Three-Million-Dollar Robbery Suspect Shot to Death

MAN SOUGHT IN CONNECTION WITH SHOOTING OF SWEETHEART

GIRL SHOT IN LIVING QUARTERS

Jealousy of a Young Lieutenant Is Suspected

SAN ANTONIO, June 12, (UP)—Officers today were seeking for Bob Compton, 27, Gonzales, in connection with the shooting and critically wounding last night of Lillian Nagel, 17, in the living room of the girl's home here.

Compton is believed to have been jealous of an army lieutenant. He left a note saying there was no use looking for him because he would be dead when found.

The girl was shot through the head and is not expected to live.

The girl's mother, who was in the kitchen, heard the shot fired and saw Compton leaving hurriedly. She said she heard no signs of previous quarreling.

Miss Nagel was alive at noon today but death was expected momentarily.

Six army planes joined in the search for Compton.

Curtis Watches Midland Nag Cop

"It's a Day of Upsets—Foreign Relations Only Riverside Favorite to Win." So reads a head in the Kansas City Times.

The Midland horse of the Buchanan-Bloss stables had just romped in ahead of the field in the mile handicap.

And Vice-President Curtis saw the Midland favorite thunder down the stretch.

Here's the account:

"Victory went to Foreign Relations in yesterday's mile handicap feature at Riverside park and it is just as well that this 9-year-old gelding belonging to the Midland stable of Buchanan and Bloss scored for he was the only choice of an unusually large week-day crowd to sweep down to triumph on the 6-event program."

"The large turnout of women helped swell the crowd to more than 5,000, for it was ladies' day. And those among them who believe it a lark to play sure shots rent the air with shrieks of joy at least once during the afternoon because of the Midland animal's performance. Thereafter, anything but favorites scampered first past the judges' stand."

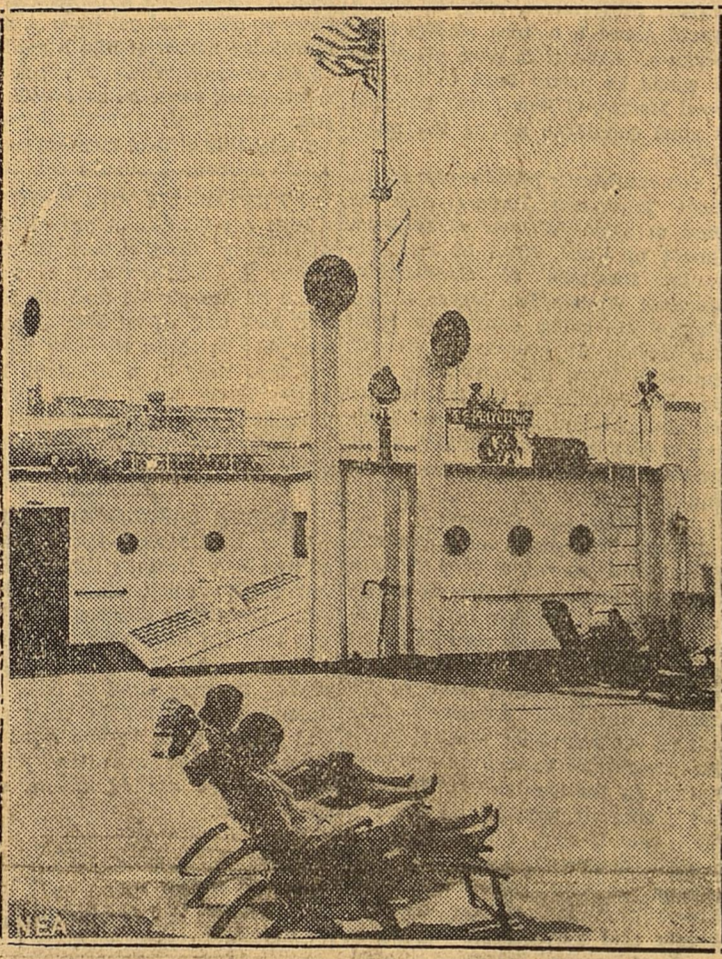

"Distance runners were given their day, the card being composed of races of a mile or over with one exception. Form usually is truer in the longer races, and so little wonder fans were baffled as outsiders and solid contenders repeatedly came back to the winner's circle."

"Foreign Relations is a consistent performer. The crowd knew it and straightway installed him the favorite in the handicap. Jockey Van Pelt was content to allow others to cut out the pace, and he rated Foreign Relations along nicely back in third place, making his move at the last turn. Sans Terre was worn down when the jockey called for Foreign Relations, but gamely clung to the place and saved it from Don Fernando in the dash for home. Sans Terre made most of the pace. Alma, after being in contention most of the way, stopped badly in the last quarter, and Rave, a highly regarded entry, ran badly and at no time had a chance.

"When Foreign Relations came back to the winner's circle, Miss Opal Conditte, who saw the race from the judges' stand, crowned him with a beautiful floral horseshoe. Backers of the Midland horse were refunded $6.20 for a $2 straight ticket."

Marfa Asks This City to Field Days

Cattlemen of Midland are cordially invited to attend field days, June 18 and 19, in the Marfa country. W. B. Mitchell, widely known Hereford breeder, suggests in a letter to the Midland chamber of commerce that Midland cattlemen stop at Fort Davis the night of June 17, from which point Marfa cattlemen will conduct them to the various ranches to be visited. The visitors will be taken to Marfa for an entertainment program.

Army Officials Thank CC Here

Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war, wrote the aeronautics committee of the Midland chamber of commerce Friday his appreciation of the reception given the army squadron which landed here last month. Davison also thanked the Midland Reporter-Telegram for its unusual generosity in publicizing the air maneuvers. The assistant secretary of war declared activities of the Midland chamber and other commercial organizations "contributed vastly to the interest of the average person in aeronautics."

LIBRARY STATION

The Pleasant Valley station of the Midland county library will be located in the home of Mrs. W. E. Wallace during the summer months.

Where Two Scientists' Stratosphere Adventure Ended

From start to finish it had been one of the most fantastic adventures in history. Professor Auguste Piccard and his assistant, Charles Kipfer, Swiss scientists, had ascended nearly ten miles into the earth's upper atmosphere in a sealed gondola attached to a balloon. For nearly 18 hours they had drifted helplessly, nearly exhausting their supply of oxygen, until the balloon finally settled among the jagged Alps of the Austrian Tyrol. But by a lucky chance the huge bag came to rest on a snowfield of the Gurgi glacier, Piccard and Kipfer were met by a rescue expedition, and here you see the entire party on the glacier, folding up the balloon where the landing was effected. This NEA Service-Reporter-Telegram picture was transmitted to London by Telephoto, thence sent to America on a fast liner.

Texas Governor Spurns Publicity

AUSTIN—Attempts of publicity agents to use Governor Ross Sterling of Texas meet a cold shoulder. Demands are received almost daily for publicity stunts.

One commercial organization asked him to issue a formal state proclamation urging people to join it.

He is asked almost daily to promote some other week.

The climax was the request of press agent that he ride in the engineer's cab and pull the throttle of a special train. "Of course to get the greater publicity," the writer said, "you will have to wear overalls and have a red bandana about your neck."

The regular engineer will pull the train.

Coatless Men to Attend S. S. Class

Men who attend the Men's class in Hotel Scharbauer each Sunday morning at 9:45 are invited to come without their coats. Class officers want the men to be comfortable, so they are inviting all of them to be comfortable in the class instead of remaining at home during the hot days. The class period will be kept short and snappy so that no one will become weary, the officers say.

At the airport, it was 104 degrees today. A surface wind of 8 miles an hour drifted out of the southwest.

CURRENT STRIKES WINDMILL

Ship Damaged; Must Lie Over Two, Three Days

ABILENE, June 12, (UP)—Amelia Earhart Putman escaped unharmed here this morning when her Autogiro crashed as she was taking off for Dallas.

She had reached a height of 30 feet when a slight air eddy caused the machine to veer toward the crowd.

Amelia forced the machine to the ground to avoid striking spectators.

The motors were damaged and the propeller bent. The plane will be repaired and she will proceed to Dallas in two days.

First Autogiro Seen

ABILENE, June 12.—Miss Amelia Earhart's $15,000 autogiro, the first ever seen here, landed at the municipal air terminal at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. As the famous aviatrix (she is the wife of George Palmer Putnam, publisher of New York), walked into the hangar with a reception committee, Mrs. D. M. Oldham, Jr., who has a son in the navy flying corps, pushed forward to claim her as house guest.

Miss Earhart accepted the invitation gratefully. She looked tired at the end of her 450 miles of flying from El Paso. Last night she slept in the Oldham's quiet country home on the west bank of Lytle lake. A cool, moisture-laden breeze was blowing as she arrived there, and the prospect was most encouraging for an evening of rest and seclusion, a pleasant diversion from her hard program of living under the eyes of the crowd.

The red autogiro sailed over the port hangar at 4:27, its four rotor blades whirling. More than anything else it resembled a winged windmill. Miss Earhart put it down to earth almost vertically as if a bird had been shot dead in midair. The plane has a humpish appearance and is not so much to look at, but it contains superlatively superior features over the fast-flying and fast-landing biplanes and monoplanes. The deadly spin, death to so many pilots is impossible in the autogiro.

It is not so slow, either. Miss Earhart's plane has a 300-horsepower Wright J-7 motor giving it a top speed of 110 miles per hour and she told newspaper men that plans are on the drawing board for single seaters with a top of 200 miles per hour.

"I should not be surprised," she said, "it is entirely feasible, to see (See AMELIA CRASHES, Page 6)

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Dog Aptly Named Calvin Coolidge

CHICAGO.—When George Irwin set about to select a name for his bull terrier he was stumped for an appellation which would best describe the animal.

A study of the dog's characteristics revealed to Irwin that it (1) demonstrated rather unusual intelligence; (2) possessed all the normal physical characteristics of the species; but never barked; (three) had an unusual fondness for children; and (four) "did not choose to run" when challenged by others.

"And so" wrote Irwin to the New York Kennel club, where he registered the dog, "we call him Calvin Coolidge."

Many a peppery miss needs a lot more seasoning to be an old salt.

THE MARION CEREMONIES

The evil that men do, as Mark Antony remarked, lives after them. The good, too often, goes to the grave with them. That, probably, is why we hesitate to say unkind things about the dead. It explains the fatuous compliments of most funeral orations.
Somehow, this sticks in one's mind as the dedication, at Marion, Ohio, of a memorial to the late President Harding approaches.
President Hoover is to speak. There is to be pomp and an elaborate ceremony. The accolade for which the dead Ohioan has been waiting since 1923 is to be bestowed at last.
All of which makes it advisable to do a little plain speaking. The ceremonies at Marion need to be defined.
The evil that was done at Washington during the administration of President Harding lived after him; lives on to this day, some of it, giving an unwholesome flavor to national politics. There was a good deal of it, and it isn't pleasant to recall it. Some scoundrels sat in high places, during a few years, and the nation has not yet entirely recovered.

But the ceremonies at Marion are not concerned with that. No one has forgotten. No one should try to do any whitewashing. When President Hoover pays tribute to his predecessor, he will not be trying to tell us that all of this graft and corruption was less serious than we thought. Instead, the nation will be paying tribute to the presidency itself. It will, in addition, be devoting itself to exhuming the good that was buried with Warren G. Harding.

For, after all, in his private life the man was lovable. Whatever his mistakes as president, he had the affection of his fellow citizens. He was close to the common man; he was, in fact, one of us, with the virtues and frailties of the average. He never claimed to be more than average. He gloried in mediocrity. He was genial and he was kind hearted and he meant to do the best he knew how to do.
These attributes, however, are not sufficient to serve as an apology for the Harding administration. Fall, Forbes, Daugherty and Sinclair are names that cannot be forgotten.

WHY TIMES ARE HARD

If you have wondered why merchants, manufacturers and shippers have been having such a hard time during the last 12 months or so, you might be enlightened by figures recently made public by the American Federation of Labor, through its president, William Green.
President Green announces that wage cuts, part-time employment, and unemployment, all combined, have lopped more than $2,500,000,000 from the income of American wage earners during the present year. Granting that this gentleman should know what he is talking about, and that last year's record was probably about as bad, the failure of business to revive quickly is quite understandable.
Knock two and one-half billions from the purchasing power of the nation in less than half a year and you have about all the explanation you need for "hard times."

AN ABLE PROSECUTOR

George E. Q. Johnson, federal district attorney at Chicago, deserves all kinds of credit for his effective and unremittant action against gang leaders. By bringing Al Capone himself under indictment for failure to meet the income tax requirements he has struck a magnificent blow against the power of the underworld.
One wonders, though, why Mr. Johnson seems to be the only official in Chicago who is to proceed effectively against the gangsters. To get that indictment against Capone took months of patient and effective detective work. Isn't it reasonable to suppose that if state and city officials should display the same ability they might, once in a great while, be able to level a murder charge against one or another of Chicago's gangsters—and make it stick in court?

Youngest Governor, Only 33, To Be Given Oath

ATLANTA, Ga.—Richard B. Russell Jr., of Winder, Ga., turns to his handsome, gray-haired father, Chief Justice Richard B. Russell, any day after June 24 next and says, "Well, governor," the senior member of the Russell family very likely will turn right back and ask, "Well, governor, what is it?"

For Richard, Jr.—only 33 years old—on June 24 is going to become governor of Georgia and the youngest governor in the United States. His own father, Chief Justice Russell, will administer the oath of office at the inauguration ceremonies.
Young Governor-elect Russell, who was elected last October, has other distinctions. He is a bachelor. He is one of 13 sons and daughters of a family whose forebears have lived within the boundaries of Georgia since colonial times. He left the University of Georgia to enlist during the World War. He made his first political campaign driving from house to house in a second-hand automobile.

On assuming the office of chief executive he gives up the post of speaker of the Georgia House of Representatives for three years.
His Plans as Governor
Some insight into the personality of this unusual young man may be gained from the fact that he has stated publicly he believes government should be simplified. Speaking of the work of a special legislative committee of the General Assembly not long ago he put his views thus: "The machinery of government should be so simple that the humblest citizen can understand it. Here in Georgia we have more than 100 different agencies to carry on the state's business, and I venture to say there are very few who can sit down with pen and paper and name them all and outline the duties each is supposed to perform."
"Co-ordinate and combine the departments of state to a minimum," he urges, "and thus give the people of the state the economical government Georgia today so badly needs."

It is doubtful if his own inauguration will make so glamorous an impression on Richard Russell Jr.'s mind as did a visit to Atlanta when he was nine. On that occasion Master Richard arrived as the guest of Governor and Mrs. Joseph B. Terrell, intimate friends of his father and mother. The boy slept in the governor's mansion and sat in the governor's chair at the capitol.
Started as Lawyer
Young Russell was graduated from an agricultural and mechanical college in 1914. He spent a year at Gordon Institute and attended the University of Georgia where he was graduated with an LL. B. degree in 1918. He left school to enlist during the World War. After the armistice he began practicing law at Winder.
In 1921 he was elected to represent Barrow county in the state legislature and he has served in the House of Representatives continuously ever since. During two terms he was speaker pro tem, and for three more he was speaker. He has never been defeated in an election.

When young Russell began his first campaign for the legislature he hired a second-hand automobile and visited every family in his county. Judge Russell, one of Georgia's oldest and most successful campaigners, gave his son whole-hearted support, but did not attempt to run his son's campaign.

One of 14 Children
Mrs. Russell, his mother, tells an amusing anecdote about Richard Jr. He was the fourth of 13 living brothers and sisters.
"When he came into the world," says Mrs. Russell, "we had three daughters and Judge Russell and myself rather despaired of a son, much as we loved the little girls. Dr. C. B. Almond of Winder was our family physician. He was holding our first boy in his arms when Judge Russell came in the room timidly. With a broad grin Dr. Almond announced, 'It's a boy, Dick!'"
"Upon hearing this news the judge gave the doctor such a clap on the back he almost knocked him across the room and the baby barely escaped being dropped on its head. Right then the youngster was informally christened Richard Brudard Russell Jr."

Governors Step Ahead of Senators as Presidential Prospects, Although Morrow and Bulky May Prove Dark Horses.

WASHINGTON.—You don't have to wonder why the governors are stepping out ahead of the senators as presidential prospects. First, just take a look at the Senate and then consider the general political situation as regards the presidency.
Where senators are available as presidential possibilities the situation doesn't fit them and where situations are available they don't fit any senators.
The senate has been in session most of the time since the 1928 election. Those of its members who were regarded as possibilities before the last session have seen their chances dim. No new possibilities have arisen among them. But the conference of governors in Indiana met for a couple of days and out of it emerged more insistently than ever such names as Governors Roosevelt of New York, Pinchot of Pennsylvania, Ritchie of Maryland and White of Ohio.

Situation in Senate

As far as Republican senators are concerned the regulars are all tied up from the start with the knowledge that the party is going to renominate President Hoover. Any opposition he gets for renomination must come from among the anti-administration progressives, none of whom would stand a chance at the convention. Even if it were otherwise it would be pretty hard to get beyond Morrow of New Jersey and find a good candidate among the regulars.

You can hardly imagine any of the more prominent leaders—such as Fess of Ohio, Watson of Indiana, Smoot of Utah, Reed of Pennsylvania, Bingham of Connecticut, Jones of Washington, Moses of New Hampshire—being chosen to head the ticket. If geography doesn't handicap them it's something else. So after looking at the senate and the situation you conclude that Morrow is handy in the unlikely event that Hoover becomes unavailable—and that's about all.

Pinchot's Chances

Several Progressive senators would be delighted to run if they thought they had the least chance of nomination or of election in a three-party fight. But such men as Borah of Idaho, Norris of Nebraska and Johnson of California have no illusions about that. Apparently they will be content to let Pinchot carry the progressive banner in opposing Hoover for the nomination. Pinchot has plenty of money and loves a fight. He is such a dashing campaigner that he will be a great sight roaring around the country in Rooseveltian fashion, irritating Hoover and perhaps picking up a couple of hundred delegates or even more before he gets through. Only an astonishing upheaval in politics could bring about his nomination. There is some suggestion that he might later run on a third probably will hurt the Democratic chances by drawing off a large anti-Hoover vote. If not, assuming that he has campaigned for nomination, the general effect of his efforts will be harmful to the Republicans in the main campaign.

Democratic senators realize that Roosevelt continues out in front for their presidential nomination, but they are in no better shape than the Republicans when it comes to offering him an opponent. It has become axiomatic safe to ignore the southern members, among whom only Hull of Tennessee and Robinson of Arkansas stand out as real timber. That leaves Walsh of Montana who is dry and Catholic and unavailable on both counts; Wagner of New York, barred by foreign birth and Bulky of Ohio. Bulky, although he is newly elected and has failed since coming here to develop his publicity possibilities, is the one Democratic senator whom the lightening might conceivably strike in case a dark horse wins out at the Democratic convention. You hear him mentioned along with Ritchie, White, Newton D. Baker and Owen D. Young.

In 1930 there were 116,670 federal and state prisoners in the United States.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

Ordinarily, I like to run down a person's reputation—knowing that I can't touch one's character—but today I feel the desire to give credit to a citizen of Midland who soon will be a citizen of another city.
I am referring to John S. Bonner, the former manager of the Ritz theatre, who has been transferred to the Berger shows.
John, to be such a lazy man, has more energy per corpuscle than any man I have ever known; and he knows so little and yet has so much knowledge makes of him a genius.
Old Addison Wadley's words were right, John, when he said we'll miss you.
I take this official moment to welcome Bill Paara, the new Ritz manager, to Midland! Howdy, Bill, howya reels?

It has been unofficially reported on the streets (hasn't reached the guzzlers yet) that Malcolm Meek has opened a skating rink at his house. Malcolm, by some peculiar twist, saw fit to give the floor a severe test. He found out that the floor has no sense about a skin that one loves to touch. Heigh ho! Heigh ho! And a bottle of Sunshine soda pop.

Things are all wet! I have tried to let them take effect as they wish. I once heard of a president who let bills do that any they automatically took care of themselves. Guess I'm not as smart as that president (if he had been a democrat, I'd have capitalized that word).

PUTTIN' ON THE "DOG"

LOS ANGELES.—A year ago Los Angeles sat up and took notice of Pierce S. Hallick, then a waiter, when he announced that his father had died and willed him $2,000,000. The city is again noticing Hallick, but this time in a different light. When Elene Aristi, film actress, brought a $250,000 suit against him for breach of promise, he said the story of his fortune was a hoax.

QUITE DISCONCERTING

NEW ORLEANS.—Senior Escoval arrived here from British Honduras with two boa constrictors for the city zoo. The senior stopped at a hotel and took his snakes up to his room with him. He fell asleep and the snakes, growing tired of their confinement, broke out of their cages and sallied forth to the hotel restaurant. Their guardian rescued them before excited diners could shoot them.

Skit, "Kerrville Memories." Consecration service.

Ray Gwyn, secretary, has spent much time preparing numerous signs and showcards for the event. In the production of the skit 17 cards will be used.

Throughout the entire program, the Kerrville slogan will prevail. Assembly songs, yells and contests will be used in the social periods.

As a special feature of the rally, the secretary will demonstrate how to conduct a successful extemporaneous program. "It is especially necessary that the leader be well prepared to hold such a program," he said, "and that all portions of the program be fully worked out."

The Midland senior league is planning to send seven representatives to attend the meet. These will leave at noon tomorrow.

Play Tonight

A cast of well trained players will present the play, "Deacon Dubbs," at the Prairie Lee school house tonight at 8:30, as the final program of the school year.

Miss Marquette Carpenter has directed the play and invites all Midland people to attend.

The school building is about six miles southeast of town.

Musical Program

Ina Bess Hicks and Coren Stephenson will play a piano and violin duet at the Co-Workers' class meeting Sunday morning at the Baptist parsonage. Mrs. C. H. Oliver is in charge of the program.

Young married women and business women are invited to attend the class.

Nurse Makes Home Visits and Conducts Health Classes

Developing two summer health projects, home visits and class work, Miss Martha Bredemeier conducted two class meetings Thursday and on earlier days of the week made many home visits.

Thursday morning, she met with the North Ward Health class in her office for a lecture and demonstration on general infant health, including sleep, sun baths, and medical care.

During the afternoon, the nurse held an instructive conference with the Cotton Flat demonstration club. Ten women were present and took part in the review of "First Aid" and a preliminary study of contagious diseases. Problems of homes were brought into the discussion by the women.

Powell Charms In His Role of "Ladies' Man"

Paramount brings an effective story to the screen in its filmization of Rupert Hughes' serialized novel, "Ladies' Man" which opened at the Ritz theatre today.

"Ladies' Man" is the story of a society man who subsists upon the money he gains from selling the gifts which are showered upon him by the romantic and philandering ladies of the social set. Whence he came no one seems to know. Who his family is also remains unanswered.

But the fact is patent that his debonaire manner, his easy charm, his romantic suave are all so glamorous in the eyes (and arms) of the ladies that any social register short-comings he may have are forgotten. William Powell, as you may have suspected even if you had not been previously informed by the Ritz theatre, plays this central character. He is the "Ladies' Man" and a more persuasive person for such a hero-villain role is not listed in the whole gallery of filmdom's stars.

Powell, you will remember, was the quasi-hero of "Street of Chance," "For the Defense," "Shadow of the Law" and many similar pictures—all of them, we might add, tremendously successful with screen audiences. In "Ladies' Man" he is again a character who is neither all good nor all bad. He makes the James Darricout of the production a believable person through his sagacious portrayal of both good and bad qualities in equal, balancing proportions. This is the acting craft of Powell, aided of course by a fine intelligence and a rare finesse born of years of hardy experience on the stage.

Kay Francis again is the sweet-heart of Powell. She comes into his life of gaiety at a time when he is the darling of several of the town's wealthiest matrons, and the despair of many of the younger less wealthy girls of society. Women are fighting for a chance to be in his company. But he falls desperately in love with Kay, the newcomer, and their affair seems to be heading to a pretty, wedded climax when the danger that had been impending, threatening Powell's very existence, befalls and

MOTOR REPAIRS

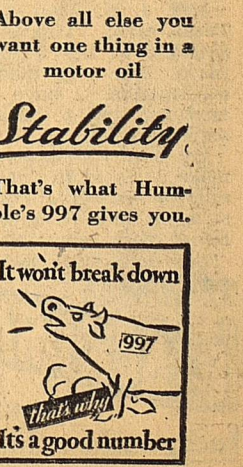

KEEP REPAIR COSTS DOWN with 997's friction-fighting molecules

Science knows that all matter is made up of little invisible bodies called molecules. In petroleum crudes, it's the middle ones that are born friction-fighters. They're the only kind we use in 997.

The best "buy" in motor oils is the oil that's most stable. That's why, to insure stability, Humble uses only 2% of the crude to make 997 Motor Oil—the part that contains friction-fighting molecules only. Strong and elastic, these friction-fighting molecules give 997 long-life, lasting quality.

Then we refine, drill and realign those molecules until they attain a new high in boiling points—997° Fahrenheit. This guarantees a protection heretofore unattainable against heat and loss, and assures lower oil consumption.

So if you want to keep down repair costs, there's not the slightest doubt that 997 is your number. Its economy will be an eye-opener to you. See the nearest Humble dealer today.

SOAPERS AND CUTLERY MEN WIN GAMES; GREAT ATTENDANCE OUT

Balloon Ball Is U. S. Ally in Ryder Cup Series With Britishers

TWIN BILL IS SET FOR TONIGHT AT PAGODA

While two clubs were bruising the offerings of two other clubs, blasting away merrily while scoring 41 runs between them, the greatest crowd ever to see a playground ball affair in Midland came out and sat on cushions, in cars and in the grass burrs of Pagoda diamond's sidelines last night.

Bob Scruggs and his scrambling Buick Dealers went down before a rapping enfilade of the De Luxe laundry, 26-5. Jones, hard hitting member of the soap and water aggregation, hit for the circuit twice and Collins once. The game was prolonged until late in the evening as, apparently, two out of every three men who toed the plate stirred up a commotion in deep outfield, putting fielders to chasing balls through the gloaming.

The Midland Hardware company came back at The Reporter-Telegram with a venom that has not been seen before in the game of guess as guess can out there in the shadows. With the newbies holding a 11-0 lead, the hardware boys scored 10 runs in the fifth inning, to pull up only one short of a tie. The newspaper lads scored only one in the sixth, but the hardware couldn't be headed, putting a crimp in the game by chasing around five more. The game ended, 15-12.

Mills, White and Lewallen hit homers for the hardware company, the latter collecting a brace.

No one cared to estimate the crowd that was out, but cars were parked five feet deep at places around the diamond, the line of vehicles lacking only a few yards of completely surrounding the playing field during the Buick-De Luxe game.

"Between eight hundred and a thousand people out," several estimated.

A twin bill is slated for tonight, with the Texas Electric club playing Rexall stars at 8:15, and Cowden-Epley taking on Bell Telephone at 9 o'clock.

SPORTS REPORTS

The merry-go-round was in full sway last night, with teams setting all sorts of running records in the Nocturne league. Wives will be wondering for a week what suddenly has made their husbands dizzier than ever. That, gentle souls, is to be attributed to the old plow horses stretching scratch hits into home runs out that on the dappled sands of Pagoda diamond.

We've seen a bunch of upsets, classified from croppers off inoffensive horses' backs to spraining ankles on dance floors, but never in our life have we seen some things revealed to us by sprightly fate last night. Take, for instance, that first

"SPLENDID FOR INDIGESTION"

Pinch of Black-Draught After Meals Recommended By Experienced Nurse.

A professional nurse at Hartwell, Ga., Mrs. Markie Myers, has the following to say about Theford's Black-Draught:

"My mother was a great believer in Black-Draught as a family medicine for minor ills among us children. Naturally when I grew up I, too, thought it was a good medicine.

"Being a trained nurse, my hours were irregular and I often needed a laxative. I found Black-Draught a splendid laxative. It is splendid for indigestion, taking a pinch after each meal. I am very glad to recommend it. I hope by doing so I can be a benefit to others."

Mrs. J. B. Bean, of Kirbyville, Texas, says: "I have used Black-Draught in my home for thirty years. It is a splendid remedy for constipation. I have never found anything that I thought was any better.

"It is easy to take. I generally make a tea of it, but it is just as easy to take dry. For gas on the stomach and indigestion, I have found quick relief follows its use."

Sold in 25-cent packages. 84-137

GOLFERS! VOTE!

The Reporter-Telegram is taking part in a nationwide vote on the merits or faults of the new larger-lighter golf ball. Here is your chance to express an opinion on the question. Do you like the new ball? Why?

game. Bob Scruggs was in the box most of the time, the rest of the time being taken up by a relief pitcher for the Buicks and, a lesser time, by a coasting push ball tosser for the men who blow bubbles for the DeLuxe laundry. Well, to make a sad story pointed, the Sud Busters stole everything Bob had except his jiffy pants and hit him with everything except the back stop. Bob generally gets along fine, but last night found him wishing he had taken his vacation this week in the lee shelter of a mermaid bevy.

A few minutes later, another upset followed. For five innings The Reporter-Telegram played errorless ball, hitting and running in the approved style. They had grabbed off a decade of markers and were beginning to think they had sewed up the jinx lurking here and there in the shadows. About that time a volcano erupted. The Midland Hardware company began swinging on the ball. Every swing seemed to connect and every ball thumbed its nose at whoever tried to put a finger on it. When the sad orgy ended the newspaper club had decided on going back to publishing a newspaper. Let those-as can do the cavorting on the ball diamond.

Well, well! Something that was not such an upset. We joined a threesome that played the first game of night golf at the country club. Don't know what time we started, but the match ended at 9 o'clock.

Now here's one for Ripley: M. M. Seymour, James P. Harrison and this department started a second round at the course, intending to see what golf played under starlight would result in. Caddies had to be stationed ahead of us. Beginning with the fourth hole we had to listen to where the balls hit and then follow them. The last five holes were played in total darkness. And HARRISON PLAYED THE ROUND IN ONLY THREE OVER PAR. MISSING TWO SHORT PUTTS AND ONE LONG ONE TO MISS OLD MAN PAR!

We've had stunt rides high over the earth at night, once pulled the throttle of a locomotive on a special train—even tried to tango with an Argentine actress—but the thrill of a lifetime is to guess where the green is, uncock a masher shot, strain ears, hear a dull plop! down the way, listen while a series of softer sounds indicate the route of the ball, then, after what seems an interminable period, head one of the three caddies scattered about yell "Okay!" The "okay," fellow duffers, signified the ball had been found and a golf bag laid over it for the purpose of finding it.

The last hole was a Jonah. As all of the duffer fraternity can relate, the ninth fairway is a hog leg and the rough billows up between you and your hopes. Harrison drove a long ball that screeched across the fairway and into the deep rough east. Seymour shot his tee shot within 10 yards of Harrison's lie. This department achieved one of its few good drives during a given season, lying well up the fairway. Harrison smashed a recovery shot to the green, but found it had trickled off when he was ready to play it. Seymour was short. Our masher carried to the bunker. Harrison was short on his approach, missed a comparatively short putt and had to take a 39 for the night round.

As for us, we will be satisfied with a 40, with the sun shining down from the meridian and the calendar saying the day is Christmas.

Evelyn Herrington and Ivy Lee Mitchell took up a collection for the Nocturne league, following a tete-a-tete with bats and balls among the women's aggregations, Uniques and Business Girls yesterday. Got more than $3, too. That's the spirit! In order to amuse the public, give the tired business man exercise and the young school boy buntions on his hips, money will be required for paying for lights, bats, balls and liniment.

While we're on the subject, the girls paddled the ball, grew hysterical, displayed enough form to win

UNCLE SAM'S TURN TO WIN AT COLUMBUS

BY CLAIRE BURCKY
NEA Service Writer
COLUMBUS, O.—There's the new ball, to be sure, but it looks like a comparatively easy triumph for America's Ryder Cup golf team in its biennial series with the British at Scioto Country Club here June 26 and 27. British Open results at Carnoustie seem to bear this out—and of course it's the patriotic thing to say.

It's Uncle Sam's turn to win. His boys lost the first encounter, won the second, lost the third and now appear ready to even the score again.

Strengthening this alternate year fancy is the fact that Americans fared better than the Britishers on English soil and with the English standard of ball, which is the same as a sour old style ball which so many seem to want back again. Thus, it isn't hard to picture what will happen to the invaders when the Yanks get them out at Scioto with that new larger lighted pellet which is causing so much controversy and for which the Reporter-Telegram is collaborating with NEA service in a national poll to determine what favor, if any, the balloon ball is finding.

Eight of this country's best professional golfers under the leadership of Walter Hagen will try to even the Ryder Cup series. The six already named on the team with Hagen are Leo Diegel, Al Espinosa, Johnny Farrell, Gene Sarazen and Horton Smith. Two more team members and two alternates remain to be chosen in qualifying rounds played at Scioto a few days before the matches proper.

Only two of Captain Charles A. Whitcombe's British band finished among the leaders in the recent Carnoustie happenings. The captain himself was not among them, but W. H. Davis and Abe Mitchell were. Others on Whitcombe's team are George Duncan, captain of Britain's victorious team of 1929; Ernest Whitcombe, brother of the captain; Fred Robson, highest British scorer in the 1930 British Open; Syd Easterbrook, Archie Compston, H. C. Jolly and a tenth player to be named soon.

Ryder Cup competition first came in 1926, an idea of Samuel Ryder, prominent English sportsman. Mr. Ryder donated the cup, symbolizing friendship through the medium of competitive sport, to promote good-fellowship and a better understanding between English-speaking people. He named the competition only for homebred golfers.

Great Britain overwhelmed the Americans 131-2 to 11-2 in the initial series in 1926. They met again a year later and Uncle Sam's first victory resulted, 91-2 to 21-2. Following the 1927 matches, biennial competition was proposed on alternate years with the Walker Cup competition amateurs. Great Britain again won in 1929 by a margin of 7 to 5.

Sarazen, Farrell and Horton Smith of the American team members playing at Carnoustie finished among the first 12 in the British Open; compared with Davies and Mitchell of the British team. None of the Englishmen have played the American standard of ball in competition; all of Uncle Sam's boys have been playing it since New Year's Day, however poorly.

Sarazen gave the new ball a thorough test on Carnoustie's gale-swept fairways. He was quoted as declaring the new ball was "suicidal to championship aspirations," if used on some British courses. Fortunately for all concerned, however, Scioto will have no winds with the velocity of those at old Carnoustie.

"No radical changes have been made at Scioto since 1926, the year the Open was played here," comments George Sargent, Scioto professional and U. S. Open champion in 1909. "Some of the greens have been rebuilt, but I don't believe the changes have either stiffened or eased up in any way the golfing qualities of the course."

In Sargent's opinion, Scioto's No. 2 is the finest two-shot hole to be found on any course in the world. It is 430 yards long, well guarded by rough and uphill from tee to green.

No. 9, a short hole of 140 yards, was a nightmare to Bobby Jones in 1926.

"Bobby played the hole four times in 1926 Open and failed to get on from the tee once," Sargent declares. "He managed to get one par but had to accept two fours and a five on the other three rounds."

Scioto is 6745 yards long. Par is 36 both on the out and in journeys.

Dogs Clean the Sewers in France; Well Cared for

By SAMUEL DASHIELL
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS.—(UP).—“Dianna of the Sewers,” might be suggested as a sentimental title for any novelist and lover of dog lore looking for some thrilling drama of the canine race. Europe has made use of all kinds of dogs. The noble breed of St. Bernard is world famous; the Belgian milk wagon hounds have often been photographed for the newspapers; there are tough German police dogs; underslung Dachshunds fox terriers, shivering greyhounds and Pomeranians; but little has been written of the wire haired sewer dogs, the lovable and scampering little mongrels who clean the narrow sewer pipes of Nice.

The nearest approach to the sewer dog was the jocular napkin hound, popular during the boarding house age, whose furry coat was fondly used both as a towel and a pen-wiper. But it has befallen the practical minded city officials of Nice to put the brush-like qualities of the hairy dog to a useful though ignoble service.

Strange Performance
A wanderer in Nice may witness the strange performance connected with keeping the public sanitation in smooth working order.

The dog fancier should select any obscure manhole along most any boulevard and wait. Sooner or later a dray will drive up containing workmen, sewer cleaning apparatus, ropes and pulleys.

Seated in the wagon will be two or three little dogs, attentively watching the operations that follow. The manhole will be opened, a block tackle rigged up. The dogs are impatient, trembling with excitement, but duty restrains them from leaping out of the wagon. Suddenly, a sharp whistle from a workman, and one dog will leap joyously into the street and stop, wagging his tail, at the manhole.

A rope is fixed to his collar, and without ceremony, the happy canine is lowered.

Muffled Bark
A hundred and fifty yards farther on, other workmen have taken up the lid of another manhole. Some one listens attentively. There is a muffled bark. A workman descends and with the dirtiest, wettest, filthiest dog in captivity, for the little animal has passed through a pipe too small for a man to go through, and it is certain therefore there are no obstructions. The little sewer dog thus performs his onerous task. The other dogs tackle other sewers until the whole band presents a bedraggled and disheveled mess.

The life of the sewer dogs is not all spent in the muck of the sewer. After boring through the dark they are given a bath, taken to their well kept municipal kennels, and after a choice repast, sit dozing in the warm antiseptic sun.

If dogs are at all sensible they must occasionally speculate on the possibility of fur-bearing fleas being used some day for pipe-cleaners. The names of Nice's three main sewer dogs are Diana, Flora and Tango.

Stamford Plans Cowboy Reunion

STAMFORD, June 12.—With the experiences of last year to guide them, officials and directors of the Texas cowboy reunion are lining up the details for the presentation of the second annual program of the organization, June 25, 26 and 27, smoothly and efficiently. W. G. Swenson, president of the sponsoring association reports.

When the gates open on the morning of June 25 for the three-day celebration, Swenson expects everything to be set and ready so that the entire program can be run off without a hitch. The new permanent grandstand on the west side of the rodeo arena has been completed; the fence around the arena and the stock pens and chutes have been given an attractive dressing of blue and white paint.

A new rodeo office and saddle house have been erected on the east side of the corral and the office for the secretary and grounds superintendent are ready for use. The exhibit booths where a number of commercial displays will be presented will be completed next week, and construction on a larger and better dance pavilion is scheduled to start within the next day or so.

A flood of injuries regarding various features of the reunion are being sent into the office of J. C. Watson, secretary. Requests for copies of the rodeo program and prize lists are heavy and indicate that there will be more entrants this year than last when 98 cowboys took part in the contests. The concession rights have been sold and a carnival company secured to play inside the rodeo grounds during the three days.

Work on the official program is underway and the advertising committee is distributing circulars, placards and sending out personal letters to a large mailing list. Col. R. L. Penick and his invitation and reception committee for the pioneer cattlemen are on the job and report that the attendance of that group will run close to 1,000 this year.

A number of chuck-wagons are assured. An improved lighting system for the night rodeo is to be put up next week and a lot of other things are being looked after now so that there will be no last minute details to come up that will “gum up” the works.

Reports from over the country point to a much larger attendance than last year. People from towns and cities 200 miles away are coming in “droves” and the folks within 150 miles of Stamford are all talking the reunion.

Plans of the committee in charge of the parade to be staged on the opening day of the celebration call for a very large and interesting presentation, according to Warren B. Tayman, chairman of the committee and marshal for the parade.

The parade will start at 1 p. m. on Thursday, June 25. The first feature of the day will be the formal opening of the reunion with a program in the city auditorium at 11 a. m., in charge of Tayman and his committee which consists of Chas. W. Zug, Jr., Dick Rowland, R. L. Penick and John Selmon.

Mayor J. K. Brady will deliver the welcome address at the 11 o'clock program, following a concert by the local band under direction of Rowland. W. J. Bryan, Abilene, has been invited to respond to the mayor's address and then W. G. Swenson, president of the reunion organization will be presented and a brief period will be given over to announcements.

One of the most outstanding features of the opening day parade will be the group of cowgirls that will lead it. Tayman has during the past week asked chambers of commerce in all West Texas towns and also in all the large cities of the state to designate a young lady from those communities to come here and act as sponsor for the pioneer cattlemen

Yes, Daughter — Punchers Wear 'Em Too

SALINAS, Calif., June 12.—Oh, dear, do cowboys wear wrist watches? A census is being taken among the leading cowboys of the United States by the Rodeo Association of America to determine what they would like to have for trophies if they should win the grand championship, or championships in bull riding, bronc riding, calf roping, team roping or single roping. At the Visalia rodeo last week the cowboys voted in favor of wrist watches.

Several new shows have joined the Rodeo Association of America, including a large rodeo to be held at Glendale on June 27 and 28, one at Oregon City, Oregon, on July 4 and 5, and one at Meteor City, Arizona, July 3, 4, and 5, and the Los Angeles Fiesta Rodeo, September 7. Rodeos to be held over the 4th of July holidays are: Livingston, Montana, Belle Fourche, South Dakota, Cody, Wyoming, Livermore, California, Miles City, Montana, Meteor City, Arizona, Oregon City, Oregon, Red Lodge, Montana.

Eddie Woods of Emmett, Idaho, and Earl Thode of Belvidere, South Dakota, the 1929 world's champion cowboy, are tied for first place in the contest of the 1931 champion cowboy each having 750 points as a result of recent shows held in the western states. Clay Carr of Visalia, California, is third with 737-2; then follows Pete Knight of Calgary, Canada, with 650; Smoky Snyder, Kimberly, B. C., Canada, 600; Johnnie Schneider, Livermore, Calif., 600; Everett Bowman, Fort Thomas, Arizona, 562-1-2; John Bowman, Treat, Texas, 525; Hugh Bennett, Fort Thomas, Arizona, 512-1-2; Rube Roberts, Fort Thomas, Texas, 300; Lloyd Saunders, Sonora, Calif., 300.

Pete Knight is leading in the contest for champion bronc rider with 450 points. Smoky Snyder is leading in the bull riding contest with 500 points. Everett Bowman is leading in the bulldogging with 500 points. Clay Carr is leading the single roping with 200 points. Homer Ward of Oakdale, Calif., is leading in calf roping with 300 points.

U. S. currency is printed with 98 pounds of ink on every 100 pounds of paper. Each sheet of paper money is counted 18 times, 15 by hand and three by machine.

from the areas served by those towns during the reunion. All such feminine representatives will be asked to ride in the parade. Each of them is supposed to be from a family interested in the cattle business. The committee expects at least 50 such representatives to come for the celebration.

autogiros with 20-passenger capacity soon. I am thoroughly sold to this plane and believe a new principle in flying has been evolved.”

Large Crowd
Several hundred persons were at the port when the famous flier landed. The only factor that kept the crowd from numbering several thousand was the uncertainty about the time of her arrival. She made the last hop of the day, 100 air miles from Big Spring here, in one hour 30 minutes. The autogiro carries gasoline for only two hours flying, and steps during the day were made at an oil camp near Guadalupe station, at Wink, and at Big Spring.

Miss Earhart made her third visit to the Abilene port dressed for the part. She was wearing full-length and close-fitting khaki breeches, her short-sleeved shirt open at the neck. Her light brown hair was cut close, by style, and her arms, neck and nose were badly sunburned.

“I won't have any nose left,” she said pathetically as she climbed from the plane and smiled a greeting at the crowd pressing around her. She consented readily to posing for news photographers, but with a wry face, and talked affably with every one who questioned her. They included L. E. Derryberry, the port manager, who wanted know if she had “fallen in” rather than flown in; and soon the two were deep in a discussion of what the autogiro is capable of doing.

“Fly it yourself and see,” said the aviator, flashing a smile at Derryberry. “Just give me the chance,” he answered grimly.

Miss Earhart holds the women's altitude record in an autogiro. She attained a height of 18,415 feet on April 8, over Philadelphia.

“There is no end of things the autogiro will do,” she said. “It has been on the market commercially only a short time, requiring a wait order on purchases. Not more than twenty are in the air, of which I think mine was the ninth or tenth. The American autogiros are made by Pitcairn at Willow Grove, near Philadelphia. The inventor is Juan de la Cierva, a Spaniard.”

While the plane she is using is her own, Miss Earhart's flight is being financed by the Beechnut packing company, which explains the name, “Beechnut” on the fuse-

Two Fortunes Are Wed in London

LONDON, June 12. (UP)—Two of America's greatest fortunes were united today when Anthony J. Drexel Biddle of Philadelphia married Mrs. Margaret Schultz, daughter of William Boyce Thompson, copper magnate.

Biddle is the son of one of the most socially prominent families in America. Mrs. Schultz's fortune is estimated at $100,000,000.

Charles A. McClintic is in Abilene attending a three day session of national guard army officers meeting, of which he is a first lieutenant. McClintic went from a national guard meeting in Sweetwater to Dallas, where he represented Midland at an emergency meeting of oil and royalty men.

HOWARD WHEAT YIELD
BIG SPRING.—A wheat field in the northern part of Howard county near Vincent yielded more than 30 bushels of grain to the acre according to Jas. Currie, owner of the farm. The seed planted produces a small grain which is the best variety adapted to this area said Mr. Currie.

When automobiles travel at speeds in excess of 40 miles an hour, more power is required to overcome air resistance than road resistance.

Excavations near Mexico City have brought to light well-preserved remnants of the bathing places of the ancient Aztec aristocracy. The “tubs” were carved out of solid rock.

The sign is the standard insignia of the hotel and is protected by U. S. patent laws. The name Hussmann was once used in a similar fashion as a trade mark on the famous Hussmann refrigerators, the forerunner of the modern gas and electric ones now so popular.

UNUSUAL PROPOSAL

Leslie Fentris, 24, voyageur, filibusterer and globe-trotter said in Midland this morning that, of the unusual publicity seekers he has seen in his travels, a youth in Newark, N. J., “takes the cake.”

“The boy said he would allow himself to be bound to the center of an Autogiro rotor and go aloft for a five-minute spin,” he said.

Fentris is en route with a magazine writer, Larence Billings, to Hollywood, where the latter hopes to sell a script. Fentris says he will sign on board the merchant marine for a trip around Cape Horn.
