Frost Extends Southward to Texas Truck Crop Areas

COLD WAVE LIFTS HERE LAST NIGHT

Panhandle Continues With Freezing Temperatures

DALLAS, March 3. (UP). Frost extended southward past San Antonio last night. Temperature was near freezing in North Texas. Young truck crops valued at thousands in the lower Rio Grande were not damaged. Palestine reported a heavy frost, with temperature at 36 degrees; Austin, light frost, 40 degrees; Houston, heavy frost, 40 degrees; El Paso, heavy frost, 36; San Antonio, light frost, 44; Amarillo, 32 degrees, with freezing temperatures in the Panhandle generally.

The mercury got no lower than 34 degrees in Midland early this morning, following a low mark of 26 degrees the day previous. Maximum temperature reported from the government weather station here today was 54 degrees.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR FEED TESTS FOR W. T. ASKED

STAMFORD, March 3. (Special).—A committee headed by Frank P. Holland, Dallas, publisher and agricultural leader will represent the West Texas chamber of commerce before the appropriations committee of the state house of representatives and senate in a hearing on March 5, and present a request for a legislative appropriation for carrying on cattle feeding tests and demonstrations at the state agricultural experiment stations in West Texas.

Arrangements for the West Texas group to appear before the appropriations committees were made by Adrian Pool, member of the state board of control.

Sponsoring the development and enlargement of the practice of feeding Texas grain to Texas cattle in finishing them out for market is one of the objectives of the West Texas chamber for this year and the effort to further the idea by having the state agricultural stations determine the most efficient and practical methods to follow in that work has been widely endorsed.

Agricultural leaders point out that there is much lost motion and other uneconomic items involved in the present arrangement of West Texas producing cattle, shipping them to the northern states for finishing on corn and other grains, and then having the beef shipped back into Texas—while millions of tons of Texas grain sorghum and other feedstuffs are being sold at low prices.

The basic idea in asking for the feeding experiment appropriations is to make possible arriving at a way to get Texas cattle and Texas grain together in Texas so as to make the business of producing both commodities mean more to the state.

Heatley's Observe 50th Anniversary

The fifth wedding anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Heatley, 202 East Michigan street, was observed quietly Saturday.

Two children, Mrs. Charles Holzgraf and Mrs. T. R. Wilson, spent the evening with their parents, to constitute little change from the quiet life adopted by the aged couple. Mr. Heatley is 78, Mrs. Heatley 70.

The two are one of Midland's oldest couples, having resided in this town for 23 years. They were married at Hurst Springs, near Gatesville, Mrs. Heatley's father having settled that place and given it his name. Heatley is a native Alabamian. He was formerly in the automobile business here, but retired several years ago. He owns farm investments in this county still. Two other children born to Mr. and Mrs. Heatley are dead.

"Alfalfa Bill" Guns for Barber

Governor "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Oklahoma doesn't like to have nicks taken out of his chin when he's being shaved. When C. H. Riggs (lower picture), the official capitol barber, was shaving the governor, the latter leaped from the chair and rushed from the shop. "Alfalfa Bill" then went out after Riggs' scalp, and started a row in the state legislature with his attempt to discharge Riggs. In the picture above, Governor Murray is shown as he mingled with jobless men at a free soup kitchen and tested the soup to see if it was all right.

Midland Vets Meet to Ask Loans; Here's ABC of It

With the application tonight of Midland World war veterans at 7:30 at the court house, for loans on their adjusted compensation certificates, the following information on how vets may get bonus loans will be interesting, if not instructional:

Every one of the 54 regional offices of the veterans' bureau has been supplied with cash to handle applications for loans to veterans who by act of congress may now borrow up to 50 per cent of the face value of their adjusted compensation certificates.

The procedure of borrowing on the new basis is quite simple. The machinery through which the veterans' bureau lent about $300,000 to veterans prior to the new law will take care of the increased loans, except that additional help is authorized for the various regional offices if the rush for money is sufficient to make it necessary.

The veteran who needs money first obtains the application blank for such a loan. This application blank is in the form of a one-year note, automatically renewable from year to year. It may be obtained from the nearest regional office of the veterans' bureau, but usually is as easily or more readily obtained from offices of the Red Cross or of veterans' organizations.

If the veteran borrowing is taking advantage of the loan privilege on his certificate for the first time he attaches the bonus certificate to the note, after filling that out, and takes it or mails it to the nearest regional office. Ordinarily he will know just where to send note and certificate because that is the same regional office to which he originally applied for the certificate. Any regional office, however, will make a loan on any certificate which it holds or which is presented to it.

The veteran who already has borrowed on his certificate has deposited his certificate with the regional office which advanced the loan. He must make his application to that particular regional office, attaching the pink slip which he received as receipt for the certificate and descriptive of the loan transaction.

Red Cross Aids Distressed Veterans who are in distress, in order to obtain preference in having their applications handled, should obtain certification of their need from one of the recognized service organizations or from the Red Cross.

The veterans' bureau suggests that it is better to apply for loans by mail and gives the assurance that needy cases will be given first call in the issuance of money. On (See MIDLAND VETS page 6)

THE BONUS CHANGE AT A GLANCE

The new soldiers' bonus loan law allows each veteran to borrow up to 50 per cent of the face value of his adjusted compensation certificate.

Those face values average about $1000 and range from $125 to $1500 depending on the length of war service and the extent to which it was spent overseas.

Veterans who have already borrowed can now get the difference between the amount of their existing loan and 50 per cent face value, less accumulated interest on the old loan. The interest rate is 4 1/2 per cent.

Nearly all bonus certificates are more than two years old. Those which are not do not possess any loan value until two years from the date of issuance.

ALL READY FOR HOUSE HEARING ON SMALL BILL

AUSTIN, March 3.—All is set for the house hearing tonight on the Small bill that in effect validates the relinquishment act, already upheld by the supreme court. The measure, which passed the senate last week by a vote of 22 to 3, will be discussed at a meeting of the house public lands committee of which Representative Joseph McGill of El Paso is chairman.

A number of West Texas citizens already have arrived to champion the measure, but East Texas is as much interested as any other section. It was said by Representative R. M. Wagstaff of Abilene, house sponsor of the legislation, East Texas who are expected to speak in behalf of the bill include Representatives R. M. Hubbard, New Boston, and A. K. Daniels, Crockett.

The supreme court decision gives a landowner right to fifteen-sixteenths of the minerals under the surface, but held that the owner should act as agent of the state. The Small bill merely gives him actual title, but adds no more rights or emolument. The state retains its one-sixteenth as under the relinquishment act.

As a matter of fact, a landowner does not get any fifteen-sixteenths, for the man or company that drills gets seven-eighths of the oil, the one-eighth being divided equally to (See SMALL BILL page 6)

ONE DEAD SIX HURT IN WRECK

Injured Trapped for Three Hours in Wreckage

CORPUS CHRISTI, March 3. (UP)—Jose Trevino, 12, was killed. Mrs. Dolores Santeno was critically injured and Domingo Ramirez, his wife and three children, all of San Benito, were injured when a light sedan struck a truck near Alice early this morning.

The injured were trapped in the wreckage nearly three hours before aid passed.

HEALTH BOARD ADOPTS BY-LAWS, CONSTITUTION

Constitution and by-laws, proposed by Chas. Yonge at the regular monthly meeting of the Midland County Public Health board, were adopted last night, forming a basis of operations for the organization.

Report on accomplishments in public health and sanitation in Midland during recent months was given by Dr. W. E. Ryan, city health physician.

Dr. L. B. Pemberton gave a report on the dental health moving picture being shown here for two days during observance of Texas dental health week. Miss Martha Bredemeier, county health nurse, gave her official report on the preceding month's work, telling of health inspections at rural schools. She announced that inspections at the junior high school and visits to county demonstration clubs would be included in her activities for March.

She announced plans for a May Day program, to be given at joint meetings of the Parent Teachers' association and the county health board.

Mrs. W. H. Sloan, chairman of the board, presided. Others attending were County Judge M. R. Hill, Miss Annie Lee King, secretary of the board; Chas. Yonge, Mrs. M. K. Boone, Mrs. Percy J. Mims, Dr. W. E. Ryan, Dr. L. B. Pemberton and Dr. W. G. Whitehouse.

Five Die as Fire Traps in Building

The dead are Frank Daniels and wife and their children, Mary, Frank and Patrick, all under ten.

Free Concert at Methodist Church

Free concert at the First Methodist church tonight at 8 o'clock of the combined glee and choral clubs of McMurry college, Abilene, should bring to Midland a good program, and a versatile one, according to the Rev. Edwin C. Calhoun, pastor of the church.

Entertainment for the singers will be given in Midland and homes after the program, which is free to everyone.

Baptists Meet Greenwood Today

An all-day meeting at the Greenwood Baptist church near Midland today marked the quarterly workers' conference of the Big Spring Baptist association. Several delegates were expected to attend from Midland.

Women from the Missionary society were expected to attend the afternoon service which was an observance of the week of prayer among the W. M. U.'s of the churches.

State Rangers Continue Raiding Oil Town, Kilgore

KILGORE, March 3. (UP).—Rangers continued raids here today. The first woman was arrested this morning, the wife of one of the men arrested yesterday.

Finger print equipment was set up in an abandoned Baptist church and prisoners filed down the aisle as officers sought to establish identification.

KILGORE, March 3.—Three hundred persons were arrested in this new oil boom town of East Texas Monday and in a series of raids by thirteen state rangers and officers led by Ranger Captain Tom Hickman and Detective Captain L. M. Paek of Dallas.

Domino parlors, cafes and speak-easies, which had sprung up with the influx of thousands of persons after oil had been discovered in the vicinity, were among the places raided.

The prisoners were lodged temporarily in a church several blocks from the business district and in some unoccupied buildings. The police patrol wagon from the nearby town of Longview shuttled back and forth rapidly between the scenes and the impromptu jails.

Late Monday night, all but thirty of those arrested had been released. The thirty were taken to the jail at Longview.

Cold and rainy weather made the day ideal for the raids, since it drove many unemployed men and women indoors. After examination by rangers, workmen were released. Capt. Hickman said two convicts were among those arrested.

Officers stated the raids were made to rid the town of undesirable and to break up a criminal gang which had begun operating in Kilgore.

Discipline Set Heavy on Recruits

"You son-of-a-gun, you'll never get rich—you're in the army now."

That old refrain started about the time the boys in work dungarees dug ditches and looked up to a hard bodied corporal standing there in the shade, basking in the smile of the buck private's best girl—back in the days when they sang one more stanza about "If Camels don't get you the Fatimas must."

But the day is not gone. Ask any national guardsman. Lieut. Garrison announced this morning that compulsory drill will be held each Thursday night. The Tuesday night drill is optional. The recruits "are in the army now."

Third Identity Given Man Who Said He Was Woman

Three days have passed since Jack Charlton sprung upon an open-mouthed citizenry of Oklahoma and a few contiguous states the fact—that, far from being the man he masqueraded as, he was a woman named Grace Charlton.

Charlton, who worked eight miles south of Midland on the Emmet McCallum ranch, was declared Monday to be a "man," conclusive evidence being offered at the ranch house to that effect.

And now, with the third day since the announcement, comes the opinion of McCallum that Charlton is more boy than man.

"Jack had the mind of a twelve-year-old child," Emmet McCallum said. "He talked rationally but once since he lived at my home. His statements about being a woman, never having been licked by a man, never having been thrown by a broncho and smoking but never drinking are all wet, that is all except never having been licked—he never indicated he would scrap, and was quiet and unobtrusive in everything he did."

Charlton, Bruce McCallum, a son of Emmet McCallum, said he picked Charlton up near Westbrook eight years ago on the highway. The man was

"Public Enemy No. 1" Returns

"Public Enemy No. 1" in Chicago certainly has a lot of people who are curious to see him. At least a crowd that blocked traffic gathered when Alphonse Capone returned from Florida and appeared at Chicago's federal building to face trial in federal court on a contempt charge. Mounted police had to keep order in the throng. The smiling picture of Capone was taken when "Scarface Al" was held under arrest at the Chicago detective bureau as a "common vagrant." Detectives arrested him when he appeared for the contempt hearing. Judging from his smile, the gang chief doesn't appear to be much worried by the charges against him.

FREIGHTER GIVES DISTRESS CALL; CUTTER TO HELP

NORFOLK, Va., March 3. (UP).—The United States shipping board motor freighter Seminole was in distress 66 miles southeast of Cape Henry, Virginia, in a heavy gale today. The coast guard cutter Mascoutin was proceeding at top speed to give assistance.

EJECT JOBLESS COMMITTEE FROM HOUSE ASSEMBLY

ALBANY, N. Y., March 3. (UP).—A committee of unemployed was ejected from the legislature assembly today when the leader arose as the clerk was reading from the journal and shouted for relief.

Galleries were crowded with unemployed. There was much excitement until state troopers ejected the committee of about twenty persons.

Odessa Publisher Is CC President

A newspaperman, Ralph Shuffler, has succeeded to the presidency of the Odessa chamber of commerce.

Elected vice-president of the body at the annual meeting a few weeks ago, Shuffler was drafted for president following the resignation of A. H. Dennison as president. Dennison explained business reasons required that he resign.

Shuffler has been publishing the Odessa News-Times for about two years. He pledges to do everything possible to further Odessa by seeking cooperation of every resident who lives in that town.

Representation to Ask Appropriation

BIG SPRING, March 3. (Special). At a meeting of business men and farmers held here on Saturday it was voted to send representatives to Austin to appear before the appropriations committee in an effort to secure an appropriation for the farmers who carried out the pink bill worm regulations imposed on them during the past three years. The regulation affecting eleven counties in West Texas, C. T. Watson, manager of the local chamber of commerce, and G. A. Woodward, attorney, will leave for Austin Wednesday in behalf of this appropriation bill.

DEMOCRATS PLEDGE NEW PARTY FAITH

Resolutions Sent to National Party Committee

AUSTIN, March 3. (UP). Texas "political waywardness" is forgotten and "Texas democrats today are pledging faith to principles of the democratic party," declared resolutions offered in the senate today by Senator W. K. Hopkins of Gonzales.

The resolutions will be sent to the national democratic executive committee for reading at the March 5 sessions. No reference was made to prohibition.

The resolutions assert that "we rededicate the people of Texas to the cause of democracy."

TWELVE HUNDRED ATTEND DENTAL HEALTH EVENT

Twelve hundred Midland public school children attended the two shows this morning of the films in connection with Texas dental health week, five films dealing with care of the teeth being exhibited at the Ritz theatre. The two shows will be held again Wednesday morning between 9 and 12.

The event was held here through cooperation of county officials and civic organizations. Pupils of the north and south wards and of junior high school attended the shows this morning, also the students of Stokes, Pleasant Valley, Prairie Lee and Valley View rural communities.

The pupils of Stephens, Cotton Flat and Warfield schools will attend Wednesday, it was announced. Individual citizens and committees representing civic organizations made trips to the rural schools this morning transporting pupils to and from the dental health show.

It is pointed out that not only children and school pupils but also adults are invited to the free shows, the first to begin at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning and the second at about 10:15. Miss Genevieve Derryberry, home demonstration agent, urged today that club women attend the feature.

The five pictures are interesting, bringing out health lessons in a manner which holds the attention of the audience throughout.

IDEAS THAT HAVE MADE JOBS

In this issue, The Reporter-Telegram is printing the first of a series of editorial features dealing with ideas that have created jobs for thousands. The first is the story of George Pullman's idea which developed the gigantic Pullman car industry.

Other articles, published from week to week, will tell of ideas that have made industrial giants of mere men and which have created jobs for thousands of workers.

The ideas have not all been born yet. There are openings for ideas in every field of industry that will create jobs, in spite of the fact that highly mechanized plants are taking the place of man power in many industries, and the thinker today has as great opportunities as the thinker of yesterday.

NOT SUCH A BAD YEAR

Regardless of all its highly advertised faults, 1930 was not without its bright spots.

That much-maligned year loaded and unloaded 45,800,000 freight cars. One out of every ten families bought a new automobile. Three hundred and fifteen million pairs of shoes were manufactured. (The usual two and a half pairs to the person).

The year 1930 furnished a market-place where goods, services and labor were exchanged to the extent of one hundred billion dollars.

After all, the stores are still open. Trains are running. You can get the number on a telephone. There are thousands of business men who expect to keep their doors open in 1931. And those who pay the price of intelligent planning and tireless execution will continue to keep their doors open for years to come.

A LIGHT UNDER A BUSHEL
BY BRUCE CATTON

A French publishing house recently announced that hereafter it will publish all of its books anonymously.

Authors, the announcement said, get altogether too fond of advertising themselves and fail to devote enough attention to their writing. A writer gets a reputation and then rests on his oars, letting the impetus of his former books carry his new ones along, and spending a good share of his time in seeing to it that his name gets into the newspapers and magazines.

So this publishing firm—which is about to open an office in New York and publish American books—will have no more of it. It will withhold the names of its authors, and its books will carry no "by-lines" at all.

It will be interesting to see how the authors react to this scheme. In pure theory it should make no difference at all. A writer is supposed to write because of an imperative inner compulsion. He is supposed to be thinking of fame very little and of money hardly at all; he writes because there is something in him that demands expression. So why should he object to an anonymous printing?

Theory, unfortunately, does not always jibe with the facts. There may be a few writers who fall in this category, but they are a tiny minority. The average writer, quite properly, wants fame and adulation. If he turns out a good book he would like to get the credit for it. Furthermore, authors have to eat; and many a first-rate book came into existence in part, at least, because its writer needed to bolster up a fading bank account.

Even more interesting however, will be the reaction of the readers.

Most of us, probably, buy books for the authors. If a new book by Zane Grey, or James Branch Cabell, or S. S. Van Dine is announced (depending on our individual tastes) we hurry to buy it. If a book by an unknown appears we wait and find out what other people are saying about it before we take a chance on it. What would we do if the author's name were withheld? Probably we should read the book reviews more carefully, and take the advice of the critics more regularly than we do now.

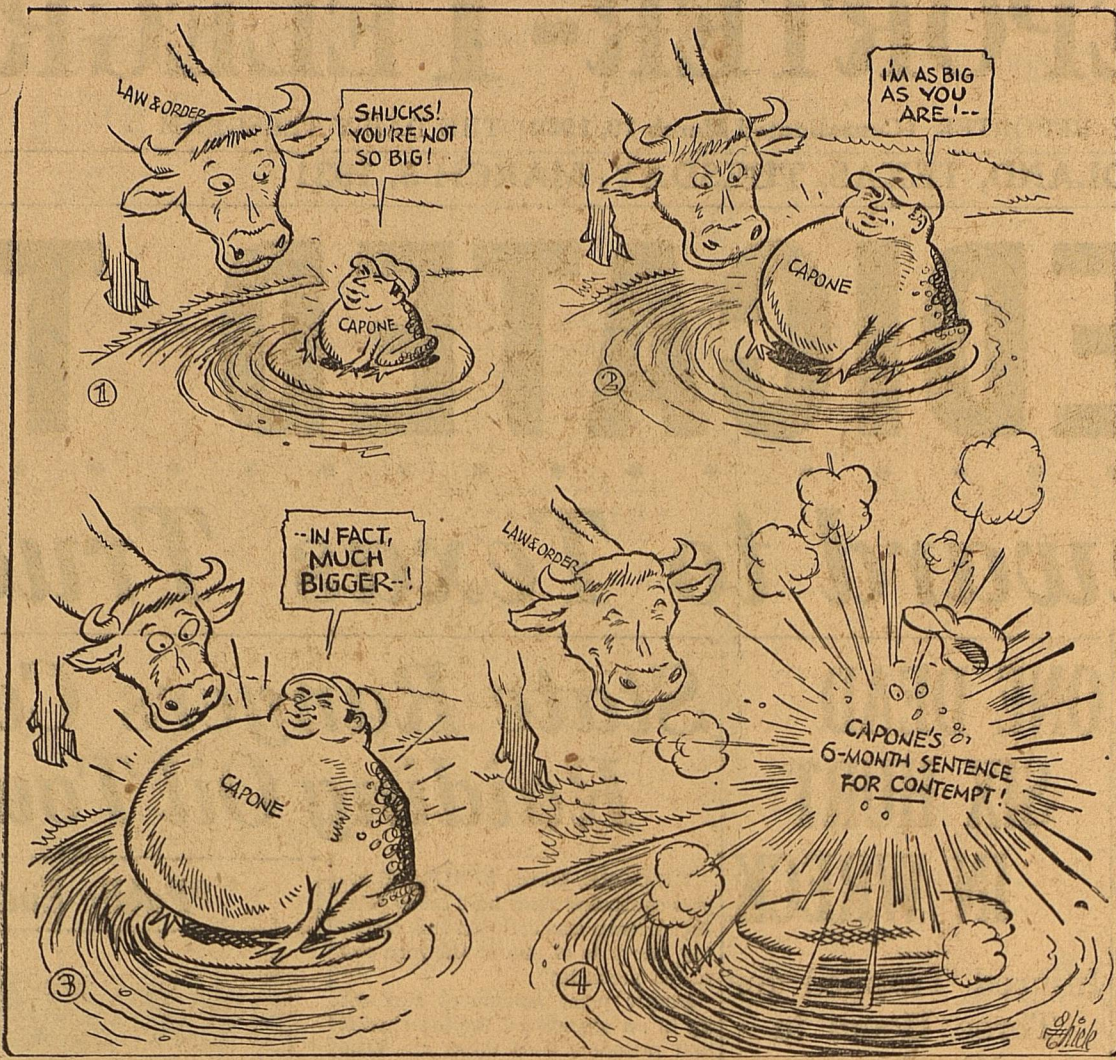

But the critics, too, would suffer. The critic can be a creature of habit, like anyone else. If a book comes Modern Fable of the Bullfrog and the Ox!

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

YES, SENATE IS PROUD OF ITS RULES WHICH ALLOW UNLIMITED DEBATE, AND IT'S AMAZING HOW WINDY LAWMAKERS CAN BE

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The Senate is very proud of its rules, which allow unlimited debate, and turns savagely upon anyone who urges that they be changed. It is one "forum of freedom" where any member can say whatever he likes, at any length, without intimidation or curtailment.

And, of course, it is also a place which has attracted some of the most boresome windbags any country has ever produced. Newspaper readers who are given fragments of the things that are said on the floors of Congress haven't the least idea of the tremendous volume of guff and dull detail which they are fortunate enough to miss.

Frequently, however, they miss something really snappy, such as the sparkling exchange of amenities between Caraway of Arkansas and Fess of Ohio the other day, when Fess held the chair as presiding officer. Everybody was talking about the bill to lend veterans more money on their bonus certificates and how soon it could be voted on. It went like this, to quote verbatim from the Congressional Record:

Mr. Caraway: Mr. President— The Presiding Officer: The senator from Michigan. (Cousens.)

Mr. Caraway: Mr. President, I want to call attention to the fact that I was on my feet before and senator from Michigan arose, and addressed the chair before the senator from Michigan arose.

The Presiding Officer: The chair will state that the senator from Michigan tried to get the floor when the senator from Georgia was recognized.

Mr. Couzens: Before the senator from Georgia did, I beg the senator's pardon; I was on my feet.

Mr. Caraway: Let me ask if it is the rule, then, that if a senator addresses the chair and sits down or goes to lunch he is entitled to take the floor when he comes back.

Mr. Couzens: I do not object to yielding to the senator if he wants to go on at this time.

Mr. Caraway: That is not the point. I am objecting most seriously to this way of the chair sitting there and ignoring some senator who rises and addresses him and picking out some senator on the other side who is not on the floor.

The Presiding Officer: The chair will state to the senator from Arkansas that the senator from Michigan was trying to secure recognition from the chair when the senator from Georgia arose.

Mr. Caraway: Then why did not the chair recognize him then? Why does the chair wait until some other senator rises and then recognize a senator who is not on his feet?

The Presiding Officer: The chair thought he was playing fair with both sides.

Mr. Caraway: Oh, the chair recognizes some senator who is not on his feet when he is being addressed by a senator who is on his feet?

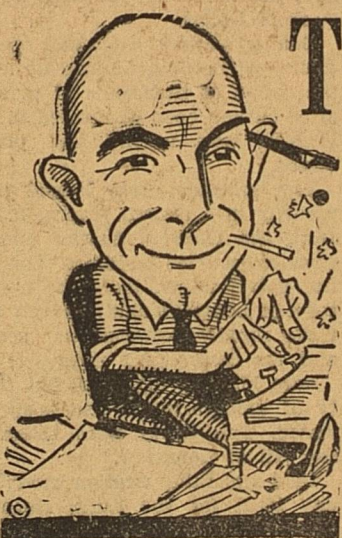

The Presiding Officer: The senator from Michigan.

Mr. Watson (of Indiana): Mr. President, who has the floor?

Mr. Caraway: Just a minute. I have the floor more than the senator from Indiana has.

The Presiding Officer: The senator from Michigan has the floor.

Mr. Caraway: I am asking a parliamentary question. I have the

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

The story about the woman who worked as a man on a Midland stock farm, turning up in Oklahoma and admitting her femininity, has reached a stage where it will be embarrassing to go any farther. People with whom she worked here deny that she is a woman and claim to have proof.

It occurs to me that perhaps the welfare secretary in Oklahoma who released the story should have known more definitely as to whether the admission of femininity was true or whether some old "waddy" was trying to put up a job to get a free meal off the welfare organization.

When people at each end of the line get ready to furnish proof that a woman is a man or that a man is a woman, the case is out of the hands of the newspapers, although I'll have to admit that Hanks, Bobby Campbell of Big Spring and Max Bentley of Abilene are trying to probe pretty deeply into the case.

Anyway, Hanks' investigation of the story led him out of the city limits and his eyes were opened to the enormous feed crop made on the stock farm where the man-woman formerly worked. Someone was big and strapping enough to put in several hundred acres in feed and to get a fine yield, so that calls for some constructive publicity from Hanks if he will just follow it up.

floor for that purpose, even with the senator from Ohio in the chair.

The Presiding Officer: The senator will state his parliamentary question.

Mr. Caraway: I am asking when the rule was changed so that the chair refuses to recognize a senator on the floor and picks out some senator who is not on his feet.

The Presiding Officer: There has been no change of the rules in that respect.

Mr. Caraway: Then the chair arrogates to himself that authority.

The Presiding Officer: The senator from Michigan.

Mr. Caraway: There is nothing new about this, of course, as long as the senator from Ohio is in the chair, but I am objecting to it.

The Presiding Officer: The senator will be in order. The senator from Michigan has the floor.

Mr. Caraway: Just a minute.

The Presiding Officer: Does the senator from Michigan yield to the I'm strong for this feed growing and calf raising, and the movement which is under way for a home beef week looks like a good proposition to me. I would like to see a deal worked out whereby local farmers or livestock men could grow good calves for local butchers, and could butcher them in the proper shape and at the right price to compete with shipped-in beef.

When a ranchman or farmer ships a load of cattle to the stock yards and the packer gets them, we get part of the meat back but it isn't the most choice part every time. We may get a jersey milk can calf from east Texas in the place of some fine young Hereford stock shipped to the stock yards.

I would like to see the local farmers and grocery and produce men work out satisfactory deals for handling eggs the year round, so that there wouldn't be so much of that peak price when you need eggs most and then down to rock bottom when you don't. I would like to see a steady price whereby local farmers could market eggs the year round at a price the grocer could afford to pay for them.

When the farmer gets his money from the local public, he has more money to spend at home, thereby helping every merchant and every citizen as well as the farmer himself.

senator from Arkansas?

Mr. Couzens: I yield to the senator from Arkansas.

Mr. Caraway: No, I am not asking to be yielded to. I am asking a question. What was the remark of the chair? I am asking a parliamentary question, and I am not asking to be yielded to, because of a remark the chair made as he turned around. I want to know what it was.

The Presiding Officer: The senator will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. Caraway: It took me some time to get an opportunity to do it. I wanted to ask what was the announcement of the chair about the rule as he turned around to make his side remark?

The Presiding Officer: The senator asked the chair when the rule had been changed, and the chair

IDEAS that have made JOBS for thousands

GEORGE PULLMAN'S SLEEPING CAR CHANGED TRAVELING HABITS AND BUILT BIG INDUSTRY

Did you ever stop to think how many men would be unemployed today if the average American had no more personal possessions than he had, say, 100 years ago? No radio, no movies, no phonograph, no refrigerator, no camera, no automobile, none of the thousand things we regard as necessities today?

With modern manufacturing methods, all the things that were regarded as necessary in 1830 could be created by a mere handful of workmen. But men have ideas, and these create new needs, and new needs create jobs. One of the many such men was George Pullman, of sleeping car fame, and the story of his idea is told here.

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Writer

Because George Mortimer Pullman had an idea, there are nearly 40,000 jobs in American industry today that did not exist just 100 years ago when Pullman was born at Brockton, N. Y., March 3, 1831.

Pullman was one of the men whose ideas have created new needs and jobs for the world.

The railroad itself was born in this country at just about the same time as Pullman, and by the time he was 25—that is, in the middle 1850's—there were already sleeping cars.

But they were horrible affairs. The earliest version was divided into four compartments, in each of which three bunks, one above the other, were built against the wall. Passengers flung themselves down, fully dressed, on rough mattresses in the bunks, drew their overcoats or shawls over them, and fought for sleep as they lurched through the night, doubtless marveling at the ingenuity of modern invention.

Sleeping cars weren't much better than that when Pullman was a young man. The bunks were still mere shelves along the walls, but bedding was available, candles furnished the light, and a smoky stove gave forth futile heat.

It was about this time that George Pullman made a night trip from Buffalo to Westfield. He rolled and tossed, and smothered and froze, and arrived with a lame back after a sleepless night.

Then Pullman had his big idea, namely, that there was really no reason why night train riding should not be comfortable.

In 1858 he went to Bloomington, Ill., and got the co-operation of the Chicago and Alton. The railroad furnished two old coaches, and at a cost of about $1,000 each, Pullman converted them into the grand-daddy of the modern sleeping car.

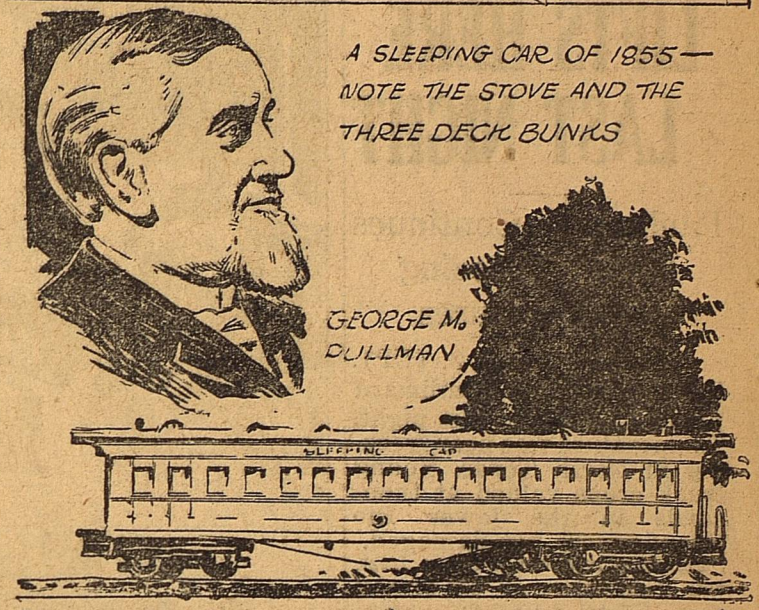

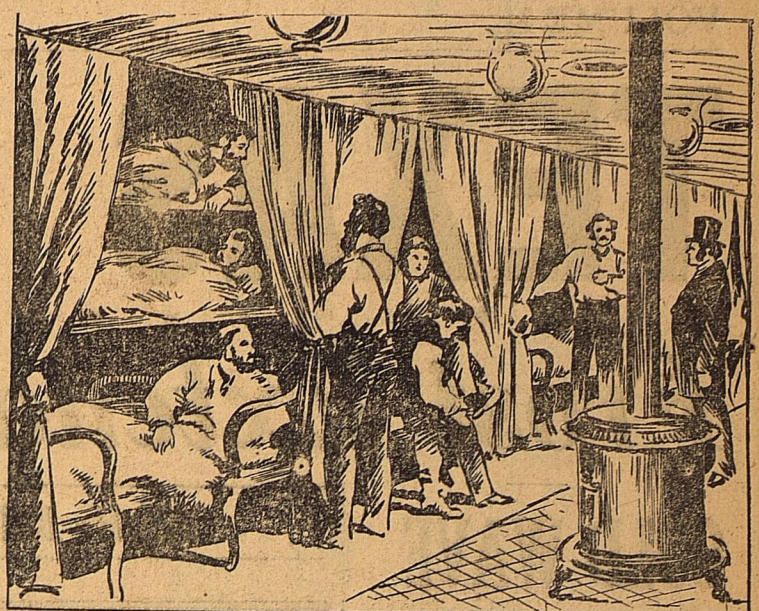

He built into them 10 sections on each side, a linen closet, and two washrooms. The cars were upholstered in plush, lighted with oil lamps, heated with box stoves, and the brakeman made up the beds. The backs of the seats were hinged, and fell downward to the level of the seat to form the "lower berth." The "uppers" were simply suspended from the ceiling by four ropes at the corners, and hauled up at night to the ceiling, which was only a little more than six feet high.

Soon, however, Pullman surpassed all previous dreams of luxury by building "The Pioneer," which cost $20,000. This was the first car with the hinged upper berth which was to become the distinguishing feature of American sleeping cars. "The Public support followed, the business grew, and extended. Plants were established in Detroit, Elmira, N. Y., and Wilmington, Del. At first railroads built and operated their own sleepers, and other competition were fierce. But Pullman gradually absorbed them all. Further consolidations took place, and Pullman's idea became the means of furnishing work to some 40,000 men engaged in creating and maintaining something which had not existed before. Nearly 30,000 of these operate, maintain and repair cars in use, and anywhere up to 10,000 build the cars, depending on current demand.

SUNSHINE MELLOWS Heat Purifies

LUCKIES are always kind to your throat

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why the "TOASTING" process includes the use of the Ultra Violet Rays. LUCKY STRIKE—made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED"—an extra, secret heating process. Harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos are expelled by "TOASTING." These irritants are sold to others. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

The advice of your physician is: Keep out of doors in the open air, breathe deeply; take plenty of exercise in the mellow sunshine, and have a periodic check-up on the health of your body.

SHOTTON VISIONS AID FOR PHILS IN HIS NEW PITCHING TALENT

YOUNG PLAYERS CUT A FIGURE IN PLANS

By BURT SHOTTON

Sports followers the world over may worship at the feet of the man or team with the "punch," but I happen to know that batting alone won't win a major league baseball championship. Take a look at the National league average for 1930 and you will see what I mean.

The Phillie last year were equipped with an ensemble of heavy hitters which should have carried everything before them. But the records show that we didn't get anywhere, simply because we lost far too many games by such scores as 15 to 12 and 13 to 11.

I have brought in for trial this season the best crop of young ball players since I became associated with the club. If they live up to their reputations made in the minor leagues, the Phillies are due to start climbing up the ladder.

It is doubtful if anybody ever heard of a baseball team trading a player who led his league in batting one year with an average of .398 and who finished in the runner-up's position the next year with .383. I mean I don't suppose they ever heard of it until we traded Lefty O'Doul to Brooklyn.

But the Phillies needed pitchers, as the 1930 statistics will show, so we sacrificed O'Doul. However, we still retain a huge proportion of that batting punch, as long as Klein, Hurst, Whitney, Friberg, Davis and McCurdy hit in stride.

We have signed Onslow, a veteran pitcher who did coaching duty with the Cards and the Pirates, to tutor our pitchers. I have confidence in Jack's ability to bring our flingers around into shape.

Phil Collins and Ray Bengue were our most effective moundmen last season but I expect to get some held this year from Lil Stoner, the former Detroit, Dudley, Elliott, Wiltse and Bolen. Although Stoner spent six seasons with the Tigers, he is only 30 and far from through as a major leaguer. He took a new interest in the game last summer at Fort Worth, where he pitched them to a pennant. Three of his performances were epics, resulting in a no-hit no-run game, a 13-inning shut-out and another contest in which he struck out 18 batters.

I don't figure to lose any sleep over infield worries. Don Hurst on first base will give us good batting and fielding. Finkle Whitney at third belongs in the class with Traynor and Lindstrom at the top of the major league third base ranks.

If past records mean anything, we did not sacrifice any of our batting strength when we traded second basemen Thompson to Brooklyn and shortstop Thevenow to Pittsburgh. Friberg hardly measures up to the Thompson standard of hitting, but Bartell makes it up in his advantage over Thevenow. Anyhow, Friberg and Bartell will be our regular keystone combination, with Mallon and Roetz, a pair of newcomers, as understudies.

SHORT NAMES OF ONE SYLLABLE ARE PLENTIFUL IN RANCH AREA OF WEST

BY SAM ASHBURN

Standard-Times Staff
SAN ANGELO.—Long supposed to be a leisurely country, where business is done between men who jog along ranch roads on slow saddle horses, the West shows itself to be a country of vigorous action by the choosing of short names for its residents. Perhaps nowhere else in the state have such short names been found, names that indicate energy of men who do not want to waste time in calling some one's attention.

Why use three or four syllables, when a one syllable word will do. Range talk always gives birth to a great deal of name calling, and two cowpunchers talking to each other will call the name of the other a hundred or so times in the course of an hour's conversation. Often one sentence will have the name of the persons addressed four or five times. Hence the short names hastens contacts, makes for speed in conversation and seems to be considered altogether desirable in a country that's full of leisure and yet full of action.

McCormick Names Short
There is the McCormick family at Eldorado, five boys belonged to it and all had names of three letters, Dan, Rex, Bev and others. It doesn't take long to call those names. In Mertzon there is Sam Lawhon, with only three letters in the name while Pink Rutledge, former county judge, steps the formula up one letter and uses four in his Christian name. Sonora and Rocksprings have their Ira Wheat, while in Sonora there is to be found one Ira Green. San An-

SPORTS REPORTS

Does anyone know Mr. Hal Tucker? Well, he's one of those few persons who writes in and asks a desk man to change a newspaper for him. And why should one not ask such favors? His letter explains why: "Sports Editor—How about a little more sports in your column and not so much about other writers, in the paper that we have to pay 5 cents per copy, Hal Tucker."

Mr. Tucker should be advised, however, that local sports are just now more in abeyance than ever. Basketball season is over and it will be several days before the Industrial Polyground Ball league gets under way. And, it is hoped, other leagues, croquet, checkers, tennis, etc., will start just as soon as cow creep weather is over and the March winds quit threatening to move off the upper soil layers.

As for us, we are making hey-hey while the moon shines. Went out with Doc Ratliff and "song tom" to the land of the McCallums, eight miles to the south, last night, perched on ye running board of Doc's powerful Ford and missed rabbits to the left of us while Shim Swan, Doc Ratliff and Emmitt McCallum echoed our reports and knocked down the rabbits we missed. Got one rabbit, however, by the well thought out expedient of lying down behind a hegrira shock, sticking out gun barrel, sending out beaters and bat boys and letting aforesaid rabbit run into gun. Just as he was about to jump shock, we let go and tumbled him, proving our excellence with thunder strides.

When you think a trip into the ranchland of this section does not result in plenty of amusement and enjoyment for the office worker, you are just tipping off someone you have never hiked over these pastures. A car will take one any place. At night, especially, is the thrill there—sitting on a fender of a car, speeding around this buch and that one, the cold wind beating in your face, eyes stinging from the cold and rushing air, rabbits leaping up in every direction in the car's light and bounding off between springing fountains of dirt thrown up by No. 4 shot! The habit of missing doesn't bother one, even when in company with crack shots. The thrill is being along—not the mere assassination of a bunch of wild hares.

But Mr. Tucker must have his sports in this column. Well, forewith we'll go out and see what can be done. And, how about a bunch of the rest of you writing this department in case anything gives you the jim-jams, or you have something around that gives sports writers the D. T.'s.

Bowling in Midland begins to take on a more serious complexion. A tournament started last evening, and Saturday Barbers and Scruggs-Bueick took the lead in the percentage columns. The barbers beat the City Body and Top works, 2351-2172, and the Scruggs mechanics scored 2326 while Silver Grill piled up only 2272. Tonight's teams have not been announced by Manager J. C. Keathley.

ful but known as Ira. In Schleicher county there is Ira McDonald, sheepman and Ira Wood, oil company agent. Jess Koy has ranches scattered here and there and good horses and livestock on all of them but in the phone book it is just "Jess."

There are few long names in the country though some of the men who have become successful have split their names, using as a Christian name, the second name which is usually that of the family of the mother. But when a drought strikes, they take out their telephone, and slide the name back.
