FLYING INSTRUCTOR AND STUDENT KILLED WHEN SHIP FALLS

GAS TANK FOULS THE CONTROLS

Instructor Is Brother Of Flyer Known In Midland

SHERMAN, May 9. (UP).—Paul Woodall, Dallas, and Joseph E. Garrett, Corpus Christi, were killed this afternoon when a gas tank in the center wing of their Fairchild biplane dropped out and threw the ship into a tailspin. The plane fell 500 feet at the edge of the airport here.

Paul Woodall was a brother of Howard Woodall, who flies through Midland with the American Airways, Inc.

Had Been Stunting SHERMAN, May 9. (UP).—Tearing away of the gasoline tank, which jammed the tail controls, was blamed for the plane crash of Woodall, 24, Dallas flying instructor, and Joe Garrett Jr., Corpus Christi, a senior student at Southern Methodist university.

Woodall had been stunting at the air circus program here and the tank broke loose after a single roll of the plane, and crashed in a spinning nose dive.

Both men died within a short time, never regaining consciousness.

Observers said if the tank had dropped clear of the plane Woodall could have landed safely; even so, he landed the plane right side up, but it was smashed.

Garrett was a son of J. E. Garrett, Corpus Christi banker and author.

SCHOOL CLOSING EXERCISES FOR NEXT FEW DAYS

Closing day exercises at the high school will result in five programs this week and next.

On Monday evening will be the program of the North ward school, with a May fete and folk dances beginning at 7:30; and an operetta, "Land of Dreams Come True," at 8 o'clock.

Thursday night is set apart for the John M. Cowden junior high school, with an operetta, "The Saucy Hollandaise," beginning at 8 o'clock.

The senior high school commencement sermon will be preached at 11 o'clock on next Sunday morning, Hon. Fritz G. Lanham, United States congressman, speaking on "The Aristocracy of Service."

Class day exercises at the high school will be held Tuesday, May 19.

Graduating exercises, together with the literary address by Hon. Tom Connally, United States senator, will be on Thursday night, May 21.

Baylor President's Condition Is Worse

WACO, May 9. (UP).—The condition of President S. P. Brooks, dying head of Baylor university, took a turn for the worse today.

It is feared that the task of signing the remaining diplomas for the students will never be finished.

BOARD OF REVIEW

The Boy Scouts of America board of review will be held Monday night, Alvon Patterson, Midland scout, will receive an eagle scout badge from Mayor Leon Goodman, who will make a speech of presentation.

A great attendance of scouts is expected.

Go to Church With Mother

Today is Mother's day. Men who have not gone to church in years will attend religious services today.

If they are fortunate, Mother will be with them. If they are not, they will feel deeply that loneliness that never leaves one when she is gone.

Midland churches today are holding special Mother's day services.

Do you think it fair to Mother if you do not attend?

MRS. HERMAN SPAULDING IS CRITICALLY ILL

Mrs. Herman Spaulding, daughter of Mrs. J. H. Barron of this city, is in a critical condition in a Lubbock hospital and a baby daughter born to Mrs. Spaulding was to have been buried here this morning at 8 o'clock, the child having died soon after birth.

The body of the infant was brought to Midland for burial by T. Paul Barron and Leon Havis who expected to return to Lubbock early today. The Rev. George F. Brown was to officiate in the simple funeral rites, only a few relatives and friends being present.

T. Paul and Elliott H. Barron left with their families early Saturday morning for Lubbock upon word of the serious illness of their sister, who before her marriage was Miss Mary Barron.

Reports late Saturday night were to the effect that Mrs. Spaulding's condition was still perilous.

Six Killed When Train Is Wrecked

DIGHTON, Kan., May 9. (UP).—Five white men and a negro were instantly killed today when a Missouri Pacific freight which they were riding was wrecked 17 miles west of here.

The bearings of one of the cars burned out and it nosed dived into the right of way. Sixteen cars telescoped through it.

Only two of the men have been identified.

"Chunky" Cowden to Brew for Aviators

When more than 80 officers and enlisted men land at Sloan field Tuesday morning, they will be given coffee from the huge pot of "Chunky" Cowden, who has been appointed by K. E. Ambrose, chairman of the aeronautics committee of the chamber of commerce to act in that office.

The committee decided that "when better coffee is cooked, 'Chunky' cooks it."

BORN IN DRUG STORE

A street tabby celebrated National Health week Friday night by crawling into the Midland Drug store to give birth to her litter of kittens.

Proprietor Louie Arrington found the cat in his prescription room, bedded down in a partially emptied carton of drugs.

More than a hundred persons visited the prescription department to see the family.

Star's Petition Asking Receivership 'Publicity'

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 9. (UP).—A petition asking receivership for C. C. Julian Oil and Royalty company and subsidiary companies was filed in district court here today by A. M. Beets, attorney for Marjorie Bennett of Hollywood, Calif., and her sister Constance Bennett, a motion picture actress.

PUBLIC HEARINGS ARE SET

One Would Prohibit The Temporary Injunction

AUSTIN, May 9. (UP).—Proration in East Texas fields is still in effect today despite two applications for an injunction filed against proration in the Henderson area.

A hearing at the request of the Central Pipeline Co. for an injunction was set for Monday. Chairman Bailey Hardy of the house oil, gas and mining committee announced today that public hearings will be held by the committee Tuesday and Wednesday nights of next week on the bill offered by Rep. A. M. Howley, which would increase the proration power of the railroad commission and prohibit the temporary injunction against proration.

OUTLINES PLANS FOR LANDINGS OF PLANES TUESDAY

Lieut. W. A. Maxwell, staff officer of the 7th Bombardment group was in Midland Friday, conferring with Harvey Sloan and members of the aeronautics committee of the chamber of commerce relative to refueling of 27 war planes of the 7th Bombardment group, and of the 9th and 31st squadrons.

The ships will land in Midland at 10 or 10:30 on the morning of May 12, or Tuesday. They will take off that morning from El Paso and a personnel of approximately 40 officers and 38 enlisted men will have lunch, taking off for Dallas soon afterward.

Forty planes, formerly announced to plan landings in Midland, are thus modified to 29, the thirtieth, that of Lieut. Maxwell, who will keep ahead of the squadrons.

Plans are being made to rope off the field beyond the fence, so that Midland people may not be on landing terrain while ships are landing or taking off, or while motors are running. It is hoped that school will be turned out in order that students may go to the field and see the ships, Lieut. Maxwell said.

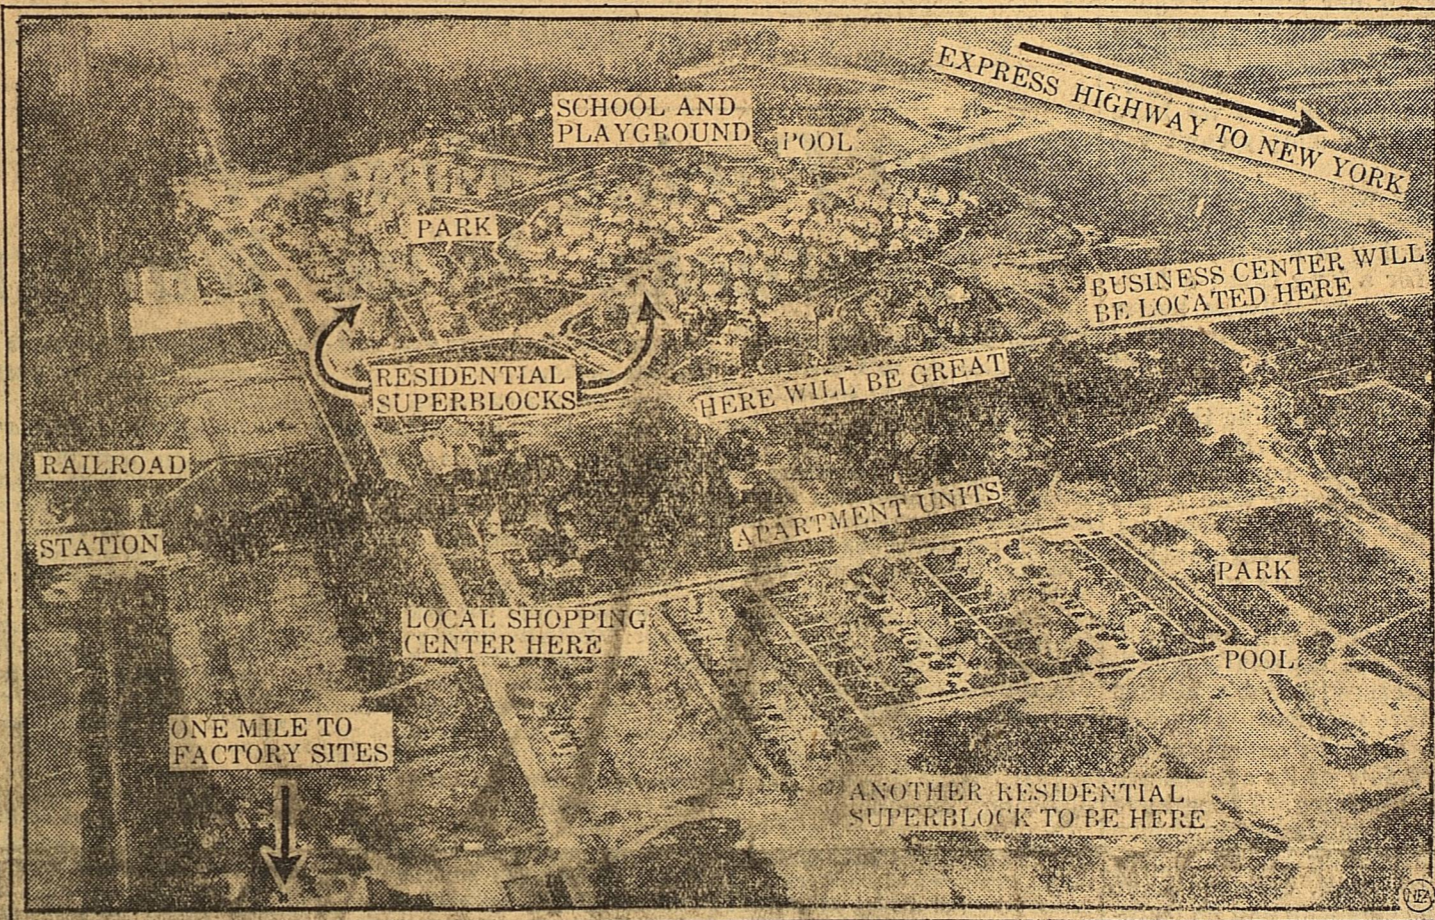

School students could meet their classes and go to the field when the first of the planes appear over town. Lieut. Maxwell said all planes would fly here in close formation and fly over town before circling the field landings.

With Lieut. Maxwell was Capt. Vanaman, who landed a Douglas BT 2C. His is located at Wright field, Dayton.

This group is en route to Dayton, Ohio, to take part in the army air corps field exercises to be staged over Dayton, Chicago, New York, Boston, Washington, Philadelphia, and adjacent cities. Practically all of the tactical units of the air corps will take part in these exercises and upon arrival at Dayton will be welded into one large unit, the First Provisional division and will be the.

America's Model Town Grows and Prospers as Dreams Come True

"Town of Future" Has Innovations That Are Known No Other Place

BY PAUL HARRISON, NEA Service Writer

RADBURN, N. J., May 9.—It was exactly two years ago that the first family moved into an uninhabited, construction-cluttered area which was bravely labeled "Radburn"—the Town for the Motor Age. Although no one dared predict it then, Radburn could have been called, just as aptly, "The Fastest Growing City," or "The Model American Town."

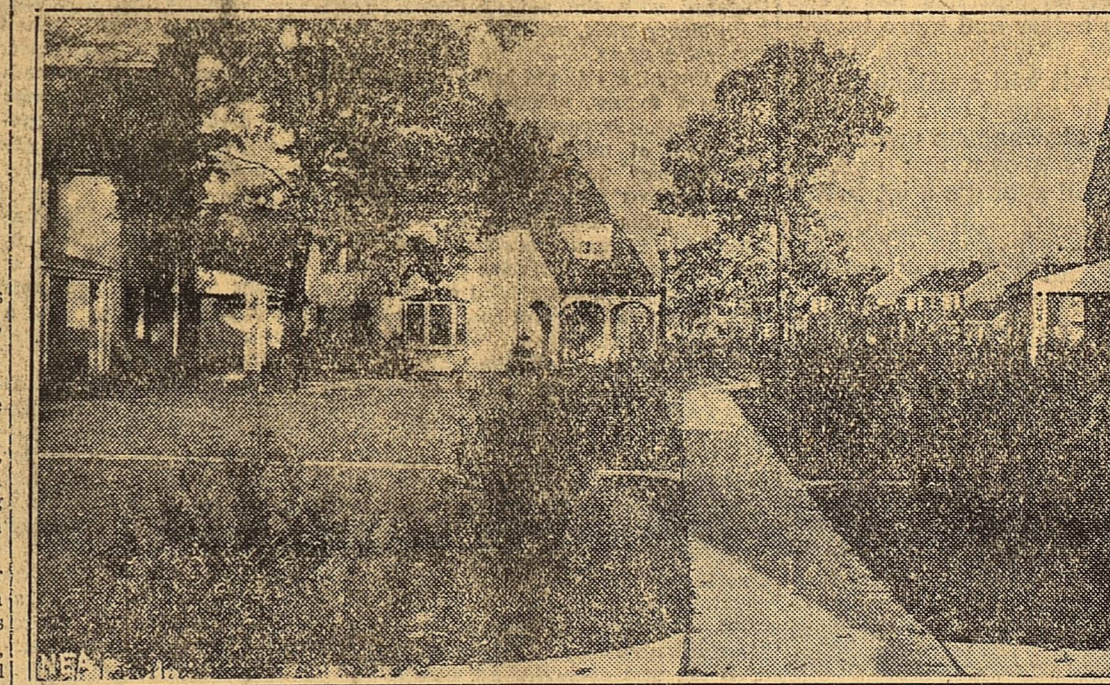

And a model town it really is, for many other new developments in the United States have drawn ideas from Radburn. Planning experts, architects, engineers and municipal officials from many states and even foreign countries come here to inspect it. They believe that Radburn, which already has more than 1100 residents, is assured of successful running in its goal of 25,000.

Physically, Radburn is said to be as nearly ideal as modest prices and expert planning could make it. No child on his way to school or to the park has to cross a street. Every front yard is a landscaped park; the back doors face the streets. Radburn has more area in lawns, less in streets, and yet more parking space for automobiles than any other town of its size.

Socially it is unique. Radburn makes capital of its neighborliness. Some 39 recreational community activities flourish here. Individual residents have more voice in the conduct of civic affairs, it is said, than they could enjoy under any of the ordinary forms of municipal government.

Practically it is a decided success. The entire project has been planned and is being built by City Housing Corporation, a limited dividend company which has pioneered in and about New York City in problems of community planning. On the directors' and advisory boards are such names as William Sloane Coffin, Dr. Felix Adler, Norman Hapgood, Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The technical staff includes experts ranging from a former chairman of the New York State Commission of Housing and Regional Planning to the president of the International Federation of Housing and Town Planning.

Limited Profit Plan Although the development is a weak wobbling old man, who, if he had led a straight life and had

Above—This aerial view of Radburn, N. J., model town which is being built near New York City, shows the town today and gives an idea of future expansion. Note the size of the "superblocks," which are bounded by motor highways. Below—No noisy traffic passes by the front doors of residents in Radburn, N. J., because all of the houses are built facing away from the streets. Only front lawns, small parks and pedestrian walks are visible from these entrances. At the rear, each house is connected by a driveway with a closed-end street. Called "the town for the motor age," Radburn really has been designed as an escape from that age, and this is a typical "motorless" view along one of the interior parkways of a superblock. Note that the houses, all of which have been built in an atmosphere of permanence within two years, are of varying size and design, and are irregularly spaced along the winding walks.

Famed International Crook Nears End Miserable Life

LONDON, May 8.—Eddie Guerin, internationally known crook and famous as the man who once escaped from Devil's Island, stood in the dock in the Old Bailey the other morning and received what is probably his death sentence.

For forging checks, the court condemned the 72-year-old man to three years of penal servitude. And that in an English prison means hard grinding labor, close confinement, bad food. It will about be Eddie's finish.

He realized it as he stood swaying in the dock trying to master his emotions. His pale pasty face grew paler. His eyes had to look of one who looked into his own coffin. He trembled in every limb. Then in a choked voice he protested:

"I stand here today an absolutely innocent man, as far as these charges are concerned. I have been persecuted most shamefully for years."

The End of the Road Then the warden led him away, a weak wobbling old man, who, if he had led a straight life and had employed his talents in an honest way, might now be enjoying slippered ease.

One of the Scotland Yard men, after the conviction, gave the story of Guerin's strange life.

Guerin was his real name. He was a British subject of Irish parentage, born in 1859. He said he had a wife and four children, but the police were unable to prove this. His first brush with the police occurred in August, 1887, when, under the name of George McCall, he was given three months hard labor for being a suspected person.

He next turned up in France and the Lyons Assizes court gave him 10 years imprisonment for larceny from a person in a bank. When he completed his sentence he was expelled from France.

Then he bobbed up in the United States, becoming associated with the notorious "Chicago May." He returned to Paris in 1901 and was arrested for connection with a bank robbery.

BRIAND VICTORY TANTAMOUNT TO THE PRESIDENCY

PARIS, France, May 9. (UP).—Aristide Briand's eloquence repulsed an attack on his conciliatory foreign policy today and won parliamentary victory, which may end his career at Quai D'Orsay as foreign minister. Briand appears certain of an election to the presidency of France next week as results of today's victory.

Merwin Haag and Kathleen Scruggs, Midland high school declaimers in the state meet at Austin, lost in the semi-finals Friday afternoon, after advancing through the preliminaries earlier.

One of the three judges voted first place to Merwin, according to a wire received from Supt. W. W. Lackey, in Austin with the students.

TEACHERS' SALARIES AFFECTED

Department Bill Is Pending Business For Monday

AUSTIN, May 9. (UP).—The house today passed the education appropriation bill carrying $14,800,000 for the next two years. The departmental appropriation bill was placed on the calendar as pending business Monday. The educational measure was approximately $1,700,000 less than it was when introduced in the house. The measure as passed means actual cuts below the present salaries in the university and other state schools.

I.C.C. MOVES TO LIFT DEPRESSION WITH REDUCTIONS

WASHINGTON, May 9. (UP).—The International chamber of commerce prepared to make a significant gesture in closing session today, suggesting reduction of war debts, tariffs and cost of armies and navies may offer relief from the world depression.

The body today adopted a resolution urging nations to call an international conference to consider stabilization of silver.

Midland Man Put On Digest Board

The Literary Digest in preparing its Texas part of "The American States" will compile the new history of Texas from papers to be prepared from a list of prominent Texans submitted by the Paul T. Vickers secretary of the Midland chamber of commerce. The Midland secretary will himself write one part of the history. The Midland man also received word Saturday from the Literary Digest that he has been appointed a member of the Texas cooperative editorial and advisory board of this phase of the magazine's work.

ROBIN'S WING IN SPLINTS

BLUEFIELD, Va. (UP).—Dennis Gaelick, Bluefield jeweler, found a robin with a broken wing on the sidewalk in front of his shop. The crippled bird was taken into the store where his wing was bound in splints.

OUR GREATEST TRIBUTE

The nation today is paying homage to the greatest human on earth, Mother. Millions upon millions of people will assemble in houses of worship and their thoughts will be turned to Mother as they listen to words of tribute to her and songs of praise.

It is immeasurably reflective of our advanced civilization that we set aside such a day as this and it stimulates us to think of Mother more reverently the remaining 364 days of the year.

SCIENCE OF PARENTHOOD

Parenthood, says Helen Hayes, attractive and talented actress, ought to be a separate profession, attempted only after thorough and compulsory training.

Miss Hayes, who in private life is the wife of Charles MacArthur, has a child of her own—a 14-months-old daughter. She says:

"I would not think of caring for her myself without specialized study. All her life she has been under the care of a competent nurse. I know many mothers will criticize me, arguing that only a mother can care for a child properly. That may be true for primitive women, but we have become so civilized that Mother Nature simply can't get to us."

Miss Hayes' statement probably will provoke a good deal of discussion—and, as she says, a good deal of criticism—but after all she is only bringing to a focus a feeling that has been widely current for a long time; a feeling that a great many children would actually be better off if they got less of the fumbling and inexpert maternal care of a mother and more of the trained and intelligent care of an intelligent nurse.

It is quite possible that she is right. Watching the way in which some mothers lug tiny babies to movies, amusement resorts and tea rooms, one can only conclude that motherhood, by itself, does not always bring with it the good sense and helpful care that the job really requires.

Yet, for the ordinary mortal, such an argument is purely academic. The overwhelming majority of women will continue to do as their mothers and grandmothers have done all the way back to Eve; they will bear children and rear them, whether they are especially qualified for the job or not, and in most cases the job will turn out better than the expert would dare predict.

For the human race seems to have an enormous capacity for muddling through. Very few of its actions are distinguished by any very careful planning. There have always been currents in human life to make the judicious swonder what the world might be coming to, and there probably always will be. And yet—well, children have always been borne and reared by parents who had no training at all for the task, and they have grown to manhood and womanhood in fairly good style, and life has gone on, somehow, getting just a shade better and more intelligent with each century.

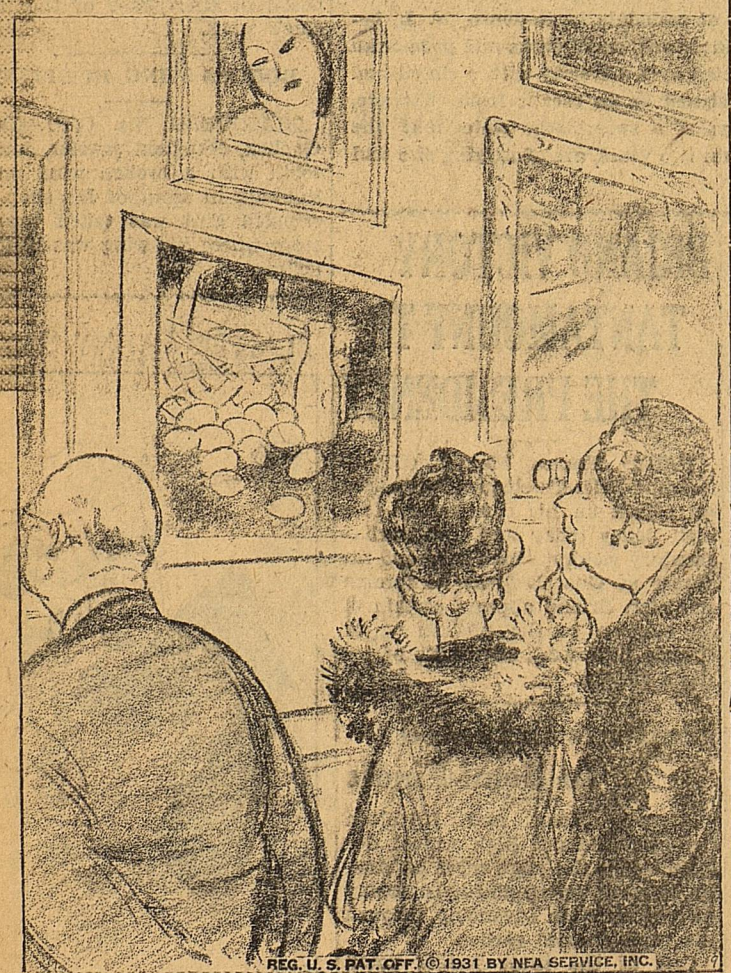

And that, probably, is the way it will continue to be. A few extra-lucky babies will get the expert care that Miss Hayes mentions. The vast majority of youngsters will grow up just as youngsters have always grown up; and, in one way and another, the results will average a lot better than anyone would expect.

THE KIDNAPERS

The kidnaper seems to have put on a revival in American city life during the past few years. Until comparatively recently, kidnaping was a comparatively rare crime; lately, however, one can hardly pick up a newspaper without reading of some citizen who has been abducted and held for ransom.

The cause probably traces directly back to the racketeering circles that have come into existence in the past decade. In Detroit, for example, the "strongarm men" who were hired to guard gamblers got their heads together and organized a clique to kidnap the very men they were supposed to guard. In other cities the ranks of professional gunmen probably furnish many recruits for the kidnapers.

What's Wrong With This Picture?

5,000 Facing Hunger in Kentucky Mine Warfare

By STEVE HUMPHREY Written for NEA Service (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

HARLAN, Ky.—Here in the hills of eastern Kentucky, a few miles from Virginia line, 5,000 women and children face hunger and destitution today in the newest coal field war between capital and labor.

Already there has been the rattle of machine gun fire, the ping of squirrel rifles in the hands of mountaineers perched on ridges, the wholesale burning of a mine village, the bombing of a mine mouth, the looting of stores and pitched battles between sheriff's deputies and jobless miners. Bitterness smolders, threatening to flame up anew at any moment.

On one side is the powerful Harlan County Coal Operators' Association, composed of members whose mines produced almost twenty million tons of coal in 1930. It is dominant politically and strongly entrenched with the aid of Sheriff John Henry Blair, militant, aggressive and fearless.

On the other side are hungry and begrimed miners, reduced to poverty by unemployment, among whom the yeast of union agitation has worked since wages were reduced and since—as they charge—conditions in some mines have become intolerable. There are between 12,000 and 18,000 miners in Harlan county, but in the existing unsettled conditions no one knows just how many are unemployed.

"5000 Face Starvation" "There are 5000 women and children starving in Harlan county today," union organizers declare.

Most of the operators will concede that families of some of the miners are near starvation and that their situation is desperate. "But we could give many of them work if they would come back," they assert. "Coming back" in many cases, would mean the giving up of union membership. That is the crux of it all. The operators are determined not to recognize the union and have issued an informal ultimatum that rather than recognize it they will close down the field.

The strangest factor in the entire situation is that their union membership for which the miners are now fighting so desperately is the same thing that they tossed away so lightly a few years ago. "Their locals are out of the United Mine Workers of America now and they want to get back."

Prosperous, Forsook Union They blithely forsook the United Mine Workers of America in the palm days just after the war when coal was selling for a high price, operators were enjoying big dividends and miners were flashing rolls.

STICKERS

A farmer received $100 for 100 head of stock. He got $10 apiece for his cows, $3 apiece for his pigs and 50 cents apiece for his sheep. How many of each did he sell?

of money and their wives were wearing silk stockings.

There are two stories as to how the union, which had been partially recognized by the mine operators, disintegrated.

W. A. Brock, state's prosecutor and a friend of the miners, tells this version:

"The Ku Klux Klan came along in the early 1920's and said to the miners: 'What's the use of your paying dues to the union? We'll protect you. Join us.' The miners did it. There were gay times, signal fires lighting the mountains, bedsheet parades and special trains taking great numbers of them to Ku Klux meetings here and there.

"Then the Klan frittered away and the miners had neither union nor Klan. The operators got the upper hand and they have held it."

Milt Harbin, local furniture dealer who is furthering the present attempt to reorganize and who says 14,000 miners have signed union cards, denies this is what happened. "The miners were getting so well paid they thought they didn't need the union," says Harbin. "The operators took advantage of this situation to destroy the union. They did."

Harbin, long friendly to the miners, recently was defeated for county judge by H. H. Howard, a friend of the operators. Thus, the operators have both a county judge and a sheriff who are friendly to them.

Depression Changes Picture But the days when the mines could employ all the workers in the county have vanished since depression set in. Orders are off 30 per cent this year and last year was "poor," according to George Ward, acting secretary of the operators' association.

"The operators made a slight waver out about the middle of February this year," says F. D. Perkins, operator, who was also county chairman of the Red Cross until labor troubles arose. "But we also reduced prices at the commissaries (company stores where employees buy). Then union agitators came in and tried to seize the opportunity and organize the men while they were dissatisfied."

Perkins says the operators could "have got through the winter by working our men part time, if only one, two or three days a week," and that the Red Cross could have aided them. But, he adds, the men refused to work.

Perkins and Ward declare—and their position apparently reflects that of the 40 or more operators—that the mine owners could have saved money by closing down this winter. But, he adds, "we were willing to operate at a loss to give our men employment and keep them from starving."

What Miners Claim A far different cry comes from the camps of labor where union organizers, though unrecognized by the United Mine Workers of America are pleading with the jobless men to "stick until the hawk lights," an expression meaning recognition by the national union.

The striking miners say: "They wouldn't give us fair weight on the coal we mined. They made us trade at company stores and charged us higher prices than the independents. They fired us if they found we joined the union. They put guards over us. We are free men and we don't wear stripes. They hired 'gun thugs' as guards and deputies. The union miners hate Sheriff Blair who has fortified himself with a crew of officers noted for their daring and with automatic rifles, hand grenades, tear gas bombs and machine guns.

Charge Battle "Staged"

They charge that the operators "staged" the exchange of shots at Black Mountain on the morning of April 28 because an application for an injunction was pending and they needed a show of violence by miners to sustain their plea. They charge that the burning of 16 unoccupied and company-owned miners' houses at Cawood on May 1 was also done by the operators. Cawood citizens demanded and obtained warrants for two uneducated guards whom they charged with firing the empty houses.

Meanwhile, the battle of the coal fields goes on. The United Mine Workers of America, though watching the situation closely, is apparently taking no part as yet, though it has indicated it will be ready to welcome the Harlan locals back into the fold when they can show sufficient representation among the workers.

The men are faced by the double problem of winning out over the operators and winning recognition from their national union. And the women—the wives of the jobless miners, most of whom have big families of ragged children to feed—are faced with the problem of keeping body and soul together until relief of some sort comes.

Daily Health Talk

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

INFANT TRAINING

Probably no other factor of infant training concerns the mother so much as the difficulty of training infants to proper habits so far as concerns their excretions. Some mothers are apparently able to teach their babies not to soil themselves after they are six years old. Other mothers find it difficult to train infants even after two years of age. Granted that the child and the mother are of normal intelligence, training can do much in this regard.

In the recent consideration of the subject in Hygiene, Katherine Brownell suggests that the first step is to determine the usual hour of the bowel action, which, at the age of six weeks, is perhaps twice each day. A small vessel, made especially for the infant, is held between the mother's legs, and the child is supported in a comfortable sitting position. This is repeated time after time, and at least 50 per cent of babies get the idea promptly. In a few instances infants do not seem to learn readily; in such cases, a small glycerine suppository or the temporary insertion of any well greased or oiled tube will begin the action, and after two or three days the artificial stimulation can be omitted.

It is, of course, important to have the child understand that the matter is entirely normal. It must not be frightened, and everything possible should be done for its comfort. The mother should realize that the infant should not be taken from a warm bed and its skin placed in contact with a cold vessel brought in from outdoors.

A light warming of the utensil will keep the child from anticipating its use with fear of discomfort. Wherever the systematic plan is adopted the results are likely to be so good that the mother becomes a

DEBATE ON WHICH OF MAJOR POLITICAL FACTIONS HAS BIGGER LIAR IS A BIT CONFUSING, BUT DEMOCRATS' CHIEF HAS BEST ARGUMENT

WASHINGTON.—The two factions of the politicians' union have been debating as to which party has the biggest liars and the game is to convict the other fellow out of his own mouth.

Politicians rely so importantly on their mouths and use them so frequently that it is not very difficult to pin something on any of them when one employs such obviously unfair tactics as trying to hang them for things they have said. In fact, on that basis everybody has something on everybody else, which presumably is the reason that the recent attempts to make a national issue out of alleged political falsehoods seem so bizarre.

Keeping score on this game is no cinch, but it appears that the Democrats first developed the technique of using a politician's words against him.

During the 1928 campaign they discovered that several of the most important Republican leaders had at some time or other in the past said very harsh things about Mr. Hoover, who had become the party candidate. Including Charlie Curtis, Hoover's running mate. So day after day their publicity staff quoted eminent Republicans in an attempt to show that Mr. Hoover was utterly unfitted for the White House.

Slams Didn't Hurt Hoover

It must be admitted that all those blows below the belt—which the Republicans naturally had trouble in countering—did not exactly swing the country to the Democratic ticket. The fact that in 10 or 12 years Mr. Hoover had been slammed by all the big politicians, Republican and Democratic, appeared only to increase the size of his majority. And that leads to the disquieting thought that the voters are not worrying very much about whether Chairman Fess is going to prove Chairman Shouse a liar, whether Chairman Shouse is going to prove Chairman Fess a liar or, whether again, both Chairman Fess and Chairman Shouse are going to prove each other liars.

The Democratic propaganda bureau had been recalling day after day that Mr. Hoover and his party had promised national prosperity, thereby qualifying Mr. Charles Michelson, Democratic chief propagandist, as the world's meanest man.

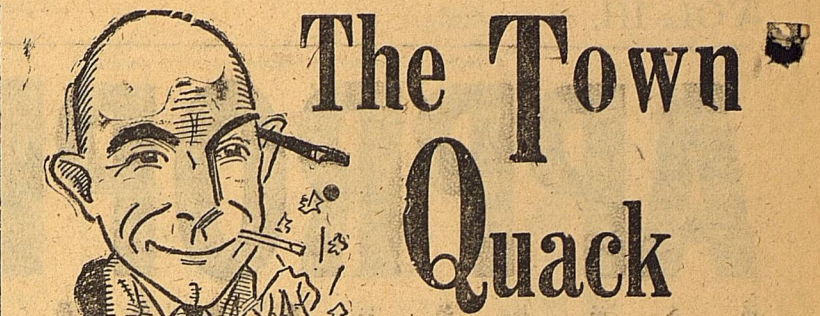

That Tariff Dispute

And in speech after speech and mimeographed release after mimeographed release, the Democrats have been re-quoting the ringing words of Senator Jim Watson of Indiana, Republican floor leader, who assured the country as the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill passed nearly a year ago that within 30 days, as a result, the country would be on the upgrade financially, economically and commercially and that within a year the peak of prosperity would have been regained.

Lately, Republican Floor Leader John Q. Tilson of the House asserted that no sensible person had ever claimed higher tariff duties would prevent economic depression or restore prosperity and now no Democratic publicity sheet is complete unless it asks whether Watson was looney then or Tilson is looney now.

Anyway, Chairman Fess recently came upon a story in a San Francisco newspaper which said Chairman Shouse had said the Republicans had bought 10 million copies of a magazine which contained an article attacking Mr. John J. Raskob, the other Democratic chairman, in an attempt to use Chairman Raskob's religion against the Democrats. Chairman Fess said that was a "de-propagandist and educator for the future."

Visiting nurses have put such plans into effect in homes and invariably with good results. Here, after all, is a case in which individual attention by trained mother or nurse means much for the beginning of sensible habits. The child whose training is begun at six weeks of age is a more easily trained child in other habits and ways of life thereafter. The world is built on a social scheme, and happiness depends largely on a reasonable amount of conformation to social custom.

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

Louie Arrington and his bunch at Midland Drug are celebrating Mothers' Day in brilliant fashion. It was only a few days ago that Louie opened his front door and his heart and a nice cat walked in. There are now six of the cutest little kittens you ever saw and they have their home in a funny box.

Hear ye, hear ye! All ye folks are invited to call on Louie and look at the young ones. A couple of tough guys were taking pokes at each other recently. "Yeah, I had a beard like yours and I saw how it looked and cut it off." "Yeah, I had a face like yours and saw that I couldn't cut it off and grew this beard."

Old milk bottles, paste jars, loafs, potato mashers, matches, lemons and labor on electric boxes might get a fellow into trouble if he doesn't watch his step. This may be Greek to some people but it is just plain arithmetic to me.

I am starting a campaign to change the spelling of vegetable. My idea is to eliminate the second "e." The pronunciation would be a sort of slur and would make a much more beautiful word phonetically. Some people of the nation seem to have a tendency to jump on President Herb. Poor boy, he has had his hands full and I can't see the joke in continuing to pile the worries on him.

The entire situation will be cleared up in 1932. Then, Herb will not have his hands so full and that will be the logical time to tell him about some of his faults. He'll probably not live long enough to hear all of 'em.

I am going to ask the editor this week if he will post a pretty good bounty on people who send in spring poetry. I think that 50 cents a head would be a good price. If the boss will consent to such a bounty, I'll be tickled to death to shoot to death those dead heads who would kill us with a gob of dead stuff.

Liza: "Honey boy, is yo sho that you all wants to marry me?" Rastus: "Yessuh, honey, I've dead sho of it. I done made arrangements to quit my job."

liberate lie." Chairman Shouse said he had been misquoted in the newspaper. Quotes Fess From Record Then Shouse quoted from the Congressional Record that famous admission of Chairman Fess, who, in explaining why he had misled the newspaper boys after a conversation with President Coolidge about the latter's candidacy for renomination:

"Then I added what was not true, but I wanted to get it across, I find the president seems to be greatly displeased with what I have said." The Fess-Shouse issue in this case seems confused and to be overshadowed in its importance only by the question whether the whiskers of Senator J. Ham Lewis are pink or vermilion, but it seems as if in case you are going to hire either Chairman Fess or Chairman Shouse to call somebody else a liar you had better hire Chairman Shouse.

Church and Civic Programs Through Week and Today Honor Mother's Day

In common with thousands of other cities and towns of the nation, Midland is honoring Mother on her day, today. Churches, Sunday School classes and various civic organizations will commemorate the day in some way. During the past week Scouts and Rotarians have observed the occasion.

The Men's class, meeting at the Scharbauer hotel, are to celebrate the occasion this morning with special music and a talk applicable to the day.

At the First Christian church, a pageant, cleverly planned, consisting of various tableaux, is being put on under the direction of Mrs. Howard Peters and Mrs. Ray Veale this evening. "My Mother's Bible," "Home Sweet Home," "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight," and "Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep," are the titles of the scenes to be portrayed. In addition to these, Mrs. Veale will read, as will Miss Ina Beth Bedford, Misses Catherine and Lillian Dunaway will give selections on the violin, with Mrs. Van Camp at the piano.

The Methodist church choir, under the direction of Mrs. Marion F. Peters, will sing two special anthems, with Mrs. Roy Parks and Mrs. Foy Proctor taking the solo parts in "My Mother's Song," and "The Prodigal and the Song." Mrs. Holt Jewell is to be at the piano. This program is to be at the 11 o'clock hour. A feature will be Prelude and offertory by Miss Lydia Watson and Ned Watson. Theme of league programs are to be appropriate for the day.

A special Mother's day message is to be brought by Rev. George F. Brown, pastor of the First Baptist church at the morning preaching hour. A short program will be given at Sunday School, and the choir, with W. W. Lackey in charge are to sing Mother's Day anthems. A lecture by Capt. Frank M. Wells, a noted speaker, will feature the night services.

With L. O. Smith in charge, a program at the morning hour at the Presbyterian church will include a solo by Mr. Joe Seymour, presentation of miniature badges to mothers of the Boy Scouts of the church, by the boys themselves, and a salute, Rev. Thos. D. Murphy, pastor, will deliver a Mother's day message.

A program held Thursday by the Rotary club contained numbers in honor of Mother. B. Frank Haag gave the principal address and Mrs. A. J. Fiorey and Misses Catherine and Lillian Dunaway furnished musical selections.

Troop 52 of the Boy Scouts invited the mothers of the members to a special service Friday night. Several addresses were heard, with W. I. Pratt, Mrs. L. O. Smith and John Howe speaking. Each mother present was given a miniature scout badge, presented by John Bonner.

Mrs. Holster Hostess for Bible Class

Taking up the third chapter of Luke as the study, members of the Belmont Bible class had an interesting study Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. E. Holster, with Mrs. J. M. King as teacher.

Mrs. T. O. Midkiff was taken in as a new member. Others present were Mmes. J. S. Noland, B. M. Hayes, A. W. Lester, E. W. Hough, C. E. Strawn, C. F. Garrison, J. C. Hudson, T. D. Sneed, Ben Reid, J. M. King and the hostess.

May Day Theme of Party for Joi De Vie Club

Using a decorative scheme suggestive of May Day, Mrs. J. R. Martin (later joined Friday afternoon for the Joy De Vie club at an unusually pretty party.

Plate favors were tiny china baskets filled with pansies, and prize packages were wrapped to represent May baskets.

Gifts went to Mrs. J. D. Young, holding high score for club members; Mrs. R. C. Crabb, cutting high, and Mrs. Hugh Corrigan, who held high guest score. Playing were Mmes. Chas. L. Klapproth, Foy Proctor, John Dublin, J. D. Young, Fred Turner, Carroll Hill, W. O. Pelfrey, Fred Hull, Hugh Corrigan, Bedford Taylor, D. M. Pinnell, Harvey Sloan, L. O. Smith, R. C. Crabb, R. E. Kimsey, and Fenton Taylor.

Chaplin's New Silent Film Proves Dialog Not Needed

EDITOR'S NOTE: "City Lights," the picture referred to below, comes to the Ritz theatre today. Arrival of the film has been eagerly awaited.

BY DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD—After an absence of two years from public view, Charles Spencer Chaplin is back with us again.

And he is the same Charlie Chaplin we have known in years gone by—not a different Charlie as we have a different Garbo, Fairbanks, Pickford, Gilbert, Colman, Shearer, Barthelmess, Swanson and others, all of whom assumed new personalities with the introduction of talking pictures.

"City Lights," Chaplin's latest offering to his movie public, had its world premiere at the new Los Angeles Theatre here amid a blaze of splendor. And in it we saw our own Charlie, the same little man with the same mustache, baggy pants, big shoes and cane who has made theater-goers laugh with tears in their eyes for a good many years.

Many proclaim this production to be Chaplin's greatest achievement. We don't go quite that far, having liked some of his other films too well. But there is no doubt that it is an exceptionally fine production. And it proves something that the film chiefs have wanted to know for a long time—that good pictures always will be popular regardless of whether they are silent or talkie. There is not a word of dialogue in "City Lights," although it has a synchronized musical score.

The effect of dialogue is in the opening sequence, however. As the characters speak, they are accompanied by an invisible musician with a tin horn which sounds very much as if the characters themselves actually were speaking but with mouths full of mush. The effect is unique as well as funny.

There are three principal characters in the film—Chaplin, Virginia Cherrill and Harry Myers. The story is written around these three and as is to be expected in a Chaplin picture it is full of laughs, not to mention the pathetic touches.

While trying to escape some policemen, Chaplin suddenly finds himself confronting a beautiful but blind flower girl, played by Miss Cherrill, who asks him to buy a flower, which he does with his last piece of money. That night Charlie meets Myers, a wealthy drunk who is about to commit suicide because his wife has left him. Charlie talks him out of it and they go out for a night of whoopee, arriving home just as Virginia is passing Myers' home on to her corner to sell flowers. Seeing her, Charlie gets some money from Myers and buys all of her flowers.

As time goes on Charlie's big ambition in life becomes centered solely on the girl whom he wants to help. Learning that she and her grandmother are about to be evicted from their little flat because they can't pay their rent, he partakes in a prize fight to raise the money, but is beaten and gets nothing. After leaving the fight arena he meets Myers staggering out of a theater, goes home with him and elicits his aid in helping Virginia. A very funny situation is developed throughout the picture by having Myers fail to recognize Chaplin whenever he is sober but proclaiming him as his best friend when drunk.

Myers gives Charles a thousand dollars for Virginia just as they are accosted by two burglars, one of whom hits Myers over the head with a black-jack. When he recovers consciousness, Myers is sober and doesn't recognize Charlie, who is about to be hauled off to jail by cops attracted by the rumpus. However, he escapes long enough to give Virginia the money, enough for her rent and to send her to an eye specialist. Months later when Charlie is released from jail, he walks past a flower store, owned by Virginia who has gained her sight. Feeling sorry for him, she offers him a flower and some money which he declines. However, she forces him to accept them but in touching his hand she recognizes him as the man who befriended her. That fade-out scene is a very touching one and is a finish only Chaplin could put on a hilarious comedy.

Although Chaplin carries the story, young Miss Cherrill and Myers are both excellent in their roles.

At the County Library

Several 1931 books have been received by the library and will be placed on the rent shelf for a few weeks before being placed on the 14-day list.

The new books with a brief review of each are listed below:

THE SOPHISTICATES by Gertrude Atherton. This is Mrs. Atherton's first modern novel in five years. It is "the enigma of a woman's soul"—the story of Melton Abbey, ruler of the young sophisticated set of a middle-western town, beloved of many men, and suspected of the murder of her husband.

FESTIVAL by Struthers Burt. "Festival" is the story of a Philadelphia banker who determines to do the things he had always wanted to do. With an unsympathetic wife, an unhappy daughter and sundry other worries, he finds his plans are difficult of accomplishing.

THE GOOD EARTH by Pearl S. Buck. This book is of life in China. It is the story of Wang Lung and his children and the fears, joys, passions, and trails that make up their lives. Whatever came, Wang Lung thought of his land as "The Good Earth."

PIGBOATS is written by Commander Edward Ellsberg. The story is a "swift-moving and dramatic novel of life in submarines." More specifically, it is the story of a submarine resting on the bottom of the sea, trapped there, with her crew facing a horrible death. What happens to each man in that crew makes a story that most men should like.

THE STORY OF SAN MICHELE by Axel Munthe. This is an autobiography. "The life story of this famous European doctor is crammed with adventure—amusing and tragic, peaceful and hair-raising. This book will appeal to all men, doctors especially and to most women."

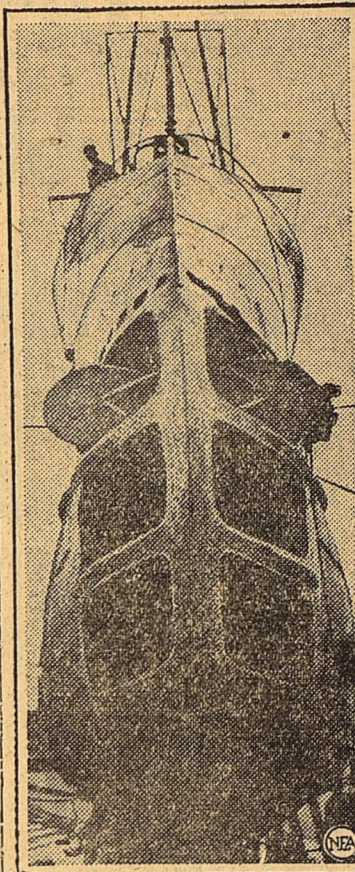

THE INVESTIGATORS by J. S. Fletcher. Here is a mystery story with a plot that is slightly different. An American girl plays a part in the story which is English. It is a tale mystery lovers will like.

MRS. FISCHER'S WAR by Henrietta Leslie. John Galsworthy says "Henrietta Leslie, in this novel, has taken the war as it seemed to an English wife married to a German husband with an English-born son. She has treated her subject with an intimacy, a moving sincerity of feeling, and a comprehension that are wholly remarkable."

DAMNED LITTLE FOOL by Cosmo Hamilton. This is a novel of divorce, being the story of Rosita and her search for happiness. It is called the author's finest novel.

"WORLD WITHOUT END" by Helen Thomas. This is the autobiography of a woman who lived an unusual and individual love story. It is an exquisite and touching idyll. It is, too, the story of "two vivid personalities who love each other, struggling against fate and learning that the price for the capacity for ecstatic joy is anguish!"

Doesn't Bite

This fearful monster has never been known to bite, but it is dangerous when in action. It shoots death-dealing torpedoes through the holes shown in the picture. In short—it's a close-up of the prow of the Australian submarine Oxley in drydock at Sydney.

PURITAN'S PROGRESS by Arthur Train. In this volume, Mr. Train has traced the influence of the Puritan and his vices and virtues through 300 years of American history. He does this by following the fortunes of one typical Puritan family through the years. If you want to know more than copybook maxims about the Puritans, read this story of their progress.

EDUCATIONS OF A PRINCESS by Marie, Grand Duchess of Russia. Here is the autobiography of a niece of the Czar of all the Russias, recounting her life up to the time of the destruction of the Old Russia of which she was a part.

THE RING OF THE LOWENSKOLDS by Selma Lagerlof. In this work Selma Lagerlof has incorporated two preceding stories dealing with the ring of the Lowenskind family with the final story of the series. The book is written for an intimate knowledge of the folk lore and social history of the author's native Sweden. The three parts of the volume include "The General's Ring," the first of the tales; the romance of "Charlotte Lowenskind"; and the history of "Anna Svard."

Archeologists Start Excavations Soon

HADDONFIELD, N. J. (UP).—Archeologists from the Academy of Natural Sciences in Philadelphia will soon start excavations in the vicinity of Hopkins Lake near here in an effort to discover fossilized remains of prehistoric monsters. Remains of a monster lizard were dug from that location in 1858. It is now in the Academy and officials believe that other valuable finds may be made.

OLD TREE BEARS FRUIT

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UP).—There will be apples this year on the 106-year-old Hudson Bay apple tree on the lower part of Vancouver barracks. The tree grew from a seed planted by a member of the Hudson Bay Company in 1825 and seldom has missed a year in bearing. A. A. Quarnberg, horticulturist, said it very likely will bear a large crop this season.

GOLFER AND CASTER COMPETE

MEDFORD, Ore. (UP).—The very latest in freak events—a contest between a golfer and a fly caster! The match will be played between Ward Spatz, expert fisherman, and Ted Baker over the Rogue Valley Club course. Baker believes if he can break 80 he will have an advantage. Spatz claims he can make a 150-yard cast with accuracy and in greens competition he said he could land a fly in a hat at 100 feet.

COST FARMERS HUGE SUM

NEW YORK. (UP).—American farmers lost $627,000,000 through the destruction of growing crops by insect pests in 1930, according to the American Research Foundation. The cost of maintaining destructive insects on the average American farm amounted to $104 last year, the Foundation estimates. The loss from crop destruction in the various states ranged all the way from $45,000,000 in Texas, to $239,000 in Rhode Island.

NEW BUICK EIGHTS

. . . an Owner Service Policy making generous provision for owner satisfaction

Only a Buick Dealer can give Buick Service

The faith of men and women in the Buick car becomes even more deeply rooted when they realize how generously Buick provides for owner satisfaction.

When you buy a new Buick Eight, your dealer hands you a written Owner Service Policy. It specifies such advantages as free replacement of parts, with no charge for labor, under the terms of a very liberal warranty—and free inspection and adjustment after 500 miles and after 1000 miles.

You may change your residence, or tour anywhere in the U. S. or Canada, and still share these benefits through the nearest Buick dealer.

This policy is not only your guarantee of satisfaction, but also an assurance of Buick's basic excellence. The new Buick Eight is, in fact, so sound and good that it wins more than 50 out of every 100 sales of the 14 eights in its price class.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing motor car values.

Trophies for the winners will be ordered Monday, it was further announced.

Matches for the week:

This afternoon: Barrow Furniture company vs Texas Electric Service company, 1-2 o'clock; Reporter-Telegram vs California Oil company, 2-3; Barrow Furniture vs Midland clinic-hospital, 3-4; Texas Electric vs Midland clinic-hospital, 5-6.

Monday: Texas Electric vs California Oil company, 5-6.

Wednesday: Barrow Furniture vs Texas Electric, 5-6.

Thursday: Midland clinic-hospital vs California, 5-6.

Friday: Texas Electric vs Reporter-Telegram, 5-6.

SPORTS REPORTS

Tennis and baseball this afternoon for the spectators; a variety of sports for those who want to participate in working up a case of sore muscles. Several matches will be played on the tennis court on West Wall. Golfers at country club will be busy at making another ascent on the ladder.

We read where our old friend Hez Carson of San Angelo assisted in trimming the beards of the House of David bunch, 11-1, the other night. The last time Hez and this department got together we were on the Senior intramural football team at TCU and managed to beat Matly Bell, Bill James, Bill Honey, Big Bill McCallum and a bunch of those fellows on the faculty. Hez was a quarter, and ran rings around the Centre college players and the all-Southwest choicers.

Bobby Campbell, still carrying the er-Telegram, 5-6.

Saturday: Reporter-Telegram vs Midland clinic-hospital, 5-6.

Sunday: Barrow Furniture company vs California Oil company, 1-2 p. m.

The finals matches will begin at 2 o'clock that afternoon.

An effort will be made to get the singles matches played by that time, but it is not certain whether these can be played in that period of time.

ELECTRICIANS IN HITTING FORM, ALBEIT

For the first Sunday since the city baseball league was reorganized, there will be no games in Midland today.

All clubs will be out of town.

The Busher-Colts journey to Lamesa for a game.

The Firemen play the Pleasant View nine at Elmer Bizzell's private ballfield.

The Oilers play Stanton at Stanton.

Southern Ice plays the Bizzell crew following the Firemen-Pleasant View entanglement.

Several groups of fans will journey with the various clubs.

added weight of a post-mumps condition, is a bit vitriolic as he describes those who can get around while he sits hard in a chair. The Mexican Tigers are on top of the city baseball league in Big Spring and Bobby mentioned Senor this and that hitting home runs, to the edification and evident delight of his countrymen draped over the top of the fence and "heads stuck through various and sundry knot holes."

Senator James Kelly over in Stanton goes the San Angelo Standard one better in printing a roster on his front page when it rains. He places a 24-point cap head under the roster, explaining the reason for the clarion being there and crowing in broad daylight.

Stanton had a summer football game the other day between the Army and Navy, or so it was described. The Navy won, 7-0. Sale and Bloomer did the work that counted. The two teams were divisions of the Buffalo team of next year. From the material out one must give Stanton credit for holding an outstanding threat for the Class B district this coming season. Several new men were out.

The Texas Electric Service company takes pleasure in announcing that "another one bit." When a visitor comes into the TESCO he generally buys the coffee, or the force knows why. This morning it was Wade Stepp of the company train. They take a man over to the coffee shop, that gang, then decide on the twist of an acrobatic coin who pays. Two weeks ago when we got rung in on the deal Thad, better known as "Dad," Collier was the goat. In each instance this department was so close to being that so-called can-chewing animal that we couldn't enjoy Jo Chamber's joke, if it was a joke. He said a goat quit eating cans and started on a mirror, remarking to his bewhiskered spouse, "Ah, now this is food for reflection."

GOLF as the STARS play it by ART KRENZ

How can one keep good balance in the golf swing?

JONES SEIFLES WELL BACK ON HIS HEELS AT ADDRESS

An oft-neglected, but every important, item in the golf swing is balance. Many times you perhaps have seen golfers rise to their toes at the impact of club with ball. This is impossible to do and retain balance. It causes one to fall into his shot, necessitating a step forward with the right foot soon after the ball is hit.

Walter Hagen once said that only one heel should leave the ground at a time in the swing. By settling well back on the heels in the address you will find yourself in a more comfortable position both for the backswing and the downswing. This also promotes relaxation.

Notice in illustrations of star golfers how the left heel is firm on the ground at the moment of impact. Better still, notice this when you see a star performer in action.

TOMORROW: Why keep the club low and close to the ground at the start of the backswing?

Leon Chewning, formerly of the University of Kansas and now of Midland for a few days. He stepped into the box and fanned about eight-tenths of those who faced him, letting the other one-tenth roll out gently except for Dick Morse who pset the game with a double in the last frame. Chewning played semi-pro ball with an independent team of Kansas that twice won the state tourney. More recently, he has been in Borge's where he was a chemist for an oil company. He would like to locate in Midland, he tells us in a little chat Saturday morning. A little secret: he was offered a screen test a few days ago, through instrumentality of Euddy Rogers, an old friend. But he doesn't know whether he should go. "You see, I don't know anything about acting," he said. "I never did any of it except home talent stuff. I think I'd better stick with something I know I can do." Somebody'd better get him signed up and keep

BUSHERS, OILERS TO LAMESA AND TO STANTON

Dick Morse knocked the progs from under the heavy slugging Texas Electric Service company's playground ball team Friday afternoon, and The Reporter-Telegram maintained it 1000 per cent standing in the second half by the proverbial skin of its teeth.

The score was 13-12.

It was the last inning. One was out. The Scandal Mongers were one score down. Two were on base. Dr. Chewning's new discovery was mow-in' down the Gossipers steadily, one right after another.

And then Dick connected. The ball, a clean hit double, was the signal for the two baserunners to scam, and they brought in the decisive run.

One of the most hectic finishes of any playground engagement of the season.

Chewning, a new pitching discovery for the Electrician Shock Troops, outgassed the opposition at every turn, shooting in his fast one and then varying with a slow one the batters couldn't wait out. Had he been in the game earlier the result would have been different. Wendt, starting pitcher for Mr. Legg's crew, was wild, passing one man after another.

Gemmill for the winners scored three runs, to lead the Scandal Mongers' offensive. Northington for the losers put his team into the lead in the 7th with a hefty blow that cleaned the sacks.

A night playground ball meeting has been set for Monday night at the chamber of commerce office. The house will come to order, or it is hoped it will, at 8:30. Several important matters are up for discussion, declares our friend "Scotty" Gemmill.

AMARILLOAN IS CAPTURED AFTER TRYING ESCAPE

HASTINGS, Neb. May 9. (UP).—Jim Thomas, who backed his way through the bars of his cell in the county jail today, was captured a few hours later, hiding in the courthouse. He had crawled into a cardboard carton on top of a shelf in the county treasurer's office. He was convicted of a $27,000 Hastings National bank robbery. His home is in Amarillo.

Outlines Plans--

largest concentration of airplanes under one command ever attempted by this country. Approximately 683 planes will be used, consisting of pursuit, bombardment, attack, observation, photographic and cargo. It is estimated that 90 bombardment planes will take part in the exercises. The 7th Bombardment group has the distinction of being the first group to carry its own "weather man." Mr. Dean Blake, San Diego's "flying weather man" has been given the privilege of representing the United States weather bureau at the air corps maneuvers. Blake was commissioned by C. F. Marvin, chief of the weather bureau, and authorized by the secretary of war, to accompany the group on its 6000-mile trip. He will fly in a bomber flown by Lt. Charles H. Howard, who is the commanding officer of the 11th Bombardment squadron of Rockwell field. Blake's duties—an innovation in the army air corps maneuvers—will be to receive and disseminate weather information while the plane is in flight as well as when the army fliers are at flying fields preparing to take off.

Everybody Shares in Trades Day Events

Nearly everybody in Midland is now participating in Midland's Trades day events, a chamber of commerce official has found. The gifts by Midland merchants have been increased 50 per cent over the announced offerings of the opening day. Midland people are reminded that no matter what they want they can participate in the Trades day events by buying at Midland stores. Gasoline, drugs, groceries, furniture, hardware, automobiles, notions, meals—no matter what you want, you can have a part in Trades day if you buy these things at nearly any store in Midland. Business men of Midland are glad to have everybody taking a part in Trades day. City people are urged to ask their merchants for detail on Trades day. The next Trades day is on June 6.

Men of Midland to Sing Mother Songs

Every man in Midland not in some other Sunday School who wishes to pay tribute to his mother today is invited to attend the big class of men which meets in Hotel Scharbauer at 9:45. Two special music numbers have been arranged, and songs which were mother's favorites will be sung by the group. Extra chairs are being placed in the Scharbauer assembly room to handle the extra large crowd expected.

Famed Crook--

He was convicted, sentenced to penal servitude for life and transportation to the penal colony in French Guiana, part of which is Devil's Island, where Captain Breyfus was imprisoned when he was wrongfully convicted of treason. Made Daring Escapes Guerin escaped in the latter part of 1894 and got away to South America and thence back to Chicago. He was heralded all over the world as the man who escaped from Devil's Island, a feat thought impossible. But the police said he really escaped from a prison settlement on the mainland, making his way through the thick jungle into Dutch Guiana, a trip which kills most men. The French authorities made application to the United States for his extradition but he had beaten them to it by returning to England. One day while he was standing in Russell Square, "Chicago May" and a man companion drove up in a cab and the man shot Guerin, wounding him in the foot. He was taken to the Royal Free Hospital. Beat the Law Once The French government asked that he be turned over to them. He was arrested on behalf of the French authorities and confined in Brixton Prison for about a year while the lawyers fought over the extradition claim. The Kings Bench Division finally decided that he could not be extradited, so he was discharged. Guerin lay low for a time, but was arrested in 1918 and sentenced by the Sussex Assizes to 21 months imprisonment for attempting to steal a suit case and $1000 worth of jewelry from a hotel, and for assaulting a waiter. At that time he gave the name of Thomas Garin. He was hardly out of prison before he fell into the hands of the police again. Under his own name this time he was arraigned in 1920 on the charge of being a suspected pickpocket and for spitting in a policeman's face. He Got 3 Months In 1924 he turned up at Edinburgh at Thomas Edward Garin and given six months imprisonment for trying to tel a jewel case from a hotel bedroom. In May, 1928, he was tried in a London court and given three months imprisonment for being in a hotel bedroom with intent to commit a felon. In November, 1929, a London court gave him 12 months hard labor for stealing a suitcase from a platform at Victoria station. This time he gave the name of Edwin Edwards. He got out in September, 1930, and, until he finally fell into the hands of the police again, earned a precarious living working for bookmakers at some of the dog races. Now he is an old, broken man with no prospects but of rotting to a slow death in prison. Forty years of conflict with the law have done nothing more than that for Eddie Guerin.

Future Town--

Called a "town for the motor age," it really offers escape from that age. Here for the first time a scientific effort has been made to get down to the fundamentals of the problems of traffic and safety. Instead of allowing the "checker-board" street system of the horse and buggy era, an altogether different plan has been devised for Radburn's residential sections. Closed-end Streets From wide, winding traffic avenues, closed-end streets lead off at intervals. A number of these closed-end streets, with house grouped about them, make up a block many times the size of the ordinary city block, with traffic avenues as its boundaries and a park in its center. The closed-end streets really are only driveways serving several homes. Since they do not connect with other streets, they carry only such traffic as is absolutely necessary to the people who live near them. Pedestrians have a separate system of walks, with underpasses where they meet the highways. The result is greater speed and relief to motorists, and safety for those on foot. Each house has two fronts, with a motor entrance and a garden entrance. "Nobody knows how much it costs to build a town under ordinary conditions," said Charles S. Ascher, of the Radburn Association. "But considering interest, taxes, improvements, building and rebuilding, which go on without any preconceived plan in the average town, the cost must be enormous. And so is the waste. Costs Accurately Known "We know to the last penny about the price of Radburn. When this property was bought in 1928, about two square miles of farm land, it costs only 6 cents a square foot. Plans for the entire city of from 25,000 to 30,000 population were complete before a spadeful of earth was turned. Improvements, such as streets and sewers, were put in before a building was erected. "But by the time we were ready for building, the cost has risen from 6 cents to 45 cents a square foot, and only 65 per cent of the area remained in salable land." The average American city, according to Ascher, has 35 per cent of its area in paving and sidewalks. But only 26 per cent of Radburn will be paved, and this despite the fact that secondary or "private" streets are built off the main motor highways, and parallel to them, to serve the business districts.

Ex-Chaplain Will Speak Here Tonight

"A veteran in the service of God and of his country." That is the manner in which Capt. Frank M. Wells, lecturer who speaks at the First Baptist church this evening, is described. Capt. Wells, ex-chaplain of the U. S. army in the Spanish-American war and in the Philippine insurrection, has spoken to congregations 4,868 times, 3,638 of these in Baptist churches. He has spoken in 175 of the counties of Texas. He began preaching in 1893, his first sermon being delivered in Gainesville. Since then he has spoken in 587 towns of Texas; has held 410 revivals, 145 of them in Texas, and has made numerous speeches for the government. The captain hopes that 500 men and women will hear him. Mascos, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias and other fraternal organizations are especially invited. He will speak on "Jerusalem Under the Turks." He spent three months in the Levant collecting material for the lecture.

Bond Returns From Bakers Convention

Curtis Bond, joint owner of My bakery, returned Friday night from Galveston, where he attended the annual convention of the Texas Bakery Owners association. Bond was defeated by only one man for the honor of having traveled the furthest to attend the convention. While en route Bond visited various bakeries and studied their methods. He said that even in cities 10 times larger than Midland, the assortment of pastries did not compare with that in My bakery. The pastry man of My bakery, J. W. Chisum, won second prize in a state-wide contest for expert pastry making. Bond said his convention was really a school, as they studied the newest science in bread and pastry making. He said that the big city bakeries raised a roar in the convention because people are more and more patronizing their own town bakeries.

PASADENA, Calif., May 9. (UP).—Dr. Albert Abraham Michelson, world renowned scientist, died this afternoon from cerebral hemorrhage.

Troop 52 Mothers Watch Sons' Program

Troop 52, Boy Scouts of America, met Friday night in a special meeting to honor mothers who had been invited to the program put on by their scout sons.

The meeting opened with a salute to the flag and "to the colors" sounded by the bugler, Kenneth Ambrose, followed by the scout oath and prayer by the Rev. Howard Peters. Demonstrations of scouting, rescue races, pyramid building, dressing races, and signaling were then put on for 15 minutes to show the mothers how the boys work together to make this troop the outstanding troop in the Buffalo Trail council of such distinction it has held for several months. W. I. Pratt gave an address on "Mother's Place in Scouting," followed by Mrs. L. O. Smith on "Why I Want My Boy to Be a Scout," and John P. Howe spoke several minutes on "Why I Want My Boy to Go to Camp."

John Bonner made a speech of presentation to the mothers as each boy in the troop presented his mother with a scout badge of the same rank as his own. During the social period ice cream was served to everyone present and Bonner invited all mothers and scouts and officials to the Ritz to see William Boyd, an Eagle scout, in "The Painted Desert."

Free Pictures of Bombardment Group

Twenty pictures of bombardment planes and officers coming here Tuesday will be given the first 20 souvenir collectors who ask for them at the office of the chamber of commerce. They are free. Lieut. W. A. Maxwell left the pictures for publicity purposes. The planes arrive at the Midland field at 10 a. m. and will depart at 12. While here the men will be guests of the aeronautics committee of the chamber of commerce for sandwiches and coffee. K. E. Ambrose, chairman, is in general charge.

Scout Troop to Honor Mothers

Troop 53, Boy Scouts of America, had an enthusiastic meeting Friday night. L. O. Smith is acting scoutmaster. The Rev. Thomas D. Murphy resigned some weeks ago on account of pressure of heavy duties. Assistant Scoutmaster Jno. P. Butler and 11 scouts were present. Plans were made to observe Mother's day in conjunction with the morning service today. Scouts will pin badges of honor upon their mothers. The troop is sending in registration fees for its members, together with the troop committee, for the renewal of its charter for another year.

Negroes to Have Clean-up Week

Annie Maie Mathes, colored state itinerant nurse with the state department of health for the past 10 years and working with her race in Midland this month, reports excellent results from her first week's activity, according to Miss Martha Bredemeier, county health nurse. She has worked in the lower grades of the negro school and has found many eye and throat defects. She is making home visits to parents of negro children and instructs them in remedying defects. One junior health club has been organized, as well as one adult health club with 32 enrolled. Classes will be held three times a week. A health mass meeting will be held this afternoon in the court house, at 3 o'clock. Speakers will be present, and negro spirituals sung. The meeting is to assist in stirring up enthusiasm for the clean-up to start today and continue for a week.

Telephone Company Beats Buick Club

Playing Manager C. A. Moore and his Southwestern Bell Telephone company playground ball team took the new entry club of the Senatus Buick Motor company into a rough session of initiation Saturday afternoon, winning a 7-inning affair 13-1. Brown pitched and Moore caught for the winners. The telephone company has one of the hardest hitting and fastest fielding combinations in the playground league.

Tennis Matches Played Saturday

Texas Electric and the Midland clinic-hospital won tennis doubles matches Saturday afternoon from The Reporter-Telegram and the California company. Ferguson of Texas Electric won in singles from McCrary of The Reporter-Telegram; McCrary won from Brown of Texas-Electric, and Ferguson won from Fritz of Reporter-Telegram. Texas Electric's match with Reporter-Telegram was won, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4. Clinic won from California, 6-4, 6-4. Ferguson beat McCrary, 6-1, 6-0. McCrary won from Brown, 6-0, 3-6, 9-7. Ferguson won from Fritz, 6-0, 7-5. Five matches will be played this afternoon, beginning at 1 o'clock.

Troop 54 Will Recruit New Boys

Troop 54, Boy Scouts of America, met in the scout hall last Monday night for their regular meeting, with 16 boys present.

The meeting opened with the scout oath and salute to the flag. The boys were then instructed how they might work together to get the highest rating possible. A check was made on the number of scouts in the troop and the possibilities of filling the troop with new boys. There is room for eight more boys at the present time. During the patrol meeting the ways of building up the patrol system was the chief topic of discussion and some of the patrols are making great effort to get their full groups as soon as possible. At the game period various games were played by patrols and they were then drilled for 15 minutes on the regular scout customs and correct posture. The next meetings of the troop are to be held on the lawn of the First Baptist church; the out door meetings are much better than inside on the warmer nights. Patrol leaders met Wednesday night with the scoutmaster and received instruction as how to run a patrol and to plan the meetings for the rest of the month. An overnight hike is planned for May 29.

Legionnaires Meet; See Battle Royal

The American legion held its regular monthly meeting Thursday night in the county court room. A big crowd attended. Jones was elected to help Attorney J. A. Seymour complete plans for the joint memorial services to be conducted at the Presbyterian church May 21 by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American legion. Earl Moran was elected service officer and all American legion members and veterans are requested to call on him for assistance in completing their claims. All American legion members are requested to get in touch with Chas. Berry, Neal D. Stator or F. D. Ward and give definite dates that they can collect tickets at the Tidwell shows next week. Twelve men are needed for each night and will be assigned nights by these men. The legion receives a per centage of the gross sales at the show. F. D. Ward gave a report of the district convention held at McCauley, and a committee composed of J. A. Seymour, F. D. Ward and Fred Middleton was appointed to try to secure the next district convention for Midland. After the close of business, the men went to the legion room in the basement of the court house, where four negroes put on a battle royal.

Attend Big Spring Annual Field Day

Several Midland men were in Big Spring Friday as annual field day was observed Friday at the United States government experiment station farm, one mile north of Big Spring, with a huge display of Hereford calves which had been fed by 4-H club boys and officials of the farm during the winter months. Those who went from Midland were Frank Wendt, J. G. Arnett, Harry McClintic, Spence Jowell and John Gist of Odessa. The day's program opened at 9:30 a. m., and closed in the afternoon with a meat cutting demonstration by Roy W. Snyder, extension meat specialist of A. & M. college. Butcher had been issued an invitation to attend this part of the program in particular. The day was featured by auction of 20 Hereford calves which had been fed by nine members of the Feeder Calf club, composed of eight boys and one girl. The calves were on display at the farm prior to the auction. All of the calves were sold for prices ranging from 10 1/2 cents top to 8 cents bottom. Thirty Hereford yearlings, which have been fed in three lots by the government farm officials, were not sold at auction, but will be shipped to Fort Worth markets, it was announced by Fred Keating, manager of the farm. The afternoon's program, which followed a luncheon, was featured by talks by J. N. Jones, head of the animal husbandry department of Texas A.&M. college, and Ollie Webb, assistant to the president of the Texas & Pacific railway. There were other short talks. Jones went into detail regarding the results of the feeding program which has been strictly observed by employees of the farm this year. During the morning M. T. Payne, state boys club agent, spoke on the part played by club boys in the breeder-feeder movement. A. L. Smith, extension beef cattle specialist of A.&M. college judged the calves which have been fed by the club members. Short talks were made by I. B. Cauble, prominent Hereford breeder of Hoyard county, and John Simpson, assistant Texas and Pacific railway agricultural agent. Hubert Hayworth of Coahoma, club member opened the day's program with a talk on the purpose of the Feeder Calf club and show. Each of the club members made reports of their feeding operations. A large crowd of farmers and business men visited during the day. Among prominent men there were E. W. Barnes of the federal farm board, Fort Worth, and Ray Weenan, cattlebuyer for Swift & Co.

Session of Quiet In Strike Area

EVARTS, Ky., May 9. (UP).—Sullen groups of unemployed miners loiter in the street and in union headquarters while national guardsmen patrol the coal strike area where a dozen persons were killed as an outgrowth of unrest. Presence of the guards quiets the mob. There is no threat of a new outbreak such as took a toll of five lives several days ago. Miners are demanding recognition by the union.

Furniture Auction Here This Week

A cash auction sale will be held beginning Wednesday and continuing through Saturday at the Home Furniture company, Manager M. M. Seymour said. Prescott & Hughes, licensed auctioneers who have been in Midland in auction sales before, will conduct the auction. "This sale is merely a trade stimulus," Seymour said. "And the company wishes to clear floor space for arrival of new summer and fall furniture." Sales will be held each evening at 2 o'clock and 8 o'clock. Attendance souvenirs will be given each day. The first 100 women there Wednesday afternoon will receive a useful household article.

Stickler Solution

In order to get $100 for 100 head of stock, selling cows at $10, pigs at $3 and sheep at 50 cents, the farmer must have sold 94 sheep, one pig and five cows.

TO SPEAK THURSDAY

Miss Lucille McMullan, representing Midland in "My Home Town" contest at the West Texas chamber of commerce meeting at Lubbock, is to speak Thursday evening at 7:30 there. Finals are to be held Saturday morning. Miss McMullan has won a number of contests in declamation in Midland high school.
