Lubbock Meet Asks Authority to Fix Utility Rates

Mayor Leon Goodman of Midland was elected president of the West Texas Municipal association here today. His election was made unanimous after halloing on his name and that of Mayor Clements of Lubbock. The constitution and by-laws submitted by Goodman's committee were adopted unanimously without change. Mayor Clements and A. B. Davis welcomed the delegates at the luncheon, Paul T. Vickers of Midland responded to the welcome address.

committee's report to be submitted at noon to a gathering of 100 representatives of 50 cities at Lubbock.

The arrival of Mayor Leon Goodman of Midland by plane was expected, his report on a constitution for the West Texas city officials association being of major importance.

The gas controversy committee will recommend to the association that member towns attempt to secure competition for gas companies now serving and that, if unable to do so, such cities take steps to own their distributing systems, banding together to construct transportation pipe lines.

Support of utility legislation favorable to cities sponsored by the Texas League of Municipalities will be urged in the committee's report. The committee will also urge that no court action against gas companies be taken until after legislation involved is acted upon by the state legislature.

WOULD ABOLISH TEXAS SENATE; HAS NEW PLAN

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 24 (P)—Representative Richardson of Grand Saline is considering introduction of a resolution which would abolish the Texas senate and concentrate legislative authority in the hands of the house of representatives.

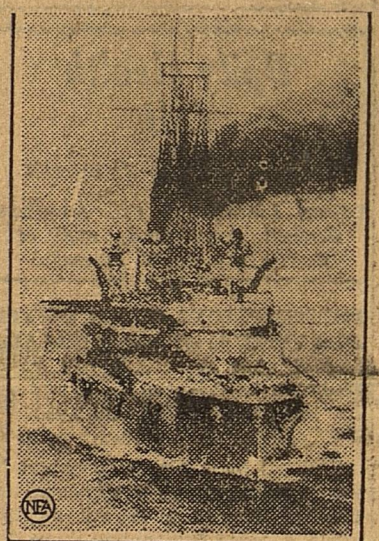

"Uncle Dan," as the veteran is referred to by most of his colleagues, expressed the opinion that two houses were not necessary to the operation of the state's business. Abolition of the senate, according to Representative Richardson, would be of benefit to the state through speeding up legislation and elimination of the expense of conducting the upper house.

The veto power, under his plan, would be vested in the governor and an advisory council of nine or ten eminent jurists, to be appointed by the chief executive, subject to the approval and confirmation of the house of representatives. The members of the council would hold office for four years and would be subject to dismissal for official misbehavior by a two-thirds vote of the house.

GIRLS NEED LESS SLEEP, HAVE FEWER DREAMS

CLEVELAND, O.—Girls are far better sleepers than men and, as a result, feel more peppy and less grouchy in the morning, Dr. Donald Laird, of Colgate University, said in an address here.

An "inter-collegiate good sleep contest" between boys of Colgate and girls at Skidmore showed that girls have less trouble going to sleep, wake up fewer times and have fewer dreams.

"If you need an alarm clock to waken you, then you need more sleep," the slumber expert said.

SLEPT THROUGH 'QUAKE, BUT CAN'T STAND WIFE'S NAGGING

PORTLAND, Ore.—Alfred N. Standal is enjoying the comparative quiet of single bliss, after a successful suit for divorce.

Standal, a deaf mute, slept through the San Francisco earthquake and didn't become aware of the disaster until the following morning.

But he couldn't stand his wife's nagging, even though — being a deaf mute—she did it in the sign language. His petition stated that his wife made home life impossible with her complaining. Friends said that on different occasions one of the parties involved would turn off the lights during arguments, making the other's sign language less effective.

AUTO BUS STRUCK BY BIG TRUCK

Truck Driver Held as Responsible; Two Others Hurt

BRENHAM, Feb. 24.—(AP)—W. W. Warner, advance agent for Roxy's Gang, New York theatrical troupe, was killed and 13 persons injured when a cotton truck and bus sideswiped near Burton.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Wright, Houston teacher of languages in Giddings high school and Miss Bessie Black, principal of Giddings school, were seriously injured.

L. L. Fowler, Elgin, truck driver, is charged with murder and held here. The W. C. Dunks Motor Freight company, Elgin, is owner of the truck. The bus passengers praised J. A. Rosenberg, Austin, bus driver, saying his handling prevented the bus overturning. The bus was en route to Houston from Austin.

PROMINENT WEST TEXAS MERCHANT DIES SUNDAY

F. F. Gary, 60, veteran business man of West Texas and a prominent merchant of Midland until 1905, died at a Big Spring hospital at 11 p. m. Sunday from a heart attack.

Mr. Gary was stricken February 11, and was taken to the hospital the following day. He was thought to have been recovering slowly when the second attack caused his death.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lillian Gary, two daughters, Mrs. Charles K. Bivings, 102 Lincoln street, and Mrs. F. H. Etheridge, Los Angeles, and one son, McCall Gary, of Mexico City.

Three grandchildren, Frank Gary Bivings, Lillian Frances Etheridge, and Fletcher Hanson Etheridge Jr., also survive.

Surviving brothers and sisters include R. N. and C. P. Gary of Colorado, Mrs. Hardy Curry, Reagan; Mrs. Claud Turner, Houston; and Mrs. Lucy Canady, Marlin.

Francis Pencher Gary was born in Arkadelphia, Ark., Nov. 2, 1870, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Gary. As a youth he moved to Texas from Arkansas, having been a resident of Texas for 50 years.

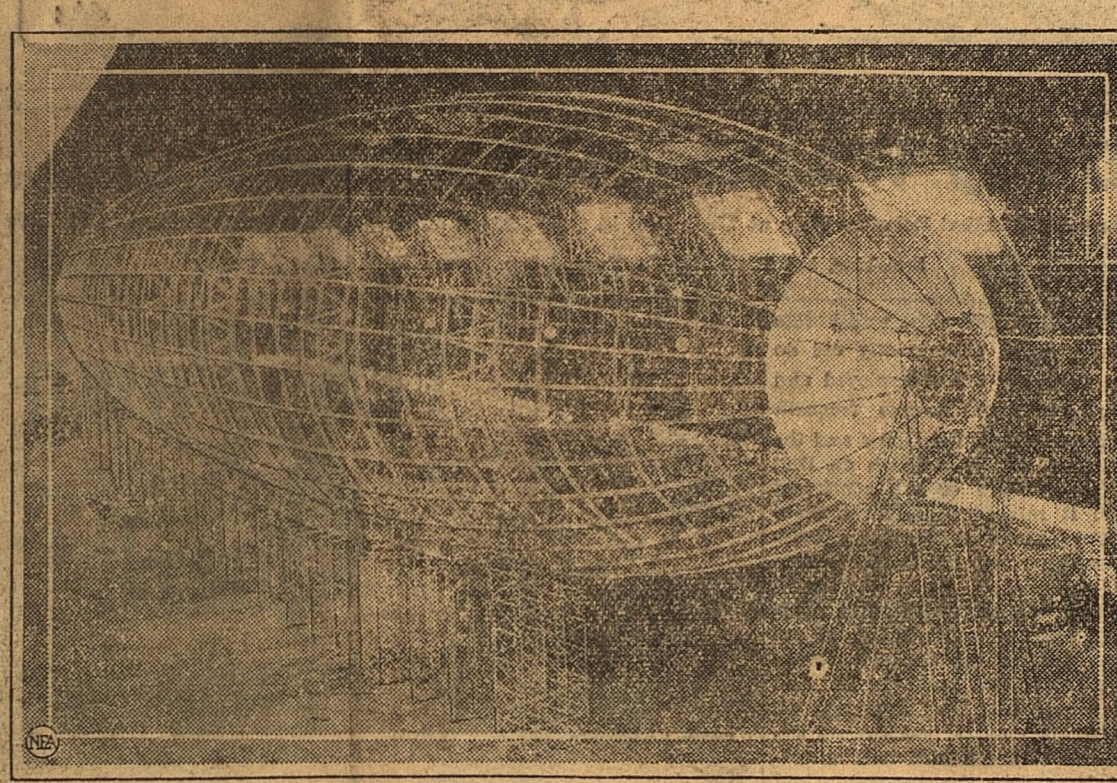

On January 3, 1894 he and Miss Lillian Largent of Colorado were married at Colorado.

Mr. Gary entered the mercantile business in Colorado when 18 years old, and was actively engaged in managing his Big Spring store until less than 15 days before his death. In 1896 Mr. Gary moved to Big Spring where he purchased a mercantile business. Two years later he moved to Midland. He owned a store in Midland, remaining here until 1905, when he returned to Big Spring.

Mr. Gary's business career in Colorado, Midland and Big Spring extended over a period of 42 years. Mr. Gary's acquaintanceship in this section was widespread. His business dealings brought him in contact with ranchmen and farmers in this and surrounding counties.

Funeral Not Set Funeral services had not been arranged late yesterday. They were pending until the arrival of McCall Gary, who is in Monterey. Mr. Gary was at his father's bedside earlier in the week, but returned to Mexico when Mr. Gary rallied from his first attack. The services will be held at the (See MERCHANT DIES page 6)

Covering Now Being Put on Huge U. S. Dirigible

The huge steel frame of the Akron, the U. S. Navy's great new dirigible being built at Akron, Ohio, is now getting its covering of fabric and is at last beginning to look like an airship, as this picture shows. Workmen have started covering the nose and are going backward. The Akron, being built by the Goodyear-Zeppelin company, is due to make its maiden flight this summer.

PRODUCERS COMPLAINTS HEARD

FORT WORTH, Feb. 24 (P)—A. H. Priest, secretary of the livestock traffic association, was in Austin today conferring with the state highway department concerning complaints of Oklahoma produce men that they were being stopped on the south side of the Red River and made to buy Texas license tags before being allowed to proceed to the stock markets.

Fort Worth commission men are investigating the report that Oklahoma officers are retaliating by requiring Texas trucks to have Oklahoma licenses.

Oklahoma City reports said that the Oklahoma state highway commission is investigating.

Gainesville reported that Dock Dudley, former Gainesville police chief, last week was appointed state highway patrolman and was instructed to enforce the registration requirements, seeing that all interstate trucks have Texas license.

Cooke county records show that F. B. Cobb of Chackerville, who complained to the livestock association, had paid for license without stating in what business he was engaged.

ONE KILLED, ONE WOUNDED AS WALK OUT ROW STARTS

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Feb. 24.—(UP)—Alberta Bachman, 20, was killed, Mrs. Elsie Bachman, 25, and Russell Hastie, 25, were wounded when fired upon early today in the first outbreak from the walkout of the Mammoth Hosiery mills.

Clark Miller, former striker who returned to work and whose home was stoned last night, waited inside the house for the return of the throwers. Early today, an auto stopped across the street and two men alighted. Miller called to them to halt and the two refused. Miller fired in the air, then at a rear tire and the car halted. Miller and a neighbor found the girl dead in the rear seat. Mrs. Bachman and Hastie were wounded and two other girls and a man were unhurt.

Magician Pastors To Preach Here

Sermons and ministers shaken out of a hat will be the order of procedure here Sunday when ministers of the four largest Protestant churches meet at the parsonage of the First Christian church.

The Rev. Howard Peters, pastor of the First Christian church, will act as the gospel croupier, shaking the names of ministers and churches in a hat. Each will draw, and the Christian minister will take what is left. No one will preach at his own church—only that is listed as a provision.

The ministers will go through this drawing only five minutes before he appears in the pulpit he draws. The biggest crowds of the year are expected to attend, it being assumed that the novelty of the plan will draw many.

Sheriff Takes Man Charged as Robber

They don't make histrionic gestures in this county and get by with it. Sheriff A. C. Francis Monday captured J. K. Burns in Crosbyton and returned him to Midland to face a charge of robbing a train here several weeks ago.

An engineer and fireman of Big Spring were robbed of money and watches one night while a freight was on a siding awaiting the clearance of a passenger train.

Upon the engineer saying he couldn't afford to endanger lives by running on the main line without a watch one of the men, there were two of them, returned the watch and climbed down from the cab.

The two men parked their car beside the Bankhead highway while pulling off the job.

VALIDITY OF 18 AMENDMENT IS SUSTAINED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP)—Supreme court today sustained the validity of the 18th amendment in ruling in the government's appeal from the decision by Federal Judge William Clark, New Jersey, that the amendment was invalid because it was improperly ratified.

Clark held that to be valid, the amendment should have been submitted to state conventions for ratification rather than to state legislatures.

The supreme court found this view untenable. Under the decision, the government continues its efforts to enforce the Volstead law.

Relative Midland Man Dies Monday

W. H. Strader of the Texas company filling station on West Wall street received word that a brother-in-law died Monday in San Angelo.

The dead man was the husband of a former society editor of the San Angelo Standard-Times.

Strader left for the funeral services, which will be held in San Angelo.

The Friday night presentation of "The Gossipy Sex," comedy of the little theatre, will begin promptly at 8:15, at the Yucca theatre. Tickets will go on sale, probably tomorrow.

The play is expected to draw not only from Midland a good attendance, but from Odessa and Stanton, as well. It has a well balanced cast and is cleverly written throughout.

CROSS QUESTIONING IS EMPLOYED TO ASK ABOUT HEAD SCAR ON DEFENDANT

State Rests Case, and Defense Places Bert Bennett on Stand; Sheriff Testifies Russell Accused Jones

The defense scored heavily with testimonies given during the morning session of district court in the trial of C. B. Jones, charged by indictment with the killing of Weldon L. Russell on January 25 here. Defense Attorney Sam K. Wasaff has been building an insanity predicate from his repeated questions to witnesses, getting ample information from those who had been associated with the defendant that he talked excessively about himself and his financial connections.

Wasaff has also made reference to a deep scar in Jones' head and has asked several witnesses if they had ever observed the scar, reciting affirmative replies. This head wound is believed likely to play an important part in an insanity plea if such is made. W. L. Floyd, Midland real estate man and long friend to the murdered man, was the first to take the stand this morning, a state witness.

Floyd identified the pistol used in the shooting of his friend and related in detail the different positions of those who were in the kitchen at the time the shooting took place.

According to the testimony, Floyd was about three feet from Jones when the shot was fired, but he did not see the shooting.

"I didn't know that gun was loaded with blank shells," Floyd testified he told Jones immediately after he heard the report of the gun and did not know that Russell had been struck by the bullet. Russell had not fallen to the floor when that statement was made.

Floyd testified that Oscar Yates, Alberta and Eula Gee Gantt and Leonard Cox were in the kitchen at the time.

In answer to District Attorney W. R. Smith's question of where the gun was when Floyd turned around after the shot, he said, "The gun was in Jones' hand." Positions of principals were again brought out in questioning of Floyd. He said Russell was standing with his arm on the stove in the north end of the kitchen. Jones was near the kitchen cabinet and facing east and that the two must have been two or three apart at the time of the shot, Russell facing Jones. Floyd was to the right of Jones about three feet away. Everyone was talking.

After the shot Floyd said he remarked "I didn't know that the pistol was loaded with blank shells." He said his reason for saying this was because Russell had not fallen. One of the Gantt girls said "he has been shot."

Miss Mineola West of Barstow, was introduced as a state witness. She said she was not in the kitchen but was in the living room, and that she had seen the gun about 30 minutes before the shooting. The gun at that time was being displayed.

Herbert A. Berry was also in the living room, he said, when introduced to the stand, further that someone had tried to get the gun away from Jones 15 or 20 minutes before the shooting.

"Did someone say 'Jones you had better give the pistol up' about that time?" Berry was asked on cross examination. "No," the witness answered.

Miss Alberta Gantt said she was in the kitchen at the time of the shooting and that she had a date with Bennett for the party. She said she had seen the gun twice before the party—once at the home of her mother and father. She said Cox grabbed Jones' hand right after the shooting and that she was between the stove and sink when Russell was shot. She said that Jones grabbed a man named Osborn by the collar just prior to the shooting.

JONES CASE GETS OFF TO A FLYING START ON MONDAY

The beautiful district court room, filled with curious people who were there to find out for themselves the truth of the shooting of Weldon L. Russell by a man who called himself Buck Jones, was suggestive of a theatre of dramatics Monday afternoon.

The day was moody out, and the judicious sobriety inside the court room was accentuated by the gloomy light that penetrated the drawn shades. No lights burned inside the court room.

What the people came to see and hear satisfied them soon. C. B. "Buck" Jones sat with his attorney, Sam K. Wasaff, rather handsome in his aloof bearing, and the second witness introduced by the state told of what she saw at the party during the run of which Jones is charged with having drawn a gun and fatally shot Russell.

Miss Eula Gee Gantt followed Dr. Herman Klapproth to the stand. Dr. Klapproth merely testified to having attended Russell after the wounded man had been brought to the Midland clinic-hospital for an emergency operation. He said Russell was shot about four inches to the right of, an inch and a half below, the navel, and that the shot had ranged through the body to the left, lodging in the pelvic bone, and inflicting 12 perforations in the small intestine and two in the large. He said on cross examination Russell had said nothing about the shooting after being placed in the hospital, his only words heard by the doctor being a request for a drink of water.

Witness Saw Guns Miss Gantt was asked on direct examination conducted by District Attorney W. R. Smith about a gun falling out of an overcoat when guests began arriving at the party. (See JONES CASE page 6)

THEY STILL FALL IN LOVE

A writer in the March issue of Harper's Magazine complains that romantic love has lost its power over the imagination of the race. Young lovers don't go in for poetry much nowadays. Magazines find in love a topic for cynical humor. The wise-crack has replaced the time-honored sonnet. Love is no longer considered sacred, and the ancient belief that the world can be well lost for love finds few adherents.

All of this, if true, is rather unfortunate; for while romantic love occasionally brings a good deal of suffering to those whom it possesses, it has added greatly to the world's store of beauty and loveliness, and we should have a hard time finding a substitute. But surface indications can be very misleading, and one is entitled to doubt that people today are much different than their grandparents under the skin.

To be sure, there is a great deal of jesting about love these days. There is also a great deal of analysis and dissection, and there are ominous statistics about divorce to make the sky look dark. But does it all really mean anything?

To get the answer, probably, one should not go to writers or students at all. One should forget all about books and magazines and plays and collegiate jokes, and go to the original sources—to the people, in other words, who really are in love.

That would not be hard to do. Any wanderer in any city can find them on every side. Whence come these silent couples that stand in doorways, prolonging a good-night kiss, oblivious of the passerby in the street? Whence come these couples on park benches, who forget about the glare of the lamps that throw their joined heads into relief, and find in each other's nearness something that can blot out the whole city? Whence come those strange, mystic glances that one is continually glimpsing on faces that drift by in a crowd, as if boys and girls by the myriad were going to meet a glamorous and ecstatic destiny?

All of these people could tell you. But they are not given to the traditional modes of expression. The modern girl may be as distracted by some boy's smile as her sentimental grandmother ever thought of being, but she doesn't moon about the house and drape herself listlessly over a sofa for hours of dreaming. She goes about her regular routine, and usually no one but the boy himself knows just how she feels about it. And the boy fails to go into those trance-like states common to an earlier day, and he fails to write atrocious poetry when he should be sleeping; but are there no longer any young men who act like simpletons because of some girl's shining eyes? Their name is legion, now as of old.

There are many things in the world today about which one can worry. But the imminent disappearance of romantic love is not one of them.

OUR EXPORTS AND PROSPERITY

An excellent, common-sense view of the relationship of export trade to the current business depression is to be found in remarks made recently to the Cleveland chamber of commerce by John McHugh, chairman of the executive committee of the Chase National bank of New York, the world's largest bank.

After remarking that the foreign customer cannot possibly buy from us unless he can somehow get the necessary dollars, Mr. McHugh pointed out:

"We intensified his difficulty in this matter by raising our tariff in 1930. The time has surely come to forget whether we are Democrats or Republicans and think of this matter in business terms. This is no time to advocate free trade nor to advocate the sweeping away of the whole protective tariff system to which we have so long been accustomed. But it is time to consider downward adjustments designed to permit the foreigner to sell enough goods in our market to put him in possession of dollars that in turn will enable him to carry out the volume of exports which is necessary to keep a balanced situation in the United States."

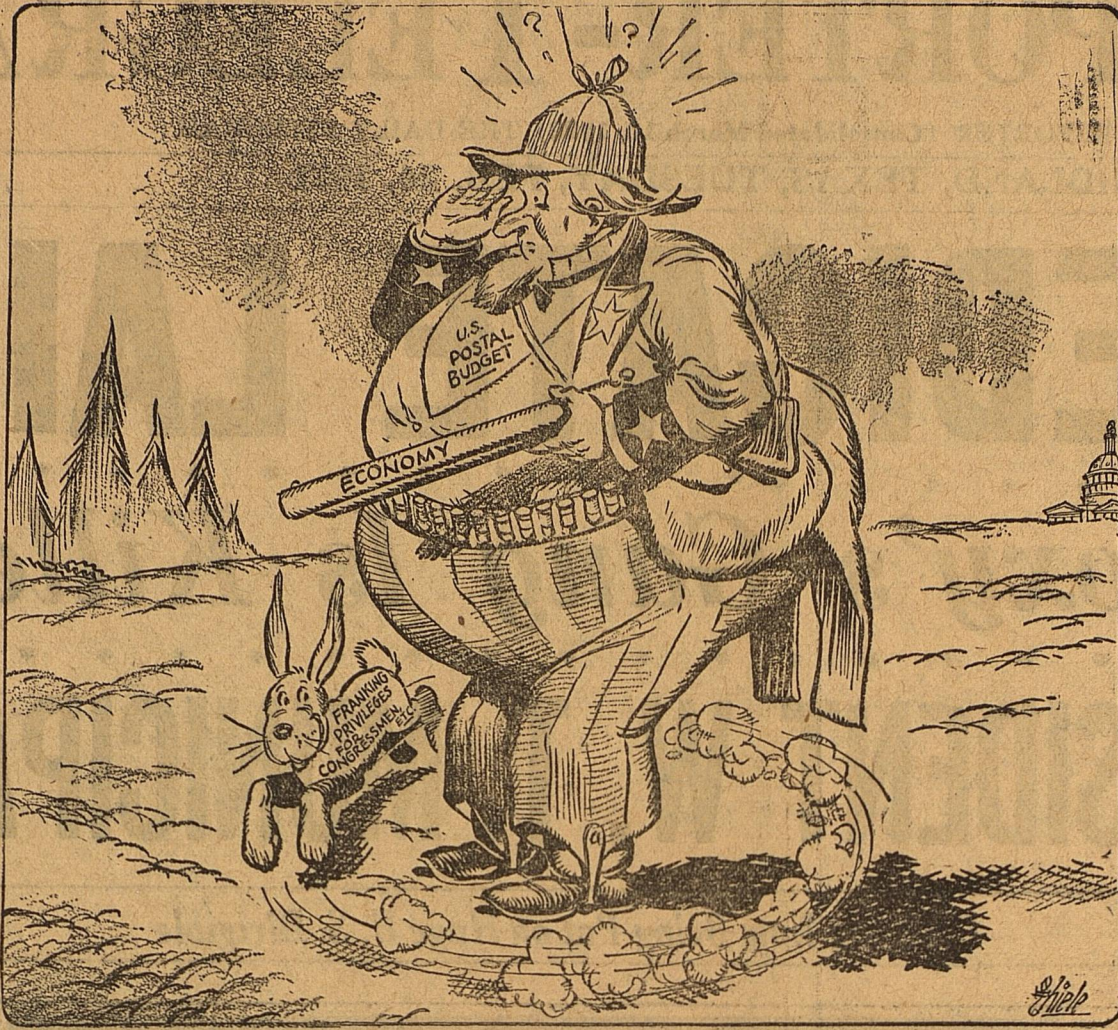

The remark is commended to all who would like to see good times return.

Bye, Baby Bunting, Uncle's Gone A-Hunting!

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

Congress' Windiest Debaters Were at Their Best in the Fight on Moving the Senate Chamber to Get More Sunshine, but They Finally Turned the Money Back to the Treasury

WASHINGTON.—The well-known Senate, which never really did do very much for the unemployed and drought sufferers despite frequent promises to fight the House and the administration to a finish on that issue, was more or less consistent when it refused to spend $500,000 for the purpose of letting the blessed sunshine into the Senate chamber.

There was a proposition to move the present chamber bodily to the north wall of the capitol's Senate wing, so the sun could get in. And the money had been appropriated. Amazingly enough, the Senate decided to turn the half million dollars back into the treasury. But only after extensive debate on the question whether the present chamber might be considered a death-trap or a pleasant place where old folks might prolong their years. Some of the windiest boys in the Senate were at their best in this argument.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, who used to be health commissioner of New York City and is now the self-appointed unofficial health commissioner of the Senate, was endorsing an appropriation bill amendment which would keep the half million, appropriated in 1929 for the reconstruction of the Senate wing, available until spent. Dave Reed of Pennsylvania objected that the present chamber was adequate in all respects—acoustics, ventilation and charm—and that the treasury needed the money worse than the Senate needed a change.

Points to Death Rate Hiram Bingham of Connecticut disputed that, referring to the chamber as "a bomb-proof cellar devised at a time when senators were afraid somebody might throw a bomb into this body." He complained of the high senatorial death rate, declaring that for seven or eight years about three of the 96 senators had died annually.

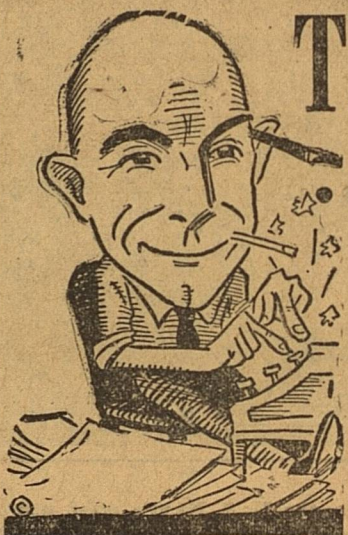

Copeland complained that not only were senators being deprived of the violet rays which would reach them if they sat with the sun streaming through windows, but that the sloping wooden floors of the Senate and House chambers made firetraps of the big halls, with carelessness or electric wiring beneath likely to start a blaze any time.

"If we were to wake up in the morning and read that this beautiful structure had been ruined or the building had been mutilated we could hardly face our constituents or the public," he said.

"Nothing can be more insanitary and unhealthful than to live in a room devoid of natural light. Just a little sunlight filters through two of the transoms. We work in artificial light and the situation is dangerous to health. The life of many a faithful senator must have been shortened by it, for the penalty is paid by those most faithful in attendance and a premium is placed on absence. Since I have been in the Senate, 36 or 37 senators have died, if I remember correctly." (Copeland came here in 1923).

Says He Can Stand It The senator explained that he himself had been blessed "by heredity and kind providence with a strong, vigorous body" and was capable of resisting the evil physical influences as well as any, but that the country wanted senators to "live under conditions which will make their bodies healthy bodies and their thinking clear thinking."

Ashurst of Arizona insisted that everyone knew senators who had served for 30 years or more, years

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

The question is circling the globe as to how Adam was a different sort of husband from any who has followed him in the great expanse of the centuries.

The only solution that the Quack can give for the question is that Adam could not always be throwing up to Eve what a good cook his mother was.

I have made several calls and have written numerous letters to Supt. W. W. Lackey in an honest attempt to have "figgers" added to the curriculum of the high school.

Doctor Lackey has taken little interest in my wants and desires. He says that algebra, geometry and trigonometry are taught in the school and maintains that those subjects offer considerable opportunity to deal in figgers.

Senior Lackey must understand when the chamber was poorly ventilated. Recently one had been buried who had served 35 years. No man, Ashurst said, had ever been known to refuse election to the Senate because he thought the chamber was an unhealthy place. And in the chamber's 70-year history there had been no fire of consequence. Why worry?

Heflin of Alabama declared he had seen "men come here who were frail and thin and in a little while after laboring in this invigorating and health-restoring atmosphere become vigorous and strong." All around him he saw fine, robust, wideawake senators enjoying the best of health. He had asked several if they planned to resign because they weren't getting any sun and they all denied it.

Defends Present Arrangement In fact, nearly every member of the House yearned for a Senate seat and when a senator dies, "10,

Britain Now Paying Big Sums to Its Unemployed

By MILTON BRONNER, European Manager, NEA Service (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Great Britain, struggling with trace depression and an enormous unemployment situation, is daily going into debt because of the necessity of paying out unemployment insurance to an army of men and women legally entitled to it.

In British papers this is often loosely spoken of as a "dole." As a matter of fact, in a very great number of instances it is not really a dole at all. Working men and women have paid into the unemployment insurance fund weekly sums while they were working. Now that they are unemployed, they are as much entitled to the benefits of the unemployment insurance for which they paid, as is the man who takes out an endowment policy in an insurance company and expects to have annuities paid him when the policy matures.

But Britain's great trouble is this: in 1920, when the present unemployment insurance was set up, it was not foreseen that there would be continued Trade depression. It was fondly imagined that a fund made up in part of contributions by the workers, in part by the employers and in part by the state, would be self-sufficient. In other words, it was hoped the books would more than balance.

However, such has not been the case. The ever-growing army of unemployed, entitled to insurance benefits, has depleted the fund. The state has had to come to the rescue. This has been so much the case that treasury officials have gravely stated that if the thing keeps on, continued borrowing to fill the fund will bring into question the entire stability of the British financial system.

How Cost Has Risen In 1928 unemployment insurance cost the exchequer over 58 million dollars. In 1929 it cost the exchequer 97 millions. It is estimated that the financial year just closing will cost 185 millions. And for the following year the vast sum of 250 millions is anticipated. In fact, the insurance fund is at the present time costing the treasury of the nation at the rate of about five million dollars a week.

As set up in Great Britain, taking out unemployment insurance is not voluntary. It is obligatory. All employed persons between the ages of 16 and 65 must take it out. There are a number of classes which are excepted, among them being farm laborers, domestic servants, etc. However, they, too, may take out unemployment insurance if they desire.

How Much Workers Pay Insurable persons are divided into various classes. Men between the ages of 21 and 65 pay 14 cents per week, the employers 16 cents, and the state 15 cents.

Men between 18 and 21 pay 12 cents, the employer 14 and the state 13.

Boys under 18 pay 7 cents, the employer 8 and the state 7 1/2 cents. Women between 21 and 65 pay 12 cents, the employer 14 and the state 13 cents.

Women between 18 and 21 pay 10 cents, the employer 12 and the state 11 cents.

Girls under 18 pay 6 cents, the employer 7 and the state 6 1/2 cents.

How Much Jobless Get When these insured persons are unemployed they draw weekly rates of benefit as follows:

Men between 21 and 65, $4.25. Men between 18 and 21, $3.50. Boys between 17 and 18, $2.25. Boys under 17, $1.50.

Women between 21 and 65, $3.75. Women between 18 and 21, $3.00. Girls between 17 and 18, $1.87. Girls under 17, $1.25.

In addition to this, any insured person who has an adult dependent draws $2.25 per week. Such dependents are a wife, being maintained wholly or mainly by the out-of-work husband, a dependent husband unable to do any work at all; a widowed mother living with the insured person, etc. This extra $2.25 can be received in respect of only one person at a time. In addition, for married people there is an additional benefit of 50 cents per week for each wholly dependent child or who is mainly supported by the parents.

In order to come within the provisions of the insurance scheme the insured person must have paid not less than 30 weekly contributions preceding the date on which he or she applies for the benefit.

Must Take Proffered Job There are also various disqualifications if one has paid all the 30 contributions. One of these is, if the person has without good cause refused to accept a position indicated to him by the government Employment Exchange. In such and similar cases he is disqualified for a maximum period of six weeks. Another disqualification is if an insured contributor loses his job through misconduct or voluntarily leaves his employment without just cause.

All this, of course, is supported by taxation. In Great Britain, the income tax paid to the government is about 22 per cent of what a man earns.

THE LONG, LONG LINE of jobless men, like those shown below on a London street, form one of the greatest problems in England's history. On the average, these men receive $4.25 a week as an unemployment dole from the government and the ever-increasing total is now running about $5,000,000 a week.

PRESCRIPTIONS OFTEN DIFFER FOR VICTIMS OF SAME MALADY

Medicine Is Adapted to Symptoms Existing in Patient At That Particular Time

Patients have always attached to the prescription of a physician in time of disease a special significance, because it meant to them the careful recording of the remedies which he felt, on the basis of his experience, necessary to secure improvement.

Few people realize that the very sign at the top of the prescription is associated with the idea of magic, constituting an insignia of an appeal to higher powers that the prescription may have the effect that is desired.

However, if a prescription is scientifically written by a man who understands the art of choosing drugs properly, it is never quite the same for every patient but is particularly adapted to the symptoms that exist in that particular patient at the special time.

Whereas the scientific physician of half a century past had but few drugs of established virtue from which to choose, the modern physician has thousands of different drugs and preparations from which he may make a choice.

These are divided into classes depending upon effects which they have, as proved in most instances, by careful tests on animals. Thus some remedies are specific and suited only to a single disease. Of this nature, is diphtheria antitoxin, scarlet fever antitoxin, and similar preparations called biologic preparations made by causing animals to develop in their blood substances specifically designed to attack the diseases concerned.

Another type of drug is a drug of chemical nature which has been proved to have the special virtue of attacking certain germs.

Of this character is quinine used in malaria, and arsenamine or salvarsan as used in syphilis. However, in the latter condition the physician is not limited to any one preparation, since it has also been shown that preparations of mercury and of bismuth have the special power of attacking the organism responsible, and that iodine may be of value in attacking the lesions of the disease.

Other drugs which have specific virtues include the anesthetics which bring about unconsciousness, digitalis which slows and enforces the beat of the heart, caffeine which stimulates the higher centers of the brain, iron which increases the hemoglobin or red coloring matter of the blood, and the newer dye substances which, when injected, tend to localize invariably in certain organs.

Thus it may be seen that the specific effect of a drug may be in its tendency to attack only a certain type of organism, or in its effect to bring about a certain def-nite function, or in its effect to go to a certain part of the body every time. There used to be a joke about the doctor who had a pill for every organ in the body and the colored boy who wanted to know how the pill always found the particular organ for which it was intended. Modern science has turned this joke into a fact.

Choice Cooks' Corner

There comes a time between winter and spring when vegetables present a difficult problem for the cook. The following concoctions may be new to many housewives and provide variety for a few meals during this trying season.

Stewed Potatoes a la Southern
One dessertspoon butter, 1 dessertspoon lard or other fat, 1 dessertspoon flour, 1 medium sized onion, 4 cups diced raw potatoes, parsley, pimento, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon white pepper.

Melt butter and lard in sauce pan. Stir in flour. When mixture is perfectly smooth add onion finely minced. Add potatoes, salt and pepper and enough boiling water to prevent potatoes from burning but not enough to cover them. It will take about 1 cup. Cover sauce pan closely and cook 20 minutes. At the end of this time the potatoes should be tender and the water absorbed. Serve in a hot dish and garnish with snips of pimento and minced parsley.

Rice Boulettes are served with fowl or game in place of potatoes. They also make a delicious addition to a luncheon plate.

Rice Boulettes
One-half cup rice, 1 bouillon cube, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1 small onion, 2 springs parsley, 3 whole cloves, 12 peppercorns, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons grated cheese, 1 teaspoon melted butter.

Wash rice through many waters and cook in double-boiler with water and bouillon cube until water is absorbed. Add tomato sauce made by cooking tomatoes, onion minced, parsley, cloves, sugar and peppercorns for 20 minutes and then rubbing through a sieve. When rice has absorbed this sauce, remove from heat and let cool slightly. Add egg well beaten, salt, pepper, butter and cheese. Mix thoroughly and spread on a buttered platter. Let stand several hours. Form into small balls not more than an inch and one-half in diameter, roll in fine dried bread crumbs, dip in egg slightly beaten and roll again in crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat until a golden brown and drain on crumpled paper.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday are Dollar Days at Wadley's.

Last Spring's Frocks Can Be Transformed

New frocks for old can be achieved by making over last year's models into 1931 styles. Left to right: The straightline frock, especially one that has a pleated panel, can become a chic jumper frock made longer by letting it down on the shoulders with buttoned-on pieces made from the sleeves. The pointed hemline frock, with a too-short front and back, can add a circular flounce of different material, but the same color, and add a cowl collar and flaring cuffs of this new contrasting fabric. For the frock worn out under the arms, the new two-color and two-material styles are ideal. This frock takes on a lace yoke with short sleeves, lengthening the frock at the same time.

LOVE CAUSES CRIMINAL TO RETURN

Prisoner Goes Back to Old Life in Prison When He Meets Laredo Girl and Falls in Love

LAREDO, Tex. (AP).—He had been sentenced to serve six years in prison, but at the end of a little over 15 months behind prison walls he escaped.

Then romance waylaid him and he met a girl with whom he fell desperately in love. And that love was requited. He thought the matter over; his better self asserted itself and he decided that as an escaped convict he could not marry the girl he loved. He told her his story and she promised to wait for him, and then he decided that as a transgressor of the laws of his state he should surrender to the sheriff who before had delivered him to the penitentiary agent.

Accordingly W. H. Powell surrendered. He had been convicted in district court in Laredo in September, 1929, sentenced to serve 10 years on a charge of conversion by bailie and sent to the state penitentiary. He had escaped from Darrington prison farm early in January. Powell surrendered to Sheriff A. J. Condren at the Webb county jail in Laredo on the evening of January 31 and told his story to the sheriff.

"I met a girl after my escape from prison and fell in love with her," stated Powell, "and as I could not carry her under the circumstances of being an escaped convict, I have decided to do the right thing by surrendering myself and doing my time. Then when I have paid the penalty for my infraction of the laws of the land I will come back to the girl I love, and who has promised to wait for me, and marry her. I am now ready to start serving the remainder of my term."

Powell, a native Texan 37 years old said he had no relatives, and that both his mother and father are dead. He chatted with Sheriff Soren and newspapermen and told them he had been in Laredo for five days preceding his surrender, that he had met the jailer who guarded him during the two months he was confined in the Webb county jail and the jailer did not recognize him. Powell said he walked into the barber shop of a man who had sat on his jury and convicted him and the man did not recognize him even while shaving him. Powell said that he could have perhaps remained in Laredo indefinitely and never been arrested. Although he knew many people here, but few of them recognized him.

Powell is a man who is well educated and resembles a well-groomed and wideawake business man instead of a convict. Before he surrendered he had asked a newspaperman at the office where he called to take him down and surrender him to sheriff and get a good story.

Lack of room in the state penitentiaries may mean that Powell must remain in the Webb county jail indefinitely, so he was assigned to the same cell he occupied prior to being sent to the penitentiary in 1929.

CAN INDUSTRIAL WINNERS DON NEW COLORS AND WIN CHURCH?

Only One Midland Team in Wink Tournament; More Are Invited to Go

TONIGHT IS TIME FOR DECIDING MATTER

Can the club that, under different colors, won the Industrial Basketball trophy the other night win the Inter-Church league by a single game?

If it cannot, three games will be played in a final playoff series, beginning Thursday night and ending after one of the two clubs, Methodists or Christians have won two games over the other.

The Methodists are expected to win the playoff for the second half of the split season tonight, which would give them, by virtue of already having planted their flag on the ramparts of the first half, the season championship.

Both teams announce readiness. The first whistle sounds at 8 o'clock sharp, in the Scharbauer gym.

Cup Cheers General Butler

Maybe the name of Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler won't evoke many cheers in Italy. But 3500 pupils of the Northeast High School in Philadelphia, in a rousing ovation, proclaimed him the most popular speaker of the year at the school. Here you see the Marine Corps officer (right), who nearly faced a court martial for his remarks about Premier Mussolini, receiving a silver loving cup from David S. JOINER, "DADDY OF EAST TEXAS" OIL POOL, SUFFERED PRIVATION AS ONLY FEW PEOPLE BELIEVED IN HIM

HENDERSON, Tex., Feb. 24. (AP)—C. M. Joiner, familiarly and affectionately known as "daddy" of the East Texas oil field, went hungry and suffered the rigors of privation over a long period before he could convince East Texas farmers he knew what he was talking about when he said there was oil hereabouts.

When he started three years ago to sink a test well he was able to lease acreage in the vicinity he picked to explore at 10 cents an acre. He had a few dollars (not many) after winning and then losing—as oil men have a habit of doing—as a result of his long work in Oklahoma fields.

He encountered many discouragements, it being necessary for him to skid his outfit twice before the third try proved the charm. During that period it was a tight financial fight with him and the farmers whose

SOUTHERN ICE TO FACE A STRONG COMPETITION

More Midland teams are wanted in the big tournament to be held at Wink on the twenty-eighth of this month in the model gymnasium at Wink, Coach Johnson of Wink said over long distance telephone to The Reporter-Telegram. Southern Ice is the only Midland club that has entered.

"Room for three more Midland clubs," Johnson said. "At least, we want one more."

Managers are asked to get in touch with Johnson by wire, or to call the sports editor of The Reporter-Telegram if they want to enter clubs.

Several clubs have entered, among them the Cosden Oilers of Big Spring, Southern Ice of Midland, Elliott hotel of Odessa, Kermit Independents, Hobbs Independents, Paso-Tex refinery of Wink, Wink Faculty, Casner Chevrolet of Wink, and the high schools of Wink and Kermit are clamoring for a place.

First place trophy will give kethals to individual members and also a mounted basketball of regulation size. Second place trophy is a basketball mounted, but somewhat smaller in size.

The drawing for places must be done by 8 p. m. Wednesday night, so it is imperative that clubs get in the swim at once. In case team representatives who have placed clubs in the tournament are not in Wink at the time of the drawing for places, a representative by proxy will draw for them.

With the CAGERS

By SPORTS EDITOR.

There's quite a fuss being kicked up as sports writers of Big Spring, Stanton, McCarney, Odessa disturb the ozone with vertical currents from typewriters rolling off reams of basketball copy. High schools of those places are going places in the school boy sport. Big Spring may go into the state finals at Austin. At least, last reports showed the Steers well headed in that general direction, with a side trip here and there to humble Abilene and some of the other Oil belt teams.

Reading of the publicity going to towns all around us we wonder how Midland can sit back with satisfied smirk and have only one sport a year. Imagine a town of 5800 inhabitants playing only during the fall. While other towns around us are breaking in print with constructive news of high school athletics, this department can do nothing but wonder why we don't have a gym and play basketball. We write 600 words a day on a murder trial. That sort of publicity is not so hot. And then, when we read other papers we are not satisfied at what other towns are saying about us. For instance, on the only sport we do play, we have sat back until we are the laughing stock of the whole Class A district. Here's the latest report concerning the imbrolog, and it would serve us right if we got beat out for a berth—the way we have let reports stack up without answering them: "The Midland mentor has reached no decision in the weighty matter as to whether the Midland Bulldogs will favor Texas high school football next season by moving up to Class A competition. Brady wants in if Midland doesn't, we understand. Brady would probably not want a decision of the supreme court before donning the jerseys and starting tearing ears off opponents."

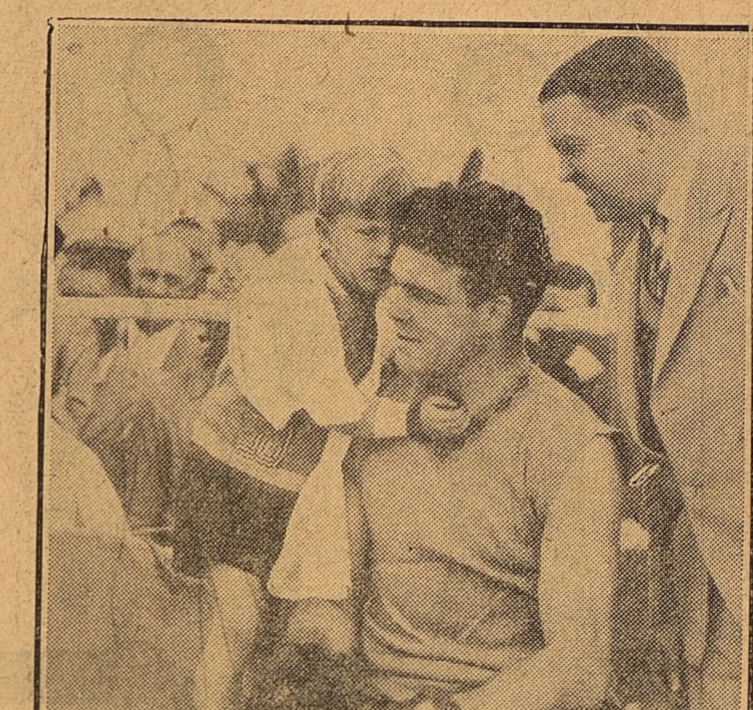

Why the athletic council of the high school doesn't do something about such damaging publicity, this department is at a loss to say. It is a source of pride to hear one say, "Oh, you live in Midland, the town that builds like a city, and the clearance center for the great production area. Must be good to be there and watch the growth and the spirit of the place." But imagine what such people will say to one the next time he is out of town. "Oh, so you live in Midland? That's the place where they acted like they wanted Class A football, isn't it, and then got cold feet that developed into lock-jaw? Well, goodbye, give me a ring sometime if you think of it."

The matter of getting a high school gymnasium is difficult. That would cost a lot of money. The school board is, not doubt, doing its best to fill the requirement. It is to be complimented many times over for what it has contributed to the well being of athletics in Midland. Although we wear no topper, our hat is off to it. But the taciturnity overhanging the Class A football matter could be broken into—and a battering ram should be used if necessary to do so. Other people in Midland ask for a favor and expect to show appreciation when it is granted. Why not those in charge of Midland's football machine?

Naturally, this hasn't done a particle of good, this citing of a code of ethics. So, gracefully as possible to one who does not know the meaning of grace, we take to the bull-rushes and talk about something else. Fourteen teams signed this morning for a bowling tournament. And these teams may have a free game a day until the tournament starts on March 2.

By way of rebuttal, here comes Prexy Anderson of the "Morning

"Championships as a rule, and also as usual, this year have steered shy of the centers of population. San Antonio and Houston each has a representative in the state list of 26 district winners. El Paso and Austin are other champions; the city of Big Spring is fifth down the line in point of population, and Denton sixth, we believe. The other 21 teams come from towns of less than 10,000 population. Some of them hail from villages with fewer than 1,000 inhabitants, while we have one or two delegates from the very, very wide open spaces. Yes, Sir, I can back up what I say about Germ-Processed Oil with actual proof, O.K'd by A.A.A.

THREE stock cars from three price classes went through six weeks of testing on Pike's Peak. Three nationally known oils were used in comparison with Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil. All of the testing was directly supervised by the American Automobile Association.

At the end of six weeks the AAA took the more than ten thousand observations, then issued a report of the outcome. The report stated that in the Pike's Peak Tests Conoco Motor Oil had shown a reduction of 76.4% in the rate of motor wear . . . that it had shown greater stability . . . had lowered frictional temperatures . . . increased compression pressures . . . reduced oil consumption . . . added to gasoline mileage . . . reduced crankcase dilution . . . lengthened motor life.

No higher authority could have been called upon to prove the merits of Germ-Processed oil. No more sweeping commendation could have been asked for. The complete story of the Pike's Peak tests is told in an attractive booklet. We'll gladly send you a copy upon your request mailed to "Conoco, Ponca City, Oklahoma" . . . or you can obtain it at stations showing the sign of the Conoco Red Triangle when you go there to change to Germ-Processed oil, as thousands of other motorists are doing every day.

MOTHER ADVISED TAKING CARDUI

Lady Who Had Been In Bad Health Took Cardui And Was Benefited.

Birmingham, Ala.—When in a run-down condition of health some time ago, Mrs. W. F. Siveley, 5412 Seventh Avenue, South, this city, took Cardui, with the resulting benefits which she describes below.

"About a year ago, my health was not good," writes Mrs. Siveley. "I felt weak and tired, and had pains in my back. I lost weight.

"I knew by these symptoms I needed something to build me up. My mother advised me to try Cardui, which I did. I found it was what I needed, for it built me up. The pain in my back stopped, and I felt better and stronger than I had in some time.

"I look about seven bottles of Cardui in all, and now I am feeling just fine, and have been since taking Cardui."

Thousands of other women have written to say that Cardui has proved of valuable assistance to them in building up their health.

Santa Fe, Texas, Seems Assured

DALHART. (AP).—Santa Fe, Texas, may soon become reality according to The Dalhart Texan. The Texan says the new town, 30 miles east of Dalhart, will have three railroads, a division point and a round house. The article says the Santa Fe has purchased 1,000 acres of ground at this point, will construct a ten-track switch yard and a three-stall engine round-house. It is stated that the new town is staked out but that the Santa Fe will not sell a lot, let a contract or give a lease of any kind until the new city is completely planned, the streets graded and curb and gutter installed. The new town will be at the junction of the Dalhart-Morse line of the Rock Island, and the new line of the Santa Fe from Amarillo to Las Animas. In addition it will be the terminus for the Santa Fe branch from Spearman. Large crews have been working at or from the junction for the past several months, it is said, with new tracks continually appearing on the scene.

Amarillo Has New School Buildings

AMARILLO, Feb. 24. (AP) — For the first time in two years all school children in Amarillo are attending school five full days each week. With the completion of two new school buildings, one a junior high and the other a ward school, 22 classrooms have been added, affording accommodations to 650 pupils on a basis of 30 pupils to the room. Opening of these schools marks the completion of a half-million dollar building program launched a year ago. The building program was planned to care for an increase of 1,000 in enrollment. That increase has been realized already and it is likely that the system will be inadequate within another year. The system now includes 22 buildings, a senior high school, three junior high schools, and 18 ward schools, including two for negroes and one for Mexicans. The enrollment is 9,671. Jones Case--

She said she saw a gun, a "black one," fall, but that she didn't know whose gun it was, nor from whose overcoat it came. She was asked if she saw another gun during the night, and replied she did, describing the gun as nickel plated, with pearl handles. She said in answer to a question that she had seen the gun before, that it was Jones' gun, that he had showed the weapon to her. She said she believed she could identify the two guns, and later on said, when given the guns for a closer inspection, she believed they were the guns she had seen at the party.

The witness was asked by the district attorney to tell her story of the night's happenings and, prompted by questions, she told of having met the defendant, C. B. Jones, on Tuesday and of his having ing dinner with her and her family between their meeting and the fatal party. On the night of the party, she said, she, her sister, Miss Alberta Gantt, the defendant, Lee Cox and Bert Bennett went to the party together. It was probably 10 o'clock when they arrived, she said, and only about four guests were present at the time. Others began to arrive. Russell and a friend arrived about an hour after the defendant and party went in, the witness said. When asked why Russell came to the party, the witness said she had invited him two or three days before. Wasaff for the defense objected to testimony relating to the invitation and the objection was sustained.

"Dammed Jelly Bean"

The dancing at the party began, the witness explained, and, she said, she had about a half dozen dances with Russell, saying further that the defendant approached her and said he didn't want her dancing with that "dammed jelly bean." She said she left the party about midnight and was gone in an automobile with Russell and his friend and that when she returned the defendant was sitting out in front of the house in an automobile. The dancing, she said, began again and Miss Alberta Gantt was talking with a Mr. Osborne when Jones approached, saying, "What do you mean talking with my boy friend's girl friend?" She said he twirled Osborne around. She said words were exchanged between Osborne and Jones and that Russell approached Jones saying, "Let's have no trouble; we're all friends here."

The witness said Cox approached Jones and said, "I'm your friend," and slapping himself upon the chest until he got in reach of Jones. Then he suddenly grabbed the gun hand of the defendant. But he was thrown off, the witness testified. The shot followed. The witness said she did not see the gun fired and believed Russell was acting when he said, "I'm shot." Someone said, "Who shot?" And another said, "I don't know."

The witness said Russell sagged toward the floor and that she saw he really was hit.

Wasaff took the witness for cross examination. Under his questioning the witness brought out that 15 or 20 minutes before the shooting Cox had said he had two guns.

No Words Between Principals

"Were there any words that night between Jones and Russell?" he asked.

"No," the witness answered.

He asked if the witness could swear that the statement of Jones to her relative to her dancing with Russell was said in anger and she replied that she could not, since she did not know the defendant well enough to know when he was angry.

TRUCK HEARINGS TO BE BROUGHT INTO SESSION

AUSTIN, Feb. 24. (UP).—Uncompleted hearings on a group of motor truck regulatory bills will be resumed late today before a joint session of the highway and motor traffic committees of the house and senate.

Consideration of the bills began yesterday and continued past 10:30 last night. At the night session, Mrs. T. F. Wood, San Antonio, appeared and said she was there "because my two daughters were killed when a large truck cut through our car for which it left insufficient room on the road."

Good Ticket Sale For Glee Program

Approximately 400 tickets were sold by 4 o'clock this afternoon for the concert of the Simmons university choral and glee clubs at the high school auditorium tonight at 7:45.

Thirty-three members of the party had arrived by the middle of the afternoon and were immediately assigned to homes where entertainment is being furnished.

A wide variety of numbers is promised by the musicians for tonight's performance. The party is accompanied by two of the best soloists of the university fine arts department and these will present special features.

When asked if she could swear whether Jones was the one who actually did the shooting she replied that she could not, as she was not looking at either Jones or Russell at the instant when the gun report was heard.

The state objected, saying the defense was trying to take the witness for the defense. The defense asked if the witness had ever heard the defendant talk wildly of financial matters and was told that the defendant had several times mentioned such matters, telling of his mentioning a million dollar mansion of his, of his owning a Packard automobile in the west, of his having raised a fabulous sum for the Red Cross, of a trip to England, of having bought at thirty-five or forty-thousand dollar ring for a lady, of refusing to see the president unless that person would do the visiting, since he "made more money than the president" (here the court room went into an uproar and Judge Klapproth had to warn against a repetition) and of his association with Jack Hoxie. The witness said the defendant told of the government contending he owed a great income tax, but that he really owed less than $50,000. She said he mentioned the government tying up all his money, more than a million dollars.

Explosion Wrecks

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 24. (UP).—An explosion wrecked an unoccupied house here today. Police first believed a family of five had perished when neighbors reported hearing screams. The family was found in another part of the city.

First Insanity Suggestion

The court room spectators sat up in anticipation when the defense attorney asked if the witness had ever examined a deep scar on the defendant's head. The witness replied in the affirmative. She was asked to describe it and said the scar was deep, and led from the left side of the head to a point low on the right side.

Traffic Lights for Longview Planned

LONGVIEW, Tex., Feb. 24. (P).—Traffic signal lights at three intersections in the business district, and another at the high school, probably will be installed by the city of Longview at an early date.

It was said at the city hall that due to the oil boom traffic conditions in the business district are leading to such congestion and creating such hazards that some relief must be had at once. It was pointed out that in the end electric traffic signals would be a better investment than traffic policemen, although these may be placed as an emergency measure since it will require some 30 or 60 days to install signal lights, and in the meantime it is expected that the traffic condition will grow worse.

He warned his listeners that there was an art and a science in walking, explaining that 64 per cent of muscular effort could be saved by proceeding at a brisk pace rather than attempting to hurry an unwilling body.

shooting, saying, "What do you mean talking with my boy friend's girl friend?" She said Osborn wanted an explanation for Jones' rough treatment and that Jones said he could defend himself from anyone. At this moment Cox went up to Jones and said, "Buck, let's not have any trouble—I'm your friend." Russell, also, the witness said, asked Jones not to have any trouble.

The witness said Jones told her "I don't like the way your sister is treating me." She said the shot sounded muffled.

On cross examination the witness said she could not swear that Jones did the shooting. She testified to wild talk of Jones before the shooting relative to large sums of money and of extraordinary deeds he had done. He told her, she said, he had a million dollar home in California.

Cattle Thieves $200 A Head at Santone

An echo of frontier days, when rewards were posted along the cattle trails and in saloons for cattle thieves a swift retribution followed apprehension, was sounded here with the announcement by George W. Saunders, old trail driver, that ranchmen in southern Bexar county were joining forces to combat one of the oldest evils of Texas—missing cattle.

Calves, sheep and cattle have been reported stolen, killed and butchered in all parts of Southern Texas, Saunders said. The thieves, he explained, cut the throats of their victims, haul them off in trucks and sell the meat. The hides, with their tell-tale brands, usually are burned.

And so, as in the old days when the rustler was considered one of the Southwest's worst criminals, ranchmen called a meeting here, banded together, and offered a reward of $200 for the conviction of cattle thieves and of men buying stolen meat. Stealing cattle in Texas is a penitentiary offense, Saunders said, regardless of the value of the animal.

The Southern Bexar County Livestock Protective league, recently organized here, is the organization offering the reward. Two hundred dollars will be paid for conviction of a "rustler" who preys on stock of any of the 38 members of the association. Outside ranchers stock thefts are protected by the association to the amount of $50.

Cox said he grabbed Jones arm and shoved him back into a group of people when he saw the gun in Jones hand just before the shooting. He said he took the gun from Jones after the shooting. Jones and Russell were talking loud, he said, and that was the reason he grabbed Jones arm. He said he told Yates to get a doctor and that he (Cox) would take care of the expenses. This Yates, presumably, started to do and Cox said he and Jones left by car for Stanton. He said he wanted to stop at the court house and see the sheriff about the shooting but that Jones said "We will go to Stanton."

Jones appeared nervous during this testimony.

The defense asked directly if Cox killed Russell and Cox answered "I did not kill Russell." Asked whether or not he said "I hope that man lives for my sake," he answered, "No." He said the shot was not fired during a scuffle between Jones and Russell.

Sheriff A. C. Francis testified that when he arrested Jones and Cox in a Stanton hotel Jones said "don't arrest that boy, I'll take all the blame." Francis said he asked Russell soon after he had been shot who shot him and Russell said "Buck Jones." Jones, Cox and Bennett were gone at that time.

District Attorney Smith introduced as evidence clothing worn by Jones and Russell, two guns, and bullets during the morning session.

T. A. Russell of Abilene, father of the dead man, said his son told him on the afternoon of the fatal morning that Jones said before the shooting, "this is the way we bring 'em down in California." The jury was not allowed to hear this testimony, it being ruled inadmissible since it was not a death confession. The state rested its case here and the defense introduced its first witness, James E. Bennett.

BALTIC STATE CELEBRATES 13TH YEAR OF LIBERTY

TALLINN, Estonia, Feb. 24. (UP).—Thirteen years ago today Estonia, the small state bordered by Soviet Russia, Latvia and the Baltic Sea, declared its independence and is now among the most prosperous of the Baltic countries.

Estonia was an independent country before the birth of Christ up to 1561 and throughout the last centuries during which she was under the rule of her different neighbors her people continued in their belief that some day they would again become their own masters. At the end of the World War Russia evacuated Estonia under the treaty of Brest-Litovsk, which also provided for the occupation of the country by Germany.

Essentially an agricultural country, Estonia enjoyed a good harvest in 1930 and her foreign trade also showed an improvement over the two previous years.

Robber Fires at Theatre Caretaker

Bandits Flee After Attempt to Rob Bank

REDWATER, Feb. 24. (UP).—Two bandits entered the Guaranty Bond State bank here and held up Miss Eura Langston and R. W. Hanks, cashier. The man and girl were locked in the cage.

The bandits told the girl to open the door and instead she leaped to a side room, and refused to come out. Bandits lost their nerve and fled.

Posses are believed to be closing in on them between here and Texarkana.
