Mother of Three Charged With Death of Tahoka Farmer

COURT REMANDS THE CASE

Charged with Failing To Stop, Render Aid to Victim

Court of criminal of appeals Wednesday reversed and remanded the case of D. W. Freeman, Midland, given a 4-year sentence last October 15 when convicted in 42 district court at Abilene on a charge of failure to stop and render aid after a collision. The court held testimony given by an accomplice witness was insufficient for conviction.

The case grew out of the death of W. W. Hudson of Abilene, fatally injured in a truck-motorcycle crash on the highway near Tye, May 26, 1929.

Freeman is represented by Harry Tom King. Previously tried on a murder charge in connection with the accident, Freeman was convicted and received a 20-year sentence. This case also was reversed and remanded.

TWO SERVICE CLUBS HONOR BONNER TODAY

By JAMES P. HARRISON Perhaps no greater tribute was ever paid to a Midland citizen than that which was given John S. Bonner, former manager of the Ritz theatre here, at the joint meeting of the Lions and Rotary clubs in Hotel Scharbauer at noon today.

The two service clubs met jointly for the single purpose of bidding farewell to Mr. Bonner who has been transferred by the Griffith Amusement company to Borger, where he will have charge of the company theatres.

Seymour Chairman John P. Howe, vice president of the Rotary club, served in the capacity of president in the absence of T. Paul Barron. He introduced Lion President M. M. Seymour as chairman of the program committee for the occasion.

Mr. Seymour introduced Rotarian Addison Wadley as the man who would speak in behalf of the Rotary club.

The local department store manager told of the value that John Bonner has been to the Rotary club and to every civic organization in Midland. "John, we'll miss you in more than one way; we'll miss you in our churches; we'll miss you as a useful citizen; in fact, we'll miss you at every step we take," were Mr. Wadley's concluding words.

The Lions club was officially represented by Lion Harry L. Haight, who paid a brilliant tribute to Mr. Bonner as a good showman, a likeable fellow and an untiring citizen.

Presented Gift "Time," said Lion Haight, "is something that had no beginning and something that will have no ending; it is eternity. And time has been exceedingly gracious to have left with us for a few years the man to whom we are endeavoring to pay honor today."

At the close of his few words, Mr. Haight presented to Mr. Bonner a beautiful fountain pen desk set, as a gift from the two clubs.

With a voice that never rang clearer and truer, Mr. Bonner spoke to the two clubs in a manner in which he has never been heard before.

"Friends," he said, "I have never been honored to this extent before, and I want you to know that I fully appreciate the courtesies you (See BONNER HONORED, Page 4)

Amelia Sails Over in Autogiro Plane; First Ever Seen in Midland

Passes Us Up

Amelia Earhart and her Autogiro plane, newest aeronautical output from the Pitcairn factories, flew over Midland at 2:10 this afternoon, headed east.

Juan de la Cierva's aeronautical windmill, a Pitcairn Autogiro, piloted by Mrs. Amelia Earhart, steered its way over the Midland airport and the city at 2:10 this afternoon, never ruddering to right or left, but sailing right on over. Reports had established probability of her landing at Sloan field, inasmuch as the machine consumes an inordinate amount of fuel, but, taking on gas at Pecos, where a reception was given her, she continued on her way east.

Today makes the second time Amelia Earhart has been expected in Midland, only to pass over. Once before, she intended landing, but missed the port. She landed here in 1929, along with the Lady Birds of the National Air Races.

The Autogiro, neither an airplane nor a helicopter nor an ornithopter, was the first ever seen by Midland. Painted a bright scarlet, having only a tiny wing for stabilization, it sailed over with its large horizontal "windmill" propellers turning lazily. The "windmill wing" is not driven by the motor in flight, except when the machine ascends.

The flyer took off at El Paso at 7 o'clock, Midland time. She was hours behind here, Abilene expects the plane and pilot for an overnight stop.

SAID SHE SHOT IN DEFENCE

Alleges Man Warned Her He Would Kill Her

TAHOKA, June 11. (UP)—Murder charges were filed today against Mrs. Ola Redman, 32, who confessed killing her sweetheart, Fred Chase, 33, in a quarrel three days ago.

The woman said that she and Chase fought when he proposed she return to her husband, Glen W. Redman, Pampa painter.

Confesses Slaying TAHOCA, June 11. (AP)—Mrs. Ola Redman, 32, mother of three children, late Wednesday confessed to slaying Fred Chase, 33, farmer of the Gordon community, who was found dead in his automobile on a lonely road a mile from his home Tuesday afternoon.

Arrested at 7 ome Arrested late Tuesday night at the home of her mother, Mrs. Lula Lloyd, 13 miles southwest of Post, Mrs. Redman stoutly denied any connection with the shooting of Chase until late Wednesday. A signed confession was obtained at 5 p. m. after an all day's grilling.

The statement said she shot Chase in self-defense after he had made an attempt to gain possession of one of the two pistols in the automobile, according to an officer.

The slain man threatened her life on a number of previous occasions, she said in her confession.

Mrs. Redman was said to have told Nelson that she and Chase had been going together for more than three years, although neither of them was divorced.

Life Was Threatened Chase frequently threatened to kill her if she did not stop seeing her husband, Glen W. Redman, a Pampa painting contractor, to whom she had been married for 13 years, Mrs. Redman is reported to have said in her confession. She last saw her husband two months ago in Pampa, she said.

"Chase and I argued a great deal while we were en route to my mother's home," Mrs. Redman told County Attorney Nelson. "When we got within a short distance of the house he stopped the car and got out to kill me if I got out of the car. "I told him I was going back to my husband if I could."

"Chase reached for the gun which was in the door pocket on my side of the car. "I begged him not to kill me. "During the scuffle I got hold of a .380 calibre pistol which was on the seat beside Chase. (See TAHOKA FARMER, Page 4)

In Mexican-American Controversy

Guess admitted did the shooting, claiming the youths pulled guns when they sought to question them as they emerged from a parked car on an isolated Ardmore street. Both Guess and Crosby have been charged with murder. Salvador Rubio, the surviving member of the trio, said the officers did not reveal their identities, and denies his companions pulled guns.

HALEY TRIAL, FREIGHTED BY MANY WITNESSES, ROLLS SLOWLY ONWARD

By J. SAM LEWIS Avalanche Staff Writer

LUBBOCK, June 11. (Special)—Two men who were in the Mesa Redonda community of the then Guadalupe county, New Mexico, about January 21, 1902, testified by deposition Wednesday afternoon in the $200,000 libel suit of Fred Spikes vs. J. Events Haley and the Capitol Reservation lands. One of these men was W. S. Queen, now of Yoakum county, who spent the night of January 20 at the John Spikes home he testified and the other was W. C. Hunter, who claimed he was asked by Sam Goholson a day or two before the killing of John and Dick Spikes and the wounding of Fred to join the posse that was then allegedly seeking the boys.

22 Testify A total of 22 persons testified, 16 orally and the remainder by deposition. One of the oral witnesses was John P. Lewis, a former business associate in Lubbock of the plaintiff. The others either knew him in Crosby county before he and his brothers went to New Mexico or else knew him in Lubbock since. Some of those knew all of the six Spikes brothers in Crosby county while others knew either Jeff, Fred or Ernest or all three and several knew Sam. None knew his reputation in eastern New Mexico.

Character Witnesses Character witnesses included: Mayor J. J. Clements, Baxter Honey, W. O. Stevens, Mrs. Emmett Burford, George C. Cooper, Frank Bledsoe and Mrs. Bledsoe, C. C. Lane, T. J. Day, M. G. Abernathy, H. J. Lowrey and Claude Burrus of Lubbock and J. H. Brewer of Slaton and Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Jones living in the northeast part of the county.

Depositions were by: D. B. Jackson of Culberson county; Mrs. Rosa Stringfellow, Los Angeles; Mrs. Ida Pierson, Hamon, Okla., and Wright Wise, New Mexico.

Testifies to Reputations Jackson said he knew all the Spikes boys and they had good reputations and that when he last knew them in Crosby county the youngest was working for himself. John Spikes had his own range 15 miles away and owned 350 head of cattle. On cross-examination he said he knew both Bud Lee and Sam Goholson in Crosby county and both did not have good reputations.

Fore! You Midland Golfers; Take This Poll and Help Golfing World

A little white ball has thrown Midland into controversy.

The feud is not only local. It reaches across the nation wherever golf is played.

The subject of the red-hot debate is six one-hundredths of an inch, plus seven one-hundredths of an ounce as expressed in the new larger-and-lighter golf ball.

How do the golfers of Midland stand on this question of weight and circumference that has thrown the whole country into uproar. The Reporter-Telegram, by means of a ballot printed on the sports page today, would like to find out. As a means of gauging accurately the sentiment of the players about the ball, The Reporter-Telegram is cooperating with NEA Service in a national poll that is expected to roll up an ocean of overwhelming opinion. For? Or against?

Local golfers throughout the nation should have a voice in the game they play. They should be privileged to express an opinion on arbitrary changes in equipment. After all, the golfers of Midland are in the game, too, and have just as much right to say what they feel about the new ball as have such stars as Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Tommy Armour or any other luminaries who have gone on record in favor of the new ball.

Many of the leading professionals have expressed themselves publicly. Says Glenna Collett, famous woman golfer: "I like the feel of the new ball against the club. I don't have (See FORE!, Page 4)

COORDINATED TRANSPORTATION

Railroads are still the "backbone" of the nation's transportation system, and buses, trucks and airplanes will eventually be coordinated with the trains, prophesies Gen. W. W. Atterbury, the man whom General Pershing called upon to build railroads for the A. E. F. in France, and who is now president of the Pennsylvania railroad system.

The 48-hour combination train-plane service between New York and Pacific coast cities, he asserts in a discussion of the problem in the June "Rotarian Magazine," points the way for further hook-ups with airplanes, trucks and motor busses.

"We in the United States," he adds, "have but scratched the surface of the possibilities of coordinated transportation. I foresee constantly increasing cooperation. In my belief passengers should be given the choice of transportation by train or motor and perhaps eventually provided with tickets that will permit leaving the railroad to travel by motor bus over scenic portions of a trip, returning to the railroad for speedier travel later on."

"No trait of human nature is more general than the love of variety. The man who likes to travel by train today may like to ride in a bus next week, while the following month he may find it convenient and necessary to make a swift journey by airplane."

"Railroads cannot hold to the railroads," he continues, "a monopoly of transportation. However, they should have the privilege of engaging in any form of transportation. The initiative and enterprise in developing a system of coordinated transportation on a sound basis rests primarily with the railroads in cooperation with all other forms of transportation. A function of regulation, in the process, should be to prevent discrimination."

"It is possible to develop along these lines without materially disturbing standard railroad practices and customs. But where the old conflicts with the new, and the new is the sounder method, the old must give way."

THE WOODSHED PASSES

It is rather odd, when you stop to think about it, that no one has paid much attention so far to the passing of one of the greatest and most distinctive of all American institutions—the woodshed.

A very few years ago the woodshed was a prime feature of all American homes—except, of course, those of the wealthy, who don't count anyhow. But today it is well on the road to extinction. The farmer, to be sure, still has his; but will he keep it long, what with the spreading of gas mains, electric power lines and synthetic gas tanks to the rural regions? The woodshed, obviously, is doomed.

This, in a way, is too bad; for the woodshed had its points. It was not only a good place to keep and split wood. It was an indispensable, all-around handy room; a place where odds and ends of things could be stored, a place where the head of the house, if handy with tools, could make such gadgets as window screens and trellises for the rose bushes, a place where junior could park his bicycle and sister could keep her doll buggy. In other words, it was an exceedingly useful adjunct to the house.

The householder of today, who has no woodshed, feels the lack without knowing exactly what it is that he misses. He puts his lawn mower and his garden tools in the garage—and, every now and then, crushes them by driving carelessly in with his automobile. He does what carpentry work he has to do in his basement—and loses both his patience and his enthusiasm, to say nothing of his breath, running up and down the stairs.

Of course, he does not have to split wood, which is something; yet there are far worse jobs. Indeed, on a rainy afternoon, when the drops patter steadily on the roof of the woodshed, and the place is filled with that indescribable, pleasant odor of wood chips, earth and fresh air—and an open door emphasizes your feeling of snugness by enabling you to glance up from your dry retreat and see everything dripping outside—well, at such times splitting wood is almost fun.

But you don't really need wood to have a woodshed. Some day some astute real estate man is going to discover the usefulness of the woodshed—and he will make a big success by tacking one of these little extra rooms on every house he builds.

Saturday Half Holiday for Most Government Employees After July 1 Is Unlikely to Relieve Much Unemployment With Officials Opposed to Hiring Substitutes

WASHINGTON.—Little sentiment has developed in the ranks of government for proposals of a five-day week in the federal service, but after July 1, nearly all government employees will be entitled to a Saturday half-holiday the year round.

Most of them have been working only four hours on Saturday since early March, but there remain the postal employees whose 44-hour week as voted by Congress goes into effect after this month and an undetermined number of government workers over the country who complain that they are not being granted their half-holidays because of the economy drive.

Long Week-Ends, But—

The new laws provide a longer and more enjoyable week-end, but it is doubtful whether they will relieve much unemployment. The 44-hour week for postal employees was provided in a law which authorizes the extra expense incurred through the fact that the system operates 24 hours a day, but President Hoover and Director of the Budget Ropes have decided that the half-holiday for other employees must be arranged without incurring any expenses chargeable to deficiencies. In both cases, however, where employees are required by public interest as interpreted by their superiors to work on Saturday afternoons they are entitled to compensatory time off on other days of the week.

Complete enforcement of the four-hour Saturday law already would have provided a certain amount of new employment, but according to many complaints received by the National Federation of Federal Employees it is exactly in the instances where they would require extra help that the half-holidays are being denied. In Washington the law is being observed, but most government employees serve in the field and that is where the complaints come from.

Although Senator LaFollette and the postal employees' unions, in seeking the 44-hour law, used the argument that it would help absorb some of the unemployed, that prospect probably will not be realized to anything like the extent once expected. Orders have gone through the service that the four-hour Saturday must be absorbed through equalization on other days and without any addition to the payroll wherever possible. The department also has had a policy of failing to fill its constantly occurring vacancies whenever it can be avoided and of cutting down employment of its substitute workers. Postal employees' unions estimate that about 10,000 up the reins of the Rotary club, thereby giving Doc Ryan the opportunity to race the boys instead of himself. He claims to be a first class jockey and that properly mounted he would have a cinch. He weighs only 137 pounds in his summer underwear, and weights of the others range from 148 to 300.

substitutes have been affected and that at one time about 5,000 vacancies remained unfilled. Any extra employment made absolutely necessary by the 44-hour law is expected to do little more than fill vacancies and employ the substitutes for longer periods.

Rural Carriers Out

About 185,000 postal employees are affected by the 44-hour law. The other half-holiday law covers about 65,000 workers in the District of Columbia and about 215,000 in the field. To these may be added 15,000 field employees of the Interior department, excluded in the act but granted the half-holiday by executive order of President Hoover. About 10,000 Panama Canal employees and about 125,000 rural letter carriers and other field postal employees were not covered by either act.

Evidence that the government is making its employees work harder, as part of its economy drive and to keep the half-holiday from being an added expense, comes from many points. The Federation of Federal Employees is insisting that the workers must receive their legal half-holidays or compensatory time. It attributes failures to enforce the law in the field to a Budget Bureau order, made on instructions from President Hoover, who said that he intended to entertain no supplemental or deficiency estimates of appropriations for carrying out the general half-holiday act.

SLUMP IN AUTO EXPORTS DUE PARTLY TO FOREIGN TARIFFS

As Result of Retaliatory Measures, American Manufacturers Build Factories Abroad

By ALLARD SMITH Executive Vice-President, The Union Trust Co., Cleveland

Throughout the world in 1930 production of automobiles amounted to 4,109,231. Of this number 3,510,178 units, or 85 per cent of the total, were made in the United States and Canada. In 1929 fully 89 per cent of the total output was produced on this side of the water.

Next to this country the largest maker of motor cars is England, with a total output in 1930 of 235,676. France is third with 220,000. Germany is fourth with 70,044 and Italy is fifth with 36,532.

The output of cars and trucks in 1930 showed a decrease in the world of 2,168,220 units, or 34.6 per cent compared with the record output of 6,277,451 in 1929. The world wide depression was reflected in this decline and also in the fact that only 9 per cent of the world output was exported.

American exports dropped sharply, due partly to tariff barriers erected against American cars by European countries. This was in retaliation against the increased tariff duties placed in effect by the United States. As a result of the retaliatory measures adopted by some European countries a number of large manufacturers of American automobiles have erected factories abroad.

In 1930 England's output of cars actually was somewhat greater than in 1929 the result of larger production in that country and reduced imports from America. In 1930 the United States exported 8000 cars to the United Kingdom against 26,000 in 1929. Exports of American cars in all leading foreign countries were 237,630 in 1930 against 536,207 in 1929.

face, you might as well be eliminated from a race before it starts as after, so we are going to throw our bets on Oscar Seymour. If it were an automobile race, Doc Ryan would be first choice, because his privileges as a doctor allow him to speed all the time. When he first hit town with his '28 model chevie, he would run out of the office, jump in it and tear out across town and the first thing you knew he had such a big practice that he had to build his own hospital.

This Jimmy Noland, however, may ride a dark horse. You can't tell how fast he is until you see him on the track. He is quoted as saying that being commander of the Vets has its ins and outs, but I heard a man who had just bought the balloon concession say you had to watch Noland or he would throw you a curve.

Jimmy is reported to have been on deal to sell the soda pop rights at the swimming pool, but the man who wanted the concession heard that the pool would not be open. There may be nothing to this.

A letter was written to a Scotchman inviting him to a banquet. The letter, stated that the banquet would be "gratis." The Scotchman did not attend the banquet but the following afternoon he was found dead beside a dictionary. On a bus, one day, two school teachers were discussing how many children they had enrolled and just then an inquisitive woman sat down behind them. "I have 33 children," said one of the teachers. The inquisitive woman leaned over, tapped the teacher on the shoulder, and said: "Beg pardon, madam, but is your husband living?"

Someone has sent this in: "You don't seem to be a lover of music although you have four musical daughters?" "If you had our musical daughters you wouldn't be a lover of music."

A darkey, being the father of 12 children all of whom had been rocked in the same cradle, was putting the last arrival to sleep. "Rastus," said his wife, "Dat cradle am 'bout worn out." "Tis about gone for sure," he replied. "You all better get a new one and get a good one. Get one dat'll last."

Did you ever know a negro by the name of Rastus? I never have. The only Rastus I have ever known is the Rastus in negro stories. The hardest part about stopping a war is stopping the fellows who are at home.

Helpful Health Suggestions

By Martha Bredemeier

I should like every parent in Midland to apply the "Bill of Rights for the Handicapped Child" to their family.

Use the bill as a questionnaire and honestly answer for yourself the questions raised.

If we want civilization to march forward it will march not only on the feet of healthy children, but besides them, shoulder to shoulder, must go those others—those children we have called "handicapped"—the lame ones, the blind, the deaf and those sick in body and mind.

The handicapped child has a right

1. To as vigorous a body as human skill can give him.

2. To an education so adapted to his handicap that he can be economically independent and have the chance for the fullest life of which he is capable.

3. To be brought up and educated by those who understand the nature of the burden he has to bear and who consider it a privilege to help him bear it.

4. To grow up in a world which does not set apart, which looks at him, not with scorn or pity or ridicule—but which welcomes him, exactly as it welcomes every child, which offers him identical privileges and identical responsibilities.

5. To a life on which his handicap casts no shadow, but which is full day by day with those things which make it worth while, with comradeship, love, work, play, laughter and tears—a life in which these things bring continually increasing growth, richness, release of energies, joy in achievement.

The Bill of Rights for the Handicapped Child was submitted at the White House Conference by William J. Ellis, Ph. D., chairman of the committee on The Physically and Mentally Handicapped Child.

While away, Mrs. Peters will visit the Dallas public library in search for new ideas and suggestions for the story hour. On her return she plans to tell stories of foreign countries and the children of the countries, employing costumes and songs in her characterizations.

All children of the county and town are requested to attend the story hour this Saturday, which begins at 2:30.

Why Do Men Get In Bath Tubs and Exercise Voice?

William Powell recently learned why men sing in bathtubs.

It is because their voices sound much better in a bathroom than in any other type of enclosure, he says.

Powell made this discovery while working in a bathroom scene for "Ladies' Man", coming to the Ritz theatre Friday and Saturday.

He had barely begun a rehearsal of his lines in this modernistic room when sound technicians informed him that he was speaking far too loudly and would have to lower his voice to an extremely low pitch in order to secure perfect recording.

The sound engineers revealed the fact that this is the result of the voice booming with a loud resonance from the tiling in the room.

From which Powell concluded that men sing in the bathtub because their voices are bounded about in a way which makes them far more clear and perfect than they really are.

This question being solved, he now intends to bend his efforts toward finding out what to do with razor blades.

Which is the Bad Sister? The answer to this question will be found on the screen of the Ritz theatre, when the famous Booth Tarkington story, which has been produced as a talking picture special, is shown again today.

The two sisters of the story are played by Miss Fox and Miss Davis, both of whom are making their screen debuts in this production. The title of the picture itself is "Bad Sister", and audiences will have to judge for themselves which one the title applies to. The production is one of the most entertaining of the season.

The exceptional cast includes Slim Summerville, the famous comedian, ZaSu Pitts, one of the screen's best known comedienne, Humphrey Bogart, Broadway stage player who recently has entered the pictures, and scored a great success, Charles Winninger, who came to the screen from the stage, and

SWISS STEAK

Two pounds of steak should be cut 2 1/2 inches thick from the shoulder or some tough portion. To 1-2 cup flour add salt and pepper to season the steak; sprinkle the steak with the flour and pound it into the meat with a wooden potato masher or the edge of a heavy plate. This helps to make the steak more tender. Heat 2 tablespoons lard in a heavy iron or thick aluminum skillet and brown the meat in it. Add a few slices of onion, 1-2 green pepper chopped fine 1 cup boiling water, and 1 cup strained canned tomatoes. Cover closely and simmer for two hours. This may be cooked in a casserole in the oven.

FRUIT COCKTAIL

Fruit cocktails may be made from mixtures of almost any fruits, canned or fresh. The combination of a sweet and a sour fruit usually adds more zest to the flavor. Wherever possible, fresh, raw fruit should be used at least in part. Orange, banana and pineapple marinated in lemon juice and sweetened to taste makes a good combination. Diced pineapple and fresh strawberries may be served in a mixture of orange and lemon juice. Watermelon can be cut with a vegetable cutter into small balls, chilled and served with sprigs of fresh mint. Or watermelon or cantaloupe may be cut into cubes and mixed with fresh peaches.

All such fruit mixtures should be thoroughly chilled before serving. The trays of the mechanical refrigerator are excellent for this purpose.

New Golf Ball Gives Less Distance On Drives--Difficult to Putt

By ART KRENZ
NEA Service Golf Writer
Golfers in Midland who are objecting to the new golf ball and taking part in the nation-wide poll in which The Reporter-Telegram is participating set forth the following claims about the larger-lighter spheroid:

The new ball is inclined to travel in a higher arc on all shots, making it harder to control in the wind. Instead of bouncing after it hits the green, however, the ball "sits down."

The new ball is harder to control on the putting green than the old smaller, more compact ball. There is a tendency for the new ball to rim the cup.

The new ball gives less distance on drives and brassie shots.

The first of these complaints has been corroborated by the British Ryder Cup team, trying out for the matches to be played at Columbus, O., June 26 and 27. On the seaside courses of Great Britain, there are frequently high winds. The new ball is very hard to control under these conditions.

MacDonald Smith 299 299
Walter Hagen 308 298
Leo Diegel 306 298
Craig Wood 310 298
Ed Dudley 307 296
Johnny Golden 307 293

The winning score this year was two strokes lower than the previous year's. Last year the only seven contestants broke 300 as compared with 14 in 1931, when the new ball was used. The testimony seems favorable to the new ball.

Many a fine player who has had difficulty in breaking into the win column with the old ball has come to the front since the new ball has been in use. Whether this is due to the new ball can only be a subject for debate.

Recent winners with the new ball were: John Golden, who won the Agua Caliente after a play-off with Von Elm; Ed Dudley, who won the Los Angeles Open with 285; Joe Turnesa took the Miami Open after Sarazen had won it three years in succession with 294, and Henry Ciuci won the 54-hole Lauderdale Open with 213.

In this country, a recent tournament test indicated that the new ball adds an average of two strokes per round.

The following table gives a comparison of scores made in the $25,000 Agua Caliente Open in 1930 and 1931, the new ball being used this year.

Table with 2 columns: Year, Player Name, Score. Lists scores for Gene Sarazen, Horton Smith, Al Espinosa, George Von Elm, Mortie Dutra, Olin Dutra for both 1930 and 1931.

having first met him about 1912. They became associated in the mercantile business in December 1916 and were together for a number of years. "I may have heard of some difficulties in New Mexico," he stated on cross-examination. "They were just indefinite."

Mrs. Stringfellow left Crosby county in 1925 when she was about 10 or 11 years old, she admitted on cross-examination.

Saw Blood and Shells
Mrs. Ida Pierson, Hamon, Okla., formerly Ida Elliott, knew the boys in both Crosby county and Mesa Redonda community and has known them for 35 years. A few days after the killing of John Spikes she had occasion to visit the home of Mrs. John Spikes and there saw a draw and near it "about 60 shells" mostly large ones. She also saw blood on the ground near where she was told John and Dick were shot down. On cross-questioning Mrs. Pierson said she had heard of many cow thieves, "too numerous to mention" and in a few instances they worked in gangs. John Spikes told her he brought 800 cattle to New Mexico she testified. She knew Henry Hawkins, met him over a dozen times and she said he had a good reputation. She "heard no one speak of the general reputation of the Spikes boys," she admitted.

"Never Stole Cattle"
Wright Wise, McLean, lived 10 miles from Mesa Redonda in 1900 and 1901 and knew the Spikes boys and that they had good reputations. He did not know Hawkins. "To my knowledge they never stole cattle," he said, adding he "never heard of their being accused of stealing."

Queen said he lived 25 years in Lubbock county and has been 13 years in Yoakum, living here two miles east of Idalou. He knew all the Spikes boys from 1897 on and worked for Wes Dalton, a mile and a half from the Spikes home. In 1899 John went to Mesa Redonda with about 300 head, including 35 with the "ZERO" brand. In December 1901 he went to Mesa Redonda to visit the Spikes brothers and remained until the morning of January 21, when he left at 8 o'clock. On one occasion he saw John Spikes kill a beef with a "ZERO" brand on it.

No Brand Burning
W. C. "Bill" Hunter, now of Tularosa, N. M., was a stock farmer in Guadalupe county 30 years ago, living near Tucumcari in 1900, 1901 and 1902. He lived a mile and a half north of Mesa Redonda and knew the Spikes brothers and their stock. He detailed where each pair of brothers lived and said they "did not have the reputation of being outlaws," either individually or collectively. He saw Henry Hawkins at the roundups with the brothers. He himself had cattle on the range and never saw any burned brands on Spikes' cattle.

Defense Objects
Witness purported to detail an occasion of meeting with a group of men who sought to impress him in to the posse. The statement was read into the record over defense objections. Names of the group of men who rode up to him while he and his wife were out on the range, included: Sam Gohsion, Bud Lee, Cabe Adams, Leslie Bates, Louis Nance, "Black" Bates, Red Sam Gohsion and Charlie Bohannan and two or three others he did not know. He purported to relate a conversation with Mr. Gohsion and Bud Lee to the effect that the posse was "going after John and Dick Spikes, dead or alive."

In a second deposition he told of Sam Gohsion visiting his home and of stating that "either John Spikes or I have to leave the country." A conversation he claimed to have had with John Spikes, with Dick and Fred Spikes present, at his home, was ruled out by the court. Completion of the position was to be made this morning.

Brothers Testify
LUBBOCK, June 11.—(Special)—Three of the four surviving Spikes brothers, two of whom were killed in eastern New Mexico on January 21, 1902, are expected to take the stand in the libel suit of one of the four, Fred, who was wounded that January day nearly 30 years ago when John and Dick Spikes fell mortally wounded in a clash with a posse.

Fred Spikes, plaintiff in the case, now on trial, will resume the stand for cross examination. He told his story when the trial first began but the defense did not elect to submit him to a cross questioning at that time.

To Tell Stories
Jeff Spikes, an older brother, who also lived in New Mexico, is to take the stand and tell his story. Jeff now resides in Crosbyton, and has filed a suit for $200,000 libel in the Crosbyton county district court. This case has not been set and it probably will not be until the case of Fred has been disposed of.

Ernest Spikes, another brother, who has resided in California for about a decade and who is here for the trial, also is expected to tell his story. He was likewise in New Mexico and had cattle there, the same as his other brothers.

Mrs. Spikes to Stand
Also, Mrs. Fred Spikes, the former Mrs. John Spikes, who was living on Mesa Redonda and who was in the house with her three children and her aged father, Henry Carter, the day of the shooting, is expected to tell her story on the witness stand. Mrs. Spikes after the death of her husband, and left with three fatherless children, the oldest only four or five years old, nearly two years after John's death, married his younger brother Fred. Temple Ellis, who married one of the Spikes girls, sister of Fred, Jeff, Ernest and Sam and the two dead boys, will likewise take the stand with his wife.

Some other relatives are expected to tell their stories on the witness stand. Just which ones will be called, the attorneys for the plaintiff have not indicated. They admit, however, that it is the plan now of Mr. Spikes to have his wife and his brothers testify for him.

Whether the aged mother of the boys, Mrs. Julia Ann Spikes, now nearly 90 years of age, has not appeared at the hearing, it is doubtful if she will testify. Her name has not been mentioned as a possible witness.

Listens to Testimony
Mrs. Fred Spikes has sat throughout the trial, listening to the testimony of those who comprised the posse that shot and killed her first husband. There were four of those who sent their statements to be read at the hearing. Vin Gissel, aged leader who was acting deputy sheriff; Sam Gohsion, known as "Young Sam" to distinguish him from his aged father; Emmet Hicks and Cabe Adams, both of whom were ranchers.

Did Not Return Fire
The plaintiff found Charles Bohannan, another member of the posse, who in a deposition for Mr. Spikes, told essentially the same story as his posse, except that he said the Spikes boys did not return the fire of the officers and possemen.

G. Apadoca, a Mexican herder of goats, who says he was a quarter of a mile away, gave a deposition in favor of Spikes. He claims the brothers did not fire.

Many Witnesses
The remarkable thing about the testimony so far is that both sides have been able to get trace of more than 100 persons who have so far appeared, orally or by deposition, to tell their story of the events in New Mexico.

To date the defense presented 54 depositions and 31 oral witnesses and the plaintiff about 100 witnesses, all "Character" for Mr. Spikes and about 30 depositions.

The trial is not expected to close until about June 15 to 20.

to dig so much for brassie shots and long irons. Maybe I might not score quite as well with the new ball, but it is more fun."

"Says Tommy Armour, who won the British Open the other day: "It's a pleasure to play it."

"Says Walter Hagen: "I don't see that the new ball is any harder to play than the old."

Says Horton Smith: "The new ball is harder to putt. The weight is not centralized as it was in the old one and this ball is more apt to rim the cup."

Now—how does Mr. Average Golfer stand on the question? That is what The Reporter-Telegram wants to find out.

"It has been a distinct pleasure and certainly a privilege for me to have been a citizen of Midland. I have formed no greater friendships in my 30 years of public life than I have during these few years in Midland. My scope of work has taken me to many cities several times the size of Midland, but never have I been associated with a more progressive citizenship than we have right here in Midland.

"I have never been confronted with a single person who was against a civic improvement or action which I was attempting to assist in your city.

"Midland is destined to grow and I prophesy for you a city of greatness. Before me are men of sufficient brains to guide the destiny of America's greatest metropolis and you do not need to import talent of leadership."

Mr. Bonner's closing words of gratitude for the splendid cooperation he has received and the many friends who have shown their friendship, were indeed touching.

Mr. Seymour, in the closing address, said he could pay Mr. Bonner no greater tribute than to say that Midland is a better city because John Bonner has lived here.

SPEAKERS ATTEST TO MIDLAND AS A LEADERSHIP TOWN

People of Midland and their achievements as expressed through their chamber of commerce were cited by three speakers at the annual convention-school of the Texas Commercial Executives' association in Houston this week. The speakers, Russell S. Rhodes of Tyler, Joseph F. Leopold of Dallas and Alfonso Johnson of Dallas referred to Midland's leadership and original methods of trade promotion and town advertising.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul T. Vickers arrived home from Houston Thursday at noon, having left Houston Wednesday afternoon. The Midland secretary was on the regular school part of the program and also on one of the banquet programs. Various community problems and their solution was paid to economic, agricultural and trade expansion problems.

Col. Tips said that the Texas consumer benefits largely through buying home products, and pointed out that the purchase of Texas products by Texas people eliminates unnecessary cross-hauling and heavy freight charges which constitute a great economic waste.

CARROLLTON, Ala. June 11, (UP)—Boncho and Lacy Harrell, brothers, and Toy Duncan, white men, were being held in jail here today facing murder charges in connection with the beating to death of George McLain, 50, negro.

Awakens, Shoots Friend to Death

LONGVIEW, June 11.—Ethen Farley, 32, was shot and accidentally killed last night at the home of his brother-in-law, J. A. McVay, 31, filling station operator, and McVay was held today pending an investigation of the shooting.

Officers learned that the two men were armed and guarding the McVay home against an expected assault from a third man, who was sought by officers on a charge of shooting with intent to kill McVay and his wife less than two weeks ago.

McVay and Farley were on good terms and were working and living together while getting a new filling station in operation.

McVay reported that at 11 p. m. last night, he was dozing to sleep when he suddenly was aroused and saw a figure of a man in the doorway. He said he fired, thinking it was the third man against whom he and Farley were guarding. Farley was shot in the back of the head, and died instantly.

Ford's New Hotel To Open July 1st

DETROIT, (UP)—The luxurious and ultra-modern hotel that represents Henry Ford's ideals of early American hospitality extended to the traveler will soon be opened to the public.

The hotel is Dearborn Inn—with 108 rooms, 13 acres of ground, and perfectly appointed guest rooms, coffee shop and dining room. It will be used for the first time July 1.

The hotel is just across the highway from Ford Airport, and 30 minutes from downtown Detroit. It will be the scene of numerous parties and dinners which will precede the start of the seventh annual National Air Tour for the Edsel Ford reliability trophy, July 4.

All rooms are furnished in early American period furniture, some in maple and pine and others in mahogany. The modern touch, however, come with the concealed radio, tub-shower baths, reading lamps, running ice water and electric clocks.

Tennis courts and a golf course are to be added to the hotel property later.

Spent Night With Spikes
"I spent the night of January 20, 1902 at the home of John Spikes, witness testified. "At the house that night were: John Spikes, Fred Spikes, Dick Spikes, Henry Carter, Mrs. Spikes, the three children and myself. He left the house at 8 a. m. the next day and went to the home of Bud Lee but did not find him at home. There were several men there. Later he went to the home of Cabe Adams who likewise was not at home. He arrived about two hours later, "by early supper" the witness said. He was not told about the details of the slaying he stated. An attempt to read into the record where he spent the night of January 21 was ruled out on defense objection. Green said he "did not work for John and Dick Spikes" during his visit.

hear reports of a game between rival Sunday school classes this week. The Co-Workers have accepted the challenge of the Martha-Fidels bible class. Mabel Hurley and Hazel Saye are directing the affairs of the Co-Workers. Mrs. Chapman, it is understood, is to lead the Marthas! The game will be played next week, likely.

A race of lithe, erect and shapely humans, the men taller, heavier and of better proportions, the women taller and more graceful than their predecessors, is being developed through college athletics, according to statistics assembled by Professor E. S. Hooton of Harvard university.

Data gathered from Harvard, Wellesley, Vassar, Smith and Mt. Holyoke showed that college sons average 5 feet 10.1 inches in height, one of the tallest groups in the world, and that the average college girl is 5 feet 4.8 inches tall, surprising her ancestors in all bodily respects except breath of hips.

Members of the four teams are asked to be on time. The playground ball league that worked under the rays of El Sol started reasonably near the time set for the games, but the night league has been straggling about as though no one seemed to feel responsibility. These games MUST be on time or the second games will become a midnight affair.

De Luxe Laundry and Scruggs Buick should put up a nip and tuck affair. As for the second game, the hardware company appears stronger on paper than the newspaper contingent. The latter club is without the service of its manager, Scotty Gemmill, away on vacation, and has lost Pope and Walthall. The hardware company is beginning to take the game seriously which will win for any team.

ARIZONA MAY LOSE COLORFUL YAQUI INDIANS

PHOENIX, Ariz., June 11. (UP)—Arizona may lose one of its most colorful Indian ceremonies if exiles of the Yaqui Indian tribe of southern Sonora, Mexico, succeed in winning amnesty from the Mexican government for revolutionary activities.

Likewise, the United States may lose the only Indian tribe whose members in this country are officially classed as aliens.

The Yaquis of Arizona are homesick, poverty stricken and tired of fighting for a livelihood in a highly competitive labor market. They want to go back to their native land.

All agree that returning home would aid the Yaquis, but, in one respect at least, Arizona will be the loser. It will mean that no more shall the Bull Roarer's challenge roll out over the desert, calling the Yaqui tribesmen together for a Passion Pay in observance of Holy Week and Easter.

The Easter ceremony, during which the closing phase of the life of Jesus is pantomimed in detail, attracts thousands of tourists each year at the two Yaqui villages — one near Tucson and the other near Phoenix.

About 1,500 Yaqui Indians are in Arizona.

Rep. Lewis W. Douglas, democrat, Arizona, has taken up the Yaqui fight. He will ask the United States and Mexican governments to cooperate in gaining amnesty for the Indians which would permit them to return home.

Yaquis in this state, although hundreds of miles from the main tribe, maintain contact with the Sonora chiefs by runners who cross the desert on foot. Thus the Arizona unit of the tribe, despite its isolation, has remained Yaqui in spirit and tradition.

'Little Country Place' Has 11,000 Acres

VISALIA, Cal., (UP).—While Captain John S. Dickerson, New York, decided to buy "a little country place," he came here and bought the farm once owned by Harriet R. W. Jackson and the Frank B. West estate.

It consists of 10,900 acres of valley and foothill land within 10 miles of Sequoia National Park and General Grant National Park.

Electrical Dog Catcher Costly

EDEN, N. J., (UP).—William Rennegal used an original method to keep dogs off his front lawn, but it cost him $10.

Rennegal was accused before Justice of the Peace John L. Hammond of causing the death of two dogs by stringing live wires around his lawn.

Justice Hammond fined Rennegal $10 and ordered him to remove the wires.

Rum Boat Engine In Fastest Auto

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., June 11.—A rum runner's wrecked speed boat furnished the engine for one of the world's fastest racing cars. This was the announcement made here by F. E. Kennedy, Philadelphia sportsman, who is visiting with friends in this city.

The car is the mount of Sig Haugdahl, champion barnstormer and erstwhile protege of J. Alex Sloan, king of (dirt track) automobile racing in the United States and Canada.

Back in 1925 the Coast Guard "landarmies" took out after a speeding boat that was suspected of rum running. The craft was beached and the crew escaped. The Volstead sailors went back to sea, leaving the beached craft to be pounded by the waves.

Two local men, "Pop" Daley and "Doc" Tuttle, elected themselves members of the salvage committee and took possession of the wrecked speed boat. They discovered that it was powered by a Hall-Scott Motor, designed by Col. Elbert J. Hall, co-designer of the famous Liberty motor and that it was in excellent condition.

The salvagers conferred with Sig Haugdahl and it was decided to build a racing automobile which would carry under its hood the Hall-Scott engine from the wrecked speed boat.

When Sig Haugdahl's car was completed, the speed merchant went out and shattered a long list of records. Many of them still stand. The Hall-Scott engine in the car driven by Haugdahl has 615 cubic inches piston displacement, therefore it is not eligible for competition in the Indianapolis Speedway 500-mile race. It carries a double magneto and has done 151 miles an hour in competition. Although the racing car that carries Col. Hall's motor has not competed in events sanctioned by the Contest Board of the A. A. A., it has won dirt track races in all parts of the country and it never has been beaten in competition on Daytona Beach.

What modern civilization owes the trained nurse can't be figured in dollars. Tireless, patient, efficient, she has earned one of the highest places in public and private esteem. We couldn't do without her—why not tell her so?

They have a way with them, too!

Not only do you trust them, but you like them. And it's the same with a good cigarette.

Smokers stick to CHESTERFIELD because they find them dependably milder. You can smoke as many as you like.

And CHESTERFIELD smokes more evenly. Credit that to the ripe mild tobaccos and the pure imported cigarette paper.

Every CHESTERFIELD is made to smoke milder and to taste better.
