JUSTICE AT THE COURT HOUSE

It has been remarked that there was never as much interest in court activity in Midland as there has been during the term just closed. The court room was practically filled during most of the four week session, indicating unusual interest on the part of the public.

The chief change, however, was that juries seemed to have a new conscience, a new understanding of duty and a new desire to see the law enforced, to see justice meted out.

Until a few months ago it was said that a "boot-legger never got stuck" at Midland. In fact, until this term of court, there had been only two convictions here in liquor cases. The term just closed added a suspended sentence and a one-year penitentiary sentence to the list, a hung jury occurring in the third case.

The jury let it be known that robbery and theft are not allowed in Midland, three transient youths receiving stiff penalties for breaking into a store.

In one of the most sensational murder trials ever held here, a 35-year penalty was given in the face of defense argument that has been used to set men free in other localities. On the other hand, one jury considered another defendant in a murder trial entitled to justice to the extent that he was found not guilty.

Civil cases, handled without jury trial, were dispatched satisfactorily as usual.

All in all, the term of court just closed was one of the outstanding sessions to have been held in Midland, and the new court house, just initiated, served as a true temple of justice.

COME TO CHURCH CAMPAIGN

The movement entered into by a group of Midland churches to have half the population of Midland in church by Easter Sunday is highly commendable. In the meantime, the month of March, beginning today, is Come-to-Church month.

It is noteworthy that the campaign is referred to as "come to church" instead of "go to church" month. Church and religious leaders are placing themselves in the attitude of inviting people to services instead of trying to send them.

There has been a notable increase in religious interest in Midland within the past few months. It is believed that the movement to have half of the population in church on Easter Sunday, through enhancement of interest during the intervening weeks, will meet with success and that the results will be highly beneficial to Midland.

Start the season right. Don't wait for Easter Sunday, but "come to church" this morning.

WHAT'S EXPECTED OF A CHILD

The Reporter-Telegram continues to note response from its readers commending the article used in the editorial column Friday, "The Shrine of a Sleeping Child."

This article was a clipping, mailed to the newspaper by a Midland father who expressed the belief that it would make better parents of those who would read it.

More than one reader has acknowledged the lesson from the article, remarking that it is easy for parents to expect too much from children, forgetting that a child's mind is not on a par with that of an adult.

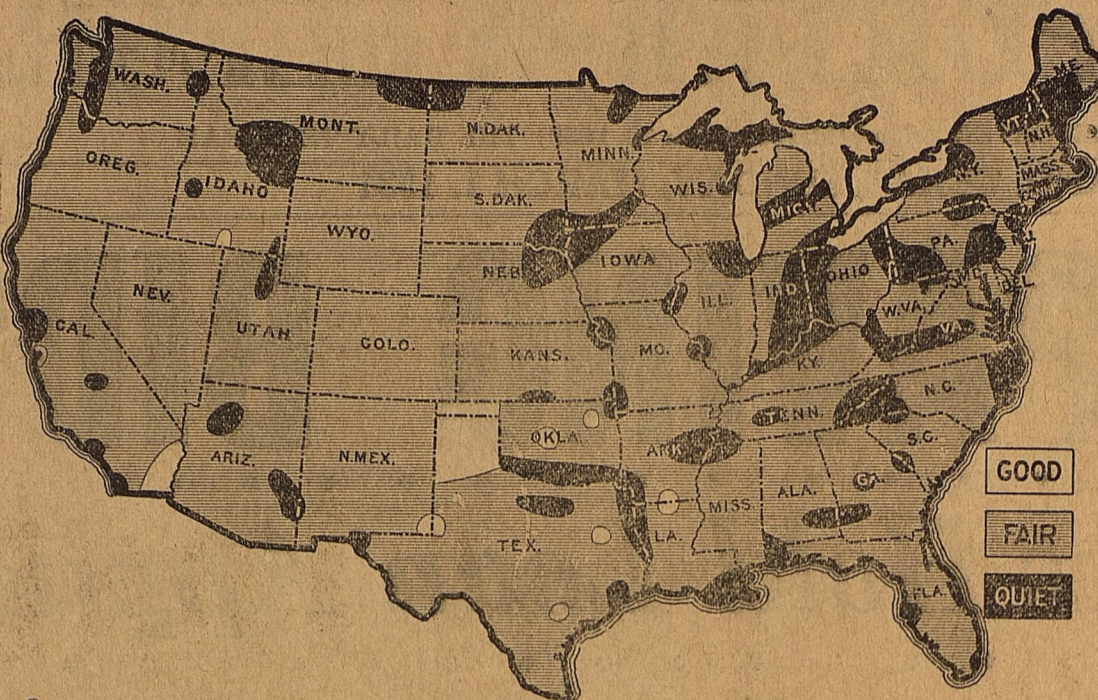

The success of the article was in its simplicity, playing upon the beauty and innocence of a sleeping child to gain the attention of hardened adults and to bring home a lesson, rebuking parents for allowing their bad dispositions to crop out when speaking to children.

DRUGS MAY INJURE AS WELL AS AID PATIENT

There are other drugs which have the special power to control or to stimulate various activities in the human body.

The anesthetics, such as ether, chloroform, nitrous oxide, and ethylene produce temporary unconsciousness during which there is insensibility to pain. With these drugs modern surgery is made possible.

There are other drugs which have the special virtue of inducing sleep, even in the presence of pain. These are known as narcotic drugs, and practically all of them are derived from opium.

After the narcotics come the series of drugs known as hypnotics or sedative drugs which have the special virtue of inducing sleep without the great likelihood of causing habit formation that exists with derivatives of opium. Among these hypnotics and sedatives, the most common ones in modern use include derivatives of barbital or veronal and also preparations of bromides.

These drugs are, in a way, potent for harm as well as for good. They should seldom, if ever, be used without the direction or prescription of a physician.

Of special interest are the drugs called analgesics and antipyretics, which have the special power of controlling pain, especially nerve pains and also of reducing fever. The most common drug of this variety is the widely known aspirin which many people take in immense quantities without realizing that any drug potent for good may also under the wrong conditions produce harm.

In addition to the commonly used aspirin, there are much stronger drugs of the same type, including acetanilid and antipyrine. People have been accustomed to buying such things in enormous quantities without realizing that overdoses may cause changes in the blood and in the heart, and that people will tend to become addicted to the use of the drug without endeavoring to clear up at its source the condition for which the drug is used.

The very greatest danger in the use of such preparations is the fact that they are apparently so harmless.

Many of the common headache powders sold through soda fountains contain acetanilid which tends to subdue the pain, but which is particularly dangerous on account of its effect on the blood and the heart.

Some of the most widely used preparations for headache or pains generally sold directly to the public include mixtures of amidopyrine and of some barbital derivative—either one of these drugs alone is dangerous if taken in overdoses—and the combination may have all of the dangers of both. There is incidentally the possibility that the individual who wishes merely to have his pain relieved gets a sleep producer, which is an effect he did not wish.

The individual who wishes merely to overcome the threshold for sleep gets a drug that lowers the temperature and thereby brings about a change that he perhaps may not have desired.

CHANGING FOR THE BETTER

A distinct betterment in business sentiment since the beginning of the year is noted by Frank Greene in his monthly review for Nation's Business, published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The brighter spirit that ruled in business circles in January, he says, presented a sharp contrast to the gloomy feeling that existed in the closing months of 1930. He ascribes the more cheerful tone to the fact that fifteen months of the depression have passed rather than because any great natural changes have taken place.

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

The past term of court has brought about some innovations here in enforcement of the liquor law. Up to the time the court house took up temporary quarters in the Petroleum Building, while the old building was being torn down and the new one constructed, no defendant had ever been convicted here on a liquor charge. I believe two were "stuck" last fall.

When the court got in the new building, the juries got hard boiled and wanted to see the law enforced. The result was there were some more liquor convictions. I have thought a lot about prohibition, and I am one of those fellows who thinks it ought to be enforced, since it is a law.

However, there are those men who believe there are other angles to consider. One member of President Hoover's Wickersham commission, in citing the advantages of prohibition, said, "Prohibition has raised the drinker from the gutter and put him in good society."

No one can deny that there are plenty of drinkers in society. It's all in the way you look at the word "society." If society means parties, all of us will admit that there is plenty of liquor at parties, at least some parties.

But I don't seem to be getting anywhere in this argument, trying to take up both sides of it by myself. However, that's what I stand for anyway. I publish my platform at the top of this column, reserving the right to quack about everything without taking a stand on anything, and I guess that is about what I have accomplished in this treatise on prohibition.

Reporter-Telegram School of Cookery Announced Here

Expert Culinary of Ida M. Chitwood School Will Conduct Week's Lectures, Opening Monday Afternoon, March 30

What will be the most important event of the season for Midland housewives is the Reporter-Telegram School of Cookery which opens Monday, March 30, for a week's session.

At the helm of the school will be a culinary expert from the Ida M. Chitwood School of Cookery in Dallas. An auditorium will be secured in the business district which will accommodate more than 1,000 women who are expected from Midland, Midland county and surrounding towns.

Preparation of food today is a science and no longer is the family meal thrown haphazardly together. For this reason the Reporter-Telegram is securing one of the best food experts in the nation to conduct this school. She will give daily demonstrations and lessons on various ways of preparing, cooking and preserving foods. Her knowledge of cookery and foods has been taken from laboratory work and practical experience in kitchens.

The coming of the exposition will mark the first annual school sponsored by the paper, an affair which will probably be looked forward to more than any other of the year.

Eight years ago, the Chitwood school opened a laboratory in Dallas, for research work. Here they conducted many tests, working out problems that develop from time to time, ascertaining the contents of the various articles and their worth for giving strength and health. The school has grown to the extent that many of the largest cities send there for food demonstrators.

Finer Points Taught Many mothers and housewives have not had the opportunity of learning the finer points of cooking and home economics; to some these things were not taught in their days in the public school. These newer methods were to be given to women of this territory through the lectures and demonstrations.

The lectures offered will be found especially helpful to the young matrons and housewives just beginning to realize the struggle of properly caring for a growing family. Suggestions will be given as to the preparing of meals at less time and cost than it would if they were procured away from home and at the same time such meals as would be healthful and appetizing.

Exchange Ideas Questions and opinions will be exchanged on the subjects discussed in the school. It is expected that many good suggestions will be brought out in this manner.

Further plans for the school will appear under the opening on Monday afternoon, March 30.

Famous Sociologist Speaks Saturday

Rural, Town Women Attend Program at Court House

Probably the most famous woman who ever made an address in Midland will be here next Saturday to talk to rural club women and the Federated Clubs of Midland. She is Mrs. Maggie W. Barry, extension sociologist of the Rural Women's Organization of Texas A. & M. College.

Mrs. Barry is being brought to Midland by Miss Genevieve Derryberry, home demonstration agent at Midland. Mrs. Barry will address the Council of Rural Club Women at 10 o'clock the morning of March 7 in the assembly room of the county agents' at the courthouse, and will address the Women's Federated clubs and rural women at 3 in the afternoon.

Mrs. Barry is a nationally known leader. The American Who's Who has this to say:

"Mrs. Maggie Barry was born in Palo Alto, Miss. She is a graduate of the Murfreesboro, Tenn. Institute with the M. A. degree. She studied under private tutors in United States, and also in Paris, France. She married Hon. F. G. Barry, congressman, West Point, Mass., who died in 1908. She began teaching at Whitworth College in 1887. Specialist for Women's organizations on the staff of Extension Service of A. & M. College of Texas; chairman of Department of American Home, General Federated Women's Clubs; a member of Executive Committee of the General Federation; life member of board Texas Federated clubs; director of Federated Clubs of Texas; member of the Texas Inter-racial Commission.

Treasure Chest Save Pencils for

What do you do with those half-used pencils? Is the wastebasket where they are thrown?

Why not put them in the "Treasure Chest"? Truly it will be a treasure chest for those several North Ward children who can't even afford to buy lunches every day, much less the necessary pencils, drawing paper, crayolas and tablets.

The North Ward P. T. A. is attempting to see that these unfortunate children are provided with these supplies. The appeal is being made especially to local offices where probably the short pencils are often thrown away.

These children need those pencils. Put a small box handy and rather than use the wastebasket put the pencils in the box. Then call for the society editor at No. 7 and the pencils will be sent for.

Do your part toward filling the Treasure Chest with pencils and other supplies.

Thursday club meets at the home of Mrs. Jack Hazeltine at 3 o'clock.

Characters Named For P. T. A. Production

With the parts for roles distributed, the "The Path of True Love," play being sponsored by the North Ward P. T. A., is being rehearsed regularly under the coaching of Mrs. J. G. Gemmill. The production is said to be one of the most successful to be presented by home talent.

The date and place for the presentation will be announced soon.

Monday afternoon the meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Claud Cowden; Tuesday the women will motor to the Greenwood church; Wednesday program will be following the prayer meeting in the evening; Thursday a program at the church and Friday the G. A.'s and A. R.'s present a program.

Mrs. Charles Arnold of Denver is in Midland visiting Miss Beulah Henry and Mrs. Dan Wilkinson. While living in Midland Mrs. Arnold was Miss Jane Campbell.

Surprise Party Honors Joe Honorio

Joe Honorio, assistant manager Ritz and Palace theatres, was entertained with a surprise birthday party Friday night by his wife at their home in South Midland.

Guests were invited for an "after theatre party." On his return home after the show, the theatre manager was greeted by many guests under the soft lighting effects arranged in the home, and as well a large birthday cake with thirty-six candles aglow above its decorations.

The decorations were carried out in a contrast of pink and blue. Employees of the theatres and a number of other friends were the invited guests. Refreshments were served at midnight.

Among those present were City manager of Midland theatres, John Bonner, and Mrs. Bonner, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Biggs, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Biggs, Jeanette Tyner, Elwood Puryear, Charlie Ethridge, Frank Lord, Lucy B. Myrick, Harry Willingham, Roy Blake, Johnnie D. Underwood, Marvin Booth, Stan Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Baker of Dallas, Velma Smith, Billed Brown, R. T. Cox, M. Palmo, Elva Chrisma, Midgeon Clifford, Harry L. Walters, Archie Dale, Louis Cantalan, Sargent Paul Wagster, Bobbie Miller, Mrs. H. D. Brown, Mary Francis Wagster, Norman Woody, Harry McCarty, Roy Conder, Sammie Teasley.

Miss Thelma Riddle of Abilene is spending the week end in Midland visiting friends.

Make Your Gas Bills Thrift Bills. While we cannot regulate the amount of gas that you use, we do urge you to take care that your consumption does not exceed your actual needs. In other words, we want you to get the most out of the gas you use; we want you to make your gas bills thrift bills. We desire this because a careless, wasteful use of gas results in big bills, complaints, delayed payments and other expenses which, when taken together, mean dissatisfied customers. Satisfied customers constitute our best asset. They are worth more to us than any revenue derived from gas which is wasted. West Texas Gas Company

SOUTHERN ICE TO SEMI-FINALS AT WINK TOURNEY; WON 49-28

SLIM CLAYTON JOINS CLUB AND IS SECOND HIGHEST SCORER; ELLIOTT HOTEL MET SATURDAY; TEAM STRONG

With the CAGERS

By R. C. HANKINS.

A strong team that entered the tournament under the colors of the Midland Southern Ice & Utilities Corp. took the floor in the semi-finals at 8:30 in Wink Saturday night. The club beat the Chevrolet Motor company of Wink, 49-28 Friday night in a surprising show of speed and goal shooting ability, and was ranked equally with Cosden refiners of Big Spring to go into the finals.

The first game of the semi-finals threw the strong Jarvis clothiers against Cosden. The final game was to begin about 10 o'clock.

Ten clubs entered for the Friday night festivities. Results were as follows:

Wink Faculty 29, Kermit 16 Elliott hotel 31, Wink hi 19 Jarvis clothiers 69, Paso-Tex 23 Cosden refiners 72, Kermit Independents 17 Southern Ice 49, Chevrolet motors 28

The surprise of the night was the downfall of Paso-Tex. This club was favored to win the tournament, but lost to a club that had received little publicity, but which showered an avalanche of points over their opponents. The score, 69-23, mirrors the swift great scoring being initiated by the clothiers. Martinez of the winners scored more points alone than the entire Paso-Tex team, getting 29.

Southern Ice played Clayton, the same old "Slim" who tore up the local concrete court this season but who hurt his ankle in the first game of The Reporter-Telegram-Midland Clinic playoff and was declared out for the remainder of the season. He shot 20 points and was the second highest individual scorer of the night.

The winners of the tournament will receive a silver mounted basketball of regulation size. To second place winner goes a basketball almost that size, and similarly mounted. Southern Ice chances were being rated favorable to win over the hotel men of Odessa.

The box score:

Southern Ice	FG	FT	PF	TP
Pierce	6	0	0	12
Jones	4	1	2	9
Clayton	9	2	1	20
Nicholson	3	1	3	7
Ellis	0	1	0	1

didn't know the blonde's last name. Jacobs talked business, Galbraith sports, Williams landscapes and sculpturing, Rathliff disillusionment—and Kelly also talked about women. And Mrs. Kelly had a swell feed, don't think otherwise.

A West Texas Golf association is being tentatively advocated by Campbell and by Blondy Cross of San Angelo, Midland, Big Spring, Lamesa, San Angelo, Sweetwater and Abilene are pointed out as being the most logical line-up of divot-digging members. Things have gone so far under the white lime-light of publicity that Walter I. Clark of Eastland, secretary-treasurer of the Oil Belt Golf association, has written Campbell, enclosing the by-laws and constitution of the Oil belt loop, trusting they may become useful in a future organization of the proposed loop. Golf is played on Sundays in the Oil belt and a great trophy is awarded. Major Campbell vouchsafes the information that last year 378 players played 2183 matches, and that large galleries trailed in the wake of the players, scratching their legs through their wool stockings and wise-cracking gleefully at top shots that ran into various and ultra-various bunkers and traps.

Country club likely will take to the idea if someone goes so far as to slide his cigar over to the corner of his mouth and get an invitational enunciation hitting on all six. Over here where we take up a golf club to stifle yawns after headlines of another negro murder case resulting in acquittal for defendant, the prospect of seeing a sliced ball carom off the head of some intrepid, outspoken member of the gallery faction is too inviting to be turned down. As such an association would take in a large area, we would not doubt be for joining, as we are reminded that we would be licensed to go out of our own restricted territory to do missionary work in a good cause.

The Midland grid mentor's not-so-recent statement that he would like to get personal to the extent of asking a few questions to those he had not been introduced to, was not directed at the whole Class A district, but at McCamey alone, Blondy Cross seems to believe. Cross, called by Boyce House of Ranger, in upholding the apparent love of the two for each other, "The Angelo Affliction," knows his sports territory so well he wrote of finding a few scatter shot from Midland's guns here and there, but found no slugs

Midland presumed it had wadded into it's pistol. Well, we can't say over here what was in the gun. All we know is nobody in front of the muzzle of the pop gun appears to have any objections to our carrying a gun—but everybody has been solicitous in asking how our recoil-bruised shoulder is doing. Thanks, Blondy, for taking a few of the targets down, but I believe our alma mater, TCU, failed to stuff us with deductive power enough to realize that there be those who shoot just to hear the racket, and had just as soon rake a jagged corner of the moon as to break windows in McCamey. You know the sensation: shoot once and holler twice. Seriously, I don't believe McCamey or anyone else was hit at when our mentor got out the old blunderbuss, puckered up his eyes and let go both barrels. It was just time to help the sports page some—you know, we don't have any sports to write from the high school except during the regular football season.

I hear the eminent Mr. Campbell, who was a Texas-ex, according to his own admission, will be over Monday night for the steer banquet. As I'm a pariah in the fold of independent Texans, halting for a few days at TCU, I'll have to go through the solitary act of sitting in Mr. Barron's front office and wondering if the invading sports writer is using the right knife when shoveling in peas when in company with some of Midland's local talent. I will take the risky chance and ask someone to introduce him to the district judge and to Paul Vickers. That ought to protect him from the curious, souvenir hunters who have affinity for tearing off strips of immaculate suits of visiting celebrities. The judge commands the services of the law, and Vickers would not be approached because of his aptitude of erupt at any moment with a barrage of Scotch jokes. Bob said we were to be honored by his presence. And that we shall be—unless he forgets to come over.

Boyce House, versatile sage of the Ranger pasturage, thanks us publicly in his well-known column, "By the Way," for "the kind words that he uses concerning the hasty and humble sports output of our typewriter." That won't mean so much to the average reader, but those who have taken time to cultivate the mind by looking over the writer's stuff will know we are breathing easier since absorbing the fact that he complimented, rather than basted, us. Mr. House climbs around on the prominent bones of other writers of the section and makes them wish they were made more like woman, curves rather than angles. His witticisms like those of Prexy Anderson, Campbell and Cross have lots to do with letting the people know there is a sports page in the modern newspaper.

Brady is really making preparation to get into Class A in the place of Midland—if that can be accomplished, so tis said, Red Williams is the boy with the coaches shoes and the haircloth garments. He wants in with his eleven huskies and has asked for aid in seeing that his request is granted.

Two brothers, Harry and Gene Taylor, may coach opposing teams in this district, we hear. Both hail from TCU and know their marker stripes. Well, ought to be good at the box office, as well as murder. Ralph Shuffler at Odessa stood out front of his shop in Odessa and quoth to the zephyrs something about golf season being here. Indefatigable golfer, he will go out to the gravel pit and hunt for the dozen balls he lost in the last match there last season. He has found all his dozen clubs but four—he forgot which friend borrowed those four. He will ask Lee Satterwhite to introduce a bill at the next session of the legislator, asking that a law be passed to protect golfers from borrowers. Besides that, he will write an editorial about the matter that will be reprinted over the country.

Shuffler, like Mr. Kelly over at Stanton, is having to do several men's work this week. His son, R. H. Shuffler, is gone to Austin or thereabouts, and Shuffler writes: "Pa pinch hits for the prodigal son: I been wanting to take a crack at his column, anyway." Kelly is writing his Stanton paper, soliciting ads and doing his machine work. Some persons are born to do lots and not raise any absurd objections to it.

And now comes Doc Ellis with a word about this and that and chiefly about his Bushers. Doc says the boys with the burrs in their beards are going to a beauty parlor, get their beard trimmed, hair cut, nails manicured and face massaged. In short, this pioneer baseball team is going to step down from the national pastime and begin playing playground ball with the rest of us.

And Mrs. Ivy Lee Mitchell of the Midland Hardware company will hunt overalls that fit and grab up a bat. She's to get a tryout with her club, but will be mascot if necessary. She's one of those feminine sports who would carry the water bucket if it were necessary. Incidentally, she promised us an assortment of bodily injuries in case we repeated this gossip—but I forgot the advice in the shuffle to get this page filled. If I'm absent Monday, I'll be back Tuesday. These doctors around town will be glad to aid men to make the Tuesday deadline.

'The Easiest Way' Broke Box-Office Records When Presented on Stage by David Belasco

AGENT RETURNS

"The Easiest Way," a Constance Bennett M-G-M starring vehicle which opens at the Ritz Theatre today, is the first talking picture adaptation of one of the greatest stage plays ever to come from the pen of an American author.

The box-office records set by this sensational drama, by Eugene Walter, still stand. As the first play at the end of the Victorian age to remotely suggest that there could be a double standard of morality or that a man could forgive a woman who made a mistake, "The Easiest Way" literally took the world by storm.

It made Frances Starr a star (no pun intended) when David Belasco introduced the play in New York in 1910. For years thereafter Miss Starr presented it in Manhattan and on the road. It was played in England in 1912 and became equally popular there. It has been translated and played in all the major languages. It has been presented thousands of times by stock companies and amateur societies.

Only by stiff bidding did Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer secure this prize for talking pictures. Borrowed from Pathe for the stellar role of "Laura Murdock" was Constance Bennett, whose recent successes include "Common Clay," "Sin Takes a Holiday" and "Three Faces East."

In line with the importance of the undertaking, Director Jack Conway chose an exceptional supporting cast to present this talkie. The suave Adolphe Menjou plays Brockton and the lover, Madison, is done by the popular Robert Montgomery. Other players of prominence include Anita Page, Marjorie Rameau, J. Farrell MacDonald, Clara Blandick and Clark Gable.

Mrs. W. H. Spaulding left yesterday morning for Abilene where she will remain with her granddaughter, Shirley Allen, while Mrs. Ben Allen visits relatives who are ill in El Paso.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Neely have gone to Rotan to spend a few days visiting relatives.

Mrs. Herbert Clark and Miss Josephine Throckmorton of Rankin spent Friday shopping in Midland.

Warren Skaggs of Big Spring is here spending the week end visiting friends.

J. F. Tiffon left yesterday for El Paso where he spending the week end.

H. H. Payne of the Chevrolet Motor company of El Paso is a business visitor in the city this week end.
