FATHER'S CHARGE IS CHANGED

Edmondson Condition Already Weakened By a Gun Wound

SPUR, April 18. (UP).—J. N. Admondson, 31, shot by G. R. Foreman, father of Elsie Foreman, 19, for whose death in a Crosbyton hotel recently Edmondson was under indictment, died in a hospital here.

Doctors said his death was partly due to an attempted suicide last night when Edmondson drank rubbing alcohol.

The viscera of Miss Foreman had been sent to Austin for examination by state chemists. She had registered at the hotel with Edmondson.

A charge of assault to murder against Foreman is to be changed to one of murder.

Burial for Edmondson is planned tomorrow at Plainview.

Weakened by drinking poison last night, J. N. Edmondson, 30, died of what the coroner announced as peritonitis. He was in the hospital as a result of his having been shot by G. R. Foreman, father of the girl found dead in Edmondson's room at a Crosbyton hotel Sunday after Elsie Foreman and Edmondson had registered as man and wife.

Edmondson's slight chance for recovery from the wounds were destroyed by his drinking rubbing alcohol, doctors said. The nurse was out of the room when he drank the poison.

GASOLINE PRICES FALL 2 CENTS IN CITY SATURDAY

Gasoline prices took a two-cent drop in Midland Saturday.

Three major distributors had received notice of the drop by the middle of the afternoon and others were expected to get notice at any hour.

The retail price is now 14 cents. The new lower price not only will mean a big saving to car and truck owners, but will also mean more business for Midland in general, as business had suffered due to tourists having in many cases passed the city by for points selling at lower prices.

Urgent requests for price equalization were started a week or longer ago by the chamber of commerce and interested individuals.

This week two major companies sent district representatives to Midland to confer with officials of the chamber and their own agents in this city. Midland had assumed the attitude of asking for equalization as a protection to agents and retailers as well as consumers, which attitude, according to major company representatives, coupled with facts sent by private source, won attention of the companies.

No statements had been made Saturday as to how long the price cut would last. So far as is known, it is indefinite.

Marconi, Sired by Omar Khayyam, Owned Here

Acquisition by purchase of Marconi, nine-year-old racing stallion, by the Buchanan-Bloss stables of Midland, causes Dr. W. M. Bloss, veteran trainer and jockey, to feel optimistic towards stable winnings of the future.

Marconi has won 14 races and $59,814. He has been placed in service on the Booger Bryant ranch and, after he is kept off the track for a few months, will go into training for several important races.

Bloss leaves Midland Monday for North Kansas City, Mo., where he has shipped three race animals, the well-known Foreign Relations; St. Matthews, a fast six-year-old recently bought, and Hall Storm, a five-year-old mudder who is powerful and fast. Racing will begin in Riverside park on May 9 and continue 31 days.

The new horse upon which Bloss pins his hopes began his winnings as a three-year-old in 1925, when he won the one-mile event at Jamaica. He won the Lawrence realization over the 1 1/2-mile distance that year, also, as well as the Ben Brush handicap at Belmont park.

In 1926, he took a mile purse, and the Phoenix Hotel handicap over the same route.

The Broadway handicap was won (See MARCONI page 8)

Can Wet Cermak Rid Chi Of Its Terrible Gangs?

BY DEXTER H. TEED NEA Service Writer

CHICAGO, April 17.—The battle of Chicago is on. And it is a battle, one whose significance may not be fully understood until the history of our times is written.

Arrayed on one side is gangdom, backed by machine guns, meting out death to its enemies as nonchalantly as an ordinary mortal would crush an insect. It is ruthless, heartless. It bumps off a man, lights a cigarette and strolls on.

Anton J. Cermak, blocky, smiling, round-faced, is general of the opposing forces. He assumed leadership the moment he was sworn in as mayor even as Boisterous Bill Thompson, self-styled "builder" whom Cermak defeated, started down the river—Mississippi. An aroused citizenry is behind and with Cermak.

Cleanup Is Promised "We're going to clean up Chicago in time for the world's fair," asserts Cermak.

And gangdom shrugs its heavy shoulders, smirks and utters a skeptical "Oh, yeah?"

Can Cermak carry out his promises? Is he sincere? These are the questions being asked.

Cermak is a politician. He glad-hands everybody, from obscure negro cleaner to dignified millionaire. The smile seldom leaves his face. He never loses his composure nor geniality. He is a type.

But he is more than that. He is determined. Make no mistake about that. It is shown in every stage of his career, up from a coal miner's son to mayor of the second largest city in the United States. He is known as a driver, one who expects and demands that men under him work. He has not always been popular with some of his men—for that reason.

Fires "Big Bill's" Aids He says he will wipe dishonesty out of the police department, clean out the city hall by summarily firing Big Bill Thompson's favorites; he will put in honest, competent men. He believes firmly that the only way to wipe out civic dishonesty and its vicious-spirited child, gangdom, is to start at the bottom and clean house.

Cermak isn't an idealist. He's a practical man. Perfection isn't his goal. He understands the frailties of humanity and makes allowances. He compromises on better government and less crime.

No trains go through Chicago. They all stop. The east and the west and the south converge on their scores of railroads. The stick-up man from the west, the south and the east gets off in Chicago. He remains because he finds his own kind. Its reputation for gangsters attracts more gangsters.

Al Capone, clever, powerful, rich—and yet nobody ever found his bank account—is the reputed head of this merged underworld. He has political connections, all his enemies say. He says he's in the racket to satisfy a demand—for liquor. Capone's money backed Bill Thompson. It has been generally reported, although he has denied it. Nearly 500,000 voters declared they wanted the kind of government Thompson represented. That has been forgotten in the general elation which followed election of Cermak.

Why was Cermak elected? Because a certain per cent of voters decided they didn't want Thompson. It wasn't a pro-Cermak swing. It was anti-Thompson. And that overturning of Big Bill's regime was based on one thing—hope. They hoped by getting Thompson out they would at least have a chance to see what somebody else could do—all except the 500,000!

And that minority of voters may determine success or failure for Cermak.

Cermak Very Wet The new mayor is dripping wet. He has said so. He will advocate repeal of the Volstead act and even its father, the 18th amendment. This will win favor, for Chicago wants its liquor. The bootleggers found it out soon after prohibition came.

But that minority is hovering in the background. In it are disgruntled office-holders tossed out when Cermak came in. They are going to hob-nob with the backers of Thompson and they are going to hamper the new mayor. If he fulfills his promises he is going to take away some of the things they want.

Do the gangsters fear Cermak? He has been a political figure in Chicago for years. Almost any person connected with politics has known him, especially since he became boss of Cook county. He has had contacts with all strata of society. Gangdom apparently has concluded it's the old, old story of campaign promises—which won't

He has had contacts with all strata of society. Gangdom apparently has concluded it's the old, old story of campaign promises—which won't be carried out. "Gets What He Wants" Against such a belief is arrayed the statements of those close to Cermak.

"You know Tony," they say. "If he wants something, he gets it. He's ambitious and right now he knows that if he can even make progress in straightening things out in Chicago he is made as a national figure—yes, even as a world figure."

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher SOMETIMES SACRED BALLOT BOX IS ONLY A SHOE OR CIGAR BOX

WASHINGTON.—The sacred ballot box in some communities may be only a shoe box or a cigar box, according to one of the unusual tales picked up by the Nye senatorial campaign expenditures committee in Tennessee. Not that Tennessee furnished a worse example of carelessness in primary elections than various other states, but the printed hearings match stories from Memphis of trucks swarming with negroes who voted in one precinct after another with testimony from a rural county where the election chairman sent out formal notice that the state law requiring poll tax payments and registration would be disregarded. Primary day in Tennessee last fall was powerful hot and one of the Nye investigators now here recalls hearing Memphis negroes complain bitterly because they had to vote so many times before the day was over. One of the congressional candidates, James P. Owen, found he wasn't wanted around the polling place at Lafayette in Macon county and when he tried to watch for irregularities through a window, he complained, six or eight people would crowd up close to the window so he couldn't see what was going on. Distributed Ballots in Street Dozens of people were standing around the square and the courthouse yard with ballots in their hands, Owen testified, where they were being generally distributed instead of being kept inside until the voters came after them. Mr. James M. Chamberlain, chairman of the county primary election board, explained that it was one of the hottest days he ever saw and the election officers were anxious to get through and that was one reason why they made Owen and others get out while the ballots were counted. It was Chamberlain who sent out word, as he himself admitted, that no poll tax receipt would be required and that the primary wouldn't be held under the state's Dorth—or Australian—ballot system. He explained all that. "That is the way we hold our elections," he testified. "We have always done it. It's just custom and habit. . . . No sir, we don't even know what registration is up there. We have never paid any poll tax to vote and I don't think any of the rural counties in my section do it." "Under what law do you operate?" Senator Wagner asked. "Well, sir," the reply was, "it is what we understand is the Australian form of balloting and voting. I don't know what that is. That was the Australian ballot. Now, whatever that is, I don't know." Tennessee had required registration for primaries since 1921, but Mr. Chamberlain hadn't known about that, either. Used Cigar Boxes "We used cigar boxes up there to deposit our ballots in," he explained.

PROFIT IN CALF FEEDING DEPENDS ON PRICE SPREAD

Finishing calves for the market requires more than a gain in weight to make money for the farmer, or feeder, it has been learned by Midland men who fed out cattle and sold them this spring. There must be a spread of two cents a pound between the purchase price and the selling price if the feeder is to break even.

Figures gained from tabulating costs of fattening 85 head of native Hereford calves by A. L. Stewart, near Midland, have provided information that will be of value to any farmer, ranchman or feeder contemplating fattening cattle for the market.

At a price of 4 1-2 cents per bundle for native heifer and $18 a ton for maize heads, it costs 12 1-2 cents per pound to fatten calves or $25.00 for a 200 pound gain. At this cost of feed, there must be a spread of two cents per pound between purchase and selling price if the feeder breaks even. At a lower cost for feed, there is, of course, better opportunity for profit.

Native feed, with a little cotton seed meal to balance the ration, will put on an average of two pounds per day per head. Stewart learned through his experience. Calves will take a fair finish in from 100 to 120 days.

Approximately one acre of good maize (headed) and an acre of heifer (bundles) are required to each calf. In other words, to feed out 200 calves, there should be 200 acres each of the two kinds of feed.

In average years, it is pointed out, there will be a spread of more than two cents per pound between the price of range calves and of fed or finished calves, but on a declining market there is opportunity for a substantial loss per head of calves for the feeder. On the other hand, on a rising market, the feeder may make much more for his labor and chance-taking than by handling range cattle only. It is a matter of speculation on the market, just as every year is for the ranchman or farmer.

Explains Why Radio on Blink

Has your radio set been acting queerly lately? Have you been blaming the broadcasting stations and the radio makers and dealers?

Very likely none of them is to blame, but only Old Man Ether, now on one of his regular eleven-year sprees, superinduced by a sunspot minimum!

Funny things have been happening to radio the past few months. Long distance reception is now the best ever in the history of radio. Midwest and Pacific Coast stations are heard in the East with clearness and loudness unexcelled since the early days of broadcasting.

But from all parts of the country, listeners located 30 to 50 miles from stations report annoying "fading," and also "mush" distortion and garbling of voices and music, for a few seconds or minutes at a time.

How to diagnose these troubles in your set, and the relation of these curious phenomena to the present sunspot cycle, was explained over WABC and the Columbia Broadcasting system, Saturday evening at 6:30, by Orestes H. Caldwell, former federal radio commissioner and now editor of Radio Retailing and Electronics, whose topic was "Present Extraordinary Radio Reception and Sunspots."

Glue Holds False Teeth of Speaker

A prominent government official recently made his radio debut over a national hookup of Columbia stations fortified with "stickum" to hold up his false teeth. Before he went on the air, the speaker's only worry was for his plate. He was afraid the teeth would slip at the crucial moment and spoil the broadcast, but an overdose of "stickum" solved the problem. He came through in fine style.

Rep. Hamilton Fish of New York is always on time for his broadcast, but the other day he was so close to being late it wasn't funny. Fish was scheduled to go on the air over the Columbia network at 6 P. M. to speak in favor of the veterans' bonus loan act and to defend the veterans from charges they were "raiding" the Treasury.

Five-forty five rolled around and no Fish. Five-fifty and still he hadn't shown up; 5:56-57-58—the announcer, control man and Harry Butcher, director of Columbia's Washington studio, were about ready to throw a fit—simultaneously.

Forty seconds before he was to go on the air, Fish breezed in. He was late in getting away from Pittsburgh that morning, he explained.

The government of Malta keeps a number of cat-servants of the state, to guard the underground granaries from the hungry rats who would soon make short work of the stores were it not for pussy. These cats lead a life similar to that of mine mules, in that once they are taken below the surface it is very seldom that they ever see the light of day again.

It is three centuries since Charles Perrault, a Frenchman, creator of Cinderella and Red Riding Hood, was born.

"Apache" by Will Levington Com- fort is the story of a great Indian. Even if you have always believed that the only good Indians are those in Cooper's novels and those in their graves, you will be ready to say that here is the exception that proves the rule when you have read this story of Mangus Colorado or Red Sleeve.

Mangus Colorado was a chief of the Apaches—the terrible tribe that has always been a special terror to the white race. There was a real Mangus Colorado called "the King Philip of the Apache nation. Beyond all comparison the most famous Apache warrior and statesman of the century (Nineteenth century)." This book is the fic- tionized history of his life. The author shows us not only the outward growth of the power and fame of the man but the inward develop- ment of his spirit and intellect that led to that growth.

There is an inborn nobility in the character of Mangus Colorado that is the dominant feature of the story. Even in his last terrible ex- perience with the whites, we feel this nobility and wonder that the Men-hi-kanos (Americans) were so blind as not to be able to feel it, too.

"Apache" is written in an easily- read style. The author is not afraid to use common expressions heard in everyday speech but more rarely in well-written books. He has avoided the vulgar and the savage in a story that might well have been revoltingly bloodthirsty. The book is good reading.

"This Freedom" by A. S. M. Hut- chinson is just another book on that much-debated question of whether a woman can do her duty as a moth- er and yet hold to her own career in the world outside the home. It is a story worth reading, however, for the unusual force with which it brings home to the reader the author's answer to the question—the same answer, by the way, that most writers use when discussing the same question.

Rosalie is an extraordinary woman. She has an extraordinary ca-rear. Whether it was worth the price she paid is for the reader to de- cide for himself. The love story of Rosalie and Harry is rather sweet with enough imperfection and un- fulfilled dreams in it to make it akin to real life.

The book is a forceful piece of writing but a very unhappy one—a thing to be read for the thoughts it presents rather than for the pleas- ure it brings.

"This Freedom" is successful in holding the reader's attention not because of its style but in spite of it. It is written in a queer jumbled style that becomes sentimental at times and worries the reader by telling him just how he should feel about certain incidents and what he should think about Rosalie, in- stead of letting him come to his own conclusions.

If you want brought home to you with new power the old belief that a woman's place is in the home, then read "This Freedom" but don't ex- pect to be very happy while you do it.

"Moon of Delight" is a modern novel by a Texas writer, Margaret Bell Houston, granddaughter of General Sam Houston. The scene is laid in the old French quarter of New Orleans—a most apt place for drama and romance. The heroine is quite in keeping with the romance of her surroundings for she is known as The Black Opal. As for the story, listen to what Margaret Bell Houston says: "With regard to my work, I would say only that I don't like unhappy endings." That is sufficient promise to a reader tired of unpleasant but powerful stories.

"The Romance and Rise of the American Tropics" by Samuel Crow- ther is called a "history of the re- conquest and rebuilding of an an- cient empire by American finance." Where the Spaniards built their strongholds and their cathedrals long ago in their search for hidden gold, Americans of today are build- ing railroads and planting bananas and sugar and coffee, still seeking gold but getting also the thrill of developing hitherto undeveloped lands. It may be said that the Americans who are doing this work, building this industrial empire, are North Americans. Hence for Yan- kees, this is the story of Yankee money, Yankee energy, Yankee achievement, in the romantic lands that border the Caribbean.

Springtime Parties for Clubs

Pioneer Rainbow and Joi De Vie Groups Honored

Interesting in the social events of the latter part of the week were three lovely parties given for the Rainbow, Pioneer and Joi De Vie clubs.

Mrs. Fred Hull gave a lovely springtime party Thursday afternoon at her home on North Marienfield street honoring members of the Joi De Vie club and guests.

At tea time covers of Madeira were laid and the centerpieces were of sweet peas and snapdragons in vases tied with green and pink tulle. A color scheme of green, pink and yellow prevailed in the party plates.

Mrs. W. B. Royer held high score for club and received a budior pillow of ecru Normandy lace over pink satin; Mrs. R. J. Moore, high guest, was given a plaque of springtime flowers and Mrs. W. O. Pelphrey, cut, was awarded a green fringed towel and pink soap. The packages were attractively wrapped in pink and green paper and tied with ribbons.

Club members attending were Meses. John Dublin, Foy Proctor, J. D. Young, W. O. Pelphrey, R. M. Barron, Charles Klapproth, W. B. Royer and J. R. Martin. Guests were Meses. M. R. Jackson, W. A. Top of the morning. Hope the milk man left the right number of bottles of cream and that milady boiled your coffee the exact number of seconds required to put you in perfect mood. Or possibly you are one of those fellows like A. J. Florey, Clarence Scharbauer, Paul Barrou, M. R. Hill and Fred Wemple; you make your own coffee because you believe no one else can do it as well as yourself.

Take your bath, shave off the beard, put on fresh body linen and pressed suits and tie yourself out for a round with the kids to Sunday school and church. And afterward, lunch, and then a seat at Cowden park to watch the two baseball games of a place on the sidelines of Mr. Godby's tennis court, where the tennis association play two fast matches.

Above all, don't sleep most of the morning, get up sullen and cross, spank the kids and raise your accustomed Sunday morning hostilities.

Midland Hardware came near putting the skid under the news writers Sunday afternoon. The score was 4-2, and it looked like a Hardware win in the latter innings. Overconfidence, quoth Manager Gemmill, news goad handler.

Next week ends the first half of the playground schedule. A week will be declared as respite and then the big berthas will start again. By "big berthas" we refer to such enormities as the second basemen of the newspaper club, the Rev. Edwin C. Calhoun. The rest of the boys are just berthas.

When Stanton batters toe the plate in succession this afternoon, it will be noticed that this year's club is identically that of last year. Or so Hurschel Howard, Southern Ice manager, informs us. Stanton stayed on top of the Tri-County league last year so long everyone got the idea the Martin county team owned the place.

Bushers brings up the keenest rivalry of past season: No two clubs played with such zest of those two. They brought out the attendance. Customers filed in the gate in a steady stream to see whose day it was. The teams never met without a real battle. The question in the minds of most of us: will that same rivalry be expressed this year?

This department noticed something Friday afternoon that may be harder on the Midland football team next year than all the combined clubs that play for our scalp. The Dogs are working out on a field that is so hard and rock studded that backs skate on it and forwards charge two or three steps and then fall. In the dressing room we found rubber cleats, ordered as a possible remedy for the hard ground, chipped off by rocks and discarded. The men ordered the shoes themselves, paying around $10 for them. The rubber cleats cost nearly $2 a set, and they wear out in two or three afternoons, as a general rule.

Men's ankles swell from drumming the hard ground. Stockmen keep their horses off wooden and concrete floors because of injuries that result from use of them; but the coach of the Midland football club has to do the best he can. At the same time, there's a good clear space of deep soil in Lackey field, composed of the end zones and space between the fence and playing field, that could be leveled and used for practice. The boys would improve faster, would suffer fewer injuries and would make the field better for the work on it. But the potential practice ground would have to be worked. Here's the matter in a nut shell: Midland has expended a large sum for constructing Lackey field, but it has not provided a decent practice ground for the football squad. The turf in Lackey field must not be used for practice purposes. No team would think of such a thing. But how can a team win football games without

Incidentally, Head Coach Barry is doing a bit of inventing. He rummaged about and found some wheels of a safe that looked as though it had gone through successive stages of being owned by a fire sale company that went bankrupt and then burned. Odds and ends of lumber, leather straps, rubber cushions, this and that, and the coach has a bucking machine for backs that teaches them how to hit a line without being unhorsed. And, further illustrative of his mechanical knowledge, he has perfected a unique arrangement on skids, with Ford shock absorber springs under shoulder bucking pads, that passes what the Southwest conference calls "Old Betsy."

It is estimated that 25,000,000 persons live in the 133,700 square miles of the Punjab region of India.

TWO OF EACH ARE CARDED; STANTON IS TO BE HERE

Two baseball games and two tennis matches are carded on this afternoon's sports program.

The Southern Ice baseball club meets the Stanton nine at 2:30, and the Oilers and Bushers play thereafter. Both games are at Cowden park.

The doubles teams of Reporter-Telegram, Barrow Furniture, Midland clinic-hospital and Texas Electric play at the West Wall tennis court, beginning at 4 o'clock.

The four teams pair off in the order given.

The southern Ice-Stanton lineup was turned in as follows:

The seeds of the Russian steppe grass are thrust into the ground by the plant itself. The plant forms a coil of fibre and on wet days the fiber twists and works its way into the ground. On hot days the fiber untwists, but remains in a fixed position by means of a barb at the end holding it firmly under the soil.

Set Plants out; Bloom Next Morn

Taylor Long, manager of the Snowwhite creamery, believes he missed his calling when he took up the milk and milk products business.

He believes he should have been a farmer or a horticulturist.

Long, who lives at 1802 West Missouri street, set out strawberry vines one afternoon last week and swears the plants bloomed the following morning.

Cecil Hodges, lineman for the Texas Electric Service company and who lives next door to Long, concurs with Long's version of the swift blossoming.

"I was there when he set them out, and I saw the blooms next morning," he said.

"Those plants must have been bottle fed," Hodges averred.

Broadway America Motorcade Arrives

Broadway of America motorcaders breezed into Midland Friday 10 minutes ahead of time. They rolled into the Hotel Scharbauer garage where they were met by the chamber of commerce committee composed of Jack Hazeltine, Mayor Leon Goodman, Harvey Sloan, A. S. Legg, Judge M. R. Hill and Arthur G. Jury.

The visitors were taken to the mezzanine floor where they were served punch under direction of Jury. After a stay of 25 minutes they left for Big Spring from whence they will continue to Hot Springs for their road convention. Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Haight are Midland's representatives.

Haight wired the chamber of commerce from Abilene Saturday that people along the road were greeting the road boosters enthusiastically. Colorado turned out a big crowd headed by the high school band.

CATALONIA NOW CONSIDERING A SPANISH UNION

MADRID, April 18. (UP).—The province of Catalonia, which declared itself a republic after the king was evicted from the throne by a sweeping republican victory last week, has agreed to leave the question of its return to a politically amalgamated Spain to the constitutional convention to be called here soon.

Colonel Francisco Macia, provisional Catalanian president, agreed last night to delay pressing independence after three ministers of the central provisional government flew to Barcelona to confer with him.

BALBOA Canal Zone, April 18. (UP).—Sandino forces were believed to be concentrating today for an attack on American and foreign plantation workers in the interior of Nicaragua. Fear for their safety was expressed, although the workers were armed for the attack.

Agents of Sandino said today that deaths of Americans were due to failure to pay taxes to the Sandinistas.

The policy at Washington today was that persons who bought Nicaraguan property when they knew it was risky were not entitled to protection and that United States citizens in Nicaragua cannot expect protection when they do not heed warnings.

The horse is bred just as good as any horse in America," as Dr. Bloss says. Sired by Omar Khayyam, one of the greatest three-year-olds that ever ran on the American turf, the horse is the son of a colorful animal that won the Kentucky derby, Brooklyn derby, Kenner stakes, Travers stakes, Saratoga cup, Lawrence realization, Havre handicap, Pimlico Autumn handicap and numerous other races. He was out of a famous imported mare of race stock, La Deliverance. She was a stake winner, as well.

"Doc" tells of an old horse that all Midland knows, George Keith. "Sir" George was shipped to Marfa not many months ago and ran against an army horse that had not been beat on the Marfa track. The Midland horse, taking long strides, "and turning the track in sections," won in a canter. The second day found Foreign Relations, a faster horse, pitted against the Marfa animal, and the big bay had a more difficult time in winning from the Marfa horse than did George R. A. Dhoshe, conductor of the Magnolia band of Beaumont, was sole judge. D. O. Wiley, director of the Simmons university band, was in general charge of the regional meet. Five hundred musicians played during the day.

More interest was expressed in this event than any other high school activity over the week end, despite the fact the district meet was on and Midland students were in San Angelo for it.

The telephones at The Reporter-Telegram rang continually Saturday afternoon and evening as interested persons called to inquire whether reports of judges' decisions had reach this office.

Cooperative Effort Needed in Business

Cooperative effort, such as Midland business men are now exhibiting in the Trades day and Dollar days is praised by Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce for the United States.

Referring to chambers of commerce, Dr. Klein says: "Don't cut loose from associated activities in business. Such short-sighted 'economy' is the sheerest extravagance at this particular stage of business readjustment. There never was a time in the last ten years when cooperation was more invaluable. No one shoves off in a row-boat from a liner in a mid-Atlantic storm to save passage money."

AP Advertiser Trades Events

Dollar days and Trades day at Midland have become so famous that the Associated Press has sent news items about the Midland events throughout the state of Texas.

Following is the Associated Press dispatch as it went to dozens of Texas newspapers:

"An intensive effort in West Texas has been initiated by the Midland chamber of commerce to offset a lack of business. Trades day, dollar days, courtesy schools, a merchandising institute, paid advertising in 14 weekly newspapers, personal calls at 9,930 houses in 14 towns in Texas and New Mexico are some of the features of the campaign. It has brought enormous returns to Midland merchants, they say."

Church Services At Cotton Flat

Church services will be conducted at the Cotton Flat school this afternoon at 3 o'clock by the Rev. Howard Peters, pastor of the First Christian church.

Midland people are invited to attend these services.

Miss E. D. Gore, state library organizer, inspected the Midland county library Saturday. She planned to visit rural stations Saturday afternoon.

"The Midland library is located in the prettiest building in this entire section," Miss Gore said. "The library is a credit to a much larger town."

Trades day, dollar days, courtesy schools, a merchandising institute, paid advertising in 14 weekly newspapers, personal calls at 9,930 houses in 14 towns in Texas and New Mexico are some of the features of the campaign. It has brought enormous returns to Midland merchants, they say."
