Judge Hunter has spent the past two months in Washington and Austin, looking to measures that will protect the independent oil man, and will be the principal speaker at the meeting which is called by the oil and gas committee of the Big Spring chamber of commerce.

The invitation was conveyed in a letter to B. H. Blakeney from B. F. Robbins of Big Spring. The two are directors in the independent petroleum association.

Murphy Tells of Korea Experiences

The Rev. Thos. D. Murphy, pastor of the Presbyterian church and a member of the Rotary club, spoke to the Lions club today at the noon-day luncheon in Hotel Scharbauer.

The minister was at one time a missionary to Korea and his subject dealt with that island. The fact that Mr. Murphy had been in the country made his speech interesting to the members of the club.

Entertainment for the occasion was furnished by Mrs. Marion F. Peters, who gave a vocal solo, little Miss Frances Lowe Peters, who gave a reading, and Evelyn Haag, who sang a solo.

KIRKLAND GETS A WARRANTS CHARGE

LIFE TERM IN THE PEN

Less than four hours after getting the case, a Valparaiso, Ind., court jury returned a verdict of guilty and recommended life imprisonment for Virgil Kirkland, charged with the death of Arlene Draves, his sweetheart. Recommendation of life imprisonment was chosen from seven alternatives offered by Judge Grant Crumpacker in his charge to the jury, and came as a compromise between the prosecution's demand for the death penalty and the defense's demand for acquittal.

To Jury Tuesday VALPARAISO, Ind. (UP).—The fate of Virgil Kirkland, Gary athlete, was in the balance Tuesday as attorney argued whether he should be set free, imprisoned, or electrocuted on conviction of killing his sweetheart at a drinking party.

"This young hoodlum is as guilty of murder as I—yes, as if he had stabbed Arlene Draves with a knife and he should pay the supreme penalty," was the way Prosecutor John Underwood summed up the case.

CATTLE RUSTLING RING SOUGHT BY SPECIAL AGENTS

Special agents of the Texas & Southwestern Cattle Raisers Assn. were aiding state officers Tuesday in hunting members of a cattle stealing organization operating along the Pecos river, M. Lee Bell, El Paso representative, said, according to the El Paso Post.

Reports indicate the ring has 30 members who have been stealing an average of 150 cattle monthly from ranches from Ft. Stockton to the Sacramento mountains in New Mexico.

Officers said the modern rustlers kill the cattle on ranges, load them into trucks and sell to unscrupulous butchers. Others drive the cattle into Mexico at night.

Sheep also are stolen by the rustlers, investigators found. Jim Mitchell, Sanderson, recently reported the theft of 75 sheep.

John Trent, Ft. Stockton rancher, lost 400 head of ewes last year. Mexican officials are co-operating with Texas authorities and when large roundups of stolen cattle are made on Mexican soil, American ranchers are called by Mexican officers to identify the stock.

PANTAGES IN 'GIRL RING'

LOS ANGELES, March 11. (UP).—Warrants naming Alexander Pantages, John P. Mills, William Joblemann and Mrs. Olive Clark Day were received at the sheriff's this morning from San Diego. The warrants charged all four with statutory assault, conspiracy to commit it and conspiracy to violate juvenile court laws. Communication accompanying the warrants asked that the four be arrested and held for San Diego.

California Company Adds to Force Here

Removal of C. A. Mix and family of the California company, to Midland from Carlsbad, N. M., brings the number of families, employed by that company residing here to seventeen. Mix is with the sub-surface department of the company.

The seventeen families do not include single men working for the company.

S. R. Preston Sale of 1,700 Head Is Largest

More than 4,000 head of coming yearling steers are included in four deals made here within the past few days, for delivery during the first half of May.

Johnson Bros. of Borger bought from Ellwood and Arnett 1,000 head of steers, coming off the Clabber Hill ranch northwest of Midland.

Ceese and Kincaid, Kansas cattle men, bought from Foy Proctor 1,000 head of steers and from Roy Parks 400 head. Prices paid for the Midland steers were not announced.

Gasoline Price Is Reduced One Cent

Reduction of one cent per gallon in the retail price of gasoline was reported today by four companies distributing oils and gasoline in Midland. This brought the retail price on average grade of gasoline to 16 cents, less reductions allowed through contracts.

Four companies, the Humble, Continental, Gulf and Texas, had received the cut and others were expecting to be served with the notice not later than tomorrow. The reduction follows announcements Monday and Tuesday that reductions on posted prices for crude oil had been reduced from 12 to 40 cents per barrel.

Others Make Cut The Texas Company and the Coston Oil company receivers announced late yesterday that they were meeting the reduction on crude prices of the Humble and the Magnolia companies.

The army transport plane of Capt. Ira C. Eaker, whose home is near San Angelo, was forced down and badly damaged near Tolu, Ky., early Tuesday afternoon. FORCED LANDING DAMAGES EAKER TRANSPORT

TOLU, Ky. (UP).—Capt. Ira Eaker, army flyer, attempting a transcontinental speed flight was forced down in a field six miles north of here early Tuesday afternoon.

Capt. Eaker reported by telephone here that his plane was badly damaged. He was uninjured, he said.

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP).—Capt. Ira Eaker, army flyer, took off from the national guard airport here at 2:13 a. m. Tuesday on a non-stop flight to New York.

He hoped to break the transcontinental record of 12 hours, 25 minutes now held by Capt. Frank M. Hawks.

Capt. Eaker's ship, a specially built Lockheed-Vega monoplane, has been undergoing special tests in secrecy at San Diego during the past few weeks. Its top speed was nearly 200 miles per hour, with a cruising range of 180 miles per hour.

The ship had gas tanks for 525 gallons of fuel, and this heavy load made futile his first attempts to leave the ground. After each failure he halted to balance his load with greater accuracy.

Eaker is demonstrating for the army the feasibility of moving troops rapidly by air in this new type of transport ship. Although practically every inch of space was filled with gas tanks, their removal would permit the ship to carry several men half way across the country without a stop, it was pointed out.

AUSTIN, March 11. (UP).—Tom Love this afternoon attacked Raskob in an address to the Woman's Christian Temperance union.

CONGRESSMEN IN SYMPATHY WITH GOODMAN PROTEST

Replies from Senator Sheppard and Congressman Ewing Thomason had been received late yesterday by Leon Goodman, mayor of Midland and president of the West Texas Municipal League, following his protest yesterday on reductions in prices paid for crude oil in West Texas counties.

The two Texas congressmen regretted that nothing could be done officially by governmental bodies at present, due to the fact that congress has adjourned, but expressed sentiment in favor of Goodman's protest.

Letters were sent out by the Midland mayor yesterday to city officials in leading West Texas towns, urging similar protest to representatives in congress and in the state legislature.

Surgeons Find Hair in Girl's Hand Is Not Hers, Nor Is It Suspect's; Body Is Found Near San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 11. (UP).—Harry L. Wahlstrom, 28, was held in jail today for questioning in connection with the murder of Virginia Brooks, according to the police.

Officers refused to say what connection the suspect had with the case. A single blond hair clasped in the hands of Virginia Brooks gave police a tangible clue to continue search for the murderer.

Mutilated

In an autopsy, surgeons found hair that was not hers. Neither does it resemble that of Harry Wahlstrom, suspect held.

Body Found Tuesday SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UP).—A body believed to be that of Virginia Brooks, 10, missing San Diego girl, was found horribly mutilated Tuesday at Camp Kearney Mesa, five miles from San Diego.

Arms and legs of the girl apparently had been broken, it was said, and her torso had been crushed. It was believed that a deliberate attempt had been made to obliterate the features.

Her head had been cut off. The mutilated body was wrapped in burlap.

It was found by a rancher who reported to the authorities here. Dep. Sheriff Blake Nason declared the coat found with the body was the same one which the girl had worn when she disappeared on Feb. 11.

The surrounding country was thoroughly searched by deputy sheriffs Tuesday afternoon, hunting further traces and possible further identification.

The body was said to be so badly mutilated that recognition would have to be made by clothing or other external details.

The child's school books also were found.

Fiendish Murder Deputy sheriffs said that there was no doubt but that the girl was the victim of a fiendish murder.

Word of the finding ended one of the most extensive searches in the history of southern California. It compared with that which followed the kidnaping and slaying of Marion Parker, daughter of a Los Angeles banker, by Wm. Edw. Hickman.

One false clew had placed the girl in El Paso.

DANGER! MEN AT WORK

(Merle Thorpe in The Nation's Business)

We are entering, let us hope, the final stage of our folly. The air is charged with rumors. The whispering campaign is on. No business is immune.

Have you heard about such and such a bank? Do you know old So-and-So is going to the wall? I hear the Doe Company is headed for receivership. The Roe Company has passed its dividend.

Only by wearing ear muffs can one walk a block without having his confidence shaken.

Of comfort let no man speak:
Let's talk of graves, of worms, and epitaphs.

Depression is on every tongue. It is the most widely advertised product of our times. Headlines, headlines everywhere, and no one stops to think.

And our vaunted salesmanship! Give a salesman time enough and he'll paint so drab a picture of the future that a likely prospect will replace his fountain pen—and lock the safe.

Of unemployment, I suspect there are more idle tongues than idle hands.

The folly of too many of us is to accept the echo of the locker room and club car as the Voice of America.

For example, consider 1930, lately interred. Now lies he there and none so poor to do him reverence. Yet that much-maligned year loaded and unloaded 45,800,000 freight cars, and with three million trucks on the job, too. It made and sold a new automobile for each ten families at a cost of $2,150,000,000, and saw registrations highest of any year, with a gasoline consumption of 399 million barrels, and all-time record. It saw electrical production hit its highest mark.

Nineteen hundred and thirty manufactured four and a half billion yards of textiles, and 315 million pairs of shoes, the usual two and a half pairs to the person.

It provided work for forty-odd million men and women, and earnings through dividends to the amount of $4,500,000,000.

Nineteen hundred and thirty saw it that expenses of living did not exceed income, as evidenced by hundreds of millions of dollars increase in savings banks and eight-een and a half billions of new life insurance.

Nineteen hundred and thirty added one million in population to our consuming public—a city the size of Cleveland.

One would think, from the failing, that we had all been wiped out by a terrible catastrophe of Nature—a Noah's flood, a shifting of the Gulf Stream, or by dreadful holocaust.

Yet we are all here. The stores are still open. The trains are running. You can get that number on the telephone. The traffic problem is still lively. Movie houses are no nearer seating all their customers. Children are what they always were. Young folks are getting married. Preachers thunder against the laxity of the age. Amos 'n' Andy are still in the taxicab business. Doctors and dentists make appointments weeks ahead. Lawyers' briefs are just as long. Hardy commuters make the 8:15 in less than nothing flat. And under Nature's white coverlet, bud and blossom await the sure coming of spring.

If these commonplace signs of "life as usual" be token national instability, then there is a public menace in the familiar warning:

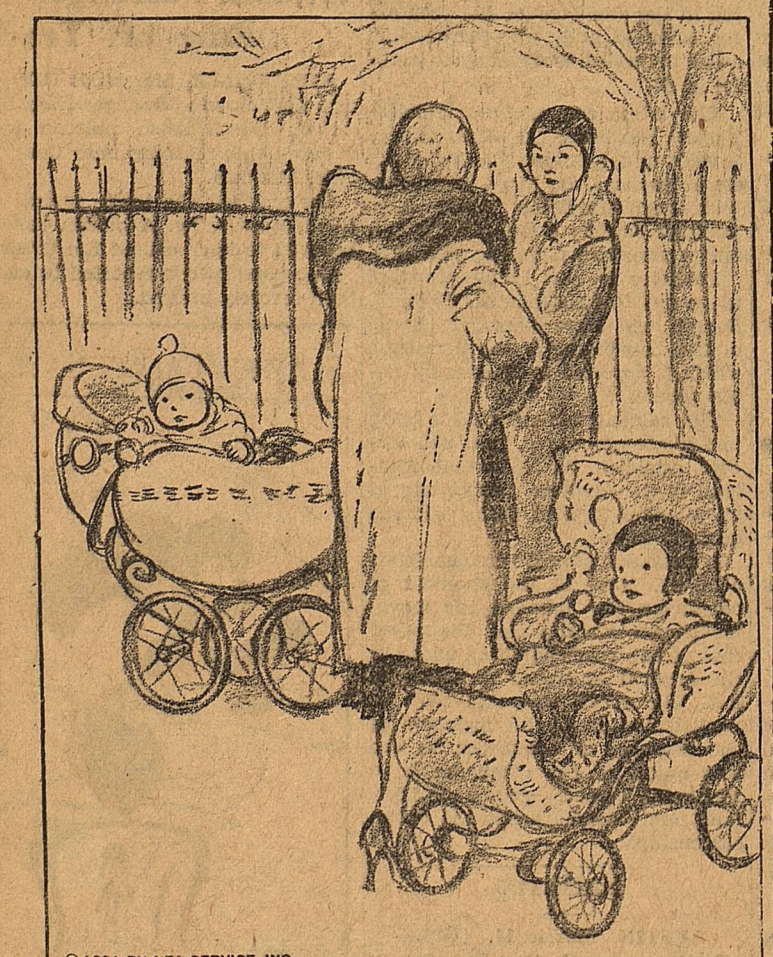

DANGER! MEN AT WORK

MANNERS AMONG THIEVES

There are manners even among thieves, it appears. Mrs. Anna Nicholas, of Washington, D. C., was handed back the money and jewels which a man had taken from her, when the man recognized her as someone he knew. Evidently it wasn't in his code to rob people whose lives came in contact with his. So long as he didn't know the party from whom he was taking property he had an impersonal attitude about it.

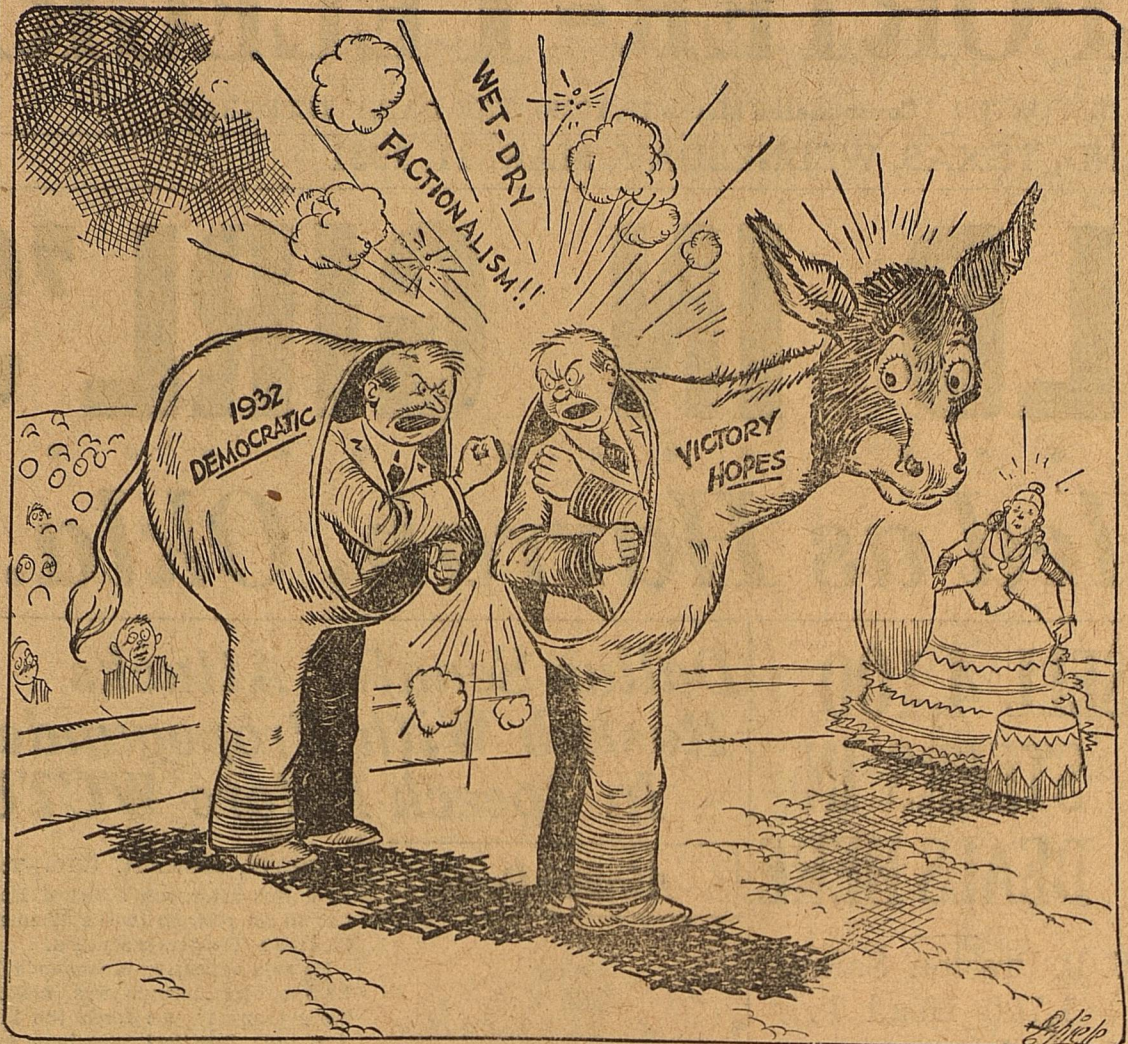

This spirit is found in larger forms of banditry. Swindlers have been known to risk the money entrusted to them by thousands of unknown victims. The money was something impersonal. If they had known the sacrifices

Battling Norris and Hard-Hitting "Power Trust" Appear to Have Fought Another Draw Despite Fact That Referee Hoover Called Off the Bout by a Veto

WASHINGTON.—The fairest way one can describe the Muscle Shoals situation is to say that Senator Norris of Nebraska and the "Power Trust" have fought another draw. Although, you might also say that President Hoover is the referee and that he stepped in and called off the fight just as Norris had it won, through the veto of the Norris of Nebraska and the Power by both houses of Congress. The consolation for Norris and the congressional majorities is that the big $150,000,000 development on the Tennessee river has been kept out of the hands of the public utilities corporations through 10 long years of the fighting, whereas the "Power Trust" can celebrate because while the government still owns Muscle Shoals it is still unable to produce the distribute electricity.

Probable Campaign Issue
In 10 years the country has heard a lot about Muscle Shoals. Whether any large proportion of the voters even yet understand the issue may be a matter of argument, but it has had enough publicity to be given very serious attention as a probable campaign issue for 1932. Unless the Norris measure is passed over the presidential veto in the first session of Congress beginning next December it is fairly certain to become at least one of the campaign issues. President Coolidge gave the Muscle Shoals bill a pocket veto when Congress gave it to him two years ago. President Hoover, however, made the issue much more definite in his veto message just before the close of Congress, and put the administration on record as to its position. In the 1928 campaign he said Muscle Shoals was an exception to his commonly known attitude against government ownership and operation. But it is reasonably certain that his 1931 stand rather than his 1928 stand will be his position in 1932. How much of a fight he will get on that issue seems to depend on whom the Democrats nominate. Governor Roosevelt of New York, whose attitude toward the power issue in New York has been endorsed by Norris, might favor such a bill as Hoover vetoed. Owen D. Young, associated with the power interests, might not. Chairman John J. Raskob, who appears to be courting the support of big business for the party, probably wouldn't declare for government operation. But there seems to be a real chance the friends of the Norris plan will be able to pass a Muscle Shoals measure over the presidential veto after Congress convenes again. The Senate voted 40 to 34—less than the two-thirds vote required—to override the veto and the Government in Hands of 'Interests', Says Norris

By Senator George W. Norris,
Chairman of the Progressive Conference.
(Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, March 11. — At one of the most critical periods in American history, a bi-partisan group of progressives has called a national conference here for March 11 and 12 to discuss and formulate a program for meeting five of the most vital problems affecting the welfare and happiness of our people. This conference, designed to bring the most able experts in the country to meet with members of Congress and public officials inspired by non-partisan considerations as well as to stimulate public interest, was called to consider:

- 1. Unemployment and industrial stabilization.
- 2. Public utilities.
- 3. Agriculture.
- 4. Tariff.
- 5. Return to representative government.

We hope to find a definite legislative solution, constructive in every respect, to the problems presented in those wide fields. Some of us thought we had various remedial measures in the Congress which has just expired. Nearly all that might be considered important were killed off by the Republican administration and its completely controlled House of Representatives. In the next Congress the House will not be controlled and it is our hope to attract sufficient support from members in both parties and enough support from the country at large to be able to meet the responsibilities of a situation which finds this nation stricken by unemployment, economic depression, drought and agricultural distress.

The Five Big Points
Let me discuss briefly the five points on our agenda:

Along with an utter lack of program for handling our unprecedented unemployment and for putting business on a basis where it might guard better against its periodic slumps with all the human misery that they entail, we have had from the administration one misleading statement after another as to the true condition—statements from the president himself which were contradicted by the very experts whom he had called into consultation regarding unemployment.

The president, in his messages to Congress, presented an estimate of 3,500,000 unemployed. That contrasted with the assertion of Col. Arthur Woods, head of his unemployment committee, that there were between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 men and women unemployed. Woods' statement was also shown to be an underestimate in a review of conditions in 303 cities, made by Senator LaFollette and Senator Walsh of Massachusetts and detailed on the Senate floor.

Higher Number Shown
That survey and the survey made for the government by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. indicated that the number of unemployed has been running between six and seven millions. The administration, of course, could hardly be expected to mention millions working on part time through curtailed schedules. The administration has done nothing of consequence to alleviate that terrible condition and has suggested nothing that might meet the future crying needs of both the workers and business itself. It is our purpose to propose and fight for such measures.

We have known for a long time that the administration had thrown in its lot with the public utilities, giving its blessing to high rates for electricity, extortionate profits and monopolistic control.

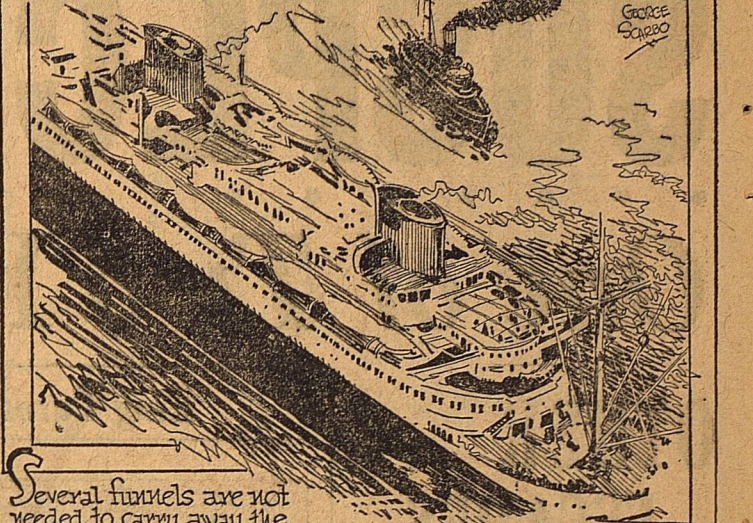

Power Trust Blocks Shoals
The president's veto of the compromise Muscle Shoals bill has placed the administration irrevocably on the side of private greed. For 10 years now, the Power Trust, although balked in its attempt to seize that great government property at Muscle Shoals, has blocked our bill which would retain it for the people and give them the benefit of it through cheap electricity rates and cheap fertilizer for the farmers. God gave natural resources to the people; He did not mean them for Power Trust.

Although the Power Trust has won a great victory through its influence with the administration, that victory represents only the latest phase of a long, hard fight. The Muscle Shoals bill will be promptly introduced again at the next Congress and it will again be passed by Congress. It is the sense of this progressive conference that we should be able to pass it over the veto of the president by a two-thirds vote in both houses of Congress.

Farm Relief Problem
Nowhere has the blighting effect of the administration's indifference and failure to act been more obvious than on our millions of farms. Turning down the demand of the great west for the McNary-Haugen and export debenture measures, the administration was willing to agree to the creation of a Federal Farm Board. That board has been given half a billion dollars and it is up to its neck in the wheat business and the cotton business. Prices of agricultural products have declined to the lowest points in recent history and the hope that the administration's scheme might be of some conceivable aid to agriculture has proven an empty dream.

Representative Government
By "return to representative government" we mean going back to government truly representative of the people. All too often the people elect a man and the big interests get hold of him. That has always been true and it is true now, but it is another situation which can be met, largely by action of an informed electorate. We in Congress, meanwhile, can devote ourselves to attacking legislative control by special interests and executive encroachments on behalf of those same interests. The progressive insistence that the Lame Duck amendment set no limit on duration of the second session of Congress can best be understood by a glance at the past session. With the aid of members whom the people retired from office at the last election and an administration-controlled House, it was possible to block measures for our social and economic welfare in the jan that is always found at the end of a short session. The Lame Duck amendment again will be introduced and without doubt pushed to a successful result. It is a measure endorsed by all progressives.

Here Are 12 Practical Points About Care of Small Babies

- 1. Traveling with babies should be avoided as much as possible. Most infectious diseases come from contact with people who are not careful about preventing the dissemination of their own infected excretions.
- 2. Small babies may be taken in motor cars for short trips, provided much care is taken in regulating the temperature and preventing excessive drafts. Small babies should never be taken in motor cars on long trips.
- 3. Promiscuous kissing of small babies is one of the surest ways of causing them to develop coughs, colds, bronchitis, influenza, and other serious diseases that are transmitted in this way.
- 4. If the relatives and friends insist on kissing the baby's hands, the hands should be washed immediately thereafter. The baby is likely to put his hands promptly in his mouth.
- 5. Normal babies frequently cry a few minutes when first put to bed. If it cries for more than a half hour or with an unusually vociferous or distressed cry, it may be picked up, held over the mother's left shoulder and patted on the back to bring up the gas. Then it should be examined to see if it is wet or too warm and if the feet are cold. If everything is normal, the baby may

Reporter-Telegram Invites Women Of This Territory to Four-Day School Of Cooking Opening Tuesday, April 7

Mrs. Doris Darnell is the popular culinary expert and home economist who will conduct the Reporter-Telegram School of Cookery, to be held at a downtown hall the week of April 7th. This announcement will no doubt be of interest to hundreds of women who wish to learn the latest in the preparation of foods nutrition. Admission is free and you are invited.

The appearance of Mrs. Darnell will be of extraordinary delight and interest to the housewives and young women of Midland and surrounding territory. She is an authority on the absorption and digestion of foods by the body. She is equally expert in cooking and in the question of home economics. She has been trained in some of the best institutions in the United States and is thoroughly conversant in the management of the kitchen, the preparation of foods and the balancing of meals.

Mrs. Darnell's classes are practical demonstrations and discussions of the preparation of foods and their relation to the proper nourishment of the body. She works from the stage in the midst of a kitchen prepared for her by the Midland merchants and in this model kitchen she prepares dozens of delightful dishes for whose creation she is famous.

In the preparation of food as taught by Mrs. Darnell ease of preparation, economy and the proper balancing of meals are demonstrated.

Mrs. Darnell tells the women how they may do their work with greater ease and efficiency and with less worry and dread and in this way, keep their youth. She also gives many pointers on the ways and means of keeping young. She tells how to avoid the wrinkles and surplus flesh which comes with age. She also tells how a woman may scientifically lose the flesh which has accumulated on her. Many women lose their health by the wrong method of reducing, but by the proper method, there is no danger. Mrs. Darnell is going to tell you how you may eat all you want but eat foods which are not converted into human flesh and foods which act as a filler to the stomach and which supplies the necessities of the body. In this way, health may be kept and the youthful figure attained.

Choice Cooks' Corner

"What does Easter mean to you? Lea o' lamb or bonnet new?"

Quite likely it means both! Roast lamb just naturally belongs in the Easter dinner menu, according to Miss Inez S. Wilson, home economist, and she suggests the following recipes as being specially good.

Leg of Lamb, French Style
Small leg of lamb, boned
1 teaspoon minced parsley
1 finely chopped shallot
1 clove bruised garlic
2 tablespoons butter
1 onion, sliced
1 carrot, sliced
Salt and pepper

Mix the parsley, shallot, garlic, seasoned with salt and pepper. Sprinkle this mixture on the inner surface of the meat. Tie the meat into compact shape and place it in a roaster, containing the butter, onion and carrot. Season well with salt and pepper. Bake for one-half hour in a hot oven and then at a lower temperature until the meat is done. Serve with gravy made from the drippings in the pan.

Crown Roast
The Crown Roast of Lamb makes a beautiful dish for the Easter Sunday dinner. Have the crown prepared at the market. Protect the ends of the ribs from charring by putting cubes of fat salt pork on the end of each rib. Fill the crown with bread dressing. Put in a hot oven (500-525 degrees F.) for 20-30 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 degrees F. and continue roasting until done. Decorate the ribs with paper frills or carrot or potato balls. Pile new peas on top of the dressing in the center of the crown.

Roast Lamb, Virginia Style
For a smaller roast get a shoulder of lamb. Rub with butter, dredge well with flour and season with salt and pepper. Put in a hot oven until the flour is brown, then reduce the heat and baste every 10 to 15 minutes with grape juice or cider. When done remove the lamb to a hot platter, add one-half glass of currant jelly to the liquid in the pan and thicken it with flour. Surround the roast with bacon curls.

'ROOKIE' JOE M'CARTHY TO GIVE YANK HOPEFULS EVERY CHANCE

PITCHING, FIELD TROUBLES IN HIS PATH

By JOE M'CARTHY, Manager, New York Yankees. (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

It is hard to sit down and declare right off the bat, just exactly what I expect to accomplish with the Yankees this season.

But I do think the Yankees are going to be in the right at all times, and this year's race in the American League I expect to be the closest seen in several years. Five teams are pretty sure to be of a high order—Philadelphia, Washington, New York, Detroit and Cleveland. Then, too, Chicago should be much better than last season.

I have no illusions about the task ahead of me with the Yankees. The pitching staff showed signs of crumbling during the latter days of Miller Huggins. Last year the Yankees made enough hits to win a pennant in any league, and score more runs than any other team in the majors, but they didn't get close to the flag. The fault was partly with the pitchers.

The defense needs attention. The best pitchers in the world can be made to look foolish when the infielders and outfielders are not clicking as a machine. In team pitching last season the Yankees were seventh, which bespeaks the need of another first class pitcher or two. But the defense, by errors of omission as well as commission, must come in for careful examination before the pitchers are all condemned. The Yankees were no better than sixth in club fielding during 1930.

A team almost has to have a fast combination working around second base. If you look over the great teams of the past, you will find, almost invariably, that the old double-play boys were on the job.

I am glad we will have little Joe Sewell, formerly of Cleveland. Having Joe around, there is a little more leeway in working on the infield lineup. Joey may win a place as a regular if any of the young fellows miss fire and with Sewell, Gehrig, Lazzeri, Lary, Chapman and Reese, all of them with big league experience, and Bill Werber from Albany, to work with, an efficient infield combination should be forthcoming.

We have a number of young men that I am anxious to see when we get going this spring. There is Myril Hoag, the outfielder from Sacramento; Fred Walker, the outfielder from Jersey City, who is a son of Dixie Walker, by the way; Catchers Karlon and Padden, and Pitchers Jim Weaver, from Baltimore; Frank Barnes from Toronto; Ver. Lefty Weibert, from Louisville; non Gomez from St. Paul; Gordon Rhodes from Hollywood, and others.

A lot of problems will have to be settled at St. Petersburg, where every rookie will have all the chance in the world to make good. This ought to be a pretty good year for rookies, as I am an American League rookie myself, and stand willing to be convinced.

Give me a month or two with the Yankees and I think I will know

SPORTS REPORTS

"Dangerous leadership," "little sportsmanship, educational conception or moral standards" of sports-writers are struck at by Sweetwater's school superintendent, B. H. McLain, writing in "The Interscholastic Leaguer":

"It happens that the school men in our section, and I am sure elsewhere in the state, frequently try to see that rules of athletics are honestly enforced for the purpose they were included in the plan to accomplish. It also happens that their application of these rules to individual cases causes reactions more or less adverse to the wishes, sometimes of the public, and frequently of the sports-writers.

"It is my impression that there is very little sportsmanship, educational conception, or moral standards taken into account by the sports-writers, which attitude is, of course, not scientific.

"The point is this: I believe there is a good master's thesis in the matter of sports-writers' attitude on school activities, the publication of which would help materially to bolster the attitude of the school men and call attention of the public in an educational way to dangerous leadership of the sports columns."

This statement, which will be the bone of contention throughout the Oil belt during the next few days, must be treated seriously, despite the fact it is hard to conceive of a small town sports-writer exercising any influence or commanding a following. It's a safe bet, however, that The Hon. Bobby Campbell of Big Spring, Blondy Cross of San Angelo, Boyce House of Ranger, Prexy Anderson of Abilene and a few of those others will bore into the heart of the matter and reveal just what the Sweetwater superintendent ate for breakfast to give him those dyspeptic cramps.

It is quite likely the Sweetwater superintendent is right in many respects. Sports-writers give many bad impressions when no serious harm underlies their writings. The sports-writer plays psychology of the mob mind. It is his business to do more than fill a sports sheet with nonsensical twaddle; he must convince the public it should see games, support teams, vote a bond issue for new gymnasiums and athletic fields. But the sports-writer must be fair and impartial. He must say things that are sometimes misinterpreted.

what it's all about, however, I was a stranger to the National League when I took charge of the Cubs. Baseball is pretty much the same in all leagues. Two former big league managers—Art Fletcher and Jimmy Burke, the coaches—offer about the best assistance a man could ask.

He is called a Judas in his own town. He writes for the masses, not especially for any given person. The Sweetwater superintendent is liberal in saying he doesn't claim his conclusions are scientific; but it must be said the sports-writers know more about sports-writing than the public schools. No superintendent, if he discharges his own duties, has time to dictate a sports page, nor to even dope out athletics. Coaches are hired by superintendents to take care of physical education in their institutions. A superintendent should run a school; not athletics or the sports pages.

Without the sports pages Texas high schools could do little. The average school official will not admit this. But a year or two without the public at games would change tunes mightily. This has been a known fact for years and years. If the sports pages are all the Sweetwater official alleges, they are still indispensable to the high schools of the country and should be considered as such.

The Sweetwater official might have misunderstood references made by the columnists. Or he might be more correct than even he knows. But the fact remains: school superintendents and the sports-writer cannot together concoct sports news—writers and coaches must do this. Each is paid to deal with sports and it is a waste of time to try any other combination.

Head Coach Barry, Midland mentor, was by for a personal visit Tuesday afternoon. "Strong in the backfield, weak in the line," seemed to be the idea of the diagnosis he made. He discusses various changes and shifts he will employ, and spoke of the transfer rule, of which more anon.

TEARS UP R. R. TICKETS

MANCHESTER, N. H. (UP)—Ticket Agent Guy Damug was amazed when an elderly woman bought two tickets from him and promptly tore them up. The woman explained that many years ago she rode on a train from Raymond to this city. She neglected to buy tickets for two 12-year-old boys who accompanied her. Since, she said, her conscience had troubled her.

Smoke a FRESH Cigarette!

Cigarettes in prime condition have a moisture content of about 10%. It will be seen by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory Chart that cigarettes in the ordinary wrapped package lose more than half of their total moisture in thirty days and that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition

The whole country is talking about the throat-easy mildness and the prime freshness of Camel Cigarettes in the new Humidor Pack.

The above chart prepared by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory tells you why.

Please examine it carefully. It is an unfailing guide to cigarette selection and enjoyment.

As you can quickly see by the three upper curves on this interesting chart, cigarettes that lack the protection of the Humidor Pack lose their moisture rapidly from the day they are manufactured.

And day by day as this moisture disappears, the smoke from these cigarettes becomes harsher, hotter, more unkind to the smoker's throat.

Not so with Camels!

The Humidor Pack is moisture proof and sealed air-tight at every point. It protects the rich, flavorful aroma of the choice Turkish and Domestic tobaccos of which Camels are blended.

Make these tests yourself

It is so easy to tell the difference between parched dry cigarettes and fresh prime Camels that it is no wonder everybody is reaching for a fresh cigarette today.

Your fingers identify stale, dried-out tobaccos at once. While a Camel is flexible and pliant.

Your ears can tell the difference too. For a dust-dry cigarette crackles under pressure.

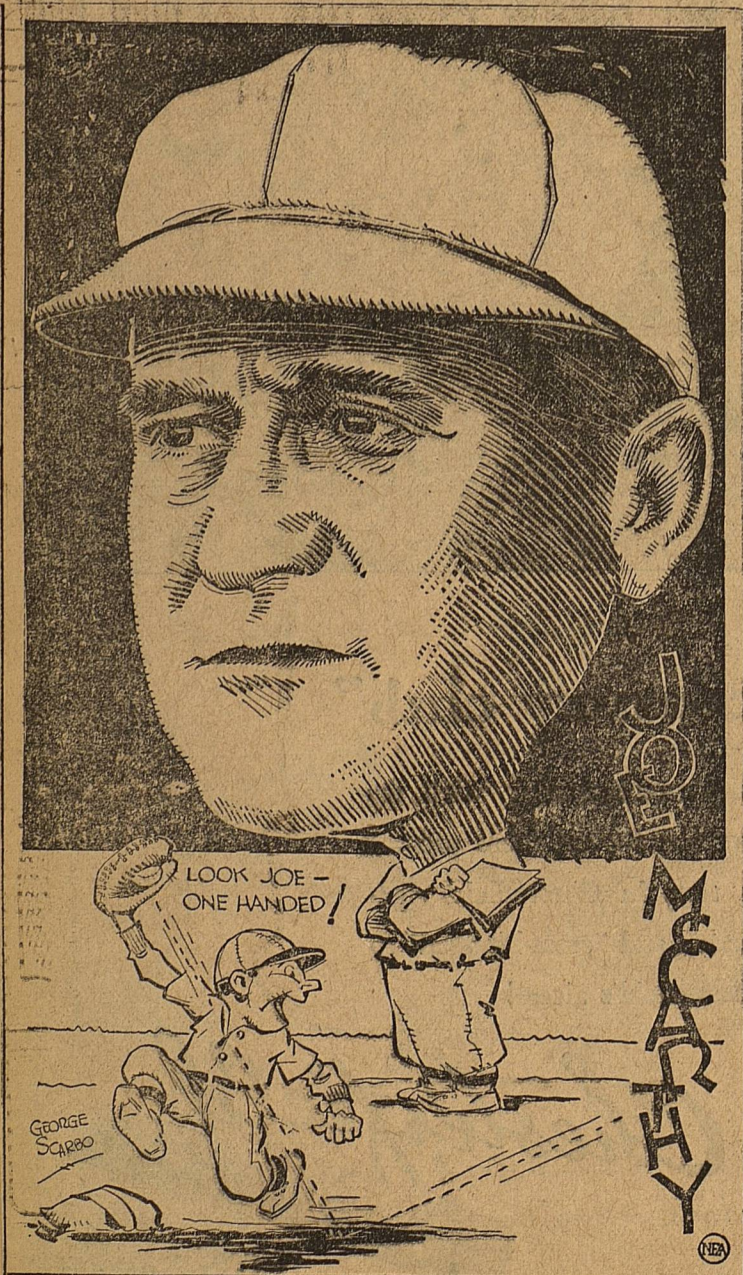

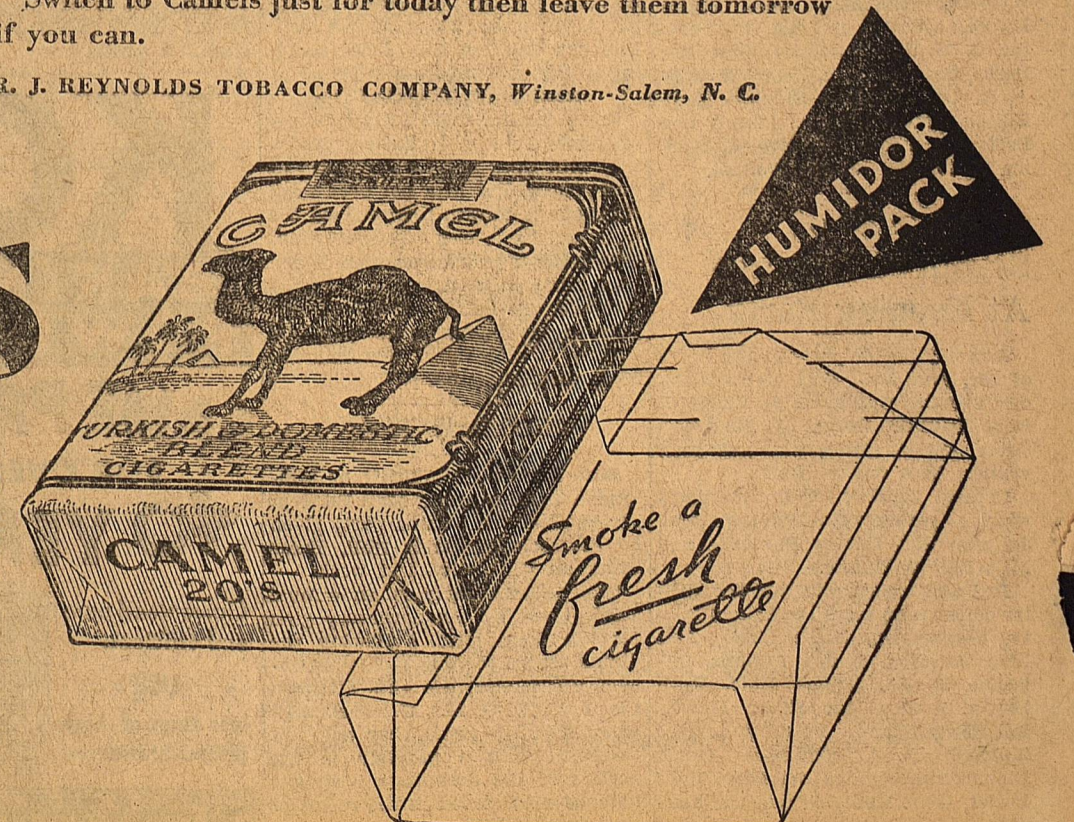

But the real test is taste and there is simply no comparison between the rich mildness of a Camel and the hot, brackish smoke from a stale, dry cigarette.

Switch to Camels just for today then leave them tomorrow if you can.

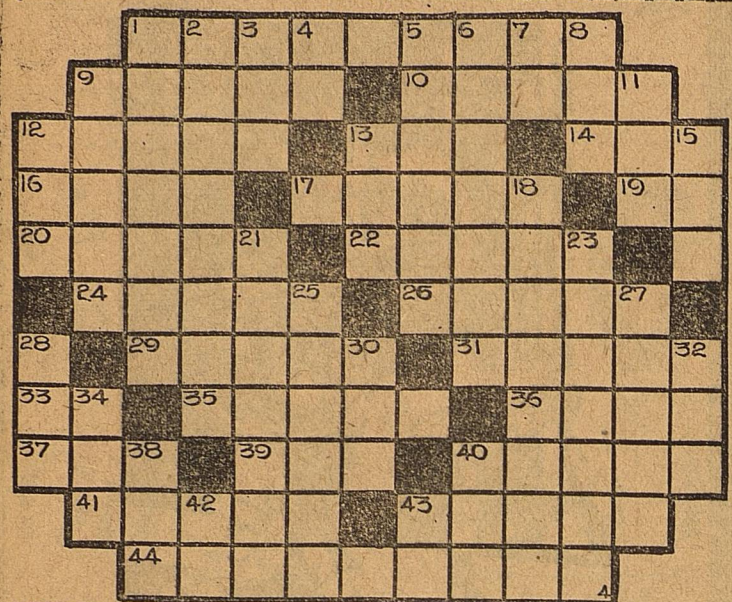

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY, Winston-Salem, N. C.

CAMELS

Artificial heat in houses and apartments soon dries the moisture out of cigarettes wrapped the old-fashioned way. It is the mark of a considerate hostess, by means of the Humidor Pack, to "Serve a fresh cigarette." Buy Camels by the carton—this cigarette will remain fresh in your home and office.

MARCH 1 LIVE-STOCK REPORT IS FAVORABLE

AUSTIN, March 11, (UP).—Cattle and sheep will be fat earlier this year and range conditions from the present prospects are excellent for early and abundant grazing, says the March 1 livestock report for Texas which was released today by the United States department of agriculture.

Conditions of the ranges on March 1 were rated 86 per cent, an improvement of 8 per cent over last month.

Cattle were rated 84 per cent over five per cent better than a month ago.

Kirkland--

Says Attack Plotted
 "It is apparent the girl died of an accidental fall and it would be an injustice to find this defendant guilty," was Defense Atty. John Crumpacker's answer.

Underwood, in his opening argument, pictured Kirkland as plotting for days to attack Miss Draves at a drinking party at David Thompson's home in Gary last Nov. 29.

In demanding the death penalty, he charged that when the 18-year-old girl resisted and pleaded to be taken home, Kirkland knocked her unconscious with his fist, attacked her, then invited four companions to do likewise.

Speaks of "Love"
 For the defense, Atty. Crumpacker opened with a plea that Kirkland had loved the girl, that they had become drunk together and that her death was accidental. He expressed a belief that Kirkland had been framed as a sacrifice to reformers.

Kirkland, who had appeared confident before, frowned and was downcast as Underwood drew the sordid picture of a "young hoodlum" answering his sweetheart's plea to be taken home by slugging her."

Underwood stressed the evidence that Miss Draves was a healthy girl when she left home to attend the party, that she was with Kirkland all evening and until 3 a. m. the following morning, when Kirkland fled after taking her bruised body to a doctor who informed him she was dead.

King Directs Work For Quake Relief

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia. (UP).—The work of relief for thousands of homeless, injured and hungry refugees in the earthquake stricken districts of southern Yugoslavia was hurried Tuesday under supervision of King Alexander.

The king drove by automobile through the devastated area, which has suffered repeated earth shocks, rain and intense cold since last Thursday evening.

Town in Ruins
 When his automobile reached the town of Piravo there was not a building left standing. Nineteen persons had been killed in the destruction of the 160 houses of the town. The king distributed food and tents to the still frightened inhabitants, who had suffered intensely since their homes were destroyed.

At Kara and Jorgjevo, the king reassured villagers who had been frightened by the eruption of water and sand from the earth when the shocks closed hot water springs.

1,000 Flee to Belgrade
 Late Monday the monarch returned to Belgrade to continue direction of relief work from the capital. Minister of Welfare Preka was sent to the stricken area to continue organization of relief.

More than 1,000 refugees have arrived in Belgrade, but many of the inhabitants who fled their shaking homes have returned, the meager advices from the south said.

There was no change in the death toll, which was still estimated at more than 150, with hundreds of others injured. The newspaper Pravda estimated that 800 to 1,000 were dead, but this report was generally discredited.

Bakers Are Taught Methods of Experts

Teaching bread bakers how to bake bread better is the purpose of two representatives of the Fleischmann Yeast company, here on business with My Bakery, Curtis Bond, manager, announced yesterday.

H. T. Kausch and R. C. Buddington are here to give expert instruction to the bakers, giving pointers on possible improvement of "My Bread" and "Butterkist," products of the institution.

Contract for an advertising campaign, to acquaint the public with methods used in expert baking, has been signed with this newspaper.

BASEBALL'S BIGGEST BONERS

DOC GESSLER, old-time Cub outfielder, was a college product. He was conceded to have plenty of gray matter. But in baseball a college man has nothing on an illiterate dock-walloper if he forgets how many are out in an inning. The Giants filled the bases in the last of the ninth with one out. The batter lifted a fly to Gessler in center. Gessler, thinking it was the third out and that the game was over, pocketed the ball and dashed for the club house. All hands scored.

Oh, what a boner!

Nelson of the British fleet, distinguished visitor at the United States' naval maneuvers, here is shown in the Miraflores Lock to the Panama Canal while she was being towed from the Atlantic to the Pacific. As this picture was taken the battleship was being lowered 32 feet in the first of three locks encountered on her way down to the western ocean. O. R. Cooper, state star witness testified he talked to McBride at Anson on Tuesday before the shooting, and that McBride had told him, "I know who stole my tools, and am going to Breck to kill the—"

Later, the same day, Cooper testified, McBride told him Glenn had stolen his oil grilling tools.

Cooper told the court he talked to Glenn as the latter was carried to a doctor's office after he had been shot, and that Glenn said, "He called me off and shot me without a chance."

Henry Denman said he and other drivers hauled tools from wells and had hauled some for Glenn, but did not haul an underreamer claimed by McBride. Denman said he had told McBride no such underreamer was hauled.

Drs. A. W. Henchman and J. E. King of Breckenridge gave substantially the same testimony. Each said he had examined Glenn after he was wounded, and that the bullet had entered the back. Dr. Henchman said Glenn died of hemorrhages from a bullet wound, and Dr. King testified Glenn's death was from loss of blood through the severance of blood vessels by a bullet.

Saw Man Scuffling
 R. J. Miller testified that before the shooting he saw two men scuffling and upon closer approach he saw McBride pull his gun. The witness said he started to run away, stumbled into someone and fell down and that as he got up Glenn grabbed him around the neck and tried to keep the witness between him (Glenn) and the defendant. Miller said he heard a shot fired after he had broken away from Glenn and crawled under the rear of a car. He did not see the shot fired, he said.

H. L. Bunkley, Breckenridge undertaker, testified that in his opinion Glenn was shot from the back. He said he had been an undertaker 38 years.

The widow of Glenn, on the stand yesterday afternoon, told of going to Breckenridge with her husband and remaining in the car while he went down the street a short distance to where the defendant was. She said the two appeared to engage in conversation and then moved out of her sight. She did not see or hear the shooting, she said.

Roy Canfield, second defense witness, testified to seeing a difficulty in previous trials, McBride was saw Glenn "when he was beating Mr. McBride and had beaten him down to his knees."

In previous trials, McBride was convicted, getting 45 and 25 years, respectively, but the convictions were reversed.

a package of chewing gum after they had finished.

"Carlos started this practice several months ago, only on Tuesday mornings. Last week he charged only a nickel. And when he found that some of the fellows in the waiting lines could not pay even the nickel, he threw out forty dollars in nickels to them."

The visitor, who was in Midland for a short time this morning, said "dishwash soap and stale bread was not on the menu." "Carlos served two fried eggs, a slice of fried ham, fried potatoes and rolls," he said. "That will be something to tell in Oxford, what?"

It looked like the Old West for a time Tuesday. Ralph Barron was walking the streets looking for W. M. Schrock. His questions at the various corner places grew interesting. Finally he and Schrock met in front of the Scharbauer Coffee shop. "It didn't say X sold his cattle, I said it was ABC," he said in substance. Bankers, apparently, are sticklers for the right initials."

REFUSES PROBE FILE

CHICAGO. — Maj. John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner of the Big Ten, refused to furnish the Iowa legislature's state university investigating committee the Big Ten's file of detailed charges that caused other members of the Big Ten to refuse to deal with Iowa in athletics because of alleged recruiting and subsidization of athletes. Griffith later consented, however, to give the committee an oral account of the general nature of the charges without producing documentary evidence or details.

More than 73,000 miles in a New Ford

THE substantial worth of the new Ford is reflected in its good performance, economy and reliability. Its stamina and endurance are particularly apparent in sections where bad roads and severe weather put a heavy extra burden on the automobile.

In less than a year a new Ford Tudor Sedan was driven more than seventy-three thousand miles over a difficult route. The operating cost per mile was very low and practically the only expense for repairs was for new piston rings and a new bearing for the generator.

The car carried an average load of 1200 pounds of mail and was driven 250 miles daily. "The Ford has never failed to go when I was ready," writes one of the three mail carriers operating the car. "The starter did the trick last winter even at 34 degrees below zero. The gas runs about 20 miles per gallon. At times I pull a trailer whenever I have a bulky load."

Many other Ford owners report the same satisfactory performance. Every part has been made to endure—to serve you faithfully and well for many thousands of miles.
