COTTON ACREAGE BILL KILLED IN CLOSE VOTE OF SOLONS

PROVIDED AGAINST PLANTING

Governor Sterling Warns Against Inactivity

AUSTIN, Aug. 8. (AP)—The oil conservation program of Governor Ross Sterling failed in the legislature tonight. The house was not in session. The senate turned down the governor's proposal. Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman, in a last speech, declared that chaotic conditions of the oil industry would continue under the substitute bill offered by Senator Frank Rawlings of Fort Worth and others. Woodward predicted the house would not accept the substitute bill.

AUSTIN, Aug. 8. (AP)—The Texas legislature today ridded itself of the cotton acreage bill when the senate vote of 14-10 to kill it was polled. Strong argument preceded the vote.

The bill was backed by J. E. McDonald, and would have prevented planting any land in cotton for two years in succession. The bill won the endorsement of the Six-States Cotton conference.

Warning Issued

AUSTIN, Aug. 8. (UP)—Failure of the Texas legislature to pass conservation measures in the present special session may spell ruin to the American oil industry, Governor Ross Sterling told the United Press today. Both houses yesterday defeated bills which would have created a commission regulating drilling and production.

Warning of what he considered might be consequences of the bills' defeat, Sterling said that 90 per cent of the persons engaged in the industry were either bankrupt or will be unless relief is provided. He said if the legislature defeats conservation measures, of which the commission bill was one, no relief will be provided by this session.

"I don't know what will happen to the oil business unless it is worked out by the law providing for the survival of the fittest. Maybe Bill Murray is right."

ARRESTED

Carter Brant, wanted on several charges in West Texas, was arrested last week by Sheriff Bill Fowler of Upton county and Sheriff Bud Blair of Crane.

He was found with a few of the twenty guns which he and an accomplice had stolen from a hardware store in McCamey. They have been selling these guns over the country. He was taken to the Upton county jail for retention.

Marfa Cavalrymen Play Concerts and Dance While Here in Interest of Fort

Parades, band concerts, a baseball game and a dance at hotel Scharbauer Saturday occupied Midland as the Fort D. A. Russell band, orchestra and baseball team visited the city in the interests of stirring up popular interest against the proposed move of the fort from Marfa.

The fort, headquarters for the First Cavalry regiment, and a pack train detachment, is located one mile from Marfa, and is the only outpost that guards 520 miles of Texas-Mexico borderland. It is held by many in high command that the continuance of military patrol there is indispensable, but orders have been issued to break up the fort and scatter the regiment.

It was in the interest of maintaining the fort that Marfa soldiers, under direction of arrangements made by American legion posts, are making the present 12-day tour, which will end next week in an appearance at Pecos.

A parade over principal business streets in the afternoon, led by a civilian, L. H. Tiffin, Midland, formerly stationed at the fort, brought band music to a large Saturday afternoon crowd.

A band concert was played at 7 o'clock at the courthouse. Midland people sat on the lawn, the first time it has been used in 10 months, and listened to the music and to speeches of Mayor Leon Goodman, and Harry Lambert. Goodman thanked the unit for coming to Midland, praised the band, and stated that Midland is in full sympathy with opposition to the decision to move the fort.

Harry Lambert, in charge of an associated group of American legion posts sponsoring the band's tour, made a patriotic speech, and called attention to the need for maintaining the present outpost at Marfa. Petitions were passed American legion members of the crowd, with a view to inspiring action at the five-day state American Legion convention at El Paso, beginning Aug. 22.

A dance was played, beginning at 9 o'clock in the ballroom of the hotel. A good crowd was present. Another free band concert will be played this afternoon, beginning at 6 o'clock, courthouse lawn.

Most of the soldiers will attend the Men's class at Hotel Scharbauer this morning, it was indicated.

Woman's Talk Is Cause of Fine

ODESSA.—Talking when she ought to have been listening—that's what a Wink woman was doing the other day.

She saw a man bringing in a string of catfish and stopped him to ask if he would sell it.

"I can't do that," the man replied. "That would be unlawful."

"Aw, shucks," the lady replied, "the game warden would never catch you. We've got a lot of croppie, buffalo and suckers here in the car that we caught—but we had a hard time doing it. We had to dive into the water and catch them with our hands. We want a catfish."

"Sorry, lady," said the man, showing a game warden's badge. "But I'll have to arrest this party for disobeying the game laws. It's unlawful to catch fish with your hands."

The man was C. H. Jennings of Odessa, the warden for this district. The party paid a total of $32 in fines and cost.

COURTHOUSE STORY

"The Annalist", a trade magazine published in New York has for its lead article in the current issue an illustrated story of Midland county's old and new courthouses. The article praises the commissioners court of the administration that built the beautiful new courthouse. The men mentioned are Judge M. R. Hill and Commissioners Sam Preston, Donald Hutt, Jack Estes, and Holly Roberts.

Where 3 Were Killed in Chicago Eviction Riot

This picture shows a mob gathered on Chicago's South Side after three negroes were shot and killed and several others injured when police squads clashed with communist agitators after a family had been evicted from their home for non-payment of rent. Police were guarding the furniture in the street when a crowd gathered, agitators made speeches and weapons ranging from guns to razors flashed.

SINGERS OF 2 COUNTIES PLAN PROGRAM HERE

Near completion of plans for big attendance at the convention in Midland August 30 of the Midland-Martin County Singing convention was found in the announcement Saturday that 150 new books had been ordered, that the Midland chamber of commerce had procured the First Baptist church auditorium for a meeting place, that the Sunday school of that church would dismiss earlier than usual in order to let the convention start at 10:30, and that noted quartets from Big Spring and from Dallas would be here to supplement the program.

The convention, which is interdenominational and operates at no cost to host cities, is made up of rural communities of Midland and Martin counties, and includes the towns of Midland and Stanton. It will convene here at 10:30 o'clock and last until 4 o'clock, allowing for a short intermission for lunch.

Elmer Hull of Stanton is president; Frank Koehn, vice president; William Arnett, secretary, and John M. King, chaplain.

Leaders and composers well known throughout the state have been invited and several have written they may attend. Midland song leaders and pianists are especially requested to assist in the convention, it was announced.

Assistance in buying new books was given by the Midland chamber of commerce.

Girl Needs Job so Can Attend School

Who in Midland will give a 16-year-old farm girl her board and room in exchange for work, so the girl may attend Midland high school?

A farm girl living a few miles from Midland is willing to do house work for her keep in order that she may attend school here. She cooks, keeps house, attends children, and can furnish character references. Her parents are not financially able to educate her. Anyone willing to give this girl a chance to go to school in exchange for work can get her address by telephoning the chamber of commerce.

Midland Dress Costs 3 Cents

Three cents is all Mrs. S. H. Gwyn, Midland farm woman, paid for her new dress!

And she steps out in society in it, too!

Friday night, Mrs. Gwyn, winner of the Midland county dress making contest, attended a farm club picnic at Cloverdale. She wore a dress that cost her the total sum of three copper cents. The dress was made from white feed sacks, and the three pennies she paid was for thread.

This economical farm woman made this statement in a speech at the picnic:

"I don't want to hear of anybody else kicking about things being higher in Midland than other places. Last week I window-shopped in Houston and visited the biggest dry goods and grocery stores of all kinds in that city. Midland dry goods stores and Midland grocery stores sell things just as cheap as the stores in Houston or anywhere else. The only difference I saw was that cantaloupes and watermelons were a little cheaper in Houston."

CONVICT KILLED, ANOTHER INJURED AS BREAK TRIED

HOUSTON, Aug. 8. (UP)—Robert Mason, serving a 99-year sentence for murder in Coleman county, is dead. B. C. Chevinger is in the Huntsville hospital with wounds, and Richard Palmer is back in his cell today following an unsuccessful break from the Eastham prison farm.

The trio fled from the squad working in the fields, heading for the Trinity river bottoms. A guard, H. D. Walker, killed Mason and wounded Chevinger. Palmer was caught after a chase.

Cotton Estimate Shows More Bales

FOR FIRST TIME, TEXAS HAS MORE PEOPLE THAN CATTLE; VICTORIA LEADS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The day when Texas has "less than a cow per capita" has arrived.

In 1930 for the first time since Texas was a republic there were more people in Texas than there were cattle on its farms and ranches. This is according to figures made public recently by the census bureau.

There were 5,824,715 people in the state in 1930 as compared with 5,567,175 cattle. In the decade between 1920 and 1930 the number of people in the Lone Star state increased by 1,360,487 and the number of cattle decreased by 589,530.

Forty years ago when the "nestors" began to encroach on the great cattle ranges of West Texas and the

SIX TOWNS MAY ENTER FASHIONS

Deciding Meeting Is Held at Chamber Of Commerce

Midland will hold a semi-annual style show this fall. This will be held either the last week in September or the first week in October. Models will be entered from Odessa, and Stanton perhaps Andrews, Rankin and Crane City as well as Midland.

The show will be operated under auspices of the Midland chamber of commerce at no expense to the stores participating. The chamber of commerce will donate the prizes.

Director Chosen

Dry goods, department and ladies ready-to-wear stores represented at a meeting held Friday elected Mrs. Creola R. Vickers to direct the style show. She has directed similar events at Amarillo, Plainview, Wellington, Spur and other places.

Clyde Y. Barron, George Phillipus Tom Patterson and Bill Blair were named a committee to arrange the smaller details; however the managers of all stores will be a committee of the whole to pass on all matters of more than ordinary importance.

Program at Ritz

The director, in conjunction with this committee, is to arrange with Bill Blair, manager of the Ritz, the exact time and place for the style display. There will be no expense to merchants except what they may individually contract in connection with their modelling, and no expense to the chamber of commerce except the prizes, all other expense being handled by the Ritz.

Those at the meeting Friday were Tom Patterson, Everybody Store; J. P. H. McMullan, McMullan & Young; Bill Hoskins, Addison Wadley Co.; George Phillipus, United Dry Goods Co.; Bill Blair, Ritz theatre; C. Y. Barron, Kaydelle shop; Mrs. Norma Youngblood, Everybody's. Phillipus was elected chairman of the meeting. It is believed all stores in Midland selling clothing will participate in the style show, as all are invited.

Semi-Annual Affair

The committee will consider a proposal that all store windows be veiled the afternoon of the style show and all be unveiled simultaneously an hour before the live model parade so that women may see the display of latest styles.

The style show is to be made a semi-annual affair by the chamber of commerce working with the business houses. The holding of spring and fall style shows will be other steps toward keeping Midland in the lead as a district city and toward convincing discerning buyers that Midland carries style and quality merchandise for all of this area of West Texas.

Scouts Not Hot as Meeting Plan Fails

The advantage of scout meetings at Pagoda pool is obvious, but Friday night found such a small number of the boys out that a swim took up the regular Troop 51 meeting period.

It was announced that boys intending to try for places in the water carnival events would have to attend meetings or they will not be allowed to take part.

A business meeting was held while the boys paddled in the cool water. Present were: Alvon Patterson, scoutmaster; Allen Dorsey, Naron Lee, Bill Patrick, Merwin Haag, Barney Grafa, Joe Beane, A. W. Stanley, James Walton, Charles Patterson, Bill Pratt and Albert Riley.

INTEREST OF OKLAHOMA IS NOW IN TEXAS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 8. (AP)—At the close of four days of martial law, Oklahoma oil fields found Governor Murray's shut-down edict in full force tonight, with around 3,000 wells choked down, but the goal of $1 a barrel for oil apparently remote.

Interest had turned towards Austin, where the Texas legislature struggled to regulate the great flush areas of East Texas.

Sanderson Pastor To Preach Today

The Rev. Ira Harrison, graduate of Simmons university at Abilene and the Southwestern Theological seminary at Fort Worth, will occupy the pulpit at the First Baptist church today, delivering sermons at the morning and evening services.

Mr. Harrison, now pastor of the First Baptist church of Sanderson, is known to a large group of Midland people, having preached here several years ago. Following graduation from the university, he was pastor for two years of the Carlsbad Baptist church. While in Simmons he was student pastor of several nearby churches.

Mrs. Harrison, who was unable to accompany her husband, is also a graduate of Simmons and the seminary. They have no children.

Mr. Harrison arrived in Midland Saturday afternoon from the Paisano encampment where he has been for the past week.

He will be a guest today in the home of cousins, Mrs. M. L. Harrison and Mrs. Clyde Barron.

FATHER OF GIRL HELD FOR QUIZZ

Expectant Mother to Have Married Young Man

DALLAS, Aug. 8. (AP)—An enemy who Eugene Edgar Farrar Jr., 21-year-old Dallas grocery clerk feared, yet whose identity he carefully concealed, was sought by police tonight as the youth's probable slayer.

The youth's charred body was found in a flame-swept automobile today a mile east of Dallas only a few hours before his scheduled wedding with Miss Irene Brewster.

DALLAS, Aug. 8. (UP)—The blackened charred body of Eugene Farrar, 20, was found in the wreckage of a burned automobile near here today a few hours before he was to marry Irene Brewster, 17, expectant mother, at Durant, Okla.

The youth had been shot and slugged in the head and left to die in the burning car.

W. P. Brewster, 54, the girl's father, is held for questioning. Police said he confessed the crime when arrested at his home near the death scene but at headquarters denied any connection with the slaying.

Irene told officers that she and Farrar planned to drive to Durant this morning to get married. When Farrar failed to arrive, the girl and her father went to the youth's home where they were told he had not been home last night.

Germany Offers Absorption Plan

BERLIN, Aug. 8. (AP)—The bulk of the American farm board wheat holdings would be used to feed Germany from next spring until harvest time, under a plan presented by Germany to American negotiators today.

Contemplating the purchase of 600,000 tons of wheat, Germany suggested the delivery in 1932 if the necessary terms can be arranged.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

It is hardly surprising that United States Steel cut its dividend. The surprising thing, when you stop to think about it, is that it was still able to pay a dividend that stock-holders in many companies would think exceedingly healthy.

The reduced dividend, we are told, is a reflection on the depression, and proves that it is a bad one. Well, what's new in that? We have known, for a long time, that business was bad; we have known, indeed, that it was very bad. Should we become alarmed simply because U. S. Steel has cut its dividend and (so to speak) made the depression official?

Total U. S. Steel earnings for the quarter ending June 30 were only a little short of $14,000,000. If things were as bad as some calamity howlers try to make us believe, the corporation would have showed a deficit.

WHEN MACHINERY FAILS

The devices of a mechanical age have check-mated some of nature's sternest threats, but mankind occasionally gets a reminder that the forces of nature are not to be trifled with, even in an era of perfected machinery.

The disaster that befell the automobile party in the Mexican desert the other day is a case in point.

Here were seven people, starting out to cross a barren desert in an automobile. The crossing had been made many times before without trouble, and a trip that was an invitation to death a few years ago had become commonplace.

But the auto broke down in the middle of the desert, 250 miles from the nearest habitation. Four of the party died and two went mad.

Machinery had robbed the desert of its terrors; but when the machinery developed a flaw, the desert proved just as hostile and dangerous as ever.

SHORT ROUTE TO EUROPE

The Lindberghs visit to the new Canadian "boom town" of Churchill serves to call attention to the seaport which the Dominion is developing on the supposedly barren and inhospitable shores of Hudson Bay.

A new railway line to Churchill will shortly be giving the Canadian northwest a new and cheaper route to Europe. Grain from the far western ranches will go overseas from Churchill instead of from Montreal, the expense will be lower and Canadian wheat will have a better chance of competing in the world market.

The ordinary map of North America—especially if it is shown on Mercator's projection—makes the Churchill route to Europe look much longer than the other one. A glance at a globe shows the real situation. Besides, on the Churchill route the expensive rail haul is far shorter.

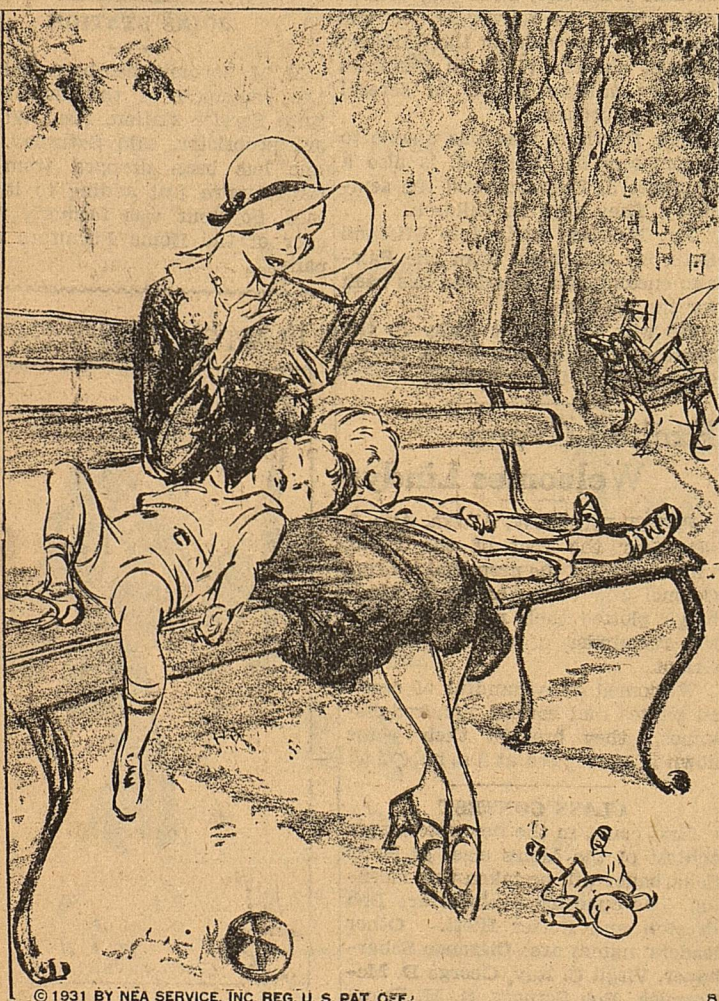

DEPRESSION AIDS CANADA

The hard luck of Europe seems to be the good luck of Canada. American tourist traffic to Europe has fallen off amazingly this summer. There isn't as much money floating around loose this year as there has been in years past, and Europe isn't getting her full quota of tourists.

But Canada is doing better in the tourist trade than ever before. Evidently citizens of the United States who would have gone to Europe if times were better are going to Canada instead; and one can only say that they will get their money's worth, no matter what part of the Dominion they choose to visit.

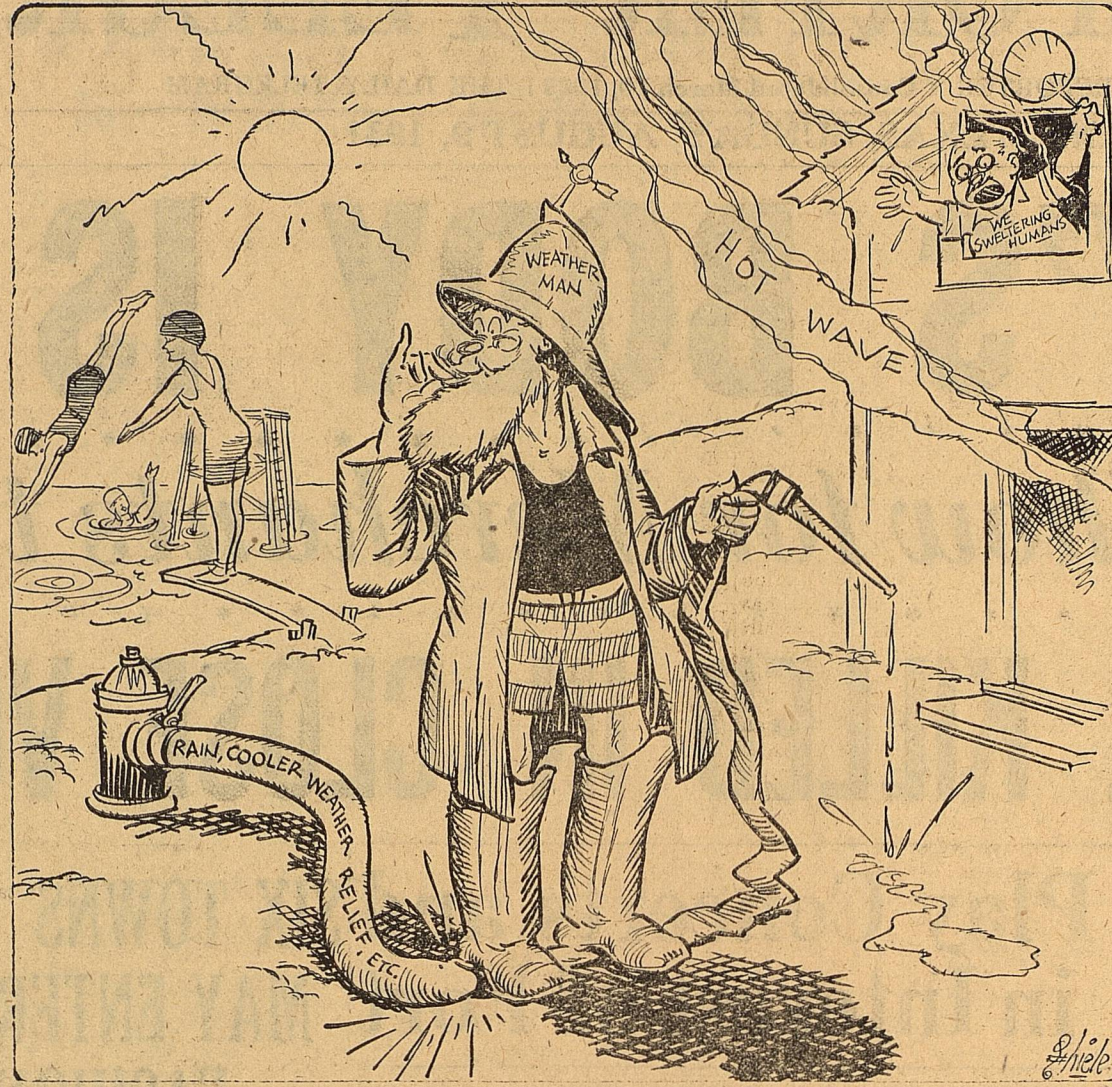

Heavy as Canada's tourist traffic is, however, it is only a starter. Its vacation spots are innumerable. In a few years the rush of tourists in 1931 will look like an insignificant dribble. For the vacation seeker, Canada has "it" in a big way.

We Hope the Fireman Is Keeping His Mind on His Work

In Death Street Kids Do Re-enactment of Slaughter

By PAUL HARRISON NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK.—A tin toy auto guided by a scowling child, and pushed by a second child, slid down a crowded street in the 'Little Sicily' of Manhattan's upper east side. It was a one-way street and the car kept close to the left curb, where a number of children pretended to be oblivious of its approach.

This was only "Little Italy" at play. It was just a game. Only two days before, these same boys and girls had been close to the stark realism of the most ruthless act ever committed in the history of New York's gangland. Five of their playmates in that same over-populated block on East 107th street had been mowed down by the rifles and shot-guns of gunmen who sought the death of an enemy.

They Had Seen So now they were reenacting that tragedy—performing it with a finesse and attention to detail that left little doubt in the mind of any chance onlooker that some of these children actually had watched the killing of one of their fellows and the wounding of four others. Only a few doors, down the street, at No. 210, a cheap little white wreath, wilted in the blazing sun, announced the presence of death. Scarcely a foot from it, flecked into the brick wall of the apartment house, was another grim symbol of the slaughter—a group of seven bullet marks. From within, behind closed shutters, came the wails of a grief-stricken mother, Mrs. John Venkall's 5-year-old Michael there lay dead.

Children—and Death The children of the neighborhood had come there time after time to join the line that constantly filed by the little casket. They were silent but not particularly awed by the presence of death. They were respectful as they listened to Mrs. Vengall pray for her Michael. They crossed themselves dutifully and even added their prayers that another son, Salvatore, might recover from his critical wounds. But this was exciting to them; this was better than the movies. As a matter of fact all the movie men were here—dozens of them with their cameras and microphones. Group after group had posed during the tragic aftermath of the shooting—the weeping, praying mothers, the alert-looking policemen who had rushed in, empty handed, the children themselves, looking sad and distraught.

Significant Difference But they tired of posing by the peck-marked walls of No. 210 of gazing sadly at the blood stained steps of 209, of shaking their heads solemnly at curious detectives and reporters. So they got a miniature tin automobile and, time after time, re-enacted the raid of the terrorists.

Their play, however, ended differently than had the real attack. Each time the "death car" passed, and the screams of the wounded were heard, some of the larger boys always wrought swift vengeance on the cowering "gunmen" by slitting their throats.

There was significance in this act. Questioning of scores of persons milling in the street had brought sullen silence, evasions, lies.

"The police ask questions," says Little Italy, "about the men who shot the little ones. They get no answers. Even if the word were passed to the police and the men arrested, who would go to court to say they were the right men?"

"No, our way is different. The men will play. But not to the police."

Not a Bad Neighborhood The neighborhood is not a squalid one. Four and five story apartments line the street and trim, green window boxes are visible at every tier. It is a middle-class, Sicilian colony that lives there, on the edge of black Harlem. Shop-keepers mostly, truck men, factory workers, a few laborers. With the cleanliness of all Sicilians they almost have a little city of their own. Fraternal club rooms are numerous among the basement places, and here and there a speakeasy, now tight-closed against intrusion of the curious.

Crime and its shooting have touched the neighborhood before; but nothing like this daylight atrocity that has caused reverberations from the state capitol to the White House. The scores of policemen thrown into the district, and most of the Italian-speaking detectives, say that this generally has been a peaceful spot. At least it is a neighborhood where a citizen could feel safe and where he had no thought of danger in allowing his children to play in the street.

Silence But now that death has struck, and two of the four wounded children are in a critical condition in a hospital, Little Sicily is afraid.

Doubly afraid, for it cannot loose its tongue. Housewives and aged cronies, who spend most of their days leaning on cushioned window sills and staring into the street, only shake their heads. "I saw nothing, signor. I was in the kitchen."

Shopkeepers who were about their business only a few yards from the scene of the slaughter all tell the same story. "The bullets came and I ducked. When I went to the street there were only the little ones in their blood."

Old Joe Salcia, the pushcart man, must have been at the corner. "No," he insists, "the cop, he came and run me off in the morning. I not see the black car."

And so it goes. Scores of children, from adolescents to babies, saw the five little victims fall under the leaden hail. Questioned, however, the youngest only stare, big black eyes distended with fright, and answer not a word. The bigger boys, and girls, schooled in the tradition of silence by evasion, will describe volubly how they were playing at the other end of the block.

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

Strategy of 1932 Presidential Campaign Revolves About the Bugaboo of Ridding Country of Depression.

WASHINGTON.—The Democrats say conditions are pretty bad right now and the Republicans say things might be a lot worse. That sums up the 1932 campaign strategy of the politicians to date.

President Hoover gets the blame from the Democrats because things are as bad as they are and high praise from his own party because they are no worse.

The G. O. P. is obviously the party of hope and optimism. The Democrats have hope and optimism, too, but their hope of victory is based on the alleged hopelessness of the economic situation for the next year or so and their optimism is thus based on pessimism. The Republicans, on the other hand, found their 1932 expectations almost entirely on the hope of a pickup in business. If there is no such pickup, according to common theory, the election will cause this city to be so overrun with Democrats in 1933 as to result in a serious shift in the center of population.

Republican optimism is incurable because it is based on the fundamentally sound theory that things get just so bad and then they get worse but that that sort of thing can't go on forever. Lately some Republicans have come to suspect that their best chances will be presented in 1936, by which time the country will have learned that the Democrats can't end a depression, either. But that theory is unorthodox and the official party campaign dogma is a reversion to the slogan of 1864: "Don't swap horses while stuck in the mud."

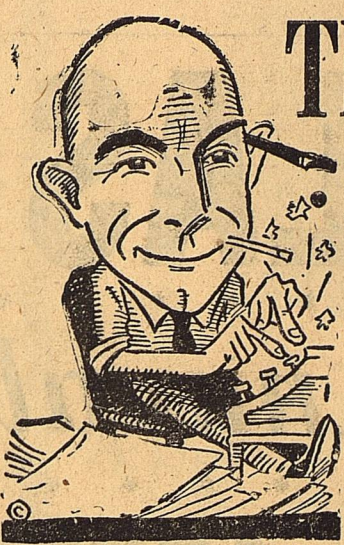

President Hoover and his cabinet members presumably would still be issuing statements to assure the country that the depression was all over if such statements were not invariably followed by crashes in the stock market and the commodity markets. But although gentlemen in high position now realize the discretion of restraint concerning such matters, the official party propaganda, besides pointing out how much more serious conditions would be if they were a great deal worse, continues to be fashioned after the manner of Pollyanna. One of the little inspirational items in the Republican national committee's weekly news letter starts off like this:

"Now that the slump is about over and people are beginning to quit talking about hard times—"

Purely by coincidence, this word came as President Green of the A. F. of L. was predicting that seven instead of six million persons were likely to be unemployed next winter, as President Hoover was holding conferences to discuss the need of unprecedented relief measures and as what was hitting a new low of 48 cents a bushel. It did not, however, coincide with any Democratic statement which might indicate that the situation would be any rosier if the present administration were booted out.

Well, anyway, the national committee was only trying to sell the idea that this is just the right time to buy things cheap so as to be rich later. Frick started his money making career by buying coke ovens in the 1873 slump, one is reminded, and "Carnegie made $300,000,000 by buying steel plants in hard times." Fortunes are made, the committee says, by optimists who buy from pessimists. Obviously this is the time to go out and buy yourself a steel plant or a coke oven, for, as the committee asserts: "In less than five years there will be thousands of America's business men entitled to a membership in the 'I-wish-I-had club.' It is not in good times but in bad times that businesses are bought for 30 cents."

Thus the incurable optimistic Republican organization appears to have achieved the seemingly impossible by demonstrating that the

A little note from some person at the Midland National bank discloses the following:

Some dogs are ignorant and some haven't any sense at all. I went on a chase for a lost German police doggie late Friday. A certain part of the city was combed in an effort to locate the dog, but no puppy was found.

The idea was advanced that it wouldn't hurt to look for the wolf hound in her pen, and there she was.

If I were a dog, I'd have more sense than that if I wanted to run away.

I just can't forget about all those tons of face cream, etc., that are used each year in America.

When I was a wee bit of a lad (oh, a couple of weeks old) I realized the many dangers that confront a child who is all pinned up with safety pins.

I told my mother that I was not going to be added to the list of children who had died from swallowing safety pins, and I added that I did not care to have my picture in the paper as being one who had eaten a safety pin and lived over it.

Both of my parents were dumfounded at my remarks and they were up a stump as to what they should do about it.

I called the family into executive session and acted as temporary chairman.

I immediately divulged the nature of the thoughts that were in my mind by telling the folks I wanted hooks and eyes on my person and for them to leave the safety pins to use in bringing the ends of the cloth on the ironing board together.

I think parents should consider that method and thereby make children's windpipes safe for food and water.

Barbecue and Picnic Attract Four Hundred on Friday

Midkiff Families Are Hosts to Large Party at Hackberry Grove; Families Of Farmers at Park for Annual Picnic

Two large groups of Midland county people participated in outings during Friday which were the most prominent of the summer season.

Approximately 200 neighbors and friends from over the entire county were guests of the T. O. Tyson and Dick Midkiff families at a barbecued dinner and supper at Hackberry grove on the Midkiff ranch 30 miles south of the city.

While in the evening, about 100 farmers and members of the families gathered at Cloverdale city park for the annual county picnic.

Barbecued beef and mutton were the piete de resistance of the menu served at the Midkiff party at long tables under the trees.

Old time dancing to music furnished by the Jones brothers was the feature of the evening.

Delegates Tell of Trip to A. & M.

Descriptions of every part of their trip and thanks to organizations who sent them to the A. & M. short course were given by delegates following the county picnic.

Two principal speeches were given by Mrs. McCann and Mrs. S. H. Gwyn. In her review of the trip, Mrs. Gwyn declared that the local chamber of commerce had done more for its county women than any other chamber she knew of.

Others speaking were Misses Catey, Dawkins and Moore. Following the program, which included a humorous reading by Mrs. Paul T. Vickers and a brief talk by Mr. Vickers who spoke in interest of the Midland business men ex-

Mrs. R. Q. Lee Is Sixth District's Nominee for Federation Presidency; Mrs. Fincher of Houston Opponent

The sixth district of the Texas Federated Women's clubs, of which several Midland clubs are members will nominate Mrs. R. Q. Lee of Cisco, widely known club worker as a new state president at the Lubbock convention this fall.

Mrs. Lee's only opponent will be Mrs. J. W. Fincher of Houston. Two extremely interesting accounts of the two women appeared in a recent issue of the Texas Federation News.

Mrs. R. Q. Lee has been closely identified with local, district and state work in Texas for more than twenty years.

Her girlhood was spent in Tennessee, where she was graduated from the public schools of Memphis and she obtained her college work in Mississippi at Blue Mountain college; thus her early training prepared her for the work she has chosen.

Coming to Texas and locating in the unsettled West thirty years ago, she may truly be called a pioneer. Here the unlimited hospitality which is characteristic of the west, was extended to friend and stranger alike and many Texas girls and boys owe their education and later success in life to the generous assistance of Mrs. Lee and her husband, the late Congressman R. Q. Lee.

One of Mrs. Lee's outstanding efforts has been in behalf of rural development—having aided Mr. Lee in planning and building the Lee Diversified Farm.

Five Children She is the mother of two sons—but when asked how many children she has, she invariably replies, "I have five children—" and indeed she has, having reared three children of Mr. Lee's by a former marriage almost from infancy.

She has held various offices in the local district, and state work of her church, and has taken an active interest in the civic affairs of her city and community since moving to Cisco eighteen years ago.

Fond Dads and Mamas Are Still For Home City

Fond fathers and mothers who like Midland as well as liking their sons and daughters, are advised that they can help their home town by purchasing their children's college clothes in Midland.

Soon Midland boys and girls will be leaving for college. They will have to have new clothes, perhaps. Wouldn't it show a fine spirit of loyalty and helpfulness in these depressed times, as well as show good judgement and economy for these college boys and girls to buy their clothes in their own home town which has done so much for them?

ARMY GOES DOWN BEFORE GIRDLEY'S EASY BREAKING LOB SLANTS

ANOTHER GAME TO BE PLAYED AT BIZZELL'S

The second engagement of the Army baseball club from Fort Russell, Marfa, will begin this afternoon at 2:30, at Bizzell Park, two miles south of Midland.

Southern Ice and Pleasant Valley will play a game following.

By JESS ROGERS

After the All-Stars finally managed to get the Marfa soldiers out in the first inning, they started some run making on their own account and had no trouble in winning the game, 15-8. The soldier boys started out like they were going to scalp the locals in a big way, as they scored two runs and had two men left on base with none out when Skipper Hill pulled himself and turned the chunking duties over to Girdley.

Girdley walked the first man he faced and then Knapp hit one that Doc Ellis lost in the sun and it went for two bases and scored three men on base. After that, Girdley had them eating out of his hand as they only made five hits and three runs off his delivery the rest of the afternoon.

The locals pecked at the offerings of Clifton until they tied up the score in the third, took the lead in the next inning and were never headed.

The only error made by the locals was made by Heath, third base, in the first inning. Moss of the losers made two errors and Henry made one of the losers' muffs.

Hill made all the changes that appear in the lineup in the first inning except the change of catchers which was made in the sixth.

Pipkin was the heaviest hitter for the winners with four hits and a walk; Stevens hit four for five and Estes and Butler hit three for five. Every man on the team got at least one hit.

Pipkin, Ward and Girdley each got a two-base hit while Estes and Stevens each got two two-baggers. For the losers Ager got a triple and Knapp got a double.

Girdley struck out seven, walked five and hit one, while Clifton struck out five, hit none and walked one.

"Dusty" Waller to Referee in Abilene

ABILENE, Aug. 8.—Action entertainment has been added to the program for the druggists who gather in Abilene August 11, 12, 13 for the semi-annual convention of the West Texas Pharmaceutical association.

Local committeemen have announced an attraction for the night of August 11 will be a card of wrestling matches, with headline performers taking part in the main event.

The wrestlers will come here from San Angelo, where Earl Webb has been offering weekly programs. Eliminations will be held there on August 10, and the survivors will be billed here for the following night. Dusty Waller of San Angelo, formerly of Midland, will referee the events.

Amateur boxers will be entered for bouts as preliminaries to the wrestling match, it was announced.

PETROLEUM GIRLS, BEHIND A GOOD BRAND OF PITCHING AND HITTING, WIN GAME FROM BUSINESS GIRLS

The women's league took on added excitement Friday afternoon when the Petroleum girls outthrew their rivals, the Business girls, and won their first game of the half, 15-11.

The clubs were tied several times and, until the last inning, anyone could have won. First one club then the other was in the lead. Until the last inning batting rally, it seemed the Business girls had the game sewed up, as the Petroleum girls made a number of errors throwing the ball around the lot when there was no chance of catching runners.

Hard hitting in the last inning did the work, however, five runs going to the credit of the Petroleum girls.

The league over the week past saw an interesting shift of principals into first place. First the Betty Co-Eds were on top, then a triple tie of the Betty Co-Eds, Business Girls and Stanton for first place resulted, Stanton eventually taking the top rung and the Co-Eds falling to third place.

Stanton's play easily provided the main feature of the week, and topped its own performances with a 13-5 win over the Betty Co-Eds Thursday in Stanton.

The Petroleum girls looked better Friday than they have all season. Daisy Lindsey's pitching was fast and well controlled. Mrs. Irene Hemphill was in utility field and bolstered an outfield defense that has not been particularly strong.

Mrs. Hearst hit a home run for the Business girls, besides playing an excellent game at first base.

SCRUGGS INCREASES LEAD IN LEAGUE OVER WEEK PAST; HARDWARE MENACE TO PERFECT BUICK WINNING STREAK

The City Nocturne league showed little change in the percentage columns last week, Scruggs Buick continuing to set an unmatched pace and stretching its lead through no defeats. The club has taken five in a row this half.

Midland Hardware company, challenging club, might have kept in the perfect percentage had it not played Reporter-Telegram with three good players out of the lineup. The newspaper club lost its chances to prove a serious competitor when it lost a 6-5 game Thursday to the Bell Telephone company.

Texas Electric continues to have plenty of trouble. It has the rare distinction of having won every game in the first half, and of losing every one so far in the second half.

Buick beat Ford Friday night, 16-3; but the laundry had a tough time of it stowing away the Rexall stores, 9-8.

SPORTS REPORTS

By R. C. HANKINS

While the women of the Bi-City league discuss frozen desserts, their more timid husbands in the City Nocturne whisper about how bad a time it is to get heated up over frozen assets. One more discerning man reads a paper over there in the car, perspiring freely and looking over the paper. "It says here that Mahatma Gandhi's ten rules of life is that it is man's primary duty to serve his neighbor. If the home brew in India is as bad as it is in this country, heaven protect those who believe in 'Gandhi!'"

A short stop misses a ball, reminding one of the grasshoppers in Nebraska and North Dakota making hey-hey while the sun shines.

Just to show he has read the papers too, Doc Ratliff pops off about action in Tennessee against Clarence Darrow's film may be taken to mean the state wants no more monkey business.

After watching the Petroleum-Business girls game of the women Friday, depression or no, figures, we are reminded, certainly are improving with the return to curves.

Our society editor will be giving you a story of a marriage within a few weeks. The principals play in the two leagues here, and the man does a bit of golfing. Just a tip, we cannot afford to say more about it. Oh, yes! We can tell you what made us think of the story. The boy went around to the girl's house and asked her father for her hand. The old man was sarcastic. "My daughter cannot afford to be tied down to an idiot all her life," he fumed.

"Just so," the bland suitor came back, "Why not let me take her off your hands."

We've figured out why one of the girls who swims at Pagoda doesn't wear beach shoes to the edge of the pool. She could get there faster if she did.

A young fellow who has been umpiring a bit in the City Nocturne was drinking a Coca-Cola and telling an interesting yarn about some of the beauties on the sidelines telling him he could date them up for several long drives if he would discriminate a bit in his decisions. "Can you picture me lying there and hearing all those promises and still keeping still?" "It isn't necessary to picture it; I'm looking at you," the drug store proprietor is said to have answered.

We've been looking over some of the output of our literary friend, Henderson Shuffler, of the Odessa News-Times and find where he caught a farmer in a grave error. Said farmer ran an ad saying mules and cattle of neighbors were bothering his farm. "If they don't keep their animals up, male or female, I'm going to cut their tails off," he said. Just a slight mistake in pronouns, we take it.

Down in the heap, we come across James E. Kelly's Stanton weekly. He's putting an individual touch in every column these days. Like The Reporter-Telegram, he's having the devil's own time finding much local news, but the playground ball league is helping him. On his front page last week we find four sports stories, all of them calculated to arouse much appreciation in Stanton. For instance, there's the story on the Stanton Starettes beating the Petroleum Girls, 12-11. Edgar Poe shooting the first par on the Stanton golf course, a matched game with the Bizzell nine at Elmer's park at Midland this afternoon, and the first story he has had to run on Stanton golfers losing a match this season—the first so far as we know. Those boys shoot for distance and direction, with an accuracy that no doubt grew out of the tradition of the old West for such shooting.

Poe's accomplishment was made July 30. Every hole was parred except two, on one of which he was one over, the other being put down as a birdie. Wonder if he will be on hand when our 16 men brave and true saunter over this afternoon for a tournament with Stanton?

Relative to the tournament, Oscar Seymour and Harry Tolbert have selected the men Stanton would be most likely to know. Play begins at 1:30, as pointed out before. Midland has lost two tournaments this year to Stanton and will try to take the Buffs for a fall. Eg. Spring is the only club, so far as we know, to turn the trick, outscoring our neighboring city's mashie welders 46-42 last Sunday.

"Snooter Nose," nom de plume of the Stanton editor, returns from a filibustering trip into the west, a trip through the mountains, a census taking of cattle and bootleggers along the road, and what have you, picks up one of our stories with a courteous apology that since we are "infallible" and his press hour was close at hand he would run it "as it was." We suspect the press hour was closer at hand than the apology indicated, but we must express appreciation for the kindness in the remarks. Possibly our one friendly enemy in Stanton, the young woman who thought we weren't fair in some of our stories, may see that and back water a bit.

Music that has charms to soothe the savage breast has the power also to aid digestion, lower or raise blood pressure, shrink the spleen, help cure nervous diseases and to stimulate phlegmatic people, according to Dr. Charles Mayo, world-famous surgeon.

The saxophone was invented in 1842 by Adolphe Sax.

BIGGEST WRIST WATCH

LONDON.—The biggest wrist watch in the world has just been completed by a Chaux-de-Fonds watch firm. The watch, 120 times larger than an ordinary one, weighs 13 pounds. Rubies making up the jewels for the movement of the watch cost $250 alone.

FOR HIS ART'S SAKE

LONDON.—News has reached here of the death of Senor Santiago Rusinol, the famous Catalan author and artist. The odd thing about Senor Rusinol's death is that he requested his wife to bring his canvas and brushes to the side of his deathbed so that he might finish a painting he started before he took ill. He was 70.

Juvenile offenders against the law are steadily decreasing in number. Experts say that many of the "crimes" of stealing sweets from shops are due to youngsters not receiving sufficient sugar at home.

SHIP IMPALES WHALE

PLYMOUTH, Eng.—The Red Star liner Westernland steamed into harbor here recently with a huge whale impaled on her bow a few feet below water-line. The ship had passed a school of whales out at sea and had run into one of them as it dived under the ship's keel. Those on board felt no shock and the whale was not discovered until the ship was nearly in port.

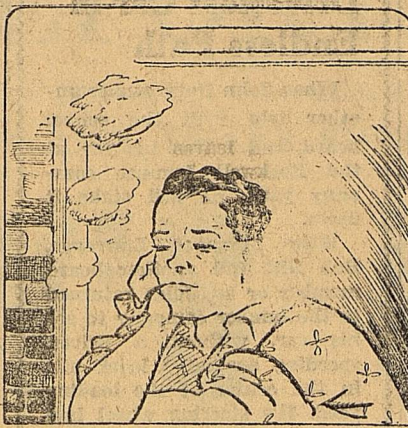

LAST OF HIS RACE, TAMI WELLINGTON, N. Z.—New Zealand is to some day see the vanishing of a once mighty race—the Morioris. About 750 years ago the race occupied a large part of the island. In 1836 there were only 2,000 of the natives left. In 1856 there were only 212 Morioris in the world. Today there is one.

He is Tami Solomon, the one representative of the Moriori people, who lives alone on one of the Chatham Islands. He is a jolly fellow despite the fact that he knows that when he dies he will erase forever the race which once roamed New Zealand.

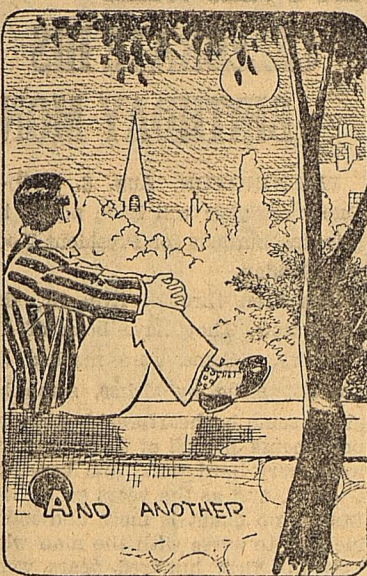

He is married to a Maori and owns a well-stocked farm. He has a number of children, but, being half-castes, they cannot carry on the traditions of his race.

SINCERITY OF SOVIET POLICY IS DOUBTFUL

PARIS, Aug. 8. (UP).—As a result of the changed policy of the Soviet government, as manifest in Stalin's speech, Russian Socialists emigres in Europe expect an invitation to return to their homeland after 14 years of exile.

M. Alexander Kerensky, provisional president of Russia after the first revolution, doubts the sincerity of reports from Moscow suggesting the invitation is impending, but says that if the Soviet government does act the emigres will insist upon a changed policy in Russia.

Included among the emigres are thousands of trained engineers, doctors, educators, mechanics, skilled workers and farmers. They have found work elsewhere and most of them have improved their knowledge of their trade or profession by contact with the outside world.

Long Time
"I am convinced that it will be a long time before the frontiers of Russia will be opened to our exiles," M. Kerensky said.

"Our return would certainly be conditional upon the restoration of humane treatment. Political prisoners would have to be released and brought back from Siberia. The repression of peasantry would have to cease. We would insist upon the freedom of the press, freedom of religion, reopening of the churches and liberty of speech."

"It is doubtful, however, if the present government would grant us those conditions and guarantees, for that would mean the end of the Soviet regime. I am convinced that Stalin's speech was not so much to make a change in Soviet policy as to facilitate the obtaining of foreign credits."

M. O. Minor, chief of the Russian Socialist party, now exiled in Paris, doubts whether many Russian exiles would care to return to Russia. Most of them have bettered themselves and would be wary of Soviet promises.

Jails Filled
"All the Russian jails and the prison camps of Siberia and Solovky Island are filled with our comrades," he said. "If the Soviet factories need workers they should first liberate the political prisoners, among whom are many excellent technicians, professional men and men capable to direct the factories being built under the Five-year Plan."

The aged chief of the group of

Editors Will Be Feted by Lubbock

Hickman Price, the world's largest wheat grower, advocate of large scale farming in West Texas, will speak on the agricultural trend in this country.

Other talks and discussions will be made and led by E. B. Miller, Plainview; Ralph Shuffler, Odessa; Marvin B. Smith, Farmersville; Joe Kempton, Jr., Dallas, and others.

SUFFERS FROM INJURIES

Mrs. Vincent Hughes, formerly connected with the Llano Beauty shop, is confined to her home because of knee injuries received in a car accident several months ago.

Mrs. Hughes is opening a home beauty shop at her residence, 407 North Colorado.

Russian Social-Democrats, M. A. Potresoff, a friend of Lenin in his youth, often imprisoned by the Czars, doubts whether Communism has really changed.

"I will never believe in the evolution of communism, nor in a co-operation of Bolsheviks and their political victims," M. Potresoff said.

"The Socialist emigres will return only upon condition that the dictators be suppressed. That would mean the suicide of communism. Otherwise, I doubt if one man would return to Russia, fearing a pretext to massacre us there."

Odessa Boy Ranks High in the Navy

ODESSA.—A letter from C. S. Keller, commander of the U. S. Naval Training station, an Diego, Cal., to the News-Times carries some interesting information on the progress of an Odessa boy, Herschel E. Webb, who enlisted in the navy at San Diego, June 16 of this year.

"It gives me great pleasure to inform you that Herschel E. Webb, whose father, Mr. L. H. Webb, resides in Odessa, Texas, has been selected weekly honor man of his company at this station."

"This means that this man stood out in a group of approximately one hundred men in his company. Honor men are selected because of their neat personal appearance, initiative, and their ability to profit from instruction received during their recruit training."

HOOVER WILL CELEBRATE HIS BIRTHDAY MON.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. (UP).—One more year will have added its grinding burdens for President Hoover Monday.

He's been through five of the years now. They have been of all varieties. Some were marked by poverty, some by riches, some by glory, some by heartbreaking disappointments, but all of them by hard work, very hard work, and very little play. And as the years go by Mr. Hoover no doubt is more and more inclined to agree with the man who said the first hundred years were the hardest.

Mr. Hoover is observing his 57th birthday Monday. He does not make much fuss about his birthday. Last year Mrs. Hoover supervised the baking of a cake for him. There was a little modest fun in the presidential circle which was spending the week-end at Rapidan camp. The last year has thrown heavier responsibilities upon the President.

Hard Worker
Washington cannot remember a President who has worked so hard in peace time as Mr. Hoover.

He has taken no vacation this year except his ten-day cruise to Porto Rico last spring. He took no summer vacation last year. Only his brief week-end trips to Rapidan camp have served to take him away from the problems on his desk. Even there he is frequently interrupted. During the debt moratorium negotiations even at camp he was constantly using the telephone and once had to cut short his stay to get back to Washington.

While his anxieties have been heavy Hoover has stood up physically under them to the satisfaction of his physician, Captain Joel T. Boone, U. S. N. Mr. Hoover continues his medicine ball—it is actually a form of volley ball played with a heavy ball—every morning. That is an achievement in Washington's almost tropical weather. His hair is graying rapidly and it is thinning. But he is holding his weight down and his disposition holds up heroically considering what it has to contend with.

with more than 40,000 cattle, and just one of these, Roberts, is in the Panhandle.

Brewster Second
Of the eight leading cattle counties, those with more than 50,000 head, three are west of the Pecos. Brewster, Jeff Davis and Pecos. The great cattle raising section of Texas in the cattle heyday was in the tick free area "west of Fort Worth." Of the twenty counties with more than 40,000 cattle each in addition to Brewster, Jeff Davis and Pecos, west of the Pecos just three more are in the great area west of Fort Worth. These counties are Roberts, Clay and Palo Pinto.

In the transaction that has taken place since the cattle barons reigned supreme the "range" in the Lone Star state has switched to South Texas. The county with the greatest cattle population is Victoria, with 81,546 head. It is followed by Brewster, west of the Pecos, with 80,428. Kenedy, which was created out of Willacy county since 1920, is third with 72,800.

Harris county, which contains the city of Houston, and has the largest population of any county in the state, was fourth in number of cattle with 63,013.

The other leading Texas counties in cattle and the number of cattle per county, were:

Brazoria 59,317; Lavaca 62,530; Pecos 51,096; DeWitt 48,859; Menard 56,572; Tarrant 46,410; Webb 44,002; Colorado 43,977; Clay 43,706; Roberts 42,737; Bexar 40,452; Palo Pinto 40,334; Wharton 40,304.

Amused at Anecdotes
Recently Mr. Hoover became annoyed at publication of numerous small items about his personal activities. They were mostly little human anecdotes. One most objected to was to the effect that, worn out by his debt moratorium negotiations he attempted an afternoon nap and was interrupted by a carpenter hammering outside. A servant was dispatched to declare a moratorium on noise. There was a simile in the incident which showed that the greatest are subject to the same annoyance as humbler folk. But Mr. Hoover regarded this as an intrusion on his private affairs.

As to public affairs, he displays an inclination to take the public more into his confidence. Seldom have negotiations been conducted so openly as were those attending the moratorium proposal. This was one of the big events of Mr. Hoover's administration and the widespread acclaim he received from leaders in both parties brought about for the time being a cessation in the democratic attack which had been carried on without interruption almost from the day he took office.

This year is regarded by many as the most critical of the President's term. It tends to set the issues for the 1932 presidential campaign. Republican leaders are practically unanimous in predicting Mr. Hoover's renomination next year. They are preparing for a hard campaign and are hopeful that business will pick up to the administration's aid before his 58th birthday arrives when he probably will be in the midst of his campaign for reelection.

Pecos Boy Saves Life of Friend

PECOS.—Save out a Carnegie medal for Charles Williams 8-year-old son of Rev. C. C. Williams of Pecos... and also save out some sort of award for presence of mind.

Recently young Williams and Junior Elam, about 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Elam were playing in the front yard of the Elam home. An extension light had been run into the front yard the night before and the Elam boy picked up the light and started to carry it in.

A wire was exposed. The current flashed into the boy as his hand touched the wire, and the child fell in a faint. Young Williams ran to him and sensed the shock.

Then instead of trying to pull the boy loose as many would have done, he ran into the house and turned off the current.

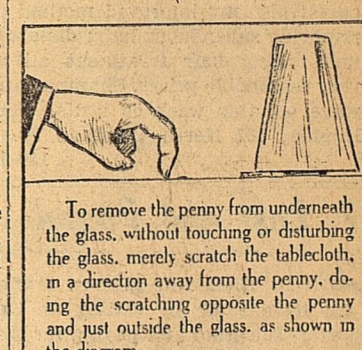

That, in all probability, saved the Elam child from electrocution, physicians say. A few more seconds of the current would probably have cost his life.

Junior Elam escaped with only a few burns.
