Marta Has Last Medal of Honor Man Still on Job; Draws $150 Every Month

Sergeant Lloyd M. Seibert

By NEA Service MARFA, Tex., Jan. 21.—What price glory?

This oft-repeated question finds an unusual answer in the case of Master Sergeant Lloyd M. Seibert of Headquarters Troop, First Cavalry, stationed here.

Some 12 years ago, Sergeant Seibert led a charge on a machine gun nest in France, routed the enemy and, though wounded himself, helped his injured comrades to safety. For this he was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor, the nation's highest military decoration.

Today, Sergeant Seibert is the only World War winner of this decoration who is still in the enlisted ranks of the army—receiving approximately $150 a month plus rations, clothing and quarters.

He also holds the Silver Star Citation, the French Medaille Militaire, the French Croix de Guerre with Palm, the Italian Croce de Guerra, and the Montenegrin Medaille pour la Bravour Militaire.

His American citation reads: "Sergeant Seibert of Company F, 364th Infantry, 91st Division, on Sept. 28, near Eplonville, France, suffering with illness, remained with his platoon and led his men with the highest courage and leadership under heavy shell and machine-gun fire.

"With two other soldiers, he charged a machine-gun company in advance of his company, he himself killing one of the enemy with a shotgun and capturing two others.

"In this encounter he was wounded, but he nevertheless continued in action, and when a withdrawal was ordered, he returned with the last unit, assisting a wounded comrade.

"Only 90 Congressional Medals of Honor were awarded for valor during the World War. Twenty-eight awards were posthumous, so that out of approximately 60 living World War medal of honor men, Sergeant Seibert is the only one to be in the enlisted ranks of the army today. Several officers who received the award, however, are on the army rolls.

PETITION HERE ASKS STERLING TO AID FARMERS

A petition for remuneration to Midland county farmers for expenses incurred in fumigation and sterilization of cotton and cotton seed as provided by the pink bollworm law was drawn up Wednesday by the chamber of commerce and will be circulated Saturday by farmers.

This will be mailed to Ross S. Sterling, who expressed his belief in a speech at Big Spring in remuneration.

This is the second petition the Midland chamber of commerce has drawn to secure benefits from expenditures which are felt to have been futile.

Cover of Ill-Fated Air Flight Here

W. O. Luce of Midland has a valuable collection of covers carried on transatlantic flights and mailed back, but the most important one is a card borne by the ill-fated Beryl Hart-Lieutenant MacLaren expedition.

The flyers, lost somewhere between the Bermuda islands and the Azores, mailed him a message from the Bermudas.

"First stage made—more difficult than expected—a series of unfortunate accidents—next jump the big test—the last test should be easy."

The last test referred to was that over the Azores to mainland leg. It was never made, for the flyers failed to reach the Azores.

The message had one of the Pulaski stamps on it, stamps issued on the 16th of December. The stamps themselves are valuable.

The flight was the first commercial transatlantic airplane hop that has been tried. A 1/2 d Bermuda stamp was affixed in the Bermudas and the message came in care of R. O. Clifford, St. George, Bermuda. The postmark said: "Come to Bermuda, Isles of Rest," and was cancelled in Hamilton.

"Alabama Bound" the annual junior class play will be presented at the high school auditorium Friday night.

46 Men Now in National Guard

Forty-six men out of 151 applicants have been accepted by the national guard here, and only 10 more men will be taken in, announcement made Tuesday said.

It was originally intended to take in only 40 men, but interest in the move accounts for the decision to take 56.

It is hoped an armory can be built, and plans will be made in that regard. A meeting is being held in the Schaubauer gym tonight at 7:30 to begin work on these plans.

Moore to Manage Burton-Lingo Co.

R. J. Moore, formerly manager of the T. R. Prideaux Lumber company here, has been named manager of the Burton-Lingo company yard at Midland, effective February 1. Moore succeeds Chas. Berry as manager, the latter remaining with the company but going to the management of another yard, probably at Santa Anna.

Both Moore and Berry are well known to the building trade here. The Prideaux yard was sold recently to J. L. Johnson of Fort Worth. Johnson then selling the stock of building materials to Higginbotham-Bartlett, Wm. Cameron Co., Rockwell Bros. company and Burton-Lingo company.

Berry expressed regret at leaving Midland but said the company had made him attractive offers elsewhere. He said he was glad to see Moore placed here as manager and commended him highly to the public. Moore is an active member of the Lions club and a prominent figure in civic work. He and his family have lived here for four years, owning a home in west Midland. Berry and his family will remain here until February 1.

How One Woman Overcame Fear of Shooting a Gun

A woman who is afraid of a gun greatly embarrassed, therefore, when a French official presented her with a fine revolver.

Carrying it away from her as far as possible, she made her way to her plane and concealed the weapon in a side pocket in the far side of the cockpit.

All the rest of the sky voyage she kept to her side of the cockpit, for fear the gun would go off. Crack-ups and motor trouble over the China sea did not disturb her nearly so much as the presence of the gun. Accordingly, when she reached Los Angeles and the police wanted to show her some of their marksmanship she confided in Deputy Chief James E. Davis her fear.

Lubbock Exposure Victim To Be Buried There Friday

LUBBOCK, Jan. 21. (AP).—Funeral services are planned here Friday for L. Herbert Quinn, publisher of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, who was found dead in the sandhills 75 miles west of here yesterday from exhaustion and exposure. Quinn's death was the aftermath of an automobile trip which started Sunday across the sand dunes looking for antelope.

Chas. A. Guy, editor of the newspaper, and Guy's wife were with Quinn in the car which stuck in the sand. Quinn went for help Sunday evening, never returning. Guy

In the tragic death of L. H. Quinn, publisher of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, West Texas lost one of its most able and aggressive newspapermen. T. Paul Barron, publisher of The Reporter-Telegram, said today.

Quinn died from exposure and exhaustion while walking all night in the deep sand of Yoakum county, seeking aid for his stranded companions, Editor Chas. A. Guy and wife of the same newspaper, his body being found late Tuesday.

The Lubbock publisher came to West Texas three years ago from Wisconsin. Although only 32 years old, he had set a record within a short time as a newspaper executive, building in the Lubbock morning and afternoon dailies outstanding publications in Texas.

Modest and soft spoken, Herbert Quinn always attributed the success of the business to his associates and employees when the subject was spoken of to him, the Midland publisher said. He succeeded Dorrance D. Roderick as publisher of the papers when the latter went to El Paso to assume management of the Times and Herald. Quinn and Guy, editor of the Lubbock paper, were regarded as one of the most successful "teams" among Texas journalists.

and wife were rescued. A search over three counties, using airplanes and automobiles, preceded finding Quinn's body.

Quinn's body was found by two cowboys on the Tom Ivey ranch, Hurley Sampson and Aaron Morris, a half mile from headquarters. Tracks indicated that he must have wandered all Sunday night, making about ten miles distance while walking for 30 or more miles. He crossed his own tracks once.

Doctors examining the body were of the opinion that a heart attack, superinduced by exposure and hunger, caused his death. Quinn was lightly clad, expecting to be out in the cold car for only a few hours.

Discovery of Quinn's body was made about 5:15 Tuesday afternoon 10 miles north of Plains. Guy and wife were rescued earlier Tuesday, having been found Sunday.

APPEARS AT JOINT SESSION

Excerpts from Speech Prove Interesting When Studied

AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (AP).—"Economic indisposition is passing and it is the duty of the governor and the legislature to keep the government in step with the state's progress," said Governor Ross S. Sterling in his first message to a joint session of the legislature today.

AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (AP).—The Texas legislature marked time this morning, preparing for a joint session this afternoon to hear Governor Ross S. Sterling deliver his first message.

It is believed that both houses would adjourn immediately after receiving the governor's message today with heavy work scheduled to start Thursday.

Following are briefs from Governor Sterling's message to the legislature: "We are all here for the same high purpose—to serve Texas.

Texas is in the midst of a great development, and at the threshold of an even greater.

Our responsibility requires a statesmanship that must harmonize conservatism with initiative, and experience with vision.

I am hopeful this legislature will produce the best considered and most constructive program of enactments of all the 42 state assemblies of Texas history.

This democratic plan of government, charging the executive with the duty of suggesting laws, and with that of approving or disapproving them after the legislature has passed them, naturally calls for harmony and cooperation between the two departments. Otherwise the system fails.

Texas has fared better than other parts of the nation in the "economic indisposition" of recent months; and as far as Texas is concerned, we know the depression is merely temporary. This state has yet a destiny of empire to fulfill.

There are certain state projects that must be placed under construction sooner or later; if you can see your way to do it sooner, then the unemployment situation may be relieved. (See STERLING page 8)

THE LETTERS HE WROTE
By HELEN WELSHIMER
NEA Service.

An old lady will be watching for the mailman on Jan 31. In fact it is a habit that she is going to have for the next 11 years. And she won't be disappointed, for once a month a letter will come, dated from the Colorado State Prison at Canon City.

But the man who writes the letters will be gone. On the last day of January the hangman will knot a noose around his neck and let him swing on the gallows. And he doesn't want his mother to know about it. She is ill and there is danger that the shock would kill her.

Somewhat, at the end of the way, he has been looking backwards. He has been remembering how his mother watched for him so eagerly when he first started to the school house down the road; the cookies that she baked and sprinkled with sugar just because he liked them; stories she told in which the boys were always upright and honorable and never stole or killed.

Sitting on the edge of his bunk one day he made a decision. He would write 132 letters to his mother. That would mean one a month for the next 11 years. He knew that she had not heard of his death sentence but had been told he was to serve a 20-year prison sentence, one that can be completed in 11 years with good behavior.

So John Walker got busy. Day after day he sits now, writing letters to his mother, on a soap box that is balanced on his knees. He has to work fast, for the gallows is casting its shadows a little nearer every day. When he completes his task a friend will take the letters and see that they are posted monthly.

And the old lady who receives the missives will read them tenderly, fold them together, and put them away in a secret place for those lonely minutes when she is a little more homesick than usual for the prodigal son who was implicated in the killing of a deputy sheriff.

There is something strangely pitiful about the man who doesn't want his mother to know. He has broken her trust in him. But he doesn't want to break her heart.

But even more pitiful is the picture of the old lady who will receive the posthumous letters and check off the months on the calendar until her son comes home.

She will wonder, now and then, if she will live to welcome him. Meantime summer will throw an emerald rug across the convict's grave; autumn rains will fall softly; spring will come 11 times with wistful magic; and winds will chant their requiems at twilight.

And a little old lady will watch for letters which prove that her boy didn't die after all.

A STATE IDENTIFICATION BUREAU

A bill is to be proposed in the present session of the legislature to create a state identification bureau for criminals. This should pass promptly is drawn up in good form.

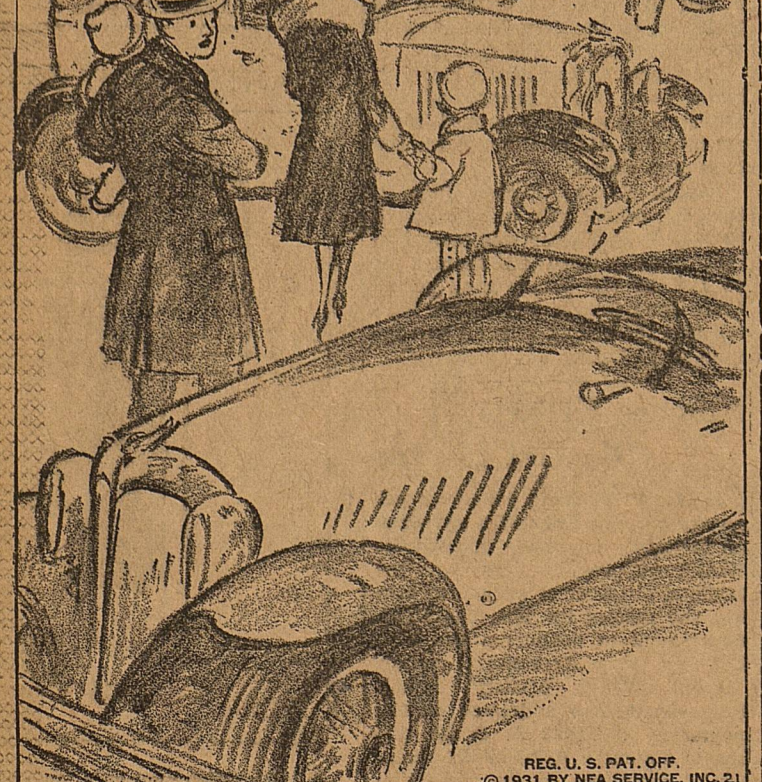

Even in Midland, and recently at Odessa, the value of having a central point for identifying finger prints has been seen. At present it is necessary to check finger prints with records in city detective bureaus, such as Fort Worth, Dallas, El Paso, Houston, Amarillo and Austin.

To have a central bureau at Austin, with the records now on hand in all of the city bureaus, finger print classifying could be made simple and the checking could be done in from 12 to 24 hours while a suspect is held.

Finger print methods, long relied on in the larger cities as a means of identifying criminals, is rapidly coming into vogue in smaller communities, and with the aid of a central or state bureau the system could be handled much more successfully.

In times like the present, when thousands of men with criminal records are roaming over the country, posing as unfortunates or unemployment victims, going from house to house, every suspect or vagrant should be checked up by local officers and perhaps many a job of robbery or hijacking could be averted. These criminal transients, on learning that finger prints were being taken in a community, would give that place a wide berth.

Choice Cooks' Corner

Dieticians declare that sweet potatoes are higher in food value than the white potato. The sweet potato contains 26 per cent of starch and sugar of which 10 per cent is sugar, about 69 per cent water and 1.3 per cent cellulose, thus requiring more time for cooking.

Two recipes for the potato are given today—probably your cook book doesn't include them. Orange-Scalloped Sweet Potato Select medium-sized sweet potatoes and cook in boiling salted water until almost tender. Peel and slice. Put a layer of potatoes in a greased baking dish, sprinkle generously with sugar and dot over with bits of butter. Add another layer of potatoes and repeat until baking dish is filled. Squeeze the juice and pulp from several oranges, discarding seeds, and pour over the potatoes. There should be enough orange juice to come almost to the top of the potatoes. Sprinkle fine, buttered bread crumbs over the top and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until potatoes have absorbed most of the orange juice and the top is lightly browned. Serve with roast pork or baked ham.

Sweet Potato Whip 6 average-sized sweet potatoes 3 tablespoons melted butter Cream 3 tablespoons brown sugar 2 eggs 1-2 cup whole nut meats Salt Cook the potatoes and mash. Add the well-beaten egg yolks and enough cream to make whipping easy. Add the butter, brown sugar, and pinch of salt. Beat thoroughly until mixture is fluffy, then add the whole nut meats—pecans are especially good. Whip egg whites stiff and fold into mixture. Put into buttered baking dish, sprinkle with nuts and bake for 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

Holden, Noted Stage Player, in "Holiday"

William Holden, veteran stage actor, first went to Hollywood in the capacity of a stage producer. Three years ago he produced Willard Mack's play, "The noose," at the Vine Street Theatre in Hollywood. Holden acquired a taste for pictures before returning to New York, and this was strengthened on subsequent visits. In 1929 Holden cast his lot with motion pictures, and has since appeared in such outstanding talking films as "Weary River," "Dynamite," "The Argyle Case," "Fast Life" and "The Trespasser." He will be seen as Ann Harding's father in "Holiday," Pathe's picture of the Philip Barry stage success, which Edward H. Griffith directed and which will be seen and heard at the Ritz Theatre today and Thursday.

Daily Health Talk

"Tich-Mites" Sometimes Cause Severe Irritation of the Skin

A little mite, called Acarus scabiei, burrows into the human skin in order to lay eggs and as a result sets up an irritation with severe itching.

The places usually selected for the burrowing are the skin between the fingers, under the arms and on the lower abdomen. Usually the condition does not spread beyond these areas, but in people who are not particularly careful about bathing and dressing it may involve almost the entire body.

Cases are known in which this itch-mite has gotten into the wardrobes or costumes of "supers" of theatrical or operatic companies and gradually infested the entire company so that the subsequent itching interfered with the performance. In children, the palms of the hands and the sole of the feet are frequently attacked.

Fortunately there is a certain method of controlling this condition when it is properly diagnosed. This method involves the proper use of sulphur which may be employed in various forms. Usually it is necessary first of all to prescribe a thorough cleansing of the patient with hot water and soap bath. He then rubs his body completely with the ointment which any physician may prescribe and leaves the ointment on overnight.

On the next day he takes another hot cleansing bath, receives a completely new outfit of clothing, particularly underclothings, and the treatment is finished.

Equally important with the treatment of the disease is the handling of the clothing of the patient. It is necessary in practically every case to disinfect the clothing thoroughly so as to destroy every itch-mite that may be present in it or on it.

The condition has been described as Cuban itch, French itch, and assigned to various other nationalities, but no nation seems to have a complete monopoly upon it.

A. Valadoff of Peoria, Ill., was in Midland Monday evening. He was en route to the western coast and stopped in Midland to meet several acquaintances.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Johnson, Miss Drotha Johnson and Miss Johnnie Helen Cowley have returned after a visit with relatives in Big Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mims of Fort Worth were in Midland yesterday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Basil Mims who died Monday.

Miss Bertha McGrew, manager of the Kaydelle shop, who has been in California for the past ten days buying new merchandise for the shop, is expected to return tonight or tomorrow.

STICKERS

You will remember I had something to say a few days ago about some of the qualifications a reporter had to have. I read an article yesterday where some fellow thinks reporters ought to be educated for the law. All I can say by way of rebuttal that it is hard enough now to get reporters to say what they want to in few enough words. However, it might have paid that Sweet-water boy to have been legally trained. He spent a couple of days in jail for contempt of court.

Herb Rountree's neck is much better today. He can turn his head either to the right or the left without getting up out of his chair.

I see where old Dinty Moore is located again and will have to quit driving around speeding on the highways. He is going with Burton-Lingo on the first. A lot of us thought maybe we were rid of Dinty for a while, but no such luck.

My thumb itches for a chance at that new bowling alley, and don't get the idea I'm giving them publicity just because they had us print some circulars. Once when I was spending a day or two at a summer resort, the only one I ever stopped at, I took on a game of bowling. The fellow that ran the business showed me how to play and then took me on for a game. He let it appear that I was good as he was so pretty soon we were staking the price of two games every time we played. As a result, I played four games and paid for eight.

Just because my thumb itches is no sign that I'm the fellow I was writing about the other day who really had the itch. But, just to show you the kind of cooperation I get, Dr. Fishbein is running a story in our paper today about the "itch-mite" and how to get rid of it.

METHODISTS AND CHRISTIANS WIN THEIR GAMES TUESDAY NIGHT

ONE GAME GOES TO EXTRA PERIOD FOR VERDICT

The Methodists and Christians had to do something last night they had never done before this season, in order to win their games against the Presbyterians and Baptists. The Methodists had to go into extra period, and the Christians had to win their first game of the season.

Warren rode Clayton of the Presbyterians and kept the ace from shooting more than 10 points. At the same time, Lane Whitmire of the victors shot 10 and the other points left the Methodists one field goal out in the lead at the conclusion of the extra five-minute period.

It was Whitmire that broke the 19-19 deadlock.

The Christian-Baptist game found the losers deprived of White, Caraway and Nicholson, their three best men.

Market Report

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (UP)—

Heavy profit-making developed on New York cotton exchange shortly after first half hour. Prices receded from initial highs to within 10 points range above yesterday's finals. At noon list four to seven points higher with larger gains in near positions. Trading continued fairly active but operations rather hesitant.

Overcame Fear--

He laughed and called for a cigarette.

"Light it," he commanded.

She did.

"Now walk over there by that bench."

She did this too.

"Puff several times hard and fast."

Wondering what it was about, she did this.

"Now look in that direction," he said.

"I am going to shoot the ash off that cigarette while you are smoking it."

"You're going to—!"

Suddenly she stopped talking and composed herself. She would do this if it resulted in a serious accident.

"What's the use of being afraid of a gun while one is doing more dangerous things every day?" she asked herself.

She stood perfectly still, and the officer neatly clipped the end of the cigarette off with his revolver.

Afterward, Lady Bruce shot the gun several times.

John R. March, range marshal of the Los Angeles police force, was one of those who watched the test conducted.

The other was Edna Christoffers, president of the Women's National Aeronautics association.

Lady Bruce showed the cigarette to a reporter here. "I am proud of it," she said.

Rathbone Bible To Be Used Again

The Rathbone Bible, that used by Justice H. Rathbone, founder of the order of the Knights of Pythias in 1864, will be used in Abilene January 31, when some 50 candidates from West Texas lodges are to be initiated in the rank of Page.

Designation of Abilene as the place for holding the Rathbone Bible class has been made by Ellis P. House of Dallas, Grand Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of Texas, and Frank E. Smith, Chancellor Commander of the Knights of Pythias of Abilene, lodge No. 42, is making arrangements for the ceremony, which will be held in the Hilton hotel ballroom at 7:30 o'clock.

The Rathbone Bible, always under lock and key, will be brought to Abilene for the ceremony by Harry M. Love, Supreme Keeper of Records and Seals, who will conduct the initiation. The Bible is never out of possession of the supreme custodian. House is also expected to attend the ceremony.

Candidates for the rank and page from 26 West Texas lodges have been invited to be present for the initiation, as have all members of these lodges. Lodges from which representatives come are Baird, Cisco, Coleman, Gross Plains, Big Spring, Breckenridge, Brownwood, Comanche, De Leon, Eastland, Gorman, Graham, Lampasas, Lubbock, Midland, Mineral Wells, Paducah, Pecos, Ranger, San Angelo, Spur, Stamford, Stephenville, Throckmorton, Thurber, Plainview, Pampa and Odessa.

The Abilene meeting is to be the third of a series of eight which will be held in Texas. Other cities in which Rathbone Bible classes will be held are Amarillo, Wichita Falls, El Paso, Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston and San Antonio.

Cast Will Decide An Old Question

Women have always been considered the sex that nurses reports and spreads innuendo, according to some writers.

Then, again, an English scientist, famous for his discrimination, was indiscriminate long enough to write "old women of both sexes," just because men of his age were talking too much.

So the question remains, which sex is the more responsible for gossip?

The answer is found in the little theatre's forthcoming production, "The Gossipy Sex." Anyone interested in trying out for a part in the production may phone 625 and call for Mrs. George Abell, play director. The play is a comedy, strictly, and should be amusing to everyone. It had an interesting Broadway debut and run, and has been favorably reviewed by well-known critics, ranging from George Jean Nathan on down.

The cast of characters follows:

John Bowen, about forty, wholesome looking and easy going.

Alice Bowen, twenty-five, ingenious, temperamental and lovable.

Martha, the maid.

Briggs, the butler, around fifty, bald.

Danny Grundy, thirty, alert, thoroughly manly, genial and likeable.

Anna, pretty refined girl of eighteen.

Gerald Kenyon, in early twenties.

Hilda Norris, somewhat faded woman of forty (a clever character part).

Milton Norris, Hilda's husband, ten years her junior; a rather small man.

Flossie Baxter, an attractive young blonde.

Phil Baxter, Flossie's husband, a man of thirty, cheerful man-about-town manner.

Chief Mason, chief of police, forty.

Maizie Mason, wife of Chief Mason, thirty.

Coincidence Brings Back Old Story

It was 17 years ago Monday that John Bonner and Mrs. Bonner opened formally the first exclusive motion picture house in Plainview—and exactly 17 years from that date that Mrs. Bonner, rummaging about in an old trunk, turned up a folder that celebrated the opening.

There had been motion picture houses in that section of the Panhandle, Bonner said, before that time, but none exclusively built for motion pictures. The houses generally played stage companies most of the time and motion pictures were in for their novelty.

Bonner opened his house with an eight-piece orchestra, and people came for many miles to see the opening picture. None of the famous characters now used on the screen had been heard from only casually then, and no names were announced in the cast.

The house had a ventilation system and a cooling apparatus, however," Bonner said. "And this latter was a credit to the more modern system now used. But if people had told us managers there would ever be such a thing as a talking picture industry we could not have believed them sane."

Bonner had been in the legitimate stage game before 1910 but was just beginning to take proper cognizance of the motion picture industry.

Sterling--

leaved to that extent.

I believe that the state government can be carried on more frugally and at less expense, with as good or better efficiency. I beg you to strive toward that end.

As regards legislation in general, I would remind you of the Jeffersonian principle that "those governed least are governed best."

The democratic platform is an obligation second only to the constitution itself. If we fail to carry out every demand made upon us in the platform, we fail in obedience to the people who elected us.

The Texas penitentiary system has become antiquated, and there is need of legislative modernization.

The executive is pledged to a business administration of the prison system. Such an administration already is well begun by the present management.

The democratic party, in its platform, rededicated itself to the impartial and strict enforcement of prohibition as well as all other laws.

Rural children are entitled to equal opportunities with urban children and every Texas boy and girl should have the chance to obtain a high school education.

"The fairest and most just manner of raising funds to meet the cost of highway construction is by taxes imposed upon the traffic that uses and enjoys the roads," quotation from the democratic platform.

"We are committed to a policy of refunding to these counties (those which have helped build state roads) on a fair and just basis their contribution to the cost of such highway construction," quotation from the Democratic platform.

"The neglect by the state of abandoned, dependent and underprivileged children is a shame to any people," quotation from the Democratic platform.

"The burden of taxation for any public purposes already has fallen too heavy upon farms, homes and ranches. Mineral wealth, such as oil, gas, sulphur and the like, should bear a just share of taxation as it be exhausted," quotation from the democratic platform.
