Trigger Woman and Her Sunday School Man Calm As They Go to Deaths

BELLEVILLE, Pa., Feb. 23. (P).—Mrs. Irene Schroeder, 22, known as the "tiger woman," and W. Glenn Dague, insurance salesman, were electrocuted in the state penitentiary here today for murdering Corporal Grady Paul in a roadside shooting on December 29, 1929.

The woman was electrocuted first and one minute after her body was removed from the death chamber. Dague was brought in, not seeming to notice the slight odor of burned flesh. Both unflinchingly died without speaking.

Mrs. Schroeder left one child and he had two.

Blames Woman Dague, a former Sunday school teacher whose life became linked with that of Mrs. Schroeder when he almost ran over her while driving his automobile, contended he was subjected to the stern will of Mrs. Schroeder and forced into a career of crime. After the fender of his car brushed the 22-year-old girl, she climbed into his car and they drove off into a series of adventures almost unparalleled in this age when the radio, telephone and the telegraph harass criminals in flight.

Dague left behind a wife and family. Irene departed from Homer Schroeder whom she married at 15 and from Donnie, her four-year-old son whose innocent remarks months later were to help convict her of murder. She had been washing dishes, waiting on tables, scraping a living and longing for luxury.

Famous Trial After the brief phase of robbery, culminating in the killing of Paul and the flight across the country, Mrs. Schroeder and Dague were returned to Pennsylvania where their trial held the interest of the nation. All the catch-phrases of modern underworld terminology were draped on the woman; she became a "blonde trigger girl"; "the bandit beauty." Truthfully, she is not beautiful. Her hair is a streaky yellow and her face is heavy. Dague, in turn, became her "handsome lover," but viewed realistically from the other side of prison bars he is merely a tall, brooding man of 28 with regular features.

After the Paul murder Dague and Mrs. Schroeder motored westward. Police flyers were out for them and in St. Louis they exchanged pistol shots with an officer, escaping. Out through the middle west they headed, changing the danger of capture by giving rides to a dozen hitchhikers. At Pampa, Texas, they picked up Joe Wells for the simple reason that he was being run out of town. From that point on, the drama of their run-away ceased to be an up-to-date flight and pursuit of criminals and police; it became, instead, a chapter out of the biographies of Billy the Kid and the whole assortment of Western outlaws.

A New Crime

In Florence, Ariz., Mrs. Schroeder and Dague experimented in a new crime—kidnaping—and forced Deputy Sheriff Wright to guide them through the desert. At Chandler a posse was close, a bullet nicked the deputy sheriff and he was pitched out of the car. The automobile was abandoned at the brink of a river; Wells, Dague and Irene tore up their clothing to make a rope and swung the woman across a canal.

It all ended behind a rock pile where the fugitives dug into the wasteland, crammed cartridges into their guns and voted to fight it out with the posse. Airplanes shot down close and threatened to bomb them. It was not until then that Mrs. Schroeder, who had kept the expedition on the move by sheer nerve, broke under the strain. She had visions and strange, appalling clouds drifted down the sky.

"Cross of Jesus"

"One of the clouds looked like the cross of Jesus," she related later. "Another looked like an os— (See TRIGGER WOMAN page 4)

To the Chair

Mrs. Irene Schroeder, who with Glen Dague, her sweetheart, murdered a highway patrolman 14 months ago, went to the electric chair early this morning. Dague, too, was electrocuted.

REPRESENTATION TO CALL MEETING AT PECOS FEB. 25

The commissioners court of Midland will go in a body to a call meeting of West Texas landowners to be called at the Pecos court house Feb. 25, and a representative of the chamber of commerce will accompany them.

The purpose of the call meeting is set forth in a telegram from J. C. Hunter, W. W. McCutcheon, L. W. Anderson, W. E. Bell, R. L. Parker, Charlie Boyd and Francis Popham to W. F. Scarborough of Midland. The telegram, sent from Austin Saturday, reads:

"In view of positively vicious legislation affecting all minerals of West Texas lands now being actively supported in the legislature, we deem it necessary and vital to call a mass meeting of all West Texans at the Pecos court house at the central point February 25 at 1 o'clock p. m. to take proper steps to protest and protect all West Texas land owners."

"This is vital to the future welfare of your territory. Please advise your county judge and commissioners and as many citizens from your territory as possible to be present. Advise by wire to the Pecos chamber of commerce and be there."

Scharbauer said today, "It is imperative that numerous West Texans interested in West Texas be at the meeting. Midland people are asked to attend in as large numbers as possible."

Dr. Julius Klein Talks on Radio

Business men of Midland, it is believed, may be interested in the radio talk to be given Friday by Dr. Julius Klein. Official announcement of the talk as sent from the U. S. department of commerce, follows:

"The Retail Morgue" is the subject of the radio address that will be delivered at 6:45, Friday, February 27, from Washington by Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce. This talk is broadcast over the coast-to-coast hook-up of the Columbia Broadcasting system, and will be brought to Texas by STATIONS KRLL at Dallas and KTRH at Houston.

8 JURORS ACCEPTED IN CASE

Defendant Is Charged With Death of W. L. Russell

Continuing the selection of a jury this afternoon when court reconvened at 1:15, eight jurors had been selected for the C. B. Jones murder trial, it was announced shortly before 2 o'clock. Jurors were: W. T. Blakeway, Ben Driver, Les Floyd, E. O. Collins, Ed Darnell, J. M. Speed, Boyce Eldson and J. W. Pyron.

Indication that the defense might enter a plea of insanity for the defendant was seen in the questioning of special veniremen this morning when selection of a jury for the C. B. Jones murder trial started.

Sam K. Wasaff, who is conducting the case for the defense, asked each witness if he would give impartial hearing to the defendant, require the state to prove the defendant actually fired the shot that killed Weldon L. Russell here on or about Jan. 25, require the state to establish intent in the case, and listen without bias to the defense should it plead insanity.

Five jurors had been chosen at noon, out of 15 veniremen examined. It was believed the jury would be completed by the middle of the afternoon.

Witnesses in the case of Manuel Brown, charged by indictment with the shooting to death of Sonnie Sneed, negro hotel proprietor, were charged to present themselves Thursday morning, at which time the case presumably will start.

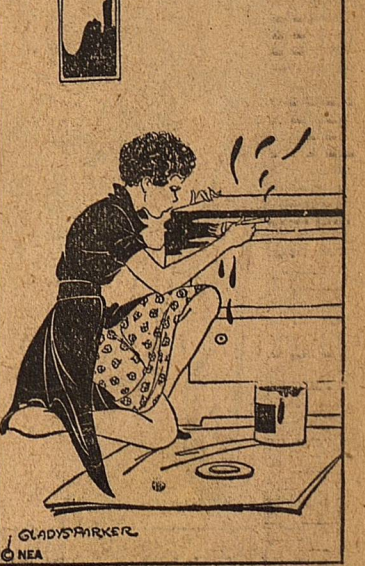

Jones is charged by indictment of the grand jury of this term of court with having murdered Russell while a party was going on at a home in West Midland. Russell died that afternoon of abdominal wounds. He is believed to have made no statement relative to the shooting.

Juror Bill Is Engrossed Today

AUSTIN, Feb. 23. (UP).—Representative Joseph McGills' nine juror verdict bill which was amended to permit a verdict of 10 jurors was engrossed by a vote of 59 to 49 in the house today.

McGills waived an attempt to push the bill for final house passage which would take a four-fifths vote. The bill applies to civil cases in district courts.

INCURIOS AND CONTENT

In a little middle-western town there lives an old man named Benjamin Silvernail, whose claim to fame is surely one of the most unusual in all America.

Benjamin Silvernail is 83. He has spent all of his life in or near this town. Thirty miles away is one of America's greatest cities—a busy place of more than a million inhabitants. But Benjamin Silvernail has never visited it, and he says he never will.

"I never had any business there," he said recently, when someone asked him why, with the city so near, he had never gone there.

This, surely, is as odd a record as any American can claim. Nowhere has the city been such a magnet as in this country. It has pulled men from farm and village by the million. It has overtaken, and all but wrecked, the rural society on which the nation was founded. It has become America's supreme achievement, in some ways, and it has bred a race of restless, eternally-curious folk who are always moving, always ready to be uprooted.

But here, 30 miles away from one of the greatest of these cities, is an old chap who simply hasn't bothered to go and see what the city is like. The idea just don't appeal to him. He will take all of the city's marvels on somebody else's evidence. Progress and change don't interest him.

There is a kind of existence, close to the soil, that has no eyes for anything else; a vegetative, placid, incurious sort of life that is content to let its horizon be limited by the nearest range of hills. But while we who are used to cities tend to look down on that kind of life as if it were somehow bovine and stupid, it may be that our lofty condensation is a bit misplaced.

After all, the modern city, even in America, is not quite a heaven-on-earth. There are times when even the most enthusiastic city dweller has to admit that the city is a poor sort of place to live. The open country can be dull and monotonous, but at least it does not rush a man into old age before he quite realizes that his youth has passed. It permits a man to realize his kinship with the living earth. It lets him partake of the ever-recurring miracles of opening bud and unfolding leaf.

It is quite possible that this Benjamin Silvernail is not nearly as eccentric as we might suppose.

WILL THEY RETURN?

It is gratifying to learn that our marines are to be withdrawn from Nicaragua. The government shouldered a thankless job when it sent them down there, and probably no one will be fore relieved to have them return than official Washington.

Nevertheless, there may be in the land a few skeptics who will believe in the marines' return only when they see it.

If you will let your memory wander back a few years, you may recall that the marines were to have returned as soon as the 1928 election had been held. The election was held—and a good job the marines did in that connection, incidentally—but the marines stayed. Now we are told that they will be pulled back after the 1932 election. Well—we can but hope for the best.

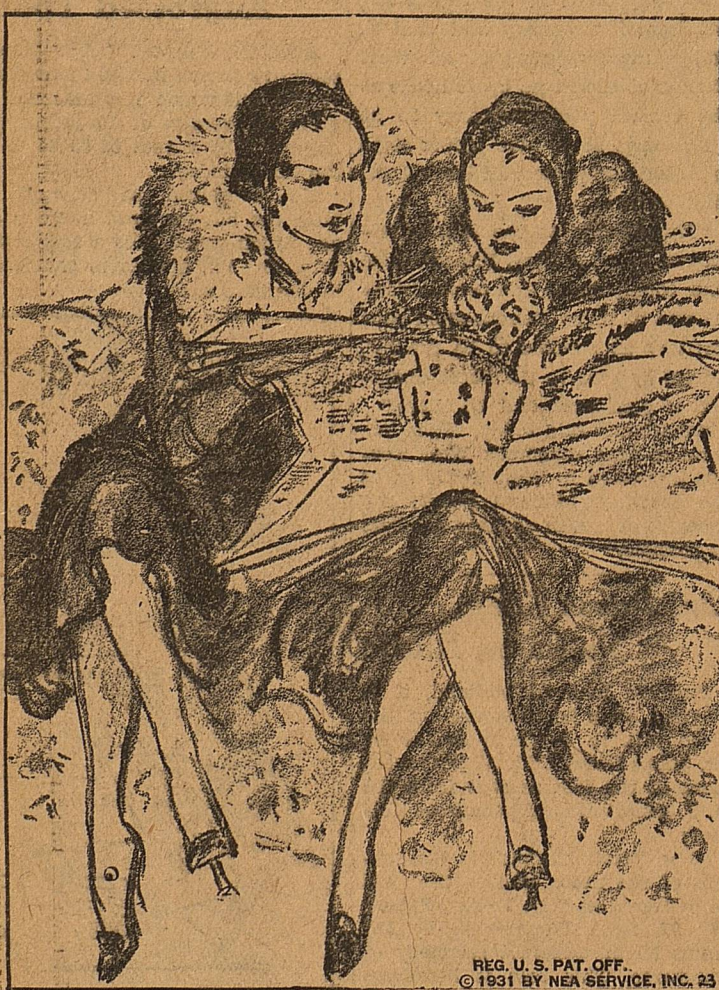

LOUIS WOLHEIM

It is the queer fate of the actor to be remembered, not so much for himself as for certain characterizations that he has given which have found a warm place in the heart of the public.

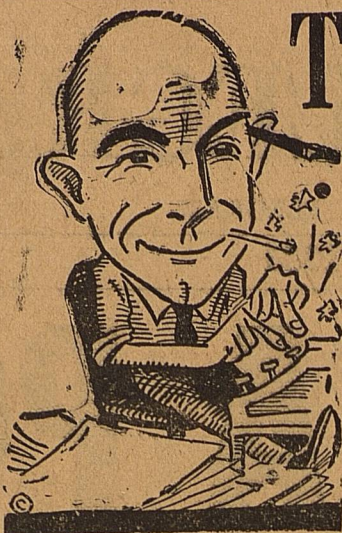

So it is that Louis Wolheim will probably be remembered by most of us, not as Louis Wolheim but as Kaczinsky, the uncouth German infantryman of "All Quiet on the Western Front," and as Captain Flagg, the officer of marines in the stage production of "What Price Glory?"

Those two characterizations got from Wolheim what might be called perfect performances; perfect, in that it is hard to see how they could possibly have been improved on. As long as there are living people who saw either one of those fine shows, Louis Wolheim will not be forgotten. But it will not be Wolheim himself that we remember. It will be, rather, the Kaczinsky and the Captain Flagg that he created for us.

HIGH SCHOOL TO PLAY O'NEILL'S KNIGHT ERRANT OVERTURE AT BIG GATHERING OF BANDS; TIP GIVEN

Editor's Note: The following article is of special interest to band members of the Midland high school, as it is an explanation of the composer of a selection the band will play in Abilene soon in competition with other scholastic bands of the country. Capt. Charles O'Neill here explains in his own language how the composition, "Knight Errant Overture" should be played.

By CAPT. CHARLES O'NEILL

The Knight Errant Overture is distinctly a Wind Band composition, composed for and scored directly for that distinct combination. Its purport is to follow in tone colors a Knight of Old on his first big adventurous journey. After a preliminary test of his powers, he starts out lightheartedly, but finds the road is by no means devoid of obstacles and dangers. All is well at the finish, as is right and proper, but only after encountering and surmounting numerous trials and difficulties.

The Overture proper commences at the Allegro Moderato, all preceding matter being introductory.

The first ten measures of the Overture contain all the basic material of the work. The first subject of the Overture proper is developed from the triplet figure of the first measure. The second subject (Meno Mosso) is a development of the first two measures of the first Andante Sostenuto as exemplified in the second Andante Sostenuto. This introductory movement affords opportunity for good ensemble playing in addition to solo effects. Answering passages and nuances should be carefully graded. The Ben Marcato should be well in hand. (The Knight Errant is trying himself out) the (FF) being given its modern meaning.

The Allegro Moderato commences gaily, with the triplet figure in due prominence throughout. The Meno Mosso should not be taken too slowly, but be allowed to move along easily and smoothly. The varying moods and changes in style and scoring of the music right through letter (F) afford considerable scope for the building up of interest. Material of the second subject is used exclusively. Note the afterthought in the Rall, at the end of the movement.

The style of the succeeding movement, Andante Moderato, demands smooth and mellow playing, Expressive, as indicated. The Tempo should be about M.M. 60. It is unnecessary to point out the relationship of this movement with the first subject, although the character is totally different. As in other parts of the number, climaxes and nuances require judicious handling. Once the several players grasp the "raison d'etre" for the Cadenza, an artistic rendering should be a matter of course, as it is technically easy.

The recapitulation presents no new points for comment, except towards the end where the synopacted chords for the whole band may prove troublesome at first. Clean tonguing with volume under good control is the solution.

The Vivace, (Coda) in spite of the quick tempo, is not difficult. The cross rhythms between the outside parts should be clear, as a final presentation of the triplet figure.

The work as a whole should be within the capabilities of good Class B Bands. Good players are necessary on each part, as the important playing is distributed through the score as much as possible. In the matter of Tempo, a slavish adherence to indications is not always advisable. Good taste, judgment, and a sense of due proportion should be present at all times.

WILBUR C. HAWK OFFERS A GREAT WRESTLING GROUP

AMARILLO, Feb. 23.—Three big wrestling matches on one card will be the pre-fat Stock Show attraction next Friday night Feb. 27 at the Municipal Auditorium in Amarillo.

The program will mark the return to the ring of Cal Barley, outstanding contender for the welterweight crown. The Amarillo business-man will meet Billy Hallas of El Paso, another outstanding welterweight. Farley and Hallas have met several times, and the result has always been a sensational match. Farley's last bout was with Jack Reynolds, the champion, in Amarillo last June.

The semi-windup will see the famous "ape man", Dutch Mantell, of Amarillo, matching holds with "Blacksmith" George Pedigo of Toledo, Ohio. Pedigo has wrestled his way up the welterweight ladder until he is among top-notchers, while Mantell's ability is known far and wide.

The third match will feature Bob Roy of Amarillo and Bob Bennett of San Francisco. Roy is a youngster who has won his spurs on recent trips through the Southwest and West, while Bennett, who is on his way East after a successful conquest of the Pacific Coast, has proven the sensation of the last few months in Amarillo. His showing against Jack Rose and Pete Brown the last two weeks has convinced fans that he is one of the greatest stylists the game has ever known.

The trip card will be sponsored by the Tri-State Fair Association.

TUESDAY NIGHT IS DATE OF FINAL ALTERCATION

With the playoff of the Methodists and Christians for the second half of the Inter-Church coming Tuesday night, managers of the two clubs were ready this afternoon to call light drill and call an end to preparation.

Both announced readiness. Clubs are in fine fettle and evidently well rested. The Methodists, comprising the backbone of The Reporter-Telegram, which won the Industrial league playoff Friday night, played three games last week, but will have rested four days in the meantime. This play may be to the advantage of that club.

The Christians, largely made up of Southern Ice men, worked with the ice men at Odessa the other night, losing a wild game to the Elliott hotel club of the Odessa Industrial.

The dope is overhanging in favor of the Methodists ending threats of a three-game playoff which would result should the Christians win the Tuesday night game. Such a win would place the Christians ahead in the second half and in line to play the M's for the championship, the M's having taken the first half without a loss.

Partisans of the two clubs are making arrangements for entertaining a large crowd at the Scharbauer gym, and plan giving the entire Church loop a social gathering during the week sometime.

INQUIRIES INTO PRISON BREAK TO FIND CULPABLE

JOLIET, Ill., Feb. 23. (UP).—Tenseness born of expectancy and fear gripped guards and prisoners of the penitentiary today as secret inquiries were being made to determine whether other convicts were involved in the break for freedom which brought death to three.

Three men were riddled by rifle and machine gun bullets as they scaled the wall of the old prison Sunday. At least two more were involved and officials believe others planned to break.

Contest Announced For Men's Class

Men who attend the big class meeting each Sunday in Hotel Scharbauer will have a barbecue about the middle of April.

The 156 men present Sunday divided themselves into the North and South sides with Cotter Hiett, captain of the Norths and James S. No. land, captain of the Souths. The two sides in an attendance contest. The losing side must do all the work in arranging a barbecue at Cloverdale.

Clarence Scharbauer, who has donated his hotel dining room for the big class, Sunday donated a call for the barbecue, and other expenses will come from the treasury, so the barbecue is already financed through Scharbauer's generosity.

The South side is already gunning for new recruits and will have a quartet of colored men to sing next Sunday. Harry L. Haight will have the Hotel Scharbauer quartet to sing negro spirituals. The men will also have a chance to get all of their favorite songs sung by the group, as 30 minutes will be devoted next Sunday to singing. Every man in Midland who likes to sing, or who likes the old time negro songs is invited to hear the singing Sunday if he isn't in Sunday school elsewhere.

Men who attend a majority of the Sundays from now on through April 5 will be invited to the big barbecue, and new comers who join late in the contest will be welcomed. The assembly room was specially decorated Sunday by Arthur Jury in honor of Washington's birthday.

Must Have Work Or Quit School

A grown young woman, senior in Midland high school, must have a place to work for her room and board or else she will have to quit school. The young woman, from a first class farm family, is anxious to complete her work this year, but unless someone gives her a home she will be forced to leave school. Those who wish further details can obtain them from Supt. W. W. Lackey or the Midland chamber of commerce. The young woman is said to be a good worker, and is old enough to know all about domestic work.

KILLED WHILE BATHING

trich. I figured that the clouds were a sign. The ostrich comes from Africa and we thought that was a sign we should go to Africa and preach about Jesus. We figured by that sign Jesus would carry us through. Then I said it was best to give up. I told Glenn I would get a chance to see my boy again. So Glenn yelled at the men 'All right, boys.'

With their tattered clothing hanging about them, the three tossed their pistols to the ground and that night was spent in the Phoenix jail. Later there were other jails, especially the one in Lawrence County, Pennsylvania, where they sat in cells, one above the other, while Dague wondered whether he was going to die in the electric chair, and Mrs. Schroeder sang "Painting the Clouds With Sunshine" as she washed socks and handkerchiefs for the former Sunday school teacher.

Insanity Plea
Insanity was Irene's defense at the trial. She told how she had stolen lead pencils when a child, that she tried to commit suicide three times and that she had no conception of right or wrong. Dague's defense was that he was entirely under control of his sweetheart.

But it was Donnie, the four-year-old boy, who shouted "Ho, my mother shot a cop just like you," when a policeman called at the home of Mrs. Schroeder's father and sisters who helped most to convict his mother. The boy was in the car the night Paul was killed and his statement was regarded as so important that the state held him in $20,000 ball as a material witness.

The jury was out two and a half hours, and brought back a verdict of guilty.

"I figured it that way," said Dague.

"Well, now that's too bad," was Mrs. Schroeder's comment.

ROBBERY STORY FAILS TO CLICK IN KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 23. (AP)—Declaring he had killed two men who attempted to rob him, Dayton Thomas, 46, surrendered to police today and is held as a murder suspect in default of a $7,500 bond.

Officers investigating the story found John McAlley, 28, and Joe Carmody, 27, shot dead in their automobiles. Police said Thompson had told them that McAlley was driving him home when Carmody's car overtook them, crowding them to the curb.

Barron Goes to Bankers Meeting

Ralph M. Barron, president of the Midland National bank, left Midland Saturday for Fort Worth, to attend the Seventh District conference of the Texas Bankers association, of which body he is secretary.

Banking problems particularly pertinent to the present season of agricultural suffering in some localities of the section will be discussed, Raymond C. Gee, chairman, announced.

The meeting got under way this morning.

The district convention is attended by members of the "flying squadron" of the state association, who are now making their annual tour attending district conventions throughout the state.

One of the major addresses of the morning session, at 9:30 o'clock in the Palace theatre, was "The Relationship of Bankers to the Agricultural Development of Texas," by W. B. Lee, vice president of the Spur National bank at Spur.

Other addresses on the program were announced as "Glancing Back but Looking Forward," by R. Elmo Thompson, vice president of the Exchange National bank, Tulsa, Okla.; "A Message of Good Will," by John Q. McAdams, president of the Winters State bank at Winters, and president of the State Bankers association; "Keeping Your Feet Under Your Own Desk," by R. E. Harding, president of the Fort Worth National bank; "A Few Words From the Commissioner," by James Shaw, commissioner of banking, Austin; "Looking Into the Present Situation," by R. L. Thornton, president of the Mercantile Bank and Trust company, Dallas, and "Pussyfoot Banking," by Lynn P. Tally, governor of the Federal Reserve bank at Dallas.

FACULTY WINS GAME

The faculty of the high school beat the Texas Electric Service company Saturday in a game of playground ball, 13-8. The game went 10 innings.

In the last inning the faculty went wild, scoring five runs.

The two teams are expected to enter teams in the Industrial Playground Ball league to be organized soon.

LITTLE THEATRE ADDS DR. RATLIFF TO CAST; A NEW SET IS DESIGNED

Dr. D. K. Ratliff has been added to the cast of the little theatre, which will play "The Gossipy Sex" Friday night. Seen many times here as a blackface, he was called into the cast at the "last minute" to bolster a play weakened by the leaving of "Slim" Clayton, who was injured in a basketball game. Dr. Ratliff is versatile, and knew his lines at the brief Sunday rehearsal at the Yucca.

For the first time since the little theatre has been organized in Midland, a set with wall paper will be used. Mrs. George Abell, play director, and Mrs. C. G. McCaleb, who studied at the Chicago Art Institute, arranged the set. Saadin Midland little theatre has become known for the excellence of its sets and this one will be no less excellent than those in the past.

How domestic arguments can start: George Abell, who plays the lead in the production, didn't think of connotations when he confided to the play director he had pinched the ankle of one of the feminine members of the cast. As explanations were in order, George said he had closed the car door on said feminine member. His face was redder than the injured ankle.

Mind Studied at Church of Christ

"Mind" was the lesson-sermon subject in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, February 22.

Isaiah 11:9 furnished the golden text: "The earth shall be full of knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea."

The lesson-sermon included the following passages from the Bible: "O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways are past finding out! For who hath known the mind of the Lord? or who hath been his counsellor? For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory forever." The following citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, were also included: "Mind is God, and God is not seen by material sense, because Mind is Spirit, which material sense cannot discern... Mind is the I am, or infinity. Mind never enters the finite Intelligence never passes into non-intelligence, or matter... The divine Ego, or individuality, is reflected in all spiritual individuality from the infinitesimal to the infinite."
