NEGRO WHO ATTACKED BROWNSVILLE GIRL SOUGHT BY POSSE

POLICE OF MEXICO AID IN MANHUNT

Brownsville Girl Is Attacked at Her Mother's Grave

BROWNSVILLE, Jan. 23. (UP).—The largest manhunt ever known in the Rio Grande Valley was underway today for a negro who attacked Pauline Lane, 18, as she knelt before her mother's grave last night.

Girl Was Alone Scores of officers and hundreds of citizens armed with shotguns and rifles, last night were conducting one of the greatest manhunts in this city as a result of an attack made by a negro late Thursday afternoon on a young girl as she knelt at the grave of her mother in a cemetery here.

All highways leading out of the city were blocked by posses, all cars moving on the highways were being searched and all avenues leading into Mexico were guarded by armed bands.

The girl was alone in the cemetery, when the negro, dressed in a blue jumper and overalls, seized and attacked her.

Hysterical, the girl found her way to the home of a nearby farmer, where she was at first refused admittance because of her strange and hysterical actions. Later she was taken to her home in an exclusive residential section near the cemetery and officers notified. Her condition was said to be grave.

Because of the close watch that was being maintained, officers believed that the negro would be taken into custody within the next several hours, and in the meantime the city was in a state of great excitement with crowds patrolling the streets, the vicinity of the cemetery and of the city jail.

ACE PENDLETON MAY DIE BEFORE PAMPA TRIAL

PAMPA, Texas, Jan. 23. (P).—Pampa officers are beginning to wonder if death will overtake Ace Pendleton, notorious bandit leader, before they have a chance to place him on trial for robbery of The First National bank here back in the spring of 1927.

Pendleton's trial has been delayed several times because of illness. Physicians admit he is not improving. His whole body is wasting, his eyes are sunk in deep sockets, and he is growing weaker daily.

The "Ace" says he is suffering from tuberculosis. The county physician says it is an infection in the throat. He has been removed from the county jail to a room in the courthouse, and placed under the care of a nurse.

Whatever the cause of the hemorrhages may be, a quart of blood a day is carried from Pendleton's room, and his loss is telling on the accused robber. He has not been free of fever for several days.

"I can eat all right," the prisoner said, "but the nurse and I do everything we know to do, and I can't keep food down."

Pendleton blames his prison record for his arrest in connection with the local robbery.

"The way the law and the courts have treated me proves that the public won't let an ex-convict reform," he said.

"If Ace did all the robberies he is accused of," Pendleton's mother recently wrote to officers, "it looks like he would have some money. I know he's never had as much as $500 at one time."

Pendleton was accused of taking $32,000 in the local job.

Delo Douglas can hit the high register when it comes to psalmody, but his friends say that, when it comes to hitting the ring of a basket with a free shot in a cage game, he can't hit even the backboard.

Douglas, introduced into the Texas Electric Southern Ice game Thursday night, stayed in less than a minute before the whistle blew to end the game.

In that abbreviated period the young man made two personal fouls and missed the entire backboard on a free trial at the basket!

A busy night's work.

125 MILLION AVAILABLE ON PASSAGE

$213,964,000 Is Set For Agriculture Department

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. (AP).—The senate today passed the $213,964,000 agriculture department appropriation bill, carrying $125,000,000 to be available immediately for road construction. The senate passed the bill in one hour.

New millions for immediate employment and drought relief were voted by the senate in passing the deficiency bill, carrying almost $125,000,000 to become available immediately.

Chairman Jones of the senate appropriations committee, estimated the funds would provide employment for more than 30,000 workers as soon as the legislation is enacted. The measure goes back to the house for approval of amendments.

Responding to an urgent plea by Senators Barkley of Kentucky and Caraway of Arkansas, both democrats, Senator Jones accepted an addition of $3,000,000 for medical supplies to be sent into the drought areas.

The biggest loss was $2,500,000 on casing head gas which is now held taxable under the gross receipts law, the report said.

CLEAN UP AND SET OUT

Midland never had more auspicious conditions for a general clean up of all property, vacant or occupied, and for setting out trees, plants and shrubs that will make of the city this spring one of the most beautiful spots in West Texas.

The public buildings of the city are setting a pace which, if followed generally by property owners, will give visitors to Midland something to talk about and will give the home people constant joy and pride.

The court house, grounds, now being landscaped by a well known and competent artist, the high school and junior high grounds, the property around the city hall—all of these are being put in shape to enhance the beauty of the city.

Many home owners are joining in the program and are adding these touches of beauty by setting out a few trees and shrubs.

A wholesale cooperation on the part of the citizenship in the plan for next week's clean up, and in getting plant life in evidence on every piece of improved property, would be a great thing for Midland.

GIVING VALUES TO CUSTOMERS

A big statement in a very few words is credited to the head of a large merchandising concern:

"I believe that in the future no individual business, or any industry or any line of business will be judged truly successful, unless it succeeds in giving fair returns to its investors, real values to its customers, and security and fair and liberal wages to its workers."

PROTECTING THE ACCUSED

The fact that Irene Shrader and Glenn Dague, tracked down and captured a few months ago in the mountains of Arizona, and who are soon to be executed in Pennsylvania for murder, have confessed to a West Virginia hold-up and have thereby brought about the release of an innocent man who has been convicted of that holdup and had spent over a year in prison, emphasizes anew the importance of the numerous safeguards which the law throws about a person who is accused of a crime.

The man convicted in this case has lost a year of his life, and no one can restore it to him. The state cannot possibly make reparation to him for his suffering. He has been the victim of an injustice, and nothing whatever can be done about it.

That is why the law rightly favors the accused in a criminal trial. Guilty men often escape punishment, as a result; but that is better than sending innocent men to prison. This West Virginian can testify that that is a mistake which can never be rectified.

LESS HEARD ABOUT IT

Although we hear less said about the traffic in narcotics than we do of liquor violations, F. X. Eble, commissioner of customs for the treasury department, declared before the senate commerce committee that "enforcement of the narcotic laws is more important than the enforcement of prohibition."

Not that we agree with the commissioner in his comparison. There should be no less attention paid to enforcement of liquor laws just to give greater attention to looking after narcotic violations. But the point is that he sees great need for the bill being considered by the senate commerce committee for a border patrol to unify the immigration, customs, prohibition and agricultural patrols which are now operated along the borders by separate divisions of the government.

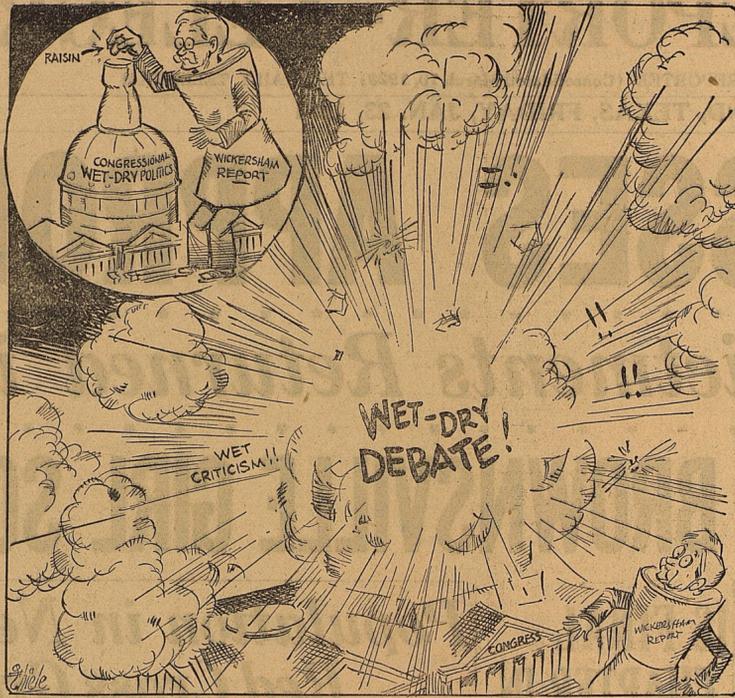

The commissioner spoke in favor of the bill.

The Farm Bloc Will Have Some Talking Points Stronger Than It Ever Had Before If There Is an Extra Session of Congress and Senator Borah Champions the Export Debuture Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—If there is an extra session of Congress and Senator Borah champions the export debuture plan for agriculture which he believes ought to be revived, the farm bloc will have some talking points stronger than it ever had before.

A Farm Relief Act was passed in 1929 and 1930 found the farmers taking a terrible licking. Even if it is argued that the Federal Farm Board hasn't had a chance to work out its program and that there is still hope on the basis of its efforts, it must also be admitted that agriculture is a lot worse off than it was before. And the farm bloc will be in a position to argue that really vigorous measures must be taken to save it.

One hears that curtailment of crops has a tendency to drive up prices, but although total crop production was only about five per cent less last year than in 1929, the aggregate value of the crops was about 28 per cent less. Department of Agriculture figures give $6,274,000,000 as the value of 1930 crops and $8,675,000,000 for those of 1929.

Overproduction wrecks prices. "Even among bad years, 1930 stands unique," comments the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

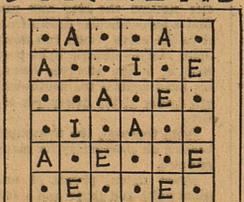

Overproduction of wheat piled up stocks of that grain, wrecking the price. The drought reduced corn, hay and pasture to the smallest crop in years. Unemployment and hard times over a wide-spread area cut down the demand for cotton, meat, dairy products and other agricultural commodities. General commodity prices were down all over the world, adding to the depression in our own raw materials.

There was very little the Farm Board could do about all that. The only factor which it or the farmers might have controlled under the existing agricultural relief provision was the size of the wheat crop and the board certainly has tried to get the farmers to reduce their wheat acreage.

Offer Aid to Farmers
Chairman Alexander Legge makes the point that the federal government stands ready, under the law, to help the farmer "just as far as he is willing to go in controlling his own industry." That is, he explains, that it will help him set up co-operatives to market his crops, help get those co-operatives started, give him the best available information on probable supply and demand conditions and advice as to how best to meet them and lend him money in emergencies.

Incidentally, the last wheat report showed that despite the Farm Board's exhortations and low prices such as generally curtail production automatically, there had been only a one per cent reduction in

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

Up at Amarillo and Lubbock, they are using a slogan "Heads Up." Merchants carry the slogan in their advertising. They have a picture of an elephant on parade, with his snout pointing up in the air. "Heads Up" is the slogan in campaigns to end unemployment, to increase business and to bolster things up generally.

Becoming imbued with the "Heads Up" idea, several unemployed men were walking down the street, erect as a squad of Marines. One of the bunch, however, did not have the optimistic spirit. He walked with his eyes on the sidewalk, only a yard ahead of his feet.

What happened? The glum bird who walked with his head down found a $10 bill.

Who was Midland's most useful citizen in 1930? That's one contest that has never been held in Midland. Of course I am too modest to claim any such credit myself, but I would welcome a few letters from the readers naming their candidate for the position. Maybe your banker was the most useful to you, or the merchant who carried you, or the longest on his books. But surely you must have someone in mind who was the most useful citizen during 1930. Write me a letter and name your candidate.

Have any of you in driving by the winter wheat acreage.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics has warned the farmers that apparently they must operate this year with low-priced products, but with a generally high wage level. Urgent efforts to reduce labor costs must be continued and the bureau recommends use of only the good land, improved equipment, productive stock and seed and careful planning.

Bankruptcies Decline
Farm bankruptcies declined 10 per cent in the fiscal year ended June 30, the bureau has also announced, but those figures showed little of the effect of the drought and the price declines of last year.

The total—4464—was the lowest since 1922, when 3236 cases were reported. It is pointed out that the farm depression of 1921 was not fully reflected in bankruptcy figures until 1925, and that the unusually good year of 1926 probably was reflected in the 1930 figures.

Borah and other members of the farm bloc, it may be seen, are able to use the government's own figures in describing the farmer's plight. Among the statistics, one might add, is the Weather Bureau's estimate that the 1930 summer rainfall east of the Rocky Mountains was 600,000,000,000 tons short of normal. The approximate normal rainfall for a year is six trillion and five hundred billion tons.

Futile Happiness Quest Dogs Clara Bow's Life

By DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 23.—Clara Bow, the little red-head from Brooklyn, who shot up from nowhere to become one of the most famous and wealthy of moving picture actresses, the idol of millions of film-struck star-gazers and the national synonym for feminine charm, has gained just about everything that life can offer a girl—except happiness.

That, of course, sounds like the old press agent stuff. But it happens to be true. And it is also true that she hasn't changed in the least since the days when she tramped the streets of Brooklyn looking for a job, just one of a million day-dreaming flappers, and the combination of those two facts accounts for most of the scrapes into which she regularly gets herself.

Her latest bit of trouble, centering around the garrulosity of her ex-secretary, Daisy Devoe, has emphasized the fact that Clara has perennial trouble in finding a boy friend that she can stick to.

Back of that is the fact that position means nothing to Clara. A railroad president would mean no more to her than a section hand. If she likes a person she gives all her loyalty and affection, if she doesn't, she just can't be bothered, no matter how much money or how high a position the person may have.

Has Known Unhappiness
As a matter of fact, Clara is one of the unhappiest girls in Hollywood. Since she was a youngster in Brooklyn she has known nothing but heartbreaks. After she got to the top rung of the moving picture ladder she felt that happiness ought to be easier to get at, and she started reaching out for it; but each time she found it more elusive than she had supposed. But she always keeps on reaching for it.

Consequently, she gets into lots of scrapes. She is impulsive, and at heart she's still the red-headed Brooklyn flapper, with neither more nor less worldly wisdom than the ordinary flapper has.

There is the matter of those boy friends, for instance—enlarged upon so sympathetically in court by Miss Devoe. The list begins with Gilbert Roland, back in the days before Clara became a star, and continues through Victor Fleming, Gary Cooper, Dr. Earl Pearson, Harry Richmond and the present reigning favorite, Rex Bell.

Sylvia Sidney . . . she will take Clara Bow's place opposite Gary Cooper in the picture from which Clara has been withdrawn.

With each one Clara thought she had found happiness; and each time she discovered she had been mistaken. We know the little red-head pretty well, and in our opinion no man will ever be able to make her happy for any great length of time unless he is her superior in every respect—which is a pretty strong order.

There is something pretty likable about Clara's warm sympathy. Here's an instance:

Writes Long Telegram to Child
The other day she came to court late, and got a stiff reprimand from a movie executive. She took it standing up, making no effort to defend herself; but later she told us why she had been late. There is a sick child back in Missouri who idolizes Clara, and the actress has been writing to her for some time. That in itself is noteworthy, since she never writes letters, not even to her boy friends.

Anyway, on this morning she got a wire from the child's grandmother saying that the youngster was not expected to live—largely, according to the doctor, because it had no desire to do so. So Clara sat down and wrote a three-page telegram to the youngster in the hope that it would bring the necessary tonic and stimulus.

That's Clara. That's the sort of thing that makes whole hosts of people like extra girls idolize her—so much so that just the other day an extra girl in Hollywood tried to commit suicide, explaining that she thought Clara was getting a dirty deal and "didn't want to live to see her suffer."

There are lots of "unknowns" here who worship her just that way.

Meanwhile, there is the matter of Clara's successor—Sylvia Sidney. The Devoe business has been a terrible break for Clara, but it has meant lots of luck to Miss Sidney. After a long, hard climb, Miss Sidney has stepped into a bit of good fortune. She came to Hollywood about a week ago and immediately stepped right into Clara Bow's shoes—and if that isn't good fortune, what is?

Gets "Biggest Opportunity"
Miss Sidney will have the part meant for Clara and "City Streets" opposite Gary Cooper. It had previously been declared that this part (Continued on Page 3)

DAILY HEALTH TALK

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

EYES DESERVE BETTER CARE THAN HIGHEST PRICED WATCH
One of the most serious disorders affecting the human eye is a disease called glaucoma. Thus, Fasset Edwards, writing in Hygeia, points out that it causes 15 per cent of the total blindness in this country and about one-half the blindness in adults.

The disease commences insidiously with slight pains in the eye, perhaps with a little blurring of the sight and, in general, trouble with the vision. The patient begins to see circles about lights and to note colors about lights seen against a dark background. He may visit a half dozen spectacle fitters and men who have no special knowledge of disorders of the eye who will try to fit him with glasses to overcome his condition without helping his very much.

Finally he comes to the attention of someone who understands diseases of the eye. This expert will measure the amount of tension that exists in the eyeball and find it too greatly increased. Now the pain becomes worse, and associated with this condition more disturbance of vision. In the end, it becomes necessary to perform operations on the eyes and, in some cases, even to remove the eye in order to take care of the agonizing pain and the associated disorders.

The cause of this disease is unknown, although its mechanism is fairly well understood. It results from the fact that fluid which pours into the eye does not escape with equal speed. It, therefore, becomes most costly motor car.

Directors Say Play a Success

Teachers, who have directed the rehearsals for the comedy, "Alabama Bound," which is to be presented tonight by the junior class in the high school auditorium, are of the opinion that the play will be the outstanding production of the year.

Mrs. L. K. Barry, director, says, "The junior class play, "Alabama Bound," promises to be a howling success. Unexpected complications, strong dramatic tension and emotional scenes counterbalance the zippy comedy values in this fascinating new play.

"An Alabama belle mistakes the hero for a condemned criminal and insists on saving him from the electric chair, naturally, of course, much to his embarrassment. The play has an unusually original plot and is filled with an abundance of action and sparkling comedy situations. Don't miss it."

Miss Helene Miley, who is assisting with the production, says, "Alabama Bound is a very entertaining play. The background is rather unusual as the talk and customs of a small Alabama town are faithfully portrayed."

"The play is essentially a comedy, but several strong dramatic roles lend an air of intense dramatic suspense ending with youth triumphant."

"Remember that this play is to be presented tonight in the high school auditorium at 7:30."

would give Clara the greatest opportunity she has had in the last two years. This, of course, means that it will be an equally big opportunity for Miss Sidney, and if she makes good in it the movie world will be hers.

Miss Sidney is one of the most unusual girls ever to invade Hollywood. To begin with, she doesn't resemble any other actress on the stage or screen. Nearly every newcomer here is immediately compared to some famous actress—but there is nobody to whom you can compare Miss Sidney. She is just herself; neither very beautiful nor homely, peppy nor quiet, tall nor short—just different.

Her career behind the footlights began when she was 12, when she began appearing at recitals at a little theater in New York. At 15 she entered the Theater Guild school in New York, studied intensively for a year and then was given the leading role in "Prunella." Since then she has had a series of stage successes, ending with "Bad Girl," which has just closed.

She has a tremendous amount of courage and perseverance. Once she starts a thing she never stops until it is finished. Twice she disregarded her doctor's orders and finished the run of shows because she had too much spirit to quit.

SPAGHETTI

is always GOOD!

Once she fainted in the middle of a performance and was ordered to undergo an immediate operation. She refused, and stuck to her part to the end of the show's run. Another time she fractured a small bone in her ankle, and had to finish the run of the play with her foot in a cast.

"Now I think I am through with bad luck for life," she says. "The marvelous break I have had in getting Clara Bow's part in 'City Streets' convinces me of that. Of course, I am terribly sorry that I had to get it on account of Clara's ill health, but it makes me think I am going to be lucky for the duration of my film career."

Miss Bow, by the way, apparently is not "through." B. P. Schulberg, the Paramount executive who announced the substitution of Miss Sidney for Clara, says her physician has insisted that she take a month's vacation, and announces that her next film will be "Working Girl," taken from the stage play, "Blind Alice."

REPORTER-TELEGRAM, TEXAS ELECTRIC WIN BASKETBALL GAMES

ELECTRICIANS RIGHTFULLY EARN PLACE TO BE TERMED DANGEROUS SCORING CLUB; CLINIC TONIGHT

This broadcast of last night's games is through the courtesies of The Reporter-Telegram and Texas Electric Service, clubs that swamped, respectively California company and Southern Ice.

The boys who daily (except Saturday) put out the gossip of ye township worked ahead 35-28 to keep their thousand or so percentage, but the electricians cracked and snapped to pile up a score that summed up 41-24, one of the biggest endings of the season.

Here's what we saw (I'll confess I was over at Odessa) during the hectic games. The California basketballers dug toes in the concrete and tossed exactly 13 points in the last five minutes, running their score from 15 points to 28. The game had been a race until that time. The

Club	W.	L.	Pct
Reporter-Telegram	2	0	1000
Texas Electric	2	0	1000
Clinic	1	0	1000
Hughes Tool	0	1	0000
California	0	2	0000
Southern Ice	0	2	0000

Clinic and Hughes Tool play a game tonight at 7:30 which, according to the dope, will serve to show the difference between three clubs more than to affect the percentage tables. Clinic, Reporter-Telegram and Texas Electric loom as the three hardest nuts to crack in the second half of the Industrial league. Some say the Electricians are faster and better than Clinic; some say they will beat Reporter-Telegram in the last game of the season. A lot of speculation has been aroused through the high scoring piled up by Mr. Legg's boys with the lightning bolt across their chests. Dark horses are always popular, and the crowds are beginning to come out just to watch games in order to pick the winner of the second half.

Hope of California was guarded closely, but galloped free at intervals to toss 11 points. This was a bad night for the handsome forward, for he needs a dozen points to even get his blood warm. Christner was the gentleman who scored the 12 points for California, and he has the sidelines guessing at what he will do next.

The absence of Caraway meant another dozen or so points for California, judging from past performance. He has a knack of getting that many points off his barrel chest every time he plays, as well as of pulling down the scoring offense of other clubs by his clever guarding. Other California players, Crabb, Bode, Ratliffe, Miller, Patterson and Neale had an over-dose of team spirit and hustled the fading chances of the oil club into a scoring threat in the last five minutes that almost took the spirit out of the opposition.

Bridgewater, Hodges, A. Nicholson, Brown, Haralson, McWorkman, L. Nicholson and Douglas played like a unit for the Texas Electric. As for Southern Ice, Pierce was off badly, despite his 16 points. When that fellow fails to shoot 20 points he walks bareheaded in the night until the dawn, wondering whether he's growing old. Jones, Holder, Wright, Dunn, Howard and Watkins played their usual games, but the Electricians were on—and that's just what decided the eventual totals.

The box scores:

Reporter-Telegram		California Co.
FG.	FT.	FG.	FT.
French, f	2 3	3 3	7
Williamson, f	1	2	2
L. Whitmire, c	1	2	20
Warren, g	3	2	6

Mills, g
Totals	16	3	9 36

The Reporter-Telegram game carried as a feature the brilliant goal shooting of Lane Whitmire, who rapidly is becoming one of the most valuable men in the Industrial league. Were it not for an occasional quickness on the trigger, which causes him to waste shots instead of passing, this accurate clown would lack little of being a polished player. He is a bit slow in delivering the ball to a teammate in a pinch, and dribbles too close to the opposition at times to be effective with any sort of pass except that of the over-head hook variety.

French and Williamson passed the ball neatly to Whitmire at every opportunity, their "feeding" tactics and the guarding of Warren, Bramlett and Mills being responsible in a large measure for the ulti-

McGRATH TELLS THRILLING STORY ABOUT BATTLE OF HEAVIES ON A BARGE; BATTLE WAS BLOODY ONE

By TIM McGRATH. (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23. — A middle western sport fan writes to ask if Jim Corbett and Joe Choynski fought before their famous battle of 1889 on a barge near Benicia, California. They fought twice, Corbett winning the first meeting, in 1884—and the second being stopped by police.

In fact, this second fight caused the barge battle. When police halted their meeting in a barn, both men insisted upon settling matters as soon as possible.

There was bad feeling between the youngsters, each a San Francisco, with his own following. The California Club offered a $10,000 purse—big for those days—but the boys preferred to fight for a fraction of that amount if they could murder each other. The prize was $1000, winner take all.

It was arranged for a meeting in a small barn life in San Anselmo, across the Golden Gate from San Francisco. Just a favored few could be accommodated. A committee took the weapons of any guests carrying these.

T. T. Williams, later a prominent newspaperman, was time keeper. Corbett's seconds were Tom Williams, wealthy sportsman; Porter Ashe, nationally known society figure, and Billy Delaney afterward a famous manager of fighters. In Choynski's corner were Nat Goodwin, Jack Dempsey the Nonpariel, and Eddie Graney, famous referee of later years. Patsy Hogan refereed. Goodwin paid a man $40 to go to San Rafael, nearby, wire the theater in San Francisco that he was sick, and cancel the matinee.

Corbett was forcing the action, when, in the sixth round, the sheriff and a force of deputies raided the barn. There was a wild scramble for the door, two small windows, and a rickety stairway down from the loft. Some of the dignitaries of the day looked most undignified as they leaped from the barn and ran. No arrests were made.

Corbett and Choynski escaped in ring togs. Hogan called the fight a draw—and then ducked himself. The unsatisfactory ending only increased bitterness between the two factions. It was inevitable that they'd meet again soon.

Through Eddie Graney, I attended the barge battle, six days later—one of the classics of the prize ring. I was in Choynski's corner. We all quietly boarded a launch before day-

Why Do English Radio at 10:30?

England's "best seller" in the music field is "Go Home and Tell Your Mother," and the reason for the increasing British trend towards syncopated music is entirely laid to the government ownership and control of broadcasting facilities on the tight little isle, by E. C. de Villeverde, Brunswick Radio corporation's export authority. Mr. de Villeverde has just returned from an extended trip through Great Britain where he was present on the occasion of the gala opening of Warner-Brunswick Ltd., a subsidiary of the Brunswick-Warner Bros. organization which is producing and merchandising records in England to the extent of five million discs a year. The initial expenditure involved in the opening of this factory was over 100,000 lbs. ($500,000), and it is expected that an equal sum will be expended during the next six months improving production methods.

Despite the English trend to the wah-wahs, and the "come hither" type of popular music, the British Broadcasting company continues blithely on its way sponsoring, during over 75 per cent of its broadcasting time, which includes the choice early hours of the evening, programs devoted to compositions of the concert hall and operatic variety. While there is little doubt that when it comes to classic musical programs, those of B. B. C., as the government radio agency of Great Britain is called, are second to none, it is, however, one thing to present such programs, and still another to make people listen to it.

De Villeverde pointed out that it is his belief that it is impossible to remake a people who have thronged the music halls (vaudeville in the United) for years, into lovers of "fine" music overnight. "Instead, this compulsory musical education by the broadcast authorities, this lack of dance music on the air, is accompanied by a concurrent lack of interest in radio itself," he stated, "that is only paralleled by the British public's present great interest in recorded jazz, of which the tremendous sale of 'Go Home and Tell Your Mother' in record form, is an example."

"The Englishmen of high and low estate have developed the amazing habit of turning on their radio at 10:30 at night. This amazed me," said de Villeverde, "until I was informed that it was at this time of night that dance music was permitted on the air waves. There is little question," he continued, "that in England, the old adage that you can lead a horse to water, but you can't make it drink' is being aptly demonstrated."

One of the most powerful boats ever constructed for this purpose is now under construction here. It is capable of throwing 16,000 gallons of water per minute. ## SIXTY-FOUR LIVE TO REMEMBER GRANDMA

REDLANDS, Cal. — They erect monuments to perpetuate the memory of great men and women, but as long as the 65 people of Mrs. Eliza S. Ousterhout's family live, her name will be perpetuated. "Grandma" Ousterhout, 91 when she died here, left 64 surviving her—five daughters, 27 grandchildren, 24 great-grandchildren and eight great-great-grandchildren. The venerable old lady was a native of England, and walked across the plains from Ohio to Utah before the days of railroads, because of her aversion to covered wagons. Later she moved to this city.

ENGINEER GAVE UP, WENT HOME

Says He Could Not Stand Indigestion Any Longer.—Relieved By Black-Draught.

Pulaski, Va.—How a railroad engineer was relieved of indigestion was described by Mr. C. K. Nelson, a Fourth Street resident of this city. Mr. Nelson said: "I was suffering from stomach trouble in 1917, and had been suffering for some time. I had a tightness in my chest, a shortness of breath. There seemed to be a heavy weight in the pit of my stomach, and quite a bit of nausea, yet I couldn't vomit. I tried different remedies, yet suffered on just the same. When in West Virginia, on a work train, I was in such a condition that I just gave up and came home. I couldn't stand to work, in my condition."

"Some one told me about Black-Draught. I started taking it in small doses after meals. It helped me and I went back to work."

"One morning while on my engine I felt like I would smother. I stopped in a little town, bought a package of Black-Draught, took a dose and later in the day took another dose. It relieved me and I have not had a bad spell like that in more than two and a half years."

RADIO TROUBLE SHOOTER HERE IS POSITIVE MIDLAND CAN HAVE GOOD RECEPTION; LITTLE MONEY NEEDED

By TED HUDSON (Midland Radio Receivers League)

Observations made in Midland during the last three months reveal that we have few major noises or high line noises, many small localized noises mostly on consumers equipment and a few weak "mushy" noises from the transient power line north of town. Station signals are weaker than the average for the same distance and fading is very severe at times.

As examples and to prove that these noises can be eliminated, the following four cases are typical. About the first of November many listeners on the south side of town complained of a loud roar which completely blotted out day-time reception and marred night programs. By using a portable set with a loop aerial which was very directional, this noise was found to be caused by a loose ground wire on a low voltage system near the Greenhill Hatchery. When the power company was notified, it immediately sent out men who repaired the break and the noise disappeared entirely.

Later complaints were received from the neighborhood of Illinois and Carrizo streets. This was a stubborn case which took considerable time and was found to be caused by a wire having punctured the rubber insulation and making contact with the metal chain of a front room chandelier. This noise was on a low voltage system which supplied several blocks of homes and wherever a radio was used the noise was noticed. A few inches of tape stopped this trouble.

Shortly after New Year at about 5:30 in the afternoon, a loud hissing sound ruined radio reception all over the north end of town. At 10 o'clock the next morning it was found by the employees of the power company, who had worked nearly all night, to be caused by a telephone wire which the high wind of the day before had loosened from its insulator and which was lying against the side of one of the high voltage transformers. As this transformer was connected to the high voltage distribution system, the noise was carried several miles in each direction. Anchoring the wire stopped the fuss.

The last case was found in the home of a local dentist and was a buzzing sound caused by two screws being loose in a switch on the porch light. Tightening the screws restored normal reception.

Nearly all of the noise in Midland can be cleared up at a very small expense. Following the lead of many other cities and towns, a radio club has been organized to combat the noise here by reporting and financing. Equipment made especially for the work and the time of one man will be needed to do the job. The club wants three huncred members at the dues of one dollar for the first six months and one dollar per year thereafter. This will allow it to keep the air rid of interference and insure good radio reception the year round.

Anyone interested can send his check to the Midland Radio Reception league, Box 371, Midland, Texas. In case enough money is not raised to go ahead with the work, all dues will be refunded.

For further details call any of the following officers of the club: Kenneth E. Ambrose, president; Frank Smith, vice-president, or Delaney Ward, secretary.

Delegations from Goodyear's sales branches in San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento, Reno, Fresno, Stockton, Los Angeles, Phoenix, Albuquerque and El Paso, have already registered. The purpose of the conference is to review 1930 accomplishments and discuss 1931 plans. This procedure is part of a thorough sales training program that has been in effect several years.

Would Legalize Betting at Fairs

AUSTIN, Jan. 23. (AP).—Prohibition caused fiery oratory in the house today but the debate was cut short by the speaker who ruled that the time for resolutions was past.

The oratory had started over a resolution approving the benefits of prohibition and pledging support to the eighteenth amendment.

Representative Forbes had declared that had Alfred E. Smith not taken a stand favoring repeal of prohibition he would have been elected president.

The senate spent most of the morning considering rules.

Representative Pope and others introduced a house bill permitting contribution system betting at state, district and county fairs. The sponsors predicted its passage without much difficulty.

Only Lonesome Few To Be Left off List

Final reports of directors who are themselves conducting the short chamber of commerce membership campaign are expected to show about 60 new members in the organization. Elliott F. Cowden led the list of directors reporting on prospects Thursday.

Midland people are responding in that famous "Midland spirit" to the war cry in Midland that: "Some towns take a choice of either going forward or backward; in Midland there is no choice—Midland must go forward." Only a very lonesome few are declining to join the organization so they may have the privilege of knowing they are doing their full share in community work.

Membership is open to all believers in Midland. Those not seen already by a membership solicitor are invited to call at the chamber of commerce office for a card, or telephone and one will be sent. Someone might accidentally be overlooked. Women and men who have rental property, houses or apartments will be expected to join if they wish their places kept on the rental lists by the chamber of commerce.

A roll showing every member classified by business, profession, or calling will be sent every member within a few days. About 350 names will be on the list.

DUNAWAY TO BE SPEAKER AT BIG CLASS SUNDAY

Judge G. W. Dunaway, lay leader and adult class teacher in the First Christian church of Midland will speak 5 to 10 minutes Sunday morning at the Men's class at Hotel Scharbauer. The regular teacher will then take charge so Judge Dunaway may return to his own class.

The following Sunday Judge Charles L. Klapproth will teach the big class of men at the Scharbauer, as he is not now teaching any other class. Judge Klapproth is a lay leader and former Sunday school superintendent in the First Methodist church.

Dr. W. Bristow Gray, Presbyterian evangelist, and Revs. Howard Peters, Edwin C. Calhoun and Thomas D. Murphy have already made brief talks to the class. Other lay leaders in various churches will be asked from time to time to talk 5 to 10 minutes to the class.

An attendance of 150 is expected Sunday morning at 9:45. Coter Hiett and his committees are working hard. Last Sunday gentlemen and oil men led the lists with numbers present and union men were a close third.

INVITATIONS MAILED

Ninety cards were mailed out to oil men Friday by James S. Noland, chairman of the oil men's division of the Men's class which meets each Sunday at Hotel Scharbauer. The cards invite the men to attend the mammoth new class at the Scharbauer which is open to every man in Midland not now attending some other Sunday school.

Skeletons Found; Killed by Reds

MOBETTIE, Texas. (AP).—Two skeletons—believed those of early pioneers who fell victims of Indian raids—lay buried more than half a century on the banks of Graham creek, three miles south of Mobettie, before being unearthed recently by pipe line workers.

Imbedded between two vertebrae of one of the skeletons was an arrowhead, red in color, perfectly shaped and about three inches long. Another arrowhead, of white stone and about an inch long, was found in one of the ribs.

It was more than 55 years ago when the last Indian raid on record was made in this section.

The first skeleton measured about five feet and six inches in height. The jaws were narrow and the head was smaller than that of the average man. Age of the victim of the arrowheads was estimated at 40 years.

While the skeleton uncovered by the pipeline workers was being unearthed, under the direction of Jack A. Mead, of Miami, the second was found near the same spot. Many bones were shattered during the excavation, and the teeth dropped out of the skulls. But enough of the remains were preserved to provide study for archeologists.

YOAKUM TO PLANT

Tomatoes will be planted on 3000 acres in the Yoakum section in 1931, according to D. E. Holster, who has received a letter from relatives there.

In most instances plants already are up and growing in hot-beds and cold frames are being put in shape to receive the plants at the proper time for transfer.

Industrial Survey By Blanton Begins

An Industrial and Economical Survey of the Midland district is being prepared under contract for the Texas Electric Service company by Burt C. Blanton, consulting industrial engineer, of Dallas.

Preliminary work on the survey was begun several months ago, and the project will be completed on or about March 1st, 1931, Aubrey S. Legg, district manager said.

This survey, which will be exhaustive in character and scope, will enumerate the industrial potentialities and plans for possible development of latent resources and raw materials in the district to be utilized by new industries if established. The report likewise will anticipate the future development and growth of the area from the standpoint of electrical facilities and power for commercial, domestic and industrial purposes.

The report and recommendations will be utilized by the Texas Electric Service company in planning its future facilities and requirements, together with plans for exploitation of the district's industrial possibilities, and in formulating a program of development, extending over the period of the next decade, in the agricultural, commercial and industrial fields.

Blanton has won recognition as an authority in the field of industrial engineering, serving financial, industrial and utility interests; and during the period of the past eight years has made numerous surveys and reports of this specific type, including reports on the cities of Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio, Waco, and other cities and districts in the middle west and southern states.

Report Says Graft Agents Are Busy

Grafters of all kinds were still loose in Midland Friday, a brief survey showed, and civic workers warned the people to keep their eyes "peeled" or prepare to be fleeced.

Among visiting salesmen are cafe menu ad solicitors, stocking peddlers, magazine solicitors, fur and rug peddlers, the report said.

It is pointed out to merchants and all citizens of Midland that club magazine subscriptions can be had at news stands or from local agents; stockings, rug, furs, etc., can be bought at local stores, and if they are not okeh, can be returned; local printers are glad to publish menus when needed, and the newspaper has valuable, proved advertising space for sale, it was pointed out.

WET FORECAST FOR MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS. (UP).—A forecast of considerable rain for Memphis and environs during January, February and March was made here recently by F. W. Brist, government meteorologist, after announcing that 1930 was an abnormally dry year and that 103 days of drought in the summer set a new record.

Brunson Sees a Good Cattle Year

By W. D. VAN BLARCOM. (Star-Telegram Writer)

W. W. (Bill) Brunson of Midland, one of the most conservative cattlemen of the Southwest, expressed himself Thursday in Ft. Worth as seeing a prosperous year for the cowmen, especially the feeder. He predicts a big calf and lamb crop this Spring, with prices for "stuff on the hoof" bringing such prices before Fall as to not only make a handsome profit on the "carry over" but go a long way toward wiping out losses sustained last year.

"The mild Winter we have had so far, with a seasoning that has produced weeds and grass all over the State almost sufficient to make feeding unnecessary," is saving the cattlemen a big feeding bill," Brunson said. "In some sections it has not been necessary to feed at all, while in others the cake bill has been mighty small. All of which means that in the Spring cattle will go to market fat, with a comparatively small Winter feed bill behind them. Some breeders and feeders in my section have already contracted their stuff at a nice profit. Buyers are keen for desirable stuff, with few sellers. The breeders anticipate good prices this Summer and are holding onto their cattle."

"The demand of packing houses on the Pacific Coast is increasing. They are looking to Texas for their usual supply. Heretofore most of their stuff came from Arizona and New Mexico. But there has been on grass in those two States, with the result that cattle have been either sold at a loss or shipped to Texas and Northern States for pasture.

"Sheep raisers look for an exceptionally large lamb crop this Spring, due to the mild Winter and the abundance of feed. The safe general condition holds good as regards calves. Taken as a whole, the livestock situation is more promising today than it has been for several years. Men who held their stock will be able to sell at a handsome profit, so large, in fact, as to help wipe out debts incurred last year. And feeders will make money, because they have had the grass, with little or no cake to buy."

Midland Aids in Odessa Ceremony

Marcos Gist and W. M. Allen were nominated for past chancellor commanders of the Odessa lodge, in order that public installation of the present chancellor for command, J. W. Carson, may be made in accordance with Pythian law.
