Midland Men Assessed Penalties in Federal Court

INDEPENDENTS MEET IN BALLROOM IN INFORMATIVE SESSION

EVERY ONE INVITED TO ATTEND

Will Attempt to Form Midland Chapter Of Movement

Tonight's meeting of the independent Petroleum Association of Texas will be for everyone, not only land and royalty owners and independents, it was re-iterated at noon by Charles R. Hansen, field representative of the association.

The meeting, an informative one that will deal strictly with educational factors, will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Homer W. Rowe will preside. J. J. Yowell of San Angelo, Claude C. Wild, executive vice-president of Fort Worth, and Lee Satterwhite, representative to the legislature from this district, will speak. An effort is being made by those who know him to get Hansen to speak, also. It was announced at a late hour that M. C. Ulmer, Midland banker, will speak on "The Relation of the Oil Industry to Local Business."

Comparative prices will be discussed, as well everything necessary to clearing up understanding to the degree that a local chapter may be organized in Midland and furtherance to the program of education carried out locally in the future.

From the standpoint of the independent, the necessity for organization against what the body deems is an economic injustice is found tersely stated in a recent editorial which, appearing below in part, sets forth the situation which now obtains:

"The difference between the independent oil men and the so called major companies — and by major companies we mean not less than six world wide oil companies that control the entire oil business from one end of the world to the other — is primarily a difference in the proper segregation of costs and profits.

The well rounded companies with production, pipe lines, storage, refineries, tank cars, wholesale and retail outlets, are not primarily interested in whether one department or another makes or loses money, so long as the final operation shows a profit on the capital and effort invested in the whole business.

"If flour mills for instance owned the land upon which their wheat was grown — owned the stores in which the flour was sold — it would not make much difference to the mill, how cheap wheat became — so long as the price of flour to the ultimate consumer was capable of paying a profit on the whole operation from the time the ground was seeded until the flour was placed in the shopper's basket.

"But it would make a lot of difference to the farmers who were attempting to produce some wheat on adjoining land and sell it to the mills, if the mill placed a price of below the cost of production on the raw product and told the farmer that this was all it paid its own farm department for its own wheat raised on its own land. To the mill it would be only a bookkeeping loss, picked up in greater profit in other departments. To the farmer it would be immediate ruin.

"Such is the plight of the independent oil man. He has but one thing to sell — the raw product. What satisfaction is it to him for the big oil companies to point to the losses of the production departments of their own companies!

"It would seem that the answer which the big companies have made that their own production departments were operated at a loss — is the best answer to the independent's claim for a square deal. The majors produce oil and know what it costs to do it. They should not ask the independent to do it."

GRAND STAND FOR ATHLETIC FIELD BEING BUILT

Work toward completion of the high school athletic field, as part of the physical education program of the public schools here, is progressing this week, work having been started toward erection of the grand stand and bleachers.

The field was improved and an iron fence erected during the summer, and provides an admirable ground for athletic games, track and field meets, and other outdoor events to be participated by all students of the schools.

There will be 750 seats of permanent type and 250 of removable type in the grand stand, none of the seats being covered.

Ample space for all outdoor activities of the schools is assured, and the field is expected to aid greatly in the schools physical education work as required under the state educational laws.

In erection of the new field, school leaders see an opportunity for Midland to bid for the interscholastic league meet which for years has been held in San Angelo.

Al Flips Shot as He Tells of Many Unusual Flights; Flies Crab Course

Flying along at a decided crab angle, the motor of his old pusher plane drumming along behind him, the pilot was about to grin at the fun of it all when, suddenly, he hit an air pocket and the unstable crate tried to get out from under him. To make matters worse, his safety belt came loose and he couldn't turn loose the stick of the bucking machine to fasten it again. What really amounted to no more was the fact that he wore no parachute.

FUHRMAN DEEPENS AS COWDEN WELL REMAINS SHUT IN

Drilling at the Fuhrman Petroleum Corporation No. 1 W. T. Ford, southern Andrews county gasser, had proceeded to 4,180 feet, reports here this morning said, the formation still being a hard lime. It was estimated that probably 50 feet more would be necessary to reach the pay, basing the estimate on logs of other wells in the territory.

Casing was landed in Fuhrman No. 1 Ford at 4,155 feet, where drilling was halted and the 30,000,000 cubic feet of gas from 4,062-68 feet mudded in. It was while bailing mud from the hole that the bailer was lost.

There was no change reported in status of the wildcat when last drilling reports were received, other than the change in depth. No. 1 Ford is 2,200 feet from the west line and 440 feet from the south line of section 16, block A-43, public school land.

The Southern Crude Oil Purchasing company No. 1 Cowden had been shut in since Saturday, local reports said, with no changes or plans announced. It was unofficially reported that several company officials would be here tomorrow and that plans for new locations, development of production in the new well and other matters would be worked out. There is only 1,000 barrels of storage open at the well, but it is reported (See FUHRMAN page 8)

RELIEF FOR BOLL WORM AREA HELD OUT BY DEL CURTO

AUSTIN, Sept. 23. (P)—Steps toward lifting the quarantine on cotton in Andrews, Winkler, Ector, Crane, Upton, Midland, Martin, Dawson, Howard and Glasscock counties will be taken within the next six weeks. J. M. Del Curto, chief state entomologist, said Monday evening. Del Curto stated no pink boll worms had been found in this area during the past two weeks and expressed the belief the area had been cleaned up.

If no worms are found within the next six weeks, Del Curto said he would recommend that regulations be lifted by the Texas pink boll worm commission. He also said he would recommend similar action to the federal department of agriculture.

The regulation requiring the fumigation of cotton before it is shipped was lifted several weeks ago and the main restriction now in force is the one requiring sterilization of seed. This requirement adds approximately 75 cents per bale to the cost of production and growers in the area would save thousands of dollars yearly if it is lifted, Del Curto said.

FINISHING OUR GROWTH

Whenever the American eagle, feeling boastful, sits up to scream, one of his favorite brags is the amazing rapidity with which the population of the nation has grown.

This has been so from the beginning. The nation measures its increase from the scattered two or three millions of revolutionary days of the 120,000,000 of today, and gives thanks. Individual states do likewise; so, with the greatest fervor of all, do cities. Our growth in population has always been one of our proudest boasts.

In an interesting article in a recent issue of the New Republic, Mr. J. J. Spengler looks into the situation to see what this stabilizing of population will mean to us. He makes numerous thought-provoking prophecies, some of which are encouraging and some of which are very much otherwise.

The position of the worker, for example, will be better. The unskilled worker will be the first to profit by this cessation of growth. Older workers will not be laid off, with the carefree abandon now exercised by employers. There will, in fact, be something of a shortage of labor, and labor will reap the benefit customary in such a case.

On the other hand, a larger proportion of the population than at present will be composed of old men. The control of industry will lie in the hands of graybeards with "a smug, conservative form of leadership." The social and economic stratification of society will tend to become fixed. It will be more difficult for a young man to rise rapidly from nothing to high position.

Furthermore, competition in business and industry will be keener. No longer will a constantly increasing population provide an ever-growing market for all kinds of production and thus counteract waste and inefficiency in industry. An increasingly high bankruptcy rate will see to it that only the efficient industrialist remains in business.

Nor is this all. Mr. Spengler points out that rural and urban rents, in the past, have risen because of the steady gain in population. Farmers, in particular, will be hard hit, and their market for food products will cease to expand.

Because of the larger percentage of aged, the writer predicts an increase in the enrollment of churches and cults, with effete sports, such as golf, increasingly popular.

All in all, Mr. Spengler emphasizes the fact that the nation is bound to bump into some highly knotty problems during the next few decades. We are, in fact, turning a corner in our development. We are about at the end of an era. It is not too soon for us to start thinking about how the change is to be met.

IT DOESN'T HELP MUCH

A middle-western newspaper points out that while the nation had a frightful number of automobile traffic fatalities last year, the total isn't so depressing when you compare it with the number of miles traveled by motorists.

Thus, in Massachusetts, a safety committee has estimated that only one fatal accident occurred last year for each 7,695,504 miles driven. This figure was reached by ascertaining the amount of gasoline sold in the state, estimating the average number of miles driven per gallon, and dividing by the total number of fatal accidents in the state.

Put that way it doesn't look so bad. One death to more than 7,000,000 miles of driving doesn't sound like much. But getting comfort out of those figures is just another way of kidding one's self. The fact remains that autos in this country last year killed 30,000 people—and there isn't any way of making that fact seem anything but dreadful.

ERRORGRAMS

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scramblegram below—and unscramble Grace yourself for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it. The Boy Who Made Good!

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

The Anti-Saloon League Faces Real Reduction of Its Majorities in Congress for First Time As Increasing Aggressiveness of Wets Gives Drys Setbacks at the Polls

WASHINGTON.—This is not exactly one of the Anti-Saloon League's best years. Without waiting for the November elections, it can already be said now that the primaries are over that the drys have not made any appreciable political gains and have suffered considerable loss.

The league still will hold large majorities in Congress after the election but apparently there is going to be a real reduction of those majorities for the first time since Congress enacted prohibition. Increasing aggressiveness of the wets is reflecting itself both in the attitude of candidates for office and in the actions of the voters.

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

In a Kansas town a clinic has been established for the removal of warts. I wonder if we couldn't send a few warts there. By railroading just a few warts from this town, we would have a pretty fair bunch of citizens.

The Iowa man who left a huge sum of money to establish a library, with the stipulation that women be barred from it, has started something. Women who never took a book from a library in their lives are going to want to read something from this particular institution. If they don't hold up the joint at the point of a gun, I'll bet many a woman will send her husband at the point of a rolling pin to bring home the book of the month from that library. When that Iowa man passed away, he started something.

An ambitious young author on our staff mailed his manuscript to a magazine not long ago, and it came back to him. Yesterday he got even when this same magazine mailed him a subscription blank and he threw it in the waste basket with a sigh of satisfaction.

The worst thing the drys have to worry about is that they find themselves on the outside looking in more frequently than they like. With the increase of wet strength in the Republican party, instances have begun to appear in some states where both parties and their candidates are wet and the drys have no chance to back a winner.

The next Illinois senator is sure to be no friend of the drys because the league has turned against Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick since she agreed to head the state referendum result and is supporting a third candidate who has no chance of victory. The best the drys hope to get out of the situation is the defeat of Mrs. McCormick, who has always been dry, by James Hamilton Lewis, the Democrat, who is winging wet.

New Jersey likewise has two wet senatorial candidates opposing each other—Dwight Morrow and Alexander Simpson, Republican and Democrat. The dry candidate in the Republican primaries, Franklin Fort, was badly licked.

The Republican party in Massachusetts, through nominating William M. Butler as its senatorial candidate, has remained dry only by the barest margin. The chances are that Marcus Coolidge, the wet Democratic nominee, will defeat the dry Mr. Butler in November.

All eyes at this writing are on New York. As in Illinois and New Jersey, there are many Republicans there who don't believe they can elect governors and senators as long as they continue to be the dry party. The resignation of U. S. District Attorney Tuttle of New York with a declaration for repeal put the issue squarely up to the G. O. P. and if it nominates Tuttle and goes wet the drys will have taken one more hard sock.

The drys held their own in New York's Republican congressional primaries except for the defeat of Congressman Wallace Dempsey by a wet.

In Nebraska the league must choose between Senator George W. Norris, whom it opposed in the Republican primary because he stood for Smith in 1928, and Gilbert M. Hitchcock, the Democratic nominee, who favors modification. In Washington the two state conventions went wet and Senator Wesley Jones, staunch dry, preceded Mrs. McCormick in her waywardness by promising to head referendum results. So did very dry Senator Tom Walsh of Montana. He opposed this year by a wet Republican and requiring a majority wet Democratic votes for re-election.

California is going to have a wet governor, as Mayor Rolph of San Francisco will succeed a dry after being nominated against strong dry opposition. Democrats in Ohio have nominated a wet, Robert J. Bulkley, for the Senate and think they can elect him although his election probably would be more of an administration defeat than a dry defeat. The Republican party stayed dry, despite National Committeeman Maurice Maschke's publicly announced jump into the wet camp.

One of the year's biggest surprises in Washington was the defeat of two such conspicuous drys as Congressman Hudson and Cramton in Michigan. (There's a recount on in Cramton's case.) Defeats by wets of Sears in Nebraska and Dempsey in New York were among similar instances.

Nobody knows how far this swing toward the wets is going to go, but plenty of politicians are worried. The drys say they aren't worried at all, but the wets have certainly been getting much more this year than they expected and the drys have been getting considerably less.

sums of money are exchanged in sales of these insects between various collectors.

Of course those Nebraska City Rotarians were just plain mean when they elected H. L. Mencken an honorary member and then notified him of the good news by telegraph.

Sister Aimee and Ma by DON ROBERTS

Aimee Semple McPherson is shown at the left in the robes in which she appears in the pulpit of her $1,500,000 Angelus Temple in Los Angeles and exhorts sinners to save their souls. At the right, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, is shown preaching in a temple tableau in which young women dressed as angels play a prominent part.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of four stories on the colorful career of Aimee Semple McPherson and her mother co-evangelist, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy.

By DON ROBERTS, NEA Service Writer. (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 23.—Angelus Temple—$1,500,000 monument to evangelistic enterprise where calm divines walk peacefully through hushed halls and a great organ voices serenity—is all agog again. Sister Aimee and Ma are doing battle once more.

Aimee and Ma have been doing this sort of thing now for two years, but the passage of time doesn't seem to lessen the heat of controversy. "Aimee," of course, is the one and only Aimee Semple McPherson, whose exploits in the clutches of kidnapers earned her world-wide front page news stories. "Ma" is Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, co-founder of Angelus Temple and warrior extraordinary.

The temple is a great building situated half-way between wicked Hollywood and downtown Los Angeles. It faces on charming Echo Park. Tall radio towers rear themselves from its domed roof and station KFSG is heard far and wide with the message of cheer and brotherly love broadcast daily by Sister McPherson.

The most recent feud began over a broken nose Ma sustained at the hands of her daughter, Aimee, so Ma claims. And Sister Aimee is indignant at such an insinuation.

Back of the battle is a lengthy story of the jealousy of two women. Each wanted to control Angelus Temple. Aimee has won. Two years ago the first open breach appeared. "Aimee is worldly," shouted Ma. Horror-stricken temple officials tried their best to halt the flow of stories

AIMEE'S LIFE IN BRIEF

Born in rural Ontario, Canada, Oct. 9, 1890, the daughter of a farmer and a woman who had been a Salvation Army lassie. Showed early interest in amateur theatricals and became quite an amateur actress. Converted at 17 by Robert Semple, a handsome young Scotch evangelist, whom she married and with whom she went as a missionary to China after a daughter (Roberta Semple) had been born.

On Rev. Semple's death, returned to Canada and married Harold McPherson, well-to-do wholesale grocer, and to them a son (Rolf McPherson) was born.

On her refusal to quit preaching, McPherson divorced her and she became a traveling evangelist. Toured much of the United States by auto, with her mother and two children, using an old tent for her meetings. Settled in Los Angeles and built Angelus Temple.

A Baptist, a member of the W. C. T. U., the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and president of the temple and all its allied activities. By her own description she is "God's Star Saleswoman."

that went out, Ma's charges were hurled when Sister bobbed those ribbon tresses, hitherto long and flowing. The charge resulted in the ousting of Ma as a temple power. Here is how it was done: When Aimee McPherson and Mrs. Kennedy arrived in Los Angeles six years ago they were without worldly goods, unless you except the undoubted ability of Sister to sway audiences, which is, after all, quite an attribute. She got her start in girlhood as an actress in amateur theatricals in her home town in Canada.

They hired a circus tent and held meetings in the old-time revival fashion. So the start of the present layout began. Presently the contrite and humble who shunned the worldliness of this city contributed financially. The Echo Park Evangelistic Association was formed as owner of a valuable plot of land. Sister Aimee and Mother Kennedy, counselors of an ever-increasing discard crutches at the prayers of Mrs. McPherson; saw and heard men and women proclaim that disease and pain had left them. Los Angeles began to get interested.

Radio KFSG helped, of course. It was a powerful station and four years ago all sets would not "cut out" the sermons.

Such great crowds swarmed the temple that loud speakers were installed outside. Seats were set for a premium and collections waxed fat. The temple grew to a vast, highly organized institution, with numerous employees in its many departments and 12,000 members on its rolls, to a point where today it has cash and property assets valued at nearly $2,000,000.

All this is preliminary, but it gives the key to the present disruption. It was Aimee, not Ma, the co-worker, who was becoming famous. And Aimee gloried in the limelight.

Ma's work was in the Sunday school, the Bible classes. She was directing—but the actor seems to always grab the acclaim. And Aimee, in her flowing white robes in the pulpit where she preached with a zeal that knew no bounds, was the actor in this case.

NEXT: Aimee's kidnaping . . . and how the firing of a favorite temple bandmaster caused the first big row between Sister and Ma.

SODOM EXCAVATED

ROME.—Father Alexius, who directs the Jerusalem section of the Pontifical Biblical Institute of Rome, thinks that an excavating expedition under his direction has unearthed the ancient "wicked" cities of Sodom and Gomorrah, spoken of in Bible passages. The excavations are being made in Transjordan, only a few miles from the Dead Sea.

HARRY WARREN SAVES THOUSAND A YEAR—JUST BY BATTLING WITH A DESIRE THEY HAVE TO BE SUICIDES

By PAUL HARRISON, NEA Service Writer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—From his pulpit in a fashionable Manhattan church, Dr. Harry M. Warren once spoke of the futility of suicide. Oppressed by the memory of cases with which his work had brought him in contact, he expressed the conviction that all of them would have been easily preventable by friendly, sympathetic guidance. "I wish," he said, "that all who believe that death is the only solution to their problems would give me a chance to prove them wrong."

Next day a newspaper printed the young pastor's statement. Within 24 hours he had received twelve visitors in answer to his challenge. That was the beginning of the National Save-a-Life League. It was 24 years ago.

Many came to him from the army of defeat that he had little time for his parishioners. He found that life-saving, tackling with all his wits and energies the desperate depressions of the hopeless, was a much more exciting job than police soul-saving. In two years, having become financially independent through inheritances, he quit his pulpit for perhaps the most unusual vocation in all the field of personal service.

Hears Tales of Sorrow
Today Dr. Harry Warren sits in an office at 299 Madison avenue, meeting an unending stream of despondent humanity. The stories are never-new, yet never old. Each case, fit challenge for the finest psychiatrists, offers different, delicate problems which must be met instantly and firmly.

There are deep lines in the face of the big man who listens to these people. His hair is fast graying. He is called the "doctor of sorrows." But he knows how to smile. He is happy in the belief that he has saved about 25,000 lives.

He said: "It is a rather glorious justification of my belief, long ago, that sympathy and understanding and practical guidance will offset the desire for self-destruction. Most of all, these people want somebody to talk to in utter confidence. I have always held their confidence inviolate. I believe that if I knew someone were to commit suicide tomorrow I would not betray him."

"My work is strictly non-sectarian. Jews, Protestants, Catholics, Buddhists and Moslems have come to me. I offer all of them prayer, but I don't give them platitudes. Mental depression often can be defeated in a small material way. I have saved lives with five-dollar bills, with jobs, a meal or two, and free medical aid."

His Home a Sanitarium
A number of distinguished names are on the board of the National Save-a-Life League, which is supported entirely by contributions.

YOUR OWN INTEREST IN FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

EVERY week should be a fire prevention week, even though only one is officially so observed.

This Year—October 5-11
The activities of Fire Prevention Week represent a concentration of effort within a short period. That the results carry through farther and farther into the months that follow is one of the encouraging signs of this national conservation movement.

You have a personal reason for helping to observe Fire Prevention Week. It concerns your family—your home—your business—your community. If you take no part in the public observance, you can at least make the valuable contribution of your own better preparation to resist fire through preventive measures.

companies—through the National Board of Fire Underwriters, Chambers of Commerce and other organizations—have done much toward making Fire Prevention Week popular and effective for all property owners whether insured or not.

Increased public cooperation should result in reducing fire losses and in that way justify further reductions in the average cost of fire insurance—a cost which has consistently declined over a long period of years.

Where Gangsters Struck at Raiding Dry Agents

One of the most daring acts of counter-warfare in prohibition enforcement was committed here, when twelve gunmen ambushed six dry agents, killed one and disarmed his companions. The above photo shows one of the agents peering into the boiler-room entrance of the Rising Sun brewery at Elizabeth, N. J. There John G. Finiello, one of the raiding enforcement agents, was slain by the gangsters who had lain in wait to surprise them.

CATHOLICS IN OMAHA PREPARE FOR CONGRESS

By T. W. INGOLDSBY, United Press Staff Correspondent
OMAHA, Sept. 23. (UP).—The vanguard of the hosts of Catholic clergymen and lay members who are coming here from every state in the Union, from Canada and from Uncle Sam's possessions for the sixth National Eucharistic congress began arriving Monday.

Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago, the Apostolic delegate to the United States, Most Rev. Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, five archbishops nearly 50 bishops, 5,000 monsignori and priests and more than 50,000 lay men and women are expected to attend.

At the request of Cardinal Mundelein, the Apostolic delegate, Bishop Schrembs of Cleveland, national protector of the Priests Eucharistic League and of Bishop Joseph F. Rummel, in charge of local arrangements, millions of American Catholics approached the Holy Communion rails yesterday to offer their prayers for the success of the congress.

Pope Pius XI has sent his blessings from Rome and the good wishes of heads of similar congresses in many other countries have been received.

Fumasoni-Biondi and other members of the visiting hierarchy will be guests at a mammoth civic reception to be held at Ak-Sar-Ben coliseum tonight. This reception will be addressed by Governor Arthur J. Weaver, Mayor Richard L. Metcalfe and men prominent in the civic and business life of the city and state.

This will be the first American congress to which laymen have been invited. Advices received here indicated they are taking advantage of their opportunity and that the largest gathering in the history of the city will assemble here.

Suicide more frequently claims the prosperous and cultured than the ignorant and the poor. But it seldom occurs, Dr. Warren has found, among persons devoted to religion.

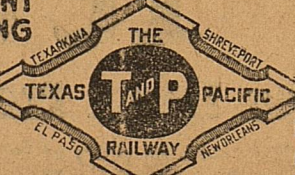

The founder is in search of an endowment to make his league a truly national one. There now are agencies in about a dozen cities to whom he can refer applicants for aid. But he still personally handles, in addition to the personal calls, a flood of correspondence from throughout the country, and even to India and Japan.

TEXAS BORDER SMUGGLERS USE SKINS OF GOATS

EDINBURG, Tex., Sept. 23. (UP).—Many ingenious methods are devised by rum runners in bringing liquor across the Rio Grande from Mexico to the United States.

Records in the customs office at Hidalgo, near here, show that the commonest method proved to be a simple plan which worked for many months. Then customs officers learned of the scheme and put a stop to it.

The smugglers would tie hundreds of quart bottles of liquor to the bottom side of a large, clumsy appearing raft. The raft would then be lowered into the water and poled across the river to the American side in plain sight of customs officials. The bottles, of course, were completely hidden from sight.

The raft would be left at anchor all day and at night the smugglers would pull it ashore, remove the bottles and take them inland. Customs officers eventually began searching every raft that crossed the river, so the smugglers decided this plan was no good and now it is rarely used.

Sometimes the smugglers, while taking a dip in the cooling waters of the Rio Grande, carefully tie several bottles to their body and swim them across the river. The bottles are dropped in a shallow place on the American side and a confederate later picks them up and distributes them to customers.

The cleverest trick, however, has just been discovered.

A long cable is stretched under the river and fastened to posts on either side. A small basket, holding about two dozen bottles, is attached to a wheel and suspended from the cable on the Mexican side. Smugglers on the American shore, with the aid of a string tied to the basket, then pull the contraband to them under the water.

This plan worked splendidly on dark nights, but once an unwary smuggler tried to deliver two cases at one time and the carriage jammed on the line in the middle of the river. Before a boat could be sent out to retrieve the "precious cargo," customs officers, watching from a vantage point along the river, raided the smugglers and put an end to this method of transporting liquor.

Sometimes a goat skin is turned inside out and the legs and all other openings carefully tied. The skin is then filled with liquor and turned loose in the river. The current at certain places will take the skin from the Mexican side to the American shore in a short time and the skin makes a practically invisible object on the face of the river. This plan still works despite knowledge of it by the officers.

OLD TIME WELL AND REFINERY TO BE SEEN IN TULSA

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 23.—Proving that the petroleum industry, which has grown from the primitive barter stage of 1859 to a $12,000,000,000 business in 1930, has not forgotten its humble origin in its days of power, the historical displays at the International Petroleum exposition, October 4-11, here, are receiving the lion's share of attention.

One of the high lights of the oil show program is the ceremony in which the veterans of the industry are honored and awarded the gold medals of the exposition's "Pioneers of the Oil Industry association." Beyond giving veterans all of the employment available in the oil show, the exposition has a program whereby these "old timers" will benefit from any surplus which may be showing in the funds after each exposition.

The replica of the Drake well, which in 1859 came in as the first "producer" in the world, is on the grounds and has been fitted up so that the veterans may use it as a club house during the show.

It is strange to find these grizzled old timers talking easily about mud fluids, weight adjustments, coring and other subjects in keeping with the modern $125,000 derricks. The Drake well was "spudded in" with a pick and shovel and then went down to sixty nine and a half feet with a blacksmith's crude bit, and the total cost was fifty dollars.

Added to the museum this year is the exact replica of the first oil refinery, built by William Bransdall in 1860. It is a far cry from this stone, stove pipe and iron affair for the conversion of petroleum into kerosene and other light fractions, to the $5,000,000 units of the modern hydrogenation process refinery which converts 100 gallons of crude oil into 102 and a half gallons of gasoline.

Pioneers of the industry are urged to send their names, dates of birth, dates and location on entering the oil business, and their present addresses, to Barney E. Horrigan, chairman of the "Old Timers" committee, International Petroleum exposition & congress, Tulsa, Okla.

CONSTRUCTION TO BE STARTED ON WOW CHAPEL AND BIRD SANCTUARY

Carillon of 25 Chimes in Beautiful Tower of $150,000 Building on Woodmen Hospital Grounds at San Antonio, Texas

This is the architect's drawing of the $150,000 Woodmen of the World Chapel and Bird Sanctuary to be built at San Antonio, Tex., on the W. O. W. Memorial Hospital grounds.

Construction will be started immediately on the $150,000 Woodmen of the World Chapel and Bird Sanctuary on the grounds of the Woodmen of the World Memorial Hospital at San Antonio, Texas, President W. A. Fraser announced today. The chapel will be built along similar lines to the Bok Tower and Bird Sanctuary located in Florida. As part of the chapel there will be a tower which will have a carillon of twenty-five chimes.

"This will be a universal church," said President Fraser. "Regardless whether a person be a Protestant, Jew or Catholic, he or she can hold services in this church," said President Fraser. The membership of the Woodmen of the World is made up of people of all religions and nationalities and the church must be universal in order to serve our membership."

The chapel will be located on a 250 acre tract within a short distance from the Woodmen of the World hospital. Patients will be encouraged to go to chapel and worship God according to their own religions.

"The chapel and tower will be a unique architectural design," said Mr. Fraser. The outside will be of Indiana limestone. Dark oak with large ceiling beams will be used in the interior. The main stain-glass window of the church will be a production of Tiffany of New York.

The chapel will also have a patio with a beautiful fountain, especially designed, according to Mr. Fraser. "In my opinion, this chapel and carillon tower will be one of the most beautiful ever designed," said Mr. Fraser. "It will not be large, seating only two hundred, but the beauty will be there." He said that it will be one of the show places of Texas.

A special landscaping is now being carried on, and in the bird sanctuary will be various types of birds collected from various parts of the world.

Mr. Fraser said that the chapel and the bird sanctuary will be a memorial to the departed membership of the Woodmen of the World.

Phelps and Dewees of San Antonio are the architects.

SANTONE PLANS BIG WELCOME TO COSTE, BELLONTE

Plans are being made for an elaborate reception for the two French flyers, Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, who will make an overnight stop in San Antonio on October 1st. An enthusiastic celebration awaits these two French heroes who have conquered the perils of the Atlantic when they arrive in San Antonio.

An escort of more than one hundred army planes will take to the air from the military fields as greeting to Coste and Bellonte. Although the French flyers are expected to reach San Antonio about noon, the exact time of their arrival will not be known until a short time before they appear, and the planes will be waiting on the starting lines at Kelly, Brooks and Dodd fields until word is received at the fields that the Question Mark is approaching the city. Flying in military formation they will form an escort for the first conquerors of the Atlantic in a westward flight from Paris to New York and conduct them to San Antonio's municipal airport, Wirburn field.

Upon landing, the flyers will be escorted into the city and land a triumphant parade through the streets of the business section, concluding their path at the Alamo, where they will place a wreath at the Battle of Flowers ceremony, will lend a festive spirit to the occasion as they will be present, mounted and in their uniforms. The remainder of the afternoon will be given over to the fliers for rest.

The main feature of entertainment will be a huge banquet tendered Coste and Bellonte from 7 to 9:30 p. m. on the evening of October 1st.

Invitations have been extended Governor Dan Moody and Dwight W. Morrow, United States ambassador to Mexico and to officials of the Mexican air corps to attend the banquet.

The amount of natural and artificial gas produced in the world in a year would fill a dirigible a mile in diameter and twenty miles long, powerful enough to lift the Egyptian pyramids.

First Woman to Pilot Dirigible

Feminists may look up—literally—to Sophie Thomas, above, noted European aviatrix. Pioneering in another field new to women, she has been awarded a Zeppelin pilot's license by the German government. It's the first time a woman has been authorized to fly a dirigible in any country.

In the fourteenth century it was fashionable to carry toothpicks of silver suspended around the neck by a chain.

Cards Continue To Move Closer

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—Pounding the ball to every corner of the park, the St. Louis Cardinals moved a little nearer the National league pennant with a 15-to-7 victory over Philadelphia. The victory will lift the Cubs out in front by two, and one half games as the Cubs also won.

Early Missionary Speaks to Baptist Women

Mrs. S. S. Swenson, who was one of the pioneer missionaries in the African districts, told the women of the Baptist W. M. S. of many of her experiences at their meeting yesterday afternoon at the Claude Cowden home.

How the work was carried on in the early years and the serious obstacles that confronted the mission workers were among the interesting experiences told by the visitor.

The mission program from the Royal Service was rendered by Mrs. H. B. Dungan, Mrs. A. J. Gates and Mrs. Holcombe.

A Pillow Is as Good as Its Filling

By WILLIAM H. BALDWIN Author of "The Shopping Book" Written for NEA Service

In pillows it is the filling that counts, and as a result the choice of comfortable pillows presents in miniature much the same problem as the selection of a good mattress.

There are some persons who like a thin, hard pillow, which is best obtained in a horsehair filling, but for most of us the excellence of a pillow is based on its soft plumpness. Here the order of merit in fillings is (1) down, the soft fleecy undercoat of a goose; (2) goose feathers, with stems; (3) duck feathers, and thereafter various combinations of the above.

It is well to remember that a pillow with three pounds of feathers need not necessarily be better than one with only half the weight. It depends entirely upon the resiliency of the feathers.

TOMORROW: Kitchen tables.

YOUR CHILDREN by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON © 1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Just about now Tom and Dick are getting out football helmets for inspection and table conversation begins to speculate on the new football coach or the tennis courts the "Junior High" is having made. The youngsters are enthusiastic. Some of the adults agree but more of them shake their heads.

Where are the days when we used to go to school to study? How will sunny get prepared for banking by learning fancy dives.

Aside from Father's dubious glances at text-books dumped on the hall table and forgotten, and Mother's little-concealed worry over possible, if not improbable, athletic accidents, there are the neighbors who have no children and who loudly question the right of the school board to throw away their taxes on recreation tom-foolishness. New tennis courts—ridiculous!

And yet games and social affairs in the junior and senior high schools continue to increase. All work and no play is bad medicine. Children are bound to play. Therefore is it not better for them to be playing systematically under trained guidance with friends that we know, and in a place that we know, than straying into any of the multitudinous troubles that a free youngster may take it into his head to get into?

Then there are all the well-known benefits of athletics for their own sake. Learning co-operation and team-work, strengthening flabby muscles and building up a healthy resistance to disease, and discovering the deepest meaning of good-sportsmanship are some of them.

At Prairie Lee By D. Boone Laceywell

Mesdames W. F. Hejl, A. G. Bohannon, C. D. George, and O. L. Jones of Midland visited Mrs. W. E. Pigg Friday afternoon.

Judge Hill and Newbie Ellis were seen in this community hunting doves recently.

Charlie Sutton, of Lamesa, who has been picking cotton for his uncle, Robert Saylor, returned home this week.

The club women and others are working on the booth for the fair. Prairie Lee is working hard to take first place in the exhibits.

It is understood that W. E. (Bill) Pigg has out more bales of cotton than any other farmer with the same acreage, having 10 bales out, and six more open. On his 140 acres he figures he will make about 35 bales. This seems to a better yield than the average. He attributes this to his early planting and some favorable showers at the right time. He is also one of those who will make enough feed to do him through the year.

A. A. Johnson and wife spent Saturday night with Mrs. Johnson's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. H. Wrenn.

The Rev. Mr. Wrenn and family attended preaching at Pleasant Valley Sunday.

First Baseball Team Made By Choosing up the Sides

EDITOR'S NOTE: Baseball is 100 years old. This is the second of a series of six articles tracing the origin and development of the game.

By GEORGE C. MORELAND, Written Especially for NEA Service (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.) After spending most of 1830 as a student in Boston, Abner Doubleday returned to his farm home in Massachusetts. The game of "round ball" had been introduced to the Boston youngsters stuck in his mind.

but it was some time before he was able to introduce it around his own home.

"There weren't very many boys in our neighborhood, to begin with," he told me, "and I had to dismiss from my mind any idea of ever getting enough kids together at one time to play it. Most of us had to work pretty steadily on week days, and we never would have dared to play a game like that on Sundays.

"At school occasionally we batted a ball around during recess, but there were only three or four boys, and it was a long time before it occurred to me that we could play a semblance of round ball."

It is worth noticing that ideas and fads didn't travel as fast in those days as they do now. Round ball was a great sport in Boston, but it was years before it was picked up in other cities. Oddly enough, when it did spread it missed New York entirely; after Boston, the first American city to take to it was Philadelphia, where it appeared as early as 1833.

At any rate, General Doubleday didn't get a chance to play the game until 1839, when he was a student at a military academy at Cooperstown, N. Y. He told me how he managed to get into the game again.

"One day," he said, "I saw a small boy bouncing a ball against the side of his home. Right away that reminded me of the old Boston game, and I picked up a stick and yelled to the boy to throw the ball to me. He did so, and I hit it with the stick. He got all excited, and asked to me to do it again. Bouncing the ball that way reminded me of the old game of 'cat and dog,' and I thought we would introduce a variation on it."

Cat and dog was a very old game, of unknown origin. The idea of the game was for the batsman to catapult a short piece of tapered wood (the cat) from a stone or mound and hit it with a club (the dog) before it landed. After hitting it, he laid his bat down crosswise in front of the mound, and the player who had grabbed the cat threw it at the bat; if he hit it, he changed places with the batter.

So Doubleday and the other boy established a base and began running back and forth to it after hitting the ball. The next day another boy joined them—and the famous old childhood game of "One Old Cat" was born, then and there, in just about the form that it is still played. The name, by the way, came from the game's similarity to "Cat and Dog."

The children of Cooperstown took to this game, and soon so many boys were wanting to play it that it was elaborated to Two Old Cat, Three Old Cat and so on, up to Eight.

In this latter form it was practically identical with the Boston game of Round Ball, except that Doubleday lengthened the baselines so that the posts, or bases, were 60 feet apart. In the Boston game the distance between them was seldom as great as 30 feet.

Doubleday was graduated by the academy shortly after that and became a lieutenant in the army. Stationed in New York, he helped to introduce this Cooperstown variation of Round Ball to Manhattan, and found that the boys of New York took to it quite as eagerly as the Cooperstown boys had.

In New York a radical innovation was made, about the year 1840. The boys developed a new rule whereby the players changed places in rotation. In the original game, you remember, the batter changed places with the fielder who had the put-out; now all moved up just as they do now in "scrub." When the batter was put out he went to right field, and had to play every other position before he could become a batter.

The New York boys also set 11 as the maximum number of fielders. They had two catchers, one standing about 20 feet behind the other, one pitcher, or tosser, four basemen, a short-fielder, corresponding to the modern shortstop, and three outfielders. Also they discarded the posts that were such prominent features of the Boston game, and used flat markers for the bases.

Then the young New Yorkers made the great, basic advance that was to lay the foundation for baseball's development. They stopped playing in rotation, and formed separate teams. At first they did this in the time-honored style of "choosing up sides"; and it was at this point that the system of tossing a ball into the air and catching it when it came down to see who would have the first choice of players developed.

A little later groups of boys began to form their own teams, and the game took the name of "town ball." It became immensely popular as soon as this idea of team play caught on, and before long the boys teams started journeying across town to play rival teams. Interest ran high, and it was not long before the grown-ups started to play, forming "exercise clubs" for the purpose.

There were no printed rules in those days, and before a game began the rival leaders had to agree on how many tallies would constitute a game. The number settled on would vary all the way from 21 to 100, with victory going to the first team that reached the maximum figure.

It was at this time, also, that play by innings began. Each side was at bat until three men had been put out; then it took the field and the other side came in to bat. Of course, there was no set number of innings, since the game lasted until the agreed-on score had been reached; and from the size of the score that was mentioned above you can see that those must have been free-hitting games in those days.

When team play began the baseball umpire was invented. This functionary had things rather soft. He sat on a bench near first base and ruled the game from that post. He did not have to be near the batter, because there were no such things as balls or strikes. Here were the rules governing batting:

First of all, the batter could tell the pitcher what to throw him; that is, he could call for a low ball—between the knees and waist—or a high ball—between the waist and the shoulders. If he struck three times without hitting anything he was out; but he could let a perfect pitch go by without a strike called on him, and the pitcher could throw a hundred bad balls without getting into trouble. However, the batter usually hit at most everything.

So the umpire perched on his bench, usually with an umbrella over his head, and made his decisions. The scorer sat beside him. There were not, by the way, any foul balls. The batter ran on anything, and it was considered highly scientific to be able to deflect the ball back over the heads of the two catchers.

DEATH BLOW GIVEN ENGLISH RACING THROUGH ANNOUNCEMENT OF LORD OF DERBY, WHO WILL SHUT UP STABLES

Some of the most valuable racehorses in the world are destined to change hands before the end of the year as a result of Lord Derby's decision to curtail his racing activities in England.

Tom Crendon, who writes from London, sees this announcement as of world-wide importance in horse race circles. He says that owners and breeders from the United States and the Argentine, besides all the big men in the racing game in Europe, are sure to be greatly interested in the sales, which will probably take place at Newmarket in October and December.

Increased taxation, and the need for drastic economies, are given as the reason for the Earl of Derby's decision, which came as a great surprise to the racing world. He intends to disperse with the services of his private trainer, Frank Butters, at the end of the present season, and it is expected that his manager, the Hon. George Lambton, will resume in the capacity of trainer-manager, with a very much depleted stable next year.

Lord Derby, England's most popular sporting nobleman, has been one of the leading supporters of the turf for the past 50 years, and has been a member of the Jockey Club since 1895. He owns a stable and stud at Stanley House, Newmarket, which was recently valued at something like a million pounds sterling (approximately $5,000,000). Apart from having about 50 horses in training, the establishment includes possibly the best collection of brood mares in the world. Also the famous stallion, Sansovino, which won the Derby at Epsom in 1924; also Phalaras, one of the most successful sires in recent years; Phalaras' son Pharos, whose stock is likely to prove of equal merit, and Swynford, a noted stayer and getter of stayers.

During the last ten years Lord Derby's horses have won over a million and a half dollars in stakes, and so far this season his stable has netted approximately 150,000 dollars. Most of the winning horses were bred in his own paddocks. He has won practically all the big races in England.

Besides Sansovino's Derby triumph, other classic successes include the Two Thousand Guineas with Colorado in 1926 and St. Leger with Fairway in 1928, with Tranquil in 1928 and Keysee in 1919. He has won the Oaks twice, with Toboggan in 1928 and Beam in 1927. This year he won the One Thousand Guineas with the smart filly, Fair Isle.

The best known horses in Lord Derby's Newmarket stable include Servus, a seven-year-old; West Wicklow, a six-year-old; Fraudulent, Richborough, and Sans Charge, five-year-olds; Sangasso, St. Leger, and Filament, four-year-olds; Carleton, Knight of Lorne, Friar Tuck, Candida, Edelweiss, Erene, Fair Isle, Grazzia, Halloween and Norland.

pete for the national championship Jones has won the British open, British amateur and United States open championships this year, and if he wins the fourth, he will establish a new mark for the brassie clan to shoot at.

CATS PLUCK CHICK CONTINGENT FOR A DIXIE SERIES WIN

By GAYLE TALBOT, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer. FORT WORTH, Sept. 23.—For the sixth time in eleven years, the Fort Worth Cats of the Texas League are baseball champions of all the south-land.

Slugging three Memphis twirlers all over La Grave field as Dick Whitworth limited the Southern Association champions to nine hits, the Panthers won the fifth and final game of the 1930 Dixie Series, 13 to 6, before an estimated crowd of 3,000 fans today. The Chicks won only one of five games.

With the score tied at six all going into the seventh inning, the Cats suddenly laid down a barrage of six hits, including three doubles, a triple and home run to score six times and bring the title to Texas.

Dick Whitworth, pitching his second victory of the series, grew better as the contest progressed and held the Chicks scoreless after the third inning when Joe Hutchison pounded a homer into the right field bleachers with the bases loaded to score four runs and send the visitors into the lead.

They Couldn't Know

BACK IN 1818 the greatest newspaper of the day declared that the world had reached the limit of human expansion. It even went further, saying that there weren't enough supplies in the world to support further growth of population.

The mind of 1818 couldn't conceive of the miracles that human ingenuity would perform during the twentieth century. It couldn't imagine the wonders that would be wrought by new agricultural methods and modern manufacturing genius. It was ignorant of transportation as we know it, or the progressive sales methods of today. It could not see the vital part that would be played by advertising.

Even today there are some who fail to realize what an important factor advertising has become. Advertising is as much a part of today's life as electricity, antiseptic surgery or automobiles. It keeps us up to date on the many things we need in order to live profitable, happy and useful lives. It presents for our approval articles of all kinds and for all purposes. The requirements of each member of the family are met by advertised offers of good merchandise of proved value.

The advertisements save time, money and effort for those who read them and follow their guidance. They are practical guarantees of satisfaction.

NOW THAT NEW GOVERNOR GOES INTO OFFICE WHAT WILL BECOME OF THOSE IN EMPLOY OF VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS

By PAUL BOLTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Sept. 23. (P).—The biennial question, "After January, what?" is uppermost in the minds of several hundred state employees these days as they look forward to the induction of a new administration.

While no wholesale housecleaning was expected under the new administration, presuming that the democratic candidate, R. S. Sterling, is elected, all state employees are preparing for the worst even though they hope for the best.

Some were fortunate enough to be employed in a department whose head was re-nominated. In this category were employees of the state railroad commission and the state comptroller. Few changes were expected in the highway department, although the commission will have one new member.

Some satisfaction is found by employees in executive departments in the fact that the presumed incoming governor was a close friend to the retiring executive, leaving the impression that if he makes changes in the minor positions the changes will be gradual.

No such optimistic outlook is held in the attorney general's office and the treasurer's office, to mention only two.

One of the most important appointments the new governor will have to fill will be that of private secretary—a job with little to offer in salary but of great responsibility.

Governor Dan Moody has not leaned too heavily upon his private secretary, since he was well acquainted with politics and the demands of the governor's position. If Sterling should be elected, however, he will have practically no political experience and will need a competent man to help him dispose of the hundreds of routine matters demanding attention daily.

This has given rise to the reports that a man of the caliber of Claude Teer, chairman of the board of control, would be asked to accept the place, even though it entailed a personal sacrifice. Teer has served in the legislature, as chairman of the important appropriations committee and is said to be as well acquainted with every department of state government as any other man in the state.

Consideration of the some 150 appointive jobs to be filled by the incoming governor brought to light the fact that the assistant secretary of state gets a salary just twice as large as the secretary of state. The titled officer has $2,000 a year salary and the assistant $4,000.

The present secretary, Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, was responsible for this situation, by insisting that a $5,000 a year man was needed for the place. In the face of a determination by the legislature to raise no salaries, she obtained passage of a bill doubling her assistant's salary, on the contention that across the matters of vital importance to the state, needing the attention of a capable lawyer.

The assistant secretary passes upon all applications for articles of incorporation, and upon his shoulders rests the responsibility for barring undesirable corporations from the state insofar as this can be done under the state laws. Judge Watt L. Saunders now holds the place.

The secretary's salary, as is that of other important state officers including the governor, is fixed by the constitution.

Considerable selling on opening induced by general unrest in all commodity markets. Opening prices easy 3 to 6 lower. Trading very active during initial session. Decline during morning 6 to 8 points, October New York 10.59, December 10.78, January 10.87, again establishing new season's lows. Demand offset selling. Noon calls steady 1 to 2 lower New York while New Orleans unchanged to 3 higher.

Wilson said he could roll the old plane, spin it and loop fairly well. It will even fly upside down.

"But I'm careful about pulling it out of a dive," he said. "Afraid, you know, the wings might fold up and pinch me." The pilot has to sit on the lower wing as he flies and the instability of the machine is, as Al says, "nothing to brag of."

Al has owned the plane since 1925, when he had it assembled out of odds and ends of various old pushers. He admits he gets a "kick" out of flying it, but said that the press got him into the present "voyage." It is powered by a 90 horsepower OX-5 Curtiss motor.

"I was at the Chicago air races," he said. "Several reporters asked me for a story and I said, 'Well, how about writing that I will fly this crate back to Hollywood?' Kidding, you know."

"Imagine my surprise the next morning to see it on the front page, 'Al to Fly Ancient Pusher Across County to West Coast.'"

"And, not only did those reporters say that, but they gave the date for my take-off! So here I am."

In his room, before he went to dinner as a guest of Manager John Bonner of the Ritz, K. E. Ambrose of the chamber of commerce aeronautics committee, and a staff writer of The Reporter-Telegram, Wilson told many accounts of flying before the camera, unique, dangerous and thrilling experiences to himself and others.

As he talked, those in the room thought there were mosquitoes biting them, as now and then one member of the party would slap at his neck or forehead. But it developed that Al was just having his relaxation from the hard day in the pusher. He was talking and flipping shot with his tongue and teeth. He showed he could hit an ash tray eight feet away when he was accused by Ambrose of being the mosquito.

He took off early this morning for Pecos, Sierra Blanco and El Paso, where he hoped to spend the night. He expected to arrive at Hollywood in two weeks if he could fly most of the daylight hours each day.

SCARBOROUGH IN THREE DEALS GETS GREAT ACREAGE

Three ranch deals in West Texas and New Mexico amounting to 76,180 acres and involving a trade of $73,860 of which $45,000 was cash were concluded at Midland this week by W. F. Scarborough, wealthy cattle and oil man.

Scarborough bought the R. A. Leck ranch of eight sections in Winkler county and the M. M. Leeman ranch of twelve thousand, eight hundred acres in fee and nine lease sections in Winkler and Loving counties. He sold the K. O. ranch in Eddy county, N. M., consisting of 4,500 acres in fee and lease and his range rights on 75 sections of government land. The Leck and Leeman ranches join his present holdings.

The Midland cattleman now owns one of the largest ranches in West Texas consisting of 125 sections in fee and 50 lease sections in one body. He also owns 5,000 acres in fee and 34 leased sections in Andrews county, making a grand total of 78,680 acres owned and 80 sections leased. All but 5,000 owned acres and 34 leased sections are stocked with Scarborough's own cattle.

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Sept. 23. A complete survey was made of the institution, according to an unofficial report of Penrose B. Metcalfe, representative of San Angelo and the committee was unanimous in its opinion that quarters should be provided at once to care for the long waiting list. The buildings and equipment were found to be excellent so far as they go, according to Metcalfe.

I. C. C. ASKED TO RESCIND ORDER TO RAIL LINE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. (UP).—The interstate commerce commission was asked today by the Chicago Rock Island and Gulf railway to reconsider the decision ordering the Rock Island and Fort Worth & Denver Northern to construct a line jointly from Shamrock to Wellington, Texas.

Permission to construct the line was originally asked by the Rock Island but the Denver later asked authority to build between these two points. The commission granted both requests.

Houston Is Not Fire Standardized

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 23. (P).—With one exception, Texas cities and towns have standardized their fire equipment, hose and fire hydrants, according to J. W. DeWeese, state fire insurance commissioner. The exception is the city of Houston which shortly will be added to the accepted list, DeWeese said.

All city officials were warned that if any nonstandard fire equipment was purchased in the future that a penalty would be assessed by raising the fire insurance key threads and all hydrants should be of the three-way type, DeWeese said.

COTTON GINNING REPORT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. (P).—The census bureau today announced that the 1930 growth cotton ginned before September 16 aggregated 3,729,683 running bales, excluding linters. The comparative figure last year was 3,351,613.

Texas ginnings to September 16 this year were 1,342,126 bales, compared with 1,362,768 last year.

He has been awarded a gold and silver medal by the company.

FORMER CHIEF TO TRIAL

BEAUMONT ASKS BEING PLACED IN RATE ZONE

AUSTIN, Sept. 23. (UP).—E. A. Eargle, representing Beaumont, placed a plea before the state railroad commission today to have Beaumont included in the reduced cotton rates likely to be authorized by the railroads to meet truck competition. The railroad representatives indicated willingness to give reduced rates to Beaumont.

The proposed reductions average about 75 cents a bale below existing rates. It is considered likely that an order approving the reductions will be issued and made effective by tomorrow.

PROPOSED CHANGE IN CASES BEFORE HIGHWAY BODY

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 23. (P).—A proposal to change the method of conducting hearings of the state highway commission has been submitted and may be acted upon in the near future. During the September meeting of the commission the major portion of the board's time was taken up in hearing the applications of delegations for various kinds of road relief.

So many delegations were registered that it was necessary for the commission to start sessions an hour earlier than usual and continue them several hours after the usual quitting time. Sessions the first two days lasted from 9 a. m. to 7 p. m. and it was necessary to continue the meeting well into the third day before all the delegations could be heard. A total of 54 delegations registered, the largest on record for the present commission.

The change, as tentatively outlined, calls for the hearings to be conducted in the various counties either by members of the commission or by official representatives. It was pointed out that this would eliminate the necessity of delegations coming all the way to Austin.

By conducting hearings in this manner, the representatives could make inspections of proposed projects and road problems and then make recommendations to the commission.

Such a procedure undoubtedly would save thousands of dollars each year to the taxpayers and would afford county officials more time in which to present their cases. Under the present system, the delegations often are forced to make hurried explanations of their problems.

Spence Jowell Wins Saddle; Polo Today.

SAN ANGELO, Sept. 23.—A pioneers' jubilee in which veterans of the range over 55 years old roped calves, followed by a rodeo directed by Louis Kubits, well known at Fort Worth stock shows, opened the thirty-fifth West Texas Exposition here Monday.

Spence Jowell of Midland won the $250 saddle offered by R. J. Andrew and Son of San Angelo. L. B. Horton, exposition president, and Bob Mills of Water Valley, by lassoing and tying a calf in 31 seconds. Fred Baker, who ranches near San Angelo and was the world's champion in the late 90's, was second in 38 1-2 seconds. Ten old-timers participated.

In the rodeo, J. C. Meadows of Eldorado won the calf roping with a time of 21 3-4 seconds and Jim Bridges of San Angelo captured the steer wrestling contest. With ideal weather a large crowd attended the exposition opening and increased last night when the horse show was the big attraction.

Midland and Texon polo teams will open a tournament Tuesday afternoon when the first horse races will be run. A cavalry platoon from Fort D. A. Russell at Marfa will execute combat maneuvers at night.

SORE AND FRETFUL, A NERVOUS WRECK

Oklahoma Lady Says She Took Cardui Until the Soreness Was All Gone.

McAlester, Okla.—"When just a girl, at home, I was in a run-down condition, had severe pains in my side, and would have to go to bed for a day or two at a time," writes Mrs. G. C. Worsham, 217 West Cherokee Street, this city. "My mother gave me Cardui. It built me up, and it was years before I had any more trouble."

"After I was married, I had an illness, after which I suffered a great deal with soreness in my sides and in the lower part of my body. The weight of my hand on my body would hurt me."

"I just could not stand on my feet any length of time. I fretted until I was a nervous wreck. I tried different remedies, but could not see any improvement."

"My mother reminded me of how much good Cardui had done me at home, and so I began taking it again. After my first bottle, I was better. I could tell it by the soreness being less. I kept on taking Cardui until the soreness was all gone. I felt well and strong."

HOW TO GET THE MANY ADVANTAGES OF ICE REFRIGERATION

The less ice there is in your refrigerator, the higher the temperature there. Don't let an insufficient supply of ice interfere with the safe-keeping of your foods. Always keep your ice compartment more than half full! That's the one way to get all the advantages which ICE refrigeration offers. This is important in winter as well as summer, for proper refrigeration requires the same, even temperature the whole year 'round. The difference between perfect and imperfect refrigeration is but a few cents. Why take the risk?
