NO BALLOT CHANGE ANNOUNCED

Three Great Fire Menaces Over Country Subjugated

APATHETIC VOTE TO BE CAST BY TEXAS TUESDAY, IT SEEMS

"PATCHES" INTEREST BALLOTTERS

GOP in Texas Is Not Expected to Be Very Strong

DALLAS, Nov. 3. (AP).—Apathetically, Texas awaited tomorrow's election, most observers predicting a vote of a half million or less. Democrats predicted an easy victory for their gubernatorial candidate, Ross S. Sterling of Houston, and also that the vote for the republican candidate, William E. Talbot, would not reach 100,000, the number necessary for a republican primary two years hence.

Business Is Issue WASHINGTON, Nov. 3. (AP).—Every state but Maine, which voted in September, tomorrow elects federal congressmen. Voters also elect one third of the membership of the senate, governors of 32 states and hundreds of lesser officials.

Democrats claimed they would control the new house and would reduce the republican senate majority to the vanishing point. Republicans declared that their final field reports showed a trend in their favor, claiming control in both houses but by reduced majorities which often fall to the lot of the party in power in off years between presidential elections.

Amendments Interesting By GORDON K. SHEARER (United Press Correspondent) AUSTIN Nov. 3.—The vote upon proposed amendments to the state constitution is causing more interest in tomorrow's election than the vote upon candidates.

Except in a few instances the result of the election for offices is taken for granted as a sure victory for the democratic nominees. A light vote is expected save in races of local interest.

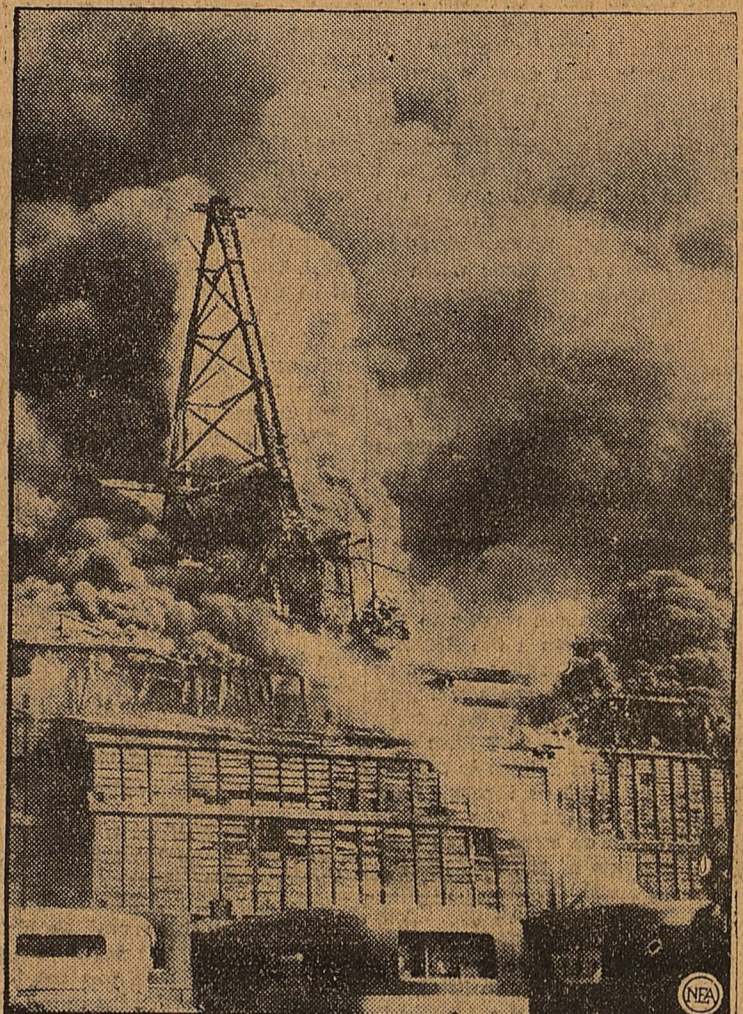

In Hidalgo county, however, independent candidates put out by the Good Government league, which has been battling both democrats and republicans for more than two years, are said to have a good chance of winning. They seek the overthrow of the A. Y. Baker machine, which they failed to secure through appeal to the state legislature, and thru resort to the courts, challenging the right of officials to disregard ballots cast at Weslaco in the election two years ago.

The fourteenth congressional district is having a bitter fight between Congressman Harry Wurzbach, republican, and Henry B. Dielmann, democrat. Wurzbach, apparently unseated by a democrat two years ago, won his seat back on a contest.

There is also a fight on for the seat in the Texas state senate formerly held by A. J. Wirtz of Seguin, who is not a candidate. W. K. Hopkins of Gonzales is the democratic nominee, after a bright record made in the house of representatives. He has as his opponent Reno Rickenroth of Seguin, who was the sole republican member of the last house of representatives.

K. C. OIL FIRE PUT OUT TODAY

Oklahoma and Calif. Blazes Brought Much Terror

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 3. (UP).—After a hard fight of four hours, a great oil conflagration was almost subdued here at noon today.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 3. (UP).—Fire following an explosion at the bulk tank of the White Eagle Oil and Refining company here today was menacing a large area in the center of Kansas City's oil and gasoline storage district.

The explosion, occurring in a 20,000 gallon gasoline tank, sent flames shooting 300 feet into the air. Ten large gasoline storage tanks near the one which exploded in the center of the area and fireman momentarily expected they would explode.

Squads of policemen rushed to the scene following the second blast and lines were run around the endangered area. Officers rushed to the homes in the neighborhood, ordering residents to evacuate at once.

A mechanic, who was standing near when the tank exploded, was seriously injured.

Coast Fire Quenched LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3. (UP).—A five day battle against flames, which swept over 45,000 acres of brushland in the Santa Monica mountains, ended today after the blaze was brought under control in the Trancas canyon.

The turning point in the fight came when the fire made its last rush near the head of the canyon where a force of 200 men with portable pumps and a tank wagon drenched the flames.

Midland Girl Sees Sister Drive Gold Spike on Santa Fe

Miss Daisey Lindsey of the Southern Crude was present Sunday at the festivities attendant upon the joining of the Santa Fe and the Mexican Orient at Presidio. Her beautiful sister, Lillian Lindsey Hodierne, drove the golden spike signifying completion of the rail line.

Selection of the talented daughter of Capt. D. E. Lindsey, early settler along the Rio Grande and a former captain of the Texas Rangers, was made several years ago. No one else would have been satisfactory to natives of that district.

The story of his life is romantic and thrill-packed. Coming to Texas after running away from his home in Tennessee while a young boy, he established a trading post near the banks of the Rio Grande. His first customer was a Mexican woman who had been transported across the river in a tub.

After his trading venture, the captain discovered the famous Shafter quicksilver mines. He made and lost several fortunes near Shafter, then went to Old Mexico, where he made other fortunes. Coming back to Texas, he joined the Texas Rangers where he became convinced he was needed in breaking up several lawless gangs operating along the border.

The Misses Lindsey were born while the father was in Mexico, where he married a beautiful woman who had come from Spain. Neither girl could speak English when brought at the age of six to a convent school in this state.

Miss Daisey Lindsey has been with Southern Crude in Midland for almost two years.

FUHRMAN STRIKES WATER; PREPARES TO SHOOT WELL

Preparations to shoot the Fuhrman Petroleum Corporation No. 1 W. T. Ford well, in southern Andrews county, are under way following striking of water at a depth slightly below 4,600. The hole is being plugged back to shut off the water and it is likely that the shot will be applied between 4,287 and 4,500 feet.

The well had been making from 125 to 168 barrels of oil per day while drilling was in progress to see if a larger pay could be found. The hole was carried deeper than the average well in the Permian basin. The shot will be given to see if pay will be increased at higher levels.

Mathena Tops Salt Salt was topped in the Kerwin et al No. 1 Mathena, Midland county test, at 1,610 feet. Drilling had been carried to 1,765 feet late Sunday, the salt still being in evidence.

FORMER MIDLAND ATTORNEY INJURED IN AUTO SMASH

Assistant Attorney General Sloan Blair, formerly of the law partnership of Smith & Blair of Midland, is recuperating from three broken ribs suffered in an automobile smash-up, reports from the United Press to The Reporter-Telegram today state.

Incidentally, another assistant attorney general, W. W. Caves of Liveoak county, was seriously cut about the head when his automobile turned over near Fredericksburg. The accidents happened in different counties.

Blair gave up his partnership with District Attorney W. R. Smith here to become county attorney of Andrews county before getting his appointment as assistant to the attorney general.

10,000 Sheep Run On Proctor Ranch

RANKIN — Approximately 10,000 head of sheep in a solid train load were unloaded in Rankin Thursday morning by J. S. Meyers, of Sonora to be placed on Upton grass.

The sheep will be moved to the Foy Proctor ranch in the northeast corner of the county, recently leased. Myers is considered one of the largest sheepmen in the state and is the second sheepman with extraordinary large holdings in the past days in this county within the past sixty days, the other T. A. Kincaid, President of the Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, moved here in September and leased many sections of land near Rankin.

Dorothy Faye Hayes Rankin School Queen

RANKIN—A young miss of the junior class received the largest number of votes in the contest for the Queen of the Halloween season over other contestants of four classes in high school. She is Miss Dorothy Faye Hayes.

Miss Hayes was the center of attraction at the coronation ceremonies Friday evening during the Halloween carnival supervised by the local P. T. A. and the runners-up in the Freshman, sophomores and Senior classes during the voting contest acted as her duchesses.

DIVISION NOT MADE IN OFFICES

No Statement Issued By Officials As Election Nears

Rumors of possible division in the offices of county and district clerk of Midland county, to be voted on at the general election tomorrow, were not substantiated today, no statement having been made by county officials. The rumor current Saturday was to the effect that in view of Midland's preliminary population figures of 8,003, the two offices would have to be divided.

The election ballot, sample of which appears in today's issue of The Reporter-Telegram, shows the nomination of Mrs. Susie Graves Noble for the office of "county and district clerk" under the democratic column.

Homers W. Rowe, election judge in tomorrow's balloting, said today that no change in the present ballot had been made.

Opinion Is Given BOONE MAKES A LAST SPEECH AND LEAVES MIDLAND

A local attorney, consulted today by representatives of The Reporter-Telegram in order to advise the public, said that the official population figures had not been announced from Washington, those being published here a few weeks ago being preliminary census figures by the district census supervisor; and, consequently, no authority for a division in the two offices was given.

He expressed the opinion that, at a later date, official census figures showed the county to have more than 8,000 population, the office holder would find it necessary to choose one of the offices, necessitating appointment by the commissioners' court of a clerk to fill the office vacated.

Voters, on going to the polls Tuesday, will find the ballot carrying the democratic nominee under the heading, "For County and District Clerk." The election will be held at the district court room between the hours of 8 a. m. and 7 p. m.

THE LAST ITEM TO CURTAIL

In a period of depression the last thing a retailer would do is to curtail advertising, one of the nation's outstanding sales directors said in a public address a few days ago.

He declared that "good advertising is best accomplished in the daily newspapers, for here you receive the greatest return at the least cost," explaining the value of reader interest as found in the daily newspapers.

"Good advertising is news and as such means the promotion of timely wanted merchandise at regular, fair prices."

The speaker declared that when the year 1930 came in with signals that business was not to be what it had been for a few previous months, his firm cast about for methods of combating the predicted depression. It was decided that every effort would be bent not only to curtailment of all possible expenses, but also to increasing, rather than decreasing, business volume.

To do this, it was necessary to increase the advertising appropriation, rather than to cut it with other expense items, and at the same time to make closer study of the needs of the buying public, to have at all times advertising of seasonable and desirable items carried in the firm's advertising. The result was that business actually increased at this big store. Price lines were readjusted to conform with the new demands, stocks were watched closely, breaks in market prices of commodities were taken advantage of, advertising was increased to appeal to a greater mass of people, and business grew.

The advertising was watched more carefully than ever. Time was taken in its preparation, and every inch was designed to sell. Advertising is the very expense item which should not be cut in times of depression, this modern business genius insisted.

A SCHEME FOR RELIEF

President Hoover's conference on unemployment is engaged now in winnowing dozens of schemes in an effort to find some workable method of helping the jobless and restoring prosperity.

What course it will finally adopt is not yet clear—probably not even to the members of the conference themselves. Meanwhile, a great many suggestions are being made in various parts of the country; and in some of them there is a good deal of value.

The Standard-Examiner of Ogden, Utah, for example, puts forward an idea that at least has the merit of interpreting a nation-wide program in terms of individual localities—an idea that enables anyone who studies it to see just what a federal program could mean to his own town.

To begin with, this suggestion would call for the federal government to appropriate one billion dollars for unemployment relief. The sum is huge, of course. But then, so is the unemployment problem, and it can be argued that a bad situation calls for desperate remedies. However, it is not the size of this sum, but the proposed method of distribution that makes the Standard-Examiner's plan worth examining.

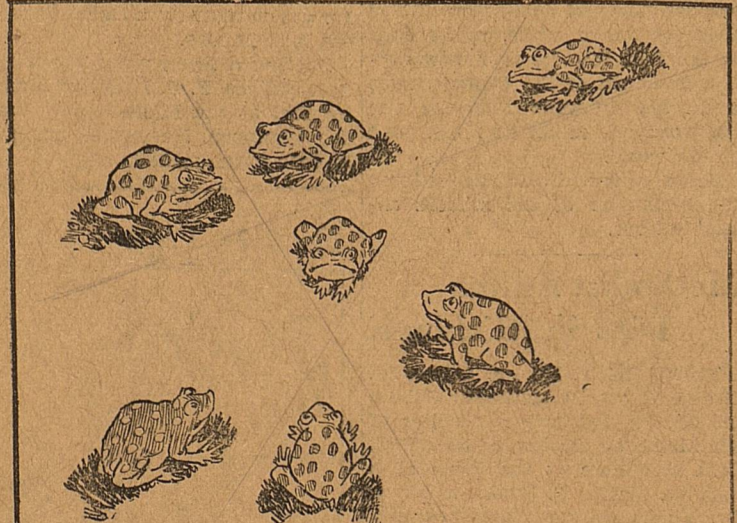

The money would be allotted to the different cities of the nation in proportion to their population—it would work out to about $8 per inhabitant—with the proviso that each city getting an allotment would appropriate an equal sum, the ensuing total to be spent at once in that city for public improvements.

By way of illustration: Ogden, a city of slightly better than 50,000, would get $425,000 of public funds. By adding a similar sum, and getting busy on needed public jobs, Ogden would provide work for some 800 men at $125 a month.

In the nation as a whole, according to the Standard-Examiner's estimate, fully 2,000,000 men would be given work during the next eight months. With 2,000,000 men restored to purchasing power, demand for all sorts of commodities would rise, factory production—and, consequently, factory employment—would go up, and the ball would start rolling once more.

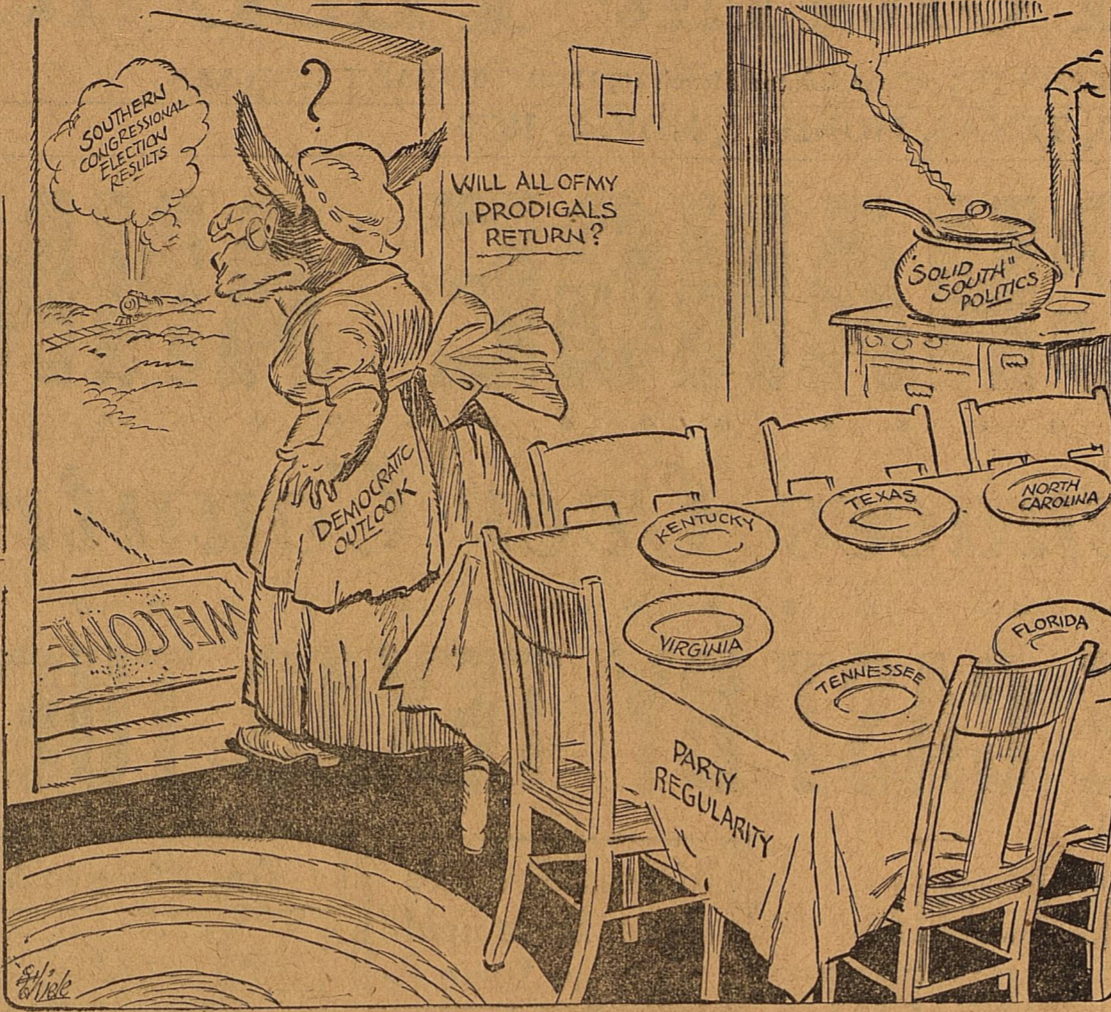

Doubtless this plan is not letter-perfect. But it is a good thing to study for the simple reason that it dissects a large-scale relief program and shows just what it could be interpreted into in terms of dollars and cents for each community.

Demos and GOP Chiefs Discuss the Elections

By SENATOR SIMEON D. FESS Chairman of The Republican National Committee

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The country is safe under Republican administration. The people have testified to that by keeping the party in control for 70 years, except for the eight years of Cleveland and the eight years of Wilson.

During the period of Republican control the nation has reached its high level where the comforts of life are more generally distributed among the people than at any time or in any place. This is largely due to the policy of the Republican party in maintaining the purchasing power of the American people.

We have the greatest production and distribution organization among our people that can be found in the world. Its beneficial results have been felt by the masses rather than by the classes. In the last eight years the deposits in the banks have increased 45 per cent while savings have increased 80 per cent. The loan association operations have increased more than 300 per cent. During the same period more than $36,000,000,000 has been invested in well equipped American homes. There are three and one-half times as many laboring people owning homes in this country than there are home owners, large and small, in the country ranking next in that respect.

One barometer of the country's welfare is life insurance. In 1920 there were 43 billion dollars invested in insurance. Last year the figure was 103 billions.

What has the Republican party had to do with all this? We have gone on the policy that the purchasing power of the people can only be preserved by full employment of labor at a high rate wage scale, for 85 per cent of the purchasing power is found in that channel.

The Republican Party's Principles Republican policy has been based on these principles:

- 1. A high wage scale is a sound economic principle. 2. Full employment in American industry of American labor at a high wage scale can only be sustained by a protective tariff system.

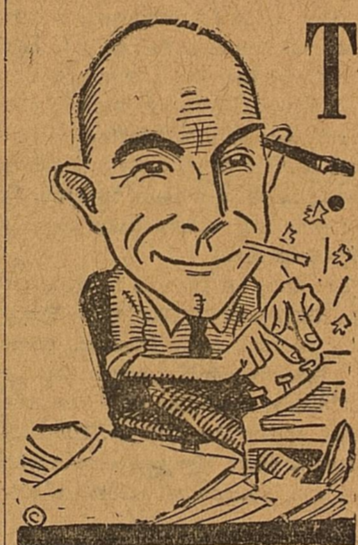

McKinley was right when he said: "If Europe were to send goods to the United States to be given away and those goods were to displace American high paid labor, the gift would be too high in price."

The new tariff has not had a thing to do with the present depression, which set in long before the new tariff was ever heard of.

The Democratic party favors a competitive tariff—competition between American goods and foreign goods. That's just what we won't stand for. We won't stand for cheap foreign labor driving American goods from their markets and American men from their jobs. The Democrats drew a sharp distinguishing line between the two major parties when they came out for a competitive tariff in the presidential campaign in 1928.

Opposed to Entangling Alliances Another principal difference between the parties has been in respect to foreign policy. We stand for co-operation with all foreign countries, in the interest of peace, without involving ourselves in entangling alliances in foreign affairs. The Democrats lately have been getting away from advocacy of such alliances, but the Republican party has consistently opposed them.

There is no doubt that the president today is the most outstanding leader for world peace. The Republican party is solidly behind him. He has done more in securing reduc-

If the bird who wrote that letter is funny, I hereby resign and resolve never to attempt a wise crack. I wouldn't reprint his letter even if it had a few good points. I think too much of our Linotype operators. And then I have a little regard for the readers and for the newspaper, although I'll admit I did reprint those letters from A. N. Onymous a few months ago. It seems that this latest correspondent went crazy after betting on S.M.U. and became Shelley shocked. There were better men than "him" that got shocked by that game.

ANOTHER VIEW BY JOUETT SHOUBE Chairman of the Democratic National Executive Committee

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The Democratic party bases its appeal for control of Congress upon the complete failure of the Hoover administration with its large majorities in both the House and the Senate and upon its own record as a strong, active minority party which has consistently fought to save the country from the disastrous effects of Republican mistakes.

The most useful purpose of a minority party is to point out the mistakes of the opposition and to keep the country informed of the way its affairs are being directed. No minority party can put through a substitute program. To do that it must become the majority party.

During the legislative progress of the tariff bill the Democratic party tried to correct the worst of its enormities. It made an honest effort to evolve a better legislative measure than the House bill or the one finally passed.

The present Republican administration was elected by a very large plurality of the American people. With its majority of 15 in the Senate and more than 100 in the House, it must be held responsible for the legislation which Congress has enacted.

Farm Relief and the Tariff Only two features of Republican legislation can be considered impressive or important—the so-called farm relief measure and the tariff. The farm relief measure has proven utterly ineffective insofar as concerns any beneficial effects.

The tariff act has added a tremendous additional burden to the living costs of the American people and has aroused bitter antagonism among foreign nations, with the result that our foreign trade has gone into a very serious decline. It was thrust upon the country in the midst of the worst and most widespread business depression which we have had in a great many years. Even had there been an excuse for the measure under any conditions, certainly it was wholly without justification at such a juncture.

There has been an age-long fermentation between the party believing in government for the benefit of the few, as does the Republican party, and the party which be-

Only Woman Member of Canada's House of Commons Deplores Diversion of Trade as Result of High Tariff Battle—She Loses Votes Because of Friendliness of U. S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The United States has elected a dozen women to Congress in the last 14 years. Canada's House of Commons has had but one. She was elected in 1921 and has been re-elected three times since.

In the last election she had a comparatively narrow squeak because she and her party stood for very friendly relations with the United States. Canada has been rather sour toward the United States since the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill was enacted, and the lady saw her last previous majority dwindle from 1842 votes to 246.

Her name is Miss Agnes Campbell MacPhail, and she was here the other day to attend a meeting of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. Your correspondent talked with her and considered her rather a superior person. She is somewhat less than middle-aged.

"Our stupidity of 1911 when we rejected reciprocity has now been equalled by your country's stupidity in passing its new tariff act," she said. "You know, we have always been your best customer, and in the last calendar year bought nearly a billion dollars worth of goods from you."

"Canada is now diverting her trade just as you'd divert a stream of water. It will take a long time to overcome the bad effects to this situation. Trade naturally flows north and south on this continent, and here we are interfering with the natural process, acting as if trade were undesired. It may result in bringing up an economic union in the British commonwealth."

Once Taught School Before she was elected from Grey County, Ontario, she taught school.

prospects for cleaning up the district, and then I hope the Bulldogs won't be through. After beating Pecos and Stanton, unless Wink beats Stanton, we will have the south half of the district to beat; and I'll admit frankly that I hope it's McCamey. Then we will take on Snyder or some district winner to the east; and it's a cinch the Bulldogs are not going to let that district go into the next frame again this year. We have been building up a team for just such a job as I have outlined so far, and I want to see the Bulldogs go right on through until about eight districts are won by Midland. But, on some vacant date, I'm with some of the boys around town who would like to see the Bulldogs take on a Class A game. There was never a better victim than Big Spring. They are playing Class A football and have a tough team, but I'd like to make them a nice little guarantee to come over here, and if they do, watch the Bulldogs hold them scoreless. I believe we can beat them by one touchdown. When we do, we have given the Class A teams something to watch for the next season or two while we are getting too tough for the Class B teams in this district. If you agree with me, write me a letter and say something about it.

What are women doing with the vote? "Progress by women in politics seems slow, but they're really doing well," said Miss MacPhail. "The only comparison I can think of dates back to 1832 in Great Britain when the workmen of the country first got the vote. It was almost a generation before they took any apparent interest in it. We're not proceeding as slowly as that. Women are studying national and international affairs, digging deeply into them, which means that they're seriously interested."

Your correspondent almost forgot to ask this Canadian congresswoman about prohibition and the Canadian systems of handling liquor.

She thinks there are problems infinitely more worth worrying about. "But," she said, "I can see that the same thing which led to the end of prohibition in our provinces is now working against it here. The feeling grew that the government was interfering with us and depriving us of our personal liberties. And the government was a bit lax in enforcement. Lax enforcement brought our prohibition into disrepute.

"I doubt that the thing we have in Ontario is the solution. They call it 'government control,' but it should be called 'government sale.' It isn't 'control' when people are able to buy more liquor than they can possibly drink."

Then one day 400 farmers—all men—got together at a convention of the United Farmers and nominated her for Parliament. She became a leader in the farm bloc at Ottawa, which now has about 25 members, and such reports as we get in this country indicate that she is regarded as a very able citizen. She specialized on economics and agriculture, international peace and good will.

"I found my first session very trying," said Miss MacPhail. "There was deep resentment over the fact that a woman had at last broken in. But the fellowship of the Commons has since been extended to me, and it is a precious thing."

She has tried to get a government Department of Peace, without much help, and still hopes for active official co-operation from some government agency with the peace movement.

"Talk Peace, Gird for War" "Our governments talk peace and spend their money for war," she says. "All forward, liberal things are now suffering in a period of reaction, partly caused by depression. Things look gloomy all over the world. But the tendency toward human unity, though slow, is continuous. We started in the days when certain tribes first became friendly, and now we have come to the point where nations recognize their interdependence."

What are women doing with the vote? "Progress by women in politics seems slow, but they're really doing well," said Miss MacPhail. "The only comparison I can think of dates back to 1832 in Great Britain when the workmen of the country first got the vote. It was almost a generation before they took any apparent interest in it. COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Election Pamphlets Distributed by W. C. T. U.

Two thousand pamphlets concerning the general election held over the United States tomorrow and the prohibition issue are being distributed today in Midland by committees from the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

A statement from a leaf written by Miss Stella C. Stimson, national director of Christian citizenship, reads:

"Plato, wise three thousand years ago concerning government, said, 'The punishment of the wise, who refuse to take part in government, is to live under the government of bad men.' President Coolidge more aptly put it, 'Those who will not govern themselves will be governed.' Another great student of government, President Wilson, said, 'Patriotism consists of some very practical things. It is patriotic to learn what the facts of our national life are and to face them with candor.'"

Another pamphlet reads: "You are Uncle Sam." Will you forward in the progress toward a drinkless nation or will you go into the liquor business? Will you send youth money may go for booze?"

BIG SCENE OF "BILLY THE KID" MARKED BY UNCANNY COINCIDENCE

It is a strange coincidence that the same day King Vidor was filming his biggest scene in the historic western story, "Billy the Kid," at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, the last surviving member of the posse which captured the real Billy at Stinking Springs, New Mexico, died at Douglas, Arizona.

Jim East, Sheriff Pat Garrett and two others captured Billy Bonney and returned him to Lincoln. This incident is recreated in Vidor's talking picture, also "The Kid's" subsequent sensational escape from jail, the melodramatic three-day ride of the McSween home at Coln. John Mack Brown plays Billy and Wallace Beery is Sheriff Pat Garrett.

This stirring picture, with its action centering in New Mexico, only a short distance from Midland, opened at the Ritz theatre yesterday, playing to one of the largest crowds of any picture this season. It is scheduled for two days only, and will close its engagement tonight.

MAKE IT YOURSELF

Exceedingly useful to the girl friend or neighbor who cooks is a Christmas gift of a couple of kitchen holders, sewed onto a tap to put around your neck, in the way children wear their mittens.

To make such a gift, use some appealing material for the outside covering, perhaps a glazed chintz print in gay tone, one that washes. Make the outside covers in the shape of envelopes that button or snap shut, so they can come off for laundering. The inside should be made of some material thick enough so heat will not penetrate.

A few squares of an old blanket, woolen material, cotton flannel or any worsted pieces would do. Cut the squares the same size, to fit your envelope. Then stitch them together, making them a neat filler. Slip into the envelope and button shut and sew one of them to each end of a piece of colored tape long enough to go around your shoulders and reach out to lift pots and pans. Any housewife will welcome this inexpensive and useful gift.

ONE WILL ALWAYS STAND OUT

Whole-hearted, natural, real!

EQUALLY genuine is the response of smokers to Chesterfield's satisfying goodness, its wholesome smoothness. No one ever has to "acquire" a taste for Chesterfields. You don't have to learn to like them. Smokers take to their pleasing flavor instinctively... and here's why: MILDNESS — the entirely natural mildness of tobaccos that are without harshness or bitterness. BETTER TASTE — Such as only a cigarette of wholesome purity and better tobaccos can have.

MIDLAND PROPOSING THAT PECOS COME HERE ARMISTICE DAY

CASH PROPOSITION IS MADE OVER TELEPHONE

Once more Midland is likely to see played here a football game that is scheduled to be played elsewhere. Out there on Lackey field Armistice day will be played the Midland-Pecos game, if negotiations started this morning at the high school are accepted by Pecos.

Only twice this season have the high school taken a journey, that of the first game of the season with El Paso and the second—on the grazing reserve of the Stanton Bisons. Teams have been easy to convince that a game on the soft grass of the Midland field is far more thrilling than on the barren grids of other fields in this half of the district area.

Possibly the main reason, however, why teams are accepting with alacrity the invitation to come here rather than play host in their own villages is found in the possibilities for being the first conqueror of Midland in the new field. Only one team crossed the Midland goal line in Lackey field. White, Big Lake back, got away with a thrilling run from kick-off that measured about 83 yards. Colorado, Odessa and Wink found no encouragement towards those teams getting within hailing distance of the supreme marker.

It would be a double holiday for Midland Armistice day if Pecos would come here. Don't think Midland won't go over to Pecos for the game if Pecos refuses to come here, however. The Bankhead highway would be dotted with automobiles going there for the game which means a great deal regarding future standing in the district classification. But it would be better to play the game on the fastest gridiron and before the greater crowd, which undoubtedly would attend in Midland where seating accommodations are ready for 1200.

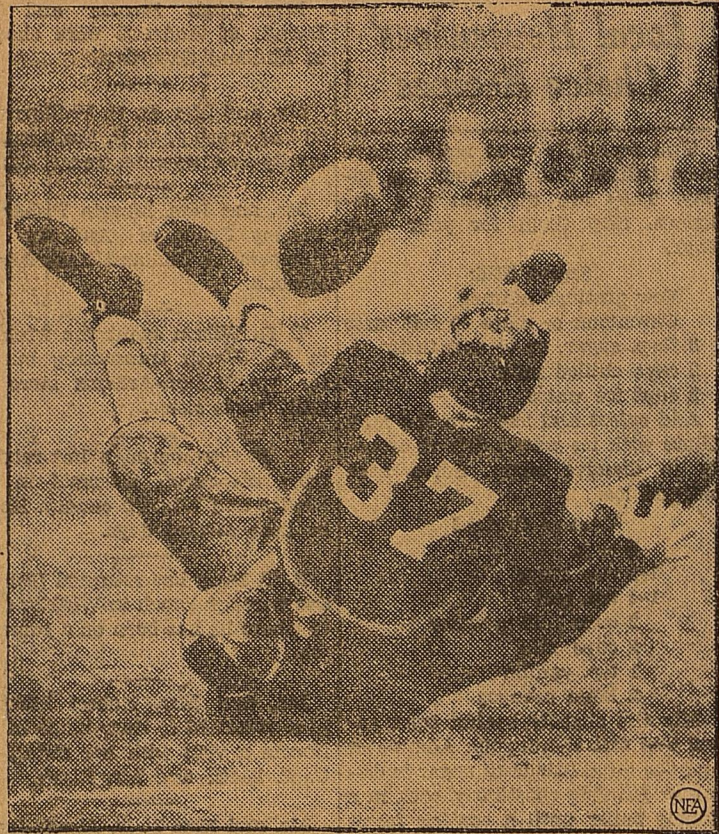

As the matter now stands, Midland and Stanton are on top of the huddle. Midland has not lost a game, neither has Stanton. The leaders played a scoreless tie at Stanton earlier in the season, but neither lost out in percentage. There is no rule that specifies a half win, half loss for tie games in this district. Pecos was beaten last week by Stanton, and the week before saw Wink go down before the determined onslaught of the Pecos eleven. Midland dealt herself an ace from the bottom of the deck Saturday, throwing Wink clear out of the shuffle, 39-0. Odessa has not been able to get going, losing to Midland and Stanton.

So it appears Midland is due to go right on to championship of the eastern half of the district if Coach Rufus Hyde's Stanton eleven does not heave a wrench into the wheels. Hyde makes his men fight like no one else, but his club does not rate with the Midland club for strength, far from it. Midland, all season potentially better than Stanton by about three or four touchdowns, fell into a deadlock with the Buffs at Stanton just because of that club's fight when Midland had none. If the two meet again and the same fight on the Buff club is thrown against the Midland team when it does not want to scrap any more than it did on that day at Stanton, then Stanton will do what it deserves—beat the proud Bulldog huskies. But, if Midland does what it was capable of doing in the first game, plays football, Stanton would fall under an avalanche of points.

In the other half of the district affairs are not quite so lucid. McCamey is out of the way unless the committee at Austin decides otherwise, which will come up for discussion this afternoon. Marfa, apparently, is destined to win unless McCamey does.

Gentlemen, Be Seated!

Here's what you might call a complete upset of Georgetown University hopes. For when Scalzi, the Georgetown quarterback, was all but clear of his Western Maryland opponents during the game at Baltimore, he was brought down with such a thud that the ball, as this action photo shows, bounded into the air. Even at that, Pincura, the Western Maryland tackler, received most of the punishment. But Western won, 10-0.

CAPTAIN HAWKS TO TRY ANOTHER SPEED TEST SOON

The spectacular speed team of the skies—Captain Frank M. Hawks and his sky racer—is out for another record.

Already holder of a dozen flying marks, the last eight of which have been established within four months in the fastest commercial airplane in the world, Captain Hawks and the plane are now aiming at the 14-hour record for the 1400 mile flight from New York to Havana. The present record is held by the veteran monoplane Columbia, which was piloted by the late Wilmer Stultz.

Announcement of the new flight has been made. The takeoff on what is intended as a seven-hour journey will occur as soon as formalities with the Cuban government are completed and weather is favorable. The flight is expected to be made within the next several days.

The trip will be via Columbia, S. C. and Miami. Captain Hawks hopes to cover the 600 miles to Columbia in less than three hours, the 550 miles from Columbia to Miami in about two hours, and the 250 mile hop from Miami in about an hour and fifteen minutes. For difficult navigation, especially over the Florida Everglades, Captain Hawks will use a new artificial horizon which supplements his special array of pioneer engine and navigational indicators.

The impending flight confirms recent reports that Captain Hawks was planning a mystery hop, and follows closely a series of high speed tests in which the noted pilot has established a half dozen records aside from the flights of last August on which the famous team first crossed the country in 14 hours, 50 minutes, 43 seconds, and returned in 12 hours, 25 minutes, 3 seconds. The plane has averaged as high as 272 miles an hour or four and a half miles a minute.

The transcontinental flights and the more minor trips were made to demonstrate the feasibility of the Texaco 13 as a high speed ship, said Captain Hawks, commenting on his coming flight, "and the proposed jump to Havana is an effort to prove further that this plane and other fast aircraft can be adapted for commercial use after a reasonable amount of the pioneer flying."

Lions Hear Boone In Last Sermon

By Harry L. Haight
As fine a bunch of Lions as you could find in a ten days trot went in a body yesterday morning to hear Leslie Boone, its president, scale great oratorical heights in his farewell sermon in the Methodist church. With the exception of a few who were out of town practically the entire membership was there. A few Rotarians got out of bed in time to go along with the Lions and seemed proud of the opportunity to be seen in such good company. Lions Ulmer and Baker, who sort of run things in the ushering line at the Methodist church, marked off the class room opening into the body of the church, for their exclusive use. They filled that room to running-over and this scribe, being a Lion, is vain enough to imagine that their presence had an inspirational influence on the preacher. Part of the 7th verse, chapter 22, of the Book of Revelations supplied Reverend Boone his theme and in it he saw prophesies fulfilled and still greater things yet to come. It is doubtful if a greater sermon could have been preached from the same text.

A special musical feature was the solo part in the anthem "Cast Thy Burden," sung by Mrs. Roy Parks whose interpretation of it was deeply impressive. Lion Ned Watson and his orchestra supplied several numbers in full keeping with the solemnity of the occasion. The choir, under the leadership of Mrs. Marion F. Peters, revealed remarkable ability. This writer is much averse to an ing-over and this scribe, being a Lion, is vain enough to imagine that their presence had an inspirational influence on the preacher. Part of the 7th verse, chapter 22, of the Book of Revelations supplied Reverend Boone his theme and in it he saw prophesies fulfilled and still greater things yet to come. It is doubtful if a greater sermon could have been preached from the same text.

U. of Texas Has a "Yes" Man on Payroll

AUSTIN, Nov. 3.—B. B. Neans, policeman at the entrance to the University of Texas, will never be accused of being a "yes" man. His chief job consists of saying "no" to students who want permission to drive their automobiles on the campus during class hours. Mr. Neans has occupied his position as "campus cop" for five years.

Only a limited number of permits are issued for parking privileges on the campus during 7:45 o'clock in the morning and 4:45 o'clock in the afternoon, and no one, regardless of his mission, is granted permission to drive through the campus when classes are changing and students are moving about between one building and another.

C C DRIVE OUTLINED

BIG SPRING, Nov. 3.—A drive for new members for the Big Spring chamber of commerce has been outlined according to Carl Blomshield chairman of the membership committee. A prospect list of more than 100 firms has been compiled. Letters from influential citizens inviting the prospects to join the organization are being sent prior to the solicitation by the membership committee. It is estimated by the committee that the prospect list should increase the chamber's budget by $3000. Most of the prospects represent new business concerns who have come into the city since the last membership drive. Members in the chamber of commerce is continuous the same as memberships in the church, lodge or other organizations and does not require a renewal of memberships each year.

HUMBLE REF. CO. CLOSES McCAMEY PLANT FOR TIME

McCAMEY, Nov. 3.—The decision by the Humble Refining Company to suspend the operation of the local cracking plant indefinitely is resulting in shifts and discharges at the big McCamey institution affecting approximately 80 per cent of the refinery's payroll.

Only about forty men will be needed to continue operations unaffected by the move.

W. H. Barber remains as superintendent. J. L. Finley, general manager of Humble Refineries, was here this week from Houston headquarters going over the plans with Superintendent Barber.

It is understood that employees who have been on Humble payroll for two years or more, but who are not required locally, are to be taken care of in other operating centers of the company.

As a result of this decision, many families are planning to move from here at early date.

The company has been giving a week's notice prior to changes.

As to how long the curtailment program would be effective Mr. Barber replied "indefinitely."

This decision does not have anything to do with the other departments of the Humble Co. which have headquarters for this territory at McCamey and the company will yet have more than two hundred men on their payroll here. These departments include the pipe line, production, scouting and engineering.

Voting--

Republicans do not appear to have made any great progress with their campaign for Col. William E. Talbot of Dallas against Ross Sterling of Houston, democratic nominee for governor. Beside their state ticket, the republicans have county tickets in El Paso, Dallas, and a number of candidates for United States congress.

An earnest campaign for four proposed state constitutional amendments has been made in the face of decided opposition expressed to some. The right asked by 17 West Texas counties to tax lands owned by the University of Texas for local purposes has precipitated much discussion. The university, in another amendment, seeks the right to enlarge its powers of investment of permanent funds derived from lands. The amendment is being urged as a means to prevent delay in a building program for the university.

Black's Opinion
W. A. Black, single tax advocate and former member of the house of representatives, asserts that the proposal to tax university lands is unsound. He has dug up records to show that in five of the counties having the greatest amount of university lands, privately owned land is taxed less than 1 1/4 cents an acre, except Andrews county, where the tax is 1 3/4 cents. Pecos county, with 2,792,799 acres other than university land, has a tax of only 1.17 cents an acre, Black says.

Past records show Texans loathe to change the constitution, and most of the changes have been necessary ones to provide additional funds to care for Confederate veterans.

Since the present state constitution was adopted in 1876 there have been 106 amendments proposed. Forty have been adopted in the more than half a century. Sixty-four have been defeated. Two never got to the polls.

Patches Are Threadbare

By PAUL BOLTON, Associated Press Writer.

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 3. (AP)—Patches for spots in the state constitution which have been worn thin by the passing years will be offered voters of the state tomorrow in five amendments, dealing with four subjects, submitted to a referendum by the 41st legislature.

The legislature, by large majorities in virtually every case, agreed that these patches were essential to the most efficient conduct of business. Whether the electorate has been convinced is problematical, inasmuch as past votes on constitutional amendments have indicated a reluctance to change the state's basic law.

When the constitution was formed, some 50 years ago, its writers did not foresee that oil would be found on parts of two million acres of ground in West Texas which was ceded to the University of Texas. They did not foresee the enormous revenues which would accrue to the state university as a result, the problems which would arise in investing that money, the hardships of the counties forced to support the land without tax money in return.

Neither did the basic lawmakers foresee a day when more than 60 days would be required to attend to two years' legislative work, or more than nine months required to dispose of legal questions presented to the court of last resort in the state.

Old Times Change
But these changes were so apparent to the 41st legislature that it saw fit to embody what it considered the needs of today into the constitutional proposals.

Probably given the widest publicity was that proposing a drastic revision of legislative procedure. It would double the length of the legislative session, hoping by that means to obviate the need for special sessions which in recent years have been necessary in order that all legislation might be disposed of. Likewise, the pay of members of the legislature would be doubled, on the theory that $5 a day is not a proper salary for a man who must pass judgment on proposals involving millions of dollars.

By obviating special sessions, and by cutting the mileage allowance—travel is not so expensive now as it was fifty years ago—sponsors of the

TEXAS U. DOES NOT APPRECIATE GIFTS OF ROADS

AUSTIN, Nov. 3.—An unheralded gift to the University of Texas, that of improved highways now under construction through its lands in four Texas counties, is cited by proponents of the university land amendment as compelling motive for passage of the amendment allowing the state to pay for the university its share of the cost of this improvement. More than a half million dollars is being expended at this time for better highways through university acreage, and another county soon will begin contributing another quarter of a million, according to data compiled from county judges of 17 counties where the university holdings are 2,000,320 acres.

Crane county without a mile of paved roads completed has 32.35 miles under construction at this time, with 8.76 miles through university lands. Similarly Hudspeth county has 35.30 miles under construction with 65.80 miles completed. It will have 20.29 miles through university lands. Culberson has 6.03 miles paved through university land on highway number 1, and Upton county now is building about 11 miles through the university land. Crockett county, preparing to spend $1,500,000 for road improvements, will devote a part of that to the university through 11 miles of its acreage at something near $20,000 per mile.

Five of these 17 counties haven't a foot of paved or all weather highway, and the remainder in the spirit of progress each have completed a paving program of from 12 to 135 miles, according to figures submitted by the state highway department.

The university's tax exempted lands get the benefit of good roads without paying a cent, according to the judges, who declare the university is represented in every sitting of the commissioners court, in every bond issue voted by the people, and in ever dollar paid the state in taxation. Under a system of taxation whereby land bears the burden of the cost of improvements they hold that the university, if it is to hold land, should share and share alike with the private land owner, as adoption of the land amendment on Nov. 4 would permit.

Here's a table showing the progress of university-land-afflicted counties with a highway program:

Investment Explained
AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 3. (AP)—That troublesome provision in the proposed constitutional amendment regarding authorization for the board of regents to issue building bonds was explained by R. L. Batts, chairman of the university board of regents.

Judge Batts explained that before this provision could be invoked it would be necessary not only to have the consent of the board of regents, but the legislature and the governor as well.

"Some objection has been raised," he told The Associated Press, "to the provision authorizing investment in dormitory and other obligations of the board of regents. The authority for the board to issue any character obligation can come alone from the legislature. Therefore any investment in such obligations will require the concurrence of the legislature, the governor, and the board, and there is therefore no danger of the dissipation of the permanent fund."

"We must adopt an amendment to our constitution or lose in the course of a few years many millions of dollars."

Judge Batts said that if the amendment were adopted it would be possible to complete the projected physical plants of the University of Texas and Texas A. and M. within seven years.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
The lesson-sermon subject was "Everlasting Punishment" in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, November 2.

The golden text was from Proverbs 28:13. "He that covereth his sins shall not prosper; but whose confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy."

Included in the service were the following passage from the Bible: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. Error excludes itself from harmony. Sin is its own punishment. . . The sinner makes his own hell by doing evil, and the saint his own heaven by doing right. . . The way to escape the misery of sin is to cease sinning. There is no other way."

The river Jordan is about 200 miles long and varies in width from 100 to 200 feet.

STUDIO HERE GETS RECOGNITION

A silver trophy, emblematic of a winning photograph submitted among five from the South, was received this morning by the Prothro studio from the International Photographic association.

The photograph submitted by the Prothro studio showed an intimate pose of Curtis Nance's baby, Pecos. It was adjudged one of the most excellent studies ever rated by the international body.

The trophy will be kept here several days, then sent on to the other four photographers who are qualified to exhibit it.

POULTRY CULTURE Making Money

Proportionately, the raising of poultry has brought more profit this year than most other farm operations—and this in spite of the low prices generally prevailing, according to reports emanating from the Middle Western states. As a consequence, farmers of the central portion of the country are planning to pay more attention to their flocks than ever before.

They are being advised by poultry authorities not to be frightened by the present season of low prices. They are being urged not to do as generally has been done in the past—Stock up heavily after a good season and turn loose of everything after a season of low prices, such as the present.

A government bulletin states that "extreme reduction does not appear to be necessary" and warns that it might be "a mistake to reduce poultry numbers radically now."

Flock owners are being informed that the best way to cut down flocks for the fall and winter is to cull out rigidly all "boarders," or non-producers. It is pointed out that

ICE COMPANY TO WORK MORE HELP THAN LAST YEAR

Fifty per cent more employment will be given at the ice plant of the Southern Ice & Utilities company this winter than last, and while the present warm weather lasts the plant will have 75 per cent more employees than at the same time last year.

Midland people themselves made this possible, according to Kenneth E. Ambrose, district manager. Thrifty people bought contracts for ice during November, December, January and February, which kept more employees on the payroll and at the same time saved them money. Ambrose is continuing the bargain contract sales.

The ice plant has been authorized to expend several hundred dollars in improvements and this work will start shortly. These expenditures will assist in keeping more employees.

Many Midland merchants are notifying their employees they are not to be discharged and are not to get salary cuts. They are giving their employees this assurance so as to relieve them of the fear of having no jobs, and thereby enable them to spend more freely.

There is no such thing as a poor poultry season when birds of real laying ability are retained and fed, housed and cared for in the proper manner.

The authorities declare that one sure way of realizing a profit from farm poultry is to increase the egg production of the entire flock. By obtaining good stock in the spring to replace the old hens, the productivity of the entire flock can be raised.

Hatcheries themselves furnish the quick and logical method of building up the farm flock to a profitable egg-production level, particularly since the leading ones of the country are organized under the slogan "Hatchery Chicks for Greater Profits," to insure better flocks and square dealing.

Higher egg production per hen, and, at the proper time, increased size of farm flocks offer solution of the farm poultry problem, regardless of prices.

STRAUSS CONDUCTS Own Composition

The "Dance of the Seven Veils" from the Strauss opera "Salome" played by the State Opera orchestra of Berlin with Richard Strauss, the composer, conducting, is listed among the record releases of the Hall of Fame, International, series for October. It is this one act opera that created such a sensation when it was first played abroad. In America it is recognized as one of Mary Garden's favorites and Jeriza has just finished singing the role on the WEST COAST MAKING QUITE AS GREAT A SENSATION AS SALOME, AS THE OPERA ITSELF MADE WHEN FIRST PRESENTED.

It is the conductor-composer Strauss who is also at the baton in the "Symphony in G Minor No. 40" by Mozart which is released in seven parts complete by Brunswick. This is also played by the State Opera orchestra of Berlin. The "Twin Brothers Overture" by Schubert fills the odd side of the final of the four records contained in this album. This Symphony is also played by the Opera orchestra, Berlin-Charlottenburg under the direction of Alois Melichar.

One of the finest orchestral reforms of the current month in the form of records is Moussorgsky's picturesque "Night on a Bare Mountain." It is given expression by the Orestre De L'Association Des Concerts Lamoureux of Paris with Albert Wolff conducting.

The Guarneri String Quartette lends variety to the current foreign release hit with the Nocturne movement from Bordon's "Quartette D Major," in two parts.

19 BOMBERS TO ENTER RACE FOR A SILVER CUP

FORT CROCKETT, GALVESTON, Nov. 3. (UP).—Nineteen pilots of the Third Attack group, flying the regulation bomber plane, the A-3B, will compete in the third annual trophy race to be held over a 120-mile course here Nov. 22.

Pursuit and observation planes from Kelly field will fly down for the event, and may participate in the aerial exhibition bombers and pursuit planes stage on the day of the race. Paramount and Fox Movietone News will take scenes of the event, which is an annual spectacle to aviation fans in Texas.

The winner of the race will be awarded the Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick trophy. The race will be flown over a four-cornered course. One of the pylon control points will be located near the flying field at Fort Crockett, and another near the bombing range facing the gulf. The other control points have not yet been located.

The A-3B has a wing area of 354 square feet, and weighs 4,000 pounds, including armament. Its cruising speed is 115 miles per hour, with a high speed of 140 miles per hour. The plane carries 350 pounds of small bombs and six .30 caliber machine guns, two of which are mounted on the lower wings, two forward of the pilot, and two in the rear seat to be operated by the gunner.

WILL STOP CHINKS
LAREDO, Texas, Nov. 3. (P)—The Mexican government is planning to take aggressive steps to stop the heavy entry of Chinese into that country through Lower California, through co-operation with the American immigration officers guarding the California boundary.

Problems of immigration affecting both the United States and Mexico, and particularly the heavy immigration of Chinese into Mexico, mostly clandestinely, are being considered in Mexico City by a joint commission representing both countries.
