Kondat, and then returned to joke with the passengers while disaster threatened.

EXEMPTING HOMESTEADS FROM STATE TAX

If the constitutional amendment, proposed through an agreement between the house and senate at Austin, is passed by voters of Texas in November, 1932, Texas will be the first state in America to exempt small homesteads from state property taxation.

This amendment will exempt the first $3,000 of taxable value of all homesteads from state ad valorem taxation. The original house bill placed the exemption at $2,000. The senate first voted to make it $5,000. Agreement was reached upon a $3,000 exemption, with the idea that since homesteads are usually assessed for taxation at approximately 50 per cent of their full value, the $3,000 exemption will amount in fact to an exemption of $5,000 to $6,000.

This, as Peter Molyneux in the Texas Weekly recently pointed out, will relieve at least one-half of the small farm and city homes of all state ad valorem taxes.

All states that levy income taxes exempt bare subsistence incomes from taxation: they have apparently been ashamed to take bread out of the mouths of the poor. Texas will be the first state to grant a like exemption to the roofs over the head of the poor, and to the little patches of ground under their feet.

A few legislators, and a few newspapers, have objected that homestead tax exemption will be "class legislation," therefore undemocratic and objectionable.

The answer to that is that all of the 48 states, including Texas, and the nation, have given tax exemption, as to both principal and income, to owners of more than sixteen billion dollars worth of national, state, county and municipal bonds, including over $600,000,000 of Texas public bonds. Texas will be the first state to recognize its obligation to offset this enormous tax exemption in favor of the rich and the well-to-do—the investing class—with a tax exemption in favor of our millions in town and country who have no hope or prospect of ever saving much more than the price of a little freehold home.

IMPORTANT MEN ON TIME

The meeting was called for four o'clock. At one minute before the appointed hour the attendant closed the doors. As he did so he took notice that all the chairs were occupied.

A long table occupied the center of the room. Lewis Cass Ledyard was in the chair set for the presiding officer. At his right hand was Cardinal Hayes. Next to the Cardinal sat J. P. Morgan, then came Payne Whitney and George F. Baker, Jr. At the table's end was Elihu Root and next to him Vincent Astor and Henry Walters. The engineering profession was represented by Williams Barclay Parsons and the law by two former justices of the supreme court, Morgan J. O'Brien and Samuel Greenbaum, and by John G. Milburn and Frank L. Polk.

At a sign from President Ledyard, Mr. Whitney arose and proceeded to read the report of a committee of which he was chairman.

It was the monthly meeting of the trustees of the New York public library. Every man was on time.—The New York Sun.

Should Our Schools Teach Courses In Marriage and Prohibition?

BY DEXTER TEED
NEA Service Writer
CLEVELAND, May 21.—The youth of the future must face marriage not in ignorance but fully-equipped to solve the problems which every couple meets. Education will bring this about. Students will be taught the "science of marriage" in schools.

And the picture of high school boys and girls, as well as college students, lugging textbooks on marriage along with their histories, algebras and biologies isn't so overdrawn as it may seem. The influence of the home is admittedly waning. There must be a substitute. With the divorce rate constantly mounting, Domestic Relations Judge Samuel H. Silbert of Cleveland is convinced that the institution of marriage is menaced. He declares we must delve deeply into fundamentals. He urges education of our youth for marriage.

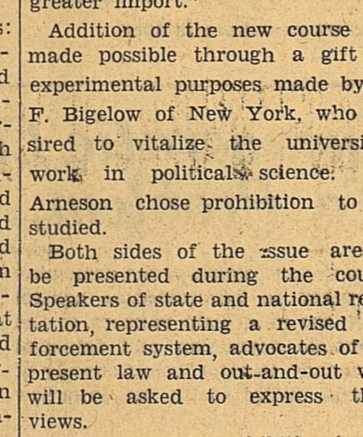

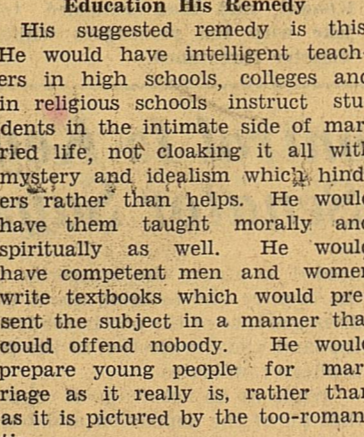

"We're too smugly complacent about it," he declares. "We raise our children in a Garden of Eden, then toss them out into a hard-boiled world of reality. They aren't prepared for marriage." Judge Silbert draws his conclusions from a wealth of experience. He has been hearing divorce cases for seven years. During the past four months 1400 have been before him. He has set a record of a divorce every 10 minutes in uncontested cases. He's sometimes called the "10-minute judge."

He's been a confidante of thousands. He has heard their troubles, their unsolved problems. Perhaps he understands couples in the throes of divorce as well as any judge in America. Although Judge Silbert admits there are many cases of divorces and unhappy marriages, he believes education is the remedy. He admits young people often refuse to take marriage seriously, that economic conditions have changed, that home doesn't mean as much as it once did, and that in the rush of modern life couples will not take time to adjust differences.

But searching for truth—the one great factor in destroying homes—he finds that marriage often fails because couples do not understand each other. "I speak as a judge, honestly trying to save people from divorces," he asserts. "Not as a reformer. That is farthest from my thoughts. There's too much false modesty," he asserts. "I see the result of it every day. Men and women come to me with their only real information about sex learned from poorly-educated companions who probably have learned what little they know from others with as little knowledge."

Judge Silbert says modern inventions have cut down spare time in homes. Radios and automobiles and shows and social activities take up every spare moment. The old heart-to-heart discussions between father and son or mother and daughter are of the past. The youth often doesn't understand what marriage really means.

Dr. Ben A. Arneson, head of the political science department, who proposed the course, explains the choice of the subject which has been argued about so heatedly by wets and drys. "I am not sure that the prohibition question is the most important issue before our people," says Dr. Arneson, "but it is one that keeps intruding and that will keep intruding until something is done about it. This problem must be dealt with before we can face other national problems of perhaps even greater import." Addition of the new course was made possible through a gift for experimental purposes made by W. F. Bigelow of New York, who desired to vitalize the university's work in political science. Dr. Arneson chose prohibition to be studied. Both sides of the issue are to be presented during the course. Speakers of state and national reputation, representing a revised enforcement system, advocates of the present law and out-and-out wets will be asked to express their views. "The course in prohibition is part of a larger scheme," says Dr. Arneson, "which will involve studying a timely government problem each year."

Training for Citizenship The purpose of a study of political science, he explains, is to train students for intelligent citizenship. He says that study of political and governmental aspects of present-day problems is in harmony with such an aim. "The chief difficulty in teaching the course will be that of enabling the students to distinguish carefully between propaganda and fact," admits Dr. Arneson. "For that very reason, the course will prove a most valuable aid in developing that very necessary type of discrimination. "Students will be required to evaluate carefully all sources of information on the question. The records and connections of all speakers and writers whose material is presented will be studied. Special study will be made of those issues on which the contentions of the advocates of different sides of prohibition are found to be in direct conflict." The climax of the course will be reached in January, 1932, with a two-day conference on prohibition which will be open to all students and the general public. Members of the Wickersham committee and others of prominence either as drys or wets will be invited. What conclusion will be reached cannot be predicted now, but Dr.

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

Senator J. Boomboom McWhorter Is Plainly Worried About This Legalized Grape Juice That Makes Wine, "Peaceful Picketing" of Speakeasies and Freedom for Drunks

WASHINGTON.—"Prohibition is not an issue," says Senator J. Boomboom McWhorter, "but this is a very hard life just the same. "It is all very well for us to say to people that prohibition has no place in a political campaign and will they please divert their attention to economic problems which they do not know anything about. "But then they read the newspapers and go off and scratch their heads. When people scratch their heads it is always bad for the politicians. The science of politics is based on the theory that no large group of people will ever scratch their heads. Ordinarily, they don't. "If you will look at the liquor news in your newspapers you will find that most of it is the sort that makes you scratch your head and if you scratch too much you are likely to get all mixed up and arrive at the totally erroneous conclusion that prohibition is really an issue after all.

Here's the Cause "Here are some other news items which keep people remembering about prohibition and which may tempt them to think there isn't any sense in the world: "There are companies putting big kegs of grape juice in everybody's cellar and leaving it so it will ferment. They are very careful not to say it will make wine. All it makes is burgundy, sauterne, port, Madeira or whatever other type of engine oil you may be wanting. "Down on New York avenue a policeman is standing at the door of a speakeasy and he has been stationed there for weeks. The speakeasy is doing business and the cop keeps standing there. That is what you call peaceful picketing. "Getting convicted of bootlegging, according to another story, costs on the average a $750 fine in Maine and a fine of $57.91 in New York, and an average 569-day jail sentence in southern West Virginia as compared with 48 days in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. "A multi-millionaire named du Pont is going on the platform to debate the dry laws with a representative of the Anti-Saloon League. "The big issue in Baltimore's municipal election the other day was whether or not the candidate who won by an unprecedented majority had or had not conquered the drinking habit since his previous term. "Can You Figure This Out? "In Baltimore they also just arrested a man who had been selling bottles of colored water for several dollars a bottle as 'something just off the boat.' There was no alcohol in the bottles so they sent him to the hoosegow for 'disorderly conduct.' Yet, I suppose if all bootleggers sold colored water in their bottles there would be no question of the success of prohibition.

"Mr. John Eric Glynn-Perry, the English baritone, arrives in this country and says that beer and wine are harmless to the throat, that whiskey is bad for it and gin worst of all. I do not think we need any advice on this subject for foreigners. "The chief of police at Scituate, R. I., explains that nobody who gets drunk in his town is ever locked up for getting drunk because it is an old Scituate custom dating back 201 years not to lock anybody up who is drunk. "A member of the jury which convicted 11 members of a rum ring here in Washington says he was in a daze for hours and does not remember any verdict, so the defendants are demanding a new trial. Arneson hopes that unbiased study of the whole problem will result in uncovering real facts which will aid in solving the muddled wet-dry situation. A native of Wisconsin, Dr. Arneson was graduated from the university and holds a doctor of philosophy degree from that institution. After teaching in public schools for five years, he came here to become head of the political science department 14 years ago. He is author of "Elements of Constitutional Law," and a contributor to magazines.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

After all has been said and all the jokes have been printed about Chicago's gunmen, along comes the former mayor of that city, William Hale Thompson, who cites statistics from the Chicago association of commerce crime table, showing that Chicago is the only city in the nation with a continual reduction in crime from 1915 until now. It must have been tough back in 1915 but we didn't know it.

Some of these modern reformers, in criticising the young people of today, get my goat. Along comes a cynical bird who says that the modern young man is afflicted with half wittedness, a vacuous ego, and inability to earn his living, a tender skin and mental freakies. I rise to the point of argument to say that the average youth of today can tell you more in a minute than the average grownup can put out after a week of study. A modern youth can tell you all the details of radio, which would have astounded even the deepest thinking dreamer or inventor when these reformers were boys. As to the vacuous ego, the very tone of the statement made by that reformer shows where his ego is. As to undesire and inability to earn a living, there are ten grownups to one youth calling on the welfare associations for help. As to the tender skin; just try going without your hat the year round, not even batting an eye in a blizzard or squinting your eyebrows in the hot sun. Looks more like tough hide than tender skin to me. I'm for the modern youth.

"Also, the wet organizations and the dry organizations are beginning new drives. "I do not insist that all this news proves anything, but if it proves anything at all it proves that prohibition is not an issue except in the newspapers and Mr. Raskob's mind. There are plenty of other things to think about and I am sure we should all be as happy as kings."

Mrs. Abell Reads Famous Play at Play Readers

Reviewing "Shanghai Gesture," a modern tragedy of an Oriental setting, written by John Colton, Mrs. George T. Abell ably interpreted every character of the play at the meeting of the Play Readers club Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John E. Adams.

Splendid characterizations and effective reading featured the review by Mrs. Abell, who saw the play staged by Florence Reed in Dallas recently. So vividly were the characters portrayed that the club felt as if an entire cast were producing the play.

Special guests for the afternoon were Meses J. R. Martin, R. H. Morrison of Dallas, Leon Goodman, Herschfield, Guy McLaughlin of Houston, L. B. Lancaster, J. R. Ashley, and Charles Klapproth.

Mrs. Klapproth and Mrs. Ashley accepted membership in the club.

Health Topics On Program of Adult Club

A review of tuberculosis, and a thorough study of over and under-weight, diet and the value of different foods composed the weekly study of the South Ward Health class at the office of Miss Martha Bredeheller Tuesday afternoon.

Seven members were present and Mrs. E. H. Benedict was a visitor.

A request was made for all members to be present next Tuesday and bring a visitor. The study will be on first aid.

Interesting Course Of Study Adopted By Mothers' Club

A bird's-eye-view of America with special reference to Texas and Texas literature is the study course approved by the Mother's Self Culture club at a call meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. M. Goldsmith.

The program committee, composed of Mrs. Goldsmith, Mrs. Paul Barron and Mrs. J. D. Young, outlined the course and has made plans for colored lantern slides to be used in connection with each program. An itinerary of America including all places of interest will be followed by the club.

Mrs. M. M. Seymour, who because of illness last year was unable to fill the position of secretary, will resume her duties next fall. Mrs. J. M. Speed was elected treasurer and Mrs. J. D. Young will be parliamentarian. Other officers will remain the same.

Subjects for each member to answer roll call on next fall were distributed yesterday.

The course, which promises to be one of the most interesting ever studied, will begin in September when the club year opens officially with a luncheon.

New members added to the roll include Meses William Simpson, W. T. Walsh, Fred Wright, M. C. Ulmer and L. C. Waterman.

A generous bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at City Drug Store or any druggist in America—take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—that will help Kruschen take off your fat.

REPORTER-TELEGRAM ENDS PLAYGROUND BALL SEASON WITH WIN

NAIL SACKERS TO PLAY TESCO THIS P. M.

The Reporter-Telegram ended its schedule in the playground twilight league Wednesday by hitting the offerings of Bog Scruggs to these and those corners of the sandy diamond and converting the hitting punch into 11 runs. The Buick Valve-in-Head team scored five times.

In order to decide what club ends season on top, a brace of games must yet be played. The Midland Hardware Nail Sackers, other club riding the top, must play the Texas Electric Service company this afternoon and the Scruggsmen and Electricians must play tomorrow afternoon.

In case the Electricians administer a defeat to the Nail Sackers this afternoon the season will have automatically closed, with the News Mergers holding the decision for the season. In case the Hardware boys of Dee McCormick win, they will still hold a tie with Reporter-Telegram and force a playoff for the second half. If they lose this to the newspaper, the latter club will win the league, inasmuch as it took the first half. If the newspaper should lose it would still be in an additional playoff, that of first and second half winners.

Heath for the losers was the premier run gatherer in yesterday's game, spiking his way around the bases three times. Miller, Calhoun and Morse scored twice each for the newspaper.

Holder of the Buicks made an unprecedented number of errors on third base, booting away seven chances. Hill made one of the off-brand variety, and Hurley and Calhoun made two each.

Bob Scruggs struck out four batsmen, "Scotty" Gemmill, manager of The Reporter-Telegram, six.

Armour May Block British Brethren in Trophy Quest

BY ART KRENZ
 NEA Service Writer

British golfing prestige took one on the chin nine years ago when Tommy Armour embarked for America. The loss may be emphasized shortly when Tommy goes against his British brethren in the Western Open June 17-19 at Miami Country Club, Dayton, and the National Open July 2-4 at Inverness, Toledo.

Armour is one of the best golfers who ever chucked old John Bull into the discard. He belongs with the group that includes Sarazen, Diegel, Farrell, Mac Smith, Hagen, Mehlhorn and, if you want to include Britishers, Vardon, Taylor, Braid, Ray and Compton.

As an amateur Tommy enjoyed a handicap of several strokes. He managed to win the French Amateur in 1920 and he played on the British Walker Cup team of 1921, but neither in England nor America were his amateur attempts crowned with marked success.

Armour played a good game of golf as a youth until the World War intervened. He lost the sight of one eye and suffered an injury to his left arm in the conflict with the Boche.

War played havoc with Tommy's golf. The left arm, dominating factor of the golf swing, failed to function properly and his game promptly leaped into the 90's.

The coolness under fire that marked Major Armour on the French frontier soon came to the rescue of Tommy Armour's golf.

He went to work in systematic practice sessions and victory in the French Amateur and a tie, followed by a losing playoff, in the Canadian Open rewarded his efforts.

Armour then came to America, locating at the Westchester Billmore Country Club as golf secretary.

Success finally began to loiter around the Armour household after he turned pro in 1925. One of his first triumphs was the Florida west coast title.

Later he teamed with Bobby Cruickshank, pal of school days, and won the International team matches at Miami from Hagen and Hutchison.

Armour's fine form and gritty spirit brought him to the peak in 1927 when he climaxed a big year by winning the National Open at Oakmont. He annexed five open tournaments, establishing himself as perhaps the game's best iron player.

The real Armour spirit was shown to advantage at Oakmont where Tommy had to shoot a birdie three on the 450-yard 18th to gain a tie with Lighthorse.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Morrison of Dallas are in Midland this week stopping at Hotel Scharbauer. Mr. Morrison is transacting business at the California Oil company office while here.

Mr. Paul T. Vickers left this morning for Spur where she will visit her family several days.

The blue of the sea stands in a constant ratio to its saltiness. In the tropics the tremendous evaporation makes for a more brilliant blue than in the northern seas.

NEEDED A BIRDIE THREE ON THE 18TH AT OAKMONT TO TIE HARRY COOPER.

Harry Cooper. The playoff was a seesaw affair to the 15th where Armour holed a 50-foot putt for a three which crushed the Lighthorse. Armour then continued to par figures to finish with 76, three strokes ahead of Cooper.

It was Armour who last year wrested a pair of titles from Leo Diegel, perennial P. G. A. and Canadian Open champion. After winning the Canadian event, Tommy failed to qualify for the P. G. A. from the Michigan sector, but he finally obtained a place after several candidates dropped out.

GOLF as the STARS Play It by ART KRENZ

In Addressing Ball on Tee, Stand So Clubhead Will Hit It at Lowest Point in Swing.

Should one tee the ball off the left heel or more toward the right foot?

THIS IS THE STANCE USED BY WILLIE MACFARLANE, NATIONAL OPEN CHAMPION IN 1925.

Stars differ greatly on the position of the ball with regard to their feet. For the drive, Bobby Jones plays his ball off the left instep. Among other stars the position of the ball is much farther back. The main thing, of course, is to tee the ball at the spot where it will be hit by the club head at the lowest point of the swing.

In iron shots, many golfers play the ball slightly more toward the right foot. This gives you perfect position to hit down on the ball so that turf may be taken after the ball is hit.

City Supt. J. L. Ryan of West Texas Gas company of Lubbock returned to his home this morning after looking over business here.

SPORTS REPORTS

Name of a Dodo! We almost saw a hole-in-one offense committed on No. 5's sacred hullward! Jimmie Harrison wound up a mashie shot that dug in the edge of the green and trickled up to a measured five inches from the lip of the cup, so straight that the diameter of the cup, if projected those scant five inches, would have passed through the heart of the ball. One ounce-millimeter of force added to the drive would have turned the trick. May our whiskers envelop our mid-section if the pitch was not a beaut!

The scribe believed the ball was going into the hole. "Here, put this club in my bag and run up to the club house and get some smelling salts," he said to his caddy, watching the flight of the ball.

NEW MOORING MAST FIT

AKRON, O. (UP)—A giant movable mooring mast to drag the mammoth dirigible "Akron" in and out of the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation airlock has been tested and pronounced fit.

Powered with a 240-horsepower gasoline engine, the mast is 76 feet high, weighs 200 tons and attains full speed in locomotion at two miles per hour. Although originally designed by British engineers, the "iron horse" was made possible by U. S. naval experts.

One of the scrivener's to the east has put out so many four-page papers recently that, rather than yell "Fore!" on the golf course, he pipes up "Paper!"

The University of Texas Longhorns will play in San Angelo May 24-25. For the first time since 1923, when the Baylor Bears toppled a winning streak of eight straight years, the Longhorns won a perennial baseball championship—that is, until the very last game of the current season, when the sluggers of Texas A&M upset the dope and took the crown. Only two championships lost since 1925! What a record.

J. S. King of the Sinclair Oil and Refining company is a business visitor here today.

FLOW UP LONG-LOST WATCH

OAKDALE, Calif. (UP)—In 1888, 43 years ago, Berchard H. von Glahn lost his watch while plowing on the A. C. Paulsell ranch near here. This spring Hartwell Summers, while plowing the same field, found the timepiece. He didn't know von Glahn, but met his son, a scout executive, during a scout meeting here, and asked if he knew B. H. von Glahn—and the return of the watch was made.

Let's have a SHOWDOWN on this matter of TIRE COMPARISONS

WITH all the conflicting claims published about tires, it is obvious that misleading statements are being made. The only conclusion that you as a tire buyer can draw is that either we, as Firestone Dealers, are misrepresenting Firestone products, or that a certain mail order house is not telling the truth about theirs. Both can't be right—one or the other is misleading the public by their comparisons.

get the facts yourself, makes it unnecessary for Mr. Firestone to make affidavit on the truth of his statements or to file any complaint with the Federal Trade Commission, and then advertise it, in an attempt to lead the public to believe his statements were true.

Mr. Firestone doesn't ask you to accept comparisons about Firestone Tires and special brand mail order tires until you see the facts yourself. Neither do we. All we ask is that you make your own comparison.

Firestone, in their advertising, only make comparisons that can be easily verified by the customer before buying tires. To attempt to substantiate the comparisons made by this mail order house, it would be necessary to go into a laboratory and employ experts.

The very reason that the comparisons made in Firestone advertising enable you to

RESET PRORATION TEST CASE WHEN CALLED TODAY

HOUSTON, May 21. (UP).—A test case of the constitutionality of the prorotation law of East Texas was reset for June 24, by an order by Circuit Judge J. C. Hutcherson today.

HOUSTON, May 21. (UP).—A test of the oil prorotation law will be made before three federal judges today.

The McMillan Petroleum company is attacking the constitutionality of a state law in an attempt to prevent the railroad commission from following directions to prorotate East Texas production.

why we are suffering under low prices for farm products and even other goods. Many foreign countries have retaliated by building up their trade walls against us. Whenever we fail to find a market abroad for our surplus products, the domestic market cannot consume them, and the bottom drops out of their prices. The democrats in congress protested against this short-sighted and selfish policy of the administration. It is time to turn the government to the democratic party, which believes in liberal principles. We cannot ignore the rest of the world in our trade and commerce. The democratic party is the only hope for the return of the government to a period of economic sanity and stability. We ought to win in 1932, and we can win by using judgement and foresight. We have a fairly good chance to elect a speaker of the

Sex of Burro Decides Issue

SAN ANGELO.—The basic question of sex settled what threatened to be an outbreak of civil war in one of the West Angelo schools, but not before about fifty boys had taken sides on the question of ownership of the subject of the litigation, a burro.

"I gave $1 and a rooster to a boy for the donkey," one 12-year-old insisted before E. W. Bode, probation officer, who was called by the school principal to settle the question of ownership.

"I know that burro," the second party insisted, "I branded it with an 'F. T.' and I guess I ought to know it." Questioning showed that the $1 and rooster in question had been spent and eaten, respectively, and examination showed no legible brands, old or new.

At last the boy who insisted he had branded the burro came to Mr. Bode and whispered, "Say, I'm wrong. That ain't my donkey. Mine was a jenny. That is a jack."

"Republican rule of the past two years has resulted in creating a treasury deficit of nearly one billion dollars. When we remember that the republican administration made loud professions as to its efficiency and economy it seems ironical to now ascertain that its boasts have resulted in plunging the treasury into debt to the extent of this stupendous sum. Leading republicans are now advocating a general increase of federal taxes. It seems to me that this is no time to add to the burden of tax payers of the country. The treasury is about seven years ahead of its program of re-

Technical Advisor in Rum-Running Film Is a Real He Gunman Who Was Engaged in Racket Short Time Ago

Strange things happen in Hollywood!

The latest oddity is that an Italian rum-runner acted as technical advisor on liquor-traffic scenes in "Gentleman's Fate," John Gilbert's new talkie, which will open Thursday at the Ritz theatre for two days.

The services of the "technical expert" were obtained to preserve realism throughout the picture. He was a recent arrival from Chicago and told Director Mervyn Le Roy that he had come to California "for his health."

Gilbert's new picture is a fast-moving narrative revolving about the nefarious activities of New Jersey bootleggers. Because of the numerous shooting scenes, Le Roy combined his job of director with that of ordinance inspector, examining the arsenal of revolvers, rifles and machine guns before each scene.

Although the guns were all loaded with blanks, the director made the inspection as an added precaution for the actors who had to be fired upon at close range.

The story was written by Ursula Parrot, author of the successful "The Divorcee." Lella Hyams and Azita Page share feminine leads. The cast also includes Louis Wolheim, Marie Prevost, John Miljan, and George Cooper. Le Roy's last picture was the gangster-film hit, "Little Caesar."

our world trade is demoralized and deranged. If the democrats could secure power and modify and ameliorate the economic policies of the republican administration, I believe we shall be able to work out conditions where we may see the return of better times.

"Our own state is basically sound. We have the natural resources. We have the soil. We have an intelligent and industrious people. We must look upon the future with optimism and faith. Our natural resources of mind and character will in time materially improve conditions under which we live. Optimism and faith built Texas. They created the great government of the union. I have sublime confidence in our people and our country, and I look to the future for the dawning of a better day."

Considerable interest has been aroused by campaign managers in the election for tall twister. The campaign will come to a close at the meeting next Wednesday.

MOTION IS MADE FOR NEW TRIAL IN HARMON CASE

FORT WORTH, May 21. (UP).—Motion for a new trial for S. E. Harmon, sentenced to 10 years for the murder of W. S. Kucker, will be filed today or Friday.

If the motion is overruled the case will be appealed, Albert Basking, attorney said.

Kucker was shot to death here in 1929 as the climax of a difficulty that began with a fight between his son, W. S. 10, and Harmon's son, Dorris, 9. The boys' mothers engaged in a "hair-pulling," according to testimony. When Kucker came home his wife told him of the trouble and he went to Harmon's home. Shots rang out and Kucker, mortally wounded, ran to his own porch, where he fell.

Harmon's plea was self-defense. He declared he fired because he thought his own life and the lives of members of his family were in peril as Kucker had called to his son to "get my shotgun." Three bullets struck Kucker. The weapon was a small rifle. The defendant testified he did not intend to take Kucker's life, but meant only to incapacitate him.

Firestone Dealers Fight Mail Orders

"Firestone is using its immense resources in rubber plantations, manufacturing equipment, warehousing and service dealer organization to support the principle that the prosperity of the local dealer and merchant is vital to the growth of every community," says W. F. Hejl of Hall Tire company, Firestone distributor here. "The company's national tire distribution of 26,000 outlets is built around local organizations which are part of the community, in contrast to mail order houses."

"Values are on the side of the manufacturer and the local dealer. The mail order houses buy their tires from a manufacturer who will not put his own name on them. Firestone makes its own product, puts its name on it, and sells it through local dealers who spend their money locally. There is no jobber or middleman or mail order system involved."

"Our sales are promoted by local newspaper advertising supported by national advertising, and the mail order houses through an expensive catalog which isn't even printed locally. The mail order houses have to maintain central warehouses just as Firestone does, and they have to keep large organizations tabulating, corresponding and shipping at distant points, which is a much more expensive way of operating than through a dealer organization."

According to Hejl, the average motorist is beginning to understand that he can do better for himself as well as for local business by walking into a Firestone dealer's service store. "We have cross sections of the tires," he said, "to show that Firestone offers more tire, for the same money."

About golf, however—Senator Connally said some of the senators play it. But he didn't give the impression of caring much about the sport. "It takes too much time," he seemed to say.

"I am glad to visit Midland again," the senator concluded. "Eighteen years ago, I was here and again three years ago. There are evident many things that indicate the progress and development of this territory. Your splendid school system and its handsome plant, your elegant new court house, fine hotels and office buildings, many beautiful homes—all attest to your growth and advancement. This section has a great and promising future."
