SALESMANSHIP AND COURTESY INSTITUTE TO BE HELD HERE

CHAMBER BACKING SCHOOL

Alfonso Johnson to Lecture; Known Nationally

A salesmanship and courtesy institute will be conducted at Midland May 5, 6 and 7 under auspices of the retailers committee of the chamber of commerce. It is planned to conduct a small industrial show in conjunction with the merchandising school.

The school will be conducted without cost to the Midland chamber of commerce through courtesy of the Dallas chamber of commerce, which will send its trade extension manager, Alfonso Johnson to Midland to make the lectures.

Johnson will speak on the nights of May 5, 6 and 7 in the Crystal ballroom of Hotel Scharbauer, the room having been donated through courtesy of the hotel. Manager Arthur G. Jury will have 200 seats in the hall. Everybody will be welcome, but particularly business and professional people, clerks, filling station attendants and all others interested in bettering their business, and making themselves more efficient.

The Dallas man will speak at one or two high school assembly hours, and will address the Lions and Rotary luncheons.

Clerks, store owners, filling station attendants and all owners and sales folk are enthusiastic about the coming of Johnson, as Midland people are all of one accord now in making Midland the outstanding merchandising center of this area of Texas, and all are anxious to profit by the experiences of the Dallas man.

Johnson was business manager of the largest English newspaper in Japan for two years, and has been connected with some of the largest stores in the South. He is a recognized authority, having conducted similar courses in many cities 20 times larger than Midland.

Surrounding towns will be invited to attend the school to learn the newest methods in building business.

Details of the proposed industrial exhibit will be announced later. (See INSTITUTE page 8)

Steps Operation; Signs Not Right

Here's one you should pass on whenever they discuss superstitious traits in the race. A man in this county will not consent to an operation on his child because "the signs are not right!"

Miss Martha Bredemeier, county health nurse, inspected the child and found its tonsils were in immediate need of surgeons. She suggested that an operation be made immediately. The mother, who has 12 other children besides the one in question, agreed.

Plans were made. The operation was to take place this week. The father came in. He explained that a great chance would be taken if the child should be taken to the operating room while the zodiacal signs point to the head.

"When the head or the heart is pointed at you have to be careful," he explained. He would not consent to the operation.

It will be four months before the signs are favorable, he estimates. The child is suffering. What to do? Miss Bredemeier would like to know the answer.

15-Year-Old Boy Kills Man; Ambitious to Be Second 'Little Caesar'

In Death Dive

This picture, taken near Kansas City, shows how a new training plane buried its nose in the ground with its tail almost perpendicular after a spinning fall from 2000 feet. Bert Thomas, pilot for United States Airways, who was testing the ship, remained with the craft until it was only a few hundred feet up. He was unable to open his chute after jumping and was killed.

FOOTBALL GAMES MADE TO ORDER, SAYS HI COACH

Arrangement of schedule for Class A District 4 is "made to order for Midland," according to Coach L. K. Barry of the Midland high school.

He explains his statement: "The Bulldogs will have at least 5 Class A games on their schedule next fall. Four of these games will be in Midland and perhaps a fifth. No other games except these Class A games have been arranged, but it is not likely that there will be any difficulty in filling the vacant dates with games with Odessa, Stanton, Pecos, Wink, Rankin, Lamesa or others. Midland's entry into Class A hasn't scared these towns a bit and most of them, at least, will relish the opportunity to jump on the Bulldogs and put them in their place."

Dates definitely arranged follow: September 27—Austin high of El Paso in Midland

October 10—Big Spring at Midland

October 31—San Angelo at Midland

November 11 is not definitely decided, but is held open for McCarney at Midland

November 20—Colorado at Colorado

November 26 (Thanksgiving) — Sweetwater at Midland

"This schedule is all that Midland could have prayed for in so far as home games are concerned. The scattering of the hard games, too, is almost ideal," the coach said.

ONLY A MATTER OF TIME

Suspect Car Chased; Guns Bark, No Capture

HORATIO, Ark., April 11. — Capture of three bandits who robbed the Horatio bank of $7,700, was only a matter of hours, officers said here today.

The abandoned car used by the robbers was found near Dequeen, west of here. Officers believed that they encountered the men at a filling station and gave them a chase, fired several rounds of ammunition but were outdistanced.

Youth Is Taken WICHITA, Kans., April 11. (UP)—Within 15 minutes after he held up the bank at Moundridge this morning, a slight well-dressed youth was captured after an auto chase. Shots were fired but he was not wounded. He refused to give his name.

Uses Old Ruse MOUNDRIDGE, Kans., April 11. (UP)—A lone bandit robbed the Citizens State bank here today of $1,500. The robber used a ruse that he wanted to cash a check. The cashier said he did not know him and could not cash the check. The bandit produced a pistol and forced the cashier to count out the money.

Midland Man Tells of Knowing Jesse James

R. E. (Uncle Bob) Crowley, 83, has an unusual background of association with the notorious Jesse and Frank James, and the band of guerrillas with which they became associated.

He has told his story to a staff member of this newspaper and, for the next three or four days, the yarn will be handled in the way he told it.

It was in Clay county, Missouri, that Uncle Bob became acquainted with the James boys.

"There was not a better family in that country than the Jameses," he began. "There were two families of them, both of which had ministers at the head. The Reverend Robert James, father of Jesse and Frank, was a Baptist minister who became engrossed with the idea he could become rich if he would go to California and test his luck at panning gold. He died there, while his sons were too small to remember him well.

"The Rev. William James was a Methodist minister. I have heard preach many times. I joined the church under his officiating 76 years ago.

"All this was before the Civil war. I was 13 when the war was declared, too young to go. As a matter of fact, I was in the last conscript in the later days of the war, the days when all able bodied boys were called. But I was never called, as the war ended about that time.

"The James boys and I went coon and 'possum hunting many times before the war, and I never saw two better boys. All the stuff about the boys being abnormally cruel in their early days does not comport with the knowledge I had of them. We lived very near each other and I found them to be fine boys in every respect other normal boys are.

"Susie, a sister, I used to think the prettiest girl I had ever seen. She married Allen Farmer and later moved with her husband to Wichita Falls, Texas, where she died. He was buried by her side later.

"Well, the war got warmer and Frank left home and went to Jackson county, on the south side of the Missouri river.

"Strange circumstances began forming a web that was to enmesh the lives of both James boys. (To Be Continued).

Anti-Monarchist Sentiment Is Tested in Spain Sunday

MADRID, Spain, April 11. (AP)—First elections in eight years in Spain will be held tomorrow in balloting for municipal offices which are expected to test the strength of the anti-monarchist sentiment.

The voting is the first step in the program of Premier Admiral Juan Bautista Aznar and King Alfonso in endeavoring to return the country to the normal constitutional system after dictatorship disorders marked campaigning in Madrid, Santander, Bilbao and Barcelona.

ARMOUR OFFICIAL HELD AFTER WIFE IS SHOT FATALLY

CHICAGO, April 11. (UP)—Franklin C. Simmons, manager of Armour and company, and former athlete, was held today in connection with the fatal shooting of his wife, Hazel, 28.

Simmons said that his wife shot herself accidentally but police said it was impossible as she was shot in the back of the head and could not have self-inflicted it.

Milk is served by the associations each morning at these schools to children unable to pay.

Engine Derailed in City; Two Are Hurt

No cause could be given by Texas & Pacific railway officials for the derauling near the section house shortly after 11 o'clock Friday night of a big freight engine.

Conductor G. F. Reynolds and brakeman B. E. Neely were treated in the Midland clinic-hospital for bruises and abrasions.

Engineer Coburn could assign no cause for the engine leaving the rails. It did not turn over.

The engine, one of the big "600" type, was derailed at 11:05, and a wrecker had it back on the track before dawn. It was switching at the time of the accident.

White Slave Gang Uncovered Today

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., April 11. (UP)—Three under arrest tonight charged with violation of white slave laws after police uncovered an alleged syndicate formed for the purpose of bringing women here from other states for immoral purposes.

Operations of the ring were disclosed Monday with arrest of Bonnie McCrorey, 20, who told of being brought here in 1929 with a promise of position and then being forced into life of shame and of turning money earned over to others.

Carl Osteen, soldier stationed here Bill Wheatley and Nellie Wheatley, who claims to be his wife, were the three arrested and held under federal charges.

Tallest Building Has Head in Clouds

Its lofty peak lost in the obscuring mists over Manhattan, the new Empire State building is seen above in an unusual view that gives a vivid impression of the height of the structure. Tallest in the city's regiment of skyscrapers, the building is topped by a mooring tower for dirigibles. This tower, together with the upper stories of the building, often are veiled from the ground, as shown here, by low-hanging clouds.

TWO BIG BUSINESS EVENTS EACH MONTH WATCHED WITH INTEREST

Fred Wemple Is Road Director

Fred Wemple is the Midland director of the West Texas division of the Broadway of America.

Wemple was elected Midland director at the organization meeting held in Colorado Friday. He will serve on the board with leading citizens of 20 other West Texas towns from Pecos to Strawn, inclusive.

The association has as its object the promotion of greater traffic over the Bandhead highway traversing Midland and other cities. Much of this traffic is now being diverted via Albany, Lamesa and Carlsbad.

The secretary of the Midland chamber of commerce was chairman of the committee which planned the set-up of the organization and submitted its constitution and by-laws. Grady Bell of Odessa was secretary of this committee of 15 members.

Twelve towns along the Bandhead highway between Strawn and Pecos were represented for the organization. One Hundred men attended the meeting, 74 of them from out-of-town.

W. S. Stephens of Strawn was named president of the West Texas division. Other officers chosen were L. E. Campbell, Cisco, vice-president; J. H. Greene, Colorado, treasurer. (See FRED WEMPLE page 8)

Clutch Slips on His Supercharger; Was Flying Fast

COLUMBUS, O., April 11. (AP)—Captain Ira Eaker, army pilot, was forced down here at 5 p. m. while attempting to set a new west-to-east trans-continental air record, and said that he would abandon the attempt to better Frank Hawks' mark for the present. The clutch of the supercharger began slipping, and dismantling of the entire motor will be necessary for repairs.

Army mechanics were summoned from Wright field at Dayton. Eaker was undecided whether to try an east-to-west record after the repairs are made. He took off from Burbank, California, this morning at 3:30 Pacific Standard time, and refueled at Wichita, Kansas.

Hawks' record is 12 hours and 55 minutes.

Ahead on Schedule WICHITA, Kans., April 11. (UP)—Captain Ira Eaker landed his Albatross plane here this morning at 11:23, ahead of Captain Hawks' record 23 minutes. The plane was refueled and Eaker immediately took off for New York.

One-Stop Flight BURBANK, April 11. (UP)—Captain Ira Eaker, army pilot, took off at the United airport at 3:39 a. m. Pacific Standard time, today on a projected one-stop flight to New York City.

The flyer was attempting to make the flight in 10 hours and break the record held by Captain Frank Hawks.

LAST RITES SAID OVER LONGWORTH; THOUSANDS THERE

CINCINNATI, April 11. (UP)—Nicholas Long worth was buried in the Spring Bove cemetery this afternoon.

President and Mrs. Hoover and thousands of friends gathered to see the final tribute paid to the speaker of the house of representatives. The funeral services were held in the Christ Episcopal church.

Alice Roosevelt Longworth, the speaker's wife, and members of the Roosevelt family were at the services.

GERMANY THE EXPLOSIVE

Before the World War, Germany was the heap of dynamite waiting for the spark which would set it off. It was a danger to Europe, because of its weak-minded and vain and strutting kaiser, because of its huge and wonderful army and because of the men who had built it and wanted to try it out.

Today, situated in the very heart of Europe, a sorely tried and struggling republic, Germany is once more the danger place. The moderate political parties in Germany, who want to build up their great nation in the freedom of republican institutions, find themselves menaced at the same time by the extremists of the right—the Hitlerites—and the extremists of the left—the Communists.

The Hitlerites are all for repudiating the burdens imposed upon their country at the treaty of Versailles. They are not staggered even by the idea that this might plunge their country once more into war. The Communists are all for creating in Germany a nice version of the Bolo paradise right near their borders. They, too, have a contempt for written treaties. They, too, denounce the burdens imposed by "capitalistic" countries.

In ordinary times, the appeal of these madmen of the right and of the left would make small impression upon the bulk of the steady-going Germans. But these are not ordinary times in Germany. Her business is badly crippled. Her financial burdens are enormous. Her taxes are staggering. Her unemployment lists are enormous. Her middle class is being ground between the upper and the nether millstones.

In their despair at conditions, not only the young and thoughtless, but even some of the sober elements of the community are turning either to the swastika cross of Hitler, or the red banner of the Communists. Every election lately has told the same tale. And this is not only a danger to Germany itself, but a direct menace to the peace of Europe.

The German cabinet, the more moderate German press and some of her leading statesmen are asking the countries, which won the war, to try to ameliorate the conditions imposed upon their nation. It is not a false cry they are uttering. It is the simple truth. It will test the statesmanship of the other big European powers. There is grave danger that Germany may once more reach the exploding point.

UNEXPECTED CRISES

No matter how prosaic and well-regulated human life can become in an organized society, the possibility of a sudden, life-and-death emergency can never be removed entirely from any man's pathway. The daily newspapers—which contain, week after week, the outline-skeletons for scores of novels, if you know how to look for them—emphasize this fact again and again.

A man goes his way through the routine of his daily life, and never so much as rubs elbows with excitement; then, suddenly, without warning, a situation arises that tests him, usually in a fraction of a minute, and compels him to render an accounting, by his instinctive actions, of what he has made of himself.

For instance; you will occasionally find, in your paper, some little story of, let us say, a street car accident—one of those mishaps whereby a loaded car goes careening down a hill out of control. And at the end of it there will be some such sentence as this: "Prompt action by Motorman John Smith got the car under control and prevented a disaster."

Or it will be a story of a fire in some hospital or office building or hotel, and you will learn that some telephone girl stuck to her switchboard, as cool as a veteran, and notified everyone in the place of the danger.

Or, perhaps, there is an accident in a neighborhood theater—and some unidentified patron will, by his presence of mind, prevent a panic and save people from trampling one another to death.

There is a fascination about those little news items. They are so common—and so revealing. Over and over, they tell how this or that ordinary mortal, confronted by a sudden emergency, rises to meet it and proves that he has the right stuff in him.

Marine Returns from Isle Where Was King; Is Bored

BY PAUL HARRISON NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK—For Faustin E. Wirkus, the Haitian king business is in a slump just now, but some day he plans to voyage again to the romantic little island of La Gonave and reassume, for a while at least, his regal titles and the life he loved so well.

Only two months out of active duty with the U. S. Marine Corps, in the uniform of which he served nearly four years as ruler of some 12,000 natives, King Wirkus I already is growing restive under the restrictions of the American social order. And Wirkus is not accustomed to accepting orders, social or otherwise, from anybody.

In La Gonave, he rode in solitary glory over the mountain trails, occasionally motioning a boy to go forward and collect the small gifts that appeared as though by magic in his path. In New York, he is sworn at by traffic cops, and whirled to nausea in the jammed subways.

He has to sleep under a roof now, and pay what would be almost a Haitian king's ransom for the privilege. And the time has passed when he could silence, with a single word, all noise which might disturb his slumbers.

What a Change!

Down in La Gonave, it was King Wirkus himself who decreed when dances and feasts might be held. But in New York, whether he likes it or not, he must dance until dawn, and sip cocktails more insidious than tropical claret.

"And so," sighed Wirkus, "I'm getting tired of all this. I can't go back to La Gonave immediately, but I must get out in the open again. So as soon as I can get away I'm going on an archaeological expedition to Santo Domingo with some friends.

"I took that job in La Gonave because of the absolute freedom it would afford me. And in more than three years I saw only four inspectors. I was the boss, the king, the lieutenant, the 'sequester,' or tax receiver and most of the time the only white man on the island."

Others Dreaded Job

But it was not as a king that Wirkus was detailed to the post. When he was a square-faced blue-eyed boy of 17 he had left the Pittstown, Pa., coal fields to enlist in the Marine Corps, and at 21 was shipped to Haiti as a sergeant. After years of duty on the mainland, Wirkus became a lieutenant of the Haitian Garde, and finally his turn came for assignment to the tiny post on La Gonave.

He found himself in charge of a detail of 22 native troops and an island full of ebony savages who practiced voodoo rites, and knew the taste of human flesh.

When King Wirkus I was in his glory . . . seated under the palms with the native Queen Timemenne . . . while a servant fans them—that was the life!

His Duties Varied

Lieutenant Wirkus learned the difficult language, doctored adults and sat up nights to read "The Care and Feeding of Children" so he could give advice to mothers. Alone and unarmed, he rode horseback over mountain trails to villages where white men never had visited. He showed native farmers how to irrigate their land, and even taught the fishermen some tricks in netting. He personally investigated complaints against his tax collectors, installed a radio in the main compound at his own expense, and dispensed justice.

When he went there, the island was a matriarchy under the indifferent rule of Timemenne, elderly, portly native queen. Years before, Wirkus had been instrumental in smoothing over some tax difficulties in which she found herself, and now the grateful queen helped the white man to gain the full confidence of her people.

"They often told me, during the first few months, that they were going to make me king," recalled Wirkus. "But I just thought it was a joke.

Wirkus' "Coronation"

"Then one day I heard the drums beating all day long, sending their code signals over the island. A delegation came and asked me to attend a big meeting, and I rode up, wondering what it was all about. I was met down the trail by officials of the agricultural guilds and four men who carried me in a chair into the town. Women flagbearers led the way to the drums, which gave the king's call—four "ruffles" and three taps. Everybody bowed and greeted me, and they put the king's flag around my shoulders.

Inspections and official duties occupied the mornings of King Wirkus. As a judge he scolded fiercely and punished lightly, realizing that a fine of $4 or $5 might represent a year's savings to a native. Although polygamy is practiced on La Gonave, and marriage is simply a mutual agreement, moral standards were higher than in civilized countries, he said. Murder and crimes of violence were virtually unknown. Thievery was common, but his own possessions, often left unguarded for days, never were molested.

In the afternoons he swam, naked as a native, on white beaches, practiced golf or polo by himself, or went by canoe or horseback on exploring trips. His collection of Haitian art, idols and industrial objects is conceded to be the finest in the American Museum.

Nominally, Haiti is a democracy. As the fame of King Wirkus grew, and stories were told in Port au Prince and even in America, there may have been some official uneasiness regarding the status of this white monarch of La Gonave. Suddenly he was relieved of his governmental post.

There was mourning on the island when the white king sailed away. But American occupation

Daily Health Talk

Climate Itself Cures Nothing

Warm, Dry Region is Best for Health, But is Merely An Adjunct to Other Aids

The question is repeatedly asked as to what climate is best suited to people with infections of the nose and throat or with chronic infection of the sinuses.

In general, it is advised that a warm, dry climate is preferable to one that is damp and cold. On the other hand, it must be recognized that climate itself cures nothing, and is merely an adjunct to other specific methods of treatment.

As emphasized by Dr. J. P. Barnhill, the belief so tenaciously held by people in general that the southern and southern portions of the United States possess more health giving and health restoring virtues than the more rigorous regions of the north has been converted lately.

Dr. Barnhill cites the investigation of W. H. Barrows of Stanford University who studied the relative frequency of colds among students in widely different conditions of climate.

At Stanford University, where the climate is mild and soft, about the same number of men in each hundred had common colds under every circumstances as to ways of living as had coryza in Harvard, where the climate is much colder and indeed rigorous. Women students of Haiti is scheduled to end in 1936. After that, Faustin Wirkus thinks he may go back, at least for occasional visits, to thrill again to the welcoming tempo of the drums.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

The time comes in a fellow's life (and a woman's, too) when a decision has to be made. That decision cannot be made without serious meditation, due to the fact that so much hinges on the outcome.

This situation is similar to the one when a golfer lies two at the green on a par five hole and comes out with an eight. General Motors might be able to shed a little light on this particular subject.

The women around here are still talking about the cooking school. I guess they'll be talking about it for a long time to come. It was one of the biggest things ever held in Midland for the women and the city as a whole. Great things happen in the lives of little men as well as great men. The only difference is the valuation placed by the gazing public upon those things. That's mighty queer.

I was about to forget the decision that I am about to make. I've decided I'd better ponder over the matter a while longer before I get the public to help me.

A pleasing sight is to see a father dashing madly over the country looking for a gentle puppy to give his boy for a birthday present.

I hope that the right dog was found. I'll never forget how I used to love my dog and I don't want to see a little fellow deprived of having his legitimate fun.

Less Acreage, Lower Yield Seen as Only Remedies for Decline in Price of Wheat

BY ALLARD SMITH Executive Vice President, The Union Trust Co., Cleveland, O.

The eyes of business observers are beginning to turn toward the crop outlook for 1931. Particular interest is being shown in wheat because of the historic price decline for this commodity and the heavy world supplies. The only remedies seem to lie in reduced acreages and below-average yields in large producing countries.

In this country farmers are responding to the pleas for smaller acres at Stanford and women students at Wellesley, representing similar contrasting conditions, also had about the same number of infections of the nose and throat.

This point of view was reached also by Ellsworth Huntington, who has given special attention to the relationships of climate and disease and discussed them in a book on the subject. Thus there is in contrast the point of view of the scientific investigator who carefully compares two groups and the empirical opinion which represents the established belief of centuries. The physicians in the so-called health regions assert that the infections are many in such areas because most people with infections go there and the opportunity for infection is greater. Of course, some consideration must be accorded to this argument.

Dr. Barnhill is convinced that much depends on the kind of patient most benefited by a change to warm, dry climate is one whose resistance is low, who takes cold easily and who suffers more or less constantly from some inflammation of the nose, throat and sinuses from the first frost in the autumn to the last frost in spring. However, he feels that it is not always justifiable or expedient to send a large percentage of patients away from home.

A change of climate is in most instances still a rich man's experiment, and a patient should not be sent away from home who has not ample resources or who is not fully assured before hand of having some way of making a living when he goes to the new climate.

plantings. According to government reports, only 76 per cent as much Durum wheat and 88 per cent as much spring wheat other than Durum will be sown this year as in 1930. Durum wheat acreage will be the smallest since 1918 and other spring wheat acreage next to the smallest since 1917.

Of the 42,042,000 acres of winter wheat sown last fall, farmers now expect to harvest only 39,759,000 acres. However, the present estimate for the 1931 wheat crop is large, being 833,000,000 bushels, against 840,000,000 bushels in 1930, a reduction of only 3 per cent. Since American consumption is 700,000,000 there is a prospective surplus of 133,000,000 bushels for export.

The situation has been cleared somewhat by the decision of the Federal Farm Board to discontinue purchases of wheat. The board has purchased or is obligated to purchase 275,000,000 bushels of wheat by July 1 at a cost of 92 cents a bushel, or 31 cents over the world price.

As a result of the Farm Board's decision, American wheat has fallen to the lowest level since 1895. It may be expected henceforth to adhere more closely to the world price level. The most serious element in the situation is Russia, which threatens to increase and not decrease its wheat acreage. At the moment it appears that the God of Harvests, which determines the size of the world wheat crop, holds the fate of price recovery in his lap.

The vehicular bridge under the Mersey river at Liverpool will be the largest of its kind in the world, providing for four lines of vehicles and a railway.

Keeping Their Ears Close to the Ground!

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

Prohibition May Soon Receive a More Serious Blow Than Ever Before as Congressional Redistricting Shifts a Certain Amount of Strength From Dry to Wet Territory

WASHINGTON. — Prohibition, judging from the statements of dry leaders, may receive a more serious blow between now and 1933 than it ever has suffered before.

The congressional redistricting necessary under the reapportionment law, which must be carried out in time for the 1932 elections unless a state desires to elect its delegates to the House as congressman-at-large, will shift a certain amount of congressional strength from rural dry territory into urban wet territory.

The dries may lose as many as 50 House seats to the wets, some of the more lugubrious prohibition leaders have warned as they sought to stir up their followers to do something about it.

If such predictions were approximately correct and if the 1932 congressional elections also showed wet gains in equal proportions to the election of last November, it is easy to see that the wet-dry lineup in Congress would be a lot more interesting than it has been heretofore with dry majorities averaging somewhere around three to one.

Wets Might Get Majority The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment claims that 161 of 435 representatives favor submission of prohibition to the people and if that is true only 57 more votes would be needed for a House majority, although the wets claim only 22 out of 96 in the Senate.

Hardly anyone really believes that the wets will gain 50 House seats. It's a matter of conjecture, but they will do well if they get half as many. Nevertheless, any time the wets can take a score or more seats away from the dries all at once it's going to be something for them to cheer about.

The dries of course, think it would be a fine idea to amend the Constitution so as to stop including aliens when population is counted for congressional representation. That would hit the big wet centers where most of the aliens are concentrated and keep the dries from losing those seats. The proposed amendment, sponsored by Senator Capper, will be advocated more and more vigorously, but it can't possibly be put into the Constitution before the first election under the new setup in 1932.

Word comes, meanwhile, as most state legislatures struggle with redistricting bills and gerrymandering seems rife, that rural sections and cities in several states, respectively representing the dry and wet causes, are fighting out the issue at home. To the extent that dry legislators can keep the cities from obtaining the representation to which their population entitles them under the 1930 census, the national effect created by increased wet congressional strength will be diminished.

Michigan gained four representatives under reapportionment and although Detroit has about half the state's population, the dryer sections have undertaken to see to it that she gets only six congressmen of her total delegation of 17. Cleveland, Ohio's two new representatives as her own and legislators from the rest of the state have sought to keep them away from her.

Politically, the states which have restricted on the whole appear to have given the Republicans a slightly better break than the Democrats. Missouri has had an especially interesting partisan fight, with a Democrat legislature plugging for its party in the redistricting and a Republican governor promising to veto any bill which injures the G. O. P.

Face Voting Mix-Up It would seem that a pretty state of affairs might occur in case some states can't or won't get their redistricting done, whereupon candidates for Congress must be elected by state-wide vote. In such elections states which have recently gone wet by large state-wide vote might unseat a substantial group of dry congressmen—New York, Massachusetts and Connecticut, for instance.

In dry states perhaps even in such large ones as California and Pennsylvania, the dries might elect a full state. Thus far it cannot be predicted that any state will elect all its representatives at large. Twenty-one of them, however, were required to combine some of their present congressional districts with others and give up 27 congressmen, while 11 states are creating new districts for 27 new congressmen.

Buying...

with YOUR EYES OPEN!

MANY of the products that greet you from shelf and counter today bear familiar names.

Names you know by their advertising. By their reputation. Or by personal experience. They seem like old friends.

Other products are strangers.

What do you know about them?

Often their appeal is a "bargain price." But are they always bargains?

Their labels are attractive. More inviting, sometimes, than those of the products they seek to imitate. But how can any shopper ever know what these labels conceal?

Remember this every time you buy—

Before there can be an imitation, there must be something worth imitating.

Have you ever seen an imitation as good as the original?

Clerks who try slyly to sell you something "just as good" are looking only to today. By tomorrow the same product may not be on the shelf. Perhaps even today the clerk does not know who made it.

Ask yourself... "Why does he offer me this substitute? Why does he urge me to buy this or that product instead of the one I want?"

There are many reasons. Most of them selfish. Certainly, none of them springs from the desire to serve you better.

These facts are published by this newspaper to tell you of your danger. To protect you against substitution. To warn you to buy with your eyes open.

No deserving product ever needs the claim, "just as good." When you hear those words, you may know there is something better. And that package which "holds a little more" often holds little more than disappointment.

There is only one sure way by which you can avoid substitution.

Ask for recognized brands. Ask for them by name. Accept no questionable imitations.

THE ANSWER TO

Dressing salad IN THE MODERN MANNER

SOME things go together and some do not. The dress you wear for shopping is not the dress that you wear for a formal dinner. The furs that are so appropriate in December would be sadly out of place at a June garden party.

The same thing is true of salads and salad dressings. So many different foods come to our tables as salads, no one dressing can do for all of them. There is a different kind of salad for each occasion and an appropriate dressing for each different salad.

Miss Mary B. Murray has written a little book on appropriate salad service which contains the answers to many of your questions as to the proper selection and service of salads.

In her book, Miss Murray lays stress on one thing. It is this: Don't smother the flavors of all your different salads under a blanket of thick dressing like mayonnaise. For while mayonnaise is appropriate for some salads, it is not at all appropriate for others. Mix a dressing appropriate to the salad.

We will be glad to send you Miss Murray's book with our compliments. It is a book you will want to keep in a handy place where you can always find it whenever a question of salad selection or service arises. Send your name and address to the Wesson Oil and Snowdrift People, 210 Baronne Street, New Orleans, La.

First Reporter-Telegram Cooking School Is Great Success

Seven Hundred Women See Lindbergh Steak Prepared With Miniature Planes; Magic Chef Stove Won by Mrs. Jno. Hix

More than 700 women of Midland and surrounding communities heard Mrs. Doris Darnell in her final food lecture at the first annual Reporter-Telegram School of Cookery Friday afternoon.

Response from the large group of women on the closing day showed the great success of the four-day program.

Mrs. Darnell was asked for many of her choice recipes and willingly gave them with additional ones to the women.

Her program included the preparation of a Lindbergh steak, called that because of the miniature carot plane served with it.

The prize feature of the Friday program held the highest interest with many valuable gifts being won.

Displays Attractive

Displays in the lobby of the building arranged by Midland merchants attracted many visitors each afternoon.

Other stores cooperating to make the school a success were Fant Milling company, West Texas Gas company, Nobles and Tolbert Hardware company, Ritz theatre, Snowwhite creameries, Albert Oreck, jewelry, Midland Steam laundry, Texas Music company, Scharbauer Beauty shop, Mrs. L. C. Waterman, florist, Conner Brothers market, Queen of the West Syrup and Scharbauer Coffee Shop.

District President Appreciates Invitation

A letter of appreciation for the invitation extended by Midland Parent-Teacher associations to District 6 to meet in Midland in 1932 has been received by Midland officials from Mrs. Sidney T. Gilmore of Sonora, president of the district.

I want to thank you for the cordial invitation to hold the Child Welfare Conference of the 6th district in your city in 1932 and to assure you that it was accepted with a great deal of pleasure and anticipation, and as president of the district I wish to extend personal thanks and assure you that I will do all in my power to make it a successful and profitable time for those entertaining as well as for the delegates and visitors.

If I can serve your association at any time, please feel free to call on me or on any of the district vice presidents that are near you, for we are all working together for the good of the children, not only in Texas but everywhere, for the child of today is our future citizen and it is our privilege to make this a better place for them.

Please extend to the members of the Chamber of Commerce our appreciation of their invitation.

Yours truly, Mrs. Sidney T. Gilmore, 6th District President.

Chic for Ping Pong

Ping Pong pajamas are the latest addition to the smart wardrobe. This suit, of gleaming white satin in the new French spring green, has a conservative neckline, an unusual back treatment of tiny shoulder capes, a spray of chiffon flowers in the front and a jeweled belt.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS IN CYCLONIC FILM PURSUES LOVE AND FORTUNE

Douglas Fairbanks has given the public something new and years ahead of the times in "Reaching for the Moon," his new picture for United Artists, directed by Edmund Goulding, who is called the most versatile artist in Hollywood.

Supported by a cast of noted stage and screen personalities, several of them stars in their own right, Fairbanks has put aside his spear and jerkin for a collar and fountain pen.

As the leading feminine interest in his life there is Bebe Daniels, a fit screen type for the dynamic Doug, having beauty, courage, and a splendid sense of drama.

Jack Mulhall, young star with the experience of a veteran, is prominently cast as the star's best friend and confidant.

Edmund Goulding, who directed the Joseph M. Schenck presentation, is the author of Coria Swanson's "The Trespasser," and "The Devil's Holiday."

The story of "Reaching for the Moon" was tailored to Fairbanks' measure and is composed of the newest of the new in smartness and sophistication.

Recipes From the Cooking School

Fruit Salad an Appetizer

If you want to use your salad as an appetizer an Orange and Grapefruit Salad would be in excellent taste.

Orange and Grapefruit Salad

Alternate skinless sections of orange and grapefruit on a slice of pineapple so that they form a ball. Mark the divisions with strips of pimento cut as narrow as possible. Garnish with curly parsley or cross and serve with Fruit Juice Dressing.

Fruit Juice Dressing

Mix four tablespoons of Wesson Oil, two tablespoons of lemon juice, a tablespoon of orange juice, a half teaspoon of salt, three fourths of a teaspoon of sugar and a half teaspoon of paprika. Beat well.

New Flavor for Cold Beef

Try a meat salad for the Sunday night supper that everyone likes so well. Dice cold beef brisket and serve it with Horseradish Salad Dressing.

Horseradish Salad Dressing

Mix together four tablespoons of Wesson Oil, three tablespoons of lemon juice, one teaspoon of minced onion, one tablespoon of grated horseradish, one-half cup of whipped cream, one-half teaspoon of salt, and one-half teaspoon of paprika.

(These recipes were taken from Mary B. Murray's booklet "Appropriate Salad Dressings.")

Miss Lottie Lou Prentice of Big Spring, Mrs. Joe Hall and Mrs. Ernest McCright of Lamesa, Mrs. Arthur McCormick of Rankin and Miss Ollie Denton of McCamey were out-of-town visitors here Friday for the cooking school.

Jax Cowden of San Angelo was in Midland Saturday transacting business.

ST. ANN'S CATHOLIC CHURCH

Mass Sunday morning at 7:30 starting an all-day devotion to the Blessed Sacrament. Sunday school for the children Wednesday afternoon. Week day mass Thursday morning at 7:30.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

George F. Brown, pastor

"They That Know Their God" will be the pastor's theme for the morning sermon. Do you have a god? Do you know his name? Do you know his power, love and grace? So someone has said, "Show me your gods and I will show you your men."

"Eating Ashes" will be the evening theme. Multitudes are trying to satisfy their souls with the ashes of this world. Thousands of them call themselves Christians, but their lives prove them nothing more than ASH EATERS. What are you feeling your soul on?

Sunday school begins at 9:45. Last Sunday we broke all past attendance records. Will we drop back next Sunday or go on? How will you vote? If you stay at home you vote to drop back.

Morning worship begins at 10:50. Evening worship at 8:00. B. Y. P. U. at 7:00.

Wins Honors

Miss Myrtle McClarty, daughter of Mrs. S. R. McClarty, former Midland resident, has received first honors in the senior declamation contest in Sudan, Texas, during the recent contests. For her achievement, she was awarded a silver loving cup.

The winner will compete with other declaimers in the district meet in Lubbock soon.

Miss McClarty was a popular reader and declaimer while she made her home in Midland.

Monthly Meeting of City Union Is Held At Methodist Church

The Christian Young People's League met at the First Methodist church Friday evening with an attendance of more than sixty young people.

The president, Harvey Powledge, and Miss Evelyn Adams, secretary, presided at the business meeting.

Mr. Powledge was also in charge of the program on "Jesus Way of Life," giving his talk on "Prayer Life." Miss Alta Mae Johnson spoke on "Jesus Way of Life."

Members of the union enjoyed an outing on the lawn of the parsonage following the devotional, and a later social period in the classrooms of the church.

Misses Nellie Stephenson, Esther Mae Hodo and Alta Mae Johnson and Messrs. Uel Feeler and Harvey Powledge served refreshments to Misses Estelle Hodo, Nez Cosper, Celeste Hankins, Obara Hines, Mamie Dale, Jeanette Tyner, Rudie Lee Love, Christine, Dortha and Nola Fae Meadows, Kathleen McCleskey, Jessie Mae Bridges, Lillian Dunaway, Vivian Arnett, Lucille and Georgia McMullan, Edythe Sundquist, Lee, Ema Weathered, Phyllis and Evelyn Haag, Mary Florence Weathered, Frances Norrine West, Lou, Annie Reeve, Evelyn Adams, Ila Merle Patterson, Ada Driver, Messrs. What to Read This Summer

(Note: A book review holds good for one person only—the one who writes it. These reviews do not presume to be able criticisms but only personal opinions. K. E.)

Of all the interesting chapters of J. Frank Dobie's book "Coronado's Children", the most interesting to most citizens of Midland will be chapter fourteen. Here is related "The Secret of the Guadalupe", the story of Old Ben Sublett who once lived in Odessa and of his mine whose location was such a mystery to his neighbors.

Some well-known Midland men and local business firms are connected with the history of Sublett and his mine as told by Dobie. But though chapter fourteen will be most interesting because of its connection with local places and people, other parts of the book will be found to have a strange fascination. Reading "Coronado's Children" is like drinking cistern water on a warm day—once you start you can't stop but keep on and on, though you cannot satisfactorily explain just why.

Lost gold mines, buried treasures, strange maps, mysteriously disappearing riches—these are the subjects of Dobie's tales. He tells them with ease and fluency, in language that is sometimes pleasantly colloquial and every-day and that sometimes rises to almost poetic heights.

"Coronado's Children" has brought its author, and through him the Southwest of which he writes, an honor new to this region and its writers. It was selected by the Literary Guild as the book-of-the-month for February. A copy of the book is now on the rental shelf of the library.

If you like to take your psychoanalysis in sugar-coated pills, if you want to talk glibly in psycho-analytic terms with little effort, on your part, then try spending an hour or two reading "Behind Your Front" by James Oppenheim. Are you an extravert? Are you an introvert? Mr. Oppenheim has everything and everybody nicely charted so that you may soon find out just what you are. You may even find you are an extraverted introvert or an introverted extravert (but don't call your friend either unless you are good at explanations.)

The reader has some doubt as to just how much real psycho-analysis he is learning, but the book is gay, amusing volume, well worth spending half-an-evening over. "Behind Your Front" is now in the County library.

"Different" and "superstitious" were the adjectives chosen by one reader to describe Anne Green's "Reader, I Married Him". It is the story of an American girl in Paris and of the wondrous results of enchantments and such-like powers in her life. If you enjoyed "The Selbys" by the same author, you will probably enjoy "Reader, I Married Him," though perhaps not quite so much. —Kathleen Eiland

Evening Bridge Entertained at Adams Home Thursday

Outstanding among the attractive bridge affairs of the week was an evening party given by Mr. and Mrs. John E. Adams at their home on Marienfield Thursday.

Tables were prettily appointed in shades of yellow and flowers were sweet peas in pastel tints.

Miss Janis Wilkes scored high among the ladies and Mr. Jack Hawkins played high for men.

At tea time, tables were centered with tall yellow tapers in silver holders, and party plates of decorated cake and ice cream were served to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Cragin, Misses Jane Traweck, Janis Wilkes, Annie Frank Stout, Messrs. Kenneth Crandell of Dallas, Wallace Irwin, Wilson Keyes and Dr. D. K. Ratliff.

Play Called Off

Due to illness and departure of characters in the play, "Deacon Dubbs," to have been presented in Midland on April 17 by a Big Spring cast, the presentation has been called off by the Christian women who were sponsoring the production.

McCall Patterns Nos. 6462 and 6467

DO YOU prefer a solid color frock in one of the new vivid tones—a frock of one of the new prints with surface interest—or a frock that uses contrasting colors of fabrics, just to be "different"? These, you know, are the outstanding trends of the new Spring season—you'll see your well-informed friends wearing them within the next few weeks. It is our suggestion that you choose your favorites at once—and make your fabric and McCall Pattern selections immediately. The McCall styles sketched show French renditions of these ideas.

SAND BELT GOLF ASSOCIATION OPENS; MIDLAND TO PLAY TEXON

Act III---Enter Tom Freeman and Jack Thompson in Welter Title Tiff

EIGHT PLAYERS OF LOCAL NOTE TO MAKE TRIP

Opening play in the Sand Belt Golf association today finds Midland pitted against Texon, at Texon.

Eight golfers that compose the Midland team, Ellis Cowden, H. S. Forgeron, Frank Day, Billy Moran, Billy Hoey, Delo Douglas, Bill Lake and John Howe, were to leave Midland this morning between the hours of 8 and 9, taking their caddies along.

Other clubs of the association play elsewhere, and the next matches fall on April 26.

The Midland team faces a tough course at Texon. Reports from golfers who have played on that place say the course has nine holes built on the rising ground just south of Texon, hull greens that are as fast as a glass floor. Nine holes.

Midland players shoot in the thirties and forties. John Howe turned in a 93 for the highest card of the lot. Cowden, lowest, shot the 13 holes of country club in 69 last week.

NEW AIR-RADIO TOWERS. WASHINGTON.—The Aeronautics branch of the U. S. department of commerce has announced the purchase of 30 radio antenna towers to be installed on existing airways of the United States. Contracts for labor and other equipment granted during the last period totaled approximately $760,000.

SPORTS REPORTS

The crowd that watched the "ladies" play the gentlemen Friday afternoon got the surprise they looked for. Besides seeing a colorful array of the "latest styles from Paris," they say the game was lulu. The boys from the De Luxe laundry, dressed as girls, lacked only three-four runs of beating the newspaper club.

The score was 13-9. Cotter Hiatt, originator of the plan to dress his club like women, also played a good game in skirts, contributing three runs to the lost cause.

The Firemen and Icemen will wallop the horseshoe at Cowden park this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Both clubs are in the City Baseball league. Should be worth while. A rumor says the Busters will be out of town today, probably at Odessa.

Theo Ferguson brings around the unofficial schedule for tennis clubs. The five teams will play this week according to the schedule, then will start the same line-up again, as the unofficial schedule becomes official on April 19, when season begins.

THOMPSON FREEMAN

DARK VILLAIN IS STILL A THREAT TO THE FAIR

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER, NEA Service Sports Editor.

CLEVELAND, April 11.—The third act of the fistic melodrama between Tommy Freeman, welter-weight champion of the world, and Young Jack Thompson, from whom Freeman won the title last September, will be performed here today the baseball season opens—April 14—in the Public Hall.

The first act in the Thompson-Freeman show was staged in Detroit in January, 1930, and Freeman won. That was three months before Thompson took the title away from Jackie Fields in Chicago. The second act was put on in Cleveland last September, before some 10,000 drama lovers in League Park. Before the curtain went up there was some talk about the winner rushing to the Pacific coast and inviting Young Corbett III to do battle immediately, but after Freeman had won, the price went up on his services to such a figure that his manager, Tommy McGinty, was obliged to report regretfully that no business could be done with a fellow like Corbett.

Though Referee Patsy Haley's decision that Freeman had won the 15-round struggle with Thompson was emphatic, it was not received with undivided enthusiasm by the drama critics at the ringside. As the verdict was rendered not a few customers began moaning audibly, and as they pushed their way out of the park, some distinct muttering in beards was observed by your correspondent.

Your correspondent was of the opinion that Thompson retained his championship that night—by a clear margin—but surely he was wrong about it for Mr. McGinty himself assured me that it was indeed true that Freeman had won.

And Mr. Ray Alvis, manager of the dethroned champion, seemed to take little interest in the fact that his young man had just lost his title. Ordinarily, when Mr. Alvis thinks he is being taken for a ride, he is not the quietest or most demure of fellows. Upon very slight provocation, Mr. Alvis has been known to leap right up and yodel manslaughter. But when Patsy Haley lifted the hand of Tommy Freeman, Mr. Alvis just looked and smiled and calmly led his gladiator away from there without even a great big "Oll, darn!"

So, perhaps, your correspondent saw it all from a wrong angle. Maybe Mr. Freeman did win, after all, even though a couple of the local newspapers next day did work up quite a fever about the decision.

Now that the third act is in the process of making, there is again some talk about the winner hurrying to the Pacific coast to mangle

Young Corbett III. It happens that Fields, from whom Thompson won the title, and Thompson himself, but both Freeman and Thompson are "perfectly willing to meet him anywhere."

WOODPECKERS SHORT PHONE SYSTEM IN WEST SEATTLE. (UP)—Scores of complaints sent telephone linemen into the Ballard district to determine what was causing telephones to go dead. A search revealed—woodpeckers had bored through a terminal box and had short-circuited the line. A study has revealed that woodpeckers preferred boxes painted green, but would not disturb those painted white. But when the white paint begins to wear off, or becomes dull, the birds go to work.

ing his usual crack at Boyce House, Ranger scribe:

"Boyce House, the Ranger scribe, waxed wrathful over would-be playful comment in this department about the typographical error in the Ranger paper which had an Eastland county athlete high-jumping 40 feet, 10 inches. House comments: "Although this columnist (meaning himself), in addition to writing sports, composes all the headlines, handles all the telegraph news and then writes all the local stories as well as conducting a front page column for The Times, the duties of setting the type and reading the proof have not yet been added to my task."

"The young man should be ashamed of himself, loafing on the job again."

"And this fellow House had led us to believe he really works for a living."

And House answers right back: "Even Homer nods occasionally. In the same issue of the San Angelo paper in which fun is poked for the prodigious jump credited in the Eastland county meet, the Angelo writer explains that an error in his column was made by the line-type operator. Said error was that 'Malcolm Powell' set the world's auto record, Malcolm Campbell is the record holder."

"The classic typographical error of all time occurred on a newspaper in the north many years ago when the editor wrote 'battle-scarred veterans' and it came out in the paper as 'battle-scarce veterans.' He endeavored to explain the mistake in the next issue but the printer made it read 'battle-scarred veterans.' The editor left town and has never been seen since."

Marcos Williamson, scout field representative, was here Friday and for a while Friday evening. After helping us surround a steak of many proportions, he told us about Bobby Campbell's adventure with a prairie spoon. It seems Bobby hadn't had many adventures in the gentle art of home or prairie cooking and some of the boys and girls took him out for a bit of air and outside cooking. He was sent to fetch some wood for the fire. He returned with the wood and a huge chunk of "prairie coal." It was dark and he was at the camp fire before he saw the "coal" was not a wood chip. Spoons ran out and Bobby said he would stir his coffee with a stick. When someone expostulated a moment later when Bob was seen to furtively pour his coffee on the ground he explained "I like my coffee hot, not stirred with coal." In the darkness he had got a bit more of the "prairie coal" for a spoon. He is known around the office of the Herald as the "Big Stick and Chip Man."

Conoco Hour to Offer Peggy, Pat

"Happy summer vacation!" is the greeting which will be broadcast to the entire country during the next Conoco Listeners' Hour, program sponsored by the Continental Oil Co. Interesting news about the Conoco Travel bureau, Continental's free service to motorists, will be broadcast during the program.

Peggy and Pat—the listeners' representatives—promise an exceptionally fine musical program, selected by them from requests from the radio audience. The Conoco orchestra and the quartette will be heard as usual.

Don't forget to tune in on this program Monday evening (April 13), transmitted in this territory by Station WFAA, Dallas, at 6:30.

Bob Scruggs is doing what we said he would. He broke his habit of slicing; it appears, and shot a 44 Friday.

We have been informed reputable that the playground ball season will go another year. Tentatively, the schedule was made out so as to end or to divide on April 25, but the crowds have shown so much interest in the sport it would be a shame to close out the season. Bigger crowds go to playground ball games that have attended any other organized amateur sport in Midland.

Rusty Bayer and M. D. Johnson played another match Friday, and Bayer won this time. He went down before the vet earlier last week. Didn't learn how far the match went.

A Food Your Children Need

Your children are growing every day. Your constant care of and attention to their health are preparing them for the years to come. Of course, you are very particular about their diet. But do your children get plenty of MY BREAD every day? Remember, it's a food they need. It builds strength and energy and general good health. No coaxing necessary to make them eat MY BREAD. Children just naturally love its tempting flavor.

Every loaf of MY BREAD contains many more slices. Therefore, you'll find it more economical. And its fine texture makes it wonderful for toast and sandwiches.

Health Day Contest Is Announced Here

Announcement of May day health contests, via prepared posters, was made Saturday by Miss Martha Bredemeier, county health nurse.

Somewhat different from former contests, any individual above the seventh grade, in school or out, can compete, Miss Bredemeier pointed out.

The rules of the contest are set forth below. A variety of subject matter may be treated; such as, Dental Health, Hygiene, Milk, Sleep and Rest, Weight, etc.

Prizes—First, $2; second, $1; third, $1.

Groups—1. First, second and third grade rooms will compete. May enter single poster or set of posters; 2. Fourth and fifth grade children compete with one another; 3. Sixth and seventh grade children compete with one another; 4. Any individual over seventh grade, in or out of school.

Equipment—No poster will be returned; poster may be any size or material; must be in county health nurse's office, second floor court house, Saturday 4 p. m. April 25; all posters to have child's name, grade, teacher, school and date, in upper right corner reverse side of poster. (group 1, room, teacher, school and date; any number of posters may be entered; teachers to number 1, 2, 3 and 4 the four best posters from her room. Former Midland Girl Is Married

Marriage of a former Midland girl, Hattie Rue Hartgrove, daughter of Gus Hartgrove who was once foreman of the extensive C ranch, to Dale Campbell of Paint Rock was announced in a recent issue of The San Angelo Standard.

Miss Hartgrove went to school in Midland, afterward moving to San Angelo. She wrote numerous articles for magazines, finished school at TCU, and visited in Midland. On her last visit here, in the home of Mrs. Ola Dublin Haynes, she left Midland by plane for the interior of Mexico, where she was to gather fresh material for more articles.

Miss Hartgrove's mother is the former Cora McKinley. The couple married in Villa Acuna, Old Mexico, and the wedding was a surprise to friends and both families.

The bride and groom were entertained on the Snyder Slaughter ranch near Sheffield, and then left for a tour of Old Mexico.

The groom finished school in SMU and the two will live on the Silver-cliff ranch near Paint Rock.

The bride was in charge of Camp Pike, a girl's camp, in New Hampshire last summer.

HOBBOES TO HEAR RADIO TAVISTOCK (Cornwall) Eng.—(UP).—Inmates of a workhouse here objected to the presence of tramps at Sunday church services so the ministers will broadcast their sermons and arrangements have been made for the hoboes to listen in.

Warning Is Issued Against Bitterweed

Ranchmen, beware of the bitterweed—it's deadly poison for livestock and, under benign weather conditions, is laying its ambushade for the unwary sheep and cow in widely scattered areas of West Texas, says the San Angelo Standard.

Judge J. A. Matthews, pioneer cattleman of Shackelford county, first suspected—then isolated—the weed in this section. He has been watching for it for several years, knowing it was a stranger on his broad acres and wondering uneasily what it was; and this spring, with continued wet weather, has seen it spread. Cattle-men's winter losses in this section normally about 1 per cent of the herds, have jumped to 2 per cent minimum, and he fears some of that loss is due to the bitterweed.

Government Verdict
Judge Matthews put 20 Mexicans to work with hoes on his ranch in the vicinity of Fort Griffin, rooting out the alien. He sent samples to Congressman T. L. Blanton of Abilene, who forwarded them to the bureau of animal industry in Washington for analysis.

The bureau's report, telegraphed by Dr. V. G. Houck, associate chief, said the weed is "commonly known as the bitterweed and is poisonous to livestock." Houck added that full analysis is coming by mail.

"I know I have lost two head of stock from this weed and I don't know how many more," Judge Matthews said. "When cowmen here tell me their winter losses in some cases have reached 10 to 15 per cent of their herds, I know something is wrong, although, with an abundance of range, stock are over-eating and many are dying from simple bloat."

Description

Judge Matthews has spent many days visiting ranches in the Albany area. He found none of the bitterweed west of that point, but said it was growing abundantly to the east. It has been reported in the Throckmorton territory, and in abundance on the 9-R ranch of the W. D. Reynolds trust in Scurry county, west of Snyder. It also is showing up in quantity on highway 1-A, a few miles east of Abilene.

The weed is described as being six to eight inches in height, carrying a yellow bloom in the top of the plant. The root is straight, not branching out, and where the stalk enters the ground it bulges out like a knob, then shrinks again, and is a dark reddish color. The plant is not thorny. The leaves are like small stalks themselves, growing out of the main stem in circular shape like a pencil, in turn suckering smaller leaves.

Sheep Country Hit

Judge Matthews said: "Hearing about losses to sheepmen in the San Angelo area, I wrote to Judge J. A. Whitten (chairman of the state livestock sanitary commission) and he sent me some samples of the weed he suspected. It was the bitterweed. Some sheepmen have been hit so hard they have had to take their flocks off pasture and put them in feed lots to save them.

"Sheep seem to like this weed better than cattle. Stock don't show an inclination to eat it unless other weeds are scarce. It is hard to eradicate, for when it gets a footing, it seems to want to stay, and it crowds out good weeds."

Episcopal Bishop In Services Here

Bishop E. Cecil Seaman of Amarillo will administer communion at the Trinity Episcopal chapel this morning at 11 o'clock and conduct preaching services. Any wishing to be confirmed may meet the bishop at the chapel at 9:30.

For the evening service, Bishop Seaman will be guest minister at the First Methodist church.

Today Good Day To Beat Abilene

Every man who has attended one session of the Men's class is asked to attend this morning, unless he is an attendant elsewhere, and at 1 o'clock attend the barbecue. All who expect to go to the barbecue are expected to attend the class at 9:45 this morning in order to defeat Abilene in the April attendance contest. All preachers, all Sunday school superintendents and all assistant superintendents are invited. No women will be present.

Alderman Answers WCTU Questionnaire

C. O. Ulmer, candidate in the recent city election for alderman, answered a questionnaire mailed him by the WCTU. Mrs. Thomas D. Murphy, chairman of this district of the organization, said Saturday.

"Mr. Ulmer was away in Dallas at the time the questionnaire was mailed," she said. "His letter explained that as a reason for not answering sooner. He pledges his respect to the Eighteenth amendment, and said he favored observing it strictly."

COLORADO LET IN DISTRICT 4 INSTEAD OF BW

Superintendent W. W. Lackey, Principal D. D. Shifflett, and Coach L. K. Barry attended the meeting of school authorities and coaches of in the Interscholastic league's new Class A football district No. 4 Saturday.

Coach Barry described the meeting thus: "The meeting was held in San Angelo. Superintendent Felix Smith of San Angelo had the entire group of representatives at lunch in the high school cafeteria as his guests. After lunch the superintendents and principals adjourned to the junior college and proceeded to agree on rules and regulations, while the coaches met elsewhere and made out their schedule.

"The Brownwood authorities were present at the meeting with a petition to the league authorities at Austin requesting that Brownwood be placed back in the old 'Oil Belt.' All schools signed the petition gladly, since Brownwood is so far away from the majority of the other towns that the expense of playing Brownwood, to say nothing of the long trips and time lost out of school, made it desirable. Brownwood belongs in the Oil Belt, geographically. Colorado was admitted into the district in place of Brownwood. The superintendents, principals, and coaches of the following towns were present at the meeting: San Angelo, Sweetwater, Colorado, Big Spring, Midland, and McCamey. All of these schools were admitted into the new district.

"The Oil Belt rule to the effect that a player's eligibility must be questioned one week before the game, or never, was not adopted. "Superintendent McLain of Sweetwater was elected permanent chairman of the district. McLain probably had more to do with bringing about the formation of the new district than any of the other school men. Mr. Kenley, principal of San Angelo high school was elected secretary. Big Spring was named as the meeting place of the committee hereafter. Each school is to have a representative on the committee and each is entitled to one vote.

"Altogether, the meeting was handled in the most expeditious manner and with hardly a question on any of the motions put before the committee. The Midland delegation was impressed with the neatness and dispatch with which the whole affair was handled. It does not anticipate any squabbles arising in the new district from any cause; not only was every point of importance covered by the committee in drawing up the rules, but the attitude of all those present was one of mutual confidence and respect.

"In getting together for the first time and making out their schedules in twenty minutes, the coaches performed what in some districts would be a miracle."
