MIDLAND'S POLITICAL READING

Pursuant to the policy begun this year by the United States Senate of changing their billing of attractions week by week, which has been found more popular than the former long runs of standard favorites on their boards, the Naval Affairs Committee was living up to its reputation as a "barker" when it announced the putting on shortly of the second part of the continued thriller, "The Pirates of Geneva," in which the well-known ventriloquist, public speaker and quick change artist, William B. Shearer, has the leading part. Midland readers of capital news are finding this one of the best of the new type mystery stories yet produced on the Capitol Hill boards. Critics who have been allowed to see the scenario of the skit say that it is not until the last scene of the last act that the spell-bound spectators can be sure as to which is hero and which is villain. Midland drama fans are anxiously awaiting the opening of the next part of this offering.

DON'T BLAME THE "OTHER FELLOW"

Whenever you get irritated at the reckless antics of some other motorist in the stream of traffic, you might bear in mind the remark recently made in a radio address of Major O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion.

Major Bodenhamer said that practically all of us, at one time or another, are guilty of precisely those failings that we are so quick to notice in the other fellow.

You resent it when another driver cuts in ahead of you; have you never done the same thing? You resent it when another driver turns his bright lights on and dazzles you; didn't you ever do that? Check over your driving habits and you'll probably find that you commit practically all of the sins that irritate you so when the other fellow commits them.

A TIP FOR THE WASHINGTON LADIES

The Prince of Wales had dinner the other evening with a group of England's greatest war heroes—the men who hold the famous Victoria Cross.

There are a lot of things one could say about this gathering, but what we want to remark about is the extreme informality that characterized the seating arrangements. The prince sat between a major general and a buck private. Officers and enlisted men rubbed elbows everywhere. There wasn't any worry about precedence or importance.

Contrast that, if you please, with the scrambling that goes on in Washington when a state dinner is in progress. If the Prince of Wales can sit next to an army private without losing his high position, the wives of Washington politicians ought to be able to take the seats that are given them without making such a full.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON.—In Washington, headquarters of the powerful lobby, home of the most watchful foes of the "power trust" and seat of such regulatory bodies as the Federal Trade and Federal Power commissions, the tobogganing of public utility shares on the New York stock market has been watched with intense interest.

Just as the utilities have led all other industries in the frequency of their appearances on newspaper front pages as a result of publicity methods and other manifestations of their effort to maintain high public service rates, so did they lead all the rest of the great rise on the stock market. And then they led the grand rout when the market crashed.

Price Is Way Down
A check on the first 14 such corporations that come to mind reveals that with one exception their stock is selling at less than half as high as their top mark for this year. Nearly all of these are holding companies.

A person who bought one share of each of these 14 concerns at their high mark would have invested $2628. Today his shares would be worth about $1150. Considering the fact that a very large number of people have bought these shares on margin, it's a sad, sad set of statistics.

Some of the experts down here who have been known to say mean things about the "power trust" and its financing methods from time to time are now hinting quite broadly that the huge holding companies set the pace for everyone else going up and then for everyone else going down. And that a choice collection of accumulated adverse news was perhaps the hand that gave the utility shares the push over the precipice.

But of course there could have been no such extensive deflation had it not been preceded by a period of inflation and frenzied speculation. Late last month Professor Irving Fisher reported that utilities, even after sharp September and early October declines, were selling at 25 1-2 times their earnings. But he held that greater earnings through future great savings and economies which were reasonably to be expected from recent utilities mergers justified this ratio.

Sales of Millions
For months the utilities had been selling millions of their shares, taking huge profits and building up large cash surpluses, some of which they lent on the call money market and which now stand them in good stead. Public service commissions are supposed to regulate utility stock, but as Professor William E. Mosher points out in "Electric Utilities," they have no control over the great holding companies that run the power industry.

Nevertheless the action of the Massachusetts Public Service commission in the Boston Edison Co. case, when it refused to stand for a four-for-one stock split-up, is thought by some observers to have been at least a minor factor in discouraging the utilities market. Other developments preceding the crash included the inquiry before the Federal Power commission into the Rocky Mountain Power Co.—a sub-subsidiary of Electric Bond & Share, the imminence of the sensational power-radio investigation promoted by Senator Couzens, the presence of the learned Senator Thomas J. Walsh on the Senate lobby investigating committee and the likelihood that he would look into the power lobby here which defeated his famous resolution, the insistence of the Federal Trade commission for more information in its investigation of utilities financing, publication of the so-called "secret memorandum" purporting to reveal designs on the integrity of the power commission and the work of Governor Roosevelt's joint committee to investigate utilities in New York.

Here are the market highs and lows for 1929 for the 14 companies mentioned above, as of a recent date: Electric Bond & Share 182-50, Cities Service, 68-20, North American 136-70, Commonwealth Southern 44-10, Consolidated Gas 182-85, Columbia Gas & Electric 140-52, Detroit Edison 285-180, Public Service of New Jersey 137-54, General Electric 405-184, American & Foreign Power 199-50, American Power & Light 175-45, American Telephone & Telegraph 310-193, Pacific Gas & Electric 98.49, Radio 114-26. Fractions are omitted.

NEW TIPS FOR BARBER SHOP

DALLAS, Texas.—(P)—Taking wrinkles out of neckties while the barber massages wrinkles out of the business man's face is the wrinkle recently adopted by barber shop negro boys in a Dallas hotel in a dive for more and better tips. When the customer gets out of the barber chair, his tie is handed to him, warm, fresh from the ironing board where it has been pressed. The heat of the tie usually is sufficient to obtain the larger tip desired.

MULE GREAT POLOIST

AUSTIN, Tex.—(P)—Dulce, a 16 year-old mule in the Cedar Valley community near here, has made most of the polo ponies in her neighborhood wish they had stayed on the farm.

In a polo game here recently, Dulce more than held her own with the other steeds. In fact she was the heroine of the match which her team won by a topheavy score.

Dulce had not been just an ordinary mule even before she took up polo, the latest diversion of the ranchers and cowboys in her district. She and her owner, A. C. Pope, had won several seat-roping championships.

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

The newspapers have carried too many stories of late about holocausts on deer hunts for me to be very crazy about leading the old rifle into the car and taking out to the country in search of the fleet-footed animals.

The ratio of deaths to the number of hunters is no doubt very small, but it would be my luck to be among the small group of those killed.

So I have decided to substitute the wild game of dominoes for the hunting of wild game unless all of the hunters have nigger-shooters.

It seems that such a death on a hunting trip gives a town a shock that hardly anything else can do. That is evidently due to the needless waste of life—seemingly so.

A healthy man starts out one day with a buoyant spirit, anticipating the many pleasures of a hunt. Then he is rushed back that night with a telling wound from either his or a friend's gun.

Such a thing is a most severe shock to the family of the dead man, but it is more trying on the friend who, perhaps through his carelessness, took the life of one whom he loved dearly. There is the person to whom grief is uppermost. There is the person who will brood for years—thinking what would have happened had he stayed at home that day or how different things would have been had he known for sure that a deer was moving the brush instead of a man.

My sympathy goes out to them all, but particularly does the accidental killer have it.

Conference with the U. S. Government Public Buildings Committee will be obtained for the Midland representative who attends the air mail hearing in Washington Nov. 25. The Midland Chamber of Commerce has received a letter from Congressman Claude B. Hudspeth's office stating that on request of Midland a conference would be arranged.

Officials of the Midland Chamber say they are not asking for the conference with the expectation of getting a Federal building as a direct result, but that such a conference will be one step further in the effort to get Midland a Federal building, and the conference can be held without additional expense while the Midland representative is in Washington on the other matter.

FLEET TURTLE PROFITABLE

PONCA CITY, Okla.—(UP)—The fastest thoroughbred turtle receives more money per distance traveled than his fleet brother of the turf, compilations of terrapin derby officials revealed here.

Whereas a Kentucky derby winner brings his master $100,000, or approximately $15 a foot traveled by the horse, the owner of the prize winning terrapin rewards his master $94 a foot. "Bobby Jones," prize winner of the 1929 terrapin classic at the 101 ranch here won $6,500 for his masters. He traveled 70 feet.

Great Tunnel Under English Channel May Be Constructed

IDEA IS NOW 172 YEARS OLD; 33 MILES

PARIS, Nov. 19.—(UP)—France hopes that when the delegates of five powers meet in London to reduce naval armaments, the British Admiralty may be persuaded that there will be no danger to England's isolation from the construction of a vehicular tunnel under the Channel.

As far as France is concerned, its law-maker stand ready to vote approval of the undertaking. The matter has been put squarely up to England, and only the shadow of the Admiralty falls over the scheme which, France contends, could wipe out England's unemployment problem in a week.

The French parliamentary committee handling the tunnel matter has been informed that a British parliamentary body is working, preparing a report to be ready by the end of the year, detailing the economic and financial possibilities of the giant tube.

There seems little doubt, according to information received in Paris, that Parliament will be in favor. But then the proposition will be turned over to the Army and Admiralty for study and a report. Only then will the matter return to Parliament where a bill will be prepared authorizing the building and financing of the tunnel.

Proposal 172 Years Old
French technicians have progressed very far and have plans prepared for the work as it would proceed from the French shore. They have made use of the plans which were adopted when part of the hole actually was bored twenty years ago.

The question of building the tunnel is nothing new. This year it is 127 years old, for it was in 1802 that Mathieu advanced the idea of a tunnel to permit horse-drawn stage coaches to travel from Paris to London.

Mathieu was followed by another French engineer, Thome de Gamond, who spent his family's fortune in sounding the Channel and in drawing pretty plans of a dozen different routes which the tunnel might take. In 1865 an English company carried out soundings.

The Nord railway, of France, made a real step towards the building of the hole by opening a pit at Sangatte and starting to dig in the general direction of England. Simultaneously, in 1882, the Submarine Channel Tunnel Co., Ltd., a subsidiary of the Southern Railway of England dug a mile-and-a-half-long gallery under the water on the British side.

Length of 33 Miles
It was then that British newspapers, led by the Times, opened with all their guns. The public was told that Britain would become a colony of some continental power and that foreign armies, not week-end tourists, would come out the British end of the tunnel.

The drillings already made show that the task would be an easy one. Technicians say that without forcing, the French and British crews could dig 20 yards of chalk a day, and after three years of effort the tunnels would meet under the Channel.

Although the Channel is only 20 miles wide at the point where the tunnel is to cross, its route is a winding one with spiral approaches to allow electric trains to pull heavy loads. Its total length is nearly 33 miles, but if completed, it would allow 120 trains to run between Paris and London, daily. On the Boulogne end, the London trains could be diverted to Berlin, Constantinople or Moscow and on to Siberia and Manchuria. Three hours would suffice to link the French and British capitals, the same time now taken by aeroplanes.

TEX-MEX AIR ROUTE

LAREDO, Texas.—(P)—Five passenger Bellanca airplanes with a speed of 140 miles per hour, and capable of making the trip in one day from Fort Worth to Mexico City, will be used in the Mexico City-Laredo passenger and airmail service to be established before January 1, 1930. That was the announcement by J. Santibanez Jeffre, president of the "Inter-mexicas de Transportes Aereos, S. A.," of Mexico City, and Alfred D. Chandler, treasurer of the Bellanca Aircraft Corporation, who were in Laredo.

Those officials came to Laredo to confer with Secretary Charles Munn of the Laredo Chamber of Commerce regarding the proposed Mexico City-Laredo airmail service soon to be established and to discuss airport facilities and the matter of designating Laredo as an international airport, and also, to gather meteorological data pertaining to the Laredo section.

"Dusty" Waller Invites Midland To Be Present At Big Hotel Opening Nov. 22

"Dusty" Waller, popular ex-manager of Hotel Scharbauer, El Paso's Hussman and New Mexico "dunde ranches," is now publicity manager for the Baker hotel chain, operating the following hostelries in the following towns and cities: Stephen F. Austin, Austin, Baker in Dallas, Goodhue in Port Arthur, Edson in Beaumont, Texas in Fort Worth, Thomas Jefferson in Birmingham and the Mineral Wells Baker hotel. Dusty wrote a letter to a staff member of the Reporter-Telegram, asking Midland people to attend the opening of the new hotel on Friday, Nov. 22. "Dusty" gave in his letter a description of the new hotel and told of the press member's banquet there. Part of the letter follows:

The new Baker is fourteen stories tall with a glassed in roof garden and ball room and observation on the roof. Within the hotel there is every conceivable service and accommodation that a guest could ask for. Beginning at the ground floor there is the coffee shop, the barber shop, a drug store, a telegraph office, four bowling alleys and stores of various kinds. Up on the main floor we find a huge pavilion where the beneficial mineral waters of the new Baker is served. This room is cheerfully furnished and decorated in gay colors. In the center is a beautiful fountain and pool with many varieties of odd fish. Hartz Mountain Canaries vie with each other in rolling out their festive songs. Adjoining the pavilion is the game room and the ladies parlor. A gift shop with its attractive wares is in one corner.

Passing into the main lounge we find another gaily appointed room. One entire side of this lounge are the huge French doors opening out on the promenade which runs around three sides of the hotel. These glass doors are covered with appropriate drapes. In the back of the lounge are the offices of the various service departments of the hotel. Including the room clerk's desk, the mail and information department, the cashier, the porter's and transportation offices and the telephone operators. Just behind these offices there is the automobile entrance where the motoring most complete library where guests can spend quiet and peaceful hours among the thousands of volumes of good books. The manager's offices and the auditor's offices are on the Mezzanine also.

On the next floor are two of the most modern bath houses, one for ladies and one for gentlemen. The bath houses have equipment and attendants that enable them to give the guest any kind of bath desired. Occupying the entire rest of this floor are the suites of offices of the leading doctors of Mineral Wells.

From the third floor on up you will find many types of guest rooms. Ranging from single rooms with shower baths thru the various sized sample rooms and on to the most elaborate suites of up to five rooms. The Baker offers room accommodations that will meet anyone's needs. Some of these suites have kitchenettes completely equipped. These kitchenette suites will enable the occupants to prepare their own meals in their apartments if they wish, or have all or part of the meal prepared by the chefs in the hotel kitchens and served to them in their apartment or they may dine in either the main dining room or the coffee shop.

On the property adjoining the hotel proper Mr. T. B. Baker has built a most gorgeous landscape garden and play ground. Tennis courts, a swimming pool and a sandy beach for bathers and a Tom Thumb golf course has been installed. And the children have not been forgotten for there is a wading pool there for the children only and there will be play ground equipment for them to amuse themselves on. An underground hallway connects the hotel proper with the dressing rooms at the swimming pool. Adjoining the swimming pool and also underground there is a large bottling plant where the mineral waters of the Baker wells will be bottled for distribution over the entire United States and Mexico. Four wells belonging to the hotel company supply the water.

FOX HUNTERS TO MEET

NACOGDOCHES, Tex.—(P)—The East Texas Fox Hunters' Association will hold its fall hunt near Aken Nov. 26-29. T. A. Harris of Center, president of the association, has announced. Aken is ten miles west of Center, in Shelby county, and 20 miles east of Nacogdoches. The camp is to be on the pine lands of the Frost Johnson Lumber company.

Miss Williams And Mr. Jowell Wed In Bride's Home Early This Morning

Quite simplicity characterized the wedding this morning at 8:30 of Miss Lillie B. Williams, daughter of F. L. Williams, and Jerry Holt Jowell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Jowell, in the home of the bride on West Texas Avenue.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. A. Boone, pastor of the First Methodist Church, in the presence of the families of the couple, and a few intimate friends.

The bride wore a suit of soft brown, with harmonizing accessories, and the groom a business suit of dark blue.

Immediately after the marriage, the couple left on a short honeymoon trip to Fort Worth, Austin, Waco and San Antonio. They expect to be gone a week and upon their return will be at home on the Steeple-O Ranch, of which Mr. Jowell is the manager.

Both of these young people are well known here, having lived in Midland practically all of their lives.

Mrs. Jowell for ten years has been pianist for and a teacher in the Sunday school of the Methodist Church, for about nine years, pianist for the Church itself.

She graduated from the high school in this city and was former society editor of the Midland Daily Telegram.

She did college work in the University of Colorado, at Boulder, Colo., and in the George Peabody College at Nashville, Tennessee, and had summer work at C. I. A. and Simmons University.

Mr. Jowell is also a graduate of Midland schools, and finished a course at Draughon's Business College in Abilene. Before taking charge of the Steeple-O ranch, he was employed by the Midland Hardware Company.

Mrs. Whitefield Hostess To Ladies' Aid

Circle One of the Ladies Aid of the Christian Church met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. B. F. Whitefield.

A profitable afternoon was spent, in piecing quilts and tacking comforts.

After the work hour, the hostess served dainty refreshments to the ten members present.

Next Monday, each member is to send a jar of fruit to the Church to be sent to the Juliette Fowler Orphan Home. Everyone who donates, is asked to label the jars they bring.

Attention is called to the H. & K. coffee which the Ladies Aid has for sale. Anyone who wishes to try this coffee, may phone their order to Mrs. G. H. Butler.

The next meeting of this organization will be next Monday afternoon with Mrs. Woodie Elkin.

Plans Made For City League Union Party

At a business meeting of the City League Union held last night at 7:30 in the home of Miss Alta Mae Johnson, plans were made to have a party the Friday after Thanksgiving for active and interested members. Miss Katherine Dunaway graciously offered the use of her home for this event.

Several other items of interest to the Union were discussed and it was decided to ask some of the older people who would be willing to take the leadership of the younger members, to join with them.

Belmont Bible Class Meets For Study

The lesson for the Belmont Bible Study Class Tuesday afternoon was a study of Exodus, when the Class met in the home of Mrs. J. S. Noland, on 1518 Lorraine Street, with eight members present.

This Class is taking the Introductory Bible Course and this is the second lesson studied.

Rev. L. A. Boone, new pastor of the Methodist Church, was the teacher for this lesson and led an interesting discussion on the chapter, in which all the members took part.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

Girls who are afraid of losing their jobs, afraid of striking out in new fields, afraid of making a break and leaving the small town for the big city, may be interested in this excerpt from Viola Cooper's book of adventure, "Windjamming in Fiji."

She writes: "Once I was full of fear. Then came a period when it was conquered."

"In my San Francisco days, when I was first a stenographer, I was in a rut, crouching, afraid of poverty and my own shadow. The walls were closing in upon me, ready to crush out the desire to be alive and free. So I severed all connections with the familiar, and went to New York, where I knew no one.

"A great many girls have done this, but not so many for this reason, deliberately to conquer fear of the unknown. I arrived in New York with $14 in my pocket—I shudder to think of the number of times my hand rolled as low as 10 cents. Often I ate supper at the automat, doughnuts and coffee. But I didn't eat both doughnuts. I would take one home and have it the next morning with a cup of hot water.

SAILOR'S LIFE

"The cure worked. I lost all sense of fear."

She lost it to the extent that later she and her friend, Jean Schoen, persuaded the gallant French captain of the old Bougainville to let them go as midshipmen from Vancouver to New Caledonia, the only girls on the last voyage of this famous old sailing vessel.

They sailed to the South Seas, saw strange people and strange customs; they saw cannibals and genuine Fiji Islanders. They became accustomed to the presence of large rats and large roaches. They ate strange food, and learned to do without the luxuries which even a 14-dollar-a-week stenographer considers her due.

FEAR OF COSMOS

And at sea, Miss Cooper recognized a new fear, which she describes:

"I have been in terror of the vastness of the ocean, the huge black sky above the awful silence of a night when every star is rendered futile by clouds, when sails made taut by a deathlike, obnoxious wind—the Bougainville slinks restlessly through inky water.

"Often when the brilliant moon rises with startling swiftness, when winds spring unexpectedly from nowhere, speeding us out of hours, when the sun explodes a mammoth paintbox of colors over our cosmos of sea and sky, pompously dragging today into the vast army of yesterday's, I am appalled.

"I cower in the realization that I am only a poor mite of humanity in the presence of forces too gigantic for the human mind to conceive—that an individual is no more than an insignificant puny collection of minute, impersonal particles. At that thought, a queer kind of fright comes over me, a sort of spiritual panic."

But a good breakfast will dispel that sort of fear.

Fear is the arch enemy of success, and of happiness, and the ever present defeat. If it can be conquered by starving in New York, or cruising in the South Seas, or by any radical change in thought or living, no sacrifice is too great to make for it or no price too high to pay for immunity.

Vaudeville Today At Ritz Theatre

Roberts & Co., presenting special vaudeville features, will appear at the Ritz Theatre tonight and Thursday.

Included in their varied program is "Sybil's Serpentina" the act beautiful, in which Sybil is dressed in 100 yards of silk. This act will be staged under special colored lights and other electrical effects.

Another of the features is the Magic Act, said to offer real entertainment and bring plenty of laughs.

China is a place where Moran and Mack would be generals in the army.

Now DON'T! Illustrations of women's faces and bodies with fashion advice. Text includes: 'If your face is full and fair - show your forehead - But if it isn't - Don't!', 'Should your neck be slender - wear your pearls high - but if it isn't - Don't!', 'Higher - wicker - longer skirts? - but if your lines are long - Don't!', 'Wear the lovely wide trimmer if your face is long - but if it isn't - Don't!', 'Use angled curves - but if you haven't - Don't!'.

YOUR CHILDREN by Olive Roberts Barton © 1929 by NEA Service Inc.

into play, namely our right to assert ourselves, our neighbors begin to wag their heads dubiously.

After all children have a right to assertiveness as they have to defense. That is why I don't think parents need to worry if they have "scrappy" children.

Not Pugnacity, Though They'll grow out of it, or rather they'll learn to control it. We don't want the world to be full of pugnacious people always seeking a quarrel—always carrying a chip to be knocked off, a crow to pick—dear knows we have too many of them now, but children who are determined to have their own way have no right to be called "bad."

Do we want to quash it altogether? Isn't it rather a virtuous thing in any walk of life to "be sure you're right and then go straight ahead."

All the people can't agree with all of us all the time. But I think it's a good thing to have an opinion and stick to it.

I think we're too hard on the boy who won't give in to other people. We shouldn't expect it always. Why should we expect children to sacrifice ideas when we wouldn't do it ourselves?

That is why so many children quarrel—using their right to their own ideas. Give them time and they'll know better.

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

By DOROTHY HERZOG

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Fannie Brice rode a camel in a scene or two for her new outland, "The Champ." Fannie had some "stills" taken of her on the camel. She selected for her theme song between camera clicks—"Singing in the Rain" . . .

Will Yuh? Over on the Famous lot they're preparing to put "Come Out of the Kitchen" into production. This vehicle once served Ruth Chatterton as a stage play. With Ruth on the lot, her role is naturally given to some one else. Um, Nancy Carroll will traipse in it. Charles Ruggles comes out from New York to enact a featured role. Harry Green will make comics. Likewise Zasu Pitts. Wesley Ruggles—Charlie's brother—will direct.

Yesterday Wilson Mizner, that doggone bo-hunk, was drinking the inevitable glass of iced coffee when Jack Holt dropped by the table and sat down to bide a wee. These two were friends years ago in the days when the Klondike up Alaska-ways was in its heyday. Jack was a youthful civil engineer then, and participated in the making of history, even as Mr. Mizner did—and does. Jack recollected the time that he met up with Wilson and his brother.

miles inland. They had just carved an ear from a gigantic tree with which to steer their boat on the dangerous trip down a river thawed by spring and racing twenty or so miles an hour.

"Why you old son-of-a-gun," chuckled Holt in retrospect. "Between the two of you you could hardly lift that ear, much less use it to steer."

Nevertheless, the Mizner boys covered the dangerous water route without a mishap.

Jack begins work soon in another Columbia flick. It may or may not be "Hell's Island."

Romance!

When Babe Kane—no relation to Helen but a snappy singer for a' that—went to the United Artists lot to play a part in Fannie Brice's picture, she met Director Thornton Freeland for the first time.

Whoops! Mrs. Frank Fay (Barbara Stanwyck) fixed up one room in the family house especially for Frank.

The Latest Evelyn Brent told it to me. It's the colony's favorite just now. Reason: Obvious!

About a chap who goes to the doctor to find out why he feels so terrible. The Doc gives him a thorough going over and diagnoses diabetes.

"That's impossible," the patient cried. "I'm only thirty-four. I'm too young to have diabetes."

The patient departed, mournful. He boarded a bus for home and kept mumbling repeatedly: "Diabetes at thirty-four. Diabetes at thirty-four. Oy!"

With Gary Mary Brian and Gary Cooper will again be teamed in a picture. This time, "None But the Brave," a Civil War yarn. Listens like it has moments.

And—that's all.

ACTS LIKE IT WAS JUST MADE FOR HIM

"I Hadn't Seen A Well Day In Years Until I took Orgatone," Says Coleman Man

"This Orgatone acts like it was made especially for my case," said Irby Wiswell of Coleman, owner of a filling station.

"The fact is I hadn't seen a well day in years," continued Mr. Wiswell, "and almost as soon as I started taking Orgatone, it went right to the seat of my trouble and anybody could tell that I was getting better. My stomach gave me lots of trouble, and I had no appetite and got to where I hardly ate enough to keep me alive. Everything I ate caused gas to form and I would have a puffed up bloated feeling and would feel at times like I couldn't get my breath. My liver bothered me too which caused me pains in my back and sides, and some told me that I had appendicitis. I was very weak and nervous and all run-down, didn't rest well at night and would get up in the morning feeling tired out and not fit for a thing. I just got to where my work was a burden to me. I was very weak and dizzy and bilious, and had no pep or energy."

"Most everyone here seemed to be taking Orgatone for their troubles and I decided to try it and I haven't quite taken a full bottle, and my troubles have disappeared. My appetite is better and I can now eat a square meal, and feel lighter and get up in the morning feeling like my old self and it has been a long time since I have felt so good. I am entirely relieved of constipation and the pains in my back and sides are gone. Orgatone has given me the energy and strength I needed and I'm certainly glad I found it when I did, it has done me more good than anything else I have taken."

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Midland at the Midland Drug Store.—Adv.

BARBS

Have you seen the new cig- once in a while. It may help to aret lighters? Just the thing for grandpa's birthday.

We forget how many more shopping days there are until Christmas. Any way, too many.

A man was arrested in a hotel the other day for throwing the furniture out of the window. It's pretty hard sometimes to find those collar buttons.

Chicago police have been put on a diet to keep every member of the force under 200 pounds. The new order doesn't say anything about pineapples, however.

Hint for movie scenario writers: Try a little work in the garden

Pianos are not strictly furniture but could be used as such to advantage in some homes.

There's nothing very funny about it, but have you noticed how the stock market seems to get all the breaks?

Engineers have pretty sharp eyes. The other day a West Virginia girl tore a piece from her skirt and flagged a train.

J. P. Morgan won a prize the other day at a flower show for raising the largest and prettiest violets. Mr. Morgan also does pretty well in clover.

GOVERNOR MOODY WILL SPEAK TO DEDICATE GREAT STADIUM

Frogs and Bears Hold Tight to Tie Percentage in Wins This Season

SPEECH TO MARK OPENING OF $350,000 BOWL OF A. & M. COLLEGE ON THANKSGIVING

COLLEGE STATION, Texas.—Governor Dan Moody is scheduled as one of the speakers for the dedication ceremonies that will mark the opening of the new $350,000 concrete football stadium at the A. & M. College of Texas on Thanksgiving Day.

A brief speaking program together with other fitting ceremonies will begin at 1 o'clock sharp. This program is expected to be finished by 1:30 or 1:45 o'clock. The game which will write the dedication record in the Aggies athletic annals will begin at 2:30 o'clock.

President T. O. Walton of A. & M. will preside at the formal program of talks and F. M. Law, Houston, president of the board of directors of A. & M., and President H. Y. Benedict of the University of Texas, will speak briefly.

Voice amplifiers will be used so the words of the speakers will carry clearly to the fans seated throughout the huge structure and the A. & M. College of Texas band of 110 pieces will play. The ceremonies are expected to be marked by much color.

The first unit of the A. & M. stadium, on the west side, was put in use in 1927, at cost of nearly $100,000. The great U-shaped structure was completed this year at additional cost of $265,000. Seating capacity is close to 33,000.

Ratliff Lynched

and from that time until Ratliff's dead body was removed from the cable there was much talk of mob violence.

Ratliff had been sentenced to die in the electric chair, and was in the jail here pending a sanity hearing. He had lain on his cot in the cell practically motionless since he was brought here. His door was left open Monday night during supper while officers went to other cells.

Finds Jailer's Gun
The condemned man then made a dash for his freedom. He went down the stairs to the first floor, but found the doors locked. He found the jailer's loaded gun in a drawer and then made his way back to where the officers were and hid. Jones and Kilborn came from a cell with Jones leading.

Wounded Man Fights
Ratliff opened fire on Jones and shouted to the jailer to give him the keys. Jones, although wounded, leaped at Ratliff and the two rolled down the stairs during which time two more shots were fired at the deputy and took effect.

Kilborn followed closely and wrestled with Ratliff for possession of the gun, one shot being fired during the struggle that went wild.

Chief Saves Ratliff
The jailer twisted Ratliff's wrist, got the gun and then landed a fierce blow on the latter's head, which ended the fracas.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

Watch Out for Harvard!

Harvard and Yale renew the most classic of football rivalries on Saturday.

In the many contests waged on the gridiron of Cambridge and New Haven, some have been desperately fought scoreless ties, some have been close and gallantly won victories and just a few have been one-sided hollow triumphs.

Yale has emerged victorious in a majority of these annual games, and this year the Bulldog once again is favored to win. But it is safe to predict a battle and safer still not to attempt to pick the winner.

Harvard has no Albie Booth, but the Crimson has something nearly as devastating—a bewildering passing attack which has all but broken up every game in which Arnie Horween's boys have played this season.

Passes May Beat Yale
It may well prove that passes will beat Yale. Dartmouth used them to devastating effect for a few moments at New Haven. Yale is not extraordinarily protected against a passing game, despite the success of "Hoot" Ellis against Dartmouth.

In Barry Wood, a tall, slender, dark-haired quarterback, Harvard has a truly great forward passer. His efforts against Michigan all but won that classic struggle at Ann Arbor ten days ago. Wood will have to be watched every minute and so will his receivers, if Ell Yale wants to keep out of bankruptcy.

"None Better": Yost
Fielding Yost, who developed a pretty fair forward passer himself in Benny Friedman, who now is playing professional football in the east, declared after the Harvard-Michigan game:
"I never saw a better forward passer than that boy, Wood."

Praise from Yost is praise indeed. Wood, if he gets the right kind of help, may win this coming Harvard-Yale game.

Mal Stevens has kept his Eli eleven busy working on defenses against forward passes. Albie Booth is not the greatest safety man in the game for this purpose, as he is a bit too prone to take chances. Albie figures he can accomplish anything he sets out to do, and sometimes a taller man outjumps him.

Albie Booth's Part
Harvard men are hoping secretly that Booth is "washed up" from his efforts earlier in the season, and that he will have lost his magic touch. The Princeton game did Booth no good, of course, but that is all part of the life of a football player.

Austen, Beane, Snead, Miller, Hall, Ellis and Dunn are backs with power which the Crimson cannot match. McLennan and Taylor are good, too.

Reserve backfield material may decide the contest. In which case, Yale will win.

That Intercepted Fumble

Speaking of Yale's backfield reserves, it was Alpheus Beane who leaped to snatch Al Marsters' fumble in the Dartmouth game and run with it for a touchdown. Beane caught the ball before it hit the ground, and so was entitled to run, circling the pack and emerging on the opposite side to sprint down the sideline for the all-important score.

It was a play which required instant action, quick thinking, nimble feet and good judgment, as well as a sturdy straight-arm here and there. Beane did just about everything a football player is called upon for in making that touchdown.

THIS WEEK SEEMS DESTINED TO UNTIE

FORT WORTH, Nov. 20.—The Texas Christian University-Baylor game in Waco next Saturday will have big bearing on the race for Southwest Conference grid honors, and the tilt promises to be one of the outstanding battles of the year—at least from the viewpoint of students and ex-students of both universities. Rivalry between the Bears and the Frogs is of a keenness that is not surpassed in the conference today. It is a bitter rivalry that dates back twenty-five years, when both schools were located in Waco, and when for a number of years the teams met three times during a single season.

According to all available records at T. C. U., Baylor and T. C. U. have clashed 30 times in 19 years of play. Both teams have won 13 games, while bitter ties were fought four times. Saturday's game will mark the thirty-first battle between the schools. Unless there is a tie then, one of the teams will take the lead in the number of games won.

Started in 1904

The initial tilt came in the early fall of 1904. It resulted in a 0-0-0 tie. Two more games were played later, Baylor winning the first 17 to 0, and the Frogs eking out a victory in the latter 5 to 0. In 1905 they clashed three times. The Frogs took the first, 16 to 0; the Bears won the second, 10 to 6; and T. C. U. came back in the final fray to score a 17 to 0 victory.

There was no game in 1906, but 1907 brought another three-game affair. The first was a 6 to 6 tie. The Frogs won the second 11 to 10; and Baylor scored a 16 to 8 triumph in the third. In 1909 there were three more games, the Bears winning the first, 6 to 3, and the Frogs taking the other two, 9 to 0 and 11 to 0.

Tit for Tat

In 1910 Baylor scored two great triumphs. Her 52 to 0 victory in the first game was the most decisive victory chalked up in history, though the Frogs held the Bears down 10 to 3 in the other fray. The Frogs moved from Waco the following year and Baylor made her first invasion of Fort Worth to win 12 to 0. Baylor won 28 to 14 in 1914 and the following year crushed the Frogs 51 to 0. The 1916 fray was turned in to another Bear victory by a score of 32 to 14.

In 1927 the teams met at Waco in Baylor's Homecoming game. Blackie Williams, "Nasty" Clark, "Rags" Matthews, and Brumbelow were outstanding stars in a great 14 to 0 Frog triumph. No T. C. U. fan will soon forget the heart-breaking 7 to 6 Bear victory on Clark Field last season.

Judging by recent stock market activities, the lams had better stick to their gambling and let gambling alone.

HOME-COMING FOR SIMMONS AT THE TURKEY GAME

ABILENE, Nov. 20.—The Homecoming of alumni and ex-students of Simmons University will be held here November 28, Thanksgiving, the date of the football game between the Simmons Cowboys and the Texas Tech Matadors. Plans are going forward, according to Mrs. Len Fewcett, alumni president, to make this eclipse any such occasion of the past.

A big, old time barbecue, the football game, class reunions, Cowgirl reunion, and Cowboy Band reunion, are to be the features of the day. Plans are being made to care for 10,000 spectators at the game. The barbecue is to be given at noon for all alumni and exes.

One thousand rooters are expected to come from Lubbock by special train and in cars to support the Matadors. The game will be called at 2:30. Personal invitations are being sent out to 10,000 exes of Simmons and a response from at least 2,000 is expected, according to Mrs. Fewcett.

Dallas Cotton Market

The cotton market gave a good account of itself during the first half of the session. Prices selling about 17 points over the previous close as a result of fresh buying and trade demand coming in on the market, forcing the shorts to cover again. Better Liverpool than due. High stock market expectations and bullish ginnings are being the supporting features. Opening prices being 2 to 7 higher, which was followed by 11 to 12 points advance. Later December sold 17.69 C, January 17.83 C and new March 18.11 C, or 15 to 17 points net higher. At the levels the advance met some realizing as well as locals in New York working for reactions. Trading during the morning was moderately active. There continued a generally optimistic feeling throughout the financial district, while there was a noticeable lack of hedge selling yesterday. The farm board loan influences is being felt considerably.

Harvard has 55,000 alumni and Yale has 35,000. Maybe that's why Yale seems to be getting along so nicely.
