Class Day Observed in Program at High School Tonight

RESERVED SEATS FOR PARENTS

Interesting Program; Children Remain At Home

Commencement class day exercises of the high school will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium.

Reserved seats will be available for parents of graduates, provided the parents are at the school by 7:15. Superintendent W. W. Lackey said this afternoon.

The superintendent asked that small children be left at home, as there has not been sufficient room for grown-ups at school exercises this year. Children may be allowed in the corridors, but seats will, of necessity, be given those older attendants.

The program this evening will be the last of the year, save for that of graduating exercises on Thursday night, at which time the literary address will be delivered by Hon. Tom Connally, United States senator from Marlin.

The class day program is well planned and will offer humor, music, appearances of students, etc.

The complete program is found on this page.

MINISTER GOES TO FUNERAL OF MARFA PASTOR

The Rev. and Mrs. Howard Peters left early this afternoon for Pecos to attend the funeral of the Rev. Joseph Keevil, pastor of the First Christian church of Marfa, who died yesterday from injuries received in an automobile accident on the Balmorea highway, 12 miles from Pecos, Saturday evening.

Mr. Peters was to assist in the funeral services which were to be held at 3 o'clock.

Mr. Keevil suffered a broken back when the car in which he and three others were riding turned over after a rear tire blew out. The car went into a ditch and pinned him underneath.

Mrs. Keevil and Mrs. J. D. Butler of Marfa suffered scratches and bruises. They were the other occupants of the car.

AUSTIN, May 19. (UP)—Ranger Captain Tom Hickman was here for a conference with Adjutant General W. W. Sterling and Governor Sterling on "amateur racketeer" activities in Dallas.

The ranger refused to make a statement.

Scout Heads Start Mountain Camp Work

A. C. Williamson and Marcos J. Williamson, regional Boy Scout executives, were in Midland this afternoon conferring with scoutmasters and officials. They were en route to the Buffalo Trails council scout camp in the Davis mountains to have work started on construction of a mess hall and other necessities for the camp which will begin June 8.

Expectations for a big camp are held by the executives.

Horse Drawn Cabs Trucked Westward

Two old-fashioned horse-drawn cabs, in which the driver sat atop and the passengers in a luxuriously appointed coach, were being taken through Midland today from Hot Springs, Ark., to Tombstone, Ariz.

The cabs will be used in the next "Hellorado" celebration at Tombstone where the old west is brought back once each year. Fittings of the ancient vehicles were expensive, rivaling those of the present day high priced automobile.

Vets and Guests Battle Sand and Have Big Time

In Spotlight

Under a heavy barrage of sand, more than 250 ex-service men, their wives and families advanced upon the Cloverdale sector late Monday evening, completely taking the stronghold including full rations for the entire company.

Scheduled for 6:30, two sandstorms delayed the barbecue of two organizations, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Woods W. Lynch Post, American legion, until shortly after 7 o'clock, but the expected crowd of 250 was exceeded.

Hollis Scarborough, Ed Cole, Fred Middleton, Frank Roberts, Ralph Bucy, Clarence Ligon, Joe Roberts and others in charge of the barbecue protected the meat, beans and other food by covering with tarpaulins until the sandstorm had subsided, and when the crowd arrived a splendid meal was served army fashion.

Scarborough opened the meeting, welcoming the guests and paying tribute to those who had played a part in the world conflict. Speeches were made by Joseph Seymour, chaplain of the veterans' organization; Otis A. Kelly, commander of the legion; Paul T. Vickers, Thos. D. Murphy, Howard Peters and Edwin C. Calhoun.

Four negroes entertained the crowd with a battle royal, Newbie Ellis Jr. and J. B. Ford Jr. fought one round in the lighted ring, and Buster Cole gave a demonstration of his pugilistic ability by routing his "dad," Ed Cole, from the ring. Negroes gave some dances following the ring events.

Announcement was made of a meeting to be held by wives of ex-service men to organize an auxiliary here.

Cotner Takes Chair In State College

One of the youngest faculty members of the Midland high school, Robert C. Cotner, has accepted a flattering offer to go from the history department of the public school to the chair of history and sociology of the Henderson State Teachers college or Arkadelphia, Ark. His salary will be $1800 a year.

Cotner received his B. A. degree from Baylor university in 1928. In his senior year he was assistant in the history department, a scholarship having been awarded him by O. L. Bodenhamer, class of '14 and since then commander of the American Legion.

He accepted a university junior fellowship in Brown university next, where he received his master's degree in 1929. The fellowship provided for a fund of $750.

On January 1 of this year Cotner was offered a place in the public schools of Galveston but refused it. He received another letter, this one offering him first ranking fellowship in the history department of Texas university next year while (See COTNER page 6)

Connally Asked to Address Rotarians

An educational address on Rotary will be given by W. I. Pratt as part of his welcoming speech to two new club members, R. V. Lawrence and L. L. Butler.

SPAIN'S RULERS FEAR NO RETURN OF MONARCHISTS

MADRID, May 19. (UP)—Although two Dukes pretend to the abolished throne of Spain, the Republican government worries not about the possibility of a monarchial restoration—now or later.

The most important pretender, of course, is the Duke of Toledo, Don Alfonso of Bourbon and Hapsburg-Lorraine, who between the time of his birth on May 17, 1886, to his sudden departure from Spain on April 14, 1931, was King Alfonso XIII of Spain. The Duke of Toledo apparently has let the impression be created in Paris that he is sojourning abroad while in Spain things remain in a state of flux pending the elections for the Constitutional Assembly, which the provisional government plans to hold about June 21. The government may be a provisional government, but the

TOXICOLOGIST CALLED IN TRIAL OF KIRKLAND; CASE SENSATIONAL

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 19. (UP)—Dr. R. N. Harger, University of Indiana toxicologist, was called today as the state's last witness in the trial of Virgil Kirkland charged with murdering Arlene Draves by criminal assault.

Prosecutor John Underwood announced he would be ready to close the case after hearing Harger's chemical analysis of Arlene's vital organs.

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 19.—Two pals of Virgil Kirkland, on trial for the second time for the murder of his 18-year-old sweetheart, Arlene Draves, took the witness stand against him Monday in the courtroom of Judge Joseph Crumpacker.

They were Paul Barton and Henry "Tony" Shirk, who attended the Gary party which preceded the death of Arlene and were with Kirkland on the fatal automobile ride which Arlene was found to be dead.

As a result of their testimony the two youths probably will win leniency when their own cases are called. Prosecutor Robert G. Estill indicated during a recess in the trial. In response to a question as to whether the murder indictments against Barton and Shirk would be dismissed, Estill said:

"That is a matter still to be determined, but in all probability, leniency will be shown them."

The two remaining defendants in the case, David Thompson, in whose Gary home the tragic party was held last November, and Leon Stanford also were called to the witness stand by the prosecution, but each (See KIRKLAND CASE page 6)

Warfield Property Turns out To Be a Liability to Marm Who Listened Well

She paid $45 for a Warfield lot 20 years ago, did Miss A. L. Hill of Chicago, but she thought Warfield was a thriving little city.

This morning Miss Hill, with Mrs. R. Avila of Los Angeles and Mrs. Edythe Klausen of Delavan, Minn., motoring across continent to Long Beach, heard Warfield mentioned when in Midland and decided to see if her title is good to the lot. She was conferring with an attorney early this morning.

"Sure, I would sell the lot, and I don't mind saying I would take less for it than I gave," she said. "I have been paying taxes on it for these years. I was teaching school (she was superintendent of schools at Sterling, Ill., at the time—was there in that capacity for 20 years) and a real estate promoter came through, offering lots at drawings. My ticket required me to pay $45 for the lot. Another woman in Sterling paid $45 and received 10 acres. It was found later that she could not clear the title."

"The land was highly pictured, she said, the agent saying that possibilities for the "City of Warfield" being unlimited.

"But I am not disappointed," she said. "We are having lots of fun on this trip, which comes as a decided relief from years of tedious school discipline."

Miss Hill has retired from her teaching duties.

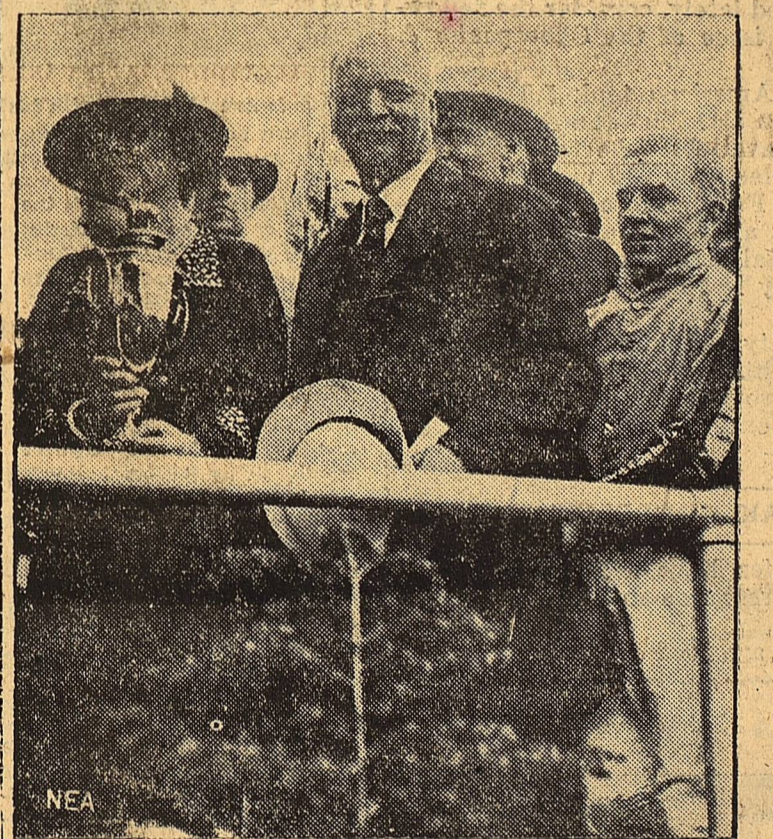

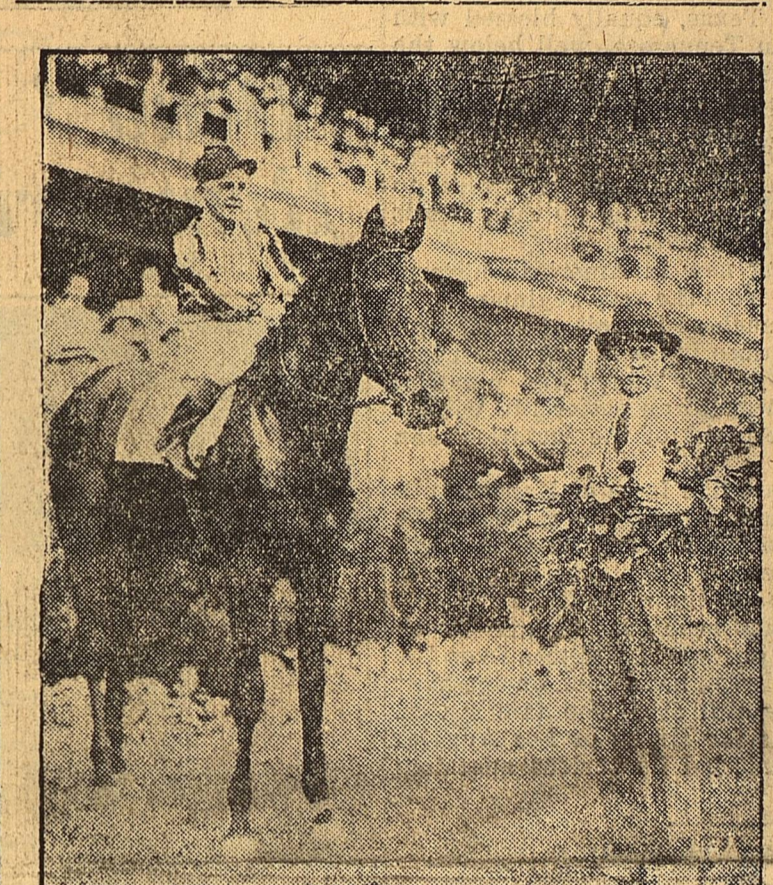

But she doesn't know what to do with her Warfield lot.

Calf Rides Sedan; Cow Close Behind

Moving a cow and a calf across the city without the aid of a horse was done efficiently today, the calf riding in the rear seat of a sedan and the cow following close behind.

This odd procession made its way through the thickest traffic on Lorraine street. The cow, anxious to be as close as possible to the calf, made no effort to run away but kept her eyes pointed upward to the rear window of the automobile and kept up a good pace.

Labor Head Blames Banks for Wages

HOUSTON, May 19. RECEIVED A 2-YEAR PEN TERM

Convicted of Using The Mails to Defraud

ST. LOUIS, May 19. (UP)—Dr. Joseph J. Horton, San Angelo, Texas, physician, was free on parole after he had pleaded guilty Monday in federal court for using mails to defraud and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

Horton said that he offered hospitality to 20,000 school teachers in all parts of the country, soliciting sale of purported $3 value hose for $2 and offering a prize for the best name of the hose. He operated under the name of the French Lingere company, but was arrested before receiving any money.

When arrested, he had no hose, but told officers he planned to buy some when he obtained sufficient orders.

The doctor blamed the scarcity of patients in San Angelo for his actions.

CROP PLANTED ON MOST FARMS; IS AIDED BY WARMTH

Practically all of the Midland county cotton and feed crop is planted, farmers have said this week. Much of the young feed and cotton is coming up, aided by warmer weather for the past week, and if showers are received within the next week or ten days will show excellent growth, it is reported.

The cotton crop has been reduced from 12 to 15 per cent, according to County Agent Frank Wendt. Considerable new land was put to cultivation this year, showing that feed crop acreage will be greater.

SHIFTING FRONTIERS

Tracing the shifting bands of population growth is about as good a way as any of gauging what is happening to the nation.

A little book, "Population and Its Distribution," just published for the advertising agency of J. Walter Thompson by Harper & Brothers, sums up some of the trends revealed by the 1930 census and indicates that the American people are still on the move, even though the frontier and the great stretches of unclaimed land in the far west are no more.

For instance: six American cities of more than 100,000 population showed population gains of 100 per cent or more in the last 10 years.

Miami heads the list, with a gain of 274 per cent. Following it is Long Beach, Calif., which gained 155 per cent. Then come Los Angeles, with a gain of 114 per cent; Houston, with 111 per cent; Chattanooga, with 106 per cent, and Oklahoma City, with 103 per cent.

The first thing you notice in studying that list is the fact that no northern city is represented. The three leaders lie in those two "balmy climate" states, Florida and California. The fourth is in Texas, equally blessed with a mild climate, the fifth is in Tennessee, well below the Mason-Dixon line, and the sixth is in Oklahoma.

In many cases, undoubtedly, the mild winter climate is chiefly responsible for these cities' growth. In all cases the climatic influence was probably very strong. The cold winters and raw springs of some northern states seem to be getting unpopular. People are making up their minds to live where life can be a little easier.

Yet the motive is nothing new in American history. In fact, it has been prominent from the very beginning.

When an industrial city such as Detroit or Pittsburgh records a big growth, what does it mean but that thousands of people, attracted by high wages and plentiful jobs, have decided that the way to an easier life will be straighter and quicker in the midst of the factories than elsewhere?

When an agricultural state like Iowa or Kansas pulls immigrants from distant places, is not the same motive operating in a slightly different manner? Is not the growth of such financial and commercial centers as New York, New Orleans and Chicago due to the same force?

As a matter of fact, it has been that hunger for an easier life that has led to the growth of America from the very beginning. Americans always have been on the hunt for a land of promise. They still are. The family that hops in the flivver and heads for Miami or Los Angeles is following the same star that led its various ancestors across the Atlantic.

THE RAILROADS' PROBLEM

If you would like to know why railroad executives have a habit of looking worried lately, consider the following, culled from the current issue of the Chesapeake & Ohio Lines Magazine.

Last year the average American took 5.8 trips on passenger trains. As long ago as 1890—the earliest year for which such figures are available—he took 7.8 trips annually. Last year he traveled only 2.19 miles by rail—the lowest figure since 1904. Furthermore, the total number of passengers carried by all American railroads last year was smaller than the total carried in 1904, although the population of the country is 50 per cent larger now than it was then.

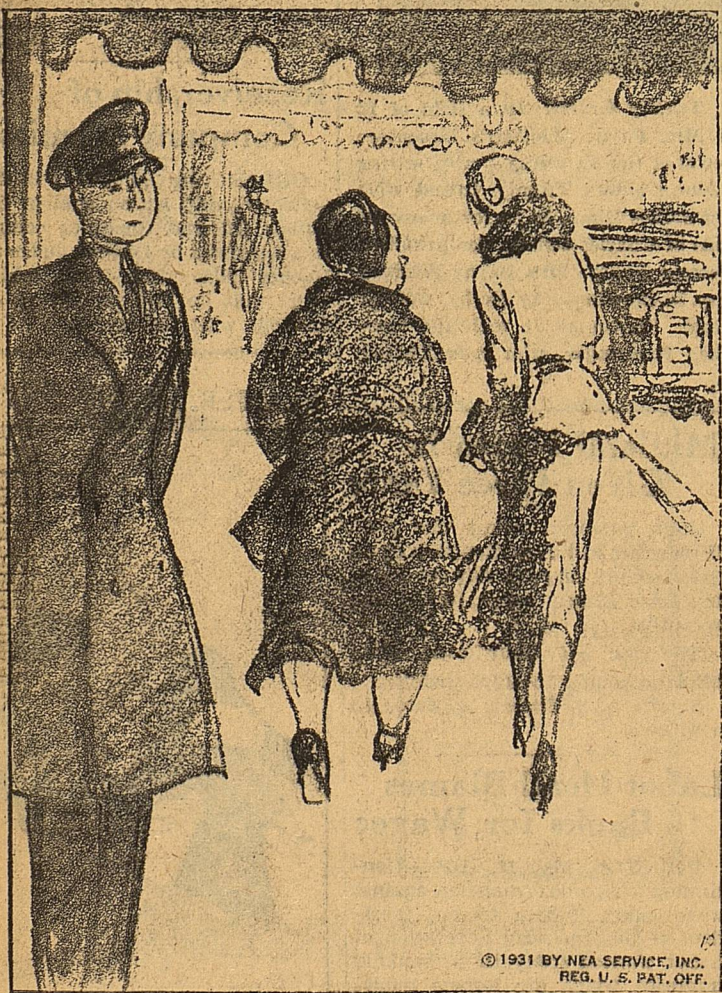

Those figures show pretty graphically how the decline in passenger traffic is hitting the railroads. The automobile and the bus are proving deadly competitors. Small wonder that railroad executives are looking worried!

"Dead" Vet Finds Mother Remarried; A Strange Case

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of two exclusive stories on the amazing career of Arnold Godbey who enlisted in the Marines in 1917, won the D. S. C. at Chateau-Thierry, re-enlisted, deserted in 1919, joined the French Foreign Legion in Africa, was seriously wounded in a battle with desert tribesmen and reported killed, spent months in an Algiers hospital, was legally declared dead by a court in St. Joseph, Mo., and who has now returned home to greet his mother, her present husband and his young half-brothers and half-sisters, whom he had never seen.

BY J. P. WRIGHT (Written for NEA Service) ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 18.—The battle to prove that he is still alive and wasn't killed while fighting desert tribesmen with the French Foreign Legion in North Africa, as War Department records at Washington says, may be a long one, but Arnold Godbey is confident he can show that he isn't dead.

He has returned to his mother, now Mrs. Grace Godbey Mulkey, after having been absent since 1917 and "officially" dead for one year. His background of experiences in the World War and later weird abbreviations and other freakish forms of address on envelopes. Evidently they think they are playing a game with the postal clerk; if he can figure it out he wins, and if he can't the sender, apparently, scores a point.

At any rate, the postal authorities have ruled that such envelopes, after this, will simply be tossed into the wastebasket; and it is a sensible move. The average postal clerk is one of the busiest men imaginable. He certainly does not have the time to figure out freak addresses written by practical jokers. To expect him to do so is simply to impose on him.

GANDHI AND THE TALKIES

Just why Mahatma Gandhi, famous political and spiritual reformer of India, suddenly decided to let himself be featured in a talkie, nobody knows. For 25 years he has refused to be photographed. He has fought valiantly against everything mechanical. Then he swung into the opposition camp.

Evidently the only solution is that sometimes we need the assistance of the very thing we are fighting in order to bring our own cause to the forefront. Certainly Mahatma Gandhi will have to admit that the movies have their advantages. He may realize that there is a little good in every new invention.

in the French Sudan have given him enough excitement. Now he wants to settle down, establish his identity and go to work.

After being discharged from the legion because injuries made him unfit for service, getting back to America was a problem. Naturally Godbey hadn't saved any money from his pay of five sous a day. So he worked his way to Greece on a freighter, obtained a job on another freighter going to Spain and finally succeeded in reaching New York by the same method.

Charge by Marine Corps In Brooklyn he surrendered to U. S. Marine Corps officials to answer to the charge of desertion. They released because of his record at Chateau-Thierry and discharged him without punishment. However, his discharge was marked "undesirable" temporarily, but if he can prove he is a good citizen he will be given an honorable discharge in six months.

In Washington he applied for compensation money and learned for the first time that a court in St. Joseph had declared him legally dead during his long absence. In this way he found the address of his mother, who had re-married during his absence. There was a happy re-union between mother and son and then Godbey met his half-brothers and half-sister, born while he was away. After his mother married Frank Mulkey the family moved to St. Louis for a time and this, coupled with the change in name, explains how he lost trace of her.

"I'll just work at anything I can get until I'm legally alive," says Godbey. "Then, after I'm officially brought back from the beyond, I'll enter some kind of business."

Returns to Mother Who Thought His Dead Mrs. Mulkey couldn't believe that he was alive when he walked into her home one afternoon recently. She had waited years before having him pronounced legally dead, hoping that he would return to her. In April, 1930, she presented the facts to Probate Judge A. B. Duncan. He gave the ruling which resulted in informing the War Department that Godbey was dead. Mrs. Mulkey was then able to obtain $368 as her son's share of the Missouri bonus for World War veterans.

"But when the court declared him dead and I got the money, I made up my mind then never to spend it," she says now. "I put it in a bank and there it is yet. He meant so much to me, I couldn't bear to spend it."

"And she needed it mighty bad at times," says he proud son. The mother does not deny that. For months she worked in a shirt-waist factory to help support a family that required more income than her husband could earn in hard times.

Must Have Court Declare Him "Alive" The fact that she has obtained the money is handicapping Godbey in proving he is actually alive. The second week in June he must appear before the probate court and ask that the ruling be set aside. If at that time any person believing Arnold Godbey is dead appears and protests, the judge's decision must be withheld until complete investigation is made.

With Godbey on the ground it is hardly expected that any person will insist that he is dead, but the law demands certainties and not probabilities.

Until he is declared "alive" the veteran cannot own property, cannot vote and cannot engage in business in which his signature to any kind of agreements would be ex-

Capital Gossip: Woman's Party Praised for Aiding Deported American-Born Woman; Radio "Boners" Haunt Politicians; D. A. R. Still Bans Tobacco; Apple Vendor Prospers

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The National Woman's Party finds its ears ringing with an unaccustomed amount of praise since it directed everybody's attention to the Labor Department's cruel treatment of Mrs. Lillian Larsh, the destitute American-born woman who was deported along with her four little girls to a Canadian town where she knew no one, simply because her husband had been a Canadian.

Usually the party is found pushing its equal rights amendment and is bitterly razed by other women's groups because it would abolish labor legislation designed to protect women along with other legal inequalities. It will now, however, work for a bill to permit Mrs. Larsh's return and for once all women national organizations probably will be on the same side.

The Columbia Broadcasting Company's operator who cut off President Hoover's radio speech awhile ago still has his job and that incident and the one that happened to Democratic Chairman Jonett Shouse in San Francisco recently are making public men more careful. Hoover had penciled a couple of additional paragraphs onto his speech as first prepared and the operator, following the original copy, shut him off before he could get them on the air. All was satisfactorily explained. Shouse's radio listeners suddenly heard him telling a gathering that he was "off the air" when he wasn't and Republican Chairman Simeon Fess charged he had then said things he wouldn't have dared say to a radio audience.

Senator Davis of Pennsylvania, former secretary of labor, sometimes known as "Banjo Jim," isn't always taken seriously here, but Cal Coolidge recently told a friend that when he had wanted to get a thing done Davis was the most dependable man in his cabinet. Jim, he explained, had a faculty of ingratiating himself and getting people to do those things.

The famous D. A. R. apparently still believes there is something slightly profane about tobacco. Signs in corridors of Memorial Continental Hall prominently admonish one: "No Smoking. This is a Memorial Hall."

Apple vendors have disappeared from the streets of Washington, but most office buildings have inherited a favorite vendor of fruits and candies who always looks very poor and usually undertakes to strengthen his position by inveighing against the Communists in various offices. pected to be binding.

Meanwhile, he is preparing to press a claim for $1787 which he says he has coming from the government for service during the World War. He hopes, if he can get that sum, it will help him to get a new start in life.

Getting Acquainted With His New Family While Godbey is waiting for his "resurrection," he enjoys getting acquainted with his family. He had never seen his step-father, Frank Mulkey, until he came back, nor did he know that he had two half-brothers and a half-sister.

"They're my folks," he says proudly. "And I'm just getting so I know them." He calls Mildred Mulkey, 11, his "little sweetheart." And the little, auburn-haired girl smiles happily. "The other children are Harland and Robert. Their half-brother here is the object of their admiration. He and his step-father have become great friends.

Godbey also has two full brothers, William C., in the navy and now stationed at San Pedro, Calif., and Ben, of Santa Barbara, Calif.

There's only one dispute in the family now. It is between him and his mother. She declares he should have the $368 bonus money and he is determined that she should keep it.

"I can work and I don't need it—and don't deserve it," he declares. "Mother has made a great many sacrifices to keep it intact—and I want her to have it. I hope to make up for the suffering she endured while mourning me as dead."

In Fairly Good Health, Despite Injuries Godbey isn't contemplating marriage—yet. He recalls a "pretty and efficient nurse" who cared for him in an Algiers hospital after he was so severely wounded when fighting against the Riffs.

"I don't know what became of her," he says. "I lost her picture on the way home."

He lost other things, too. Acids in the fertilizer cargo of one of the boats on which he worked his way back ruined his clothes and his mementoes as well, he says.

Despite the months during which he lay in bed near death, Godbey is in fairly good health now. He believes quiet life and good food and a good place to sleep will restore it completely.

And, of course, he'll be happier when he is legally "alive." (THE END)

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

On behalf of the housewives and housemaids of Midland, I take occasion to gripe about the way the sandstorms have doubled up during the past few days. Hardly had the houses been cleaned up Monday evening sandstorm when two additional dusters came up Monday evening. It's little wonder that house maids develop housemaid's knees from stooping to dust out in the corners. My idea of handling such a situation is to wait until after a rain and then clean house, but you will find house cleaners among the fair sex who refuse to leave the sand in the house that long.

Two sandstorms failed to halt the advance of vets and legionnaires upon the Cloverdale front yesterday afternoon.

Anyway, cocktails are not being consumed fast enough to take care of a surplus of grapefruit juice and orange juice. The Agriculture Department says practically all citrus-growing countries are increasing production faster than world consumption now and that production probably will keep on increasing, which presumably means that just one more section of agriculture is going to suffer from overproduction.

A speaker at the recent Chamber of Commerce meetings departed from his prepared speech to tell interesting tales about how the Illinois corn crop used to go to Canadian distilleries but didn't any more because of competition and how Mohammedans in the Sudan were persuaded to work only on promise of trips to Mecca in return for two years' labor and then told at Mecca they must work a couple of years more for their passage home.

There was a big story just before the International Chamber of Commerce Congress that foreign delegates would attack the United States for trading with Russia. At the congress itself you couldn't find delegates from any important country that wasn't trading with Russia, so that's presumably why there wasn't any fight.

Lengths May Vary and Be Smart

Originality is the first requisite, if you would have your evening wrap the epitome of chic. (Left) Very formal, very elegant and very sumptuous is a long wrap from Jean Patou made of soft aramant velvet which is delectable with the green, mauve and yellow printed chiffon gown. The wrap's sleeves are tremendously picturesque and a huge floral posy in the gown's colors stands ace high on one shoulder. Right: A brand new evening idea of Patou's is to top a black imperial satin gown with a black wrap of the same that boasts white sleeves and an original roll collar softly draped. A black hat with a bandeau of white camellias is very appropriate. Patou calls this "A Sunday Night in Spring."

America's "Sunshine Boy" Takes Up Ring Lardner's Vehicle and Is Big Hit; Comes to Ritz in "June Moon"

Ring Lardner and Jack Oakie, names that mean much in the realm of humor, are again linked in a common cause in "June Moon," the comedy-smash of "tin-pan alley" life which comes to the Ritz theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

Ring Lardner is one of the most popular and at the same time, most brilliant of America's humorist-fictionist-playwrights. He first attracted attention with his series of baseball stories, "You Know Me Al," in the Saturday Evening Post several years ago. He has since written regularly for the newspaper syndicates a series of humorous letters setting forth his amusing views on this and that subject. His book, "How to Sell Short Stories" was accorded glowing praise by scores of literary critics here and abroad. Last year he collaborated with George S. Kaufman in the writing of "June Moon," one of the most successful comedies of the past season on Broadway.

Lardner was the co-author with George M. Cohan of "Elmer the Great," the play which became one of Oakie's most famous pictures.

"Fast Company." The screen version of "June Moon" preserves all the choice humor of the original Lardnerian opus and adds more by way of vivacity and spirit through the capable performance of the genial Oakie.

Oakie is seen as the "boy wonder" who comes to New York from Schenectady with the intention of cleaning up a million dollars in a few weeks by writing popular songs. He never gets very far, but he has a lot of fun doing it. He is supported by a capable cast including Wynne Gibson, the gang queen in "The Gang Buster," Frances Dee, Chevalier's sweetheart in "Playboy of Paris" and others.

A. Edward Sutherland, who directed Oakie in "The Sap from Syracuse," "The Social Lion," and "The Gang Buster," bossed "June Moon." Previewers who saw "June Moon" in New York recently declared that it is even more amusing as a screen play than it was in its thoroughly hilarious original stage form.

At the Ritz Today Only Like the famous Helen, whose beauty launched a thousand ships, Mary Astor is the happy possessor of a loveliness that is in itself reason enough for rivalry in love and competition between studios for her services.

Miss Astor was chosen by Warner Bros. to play the leading feminine role in "Other Men's Women," a melodrama of railroads and railroaders, with Grant Withers and Regis Toomey. The cameo beauty which has marked Miss Astor as one of the most exquisite women of the screen, gives an additional interest to the fast-moving combination of love and action that marks "Other Men's Women," the current attraction at the Ritz theatre.

The wife of one man and in love with his friend, Miss Astor makes up the eternal triangle which enjoys an entirely new treatment. J. Farrell Macdonald, James Cagney, Fred Kohler, Walter Long and Joan Blondell are others in the cast. William Wellman directed.

Mr. and Mrs. U. Hampton left last Saturday for East Texas where they will make plans to move there. Mr. Hampton is with the Prairie Oil & Gas company and has been transferred to the East Texas territory.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ling of Dallas were visitors here Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellis of San Angelo left this morning after a business visit here.

GREAT CROWD OF DIVOT DIGGERS EXPECTED AT LUBBOCK MEET

TOURNEY HELD ON MAY 21 AND 22; COURSE GOOD

LUBBOCK, Texas, May 19.—More than 750 West Texas golfers are enrolled to participate in the seventh annual tournament of the West Texas Golf association that is to be played over the Lubbock Country Club course, May 21, 22, 23 and 24.

Preliminaries for some 100 members of the Lubbock club will likely be held Wednesday May 20. The golfers will be after the West Texas crown, won by Dennis Lavender of Dallas and formerly of Abilene, who won the tournament last year at Brownwood.

In the event Lavender stays away, there will be a heated battle for the vacated throne between golfers in the same class with the 1930 champion, Fort Worth, Abilene, Brownwood, San Angelo, El Paso, and Amarillo will send "big town" players to vie with those of Lubbock and there will be host of players just as capable of outstroking the metropolitan golfers from the smaller towns of West Texas.

Four flights of 32 men each will emerge from the qualifying round on Friday, May 22, these 32 men will be matched in 18-hole contests. The preliminary rounds in the championship bracket will continue through Saturday, with first rounds of the consolation matches beginning Friday afternoon. Finals in all flights will be held Sunday, and the winner of the final 36 hole match will be crowned champion of West Texas amateurs.

Both the Meadowbrook and the Lubbock county clubs in Lubbock have entered the tournament. Other clubs that have entered follow:

Brownwood country club, Meadowbrook, Fort Worth, River Crest, Fort Worth, Eastland country club, Big Spring country club, Thurber country club, Spur country club, Texon country club, McCamey country club, Mineral Wells country club, Floydada country club, Ralls country club, Wichita Falls country club, Colorado country club, Amarillo country club, Plainview country club, and Lamesa country club.

Entries will be received until Thursday afternoon by Joe Dick Slaughter of the Lubbock country club.

SPORTS REPORTS

That sand storm that moved the real estate round abouts yesterday was nothing to compare with the row that resulted from the Sunday game of the Busher-Colts and the Bizzell men two miles south. When Mills hit a triple and was out when he overran third the urbanites claimed two runners scored before the said tagging. But the rural nine, backed by a bunch of religious supporters, maintain the last of the two runners, Robertson, had not dug cleats in the scoring pan.

Just as he shuts his door, he surveys himself while on his front porch, taking this brief but rather appropriate inventory: "Now let's see, I have on my breeches—" at this juncture he seems perfectly satisfied and awake, so proceeds to his doughnut dunking in a little cafe that has the audacity to front one of the four directions.

Motor cops sailed down the road yesterday without their motors running. Sailing was in vogue. Several cars tried the trick and did fairly well. All was easy, but not clear, sailing.

And then we heard about C. L. Jackson saying he would never be tempted to tell a lie, after that tournament at the club Sunday. He said he found so many bad lies in the roughs that the very idea of the word was repugnant, etc., etc.

About ever so often, Joe Taylor, the well known "State Press" finds his fancy engaged at the precise thought found there, and answers. Mr. Barron was impressed with Midland amateur sports the other day and wrote a rather lengthy editorial, the first paragraph of which is reproduced below. And, farther below, State Press has a typical answer.

GOLF as the STARS play it by ART KRENZ

How do you obtain the proper downswing and finish in the long iron shot?

Start the club down slowly, with the left hand in control and the wrists cocked. Increase the speed as the hitting region is reached. As soon as the club starts down, the weight should shift over to the left leg. Nearing the ball, the right hand hits a downward blow through the ball, taking turf. If the wrists are released, or uncocked, before the hitting region is reached, the snap and power is wasted. By bringing the wrists into play in the hitting region, the ball gets a crisp, descending blow.

NEXT: Why must the left hand be in control of the backswing and the start of the downswing?

JUST DRAGGED AROUND, WEAK

When In This Condition, Kentucky Lady Took Cardui and "Improved So Much."

"I believe it will strengthen and build one up, and help in many ways," writes Mrs. J. R. Clark of Hopkinsville, Ky., in referring to Cardui, a medicine long used by women and which helped Mrs. Clark as described below: "A few years ago," she says, "I was in a very weak, run-down condition. It is hard to describe how bad I felt. I know I was sick, for I did not feel like doing my work. I just dragged around. I was getting nervous, and knew I must do something to keep from getting sick in bed. "I had heard so much about Cardui, I decided to try it, and I haven't regretted it. "It improved so much. I felt like a new person. I often wonder why we suffer when there are such good remedies as Cardui. I am glad I found it so that I can recommend it to others." Let this recommendation help you get started on the road to better health. Cardui has been in use by women for more than fifty years.

FALSE ALARM?

Odessa has long been proud of her volunteer fire department, and rightfully so, for the boys have served long and well, but now she has a new and better reason for respecting them.

How's that for loyalty—and action?

Spain Rulers--

question of Monarchy versus Republic is not to be settled in the elections of June 21 since it was decided in the elections of April 12.

The present political campaign preceding the elections may have something to do with just what form the Republic will ultimately assume.

The second pretender to the non-existent Spanish throne is a very distant relative of the Duke of Toledo—he is the Duke of Madrid.

The Duke of Madrid is Don Jaime Juan-Carlos-Alfonso-Felipe, Prince of Bourbon, and son of the late Don Carlos, direct descendant of the original Don Carlos who provoked the Carlist wars which caused so much bloodshed in Spain in the 11th century.

The Salic Law

The whole trouble started when Ferdinand VII was King and his brother Carlos was Heir Apparent. Ferdinand had had three wives but no children.

Camel Contestants Receive Awards

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., May 19.—James Thomas Sharkey, Boston milkman who won first prize of $25,000 and other major prize winners in the recent $50,000 Camel cigarette contest, were presented with their prize checks here today by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company.

Mrs. Walter Sweet of Brooklyn received a check for $10,000 as winner of the second prize, and Julius M. Nolte, real estate man of Duluth, Minn., who won third prize, was handed a check for $5,000.

Accompanied by newspapermen, and photographers, the three prize winners came to Winston-Salem yesterday morning from New York as the guests of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company.

Immediately following the formal presentation of awards, the three prize winners and their party entertained for the return trip to New York and on to their homes.

Following the dinner, the prize winners went to a local radio station and in a special broadcast greeted the people of Winston-Salem. Downey and Wons also took part in the broadcast.

A feature of the festivities was a buffet garden luncheon given yesterday for the prize winners by Mrs. Earl Quinn, held in Kansas City charged with murdering two school teachers at Tonkawa, Oklahoma, today agreed to return to Oklahoma without a fight on extradition.

Patrick Sees His Garage Disappear

W. W. Patrick took one look out the window and saw a sand cloud descending on his two-car garage at 1610 West Texas street.

The wind had completely wrecked the building.

An old barn two blocks away that had been used by Weldon L. Russell, late contractor of Midland and Abilene, lost its roof in the blow.

The present "Carlist" or "Legitimist" pretender, Don Jaime, Duke of Madrid, was born in Switzerland in 1870. He resides in Paris, and is a bachelor.

Now Lon Jaime from his Paris headquarters asserts that he is the only legitimate pretender, and that the monarchy in Spain must not be abolished just because one King—referring to Alfonso XIII—did not have sense enough to make himself loved by his people.

Need of an electric sewing machine, for use during the summer months at the office of the Midland Community Welfare association, was expressed today by officials of the organization.

It was pointed out that anyone who will loan a machine for that purpose will be serving the welfare work of the community admirably. The machine will be well cared for, only special committees using it to prepare clothing for distribution next fall and winter.
