QUITE A DRINKER

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—If you need a little coffee drinker in your home, call on Lee King. An out-of-work disabled war veteran, King chanced to happen on a coffee-drinking exhibition being staged by Albert Baker, world champion. King said he would compete for second prize. Baker, the champ, drank 60 cups in 60 minutes. King was runner-up with 42 cups in 48 minutes. He received $10 as his prize.

TWO-HEADED CALF

PALO ALTO, Cal.—A two-headed calf has been born here to "Jessie, a Jersey cow owned by Manual Sequera. The heads branch from the neck at a 30-degree angle. The calf appears normal in every other respect. It has full use of both heads, blinking four eyes, and breathing through two noses.

HARRISON STROKES ODESSA LINKS ONE OVER PAR; BEATS ELLIS

BEST TOURNEY OF YEAR, LOCALS RELATE

The same two figures who duelled in the championship flight over the country club course here July 4 and battled it out at Odessa's invitational golf tourney Sunday, D. K. Harrison of Fort Stockton winning from Ellis Cowden of Midland.

Medal play records show Harrison shot the 18 holes in 73, while Cowden ended up with a 77. Their play was sensational at times, especially when they were neck and neck on strokes, which was often.

The Fort Stockton man evidently found the sand to his liking and had better luck on his putting than when on the deceptive hull greens of the Midland course.

Odessa entertained about 200 visitors beside the 83 golfers who entered from nine towns of the area. A big dam supper was served on the Marcus Gist ranch near Odessa. The tournament was one of the best ever given in this area, local golfers said.

Other results of the tournament: H. S. Forgeron of Midland won the first flight with an 82, M. L. Harris of McCamey coming in second with an 83.

In the second flight, Dr. J. K. Woods of Odessa, with an 85, won first place, and C. G. James of Wink found his 88 good enough to be runner-up.

Two Midland men took first and second places in the third flight, R. H. Morse, with an 86, taking first, and Joe Chambers, with a 93, second.

Red Knight of Midland did not fall to get in the prize money. He received a "booby" prize for his shooting of a singular 122.

Bridge Row--

The governor called the conference before Allred issued the statement.

The highway commission and the bridge company had been at odds on an interpretation of the contract, under which the highway department would pay the bridge company between $80,000 and $150,000. The amount to be paid was the point at issue. Under the contract, the toll bridge company would agree not to bring any litigation to prevent the use of the free span.

T. M. Kennerly, federal judge at Houston, issued an injunction preventing opening of the free bridge until the contract had been fulfilled.

SALT TO BE TAKEN FROM LEASE

Cowdens Lease Cordova Lake Grant to Chicago Man Who Has Invested in Machinery for Making Salt; Much History

ODESSA, July 18.—An industry practiced by pioneers of this section forty years ago and by the Mexicans hundreds of years before is being revived and the old Cordova grant, which was granted to Jaun Cordova by the King of Spain in the days when all this country was included in Bexar county with San Antonio as the county site, is being brought into the limelight since Max Omo of Chicago has leased the 1,189 acre salt lake in Crane county from the Cowdens and started operations. Omo has taken a twenty year lease on the place and says he will install a plant for commercial production of the salt which will employ thirty people.

This is the first attempt in recent years to commercialize the vast salt lakes of West Texas, but in the early days this like and the vast lakes in Pecos and Culberson counties were used extensively, first by the Mexicans and Indians and later by the Americans. The Cordova lake was used by pioneers of this particular region for years. Salt was hauled for the cattle to points as far away as Ozona and San Angelo it is said.

As the waters of the lake recede in dry weather, crusts of the gleaming snow-white crystals from an inch to several feet in thickness are left on the surface. After the rain the salt disappears for a time but soon dries out and reappears in fresh layers. Tons of salt have been taken from the lake in the years that it has been used.

A pioneer who gathered salt there in the early days described the methods used by early ranchmen in taking the crystals off the surface. They took long rakes made of planks and raked the pieces of crust into huge piles, often resembling large snowbanks, then came round with their wagons and hauled it off to their cattle. One old Mexican who worked the place for years sold salt to cattlemen all over this section. If one were careful just after a rain, the rancher said, and took off the clean top coat, he could grind it in a coffee mill and use it on the table. Only a little care was necessary to get the salt free of all impurities.

The value of such a natural salt everybody in all of West Texas. In addition, we would prefer that all assignments to it be cleared through the Stamford headquarters office.

"Our smaller towns having no traffic experts can get some real service out of our traffic board, and the point of this letter is to urge you to see that your town uses the bureau for all it is worth.

"Along the above lines, the freight bureau is at work. Eastland and Munday have been quoted, freight rates resulting in savings. A board has secured advice on removal of one cent differential on wheat. Active participation in the following cases has been launched: for reduction on rates on grain for export; for reduction on canned goods rates from the Pacific coast; for reduction in pipe line rates; against transit privileges on cottonseed and its products, which the bureau believes will eliminate the interior oil mills and increase cost of feed to the stockman."

supply in the early days when the sources of such supplies were far away and when transportation was painfully slow can be imagined. Like the salt lake was said to have been the cause of a bitter struggle, the Buena Vista battle. This battle, according to one historian, was the first that General Taylor won over Santa Ana after sending a large part of his force to join the mouth of the Rio Grande to join General Scott. Only a few Texans, twenty under Major McCulloch and a company of 57 under Captain Connor, participated in the fight. Of the latter group fourteen were killed, two wounded and seven missing. Naturally, to forces fighting over such a country, a natural supply of this type was considered valuable, both for the army and especially for the native ranchmen. Once ox trails were said to have run to this lake from Mexico, and over it ox wagons made many long and laborious journeys for the then precious mineral. The Mexicans naturally fought against being cut off from so valuable a source.

Omo is now selling salt from this snow white lake and soon expects to have men on the road disposing of it. He says it has only slight impurities.

The salt on the lake forms in layers of one inch to several feet thick. Omo estimates there are in the lake now 10,000 tons of the product with the salt being deposited after each rain.

Omo says he has invested $4,000 in his plant now and is getting plenty of orders to fill. His plant is producing six tons of salt an hour.

Happy Birthday!

STRANGE MAIL ROUTE

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Strangest mail route in the country, according to the records of the Post Office department, is a route from the post office at Edwards, Colorado.

W. H. Wellington covers this route three times a day with a "jack" mule and a buckboard. Not only that, but he has done this every day, excepting Sundays and holidays, for the past 36 years.

It is the only route in the country covered by a mule and buckboard.

Dr. Pepper Gains By Advertising

DALLAS.—Increased merchandising effort, coupled with an expanded newspaper advertising campaign, have proved a sufficient antidote to the general business depression during 1930 and the first half of 1931, so far as the Dr. Pepper company is concerned.

In a communication just transmitted to stockholders of the corporation by J. W. Link, president, it is declared that the volume of the company showed an increase of 23 percent during the first 6 months of this year, as compared with the same period of 1930.

"During the month of June, our volume increased 41 per cent over June, 1930," said the statement. The year 1930, incidentally, was the best previous year in the history of the manufacturers of Dr. Pepper. "I think that we are safe in predicting that our increased syrup sales in 1931 over 1930 will be approximately 33.1-3 percent."

Response to the persistent newspaper advertising of the Dr. Pepper company in the new southern territory opened this year, has exceeded the best expectations, according to Mr. Link.

"Such points as St. Louis, Mo., Atlanta, Macon and Augusta, Georgia, Greenville and Columbia, S. C., Charlotte, Winston-Salem, Durham and Asheville, N. C. are doing a big business and our fountain sales are also showing a very handsome increase."
