WHY BUSINESS DEPRESSION?

EDITOR'S NOTE: The most important gathering of the world's industrialists and financiers ever met to consider a world-wide depression was the recent International chamber of commerce congress in Washington. This is the first of five stories which sift and summarize the thought of world business leaders and facts about the depression developed at that meeting which may hasten business recovery.

By RODNEY DUTCHER,
NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON, May 11: — To over-production and under-consumption, words often used to explain business depression and unemployment as well as agricultural disa dozen causes and symptoms of depression by the Council of the International Chamber of Commerce. The congress of the chamber here, assembling a thousand men prominent in the world's business, industry and finance, emphasized the point.

Plants built to produce far in advance of what consumers reasonably may be expected to consume involve heavy capital investment and innumerable jobs for workers which suffer together when the breaking point comes. Over-capacity results in over-production.

Not Under-Consumption

As for the other factor, under-consumption, President Georges Theunis of the international chamber points out that although some countries have lost purchasing power the term "under-consumption" should not be used to describe the "inability of consumers to increase their needs to the present level of industrial and agricultural production capacity."

An idea of how over-expansion hit the United States was given by President Melvin A. Traylor of Chicago's First National Bank as he condemned American financiers for permitting it. After the readjustment period of 1920-25, according to Traylor, we had an industrial plant adequate to satisfy the wants of our population based on the new high current income. Technological and management improvement rapidly expanded productive facilities. Large foreign loans boomed foreign trade. Huge credits to consumers and installment buying puffed domestic sales.

FORMATION FLYING IS FEATURE

Personnel of 80 to Have Lunch, Take Off for Dallas

Plans were completed Monday for Midland's reception to the 80 army airmen who will land at Sloan field Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in 29 planes. General arrangements are in charge of Kenneth E. Ambrose, chairman of the chamber of commerce, aeronautics at J. E. Hill are lending utensils for serving the coffee.

J. W. Collins, owner of the Sanitary Jersey Dairy, is donating coffee and a quantity of milk to serve the flyers.

B. H. Bhakeney has been appointed "captain of the guards." He will be in charge of forces to protect the sightseers by keeping the field clear.

Planes to land in Midland are the 0-38s of the 9th, 1st squadrons and the Condors of the 11th Bombardment squadron. There will be 28 of these and one C-10 transport. They will fly over Midland by way of greeting, in close formation, then turn back west and circle Sloan field for landing.

The chamber of commerce will be host to a special luncheon in the municipal hangar. The flight will take off at noon, for Dallas.

PRORATION ROW GOES TO FEDERAL COURTS IN SUIT

AUSTIN, May 11. (UP).—The proration fight in East Texas field was taken to the federal courts today when Alfred McMillan for himself and as a trustee of the McMillan Petroleum company of California, sought an injunction against the railroad commission and A. B. Capers, proration umpire of Gregg county.

Mexico Assists Border Cleanup

JUAREZ, Mex., May 11. (UP).—A 180-mile sector from Las Palomas to Bosque Bonito is being patrolled by Mexican forces as Mexico cooperates with the United States in a border clean-up campaign.

Some 300 mounted troops were sent here in April to patrol the border, watching for smuggling and halting the illegal operation of saloons along the border. They operate under the command of Gen. Enrique Zertuche.

Saloons, located on border points that are not legal ports of entry and known as "holes in the wall," are being closed.

One of the famous saloons closed is the Fabens, Tex., "Hole in the wall." The place was an attraction for tourists who wished to see where the "tough guys" do their drinking and dancing.

The places are located in Mexico, just within the border, so American officials had no power to close them without the cooperation of Mexican authorities.

Such a plan of cooperation was mapped out between Seymour Lowman, United States assistant secretary of treasury in charge of customs, F. X. Eble, customs commissioner, and Mexican authorities recently in El Paso.

Now the patrols are arresting smugglers as they steal across the border and a great quantity of liquor and narcotics have been seized.

CHUTE JUMPS PAY TUITION

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (UP).—Parachute jumping on Sundays and holidays to thrill crowds has earned enough money for Hugh Thomas, 16, to pay his way through school. He says he has nearly saved enough for a course at the University of Southern California. He is said to be the youngest professional parachute jumper in the country.

ALLEY CAT STAYS ON POST

MEMPHIS. (UP).—A stray alley cat which became the pet of grocery clerks here evaded them for ten days, after the store was closed and refused to leave the empty building. The cat apparently was none the worse for its voluntary imprisonment.

THE CAUSE AND CURE OF DEPRESSION

Almost everyone has felt the pinch of the world-wide depression in one way or another, but few know how and why it started, and upon whose shoulders rests the tremendous responsibility of putting millions of jobless back to work.

These facts and others were brought out recently in Washington at the most important gathering of world industrialists and financiers ever met to consider an economic depression. Just what the world business leaders know about the slump will be summarized by Rodney Dutcher, Washington correspondent for The Reporter-Telegram and NEA Service, in a series of five informative articles, starting on the front page TODAY.

In these stores, Mr. Dutcher will discuss:

- 1—"Over-capacity," the real cause of the present crisis.
- 2—Business leaders are attacking unemployment.
- 3—What's happening to agriculture.
- 4—The Old World and New World during the industrial crisis.
- 5—American stores and the depression.

FOUND HANGING

SAN ANTONIO, May 11. (UP).—The body of Hugo Eickman, 46, one of two questioned after the shooting of Mrs. Melvin Tallock, 23, wife of a local wrestler and strong man, was found hanging in a garage today. A note near the body stated that he had nothing to do with the shooting. Mrs. Tallock was shot in the stomach, but physicians say she will recover.

Mrs. Spaulding Is Believed Better

While no reports of the condition of Mrs. Herman Spaulding of Lubbock had reached Midland this morning, it was believed she was improving.

T. Paul Barron, publisher of The Reporter-Telegram and in Lubbock today, said he would wire if Mrs. Spaulding's condition were not satisfactory.

A child born to Mrs. Spaulding last week was buried here Sunday, the Rev. George F. Brown officiating. The child died soon after birth.

RANGER FORCES TO BE BUILT UP AGAINST GANGS

AUSTIN, May 11. (UP).—An increase in the state Ranger force was voted today by the house because the members feared "racketeer invasion." Representatives said racketeers would not face Rangers; that Chicago and other places were organizing to oust racketeers, and that Ranger forces should be increased so they would not come here.

Large Crowds at Churches Sunday

Large crowds jammed Midland churches Sunday morning as Mother's day services were held.

All churches were crowded, according to indication, and chairs had to be placed in aisles of several.

The Methodist and Baptist churches had the largest crowds, approximately 400 having attended the former.

The Baptist church had large crowds both morning and evening.

The Christian church had 157 in Sunday school, 146 in Mother's day service. A good crowd was present at the evening service.

At the Presbyterian church service, 103 were at the Mother's day service, 82 at Sunday school. The pastor, the Rev. Thomas D. Murphy, spoke on "The Most Famous Mother," dealing with the mother of Jesus.

Attendance of the Epworth league of the Methodist church was about 90, and 225 were present at the evening church service.

GARROTER SILENTLY EXECUTES

Parents of Husband Near but Hear Nothing

DALLAS, May 11. (UP).—Police were still unable today to establish identity of a man who entered her home with Mrs. Nan Powell Herring, 31, shortly before her body was found in a bedroom.

She had been strangled and silken strips crammed into her mouth had stifled her screams.

Her husband, Walter Herring, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilke Powell, who were on the front porch, were unaware of the tragedy.

MURPHY ADDRESSES ANDREWS SENIORS

Speaking on "The Value of Faith in Every Life," the Rev. Thomas D. Murphy, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Midland, delivered the Baccalaureate address to the graduating class of the Andrews high school Sunday morning.

The auditorium was beautifully decorated with flowers, and was almost filled with school patrons, guests and students.

Special music was played and a school quartet sang. The class professional sang was impressive as the graduates, led by Bill Jones, class president, filed in with faculty members following.

The class address and presentation of diplomas is on Friday night.

AT THE HOSPITAL

Extent of the injuries of Floyd Wimberly, school student, who was hurt this morning when a horse fell on him, had not been determined this afternoon, but were not thought to be serious.

Jack Wood, and Mr. Parks, the latter from Crane, both of whom were recently operated for ruptured appendix, were reported to be improving today.

MEETING POSTPONED

Troop 54, Boy Scouts of America, has postponed its regular meeting this evening out of courtesy to those in charge of a program to be held at the high school auditorium.

This picture was taken from a plane which soared over the wreckage of the 106th Field Artillery Armory while it was still smouldering after the disastrous fire, most spectacular in Buffalo's history. The huge armory, covering two city blocks, was practically destroyed with loss estimated at $7,000,000.

MAYOR-ELECT GUNMAN'S TARGET

Bullets Fly Through Window and Almost Strike Him

PORT ARTHUR, May 11. (UP).—J. O. Logan, mayor-elect, was shot at twice by an unknown gunman last night as he lay sick in his bed. His wife and three neighbors were in the room when someone fired through the window. The bullets struck near Logan's head. It was unknown why he was attacked.

MADRID, Spain, May 11. (UP).—Martial law was ordered in Madrid today when mobs surged through the city, setting fire to the Jesuit church and convent, attempting to fire another church, and threatening to hang a priest. Council ministers held an extraordinary session and made the decision. Stock exchanges were ordered closed.

ISOLATED ARMY CAMPS WILL BE ABANDONED SOON

WASHINGTON, May 11. (UP).—Secretary of War Hurley after a conference with Hoover at Rapidan camp where reduction of army expenses were discussed, today said that abandonment of isolated military camps would be the method employed to reduce the war department's budget. It was not said which camps would be affected.

Scrivnor Sentenced For a Bank Robbery

GALVESTON, May 11. (UP).—W. S. Scrivnor today was sentenced to 10 years for robbery of a Texas City Bank in 1927. The jury was out 42 hours.

Defense Attorney L. M. Kenyon served notice of a motion for a new trial. It was the third time he was convicted on the charge. The first time he was sentenced to 99 years, the case was reversed, and a second trial resulted in a hung jury.

STRIKE WARFARE MAY FLARE AGAIN IN HARLAN, KY.

HARLAN, Ky., May 11. (UP).—Peace established by national guardsmen here after disorders had resulted in a dozen deaths, seemed near the breaking point today with several hundred additional miners out of work and the union leader and three Everts officials jailed on capital offenses.

Although officers denied it, reports persisted that a mine guard and a union coal miner killed each other at Shields.

Health Association In Odessa Formed

ODESSA, Texas, May 11 (Special).—A county public health association was organized here Saturday as the result of a two weeks campaign conducted by Miss Olga Buresh, of the Texas state health department.

Harrison and Miss Lena Solomon was enjoyed by the men. Percy J. Mims led the group in singing songs their mothers loved. The big class invited all men not attending elsewhere to visit the class next Sunday.

MIDLAND PUBLICIZED

Publicity for Midland as a cattle, oil and farming city was carried in the special edition of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal featuring the West Texas chamber of commerce convention. These articles sent by the Midland chamber of commerce described Midland's claims to being one of the leading cities of West Texas.

The Town Quack
(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)
I don't want anybody to feel hurt, but I can't see why any living human would buy a loaf of bread made in any town other than Midland.

SMALL-TOWN BASEBALL
It is hard to keep from feeling rather melancholy and aged, when one reads in a small town, middle western newspaper that Blankville is not going to have a baseball team this year.

"Lack of support on the part of fans, due to the inroads made by motor traffic, golf and other things, seems to have made it next to impossible to maintain a ball team of good caliber these days."

This little item, to be sure, isn't unusual. Many a small town newspaper has printed something similar in the last few years. But reading such an announcement is like discovering that the world has moved on and left one standing still.

So it would seem. Baseball is still the national game. The big leagues are as prosperous and active as ever, if not more so.

The small town baseball team isn't what it used to be—not in most places, anyway. Two decades ago the ball team was to the small town what a standing army was to a pre-war European monarchy.

For the small town used to take its baseball seriously—almost religiously. Sometimes the fervor of the fan became too much for him, and if the home town team lost a close game the visiting players were more apt than not to be mobbed by an indignant citizenry on their way to the train.

Now that sort of thing is passing. It isn't entirely gone yet, thank heaven, and probably it never will be; but things aren't what they used to be.

The re-election of Kemal Pasha as president of the Republic of Turkey for a third term of four years means that he is satisfactory as a ruler. It also draws attention to the American tradition that a president must not "choose to run" after he has served two terms.

The people in America have been reluctant to see some of our ablest presidents step aside after serving two terms. When they have proved themselves wise, honest and efficient executives it has often been unfortunate to have them leave the presidency.

THE "THIRD TERM" TRADITION
The re-election of Kemal Pasha as president of the Republic of Turkey for a third term of four years means that he is satisfactory as a ruler.

East is East and West is West but in spite of Kipling they met the other day at the bedside of Dan Edwards, a war hero, who has suffered severely from injuries.

Two years ago some Japanese soldiers read a story about Edwards. The soldiers receive one-half cent a day for their military services. Out of sympathy for the western soldier they saved $4.20, equivalent to 840 days' pay, which they sent to him.

Side Glances by Clark
East is East and West is West but in spite of Kipling they met the other day at the bedside of Dan Edwards, a war hero, who has suffered severely from injuries.

There are only three players vital to the story. There is not the eternal triangle and that which happens has to do with a tramp, a flower girl who is blind and a millionaire, who has his eccentricities.

A new face comes to the screen in "City Lights." Virginia Cherrill, as the girl.

Harry Myers, who by no means is new to the screen, plays the part of the eccentric millionaire.

Florence Lee, as the grandmother; Allan Garcia in the role of the butler and Hank Mann portraying the prize fighter make up the balance of the cast.

Chaplin plays the tramp. He has slightly altered his characterization in "City Lights," although he is attired in his world famous baggy trousers, abbreviated tail coat and battered derby and a foundation of the gunboat shoes.

Ten thousand or more women, men and children make up the background of the city.

One of the most important items of the production was the building of a river, with its embankment and the city in the distance. The body of water covered an area of five acres and was completed at a cost of $15,000. This is small in comparison, however, when it is stated that the construction of two streets in a downtown business section called for an expenditure of close to $100,000.

Conoco Hour Has David Guion on Air
David Guion, Texas "cowboy composer" who is equally at home on a cowpony or a piano bench, is one of the most colorful figures in the front ranks of American composers.

He is best known for his concert transcriptions of cowboy songs and old fiddler tunes, reflecting his love of the open, and his negro spirituals in the true spirit of the south. These compositions have been acclaimed by critics, musicians and singers as truly typical of America and deserving a rank with the greatest folk music of other nations.

resistible sleep and was finally dismissed from school because other members of his school imitated his behavior. He would sleep 15 to 30 minutes at a time.

A woman aged 44 had a tendency to fall asleep at church and at social gatherings, which is not in a way an abnormal tendency. Later, however, she developed loss of initiative and on several occasions had fallen asleep while standing at the cook stove.

In each of these cases there was loss of muscular power when the emotions were stimulated. Five out of six people who were treated with the new remedy seemed to be definitely relieved of their irresistible desire to sleep, and further study indicates that at last a definite method of control for this extraordinary disease has been discovered.

A theory advanced by a Roman writer in the first century that cows fed legume hay give more and richer milk, has been proved true by U. S. Department of Agriculture experiments.

FARMERS' COOPERATIVE GIN Midland

Quite recently workers have reported some interesting cases which seem to be benefited by a new remedy, so far as modern civilization is concerned, but developed hundreds of years ago by the Chinese.

A man 20 years of age found that he fell asleep on all occasions, sometimes while standing on the street and talking to friends. If the attack occurred while he was on the street, he usually leaned against something, but had two accidents from leaning against automobiles which moved away. At first he slept only for three or four minutes, but later as long as half an hour. He was given the new remedy and reported considerable improvement from its use.

A boy 11 years of age had ir-son, Stanton was humbled. The Oilers went over and administered a 17-10 defeat, chalking up 14 hits, 17 runs and eight errors, to Stanton's 7 hits, 10 runs and 10 errors.

The game was loosely played, filled with errors but interesting from standpoint of Shifflett's steady pitching and Hatfield's perfect day at bat.

The Oilers hit three singles and a home run. Shifflett struck out eight men and issued only four bases on balls.

Earned runs were, Oilers 7, Stanton 4.

Pyron and Pipkin caught for the Oilers. Timmons and Day pitched for Stanton and Elmo Pollock caught.

SCRUGGS AND SUD BUSTERS CROSS IN AFFAIR

Opening of the new playground ball diamond on South Main street this afternoon in a game between the De Luxe laundry Sud Busters and Scruggs Buick company Valve-in-Heads is expected to draw a big crowd.

The advantage of the new diamond over the rock-studded one that has been used on the high school ground is apparent. The new ground occupies an entire block, around which cars may park in great numbers. The new diamond is fast and will be in wonderful shape by the time night ball opens early next month.

The backdrop has been erected by Manager "Scotty" Gemmill of The Reporter-Telegram club, and lights will be here soon.

The diamond is situated near the old Clarence Scharbauer home.

"Business leadership should have known that it was expanding plant and equipment to meet a demand greatly in excess of any possible sustained earned income," Traylor said.

"And that foreign borrowers couldn't afford to borrow nor American lenders continue to lead at the rate of a billion dollars a year. American purchasers could not afford to borrow to purchase consumable goods and lenders, could not afford to lend them at the rate of six billion or more annually for the purchase of such products."

Competition Blamed. But competition spurred on improvement of production facilities and capital was called upon "until today we find millions upon millions of idle capital investment with its consequent heavy charge and with little likelihood of early utilization in a manner to earn its keep."

Concretely, Traylor cited the automobile industry with its annual production capacity of 8,000,000 cars and trucks and recent estimates of the possible American market at around 4,000,000. Maximum capacity in the radio industry is apparently nearly three times the normal sales possible, he said, "and similar illustrations could be produced in various degrees for most of our principal industries."

Intelligent understanding should have indicated that such overexpansion would leave industries seriously involved and employes out of work when the peak demand had passed, Traylor said, and as for financiers, as early as 1927 it was obvious to anyone experienced in granting credit that if expansion and speculation were not checked disaster was inevitable. But every kind of character of combination and merger was made without regard to economic advisability or future possibilities of economy and profits.

False or unsafe positions frequently have been aggravated by tariffs or other government aid, it was pointed out by Jean Parmentier, director of the French Credit Foncier. As smaller and intermediary plants had to suspend they have been taken over in the general trend toward industrial consolidation, Parmentier pointed out, and operated by larger groups. Instead of disappearing as the weak sisters of industry they have remained to retard what might be regarded as a normal solution of depression.

Absolves Farmers. Overcapacity and overproduction have cursed both industry and agriculture, Theunis pointed out, but he absolved the farmers in comparison with the industrialist on the ground that the latter knew just what they were about when they entered the field of competition with excess productive capacity. Industrial overproduction might be brought about by a small group of industrialists, but agricultural over-production was the result of a struggle of many millions of producers fighting to maintain a certain type of individual independence by maintaining themselves on the soil.

Elsewhere at the Congress was traced clearly the progress of the great depression and it was shown how raw materials production and finished materials production went to pot together. Sketchily: The raw materials countries began to suffer at the time of the 1927-28 slump in Germany. The great industrial countries were going full tilt but raw materials were produced far in excess of the peak market for them, resulting in falling prices which seriously affected the raw materials countries and their buying power.

As other countries faced severe economic crises the industrial countries will be organized into the 22nd observation wing. Stopovers for fuel will be made by various units in the following cities: Reno, Tulsa, Tuscon, Midland, Shreveport, Middleton, Muskogee, Kingman, Amarillo, Galveston and New Orleans.

tries passed the boom zenith and started downward. They wanted less raw material then, of course, and the raw materials countries were hit harder than ever. Unemployment came along in a big way and soon no country was equipped to buy its quota from the world's vast over-expansion of productive facilities.

SPORTS REPORTS

C. C. Duffey and Allen Watts were the first on the miniature golf links, despite the fact they lacked more than a few points in appearing as graceful as the second couple, Helen Margaret Ulmer and Martha Louise Nobles.

The Scharbauer course opened Saturday. From the way the players were straggling in, it appears the course will see a year of liberal patronage.

Braucher again: There has been some talk lately of Johnny Risko quitting the ring. Johnny has a nice trust fund sailed away where he can't place his hands' on it, and he doesn't need to worry about working anymore. The income will take care of him as long as he lives.

But, somehow we wish Risko could stay in there punching just a while longer. The ring needs somebody like him around. He's a lion, that lad.

Tex Rickard expressed it rightly when he said of Risko, "Never seed nuthin' like him. Can't fight a lick, but he beats all the good ones." It was Tex who gave Risko the nickname, "The Spoiler" and the honest, fearless old plugger is just that.

He beat Sharkey, Godfrey, Campolo, Uzcudun and came within an inch of trouncing Gene Tunney. Yet he has gone campaigning on the 10-20-30 circuit and lost to the most egregious sort of eggs. Losing or winning, he presents a spectacle that cannot be forgotten. He always attacks. With the tide of battle running definitely against him, he attacks. His lion-like charges have often wreted victory from what seemed certain defeat.

His recent fight with Max Baer was typical of him. He was figured beaten before he ever entered the ring. In the very first round, he took enough terrific punches to slay a stone statue. His knees were wobbly when he sought his corner at the end of the opening session.

Yet he went out and won the very next round with a furious onslaught. Baer, heralded as the most promising young heavyweight in the country today, was so surprised at the attack that he momentarily forgot his usual nonchalant grin.

After the third Risko started to slip again, Baer's sharp, clean hitting rocking the old rubber boy from post to post. Until the ninth, Risko seemed a beaten man.

Then the amazing thing happened again. Risko came out for the ninth swinging like a drunken savage. Again that confident grin filtered away from the features of the Californian. Here was the Risko of old, the fighting fool, the spoiler.

There is something in the about the fighter that comes from behind. In this outburst of fighting fury, Risko was magnificent. Baer could do nothing about it. The old spoiler was himself again, a raging hurricane of punches.

The old fellow's rally continued in the tenth. Baer tried to fight back, but it was futile. He must have felt that it was useless to try to maul the maelstrom that kept whirling and surging into his body and about his face. Risko's punches came from everywhere.

"I didn't think he could do it," said Baer, after the storm was over, "but he did, he beat me, that's what he did. And I thought sure I was going to win."

The Spoiler! What a wicked old rascal that Risko is!
