Members of the Midland lodge No. 384 of the Independent Order Odd Fellows have prepared resolutions of regret at the losing of a valuable member, the Rev. Thomas D. Murphy, who has resigned his pastorate at the First Presbyterian church.

"We the members of Midland lodge, Number 384 of the Independent Order Odd Fellows, having learned of the resignation of the Rev. Thomas D. Murphy as pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, desire to express our regret that such a step has been deemed necessary by Brother Murphy. His name will long be associated with our success as a fraternal organization. He was large in fraternal capacity, and made many enduring friendships among us. Men were instantly happier and the lodge was given a touch of dignity when he was present.

"We commend him to Odd Fellows everywhere as a real man and one who lives the teachings of the order. While we know that his church and the city will miss him we of the Independent Order Odd Fellows are keenly conscious of our loss; for he is a man of convictions and one who has the courage to prosecute his ideals.

"We regard Brother Murphy as a strong preacher; a faithful Odd Fellow and a man's man.

HALEY DAMAGE TRIAL HALTED; NEW EVIDENCE

The damage suit in Lubbock against J. Everts Haley and trustees of the Capitol Reservation Lands, growing out of material written by Haley into his book "The XIT Ranch of Texas", was halted Friday afternoon until early this week through motion of plaintiff, Fred Spikes.

It is believed that plaintiff has new evidence to offer.

The defense finished with testimony Thursday and it had been expected that the case would go to the jury Friday afternoon or Saturday morning.

A free will offering will be taken for the orphanage here.

Among other things, Barrett said: "There are 406 orphan children in the orphanage now. A few more girls than boys, ranging from eighteen years of age. A happier and healthier lot of boys and girls can not be found anywhere. While the physical assets of the orphanage are almost a million dollars, yet its chief assets are the boys and girls. Realizing this solemn truth every effort possible is being made to serve the best interest of each child in the orphanage.

"The orphanage is endeavoring to be a real home to these otherwise homeless boys and girls. The man without a country is not to be pitied more than the child without a home. Broken homes, by divorces, unworthy parents, who desert their children, misfortune, sickness and death, are leaving hundreds of children homeless, every year in our state. The orphanage is taking as many of these children as possible and mothering them. It is trying to

LATE FLASHES

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—Police said that Charles Obietes of Brooklyn had admitted killing Andrew Zubenski, speakeasy proprietor, and dismembering the body and disposing of the parts over the city during two days.

He said Mrs. Zubenski had paid him $300 for the killing, fearing her husband planned to return to Cleveland and "tell" about the death of her first husband, Adam Vilentis.

The woman denied any knowledge of the killing and said Zubenski left home March 25. She viewed assembled parts of the body in the morgue and said the body was not that of her husband.

Obietes, police said, stated the killing was done March 25. The first clue was the discovery of a human thigh wrapped in a newspaper on the Williamsburg bridge two days later. Other parts were found later. Zubenski, in 1922, was a bartender for Vilentis in Cleveland. On May 23 of that year, Vilentis' body was found in the back yard, dead from an axe blow.

Zubenski and Mrs. Vilentis were questioned but permitted to go.

SHOT COW BOY WHEN IN A ROW

Witness Says Puncher Swore He Would Kill Negro

AMARILLO, June 6. (UP)—Will More, negro hotel porter, was acquitted last night by a jury on a murder charge in connection with the shooting of Pete Moore, New Mexico cowboy, last March.

The negro testified that he shot in self defense after the cowboy attacked him with a register after he refused to arouse a guest at two o'clock in the morning.

Self Defense Is Plea

Taking of testimony consumed 2 days, after an equal amount of time had been used in the selection of a jury.

The slaying of Mont Moore took place in the lobby of Terminal Hotel here early on the morning of last March 4, during a cattleman's convention.

Self defense was the plea of the negro who was sentenced to death in the electric chair at a former trial of the murder charge.

Scores of Witnesses

According to the earlier testimony, Pete Moore, with companions entered the hotel in quest of friends supposed to be registered at the hotel. After a series of experiences there with the hotel porter who was on duty at the time, an altercation apparently arose and the negro fired one shot into the body of Moore.

Scores of witnesses for the prosecution and defense began testimony after three special venues had been used to select the jury. The jury was completed Tuesday night and the taking of testimony started on Wednesday morning.

Among the concluding witnesses was Vernon McFarland, who testified that he had been drinking at divers places with Pete Moore on the day before the killing. In the course of his testimony he said that Pete Moore had told him he was "going to kill a negro before morning" but the witness said that Moore didn't specify any particular negro. Pete Moore was

He said that he couldn't tell whether Pete Moore was drunk or not.

SUMMING UP OIL'S BIG WORK

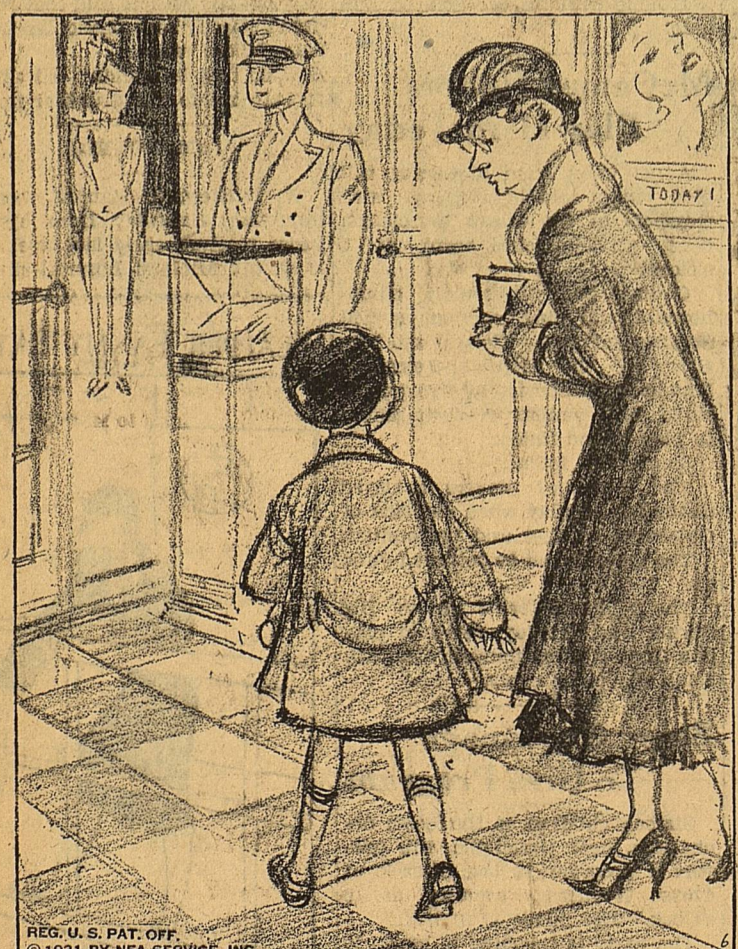

Residents of West Texas, especially of the Permian basin, are prone to forget the extent of development that has come to the area within a few years as result of oil activity. Likewise, it is easy, in a period when the oil price is low to lose sight of the future development and revenue that will pour into the country as result of oil fields already discovered and of new fields to be explored.

Following is an article which appeared in the current number of The Executives Magazine, dealing especially with the growth from oil of Permian Basin towns:

Until recent discoveries of oil in paying quantities were announced from East Texas the West Texas Basin—which, by the way, extends geologically into Southeastern New Mexico—was the newest oil field in the United States. Commercial production began there in May 1921, when the first well was completed in the Westbrook pool in Mitchell county. The first well in the Big Lake pool came in with a production of 80 barrels a day in May, 1923. Two years were to pass before another pool was discovered. Three pools came in in 1925 and four very productive ones in 1926. The experts calculated the potential production of the field as of July 1, 1929, to be 5,000,000 barrels per day. How drastically successful the pro-ration plan is may be judged by the fact that six months later the production of the field was being held down to 130,000 barrels per day. Nineteen Texas counties are included in the West Texas Basin Province which may be roughly described as a shield shaped area in the western part of Texas south of the Panhandle. The principal producing counties are, given in the order of their output during the first eight months of last year, Pecos, Winkler, Crane-Upton, Howard, Reagan, Mitchell, Crockett, Jones. A map of the topographical grand divisions of Texas would show this vast field occupying parts of the High Grazing Plains, the Southern High Plains, and the Trans-Pecos country, and the Edwards Plateau.

Wherever anything is being produced in this world, from pig iron to hair nets the battle rages between "practical men" and "theorists." Since the trained technician seems to be having rather the best of it in these later times it is but fair to note the fact that according to a high authority on Texas oil fields—Ver Wiebe—"pure wildcatting based on hope is responsible for opening this province." The reason is simple. The strata of this basin were laid down in the Permian period; they comprise several thousand feet of sandstones, conglomerates, shales and limestones with thick layers of gypsum, underlain by many hundreds of feet of salt. Geologists having regard both to experience and observation did not expect Permian rocks to produce oil in quantity. Certain drillers, however, but lightly laden with technical knowledge, bored into the earth trust on general principles, without any well-defined reason—and found oil. Of the 203,000 barrels of oil produced in Texas during the first eight months of last year, 73,910,000 came from this West Texas Basin. Pecos county alone supplied more than 130,000,000 barrels.

Evidently Not So Exclusive After All!

Frances Dee Second of Six Most Beautiful Girls

And here we have FRANCES DEE . . . great brown eyes that are set wide apart . . . hair of a delicate brown that curls back naturally from her face . . . just 19 and radiant with the flush of health and youth.

Editor's Note: This is the second of four articles revealing the names of "The Six Most Beautiful Women of the Talkies" as chosen for NEA Service and The Reporter-Telegram by six of Hollywood's most famous directors and telling the story of each.

By DAN THOMAS NEA Service Writer HOLLYWOOD, June 6.—Young Frances Dee, proclaimed a year ago as "the Cinderella of the talkies," will be surprised to learn that six famous movie directors who compose the special NEA Service and Reporter-Telegram board of beauty judges have chosen her as one of the six most beautiful women in Hollywood.

Miss Dee's selection follows that of Marlene Dietrich, the blond German star, announced yesterday. Four other girls are yet to be selected by the judges—Mack Sennett, Josef von Sternberg, George Fitzmaurice, Mervyn LeRoy, Edward Sutherland, and Allan Dwan.

Frances Dee's swift rise to fame has been a drama of real life, exceptional and almost incredible. Just a little less than a year ago this beautiful brunet, then an unknown "extra girl" seeking roles, was chosen as Maurice Chevalier's leading lady for "Playboy of Paris". She made good immediately.

Frances still was new in the ways of the film colony when she became famous almost overnight. Some months before, after two years at the University of Chicago, she came west on a visit with her family. While here the urge to act in pictures struck her and after much persuasion her parents finally consented to let her try her luck for a year. If at the end of that time she was still an "extra girl," she was to return to Chicago and her university classes. Frances thought she could make good—but even in her wildest dreams she never saw herself as Chevalier's leading lady in so short a time.

Since that glorious day this young brown-eyed, dark-haired girl has forged ahead. Her improvement has been steady through successive films, reaching its height in her latest, "An American Tragedy", in which she plays one of the two leading feminine roles.

Frances, thoroughly modest, always has considered herself just an average girl. As a student at Chicago she classed herself as such. And when she looked at the girls around her when she was just an extra she wondered what she had besides her determination that would enable her to rise above them.

Frances certainly can't be referred to as "beautiful but dumb." As a former student at the University of Chicago myself, I know that the light-headed ones are weeded out there rather quickly. And Frances was still in good standing when she left to come out here for a vacation that has turned into a career.

The names of two more of the six leading beauties chosen by the famous directors for NEA Service and The Reporter-Telegram, will be revealed tomorrow . . . One has been in the films for 15 years, having begun as a Mae Sennett bathing beauty . . . The other is a young Mexican girl whose rise was meteoric. . . Can you guess?

OLD RANCH SOLD

ALAMOGORDO, N. M. (P)—The Circle Cross Cattle Co. one of the oldest ranches in the southwest, and famous in the history of the early range conflicts in southern New Mexico, has been cut up and sold in small ranges, it was announced here. State Senator Oliver M. Lee and his sons are reported to have purchased the majority of the stock and acreage.

Senator Lee established the ranch nearly a quarter of a century ago, and has been one of the owners and managers. Lee and his son Oliver, Jr., have taken over the Stockard and Shiloh ranches. Their share in the recent sale included 500 sections of range and 3000 cattle.

Curt Lee purchased 150 sections and a number of head of cattle, including the old Circle Cross brand, and Cox Brothers of Las Cruces purchased the YLE Bar, the 7H and Slash C brands and 200 sections of land.

Don Lee, it is understood, purchased a number of head of cattle but no land.

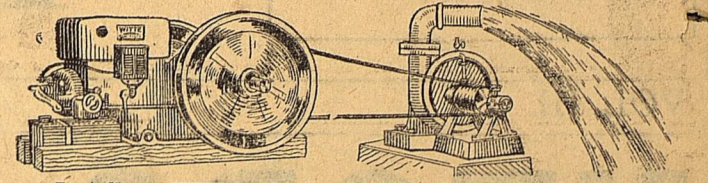

The old headquarters ranch is in the possession of El Paso promoters who are planning to form a game preserve and Dude ranch on that part of the old Circle Cross holdings. This section contains about 200,000 acres.

VACATION GAS

This is vacation time—and We hope all of our friends may have an enjoyable time.

Their vacation will be more enjoyable and much anxiety will be avoided, if they make sure that all gas is shut off tightly before they leave home.

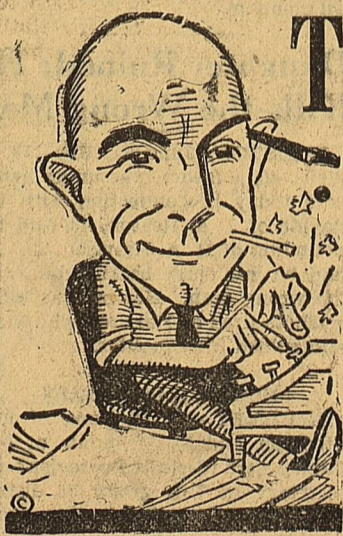

They should also be certain that there are no leaks in their house lines.

A number of leaks may result in a larger bill than expected—besides gas leaks are dangerous.

Did you ever notice the little marks I use between paragraphs in this column. Here are a few of them (*****). They are asterisks. A couple of the staff members in our office thought they were asterisks production was 111,000,000 barrels; at the beginning of 1930 it was producing 100,000 barrels per day with practically every well in the pool pinched in. The Yates Pool under the same conditions was flowing 140,000 barrels a day. The measured output of a single well in the Yates pool amounted to 3,528 barrels an hour, or 204,000 barrels a day. These enormous initial yields are characteristic of oil deposits in limestone where pores and fissures are often very large. Such wells are short-lived, the flow of oil being succeeded by salt water when exhausted. The production of Winkler county in 1929 was 50,222,150 barrels; notwithstanding the limitation of output this county produced 19,329,100 barrels during the first eight months of 1930.

The effect of this oil development on the towns of the region is clearly to be seen. Midland was a village of 1,795 in 1920; ten years later it had increased three times over, reporting 5,494 people; the town of Colorado had 1,766 people at the beginning of the decade and 4,071—more than two and a half times as many—at the end of it.

Man Silenced for Life

MEMPHIS. (UP)—J. M. Underwood, 59, night watchman and the father of five children, is doomed to silence until death. He submitted to an operation here recently to have a malignant growth removed from his throat which necessitated the severing of his vocal cords.

The following notice appeared in the Cordova (Alaska) Daily Times: "I want the skunk-faced, fulminating, moral derelict, decaying-souled, ingratiating, gall-infected, vile, over-reporting, gleeking, sibilicious, odious, carping, jaundiced-eyed, spawning, salmon-bellied caval who swamped my boat to come and see me if he is man enough. Now what I want to know is whether the article appeared as an editorial or in the classified columns at so-much per word. In any event Ted is an adept at getting them told without having to resort to cussing. One man commented that Ted is wasting his time in the frozen north and ought to be in the United States senate.

Book Causing $200,000 Libel Suit Is Donated to Midland Library Public Interest Increasing in Library; More Than Seventy-five Volumes Given by Midland People

A former Midland boy, reared to the tradition of a long line of cattlemen—

Brought up to believe in the rough but honest code of the rangeland— Breaking with tradition to the extent of writing one of the most clamorous ranchland epics, an epic that was destined to draw him into court on a damage suit that was entirely out of his financial ken—

This in short describes the central character about which a rare book, "History of XII Ranch of Texas," written by J. Events Haley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Haley of Midland, deals.

The book, which a price has recently been quoted at $12.50, has been sought by the Midland county library several months and during the past week was donated by Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Preston.

Haley, author, is now defendant in a $200,000 libel suit filed by Fred Spikes in Lubbock, growing out of material published in the history.

Interest Increased Public interest in the library has shown an increase lately with the donation of many other valuable volumes to the shelves.

Mrs. Andrew Fasken presented the library with 46 volumes of fiction, myths, religion and miscellaneous subjects.

Mrs. Lee F. Heard donated a complete set of works of Shakespeare, 16 volumes of historical fiction written by the German novelist, L. Muhliach, and miscellaneous fiction including Wright, Re-Creation of Brian Ken; Hughes, Tom Brown's School Days; Garis, Dick Hamilton's Steam Yacht; Kay, Go Ahead Boys and the Treasure Cave; Bonner, The Boy Inventors Radio Telephone; and

Wallace Beery Makes No Effort to Glorify His Scoundrel Role in "The Secret Six"

When Wallace Beery speaks, he speaks in italics.

His staccato style of utterance, his positive meanings in short sentences shot at one like bombshells, make an interview with him a thing to be remembered.

He was discussing "The Secret Six" Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's drama of American city life, which will be shown today at the Ritz theatre.

In it he plays the sinister Scorpio. "If anyone likes the character I play I'll be disappointed," he remarked. "I tried to play a character that I would hate in real life."

"But isn't it a human character like Butch in 'The Big House'?" he was asked.

Wanted to be Hanged "Human—yes. But in a different way. Butch was a good natured ruffian who only got tough when he had to. This fellow Scorpio is a gunman and a killer. Dangerous as a snake. Deserving no mercy or sympathy. There are dozens like him in every city. They ought to be strung up. I was glad when they led me to execution in this picture. Sounds funny—an actor glad he's going to be hanged. But I like that. We didn't try to glorify the gangster or surround him with romance. I think the picture's a damned good suggestion for a lot of cities."

Beery grinned the famous Beery grin. "I put humor into Scorpio—yes. Had to lighten him up. But I tried to make this so people would laugh at him, and not with him. I don't think anyone can play a person wholly bad or wholly good—but in this type of character I couldn't find more than a tiny spark of anything good. The character is real, though. He came right out of police records and the newspapers. He'd have to be real with a director like George Hill and an author like Francis Marion. It's the most disagreeable character I ever played—but I hope I did it well enough to convince people just what this type of man means."

Beery heads a notable cast in the huge production—a dramatic story of crooked politics, machinations of the underworld and gang rule. Lewis Stone, John Mack Brown, Jean Harlow, Marjorie Rameau, Paul Hurst, Clark Gable, Ralph Belamy, John Mijan, DeWitt Jennings and others are in the huge cast. There are thrilling gun battles, a dramatic murder trial, a sensational attack on a gang stronghold by vigilantes and a dramatic climax in Condemed Row.

VETS CARD SIX EVENTS FOR JULY FOURTH RACING PROGRAM

Pecos and Penwell Cross Bats With Oilers and Icemen at Orchard

RACES FOR HORSE FLESH OF ALL KINDS

Cowboy park is being groomed for the greatest July Fourth racing card of its history. Horses of all kinds—blooded stocks, half breeds from government stallions, broom tail cow ponies—will drum the newly worked track with all the spirit and dispatch remembered from other days, days when Midland held its fairs each year, judged cattle in expensive barns, put up purses for thrilling races and was generally known as a community of pure bred cattle and fast horses.

Under the supervision of Lee Haynes, Midland chief of police and chairman of the racing committee of ex-soldiers, six races have been carded. The first is over the quarter distance, for cow ponies. A weight of 100 pounds will be carried.

The second race is for two-year-olds, over the three-eighths distance with a weight of 130 pounds.

The third race is for half breeds over the three-quarters distance.

The fourth race is for half breeds over the half-mile.

The fifth race is a free-for-all, over the five-eighths.

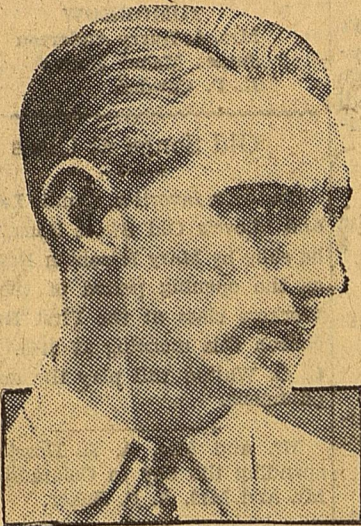

The last race is the most thrilling of all, a relay with each team entered allowed three horses. Each man will ride around the track, a half mile, change mounts, make the circuit again, again change mounts, and finish the race in front of the grand stand. A total weight of 155 pounds must be carried.

Purses will consist of 80 per cent of the gate receipts, plus entrance fees of $5 per animal per race. First, second and third prizes will be split 60-30-10.

Pure bred thoroughbreds are barred from all races except the free-for-all five-eighths race.

SPORTS REPORTS

By R. C. HANKINS

Tommy Arnour

The Black Scott of the Motor City brought back the British Open cup to America, where it has been nestled for the past ten out of the past 11 years. Even the Prince of Wales, rooting for Jurado, could not sway the tide against the North American. He had learned to play on the gusty links of Scotland, where blinkin brooks ramble along bloomin flowers—or is that England? He shot a 296 for the 72 holes, Jurado, diminutive Argentine requiring only one stroke more. A real finish for the niblic wielder pictured above.

"Use your spoon more, and carry a jigger for the mean roughs. And quit trying to take turf with your mid-iron." So quoth the sage of Harry Tolbert's tailor shop, Mr. Tolbert himself. "Then your game will improve. And forget about the Members of the horse race committee are: Lee Haynes, chairman; George Underwood, Neal Staton, those who will assist. Spence Jowell, Timberline Floyd, John Dublin, Elliott Cowden, Clarence Scharbauer, Elmer Jones, Myrl Jowell, Leon Goodman, Ellis Cowden, Harry L. Haight, T. Paul Barron, and M. R. Hill.

Dickey Dickinson, skipper of the Oilers, gives out the dope on the Pecos aggregation. The Westerners have dropped only two contests this year, one to Wink last Sunday and the other to Colorado.

The lineups of the two clubs are: Oilers—Hatfield 25, Langley 33, Shoemaker m, Pipkin 15, White c, Baker r, Coleman II, Pyron 35, Dahl p; Cantaloupe—Williams 35, Porters ss, Benson 25, Moran 15, Doty c, Cogdill m, Evans II, Slaton r, Lybrand p.

"In announcing pitchers, I mean the above mentioned will start," Dickenson said, recalling times when both teams have broken out with a box of extra base pops.

fence on Number Three. Concentrate on the foursome ahead. In that way, the worst you can do is hit the back of somebody's neck, whereas, if you think of the fence, you'll hit in the beargrass. The only thing to think about, as regards the fence, is to go over it yourself after you've hit the inoffensive back of the foursome member mentioned. But don't leave any of your trousers on the fence, for, aside from the club requiring full dress, the tatter would remind some other slicing devil to risk the rough to avoid the rough and tumble following a chip shot to somebody's wooden block.

Our secret ambition: to be in hearing distance of a ball striking upon someone's head—if it must strike. We want to see if it sounds like a gong, like it does in the movies. Anyone interested in taking the chance in the interest of science, is invited to get in touch with this department.

We believe we will have a hot one for you next week. Report establishes that H. S. Ferguson has something of golfing import to release. The reason we don't have it today is due to our twosome failing to play fast enough to catch up with his sextet Friday. Our only excuse is we didn't have enough time. The sextet made only two rounds.

This playground ball matter is about to disrupt our own home. For, be it known, ladies and gentlemen, we have a little sister whose suddenly grown up to the idea of organizing the little girls of the town in a league all their own. We overheard her telling Mother of the plan. "I think I'd prefer doing that to doing the dishes," she led out. "I'm sure I would," she resumed, as she broke another plate. Any way they plan on meeting at 7 o'clock Monday, on the diamond at the high school. Girls up to 17 years old will play. Which, as likely as not, will bring out all the girls not yet married. Unmarried girls being 16, as we have been led to understand.

If this rage goes on, babies in their cribs will be telling their mothers to take a Chinese jump of the long hop variety so they can organize a playground picture ball loop. But that won't concert the mothers for they will be gone in a few minutes to don their pants for a game at Amazon diamond. Dad will be reduced to staying home and playing horsey with nurse or the maid.

Furthermore, the outlook is for bridge to be burned behind the fair ones, who have taken to discussing outeam balls at breakfast while friend hubby languishes from an in-seam in his stomach from burned toast. Hot dinner will be as scarce around the town as Darwinian tracts at a church meeting.

While we're on the subject, the price of arnica and iodine and rubbing alcohol is going up. Far be it from Midland druggists to sell 50 cent alcohol to be gaubed on pretty feminine knees! They're far too chivalrous for that. And, or so we've heard, if the assuaging ointment is to be used on a knocked down hip, the price will be higher still. The price comes to a head, however, in special face powders.

Such fellows as Ellis Cowden, Harry Tolbert, Ralph Barron and John Howe will lose their identity as golfers. They will be known as the husbands of "the slugging first baseman", "trainer of the woman who hit the first triple with a lip-stick."

Horse racing and polo will come back to the palmy days of the past. The town will smell like saddle soap and the fresh aroma of alfalfa and oats. The drum of hooves on the polo field will be sweet music to a group of punchers and horsemen hereabouts. At least, so believes Timberline Floyd.

"I have enough good ponies to mount an entire polo team through a hard series," Floyd was telling Miss Herb, our front end printers devil-circulation manager and general combination man. "Good ponies. All of them have been on the grass and are in good shape. What we need now is a revival of the time when teams will start challenging each other for matches."

You will observe that the error column in the box score of girls games is omitted. Our concession to the ladies, it would appear at first glance; but Foreman Scott informs us the linotypes can't squeeze figures of three digits into the column without throwing the entire tabulation off form. The ladies wouldn't play if a tabulation were to come out with its form not properly laced.

We should change the box score from the prosaic form it has assumed through history. For instance, a woman would not be at a certain number of times, collect a certain number of hits, runs and errors; but she would appear in revue (a case of revue and review being synonymous), broom the ball a good 10 or 20 feet and make a social run on the bases.

As we've said, there would be no errors. Such an offense would be to accuse the fair ones unjustly, to say nothing of the parlevous it would open up between members of the feme organizations and the umps.

And now, with the first game played and the Attar of Roses team of Mrs. George Abell and Miss Daisy Lindsey winner over the Eau de

NIGHT LEAGUE STARTS
As the public knows from memory by this time, Monday night will find the league of men united against usurpation of their rights by women starting their night playground ball league. Such playground figures as Chester Bayles, Homer Epley, Bob Scragg, Dick Morse, Amps 'n Andy Northington, "Red" Moore, Cotter Hiett and Big Chief Luke Tidwell, will be draped in their war paint and glare at each other across the gloom. A night of face making and funny antics, gents, and don't forget the kids. They'll enjoy seeing someone hit with a bat as well as you. Now that the mosquitoes are flying by night again, the kids like to see someone else get hurt. The little imps are true chips off the old block.

Cologne club of Mrs. Ivy Mitchell, we detect whiffs of an essence of woodbine welling up. It seems Mrs. Leslie Stevens is getting up a club. We found out several names: Mmes. Shook, Lord, Brewer, Saye, Stevens, Logsdon. Mrs. Leslie Stevens is organizing this club and J. M. Saye is manager.

Daisy Lindsey toiled all innings of the Friday game and kept the Colognes on her hip; all afternoon. This reference to hips reminds us we must find out from the ladies how they want their games written. We just happened to think all terms applied to the game as concerns men might not be graceful as descriptive terms of a woman's game. Ivy Mitchell kept a procession of pitchers going to the mound most of the game. It seems the first pitcher's hair came down; the second got a speck of dust under her finger nails; the third happened to think she had not told the cook what she should prepare for dinner; the fourth was trying to pitch to first base, and the last was asking the batter what kind of a ball she liked just before the game ended.

GOLF as the STARS Play It by ART KRENZ

How does one control the distance on the putting green?

WALTER HAGEN SWINGS FREE AND EASY, HIS BACKSWING INCREASING ACCORDING TO DISTANCE FROM THE CUP.

On putting green as well as fairway the distance to be stroked determines the amount of backswing to the shot. At no time should a putt be controlled by the expenditure of muscular energy.

Stars sometimes vary in stance and swing, yet all of them employ an easy, free putting swing, letting the backswing increase according to the distance their ball is from the cup.

To be able to determine the roll and speed of the green demands diligent practice and playing experience.

OTHER TEAMS GO A VISITING TODAY

Two Midland clubs, the Oilers and the Southern Icemen, will kick up their heels and yell hoo at two practically undefeated visiting clubs from out of the county, this afternoon at Mr. Bizzell's garden two miles south.

The Oilers take on the Canteloupes of Pecos, a club that ripened early and is the favorite fruit where the turnstiles turn in the Pecos valley. The Southern Ice water sawers deal in traffic with the Penwell contingent from Ector county, the land of flowing oil and extra base knocks.

According to the press agents, the first game will begin at 3 o'clock, with the Melons and Oilers as starters. The other game will follow close on the heels of the first.

Two other Midland clubs grab their bat boys and bags and head for the great outside, the Pleasant View team going to Andrews and the Busher-Colts to Odessa.

As usual, only the men will pay and pay. Bizzell park is a haven for the women, no books being kept on them.

A big crowd, as one always says in a closing paragraph of a sports story is expected. As a matter of strict fact, the crowds have learned the way to the park. Big turnouts at the last few weeks. Which is as should be, as Elmer Bizzell himself is wont to remark.

SATTERWHITE NOT CONVINCED EXTRA SESSION COMING

Representative Lee Satterwhite of Odessa favors calling a meeting of oil men of the area in Midland in case Governor Sterling calls a special session of the legislature. He believes oil men should get together and advance a logical solution to the oil situation, thus giving legislators the benefit of their long experience in the game.

"The trouble with most of the legislators at Austin is they know little more about oil than what they read in the papers," he said. "If I had the time, I should like to go to the west coast, to Oklahoma and to other oil producing states and study their oil legislation and statutes."

But Satterwhite, who was speaker of the Texas house for one term and was, until he announced he was not a candidate, a favorite again this term, does not believe the governor will call an extra session. "My reason for believing this is due to the failure of authors of bills to get together," he said. "Take the Housley bill, for instance. As it was framed, it bore little resemblance to its present form. And, if it should come up in an extra session, it likely would be further changed. The trouble is the oil men themselves cannot seem to get together on what they want."

The representative, in Midland Saturday, told a reporter that the state is vitally interested in solution of the oil problem. He said its revenue from oil is being cut down alarmingly. The cigarette tax will make up for the slash in oil under a heavy financial burden. This was reflected in vetoes of departmental, boll worm and eleemosynary measures recently. The four major appropriation bills.

The Odessa man often fills the speaker's chair during morning sessions and was the subject of a flat taring comment from a great state daily's political staff writer a few days, a comment that gave the representative credit for getting more work done while in the chair than anyone else.

As for Rep. Satterwhite, he favors Rep. Ooke Stephenson as the next speaker, and is supporting him.

Stanton Girl Is Good Guesser

Melvia Cross of Stanton was the best guesser at the Midland Hardware & Furniture company Saturday, guessing within 44 seconds of the time required to boil dry a pot containing one gallon of water placed 10 inches from the flame of a New Perfection stove.

Time required was 5:56:10. Speaking of the new burner, Geo. D. McCormick, manager, said: "There are times when speed is the important thing in cooking—a quick meal—a steak to be seared—a hurry call for boiling water to make coffee for a snappy breakfast. The average oil stove, while it is a great convenience in many ways, just will not come up to scratch and meet these demands."

"Perfection stoves and ranges with the new high-power burners will, however, fill every demand for speed. They are as fast as standard city gas burners. With them you can sear a steak juice-tight, ready to turn, in a few seconds or pan-fry it deliciously (let us say a one inch steak, well done) in eight minutes. "The high power which makes this possible gives you a reserve for slower cooking; it assures quicker heating of the oven and more positive control of a wide range of temperature. Finer baking with less fuel is thus possible—and that spells economy."

"Convenience in lighting and cleaning are among the advantages of the tilting drums. You do not have to remove drums or grates to clean the wick—and for that matter the wick requires less cleaning."

Glenn Acquitted Of Murder Charge

LUFKIN, June 6. (UP)—Perry Glenn, 37, was acquitted last night by a jury here on a charge of murder of Tom Murry, taxi driver, last October. The jury deliberated for two hours. He said he shot in self defense after an argument with Glenn over his divorced wife.

Berlin Declares Burden Too Heavy

BERLIN, June 6. (AP)—The government declared in an appeal to the people today that the time had come to tell the world that the reparations burden is unbearable and relief imperative. It simultaneously announced that a series of emergency tax decrees are expected to yield $400,000,000.

More than one-half of the world's rubber and from one-half to two-thirds of its tin come from British Malaya.

Interviews

mond has lived a life replete with thrills, hard study and work. He fought in the Spanish-American war, the Philippine Insurrection, whipped out of raw recruits in progress and is now in charge of band instruction at the Arizona fort.

His story is interesting apart from the singularity of a member of his race accomplishing so much under a perverse social law. He was born in Alabama, and, from the earliest time in his memory, liked to hammer on anything that would make music. He frequented barber shops where music was made, and was a member of a band when he was 12.

"My mother was religious to the degree that her ritual was more than a word," he said in his precise way when visiting the city room of The Reporter-Telegram a few minutes before going on the concert stage of the Ritz. "She arranged it that I should be sent away to boarding school. But, the element of good fortune entered here, contrary to her foresight, for there was an orchestra at the school and I was allowed to join. Then a little denominational college in North Carolina offered me expenses for my schooling and $50 a year if I would come there and direct its orchestra. That gave me my chance. At the outbreak of the Spanish American war I was teaching in a conservatory in Kansas City. I volunteered. Afterward I was in the Philippines. Then I went abroad to London. I studied band music and directing with the band directors of the British army. Then followed a year of concert study in Paris."

About the present trip: "The American Negro is not always understood. The social laws draw a line of demarcation. I am a Negro, and I still am Southern. I have never let the fact escape my attention for even the slightest period of time. But I feel pride in my twenty three soldiers here with me. I like to have the White people say after we're gone that we conducted ourselves as gentlemen. We do not go into a town and hunt bootleggers among our race, nor prostitutes. We are on this trip to show the White people that the American Negro can be an asset to his country. The army is not a refuge to the Negro. We work more than we're idle, and we grow to find the discipline makes us better citizens, thereby making among the Whites a greater respect for our race."

be as nearly as possible a real parent to them. How well it has succeeded is indicated by the great number of boys and girls, that attend the annual home comings. "The purpose of operating these various activities: farm, dairy, poultry farm, broom factory, canning factory, laundry, auto-repair shop, wood working shop and printing press is not to compete with the same lines of business in Waco or Texas, nor to commercialize the orphanage but to give the children some practical training so that they may know how to do something well, which will be a means of support to them when they have left the orphanage, also to enable the older children to earn a part of their upkeep during the last two or three years that they are finishing their high school education. "The orphanage can never be self-

Cuts His Throat, Hangs Self; Still Alive and Kicking

TEST DOWN 1200

MCCAMEY.—The Sides Wildcat oil test near Girvin is now below 1200 feet. Drilling is going forward satisfactorily, according to reports.

VOTED FOR HOOVER

MCCAMEY.—A local citizen tells this. "The other day I got in my car and started to Odessa over the recently paved highway which connects us with the Bankhead and just the other side of Crane City, I met a fellow on the road who had a sign on his back which read 'Don't Pick Me Up. I voted for Hoover.' "The McCameyte confessed that he too voted for Hoover and invited the sign bearer to ride with him to Odessa.

"No" said the hitch hiker. "We better not be seen together. Besides I am going to California and will walk every step of the way. Serves me right. S' long."

Etex Goes Ahead as Oil Men Mark Time

TULSA, June 6. (UP)—Oil leaders today marked time while attention of all interested focussed on the East Texas over-production problem. While conservationists were planning action, new development went ahead in the field. Secretary of the Interior Wilbur added his voice to blaming East Texas for the presence of the debacle.

Children May Get School Diplomas

All such graduates or their parents are requested to call at the office of the superintendent Monday and receive them.

supporting as we have so many little children and so few big ones. "Forty years ago the only assets of the Methodist orphanage were the conference resolutions, and the good will of one of the five Texas conferences. The present assets of the orphanage are: a campus of 80 acres, seven brick buildings vis; administration, hospital, boys' building, Pauline Vaughn, Howard Memorial cottage, little girls' home, childrens cottage, industrial and dairy barn, two farms near Waco, besides other farms and vacant lots in towns and cities over the state. Total net assets $884,235.48."

GOVERNOR SIGNS TWO REGULATORY TRUCK MEASURES

AUSTIN, June 6. (UP)—Governor Sterling signed one of two truck regulation bills. House Bill 335, less opposed by truckmen than the other, places all common and contract carriers under jurisdiction of the railroad commission, requiring common carriers to obtain certificates of convenience and contract carriers to get permits. Secretary of State Jane Y. McCallum said the law would take effect immediately although it failed to get the two thirds vote of the house when the free conference report was adopted.

Woolen of Abilene, owner, who also has indicated that it is his intention to remodel the building and perhaps give it a stucco exterior along Spanish architectural designs.

SEARCHES FOR COW

Abe Jacobs, Lovington farmer, tried to get a permit to carry a gun but was refused the right. It seems Mr. Jacobs was sore at a cow that got into his spring garden. He found the herbage eaten and trodden, but the cow was gone. He was in Midland Saturday, looking for her. "I don't mind the loss of that cow so much, but I sure would like to find her so's I could beat her to death." Judging from the glare in his eye, Bossy will rue the forage in the garden. He learned from farmers along the route the cow had been seen in a truck headed this way, and supposed she was "picked up by travelers after she had tried to eat a fender off their truck. Well, they can have her after I get through with her."
