SPIKES SUIT AGAINST HALEY IS UNDER WAY AT LUBBOCK

EXPECTED TESTIMONY FOR TODAY

Eleven of Jury Were Selected Monday Afternoon

Trial of the libel suit of Fred Spikes against J. Evetts Haley and the Capital Reservation lands was expected to reach the taking of testimony this morning, eleven members of the jury having been selected when court was adjourned late Monday.

The case grew out of alleged statements in the "History of the XIT Ranch" written by Haley, former Midland man and now secretary of the Texas Historical society, and is one of a group of cases by members of the Spikes family involving demands of several millions dollars in damages.

Court Works Fast
Eleven men had been tentatively accepted for possible service on the jury of the 99th district court which is to hear the $200,000 libel action brought by Fred Spikes against J. Evetts Haley and the Capital Reservation lands, when Judge Clark Mullican dismissed court for the night Monday. No challenges were made by counsel for either side, but it was expected that work is expected to start as soon as the twelfth man could be secured this morning.

Fifty-four men comprised the list of veniremen when court started at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Five men had been excused and six men who had been notified had failed to appear at the appointed time. Judge Mullican, after calling the names of the men who failed to appear ordered Sheriff Wade Hardy to serve summons on each one. Later two of the men appeared and one man was excused.

Selection Announced
Tentative selections were O. W. Benson, O. G. Braden, L. E. Bradford, S. G. Bowers, E. C. Bush, Earl Bullock, Thomas Bush, Lee J. Sanders, J. M. Hallor, J. T. Burdette and Rufus Bundy.

All of the venire, after they were sworn in, were sent to the court room of the 72nd court and there held until called to the court room on the third floor. Immediately following the dismissal of the court for the day, Judge Mullican instructed those not yet examined to report to the same room at 9 o'clock this morning. The eleven men were told to report to the jury room at the same hour.

Jury to Be Free
Judge Mullican also announced that it was not the intention of the court to have the jury spend the night at the court house but to (See HALEY SUIT page 8)

Expect Sunday Show Bill to Become Law

AUSTIN, May 12. (UP).—Unless the governor vetoes the Sunday movie bill by midnight, Sunday movies will become lawful everywhere in Texas.

Municipalities have the right by ordinance to settle the question under the bill, but if it becomes effective, there will be no state law against them.

Oil Fire Rules for Etext Now in Effect

AUSTIN, May 12. (UP).—Safety rules for the East Texas oil field, designed to prevent recurrences of such fires as that at Gladewater which killed nine, have been issued by the railroad commission.

The rules become effective immediately but are subject to change.

Hearings have been set for Gregg, Rush and Smith counties and extension areas.

Gunman's Girl May Hold Fate

Helen Walsh, above, girl friend of Francis "Two-Gun" Crowley, is expected to give testimony that will help New York police send the 20-year-old gunman to the electric chair for two killings. She was caught with him and Rudolph Durlinger when 100 policemen besieged an apartment with machine guns and tear gas bombs. Crowley is accused of shooting a policeman and another man. Officials say Durlinger admits killing Virginia Brannen, "dime-a-dance" girl.

LEGIONNAIRES, VETS WILL HOLD BARBECUE MONDAY

Members of the Brooks W. Lee post of Veterans of Foreign Wars, members of the Woods W. Lynch post of the American legion, their wives, children, mothers and sweethearts will have a barbecue at Cloverdale next Monday afternoon at 6:30.

All members of the two organizations and their families are invited to the celebration. Committees are being named this week to look after details.

The veterans and legionnaires are at work on their big Memorial day program to be held at 11 o'clock May 31 at the Presbyterian church. This will be the first joint Memorial Day service held by the two groups.

Poppies have been bought from disabled veterans for selling here May 30. Disabled veterans who have no other source of income will share in the profits from the poppies.

Local Bankers at State Convention

M. C. Ulmer and wife and J. R. Martin of Midland are in San Angelo today, attending the annual convention of the Texas Bankers' association.

The convention opened last night with a banquet honoring officers and former presidents of the organization and business sessions were expected to get under way today.

It was indicated that as many as 1,000 registrations would be reached today.

HAWKS SMASHES LONDON-BERLIN FLIGHT RECORD

CROYDON, England, May 12. (UP).—Captain Frank Hawks today broke the London to Berlin air speed record. He averaged 204 miles per hour. The flight took two hours and 57 minutes, breaking the old record of four and a half.

Formal Opening of Hospital Today

Large crowds were expected this afternoon to view the new Mid-West hospital and clinic, on its formal opening. Hours are from four to ten, and there are special attendants to show visitors through. The opening today is in connection with National Hospital day.

WACO, May 12. (UP).—Unable to take food, Dr. S. P. Brooks, president of Baylor university, was weakening rapidly today.

Dr. J. T. Harrington, attending physician, said it "appears to be the last day he can live."

Thrift Program to Reduce Army Posts

WASHINGTON, May 12. (UP).—Twenty or thirty army posts will be abandoned to aid President Hoover's economy program, it was announced at the White House.

The president said he had appointed a committee representing the army, justice and agricultural departments and the veterans bureau to ascertain which of these sites will be used as government departments.

RETURNS TO DALLAS

Mrs. J. L. Carter returned to her home in Dallas this morning after spending three weeks here with her daughter, Mrs. R. M. Barron. Miss Virginia Carter and Dorothy Barron accompanied Mrs. Carter, expecting to be in Dallas for a few days.

He Lived as a Hermit in Midst of New York City

By NEA Service
NEW YORK, May 12. — Lot of mountain caves and deep forests aren't necessary to the leading of a hermit's life.

Albert Bruning, 26, has been a hermit for a year and a half in America's largest city, within 10 miles of Broadway's glittering lights and teeming millions.

Hardly out of ear-shot of roaring elevated trains, rumbling subways and shrieking taxicabs, he has successfully spurned civilization since the fall of 1929 when he hid himself away in a skimpy woods near Creedmore, in the Borough of Queens.

Surrounded by some of the most famous restaurants in the world, he lived on a diet of milk and stale bread. Within walking distance of Fifth Avenue and Broadway shops, he let his lone pair of trousers go into rags and wrapped his feet in burlap. Barbers he scorned, and his hair and his beard grew scorchingly. But he was happy.

He was happy, that is, until the other day when a policeman discovered him in his metropolitan hermitage—an improved tent—and took him to a suburban station. Albert explained that he had taken up his hermit's life because he had lost his job as a clerk in a chain grocery store and didn't want to be a burden to his sister.

Blue-coated philanthropists went into conference. They decided he needed a decent meal, and provided him with a repast of steak, string beans and potatoes. Albert didn't touch the meat, but even the vegetables proved too much for a stomach grown unaccustomed to a civilized diet.

He became ill and was taken to the Kings County Hospital.

Carnival Man Hurt When Hit by Pipe

W. A. Hill, concessions dealer of the Tidwell shows, was severely injured last night when the show was here, when a man, said to have been arrested in connection with the affair and lodged in jail here, is alleged to have hit him over the head with a stake or a piece of metal pipe.

Hill was carried to the Midland clinic-hospital at 6 o'clock Monday night and given emergency treatment. He likely will recover, hospital attaches said this afternoon, although his condition was said to be serious.

Only Eight Teams In Night League

Proposal that more than eight teams be admitted to the night playground ball league, which opens early in June, was quickly forestalled in a meeting held Monday night in the office of the chamber of commerce by officials of the league.

Several additional teams wanted in the league, but it was pointed out that these teams had plenty of time to enter while newspaper publicity was seeking entries.

The Rexall stores placed the last entry, to make a total of eight that will be in the league.

Teams entered are: Texas Electric, Southwestern Bell Telephone company, Rexall stores, Scruggs Buick, Reporter-Telegram, Midland Hardware, De Luxe laundry, Cowden-Epley.

Shouse to Speak

AUSTIN, May 12. (UP).—The national democratic committee representative, Jouett Shouse, will address the legislature tonight. His address will be broadcast from stations KTAT and KUT at 7:45.

North Ward Program Is Well Attended

Fully a thousand persons were at the graduating exercises of the Midland grade and primary schools of the North ward, held Monday night in the auditorium of the high school.

The program was said to have been extraordinary in every sense. A large per cent of the students in choruses, dances and an operetta, "The Land of Dreams Come True," were only 7 years old, yet they conducted their parts on the program with the finished acting of much older children.

The program was in three parts, the first being folk dances of the primary department, the second an invocation by the Rev. Edwin C. Calhoun, a declamation by Marie Cook, first honor students of the ninth grade, a solo by Mrs. A. J. Florey, and an acrobatic dance by Audrey Johnson; the third was the operetta.

Mrs. Van Camp trained the youngsters for musical parts.

Hotel Guest Killed By Gas Explosion

FORT WORTH, May 12. (UP).—A gas explosion, caused by a leaky pipe, rocked a downtown hotel this morning and killed J. D. Scott, 28, of Sherman.

Scott was found in a hallway with his clothes burning. Windows of the hotel were shattered.

CHURCHES BURN IN REPUBLIC

Martial Law Fails to Halt Series of Atrocities

MADRID, May 12. (UP).—Mobs continued burning churches and convents today. Martial law was declared in Alicante and Cadiz. An anti-religious sentiment was spreading to the provinces, with Jesuit, Carmelite and Dominican orders bearing the brunt of the attack. Troops and cavalry were guarding churches but fires continued to be set.

In Granada, monks and nuns were evacuated from buildings and were placed in private homes for safety. Nuns and monks throughout Madrid and provinces fled convents and churches. Twenty-three religious buildings in Spain have been burned.

Lions, Rotary to Name New Officers

Officers of two Midland luncheon clubs will be named this week, the Lions club holding its annual election Wednesday and the Rotary club Thursday.

Installation of the new Lions club officers will be held the first Wednesday in June. Rotary officers assume their duties the first Thursday in July.

In both instances, nominating committees present name for officers and directors and other nominations may be made from the floor.

More Than 500 Post Covers on Planes

More than 500 special letters, stamped with the Midland chamber of commerce's special cachet, were mailed this morning on the army fleet. These will be mailed from Dayton to many places over the globe, according to Otis A. Kelley, commander of the American legion and official in charge of mailing the envelopes.

Kelley said that people in South America, Cuba, Canada and other foreign places had mailed letters to Midland, asking that they be posted and placed aboard the fleet.

The special cachet bore a figure of "Jiggs," insignia of the 11th Bombardment squadron. An interesting bit of history explains the choice of this insignia for the special cachet for the special cachet. This history is bound up with that of the 11th bombers.

The 11th Bombardment squadron, one of the first American air units to cross the front lines after our entry into the World war, arrived in France before equipment was available for its use. For month the officers and men were buffeted around from pillar to post in various ports of England and France until the situation became almost intolerable. Many of the jobs assigned to them had no relation to their training. Burning desires to try their wings were met only by further delays, but every knock was greeted with a smile.

When the time came to choose an insignia, someone suggested "Jiggs." His cheerful countenance, despite continuous rebuffs, won him a permanent home in the squadron. Incidentally the original painting of "Jiggs" of the 11th, born in the mud at Maulan in France, graces the walls of the squadron headquarters.

But why have an insignia? The custom is partly a heritage from knightly days, when each family had its coat of arms. Pride in one's organization is a necessary part of morale.

There is, however, a more tangible (See 500 COVERS page 8)

Pulitzer Winners

An editorial on Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska and a book, "The Coming of the War," dealing with the history of the United States, won Pulitzer prizes this year for Charles S. Ryckman, above, of the Fremont, (Neb.) Tribune, and Prof. Bernadotte E. Schmitt, below, of the University of Chicago faculty. Ryckman's editorial was chosen in competition with thousands by writers on large metropolitan dailies.

SEVENTH LIBRARY STATION OPENS; BIG CIRCULATION

Opening of the seventh station of the Midland county library May 11 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Holly Roberts, in the Warfield community, has been announced by Miss Marguerite Hester, county librarian.

The Stokes school station will be operated during the summer months at the home of Mrs. C. Flowers, it was announced.

County library circulation during April was 5,061 volumes, divided as follows:

Cotton Flat, 60 volumes; Mrs. E. B. Osborne, custodian; McClintie, 80, Miss Opal Myrick; Pleasant Valley, 791, Miss Jewel Kemp; Prairie Lea, 147, Miss Gladys Mills; Stokes, 147, Mrs. C. M. Lee; Valley View, 141, Miss Lacie Wilson; Main library, 3,715.

The gain in circulation over April 1930 was 2,611 volumes.

Drought Work Ends Using $47,000,000

WASHINGTON, May 12. (UP).—The government completed its drought relief work, using $47,000,000 of the $67,000,000 provided by congress, President Hoover announced today. Loans were made to 390,000 persons.

ONE SHIP IS FORCED DOWN WEST

Pilots Bring It in Under Own Power Later on

Nineteen 0-38 attack planes converted into light bomber use, nine B-2 bombers, Curtiss Condors, and one Douglas C-1-C observation plane landed on Sloan field this morning, en route from the west coast to Dayton, where the first air division of 683 planes will be mustered under command of Brigadier General Benjamin D. Fulois.

Personnel of approximately 80 men had lunch in the municipal hangar, through the courtesy of the chamber of commerce. The aeronautics committee of that body presided over the sandwich line and "Chun-ky" Cowden over the pot that boiled "a gallon of coffee per flyer."

The planes flew in formation over the city, the 19 0-38's in one group and part of the Condors in another. The flight over Midland was made through appreciation shown for Midland's courtesies, it was explained.

Two Condors landed after the other planes, almost an hour late. Motor trouble in the ship flown by 2nd Lieut. Robert K. Urban, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Urban of Abilene, and 2nd Lieut. Frank M. Crismann, was responsible. The plane landed on an emergency field out of the Guadalupe pump station. The chief engineering officer, also flying a Condor, landed beside him and soon the two planes were in the air again. Several who knew Lieut. Urban were at the field to welcome him. Mrs. L. B. Lancaster and Mrs. George T. Abell carried him a message from his parents, who suddenly decided this morning to meet him in Dallas rather than Midland. Urban is an intimate friend of Field Manager Harold Becherer; the two trained at Kelly field, San Antonio, where Urban was graduated in 1929. Becherer earlier. He was flying the oldest Condor of the squadron.

Take off for Dallas
The Condor squadron took off soon after luncheon had been served, and was over town at 12:24, proceeding east to Dallas, night stop. The other ships followed.

Lieut. Givens, publicity officer of the flight, said the squadrons would arrive in Louisville on the day the "dabry" is run. They will be in Dayton Friday.

The field was well policed, and was roped off with a second control fence. The crowds, orderly as (See ARMY PLANES page 8)

JUSTICE FOR THE COP

Americans generally do not have a very good opinion of their police. Part of this is due to the prevalence of crime in the large cities, which has led to a fairly widespread belief—sometimes justified and sometimes not—that the police are inefficient and corrupt, unable to cope with gang leaders even if they wished to.

Part of it, too, probably comes from the fact that the ordinary citizen's chief contact with the police comes through the traffic officer. This functionary is usually overworked and harassed, and his temper, quite naturally, tends to be a short one.

However, this isn't quite the whole story; and it is worth remembering that the ordinary cop is ready and willing to risk his life against long odds for the protection of the public. He does it repeatedly, and gets little credit for it.

There is, for instance, Patrolman Ernest Staab of Cleveland, who suffers from intermittent spells of sickness and labors against a curse of ill health that may eventually cut short his life because of his self-sacrifice and devotion to duty at the terrible Cleveland Clinic fire two years ago.

Newspaper readers will remember that fire. The hospital building filled with deadly gas, and more than 100 people lost their lives. Patrolman Staab was one of the first officers to reach the scene. Again and again he went into the gas-filled building. Before he himself finally collapsed, he had saved 21 lives.

For weeks Staab was at the point of death. Finally he recovered—partially. He still has spells of painful sickness. He still does not know when one of these spells is going to carry him off. But he simply says, "It was my job," and asks for no sympathy.

There is an example of the way the "ordinary cop" rises to the emergency.

There are plenty more like him. There is, for instance, Patrolman Charles E. Ripley—promoted, now, to a sergeant—of Dover, N. J., who by his nerve and quickness was able to arrest James Nannery, a dangerous young thug for whom police of half a dozen states were hunting.

Staab and Ripley are not uncommon characters. They are fairly representative of the average policeman throughout the United States. They seldom get much credit. The ordinary citizen finds it easy to criticize them. But they are there when the emergency arises.

Doctor Blasts Theory That Child May Be Harmed if Mother Sees Fearful Object

No matter how often contradictions are published, a feeling seems to persist that the prospective child may be marked by some mental impression made on the mother.

It is said that the baby will be marked if the mother sees an accident, a fire, a snake, or some similar horrible or fear-producing object. A suggestion is also made that the mother should visit art museums and listen to beautiful music with the idea that the child will thus reflect these beauties.

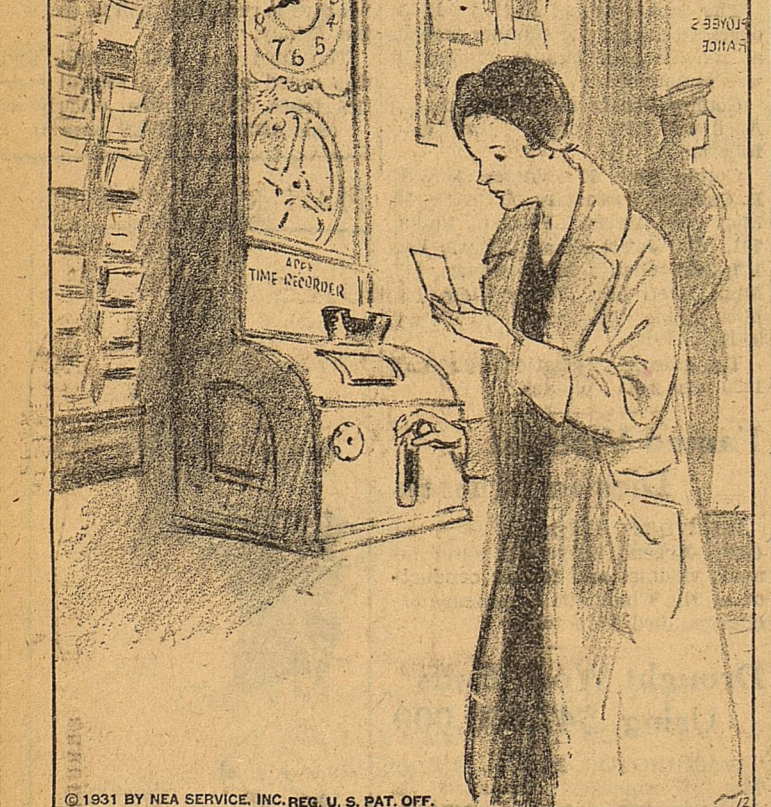

There is not the slightest evidence to indicate that the observation of a dog fight by the mother will produce canine characteristics in the infant nor is there any evidence to prove that repeated listening to symphonies will make the offspring a Chopin or Beethoven.

There is, however, plenty of evidence to indicate that nervous irritation, heart disturbances, fatigue during the period, may harm the infant as well as the mother. Contentment and happy anticipation bring the mother to the period of childbirth in a proper mental attitude to withstand the nerve strain associated with this time.

Fatigue means that the tissues concerned in the proper development of the infant are not at their best. Worry and nervousness may seriously interfere with the ability of the mother to nurse her child.

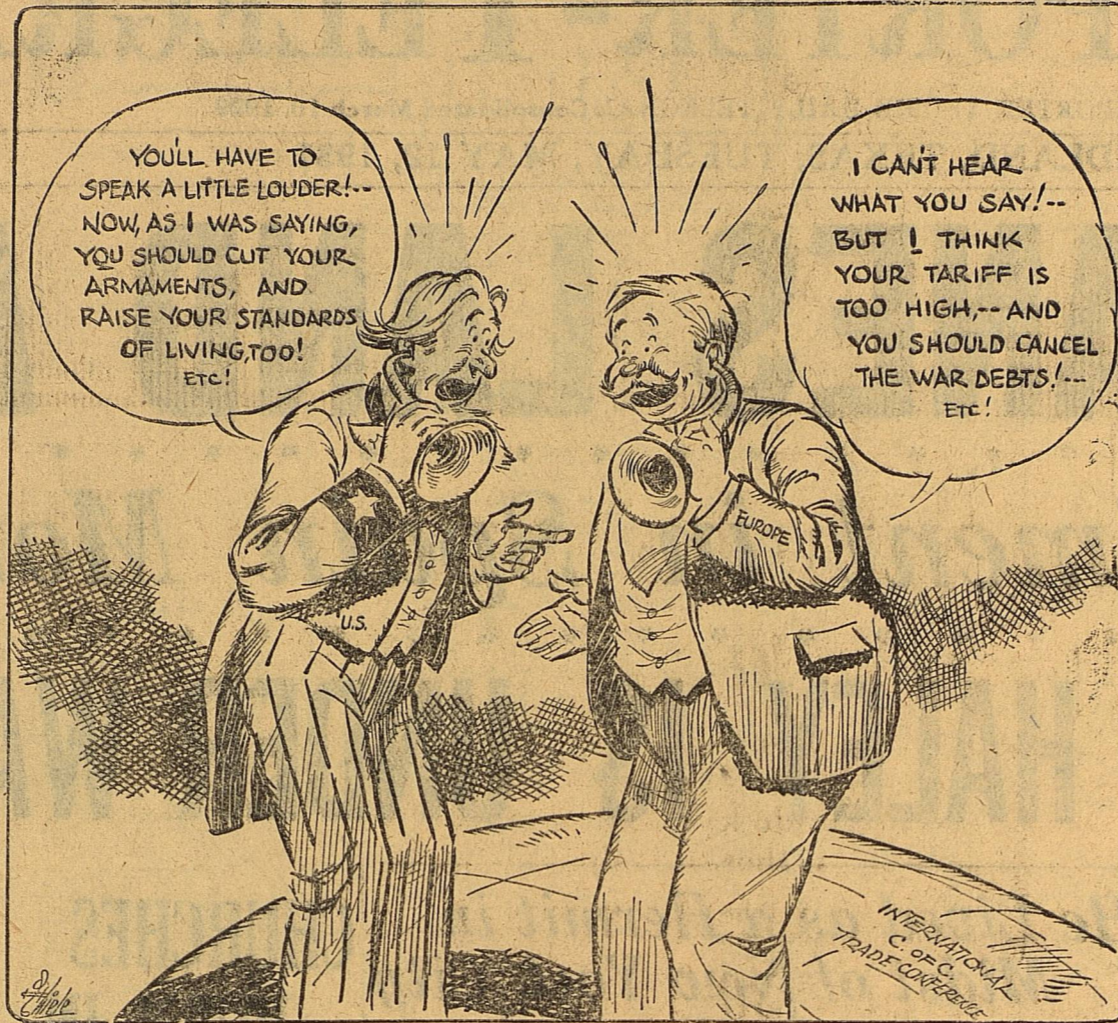

It has been repeatedly urged that a mother who is anxious to nurse the baby, who is not disturbed about conditions in the home, who has a sufficient amount of recreation and rest, is better able to produce the lactical fluid that the infant requires and better able to give it.

Conversation Under Difficulties!

Evarts, Haven for Jobless, Seethes in Labor War Rage

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of two exclusive stories from the Eastern Kentucky mine fields where violence has broken out in a war between the miners and operators. In the last story, Steven Humphrey told how the miners abandoned the United Mine Workers of America for the Ku Klux Klan during its hey-day several years ago, and how they are now seeking to get back in this union and also win union recognition from the operators, lost when they quit to join the Klan.

By STEVE HUMPHREY, Written for NEA Service (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

EVARTS, Ky., May 12.—I want this place guarded! Give me men with rifles at each corner and guard this house to hell, regardless. For God's sake, men, don't let anybody get under this building; those 'gun thugs' say they are going to blow up this place tonight!

War is on between Harlan county's thousands of jobless miners and the mine owners—real war, with machine guns and tear gas bombs on one side pitted against the squint-eyed organizer on the other—and a stocky 'gun' organizer opens with this fervent appeal as he rises to address a meeting of 300 men in a ramshackle Evarts garage.

Four overall-clad miners—tall, cold-eyed mountaineers—slung rifles to their shoulders and mount guard. Genuine or fancied, the threat of attack has keyed the audience and roused its fighting blood.

They are meeting in Evarts, because Evarts stands on about the only land in the county that is not owned by the local coal companies.

It is what the miners call a "free town," meaning that it has stores owned and operated by merchants instead of commissaries owned by the coal companies. It was just out of Evarts that miners clashed with Sheriff Blair's deputies and mine guards the other day, four men being killed and two wounded in the battle.

Two miles down the road from the union town is the other side of the picture. Guards of the Black Mountain Coal Corporation, guns bristling significantly, are posted around the company's property.

The personal attention that means so much in its proper physical and mental development.

There is, therefore, during the period of childbirth, both a physical and mental hygiene that must be observed for the best results. The government printing office has available a pamphlet called "Prenatal Care," which provides much additional information on this subject and which would be helpful to every mother.

Wages Not Only Issue Childless says he could give 400 men employment and that they could earn $6 a day, despite the recent wage cut.

Miners who have worked for him rejoin: "You'll do well to make $1.50 to $2 a day. They say they have an eight hour day at his mine, but they give you 16 hours to do it in."

But the matter of wages is not the only issue. The men say they want better working conditions and they want to be free to trade with independent merchants who, they say, charge less.

Above all, they want their union recognized as it once was in the days before they waxed so prosperous that they quit the United Mine Workers of America. And the operators, above all, insist that this is something they will never grant.

"We'll never leave the union again" is the slogan of every meeting of the jobless miners as they assemble under the guard of patrols of their members shouldering rifles and shotguns.

The national organization has not recognized the locals of the Harlan field. Apparently it is waiting until the members can show an indisputably organized body of workers before it will consent to take them back. The organization, in fact, denies that it is taking any part in the present agitation here.

A Fighting Lot But these men of the Kentucky mountains are confident they can take care of themselves, regardless of outside aid. They are hospitable and friendly to the extreme once you have won their good graces, but they are a fighting lot when crossed.

Last year there were 34 murders in Harlan county. The March grand jury returned 11 indictments for murder, while eight killings were in "simultaneous pairs." There were cases in which two men fought to the death.

One of the pairs were brothers—Jim and John Bailey. Jim got a job as a guard at a mine. John "cussed him out" for it at the courthouse. John got drunk that night and shot Jim. Dying, Jim got his pistol and killed John.

Such is the background of the war between capital and labor in Harlan county, where union leaders say 5000 wives and children of jobless miners now face hunger.

The industrial mines, such as those controlled by U. S. Steel and Andrew Mellon's mines at Coxton, are operating without trouble. The operators who are feeling the pinch are those who must go into the open market to sell. They point to the decrease in "lake orders" (shipments to the iron fields of Wisconsin and Michigan) and to the tremendous encroachment that the development of hydro-electric power in the Carolinas has made on their coal market. They look, too, with a fearful eye toward Muscle Shoals.

The operators say they have been forced into a position where they have to fight to survive. The miners say that, too, of their own case. And in Harlan county, fighting means fighting.

Amber is said to be a hard lustrous resinous substance composed of a fossilized vegetable gum which originally exuded from an extinct kind of cone-bearing tree standing in prehistoric forests.

Truly This Is Era of Harsh Words; and McWhorter Plans to Aid Jobless by Having Everyone's Mouth Washed

WASHINGTON.—This is an era of harsh feelings, according to Senator J. Boonboom McWhorter.

If everyone who has been calling other people bad names were to have his mouth washed out, the senator suggests, most of the 6,000,000 unemployed would be assured of jobs in soap factories.

McWhorter will introduce a bill to wash all those mouths but has no hope that it will pass because a majority of the members of Congress would be affected.

"It has been many months since the newspapers reported an instance where someone thought of something nice to say about anything or anybody," the senator observes.

"The Republican National Committee is praising Mr. Hoover, radio announcers pay homage to certain toothpastes and rubber tires and both Washington and Lincoln came in for a moderate amount of commendation on their birthdays this year.

Everybody Is "Sore" "But in both politics and business everybody is so sore and frazzled that there has been more general and whole-hearted panning than during any previous period within my memory.

"If every knock were really a boost the millennium would be here now, nobody would have to work and life would be just a beautiful bore.

"Diplomats are supposed to be the calmest, most tactful people in the world and you get an idea how sour the world has turned itself when even they begin to get nasty.

"We exchange ambassadors with Spain and the ambassador exchange epithets. One day our ambassador there was attacked by the Madrid press because he was supposed to have said that the members of the new provisional government looked like 'a bunch of jailbirds.' That same day the new Spanish government appointed an ambassador to us who was on record as accusing us of 'stark imperialism,' asserting that this country 'considers the whole continent its prey' and demanding that we apologize for starting the Spanish-American war.

"Meanwhile, the Haitian minister has got himself into a jam because he was said to have insinuated that General Smedley Butler was a fake hero. And Butler, who called Mussolini a hit-and-run driver and was accused of 'obscene' language when he said 'Hell' on the radio, is only one of our public men who gets into one duel of harsh words after another.

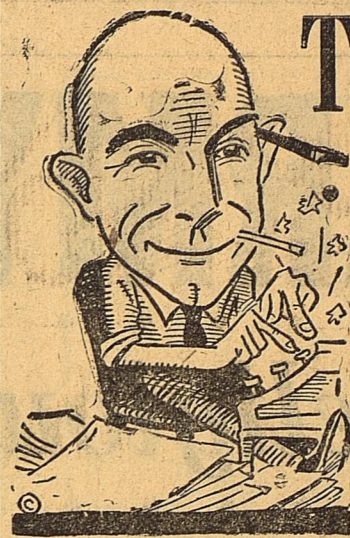

"No chapter of history displays so many adjectives used to adorn the word 'liar' as the Republicans and Democrats used in the big name-calling contest between Chairman Fess and Chairman Shouse. No president within the oldest inhabitant's memory has been castigated as has Mr. Hoover. And the anathema hurled at each other by Republicans and Democrats is only excelled by the imprecations and maledictions exchanged between regular Republicans and progressive Republicans and between wet Democrats and dry Democrats.

When you hear Republicans like Julius Barnes and Mr. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania Railroad cursing the protective tariff you realize how good and mad everybody is at everything and everybody else.

Chicago Sets Records "New records of invective were established in the Chicago majority campaign and every day somebody is piling new abuse on Mayor Jimmy Walker and Tammany Hall, only to be branded as bolshevik in return.

"Even President Hoover forsook his accustomed calm the other day to deliver a fearless denunciation of Sandino, the Nicaraguan rebel.

"I call to mind the good old days when we were all comparatively happy and when we had any spleen in our systems we took it out on the Russians. Now we are razzing the Russians more enthusiastically than ever, the rest of the world is still razzing the United States and among our own folks nobody seems to find life bearable any more—less they are picking fights with

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

As long as coyotes have been in this country and as long as some men have been here, I am surprised to learn that Fish Pollard, Louis Evers, Ollie King and Brooks Lee have arranged themselves against B. C. Girdley, Bud Estes, A. C. Francis and Sam R. McKinney.

The big argument among these prominent cattlemen and officers is whether a coyote suckles her young. These men have actually come to the point where blows will be struck if an agreement is not reached pretty soon.

They could probably settle the argument by calling on Ray Parker or Frank Midkiff at the high school. These young fellows are real cowpunchers and they know the plains. If they don't know, we'd better call on some little fellow at junior high to settle the argument.

Those little brats of north ward are to be congratulated on their excellent performance last night. They put on a real show at the high school auditorium even after threatening words that the opera would not be good.

I imagine that those kids felt rather funny when they were told that their show would be no good. However, they showed the real modern slant of looking at things and instead of being discouraged, they buckled down to the grind of preparation and knocked 'em cold with their performance.

Six Shooter Dean was in the office this morning showing the boys some pointers on his lightning draw. Old Six Shooter admits that he can still pull one pretty fast.

He told a story of having to reach for his gat one day when dealing with a bad gunman in the old days. Six Shooter grabbed for his gun and it came out spurring lead. Before he could get the barrel pointed in the direction he wanted it, all six shots had been fired (often he would start shooting before the gun was out of its holster).

Well, Six Shooter thought he was a doomed man. He hurriedly began to beg the Lord's pardon for being such a bad boy.

What a relief it was when Six Shooter saw his man fall, not from a bullet wound but from the string of a big red ant that had found admission to the gunman's shoe.

Six Shooter Dean, I don't know whether to believe that story or not.

Bill Tilden Horst has a bad habit of putting the breeze on a net reel each other.

"Incidentally, there's a dirty skunk out in my state who made a speech the other night and said the only excuse for the people sending me to Washington was that it made the state so much better a place to live in."

turn when he invites a bunch of novices to play on his tennis court. Horst has just been converted. A hot one with little pants on it got him in the mid-section. Guess he will be griping about that the rest of his life.

Wish I could get on that coyote fuss. There is a big Stetson hat at stake and I just love Stetson hats.

Wish Pollard, who writes a wicked hand, has written to several historical societies and animal outfits to get information about the coyote.

Fish had better write to the State Game and Fish commission.

Louie's mama cat is just a dream now. She was killed last night. One story is to the effect that she didn't like Louie's cokes and was on her way to the Petroleum Pharmacy to imbibe one of the four million a day drinks when some bird ran over her. Her last thought was of the little kittens.

My version of the tragedy is that the old mamma cat was going to see a lawyer in the 12-story building to see about a little alimony.

Those crazy Frenchmen took advantage of the mamma cat's death and they gave the kittens chloroform. Damn it, I was going to ask for one of 'em kittens, not Frenchmen, but they say that Louie was afraid they would remember his kindness and in days to come would sit on his back fence and serenade him.

Professor Lackey put a cold one over on me last night when he spread half a gallon of ice cream and a bushel of strawberries on a certain table and invited his friends.

I may not have a telephone, but I live right close to town and a big Studebaker could take anybody looking for me to my place in about a minute. That's all right.

A city fellow was about to board a bus in a small town.

"Hello, Noah, is your ark full?" the city fellow wise-crackingly said.

"Nope, she ain't full," was the reply. "We need one more jack-ass, so just climb in."

Frenchman Envisions Fast Trans-Atlantic Air Travel

By MARY KNIGHT, United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, May 6 (UP).—Air travel from Paris to New York in 22 minutes is merely a matter of time, is the opinion of G. Edward Pendray, vice-president of the American Interplanetary society, during his recent visit to the French capital.

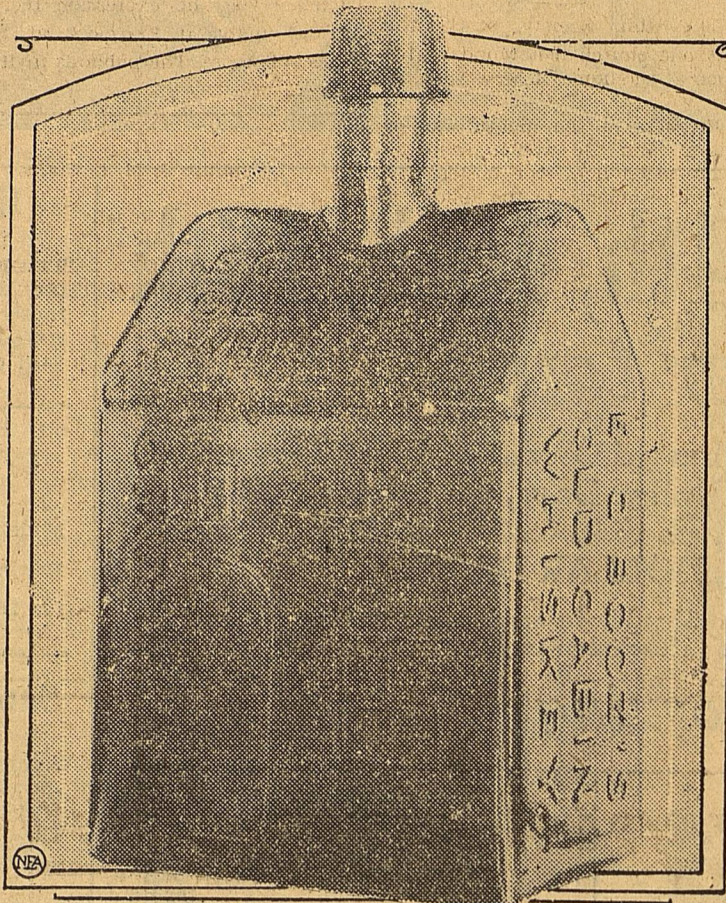

"This idea is long past the 'nut' and 'crank' stage," he said. "Experiments are proving theories and developments are bringing the day of intercontinental and interplanetary transportation by rocket ever closer. There are many scoffers, of course. There are many difficulties yet to be overcome. But I honestly believe that in ten years the first rocket will have bridged the space between Europe and America, although it probably will be still in the experimental stage."

"The headquarters of the American Interplanetary society are in the Museum of National History, and the museum curator, Dr. Clyde Fisher, is among the organization's leaders. Another is Sir Hubert Wilkins, one of the greatest explorers of the century, whose illustrious forbear, John Wilkins, bishop of Chester, in 1640 wrote the English language's first discussion of a rocket trip to other planets.

"Dr. Robert Goddard, under a Guggenheim fund of $100,000, is experimenting now with rockets in New Mexico, perfecting a new liquid fuel, and Dr. Charles Greely Abbot, of the Smithsonian institution, is working on new plans. Colonel Charles Lindbergh is also actively interested," Pendray said.

Astronautics is the term applied to the science of interplanetary communication, and there are three other large organizations in the world struggling for practical discoveries in the specialized field. In France there is a committee very closely allied with the study of astronomy, headed by Andre Hirsch and Dr. Robert Esnault-Pelterie. In Germany is the Verein fur Raums-

This Is Why It's Called Booze

Long years ago, children, when your great-grandfather used to be forever staying up with sick friends, there was a man by the name of E. G. Booz who lived in Woodbury, N. J. He made bottles like the one you see in this picture and he filled them with a strange, amber-colored liquid which was known to the people of those days as "whiskey." And people who had colds, and even people who didn't, bought these bottles, and soon they came to ask for the whiskey by the name of the maker—Booz. Now the bottles are very rare, and this one attracted lots of attention when it was exhibited at the annual Ceramics Exposition at Rutgers University.

chifflahrt, headed by professor Hermann Oberth. In Russia an important group is headed by Dr. Nikolai Rynin, with headquarters in Leningrad. Pendray is attending tests and experiments at these main branches during his tour of Europe.

"To compensate for the consumption of fuel," he said, "a rocket must reach a speed of 399.84 miles a minute. Thus it is useless for short distances, and this, I hope and believe, makes impractical the rocket car such as has been tried. In the suggested experiment from Paris or Berlin to New York, for instance, the rocket must attain a tremendous speed, but gradually. That is, it must be accelerated gradually like an automobile. It cannot start at full speed like a bullet.

"At the height of its arc over the Atlantic, the rocket might reach an altitude of 300 miles. Remember that up to that time it has been traveling under a steady power—it has not been just hurled into the air. In efforts to send a rocket to the moon, strange curves must be plotted, and these will be achieved perhaps by such things as revolving light-sensitive plates, throwing the shell one way or another as required. Too, the rocket will have to be aimed at where the moon will be—not where it is at the moment. Perhaps, to test the experiment, powerful magnesium flares will be placed in the tip of the rocket, these being set to burst upon contact with the moon and so show watchers from the earth what has happened. After that can be planned an expedition with men aboard," concluded the visitor to Paris.

After all, it takes not only a writer but a reader to make a book. —Ellen Glasgow.

WAS HARDLY ABLE TO DRAG

Florida Lady Says She Soon Began To Get Better After Taking Cardui.

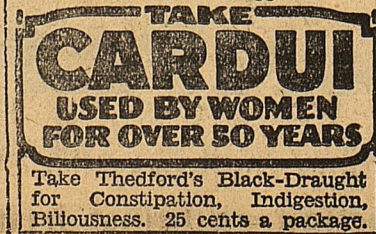

"I had been struggling with bad health for over a year," says Mrs. Delle Carr, of Graceville, Fla. "I was weak and run-down, and hardly able to drag myself around home. Sometimes a pain in my right side would cause me a lot of suffering. I frequently got so weak I could not keep up at all."

"I read about other women who had recovered their health after taking the Cardui Home Treatment, and I decided to try it, myself. I sent to the store for Cardui and began taking it."

"I soon began to feel better. I was stronger. It was a great help to me, and I was much better after I had taken it. The pain in my side left, and I was able to carry on my work with much less effort. The dragging, tired feeling left me."

"I have recommended Cardui to a number of my friends because I improved so much after I had taken it."

Tell your friends to try Cardui, when weak and run-down. It is obtainable at your druggist's.

Texas Is Phlox State, He Says

AUSTIN.—The phlox, and not the famed bluebonnet, should be the official flower of Texas. This is the view held by Dr. B. C. Tharp, associate professor of botany at the University of Texas, who declared that the phlox is far more widely distributed in Texas than the bluebonnet, and is of more value as a botanical specimen.

The phlox is the most famous flower under the sun, Dr. Tharp said, and yet Texans regard with utter lack of interest the little wild plant which grows in abundance throughout southern Texas, and thoughtlessly treat it as a weed.

An interesting history attaches itself to the phlox in Texas. More than a century ago, in 1829, Drummond, a Scotch botanist, was sent to Texas to collect phlox seeds for the Royal Botanical Gardens in England. He made his selection and sent them back to England for planting, while he stopped in Florida. There he contracted yellow fever and died. As a tribute to him the pretty little flower was given the name "phlox Drummond."

Sir Thomas Hooker, in describing the phlox which first flowered in the Royal Botanical Gardens, wrote that they were of two types, one a bright red, the other a paler shade. At that time Hooker prophesied that the phlox would become one of the world's most valued flowers. After a hundred years, his prophecy has been fulfilled, for L. H. Bailey, internationally recognized authority on horticulture, has distinguished the phlox annual as first in importance among garden flowers.

During the hundred years in which the phlox has been under cultivation and modification, almost miraculous results have been obtained. This flower now grows in gardens throughout the world. Various shapes, colors, and sizes have been produced. Colors of all shades and combinations have been obtained, with the exception of a pure yellow.

RADIO SET AIDS STUDENTS

URBANA, Ill. (UP).—A large radio helps to relieve the humdrum hours in the College of Architectural Design at the University of Illinois here. The radio supplies jazz and classical tunes to students who often work all day and sometimes at night in order to complete the original thought in a design. The radio replaced a phonograph.

FINDS OLD TERRAPIN

OXFORD, Miss. (UP).—Thirty-six years ago this spring while plowing a field 14 miles south of here, H. A. Moore, farmer, found a terrapin and at that time carved his initials on its back. Recently, while working in his garden here, he came across the same terrapin, and while it had grown the lettering was plainly visible.

LIVED THROUGH 13,000 VOLTS

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (UP).—J. B. Meador, electrician, absorbed 13,000 volts of electricity and received only slight burns on the right arm and shoulder.

COACHING GRADS EMPLOYED

URBANA, Ill. (UP).—More than 400 graduates of the University of Illinois coaching school are employed as coaches or physical directors in 42 states of the union, according to George Huff, director of athletics. Illinois, Huff said, leads in the number of schools having coaches graduated from the state university.

Presbyterian Auxiliary Has Circle Meetings

Circle A of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. B. Royer, for a study on "African Womanhood." During a business hour, Mrs. F. E. Cragin, circle chairman, presided, and appointed Mmes. R. C. Crabb, Frank Wolcott, and W. B. Royer as a visiting committee, and Mmes. James A. Finlayson and C. A. McClintic as telephone committee. It was decided to have a bazaar between Thanksgiving and December, each member to give $5 worth of materials. At close of the business meeting, Mrs. Duke Kimbrough, circle treasurer, turned in $29 to the Auxiliary treasurer. Mrs. Kimbrough was in charge of the program which followed, and opened with a devotional on "Faith," based on the first eight verses of the first chapter of James. She also revealed plans for the annual Birthday party on May 25, when the offering is to go toward establishing schools for girls in Africa. Mrs. C. A. McClintic spoke on "The Greatest Problem Before our Mission in The Congo," and Mrs. Hayden Miles had as a subject, "When They Go A-Courting." Mrs. Andrew Pasken closed with prayer. The hostess served delicious salad plates to 12 members and one guest, Mrs. R. Lowe of Andrews. At meeting of Circle B, which had the same topic for study, Mrs. Arthur Stout was hostess, Mrs. J. A. Seymour was leader, and was assisted by Mrs. Harry Adams. Assisting with the program were Mmes. Arthur Stout and Harry Adams, both of whom gave interesting talks. A social hour followed, after which it was announced that the meeting would be the last one until September.

Baptist W. M. U. Concludes Mission Study Book

Concluding the study of the mission book, "Talks on Soul Winning," the Baptist W. M. U. circles met separately Monday afternoon. Mrs. Fred Middleton acted as hostess for the Walker Auxiliary. After the meeting was opened with a devotional on "Soul Winning," by Mrs. Tom Jones, the study book was taught by Mrs. George F. Brown. Upon resignation of Mrs. L. O. Grantham as personal service chairman, to take the chair of the Circle, Mrs. D. W. Brunson was elected to the former place. Thirteen attended. Meeting place for the Lockett Auxiliary was at the church, where six women were present. In the absence of Mrs. W. W. Wimberly, mission study chairman, Mrs. A. J. Gates and Mrs. M. R. Hill presided. No business was to be had, so the meeting was closed at conclusion of the study hour. Twelve women attended the meeting of the Reagan Auxiliary at the offices of Mrs. W. A. Hyatt. Mrs. J. M. White taught the lesson, with each one taking part in a general discussion.

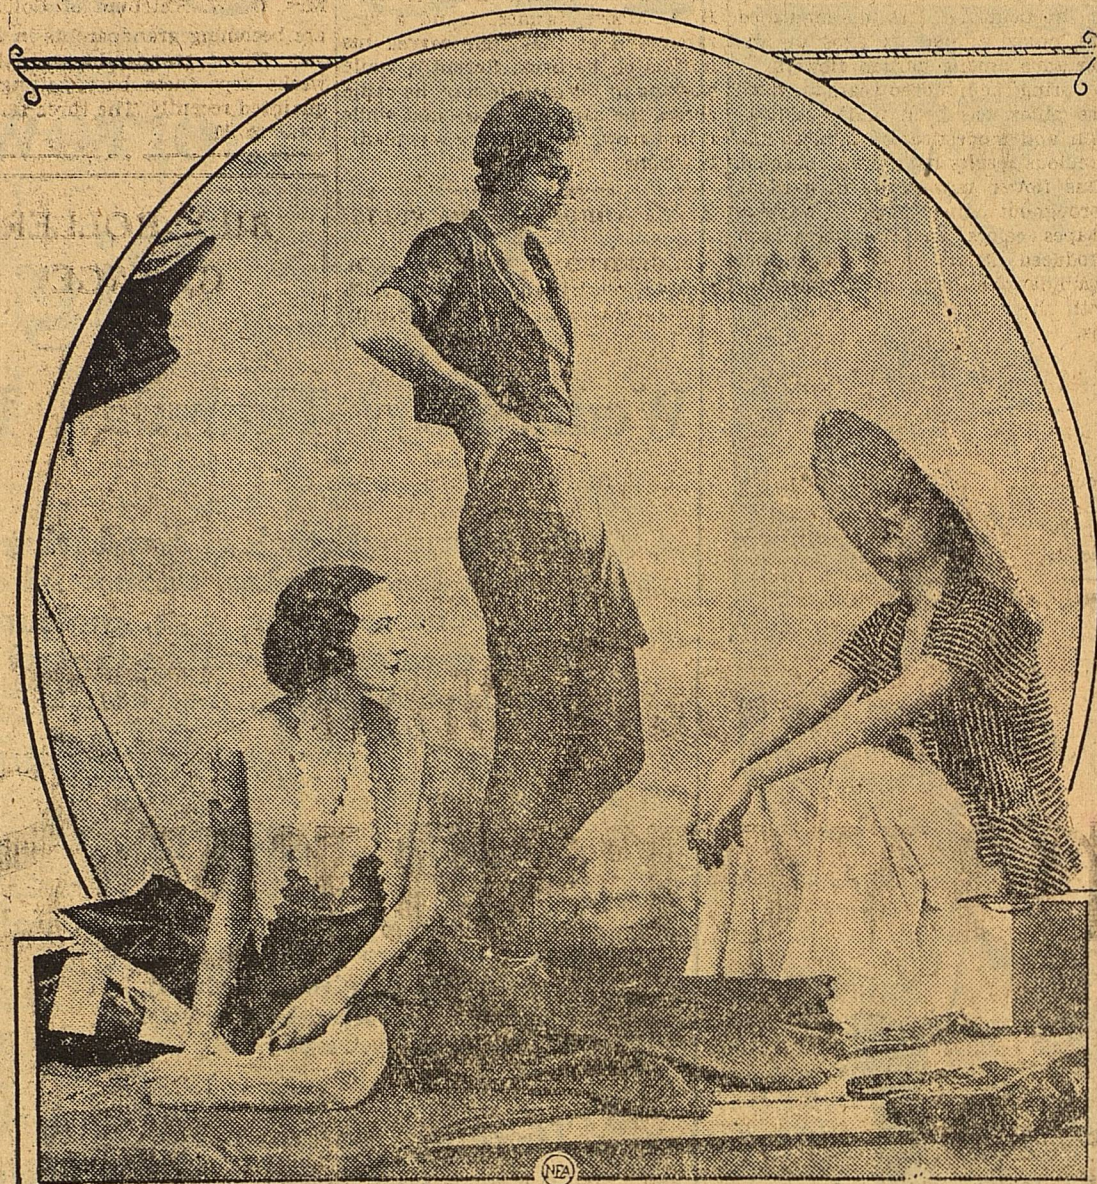

Church Women To Have Dinner

Ladies of the First Christian church are planning a chicken dinner Saturday noon, open to the public at 50 cents a plate. The women plan to have their meal ready to serve at 11 o'clock and will continue to serve as long as customers and food hold out. The dinner will be in the Weinstein building on the East side of South Main street.

Announcements

- Wednesday Mrs. Aldredge Estes will entertain the Laf-A-Lot club at 2:30. Miss Leona McCormick will be hostess to the Pine Arts club at 3:30, at the last meeting of the year. Mrs. O. C. Harper will be hostess to the Thursday Club at 3 o'clock. Thursday South Ward P. T. A. at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Rainbow Club with Mrs. H. H. Watson at 3 o'clock. Joy De Vic club to have a dinner bridge at 6:30 at the home of Mrs. W. O. Peltrey. Friday The Belmont Bible Class will meet with Mrs. T. D. Sneed, 402 S. Marienfeldt, at 3:30. The study will be the 4th chapter of Luke. Community class meets with Mrs. Edwin C. Calhoun for a study of "Joseph and His Troubles," at 3 o'clock. Saturday Mrs. Frank Wendt will be hostess to the Bien Amigos Club.

Comedy Hit at Ritz Shows Scenes at Homes of Famous Stars; Chas. Chaplin Picks Beautiful Girl up at Ring Go

Homes of the movie stars bid likely to be the settings of their pictures in the future. In "Stepping Out," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's hilarious filmization of the stage hit, Buster Keaton's beautiful estate in Beverly Hills was used as a background for the exterior action. Reginald Denny's ranch, John Gilbert's cactus garden, and other properties of film celebrities have also served for "locations." "Stepping Out," which comes today and Wednesday to the Ritz theatre, is a comical romance of Hollywood and Agua Caliente, of oil millionaires who turn picture producers, of gold-diggers, and of jealous wives. Elinor Harris, famous for "So Long Letty," wrote the play, which scored a sensation in New York, and also adapted it to the talking screen. A desire to visit Hollywood and another desire to witness a prize-fight are two of the things in the life of Virginia Cherrill, former Chicago society girl, that won for her the leading feminine role in Charlie Chaplin's forthcoming motion picture classic, "City Lights," which plays again today at the Ritz theatre. It is in the great comedian-producer's newest screen offering that Miss Cherrill will make her bow to theatre-goers, and from all reports the young woman has a brilliant future in this field of her chosen endeavor. During the summer of 1928, Miss Cherrill ventured to Hollywood. Her mission was to tour Southern California and spend some time with friends. She had never dreamed of becoming identified with motion pictures. But she did want to see a prizefight. At the Hollywood American Legion stadium, Virginia occupied a ringside seat. It was the same night that Charlie Chaplin turned to fistiana for recreation and he sat also in a ringside seat. During that day the comedian had interviewed numerous aspirants for his screen heroine. But he had made no decision. Then he spied Miss Cherrill directly opposite. "Who's that?" said Chaplin to his companion, who happened to be a film who's who. The young woman was a stranger, however. "But," protested Chaplin, "that's the girl for the leading part in 'City Lights.'" The following afternoon a party of four visited the Chaplin studios. Virginia Cherrill was a member of the group. But she did not know why. All she knew was that she had been invited to visit the plant and observe comedy in the making. The girl and the producer were introduced and a little chat followed. She posed for some pictures and was next induced to have a "test" made. Then the visit was concluded. That evening Miss Cherrill's likeness was gliding over the silver screen for the observation of Chaplin and his staff. The following morning Virginia Cherrill was under contract.

Plans Made for Chicken Dinner by Rheinhardt Circle

Meeting for regular Bible study, the Rheinhardt Circle of the First Christian church had as their hostess Monday afternoon, Mrs. E. C. Adams. During a business meeting which preceded the lesson plans for a chicken dinner to be served Saturday of this week were discussed. The dinner is to be served to the public beginning at 11 o'clock, in the Weinstein building on South Main street. Charges will be fifty cents per plate. In the absence of Rev. Howard Peters, Mrs. H. H. Meeks, president, led the Bible study, following which the women enjoyed a Fellowship hour. A new member, Mrs. T. B. Snider, was added to the roll, and the Circle expressed their satisfaction at adding her to their number. Present were Mmes. G. W. Brennan, Bill Van Huss, J. T. Ragdale, H. H. Meeks, E. E. Stephens, T. B. Snider, S. P. Hall, J. E. Stephens, Ed Cole, H. G. Bedford, A. E. Hoffman, S. P. Hall, and the hostess, Mrs. E. C. Adams. Mrs. G. W. Brennan is to be hostess at next week's meeting.

Sister of Midland Woman Highly Honored

Mrs. John E. Adams, 210 S. Marienfeldt street, has received word that her sister, Miss Rowena McLaughlin of Houston, was presented with the Loving Cup of the Woman's Council, being voted the best all-around girl, at Rice Institute, during the May Fete recently held there. Miss McLaughlin, as well as being one of the two princesses at the Fete, is a candidate for Phi Beta Kappa. She is vice-president of both the Council and the Palas Athena, a literary society. For the past three years she has been a maid in the May Fete, one of Houston's biggest celebrations. She is also a member of an honorary French fraternity. Though only 20 years old, Miss McLaughlin is to receive her degree in June.

A SNAKE STORY CALGARY, Can.—Seeing snakes, both natural and those inspired by too free use of intoxicants, has happened here frequently, but discovering a four foot reptile in a bunch of bananas is unusual and enough to scare one out of a year's growth. That's what happened to employees of a local fruit house in unpacking a crate of bananas. The reptile had traveled with the fruit from South America.

BOARD MEMBER 52 YEARS MEXICO, Mo. (UP).—When S. P. Emmons, 84, helped dedicate the new high school here he announced that his dreams for Mexico schools had come true and that he would retire from the board of education, on which he had served almost continuously since 1879. The board decided differently, however, and recognized his long service by electing him its president emeritus for life.

"Forces Making for Peace," Studied by Missionary Society

With sixteen members present, the Methodist Missionary society held an interesting study Monday afternoon when both circles met at the church to conclude the book, "The Turn Toward Peace." Mrs. J. D. Young, leader, opened the study under the special heading, "Forces Making for Peace." Topics were given by Mrs. L. B. Hanks, who discussed "Organized Peace Movements"; Mrs. J. M. Prothro, who talked on "Churches and Peace"; Mrs. J. M. Haygood, taking up "Missions and Peace"; Mrs. C. E. Smith, speaking on "Women and Peace," and Mrs. J. D. Young, who had the subject, "Schools and Peace." It was decided to meet at the home of Mrs. J. M. Speed next time, for a social.

No insect will attack the banana. It is immune from disease.

Altar Society Meets With Mrs. Tolbert

The Altar Society of St. Ann's Catholic church met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Allen Tolbert. Business of the month was discussed, and the women enjoyed a lively social hour, the hostess serving refreshments to the following: Mmes. C. C. Duffey, G. W. Tom, H. B. Dorsey, W. J. Moran, Sam Cummings, A. Bedford, O. W. Baxley, Ben Journeyake, and Miss Dorothy Vanderheiden.

TOURIST TRADE GAINS

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UP).—The tourist business is improving judging from records kept by the department of horticulture and agriculture which checks the arrival of all cars in the state. Three per cent more foreign cars entered Arizona the first quarter of this year than did for the corresponding period a year ago. The total was 54,158 automobiles.

Consider your Adam's Apple!!* Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Now! Please!—Actually put your finger on your Adam's Apple. Touch it—your Adam's Apple—Do you know you are actually touching your larynx?—This is your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants—Reach for a LUCKY instead—Remember, LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette in America that through its exclusive "TOASTING" process expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are sold to manufacturers of chemical compounds. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE, and so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple."

Carnoustie, Famed for Golf Sons, Gets British Open Championship

SPORTS REPORTS

AMERICAN THREAT IS SEEN AGAIN THIS YEAR

BY CLAIRE BURCKY
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, May 12.—For the first time in the history of British Open golf championships, which reaches back to 1860 and the golf heroics of Prestwick's Tom Morris, Sr., the 1931 event will be played at Carnoustie, midway between Edinburgh and Aberdeen, on the northeast coast of Scotland.

Following a custom born 10 years ago, the British event which starts June 1 again looks like a typical British-American fight, to the exclusion of all other warring forces. Defense of the Old World prestige, if any remains, depends almost entirely on the three Whitcombes—E. R., R. A. and C. R., who captained the British Ryder Cup team when they invaded this country later in the month—Archie Compston, Fred Robson, Harry Cotton, Abe Mitchell and Roger Wethered. There will be some others, but any damage they may do will be figured as an upset.

America's invading forces this time will be without the matchless generalship of one Robert T. Jones, but in his place will be 10 or more very able lieutenants. These include Macdonald and Horton Smith, Willy Cox, El Espinosa, Tommy Armour, Gene Sarazen, Johnny Faurel, George Vogt, Joe Kirkwood and Tony Manero.

France, too, will send her delegation, but only once has a Frenchman broken the hold of British and American players on the title. Arnaud Massy turned the trick in "world championship" bout between Charkey and Carnera is a joke affair. Carnera's only claim to distinction are a long list of dry and wet "tank" opponents, his ability to draw a dozen, and size. Anyone of a dozen heavyweights should be able to whip the Italian.

Sharkey has had numerous chances to win the title and failed in them all, but retains high ranking partly because of his alleged "pull" with the boxing commission. In seven years of professional boxing, he has not learned to keep his punches above the belt line. New York's no-foul rule should aid him against Carnera, but in light of past events it is not hard to believe that Sharkey will find some method of "blowing" his chance with the Italian.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS

SPEAKING OF AGES

1907. Auguste Boyer finished ninth at Holylake last year, a lone poll among Tommies and Yanks who grabbed the first 20 places.

her quota of the famous, Old Bob Simpson started it all back in 1882. Since then a steady procession of renowned professionals has branched out from this spot north of the Tay.

Brother Jack Simpson, British Open champion in 1884, was next after Bob, followed shortly by brother Archie, famed as the most graceful stylist of his day. Then came the Smiths—George, Alex, Willie and Mac—the Maidens, Jim and Stewart; Dave Bell and a host of others.

And what would the game of golf be today had there been no Stewart Maiden? The correct answer to that one is that there probably never would have been a Bobby Jones. It was Maiden's sound teachings as professor of golf at East Lake Country Club, Atlanta, that rounded out the game of a youthful Jones.

The natural duration of human life is over 100 years, according to a famous French doctor, himself 99 years old. He adds that a man who dies at the age of 85 dies young.

About 7,500,000 tons of salt are produced each year in the United States, 30 per cent being obtained from the evaporation of brines, either natural or artificial.

Brines from the Great Salt Lake in Utah contain as a rule somewhat over 20 per cent solids, and of this about three-quarters is common salt.

Alexander Cant, writing in Golf Illustrated, openly predicts that the British Open record of 285 strokes, which Bobby Jones set in 1927 at St. Andrews, will not be endangered unless the calmest of weather prevails. He further reminds us that Carnoustie's James are rarely calm, as summer seldom reaches the northeast coast of Scotland so early.

This would indicate that Macdonald Smith might have the best chance of the American players to win the championship. Smith has been practicing for the past month,

"When I sell anybody on Germ-Processed Oil once... they stay sold!"

THE use of Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil becomes a decided preference once you have had it in your crankcase. Its value to your motor, and to you, is quickly demonstrated. You may never have need to call on it for the extra safety factor it provides. You may never drive fast enough to test its ability to stand up day after day at 60 miles per hour.

But when your speedometer says it is your usual oil changing time and you find your oil in perfect condition for longer use... when your gas-gauge tells you that your mileage has definitely increased... when the space of time between added quarts of oil and between repair bills has appreciably lengthened... then you know that you were right in changing to Germ-Processed oil.

So many motorists have changed to Germ-Processed and "stayed sold" that it has caused a real stir in oil circles. Join these motorists in their satisfaction. Stop today at the sign of the Conoco Red Triangle and ask for Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil. All grades 35¢ per quart.

DEBATES SUICIDE

LONDON.—Suicide has one champion in Hugh Crichton-Miller, eminent doctor who recently told the National Council of Mental Hygiene that: "Religion tends to be unsympathetic toward suicide of persons suffering from incurable diseases. I feel the individual should be free to make his own choice, and we have no right to dictate a line of action."

ON HIS MUSCLE

BALTIMORE, Md.—William Eure, 24, is plenty playful when he gets started. He commenced on his mother-in-law, Mrs. Eva Sherman, and wound up in a fist fight with Patrolman William Bean. The mother-in-law's cries attracted Bean to the battle and it was only with the aid of his club that he subdued Eure.

In the Canadian census, to be taken this year, every domesticated living creature, down to the house cat and bees, has to be counted. Town dwellers will have to answer only 40 questions, against the 600 put to farmers.

ble reason. The identity of aircraft during combat is very important in order to prevent firing upon the wrong plane. After an aerial battle is over, a squadron is likely to be disorganized and must reassemble for mutual protection as quickly as possible. A distinctive squadron insignia is a great aid. If there were no marks of identification on aircraft it would be easy to imagine a pilot joining the wrong unit after a battle and being led to the wrong airfield or even over enemy territory.

usual, kept beyond the roped-off enclosure until the announcement of the field manager allowed them on the field after propellers had ceased to turn. The 0-38 squadron was refueled on the field. Planes that landed were of the 9th, 31st, and 11th bombardment squadrons of Rockwell field. Major J. T. McNarney is the commanding officer.

Have Lunch Here
The 0-38 squadron ships were single motored, carrying a 600 hp Pratt & Whitney engine. The B-2 Condors carry two 600 hp Curtiss Conqueror motors, and cruise at the fast speed of 132 to 140 miles an hour.

Lieut. Dowman, flying a Douglas C-1-C ahead of the group, carried extra baggage and equipment. The slowest ship of the entire squadron, he had a special insignia painted on it, a turtle with a tool kit strapped on its back.

Several of the flyers had not been in West Texas before. They paid tribute to O. C. Harper and the strip map he prepared for the chamber of commerce. Most of the flight flew by it from El Paso. Those who had never been in this section of the state before were busily engaged in running down horned toads to send their wives, families or sweethearts in various parts of the world.

Major McNarney expressed the thanks of the squadron to K. E. Ambrose, chairman of the aeronautics committee of the chamber of commerce, for courtesies shown.

"The object of the air corps field exercises, as outlined by the assistant secretary of war in a speech at Tulsa, Oklahoma, is:

"To see whether our present tables of organization and equipment and our supply and logistic schedules are adequate; to get some idea for time of war of how many and what spare parts must be laid down at various airbases to insure proper maintenance of large numbers of aircraft;

WHY BUSINESS DEPRESSION?

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of five stories which sift and summarize the thought of world business leaders and facts about the depression as developed at the recent meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce at Washington.

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer.
WASHINGTON.—The management of every kind of business enterprise can exert some measure of control over the economic forces which produce intermittent unemployment.

THE CAUSE

The three principal types of unemployment, as found by the international committee, are:
Seasonal, responsible for the major portion of unemployment in the long run.
Cyclical, experienced in general business recessions and reducing employment below corresponding seasons of prosperous years.
Technological, the displacement of workers by machines.

try in which some American company has not effected an appreciable reduction in irregularity of employment. It is only within the past year that in the United States the conception of unemployment as a primary responsibility of business men has received general acceptance.

THE REMEDY

Principal methods adopted to meet the problem of individual employment security are:
Flexible working periods to provide more equitable distribution of available work.
Inter-company transfer of employees.
Unemployment reserve funds.
Dismissal wages and other financial assistance.

to ascertain whether an organization the size of an air division can be handled with the present size staff; to see if present methods of communication are adequate, and, if not, to find out which are the most effective methods of communication; to find out whether an air division, or part of an air division, can be controlled by radio so that changes in operations or routes may be made after it is in the air; to find out how many airplanes can be successfully operated from one airbase; hence how many airbases would be needed in time of war; to learn what length of time it takes for a large organization to take off from, or land in, an airbase; to determine how long it takes, and what facilities would be required, to service an air organization as large as the air division; to find out if certain graduates, or members of the graduating class at the Advanced Flying School at Kelly Field, could immediately take their places in combat organizations in time of war without going through a higher school."

President Alvan Macaulay of the Parkard Motor Car Co. told the committee the regularization of production and employment costs money in capital investment and storage facilities, but is "far more than offset by lower production costs, by the contentment of employees, by their zeal and loyalty and by lessening the turnover in labor which is always expensive."

Workers Benefit
In 1919, the Proctor & Gamble Co., makers of soap, varied 65 per cent in the number of employees at its principal plant. By selling to retailers, budgeting sales and co-ordinating production schedules it had reduced that to 7 per cent in 1929 and guaranteed 48 weeks' continuous work each year to its permanent force. Simplification and standardization, in which great strides have been made by many concerns, has also served to stabilize production and employment.

The Campbell Soup Co., concentrating on soup but diversifying kinds, regularizes production by making tomato soup in late summer and fall, vegetable soup, consommé and bouillon in fall and winter, asparagus soup in spring, pea and chicken soup in early summer and celery soup in early fall. Besides diversifying products, companies have often stimulated off-season purchase of their goods.

To meet the problem of individual employment security, the four principal methods adopted have been:
1—Flexible working periods to provide more equitable distribution of available work.
2—Inter-company transfer of employees.
3—Unemployment reserve funds.
4—Dismissal wages and other financial assistance.

In the 1927-28 business recession, three-fourths of companies whose methods were surveyed reported that they had resorted to working time reduction before laying any one off. Even a larger proportion, it appears, did that in 1930. The Delaware & Hudson Railroad, with an elastic work day system, has cut its labor turnover 78 per cent in nine years.

Prevent Loss of Income
Such systems do not sustain purchasing power and proportionately reduce individual earnings, but do prevent complete loss of income for employees and save heavy expenses of recruiting and training new forces when full time operation resumes. Several large manufacturing concerns definitely plan to transfer employees from one type of job to another when necessary and some even train employees to be ready to accept other jobs in the same plant. The growth of private plans for indemnifying the unemployed has "proceeded slowly and along highly individualistic lines," the committee says.

Stabilization efforts of trade associations and regional or local committees or civic groups, the committee notes, have thus far largely been confined to campaigns of an educational nature.

of Commerce which included some of the country's industrial leaders and highly qualified experts.

Adopt Stabilization Plans
By 1930, according to the survey of this group, more than 200 companies had begun systematic programs to provide maximum continuity of employment. Early in 1930, with the depression well begun, more than 300 industrial establishments in New York state were found to have adopted stabilization policies and there were hundreds of others throughout the country. But it is admitted that employment regularization programs have been far too limited in range and scope to have an appreciable effect on general employment fluctuations.

The committee cites the three principal types of unemployment:
Seasonal, responsible for the major portion of unemployment in the long run, especially affecting manufacturing industries with their peak and dull seasons.
Cyclical, experienced in general business recessions such as the current one and reducing employment, 12 to 18 per cent below corresponding seasons of more prosperous years and figuring in the 24.5 per cent of factory employment from July, 1929, to January, 1931.

Technological, the displacement of workers by machines, referred to as a readjustment problem which now causes a majority of affected workers to go for long periods without work, although theoretically eventually creating more jobs than it destroys.

Must Halt Fluctuation
Regularization of employment is achieved or approached by co-ordinating production and distribution policies so as to level off violent fluctuations both in volume of output and total sales, the committee says. Next come personnel policies for individuals.

Systematic sales forecasting is essential. Thus the Eastman Kodak Co. solved the problem of a highly seasonal market so that in 1929 the number of its employees deviated less than 1 per cent from the average number for the year. The policy is to schedule a comparatively constant volume of production for each month of the year, with a 20 per cent cut during the July-August vacation season. The Walworth Co., makers of valves and fittings, found it could well afford to eliminate about 4000 of its 5000 customers, estimate advance sales and let inventory fluctuate instead of production.

President Alvan Macaulay of the Parkard Motor Car Co. told the committee the regularization of production and employment costs money in capital investment and storage facilities, but is "far more than offset by lower production costs, by the contentment of employees, by their zeal and loyalty and by lessening the turnover in labor which is always expensive."

GOLE as the STARS play it by ART KRENZ

How can one avoid shanking his mashie shots? Explain the cause of a shanked shot.

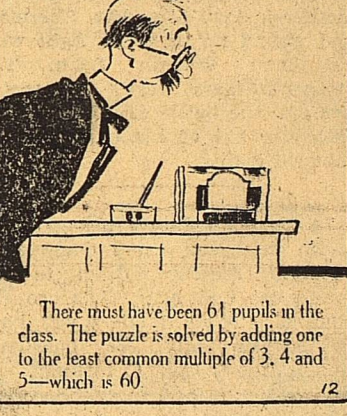

Failure to keep the hands close to the body is the reason for many a shanked shot. Bobby Jones keeps his hands so close that at times he brushes his trouser legs.

Forcing a mashie to do the work of a three or four iron will cause one to be anxious to hit. This form of pressing can only result in shanking. The mashie shot should be made mainly with the wrists and the forearms.

Most golfers who have little or no freedom of the wrists make up for the lack of wrist action by swaying their body. Swaying with locked wrists causes one to throw the club-

COMPULSORY MARKERS

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—If a bill introduced in the state assembly is passed, it will be compulsory for all towns in the state having a population of 2000 or more to provide name signs for airplane guidance. The bill provides that the signs shall be placed in a convenient spot and painted with letters large enough to be readily seen from the air.

WHO MAKES YOUR FIRE INSURANCE RATE?

TRAINED experts compute it, but property owners—individually and collectively—create the conditions which determine the cost of their fire insurance.

Several major factors enter into the determination of fire insurance rates, such as structure, occupancy, the quality of private and public fire protection, exposure from other property and general loss experience.

Surveys Available
The agent who writes your insurance can obtain an itemized explanation of how your insurance rate is computed. There is nothing secret about it.

companies solicit your interest, and offer free of charge the advice of rate-making bureaus to assist in eliminating hazards or correcting defects which may affect your rate.

Seek Counsel
Do not attempt unsound fire prevention measures, but seek the counsel of the accredited experts of rating bureaus who desire to tell you the proper way to make improvements.

Insurance companies generally prefer risks eligible to a low rate to those which carry higher ones. A low rate, indicates better conditions, better maintenance and less chance of fire.

SHOULD THE CHILDREN EAT IT!

PARENTS, particularly mothers, are paying a lot of attention to children's diet these days. For it is far more economical and pleasant to keep a child well by feeding him correctly than by nursing and doctoring him back to health.

Of course the doctor should be consulted regarding what a child should eat and what he should not eat. But do you realize that the leading manufacturers of food now seek the advice and approval of the leading nutritional authorities in the country, relative to the claims they make for their products in their advertising?

In other words, food advertisements are reliable sources of information regarding diet. They are based upon the results of the latest approved scientific discoveries about vitamins, minerals and roughage, in relation to vigorous bodies, clear complexions, sound teeth and properly regulated systems.

So read these advertisements carefully. Consult your doctor about them. Very often the advertiser invites you to do this because he has asked authorities, whom your doctor respects, about those advertisements first.
