal of good in bringing out grass and weeds and crops.

Thunder showers were forecast for tonight, with a possibility of local showers Thursday. The sky was draped by low-hanging clouds in the early afternoon, with frequent drizzles falling.

Air traffic was not discontinued because of poor visibility, though the east-bound SAT passed around Midland and landed at Big Spring with a low hanging cloud almost hid the landing field here. The WAE trimotor landed at 1:20 from Dallas. It had been due since 9 o'clock. At 2 o'clock the plane with two passengers, took off for El Paso.

Hawks Speeding For New Record; Illness May Cut Plans of St. Louis Pair

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6. (AP)—Speeding westward, attempting to set a new record between New York and Los Angeles, Captain Frank Hawks refueled here, leaving for Wichita, Kansas, at 9:30 this morning. He left New York at 5 o'clock this morning.

RAIN GENERALLY REPORTED

Wendell Bedichek, editor of the Big Spring Herald, said it was raining in Big Spring at 10 o'clock today, that the gauge read 1.3 inches. Colorado, had reported to him. 7.1 inch, and rain he said had fallen at Snyder all morning.

Coahoma reported a flood of 3 inches to his newspaper, Bedichek said. Other reports to the Big Spring editor indicated rain in Sweetwater today and yesterday, Waco, San Angelo, and in Irion, Concho, McClelland, Upton, Sterling, Coke and Runnels counties. Precipitation was registered in these places from showers to medium rains. It rained at San Angelo today and yesterday, a quarter of an inch registered last night.

Pecos reported nothing more than a shower last night, but the sky was clouding opaquely at 12:30 today, it was learned here through telephone communication. Carl Covington, manager of the bus station, (See RAIN page 6)

RE-ESTABLISHING CONFIDENCE

In these days of crooks, dead beats, fake stock salesmen, unscrupulous promoters and blue sky sharks, it's a grand and glorious feeling to see a man "come back" after he has made a comparative "flop" of some scheme and has become involved with people who extended him credit—to come back and settle up his debts.

That thing occurred in this part of West Texas recently. A man who started a townsite in what looked like a good bet for an oil field "blew up" at the job when all drilling operations ceased. In the meantime, he had established confidence and had secured credit, so that when his townsite failed to go over, he found himself unable to meet his obligations. He left the country. That was about three years ago.

The other day he came back. Since he left West Texas, he had been plugging away, working hard and taking chances, determined to make back what he had lost and to pay those who had trusted him. He hadn't even written letters. Some of his creditors, whose accounts were small, had practically forgotten about it. His constant plugging and his determination to "come back" had brought him good fortune. He came back to West Texas and looked up his creditors, each one personally, and paid his debts. This business attended to, he went back to work, his conscience clear, and leaving behind him re-established confidence in human kind. Business men who have lost on many accounts during the rash days of West Texas' early oil operations, felt again the heart throbs that come from the honesty and integrity shown by a real man.

CHILDISH DIVERSIONS

These juvenile tree-sitters who have been making minor nuisances of themselves throughout the country lately at least performed one service to us; they have brought the endurance contest down to its proper level.

An airplane endurance contest is not so bad; but the other forms indulged in by adults who ought to know better have been very foolish. Flag-pole sitters, non-stop dancers, egg-eaters and the rest—they could only come to blossom in a country that was extremely tolerant of silliness.

Now the kids have shown us what these contests really are. They are diversions for children. The boys who are sitting in trees are acting naturally, for small boys—and are proving, at the same time, that the grownups who do the same sort of thing are really of about the same mental age.

PARIS DICTATORS LOSE OUT

The business organization of leading American makers of women's clothing has announced that hereafter they will not follow the dictates of Parisian style designers unless they have reason to believe that Paris styles will suit American women.

Last fall Paris arbitrarily decreed that skirts would be long. American women refused to accept the decree, and a lot of American dress manufacturers, who had thought that they would, lost money. So now the dress makers are going to ignore any further decrees about long skirts from Paris.

This is somehow gratifying, quite aside from the general question of the aesthetic, hygienic and practical advantages of the short skirt. The switch to long skirts came simply because the style designers wanted to make women buy clothes they didn't need. It failed, and its failure speaks volumes for the common sense of the American woman.

Picks Up Speaker's Mace; 'Crime' Causes Controversy

By MILTON BRONNER NEA Service Writer

LONDON, Aug. 6.—John Beckett, one of the stormy petrels of the British Labor party in the House of Commons, woke up the other morning and found himself the most cursed and discussed man in the British empire. Parliamentary reporters wrote pieces for their papers in which they expressed their shock. The same journals had editorials in which they set forth the enormity and the gravity of his "crime."

For John Beckett was the central figure in what has come to be known as "The Theft of the Mace." The "offense" of which Beckett was guilty was to lay sacrilegious hands on the mace, the symbol of the authority of the Speaker of the House of Commons. He not only laid hands on it, he not only picked it up off its special little table, but he actually carried it out of the sacred precincts of the House before it was rescued and restored. Most of the members, to quote one of the reporters "were too horrified to do or say anything. They sat silent in their seats. No one moved. Everyone looked on paralyzed."

Stormy Petrel For here was John Beckett, M. P. for the Peckham, division of London, committing an offense against the House than which there is no whither.

It came about in this way: Fenner Brockway, another stormy petrel of the Labor party, at variance with his colleagues, was insisting upon a debate upon India. The Speaker ruled this out of order and requested him to sit down. He continued on his feet. A motion was then made to "name" Brockway. This means that he is to be suspended from sitting as a member for a week for defying the Speaker's authority. The House voted his expulsion. Beckett was one of the tellers for his friend Brockway. When the result was announced, Beckett, being with indignation, exclaimed:

"This is a damned disgrace!" Still very angry, he seized the mace and walked out with it. But he did not get very far with it. The Sergeant-at-Arms, Admiral Sir Colin Keppel, all dressed up in long black coat and knee breeches and with sword dangling in its scabbard by his side, rushed forward, took the mace away and bore it back. That is one of his jobs—to safeguard the mace. It is his duty to protect it even with his life. When the members recovered their wits, Beckett was at once "named" and ordered to leave the House, which he did.

Symbol of Authority The mace has been the symbol of parliamentary authority—strictly speaking, of the authority of the Speaker—ever since there has been a Parliament in England. When the House is in full session, the mace reposes on a rest at the foot of the table facing the speaker. This table divides the government from the leading opposition front benches. When the House goes into committee of the whole the mace is placed on two supports below the table to show that the House is not properly constituted. After the election of a new Parliament and before a Speaker is chosen, the mace is also kept under the table. It makes its appearance on the table when the new Speaker takes his seat.

Historians say that the last occasion on which the mace was actually lifted from the table was on April 20, 1653, when Cromwell marched to Parliament House with his soldiers and forcibly dissolved the Long Parliament. He ordered one of his soldiers to "take away that fool's bauble." This act was one of a series in the revolution which ended in Charles I being beheaded and Cromwell being made Lord Protector. This original mace was never restored to Parliament. It was mainly of pure gold and is thought to have been melted down by the Roundhead soldiers.

Cost $700 When Charles II came back with the restoration of royalty, a new mace was ordered by vote of the House of Commons on May 21, 1660. It was made by a London goldsmith and cost $700. It is of silver gilt, and bears the monogram "C" to show that it was handed to the House of Commons in the reign of Charles II. The mace is less than five feet long and weighs 228 ounces. When it is borne in procession before the Speaker members of the House of Commons and officials bow to it. Strangers must bare their heads.

Beckett, who caused all the turmoil, is a youthful looking man of 35, with black curly hair and fresh boyish complexion. Before he entered Parliament he was the first chairman of the National Union of Ex-Service Men. In 1927 he shocked the House of Commons during a debate on unemployment. He called attention to the case of an ex-soldier, who had sent him his three war medals and a letter saying they were useless, as the pawnshops were full of them. After making a protest against the Tory government's actions, he flung the medals on the floor and walked out of the House.

"YOUNGEST TRAGEDY QUEEN" BLOSSOMS AS A COMEDienne

Loretta Young, the "youngest tragedy queen of the silver sheet," according to one film critic, proves herself equally effective as a comedienne in "Loose Ankles," the new First National picture at the Ritz Theatre today. Paired with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. in a novel love story between a gigolo and a girl who hires him to aid her in a lively, amusing struggle for a legacy, Miss Young sparkles in her comedy role. With her in the picture are such outstanding comites of the screen as Louise Fazenda, Ethel Wales, Inez Courtney, Daphne Pollard, Eddie Nugent and Norman Douglas Selby.

Ted Wilde, who directed some of Harold Lloyd's most successful films, piloted "Loose Ankles," which was scenaried by Gene Towne from the stage comedy of the same title by Sam Janney. Some new songs fresh off the pianos of First National's songsmiths will also be featured, with Miss Courtney, herself the singing hit of "Good News" and "Spring Is Here" on Broadway, heading the cast singers.

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

The Communists Are Probably Grateful to Messrs. Lowman, Wolf and Fish—These Red-Baiters Have Given Moscow's Agents in This Country a New Stimulus.

WASHINGTON, August 6.—For several years the leaders of the Communist party in Moscow have been discouraged at the failure of their followers in the United States to make any progress. Their attitude toward the American Communists has even tended to become contemptuous.

But they may feel happier now because the American Communists have been stimulated to new spurts. And one need not be surprised to read of fitting tributes in the Red Square to three brave American patriots, Seymour Lowman, Matthew Wolf and Hamilton Fish, who supplied the stimulus. That suggestion is made in all seriousness because the efforts of this trio have inspired the Communists in this country to consolidate, organize and holler for recruits to fight in the great war which they profess to believe the "bosses" are about to force upon them.

How They Did It Probably that isn't anywhere near as much to worry about as is the threatened loss of American export trade to the Soviet, but there are many timid persons who don't like to see the Communists stimulated and they are likely to be sore at Mr. Lowman, Mr. Wolf and Mr. Fish.

Mr. Lowman is the assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of customs who dreamed one night that Russia had embarked on a "gigantic" campaign to wreck American industry by exporting goods to us. Next day he announced that there was no longer any doubt about it, in effect, a declaration of war. So there would be an embargo on Russian pulpwood and matches and lumber and probably on manganese and other Russian products. Mr. Lowman is likely to say something remarkable any time he opens his mouth, but this was as remarkable as anything he had ever said.

Mr. Wolf is only the third vice president of the American Federation of Labor, but he makes more noise than the president and all the other vice presidents combined, chiefly about Communists. He has been shouting for a general embargo on imports from Russia. Some day an enterprising reporter will ask Mr. Wolf if he happens to know anything about problems of American labor.

Mr. Fish is chairman of the congressional committee which has been investigating Communists and the impartial nature of his investigation has been indicated by his violent utterances, radio and otherwise. The Fish committee recently unearthed the appalling testimony of a nervous old gentleman that Communist kids in summer camps had been saying, "Damn it, pass the bread."

There may be more important results after all this fuss, such as a new crimp in American exports or federal legislation against Communists, but the chief effect thus

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

Well, the big thing's happened! My relatives in another town have been kidding me for a good while because they could get suits and pants cleaned cheaper than I could, and now I can get back at them. I can carry my clothes to certain tailors or shops here and have them cleaned and pressed cheaper than since the War. And it's a cinch I'll carry them and not have the delivery car called out, for two reasons, one that I have to stand in a barrel while the job is done anyway, and the other because I'm too much Scotchman to let that price get by.

Any time a Scotchman is referred to, it reminds me of something Paul Vickers has done. Now that he's out of town, I'll tell you what he did just before leaving. It was on Thursday, and he had just stuck Ap Baker for a nickle drink. You always know it will be a nickle drink before you match with Paul Vickers. Anyway, Ap was stuck, and as they approached the soda fountain, Paul saw the new Saturday Evening Posts laid out, and knowing that he would have to buy one anyway, said, "Ap, I'll just take this Post instead of a drink."

far has been to stir up the Reds. "The next step can only be a trade blockade, and following that, war—imperialist war for the overthrow of the first workers' government," hollers the Communist newspaper, the Daily Worker. "Hand in hand with these attacks on Soviet trade, goes feverish military preparations. . . . The big imperialist nations are arming as never before, and at the same time they are providing funds and armaments for the fascist border state—Finland, Latvia, Estonia, Poland, Lithuania and Rumania. In all these aggressive preparations United States imperialism is more and more in the forefront. Under the leadership of certain Wall Street interests these preparations will be energetically pushed.

Calls for Strikes "Workers must resist this offen-

However, you know from the size of his family that it was another Scotchman, who when he and his family were at the supper table and heard a knock at the door, said to his wife and six children, "Everybody grab a tooth pick."

Did you see the picture in our paper yesterday of the kid sitting atop a cactus tree? I guess that will hold some of these ambitious ape imitators.

Now that one boy has punctured the tree sitting bubble by sitting in a cactus, why don't some of these West Texas boys do something different and start a fence sitting contest, and just to show they are tough, sit indefinitely on a barbed wire fence while the sun beams down across the pasture at the rate of 102 degrees?

What ever became of the Rio Grande Valley fellow who started in New York on a black bull? I lost track of him and am wondering if the bull was a cross between a Brahma and a Jersey. If so, he probably sulked somewhere on the road and won't move on for a month or two.

Ask Roy Holloway if you want to know anything about the habits of a crossed-up Brahma.

sive—the offensive against their own working and living conditions and the offensive against the fatherland of all works, the Soviet Union.

"Organize! Strike against wage-cuts! Demand unemployment insurance! Fight imperialism was. Down with those who prepare war! Defend the Soviet Union. Into the streets on Aug. 11!"

Hooover is working "behind the scenes" in the general attempt to destroy the Soviet and preparations are going on for a "direct military attack" on Russia. It is asserted. Now is the time for all good men and women to come to the aid of the Communist party.

On October 14 at the home of the bride's parents in Comanche, Miss Aletha Jones was married to Mr. Tom Shepherd. The young bride is the niece of Mrs. Tom Holcombe, with whom she lived last winter while a student in our high school and 'twas here she was met, wooed and won. The young people will make their home in Eastland and The Reporter wishes that the skies of their wedding journey through life will always be the same brilliant roseate hue as at present.

Mr. Tom Patterson, Misses Annie May Patterson and Annie Merle Moran returned from Dallas Tuesday where they enjoyed a few days visit at the fair.

Many Fabrics Fashion Robes for the Beach

By WILLIAM H. BALDWIN Author of "The Shopping Book" Written for NEA Service

Beach robes come in many fabrics, some of them piece-dyed to get the color effects which yarn dyes cannot give. However, where-as yarn dyes usually are the best for most textile products, piece-dyed beach robes cost more because of the difficulty of dyeing and also of the effects created.

The value of terry robes usually can be determined by the closeness of the pile, the closer the pile the better the robe. Mercerized thread is sometimes put into the yarn to give it more sheen and more value. Terry robes are yarn-dyed. They should be full-cut, loose in the armholes. Some manufacturers skimp on material by grading the robes one or two sizes too small.

Ratine cloth robes look somewhat like terry, but they have no pile. All-wool flannel robes should not be washed; they should be dry-cleaned.

TOMORROW: Tennis racquets.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Pateson and Mr. B. A. Jackson returned the early part of the week from Cloudercroft where Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Pateson spent two weeks. The men went last week and accompanied the women to Midland.

Mrs. G. T. Sandidge and sons, G. T. and Charles, left this morning for their home in Abilene after a visit in Midland. They were accompanied by Miss Jewell Midkiff who will visit in Abilene several days before going to Ft. Worth to visit her sister, Mrs. D. W. McDonald.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Tatom have returned from an extended tour through the northwest. They left Midland about two weeks ago and visited in Salt Lake city, Yellowstone Park, Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

JUST A FEW YEARS AGO SHE WAS POUNDING A STUDIO TYPEWRITER. TODAY, SHE THRILLS MILLIONS WHEN SHE STARS IN A PICTURE.

FAST SUCCESS STORY NO. 8 ALICE WHITE

A keen-eyed director spotted Alice pounding the keys of a studio typewriter. In a few short years a new White star rose in Hollywood's heavens. Alice White was endowed by Nature with a special charm to thrill the millions.

OLD GOLD, too, is one of Nature's favorites. Endowed with mellower, sweeter tobaccos. It gave to millions a brand new taste-thrill, without a trace of throat-irritation. That's why OLD GOLD broke into the "Big-4" in less than a year; that's why today it's the country's fastest growing cigarette from coast to coast.

Boo That Was Stribling's Fast Turning to "Huzza"

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER, NEA Service Sports Editor.

The governor of North Carolina may never have another word to say to the governor of South Carolina, but it's barely possible we will be able to report for you some chatter one of these days between a couple of other southern gentlemen, the mayor of Atlanta, Ga., and the mayor of Macon, in the same state.

Maybe we are just fooling, but it is our idea that some day one of these fine evenings, the mayor of Atlanta will say to the mayor of Macon, "Well, well, old sardine, I see where you have a champion, too."

This would take place (don't laugh) shortly after W. L. "Young" Stribling had knocked out Max Schmeling or somebody for the heavyweight championship of the world.

If I had said something like this in public no longer ago than last summer, somebody surely would have stood up and said, "Yes, yes, and now tell us all about your new idea for teaching horses to spit." But time flies. The Brooklyn Robins are at the top of one of the leading minor leagues, and you can't tell the age of a dead herring by its teeth. We are here today and gone tomorrow.

It is true that Willie, as they call him down in his native canebrakes,

W.L. STRIBLING

TRADE SCHOOL OF THE SOUTH

We prepare men and women for employment in the printing industry, which is one of the fastest growing industries in the country. Our graduates often earn from $100 to $140 per month on their first job. We also teach bricklaying, plastering, electrical work and other mechanical trades. More money and steady employment comes to those who know how to do one job well. For information, write Southwest Vocational School, Chamber of Commerce Building, Dallas, Texas.

has messed up every important chance he fell heir to. His bouts with Berlenbush, Loughran, Sharkey and a few more fellows linger in unfragrant memory. Of course the boy always was ready with an alibi—he had fractured a toenail or dislocated a couple of vertebrae in his tonsils or something like that.

But lately he had been playing country cousin to the people of the prize ring in a very negative manner. It has taken him less than three rounds to knock out Otto Von Porat and Phil Scott. He beat Scott before the plaintive Britisher had time to holler foul, which is some sort of a record. Even in these bouts there was something the matter with the Stribling left hand. Perhaps if Pa and Ma Stribling ever can get the young man in the ring in perfect physical condition he'll kill somebody.

Strib has fought his way to the top time and again, only to meet chagrin and disappointment and to disillusion those who placed faith in him. Only 25 years old he has had nearly 300 fights, not all of them the bitterest sort of battles, of course, because Pa liked to send his offspring in against the soft ones. But 300 fights are not what you might call a soft job. Willie has worked hard.

"Let him out loose," I heard Jack Dempsey say once of the Georgia heavyweight, "and he would be one of the hardest men in the world to lick. He's got one of the best left hands I ever saw. And he showed when he fought Berlenbush he could take it."

What keeps him from "cutting loose"? Imagination, nerves, fear? I've heard from a dozen boxing critics a dozen different opinions of Young Stribling. One excuse offered

DAVIDSON SAYS ROSS STERLING IS PREFERABLE TO THE FERGUSONS AS GOVERNOR; IS AGAINST BOND ISSUE

Lynch Davidson, in an interview today still maintained that Small and Young were the best equipped men for the governorship of Texas. In the first primary he recommended the voters centering on these two candidates to assure their being in the runoff together. Later in the campaign he found Young failing to develop sufficient strength and urged the voters to center on Small. Davidson expressed much regret that Small had not entered the runoff, but was highly elated over his magnificent race. He further had to say, "Small was practically unknown in the southern half of the state, but polled a most gratifying vote from that section. No candidate ever received a finer tribute to his character and recognition of his public service than given Senator Small by his home people. By the term 'home people' is meant the West and the Panhandle where the vote for Senator Small was indeed a 'block vote'."

"Senator Small's candidacy has rendered a real service by removing from political life many who have engaged in promoting political turmoil over a period of years. The disappointment I may feel over his defeat is outweighed by the gratification of contributing to such results and having supported the man best qualified for the office. My participation in the campaign was involuntary. It was the result of consistent opposition to the state highway bond issue, opposed by me ever since it popped up in the legislature and long before the Moody administration took office. When the Moody administration and R. S. Sterling, its highway chairman, resurrected the state highway bond issue, my opposition was continued, with added vigor to correspond to the increased effort being made to put it over. When later Mr. Sterling became a candidate for governor and made 'Highway Bonds' the campaign issue, naturally I opposed his candidacy and that of Tom Love, the other advocate of this politico-economic heresy and fallacy.

"On the date this is written eight hundred and ten thousand people have passed judgment on this question at the ballot. Love and Sterling, supporters of the bond issue, polled two hundred and fifty thousand votes. The candidates opposing the bond issue polled five hundred and fifty-nine thousand votes, which means to say that approximately seventy per cent of the people expressed themselves against the bond issue. As I read the election returns the state highway bond issue has been overwhelmingly disapproved. My fight is won. The people are to be congratulated on their victory against this vicious scheme of taxation. We should stand guard and see to it that the victory is permanent. Many loyal friends from all walks of life have labored shoulder to shoulder with me in this campaign. But one thought and hope has actuated us—'good and economical' government and the preservation of sound principles in government.

"Adhering to these same ideals and advocating good government in all respects, I shall oppose the Ferguson in the coming primary just as I have heretofore. For Mr. Sterling individually I have the kindest feeling and warmest personal regard. To reaffirm my own expressions and to express my present opinions of him as gubernatorial material, I could not do better than for some of his poor showings was that he was mismanaged. Another was that he had too much caution. Still another was that he has had hard luck.

The fact is, Young Stribling is a whale of a fighter. He has every qualification of physique and skill with which to reach the top. And if he keeps on "cutting loose" I do not see how he can fail to win the world championship.

SHOOTING SHUTE with SHUTE by Dick Shute

TAKE A CAREFUL LOOK AT THE ROLL IN THE GREEN BEFORE HITTING YOUR PUTTS.

The Good Player always Looks Over the Line His Ball Must Travel Across the Green to the Cup

It is important that a player take a careful look at the roll in the green before he hits his putt. By this I mean that he should go to the edge, and look over the line his putt must follow on its way to the cup and to determine how much allowance he needs for the rise and fall of the green.

While many players are careless about this, you seldom see a good performer overlook this item, whether it's just a friendly match or a tournament round.

Frequently, little rolls in the green escape the eye unless a side view is taken. There are the little things that differentiate between a 75 and a 72, or a 100 and a 95.

The object of this care in lining up the putt is to see an imaginary line from the ball to the cup. If you are in doubt about the amount of "borrow" to take because of the roll of the green, take a bit more, rather than a bit less. It will leave you closer to the cup than if you hadn't taken enough, providing, of course, the putt doesn't drop on the first stroke.

quote from one of Texas' great daily newspapers:

"Mr. Sterling we do not regard as equipped, temperamentally, by knowledge of public affairs or by experience in such, to make this state a good governor. He sought the nomination upon but one issue—the highway bonds; he discussed none of the other pressing state problems; he showed no ideas as to their solution; he gave the public nothing by which to judge his capabilities or answer the question of whether he would or would not make a good governor. He merely talked highway bonds."

"Mr. Sterling has said that he would accept the verdict of the people on this question. He should be faithful to that promise now that the people have spoken definitely against the 'bond issue.' Throughout the campaign I have seriously opposed Mr. Sterling's effort to ride into office on this issue; his use of the highway commission as a means of securing the nomination for governor and the use of huge campaign funds obviously being expended in his behalf. It would be rank hypocrisy on my part if I failed to so state and to say that I foresee in Mr. Sterling's election revival of the policies and principles that so signally failed in the Moody administration; that ripped and tore the threads of harmony which should have bound together the legislative and administrative fabric of government.

"In their wisdom the people of Texas selected the two candidates they desired to place in the runoff. Mrs. Ferguson and Ross Sterling. The Fergusons in the Governor's chair are, of course, unthinkable. My long opposition to them is well known and will continue. Despite the bond issue advocated; despite his not being equipped, temperamentally, nor by training or experience for governor, Mr. Sterling is preferable to the Fergusons. This situation constitutes another sad chapter in the present primary election law. Throughout this campaign I have steadfastly stated that I was not attempting to direct or dictate the vote of a single man or woman in the state. It would be presumptuous on my part to do so now. The many loyal friends I have in Texas are competent to reach their own conclusion. It has merely been my desire to help preserve to ourselves the principles of good and economical government and such humble contributions as I have made to this cause have been for that purpose only. Various newspapers and friends throughout the state have condemned or commended my views accordingly as they were supporters of the various candidates. Knowing most of them well, I realize that with few exceptions and like myself, they were unselfishly engaged in doing what they thought was for the greatest good of the greatest number of people. Our differences were solely as to methods. During many years of public life I have enjoyed the confidence and loyalty of these friends and newspapers. Because we did not agree upon 'ways and means' in the present contest in no respect lessens my high regard for these friends one and all, and it is my hope that I shall retain their good will and friendship."

"It's the little things that tell"

THAT'S what big sister said to her boy friend as she pulled little brother out from under the sofa. But wait till big sister and the boy friend are man and wife, with a home of their own to run. Then how much more she'll realize the truth of her observation!

For then the age old problems will come pressing hard. So much in the pocketbook. So much on the shopping list. Will it fit? Then's when the little things make the big difference. The little savings—the small economies—the slightly better values of which a good housekeeper takes advantage.

Then's when big sister will read the advertisements as she never read them before. Comparing values; learning reliable brands; watching the bargain and reduction announcements. . . . The advertisements will help her in a thousand ways to take care of the little things, acquire the little short-cuts in time and effort—in the big job of running a home.

Read the advertisements every day. Consistently advertised goods are worthy of your confidence . . . otherwise they couldn't be consistently advertised.

PLANS MADE FOR OPENING OF LAMESA DRY MILK PLANT, CORRESPONDENT SAYS

By VIC LAMB, Special Correspondent.

LAMESA, Aug. 6.—Officials of the West Texas Dairy Products company, owners of the $200,000 powdered milk factory, were busy this week arranging a program for the opening day here Friday, August 8. The main happenings have been mapped out, although details of the celebration have not been completed.

The program will begin at 9:30 when an inspection of the plant will be made by visitors for one hour while the machinery which manufactures powdered milk and sweet cream butter is in operation. Over 4,000 visitors are expected to pass through the huge factory building at that time.

Following the plant's inspection, those present are invited to attend the trial of a scrub bull, against which there has been drawn an indictment for incompetency and for trespassing in Dawson county. This part of the day's events is in charge of Joe Peterson, well known Dawson county farmer who was recently employed as field manager of the new industry here. The mock trial will have all the ear marks of a real law suit. H. H. Barron, Dawson county dairyman, has been named as judge. He is to supervise the selection of jurors. The prosecuting attorney is Chester DuBose and he is to be assisted by Carl Marsh, J. E. DuBose is the defendant's legal representative. He will be aided by Frank Martin.

To make the trial more complete, several Dawson county deputy sheriffs will be present as will Clyde Backenstoss, court reporter for the 106th District Court here. The press table will be occupied by J. Sam Lewis, Avalanche-Journal field man of Lubbock and Vic Lamb, publicity man for the Chamber of Commerce. After the verdict is read, the visitors will be invited to lunch, consisting of coffee, sandwiches, cake and other food. Plenty of ice-water will be had, according to Wm. Whittkamp, manager of the plant and in charge of the dinner preparations.

Speakers for the day will include R. F. Koohuuden of Plainview and J. E. Stanford, editor of the Southern Agriculturist. They are to address the crowd during the afternoon.

The day's program is to be climaxed by a drawing by farmers for prizes donated by Lamesa merchants. Only farmers are eligible for the gifts, according to Wm. A.

Wilson, who is aiding in preparing the program.

The milk plant here has been in operation for two weeks and its milk receipts have grown steadily. Customers for the only plant of its kind in West Texas are increasing, also. According to records kept by plant officials 93 customers furnished milk for the first day while during its second week the number doubled.

As a special drawing card during the day a special low price has been fixed on the sale of sweet cream butter, manufactured by the new factory.

"We are offering our 'Sunburst' butter at a reduced rate to introduce it to Dawson countians," Whittkamp stated.

Rain--

tion, said bus drivers reported a good rain between Fort Stockton and a point 12 miles south of Pecos last night.

Starts Again Here

At a few minutes before 1 o'clock this afternoon a brisk rain started falling in Midland, indicating that the downpour of earlier in the day was to be continued for hours. The sky was led and ranchers and farmers were jubilant. The sun-parched ranges were drinking in more moisture than has fallen for weeks and will freshen with grass and weeds almost immediately.

The first check from the rain instruments of Buster Howard, weather observer, was at 10:30 this morning. A total of 1.35 inches had fallen then.

Watch Drainage Street Here

When rain breaks into somber dry spells in this cattle country punchers and ranch owners and clerks and laborers stand on the streets and watch it as though the occasion were circus day.

Many of those who voted for paving extensions went to the drainage project at Front street to see how the water was being transported. The project, though not yet finished, was carrying a heavy cargo of water away from the business section and to a deep ditch in East Midland.

Early reports of rain came from Martin county, where the downpour had not been read on the instruments early in the morning. It was said that rain fell during the night in Ector county, measuring in places from 1.25 to 1.75 inches. Particularly did good precipitation occur in the central portion of that county.

New Orleans market about 3 to 6 higher at noon. Liverpool cables reported general liquidation there early owing to rains in America and poor bull support. Memphis commercial appeal issued monthly crop estimate, placing crop conditions 66.4 per cent normal, with indicated crop of 13,638,000 bales.

Indications that the rain in Midland county was general in its scope were received throughout the middle of the morning. The Goldsmith place reported a good rain, as did that of Elliott Cowden. An inch and an eighth fell at the latter's ranch. Monahans, Penwell, Wink and Roswell received rain today, late reports established.

Collects Bets

Virgil Ray, whose guess on the weather might be determined from perusal of delicate weather instruments, so nearly does he hit with his prognostications was busily collecting bets this morning. He had said yesterday that a good rain would fall within 50 miles of Midland before today noon.

Lavendar and Green Belt Champ to Play

AMARILLO, Aug. 6. (AP)—One of the features of the Panhandle Open Golf tournament here August 9 and 10 will be a widely-heralded links duel between Dennis Lavendar of Abilene, former state title holder and Frank Foxhall, of Memphis, Green Belt champion. Both of these hot shots are expected to be on hand for the event.

Lavendar and Foxhall had arranged a private match for the championship of West Texas, but an injury to Foxhall prevented it being played. The Amarillo test, which will be over both the Hillcrest and municipal layouts, neutral courses, and which will be 72 holes of medal play, is expected to provide a fair and complete test of the relative ability of the two contenders.

However, local locker-room experts were predicting that both Lavendar and Foxhall, as well as other out-of-town stars would probably wind up behind one or two of Amarillo's sharp shooters.

Midland Boy Aids In New Collection

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 6.—The University of Texas library is in receipt of the Henry W. Smith and Fulton family papers through the efforts of J. Everts Haley and the Laura Spellman fund. These papers cover a period of about ninety years of Texas and contain letters of William Barrett Travis, Edward Hall, John Henry Brown and other famous Texas pioneers. They are valuable for studies of the Texas Revolutionary period, the California gold rush, the period of the Civil war, reconstruction, and the period of industrial development.

Henry W. Smith was the first Anglo-American governor of Texas, in 1836, and died in California while seeking for gold. George W. Fulton came to Texas with a volunteer to aid in the Texas revolution in 1836 and arrived too late for the Battle of San Jacinto. He stayed in Texas as long enough to marry the daughter of Governor Smith, and then went back to the United States where he lived several years before he returned to Texas. He saw the possibilities of cattle as a commercial venture and was among the first people to start activities in the breeding, curing, packing, and shipping of cattle from Texas. His influence and ability were felt in the building railroads and in the opening of the Aransas pass deep water channel. These interests naturally brought him in contact with the greatest minds of Texas and those of the United States government, and their letters to him are quite an addition to the material already accumulated in the archives of the library.

This collection is one of the most significant and valuable collections which have been given to the library and takes its place proudly with those of Stephen F. Austin, Guy M. Bryan, Ashbel Smith, and other Texas notables. It contains of about 5,000 letters and documents, and was given to the university by James C. Fulton and Henry Smith Fulton of Corpus Christi.

Zapata Sheriff A Sherlock Holmes

LAREDO, Aug. 6. (AP)—The sheriff of Zapata county, one of the tier of counties along the Texas border south of Laredo that is without railroad connection, has performed a feat rivaling those attributed to Sherlock Holmes.

The principal clue used by the sheriff of Zapata county and his deputies in tracking a man who admitted killing another was chewing tobacco juice. Officers found the tobacco juice on the brush and ground and an odd print made by a show-heel at the scene of the killing. They followed the tobacco juice and heel print along the roadway and through heavy brush for 27 miles, where they quarry was captured. In "his face" he had a quid of chewing tobacco.

The man, Jack Allen, oil field worker, admitted killing Monico Dovalina. He claimed the killing was in self defense.

Robinson Succession

BIG SPRING, Aug. 6. (AP)—Mrs. Thelma Robinson hasn't pronounced her ideas of just what's in a name. But that name Robinson has meant something to her. She was born in Robinson. Her first husband bore that name. Recently she married a second time—to W. H. Robinson. And Miss Mabel Robinson of the county clerk's office signed the marriage license.

Lamesa Has Seven Fires

LAMESA, Aug. 6.—Lamesa had only seven fires during the first six months of 1930 and none of them serious, it was reported by city officials here this week. This shows a big decrease over the first six months of 1929. Cautionness on the part of Lamesans is the cause attributed to the small number of conflagrations, according to H. E. Williams, city fire chief.

A. L. Pancoast, Representative of the Okmulgee Sash and Door Company, was a business visitor here yesterday afternoon.
