Picket Lines Form At Meat Packing Plants

Truman Effort Fails To Stop Action By CIO

CHICAGO, March 16. (AP) Picket lines formed at the nation's meat packing plants today as 100,000 CIO employes were called out on strike despite a last-minute effort by President Truman to settle the wage dispute.

The work stoppage, affecting approximately 140 of the country's major and independent meat plants, is expected to cut in half the nation's meat supply.

The strike became effective at 12:01 a. m. local time, and immediately pickets were posted in several of the cities across the country, included Chicago, where 20,000 workers are involved.

All of the major packers and scores of independent companies were affected by the strike, ordered last night by the 27-man executive committee of the ClO-United Packing House Workers of

However, about 150,000 other employes in the meat plants were expected to remain at work. They are members of the independent unions and of the AFL Amalgamated Meat Cutters union which have settled their wage differences with the packers.

The committee, after receiving Mr. Truman's telegram urging the work stoppage be delayed while a special board of inquiry investigated the dispute, telegraphed the President "the strike must pro-

"A delay in strike action at this time would obviously serve no fruitful purpose in promoting a solution of this wage issue," the committee told President Truman.

Mr. Truman had asked the union to continue negotiations until the board reported to him on April 1. UMW President Lewis, there was the President the strike would have been delayed 80 days.

As the strike deadline arrived, panies, Swift, Armour, Wilson, Cudahy and Morrell. There was no untoward incident.

The strike stemmed from a dispute over the CIO union's demand or a wage increase of 29 cents an hour. The packers offered a pay boost of nine cents an hour, which recently was granted the AFL

GOP Pushes 'Local Option' Rent Controls

Party Lines Up To Ram Its Bill Through House

WASHINGTON, March 16. (AP)-Republicans lined up to ram through the House today a 'local option" rent control bill.

Assailed by democratic opponents as a control measure "in name only," the bill would take give it to local boards nominated non-communist Europe. by the governors.

people in the various localities. Foes of the bill claimed some will discuss the "foreign situation." boards are "stacked" with real estate operators.

Rep. Monroney (D-Okla) called for a vote on a move to strike out the 'local option' provision and retain some form of veto power in the hands of the Federal rent administrator.

Monroney said he had little hope that his maneuver would succeed. The House expects to pass the bill before nightfall.

It would extend modified rent controls to April 1, 1949. The Senate has voted to continue controls to May 1, 1949. It rejected the "local option" idea. Representatives of the two houses will get together later in an attempt to iron out their differences. the Marshall plan. There now are 647 rent control areas, affecting about 13,000,000 houses and apartments, the homes of some 50,000,000 persons. During yesterday's opening debate on the bill, Monroney told the

The first was in 1824. Andrew Jackson won more electoral votes than John Quincy Adams. But he lacked a majority since there was a third candidate. In such cases the law requires that the House choose the winner by simple majority, with each state casting one vote. Adams was elected.

The southern Democrats fighting Mr. Truman say they can refuse to cast the electoral votes from their solidly Democratic southern states. This might guarantee the election of a Republican president or throw the election into the House of Representatives.

These southern states control a block of 127 electoral votes. Without them no Democrat could hope to be elected. There have been many and fre quent suggestions in Congress that the Electoral College be done away with. But the Constitution would have to be changed to do this, and changing the Constitution is a slow process.

Japs Surprised By The Criticism Of MacArthur

TOKYO, March 16. - Japanese were both bewildered and surprised vesterlay over the first criticism of General MacArthur to appear in their newspapers.

Adverse as well as favorable comments on MacArthur's willingness to run for president have appeared in all Tokyo newspapers in dispatches from the United States and Russia. This followed the supreme commander's relaxation of censorship by his staff of all 'American political attacks' against him. The press still is not permitted to criticize him as occupation commander, however.

"MacArthur is showing us now how democracy works," a radio shopkeeper told a reporter. "We Japanese got so we considered him a demi-god. But that is not right. This acceptance of criticism by leaders is one reason why democracy is strong."

While Other New Car Prices Are Advancing

HERE'S WHY Kaiser-Frazer can make this announcement while other new car prices spiral upward. Kaiser-Frazer controls its own supply of many basic raw materials . . . has its own engine plant, foundry and steel mill. Materials from these sources funnel into new and modern Willow Runthe largest automobile manufacturing plant in the world under one roof.

Unfinished steel goes in one end of this great plant and comes out a quality automobile, ready to be driven away. All this is accomplished in a matter of hours, and with the economy of Kaiser-Frazer straight-line production. This is an achievement of men who are injecting new methods and ideas into an old industry.

In the new 1948 Kaiser, Frazer, Kaiser Custom, and Frazer Manhattan you get all the features

No Wonder Dr. Papanek Got Discharged

Dr. Jan Papanek has been fired as Czechoslovakian representative to the United Nations. He has refused to recognize the dismissal, which certainly was not surprising to anyone, and least of all to Dr. Papanek.

To understand this, it is necessary to go back to a press conference Dr. Papanek held last week. Although interviews are a dime a dozen at UN headquarters, some 150 correspondents and a few diplomats turned out to hear what the Czech representative had to say. Here are a few of the

Squaring Some Corporate Boundaries

There is more residential construction activity here than the building permits would indicate, for the simple reason that a considerable portion is going on right next to but outside of the city limits, Which brings up a point which might bear some study, namely, the extension of city boundaries in at least three points.

Many factors are involved, including interest of residents in the area affected. The city also has some considerations, for it has a moral if not a legal obligation to furnish certain basic services to areas within the corporate limits.

At the moment, there seems to us to be need for extending the limits in the southwest corner to include and extend westward beyond the veterans hospital site; a reasonable extension immediately south of Washington Place, and another immediately north of Washington Place. The latter two involve areas already teeming with activity or supporting a sizeable number of residences, and the former is destined for development because of the hospital.

There are some advatnages to being inside corporate limits-lower insurance and lower water rates, to mention a couple. The city also benefits from additional taxable values.

In another year, the books will be made on the decennial census, and if we are to do any squaring of corporate lines, it would be helpful to accomplish them before that time.

Hopes Slim For Unity In Ireland

Eamon De Valera undoubtedly was voicing the burning hope of his people when he predicted in New York the other day that Eire and northern Ireland ultimately would be united into one

His prediction also was pleasing to the ear of the host of Irish Americans who welcomed him back to the city of his birth. The fighting Irishman, who lost the prime ministership of Eire as the result of the recent general election, after holding that position sixteen years, declared the day will arrive when an Irish leader will come to the United States and announce that Ireland "from sea to sea is now completely

"I admit." he added. "that I would like to be that person." De Valera doesn't say how soon argument.

he expects the union of Eire and northern Ireland to take place. Of course time heals a lot of wounds but, having studied that situation at close range for many years, I should say that the chances of an early union are rather slim. It's hard to believe it possible that there could be such a clash of interests between two sections of a tight little isle like the land of silver lakes and the shamrock. But the bitterness of the differences has been recorded in blood many times through the genera-

However, there are other differences. Northern Ireland of course is a part of the United Kingdom-a very important part which England can't afford to lose. Many of the people are of Scotch, Welsh and English descent, so that the racial element enters into the situation. How One Voter Saved Farwell

R. C. Hopping, sheriff of the newly created county of Parmer in the old XIT spread, boarded the train at El Paso to return home. He had been dubious of the outcome of his mission from the beginning but he had nevertheless been thorough in his

As his train left the region of the Rio Grande and the fine alkali dust of the semi-desert sifted in through the closed window, Sheriff Hopping tried to visualize what his failure would mean back

"It simply means that Farwell loses the election-and its chance for the county seat," he told him-

Farwell had recently sustained one major blow, and that should share the honor, along with its twin city just across the state line, of being the divisional point of the Santa Fe, they had both been suddenly by-passed. The railway had laid out a new town, called Clovis, and both Farwell and Texico had been left to fight for their very existence.

have been enough. Expecting to

But now that Parmer had broken loose from Deaf Smith county, Farwell again had a chance for the lime light.

"Or did." Sheriff Hopping muttered as he thought of his fruitless search. One Katerina Rubal Coba, a Mexican, had voted and then disappeared. And now the validity of the entire election depended on producing this one

Yet, despondent as he was, Hopping had to chuckle as he recalled the assistance of the XIT cowhands in casting their vote for Farwell. Since a man's legal residence in a town was based on his having his laundry done there, their outfit had brought their laundry in to Farwell every two or three months. And their votes had gone unquestioned.

Sheriff Hopping alighted from the train with his problem still unsolved. But the newly elected Judge Hamlin was thorough in all respects, and before the deadline was reached, the missing Coba had been produced.

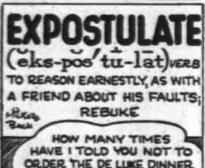

Thus Farwell really became the county seat on the sworn testimony of one voter.

Looking Back At The 1940 Election

OF THE four elections in which . the Republican party was defeated by Roosevelt, the third-that of 1940 when Wendell Willkie was the candidate-is, I think, the one which is the most instructive today. After twelve years of Republican administration and in the midst of very bad times there was nothing partcularly unusual about the Democratic victories of 1932 and 1936. No Republican could have won those elections, just as no Democrat could have won the election of 1920.

Nor was the 1944 election, which was lost by a fairly narrow margin, particularly significant in view of the very special circumstance that Governor Dewey had to contest it with President Roosevelt at the climax of

But 1940 was a critical test. The conventions and the campaign took place in the darkest and most dangerous period of the war: just after the fall of France, during the Battle of Britain, and before the United States was committed. Both party conventions responded in an extraordinary way to the enormous crisis of that spring and The Democratic party broke with the tradition which had been in effect an untouchable part of the unwritten constitution of the United States. It nominated a President for a third term. The Republican convention responded to the crisis in a no less extraordinary way: it nominated a man who had never been in Republican politics, who eight years earlier had been active in the Democratic convention a man who stood for the very things to which the party was opposed: a suporter of the League of Nations and of aid to Britain and an opponent of isolationism.

The nomination of Willkie by the Republican convention was an admission that the Republican party's record and position did not fit the crisis of the war. But after the initial enthusiasm for Willkie, it soon transpired that he could not alter the position of ship.

his party and that therefore he could not lead it effectively. Willkie's nomination was, so to speak, superficial, not the result of a genuine change of the party's position on the American interest in the vital issues of war and peace.

Roosevelt's third election was made conceivable, then plausible, then acceptable, and finally inevitable, because it was plain not only to the Democrats but to many normally Republican voters that as a party the Republicans were unprepared to govern in the crisis of the war. There was Willkie, to be sure, but quite evidently he did not truly represent his party, and Republicans like Stimson, Austin, Wadsworth, were at best a tolerated minority.

The question this year is whether the Republican party has been sufficiently reconditioned and realigned to do now what it was unprepared to do in 1940-to rise to the great issues of war and peace. It could happen, to be sure, that the question could be evaded if, as is not inconceivable. the Truman administration continues to disintegrate. But even if that were to happen, it would not be safe for the Republican party to evade the question. For though it might muddle through to a victory over Truman, it cannot hope to muddle through the next critical years with a party that has not been firmly united under strongly organized leaderchieftains made some progress in healing "civil rights" bitterness during their closed-door sessions last week-but not too much.

This time some of the rebellion came not merely from the South, but from the North, Ed Flynn, boss of the Bronx and the man who had much to do with nominating Truman in '44 declined to attend. After Truman, without consulting democratic leaders, announced that he was a candidate, Flynn sent word that he was not coming to Washington "to play ring-around-a-rosie.

Ed Kelly, ex-mayor of Chicago and another stalwart who helped put Turman in office, also failed to show up. On the other hand, homespun ex-Governor Bob Kerr of Oklahoma, keynoter of the last democratic convention in 1944, this time keynoted the drive to restore harmony. "If we want to win the election this year." reminded Kerr, "and I know that's uppermost in the minds of all democrats, "we've got to work together as a united party. The democratic party is big enough to have disagreements-even big disagreements like the one-and still present a united front."

Kerr spoke after Chairman Howard McGrath had argued implored and coaxed that democratic factions patch up their split over Truman's civil-rights program.

"I'll admit that the President's message may not have been timed well and some may object to the manner in which it was presented to congress," said McGrath, "but after all it is the mandate of the party. Civil rights was part of the 1944 party platform. All President Truman did was ask Congress to put into law something to which the democratic party already is commit-

McGrath went on to point out that Truman's message was misunderstood by many people, especially that part relating to 'segregation" of races in public carriers. All the President did, in effect, was to call attention to a Supreme Court ruling that Jim Crow laws were illegal on buses and other carriers in interstate transportation, the democratic chairman emphasized. GOP HAS TROUBLES

McGrath got strong support from his fellow Rhode Island senator, Theodore Green, and from Indiana's bulky Frank McHale. "This trouble in the party has been greatly exaggerated." declared the alert 81-year-old senator from Rhode Island. "The republicans have their difficulties too-over the question of choos ing a nominee. I think that the WASHINGTON - Democratic strife within republican ranks will become more and more bitter as the campaign wears on.

"All this talk about Truman not being a strong candidate does not make sense," continued Green. "We can win with him if democrats give him their united support. There was a feeling that Roosevelt would be defeated when he ran for a third term in 1940 and a fourth term in 1944. "Now, as then, we put too much stock in what the newspapers are saying. All the big papers in Rhode Island opposed Roosevelt, while 80 per cent of the republican-controlled press in the rest of the nation was against him. He won overwhelmingly despite this editorial opposition. Harry Truman will do the same." McHale belittled the "Wallace threat" to democrat election chances.

"The people of Indiana are traditionally against third parties,' said the committeeman from Indiana, "Teddy Roosevelt received only slightly more than 40,000 votes in Indiana when he ran as a Bull Mooser, and Father Coughlin's third party in 1936 was laughed at in my part of the country. That's why we're not worrying about Wallace and his commie supporters." IRE CONTINUES

However, southern spokesmen asserted they were all the more incensed by the civil-rights message because southern states were well on the way to eliminating the discriminations Truman singled out. Lynching is now practically nonexistent in the south. Some southern states already had repealed the poll tax. Others, including Virginia, were preparing to do so.

In Alabama, southern spokesmen said, colored workers were paid the same wage scale as whites in many industries. In North Carolina, white and colored teachers get the same salaries.

McGrath said he was well aware of these strides, therefore understood the criticism leveled at the Administration's program. That criticism, however, he contended, should not be directed personally at the President, who was only carrying out party policy, laid down by Franklin Roose-

It's an indirect lobbying plan somewhat similar to the Army's system of flying civilians to Fort Knox to view the trial military training school. This lobbying recently was censored severely by Congress.

The Navy's next course for civilians opens March 23 at the Pensacola, Fla., naval air station, with 60 educators, editors and businessmen invited.

"These men will come from near-by southern states and will pay all their own expenses," plained Capt. A. MacOndray, officer in charge of the project. When pinned down, however, MacOndray admitted that three men have been invited to fly all the way from Alaska in naval planes, and that several others are also traveling at government expense.

'But." insisted, Captain Mac-Ondray, "they will have to pay for their own meals." WAR JITTERS

Official Washington today gives all the appearances of having a bad case of war jitters or else planning a deliberate show of military activity in order to outbluff the Russians.

All last week, lights in the Army's giant Pentagon building were burning late - sometimes until 4 a. m. Simultaneously, telegrams have been sent to large groups of reserve officers to be ready in case of trouble. No one has been called officially, but many have been warned that they may be called. In addition, Army representatives have visited certain key factories and inquired about plans for rapid conversion of their plants in case of trouble. The Army has been especially interested in cement factories pointing out that it may be necessary to do a lot of underground construction.

Behind this, war chiefs admit, have been some ominous moves by the Russian Army, which has now concentrated heavy reinforcements either in Russian-occupied Germany or else near the German border. WILL MOSCOW MOVE?

There is no way of knowing just what this means. It may mean that the Russians are prepared to move into western Europe in retaliation for the western European alliance and the U. S.-British-French plan for a separate control of the Ruhr.

Or it may merely mean that the Russians are shifting their troops around in order to intimidate the Italians on the eve of the election and also to scare the United States. It is considered unlikely that Russia really wants war now, so it may well be that the Russian troop maneuvers are a bluff.

In any event, U. S. war chiefs, having been caught napping at Pearl Harbor, are taking no chances again.

To this end, only a few U. S. troops are being left in Germany. Large U. S. forces there might tempt the Russians to deliver a crippling blow and execute a Dunkirk.

Should Moscow not be bluffing and suddenly advance through Germany, plans are all set for the U. S. Army to high-tail it across the continent and on to England.

From this refuge the war of atomic bombs would be waged. However, the length of time England could hold out is problematical. It is estimated that should the Russian army start advancing across western Europe they

They were gathered to hear the farewell address of their leader, Maj. Gen. "Slim Jim" Gavin, who has been promoted to chief of staff of the Fifth Army in Chicago. .

"I'm not here to say 'goodbye," because I'll really never leave the division," said General Jim. "I'll always be here in spirit."

And for about five minutes he told them in simple soldierly language what it had meant to him to be their leader. He said that their division "will never die." and that what they had done in its name gave them an immortality too.

When he finished, there wasn't a man in the room who wouldn't willingly have followed him off to another war.

The farewell marked another climax in one of the most brilliant military careers of the modern American Army.

It meant a step up for "Slim Jim." but it left 17,000 division troopers saddened at the loss of a commander thay had loved for his youth, his friendliness-and

Cincinnati Building Hopes Around Sensational Hurler

TAMPA, Fia., March 16 (P-On) paper, the Cincinnati Reds are one of the most improved teams in the National League this spring. After talking with Manager Johnny Neun it is simple to deduct that he has his sights set on the first division. The Reds finished fifth last season, 21 games back of the Brooklyn Dodgers and eight behind the fourth place New York Giants.

With the talent on nand at Plant Field here the Reds could be the big surprise of a wide-open National League flag chase.

Neun is a changed man. This time last spring it was difficult to get him to talk. He was new to the league and was taking his first whack at running a big league team. Now the former Yankee coach is only too glad to tell the numerous baseball writers in Florida just what is on his mind. "My big job is the pitching staff." says Neun. "Of course, we all know what Ewell Blackwell can do."

Blacky is only 25 and may go on to become a great pitcher over the years. The six-six 190-pounder with the baggy whip arm won 22 games and lost eight to lead bot leagues last season. He appears in great shape despite losing 10 pounds following an arack of in-

The one emblem that commands respect and honor the world over is the revered Red Cross-symbol of humanity and the banner under which people of every race, religion and nationality may work together in creating international goodwill and universal peace.

The Red Cross has always faced two responsibilities -one of serving our armed forces, both at home and abroad, and the other in providing aid for stricken and unfortunate civilians. Now a third responsibility has been added-assistance, advice and counsel for returned veterans.

The American Red Cross has faithfully and efficiently carried on its work since its inception in 1864. No organization ever faced a greater task than did the Red Cross during World War II. The chapter to which you subscribe assumed its full share of this burden and covered itself with glory in carrying out its assignments.

Now, in peacetime, that work goes on. The need for aid for servicemen, veterans and civilians alike never ceases. The need for funds to continue this great work never ends. Give gladly to your Red

RESIDENT RECEIVES TRAGIC TALE OF BREMEN WAR VICTIMS

The story of dislocation and dispossession after two World Wars is related in a letter received by Harold P. Steck from Otto Furgler of Bremen, Germany. How Furgler got hold of his name Steck does not know unless it is through a friend of his now stationed in Germany, or possibly from seeing the return address on a letter head. Briefly, Furgler said he and his wife's possessions in old Austria were absorbed in Czechoslovakia after the first War and following the second one were expropriated. Thus they came to Bremen as beggars, he said.

Because they were normal consumers, they get the minimum food allotment, too little for sustenance, too much for starvation. He appealed for food packages. Steck is having his friend to check authenticity of the story.
