Who's Who in Epic Picture "The Painted Desert"? Good Cast Works With Cast of Well Known Actors; Scenery Is Beautiful

Bill Boyd, one of the most popular of screen stars, has an admirable role in "The Painted Desert." He returns to the type of character in which he scored such an outstanding hit in "The Last Frontier," a two-listed, indomitable, courageous young man of the West who faces danger with a smile and romance with tender simplicity. For the first time in his career Boyd is presented as just plain "Bill." It suits his personality better than William and, anyway, nobody ever calls him anything but Bill. He's just that type.

Helen Twelvetrees, who is Boyd's leading woman in the picture and the only woman in the cast, comes to this role almost directly from her great success in "Her Man." As Mary Ellen, desert daughter of a hardy pioneer, Miss Twelvetrees has a role that is entirely different from anything she has yet portrayed on the screen. She was the mouselike little waif in "The Grand Parade," the defiant, uncultural Frankie in "Her Man" and in "The Painted Desert" she is a real girl of the west, who rides and shoots with the ability of a man, yet loves with all the unrestraint of a real woman. It will be another historic feather in the bonnet of this talented and beautiful actress.

William Farnum, for years one of the outstanding stars of the stage and screen and who was probably the foremost portrayer of western roles in motion pictures, returns to the latter type of characterization in "The Painted Desert" as the foster father of Bill Boyd. Farnum has the reputation of never having given a bad performance and thousands of his former fans will be delighted to see him in this colorful character of the outdoors that he knows so well. With the added advantages of dialogue Farnum is doubly effective.

J. Farrell Macdonald, whose characterizations in "The Iron Horse," "Three Bad Men" and dozens of others of the greatest screen successes in recent years stamped him as an outstanding figure on the screen, plays Jeff Cameron, father of Helen Twelvetrees and sworn enemy of Farnum.

Macdonald is never so much at home on the screen as he is in western types, since he achieved his biggest success in these characters. Farrell is another actor whose work has been enhanced by sound.

Clark Gable, playing Rance Brett, the heavy, in this production, comes to the screen directly from his biggest stage success in "The Last Mile." As Killer Mears in that production he created a sensation and the indications are that his screen debut will stamp him as one of the best character villains in motion pictures.

Charles Sellon, well known character actor, plays Tonopah, eccentric old prospector, and gives one of his finest portrayals in a humorous role. Sellon long has been one of the most important character men on the screen. His work has varied from comedy to heavy roles and he has always made his presence felt in any cast. Two of his most recent appearances in Pathe productions have been in "Big News" and "Big Money."

Will Walling, for year a prominent figure in Western productions, is cast as Holbrook's foreman. Years on the stage have made Walling more valuable in talking pictures.

Edmund Breese, an old Broadway favorite, has the role of Judge Mathews and Al St. John, the comedian, is seen as Buck. Other names, all important in the picture world, which are found in the extensive cast are Guy Edwards, Hearn, Wade Boteler, Guy Clegg, James Donlan, Richard Crane, George Burton, Jerry Drew, James Mason, Brady Kline, Otto Fries, Dan Crimmins and Edward Dearing.

NAIL SACKERS SPRING SURPRISE ON SUD BUSTERS, WINNING 11-2

NEWS HOUNDS PLAY SHOCK TROOPS THIS P. M.

The Nail Sackers of the Midland Hardware & Furniture Co., smarting from a 32-7 defeat Monday at the hands of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, went out the next afternoon, got a good workout and, yesterday, cleaned the hard hitting Sud Busters of the De Luxe laundry, 11-2.

The laundry, one of the strongest teams in the playground league last half, was completely baffled by the hard hitting Nail Sackers except for a brief period.

The Reporter-Telegram News Hounds play the Texas Electric Service company Shock Troops this afternoon at 6:30, high school diamond.

The new diamond on South side will be ready for use Monday, "Scotty" Gemmill announced. The backstop will be up Saturday.

SPORTS REPORTS

Just as we were afraid! Fellows about town who own businesses wanted in the night playground ball league. The only thing wrong with them was their failure to know they wanted in. But, now that Rexall stores have taken the last berth, here comes a bunch of fellows to "Scotty" Gemmill, wanting in. One even offered to take any place that might be given up by another club, and said he would take at an instant's notice. Bob Scruggs and Homer Epley are other new clubs in the league which starts at the conclusion of the last half of the present daylight league.

We have heard fellows talking on the streets about the playground sport, describing it as a pink panzee sort of game. With due respect to pink panzees, we suspect that fellows who make that sort of remark are trying to save their faces; they can't play baseball, but assume to be too hot for playground ball. They haven't had the chance to watch Clarence Kraft, former leader of the Texas league in homers, and his boys play each year.

Now that a diamond is to be lighted everyone wants to play. And the crowds will be out in greater numbers. Playground ball, like tennis and basketball, will gradually make Midland get together and build diamonds, equip a playground and construct tennis courts. No use betributors were out on the new ground yesterday, a bat in one hand and a hoe in the other. Long, tall boys that look like they mean business in the night league which will start in June.

ing behind the times like this town is in sports at the present.

Went by the golf course for a breath of sand this morning and found P. F. Brown and A. S. Donnelly of the Honolulu Oil company out there in the blow. They were driving down beside the fence on No. 3 as though they hadn't heard of a stiff wind and murky sandstorm blowing. That's how seriously some can take their game.

With the Chicago Cubs getting strong pitching and hitting at a steady clip, Manager Rogers Hornsby, it is reported, has but one worry. And that worry is the worful slowness afoot of his men. The Cubs, according to western experts who have seen the team in action, are the slowest outfit ever to nurture championship aspirations.

The Cubs, as you well know, have been doing quite alright despite this lack of speed, winning more than their share of games and staying well up among the leaders. But had they had a little more speed it seems entirely probable that they would be well in advance of the Naional parade. In the first ten games of the season the Cubs were victims of no less than 20 double plays, an amazing number. Most of these two-ply killings, the experts agree, should never have come off, being nothing less than gifts from the slow-footed Cub runners.

Grimm and Bell are the leading double-play victims, with "Old Hoss" Stephenson a close third. Hornsby who is never satisfied with anything but baseball perfection, is said to be highly annoyed with the manner in which his men fail to beat the throw to first on balls that ordinarily would go for base hits.

It will be interesting to watch the Cubs when they run against the smooth-working New York Giants infield of Vergez, Jackson, Critz and Terry. Jackson and Critz are wizards at the double killing, even when working against fast men. They should be even more effective when dealing with the lumbering, cumbersome Chicagoans.

Babe Ruth, in a chat a few days ago, pooch-pooched the suggestions that some batters were able to tell with a great deal of accuracy where they were going to hit the ball.

"That's a lot of hooey, nine times out of ten," Ruth said, "All of us just stand up there and swing, letting the ball fall where it may. Of course, there is such a thing as try-

No Lazy Molecules in HUMBLE 997 OIL
 —they're "friction-fighters" all!

Oil men call it a "cut" . . . But call it what you will, these active, friction-fighting molecules are the only part of the crude we use to make 997.

Science knows that all matter is made up of little invisible bodies called molecules. They're in continuous motion—some fast, some not so fast, and some slow. In petroleum crude, it's the middle ones that are born friction-fighters. They're the only kind we use in 997. Then we take these raw recruits and refine them, drill them, realign them. Result:—A new high in boiling points—997° Fahrenheit. This guarantees a protection heretofore unattainable against heat and loss and insures low oil consumption. True to their name, 997's friction-fighters stick to their job, even when there's more heat than you'll ever have in your crankcase.
 That's why 997 will show such low consumption. That's why it's so stable a lubricant at all motor temperatures. That's why, all over Texas, motorists are switching to 997.

Above all else, you want one thing in a motor oil

GOLE as the STARS play it

Should one take turf when making an iron shot or pick the ball clean?

THE high money winner for the past two seasons, Gene Sarazen, gouges out huge slices of turf with many of his iron shots. All players take turf, the amount depends on the kind of shot to be made. Denny Shute, Los Angeles and Texas Open champion in 1930, claims it is impossible to make a decent iron shot without taking some turf.

One should attempt to hit the turf exactly at the point where the ball rests on the ground, sending the clubhead about a quarter of an inch into the turf, and following through along the line of flight.

There must have been eight pigs. Eight posts arranged in a square would contain the same area as 10 posts arranged in an oblong, as shown above. Thus two posts are saved and there is a post for each of the eight pigs.

"When skies are gray--"

DOES your salt sulk on rainy days, and refuse to come out of the saltcellar? Then you should change to Morton's Iodized Salt, which pours as freely when skies are gray as it does when they are blue. Still another reason for switching to it is that it prevents simple goiter . . . a cause of loss of appetite, lack of vigor and mental backwardness among children.
