He also asks a month's pay for over-(192 hours) he sys he has been required to work since he became county engineer last February. The remainder of the requested pay would be for a week's vacation and the half month of service from Sept. 1-15.

The engineer's salary is $6,000 per year and if all the requests are granted his final check would be for $1.375.

Dickey was given notice that he was being discharged following a 3-1 vote of commissioners last Monday. Three commissioners-Arthur Stallings, Ralph Proctor and Earl Hull-earlier requested his resignation. The engineer said Monday he had no plans to resign and the discharge followed, Commissioner G. E. # Probe Widens Into Heiress Abortion Death

PHILADELPHIA in — The district attorney's office widened its probe today into the past activities of a couple held in the abortion death of heiress Doris Silver Ostreicher in the wake of reports of other abortions allegedly performed by the pair.

Officials awaited results of a

Officials awaited results of a chemical analysis of bed linen taken yesterday in a thorough police search of the couple's North Philadelphia apartment where the 22-year-old bride of two months died Aug. 24.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Schwartz, are free in $5,000 ball each pending a hearing Monday on charges of performing the unsuccessful abortion that caused the death of Mrs. Ostreicher.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Jacob Kalish said yesterday that investigators had a "great deal of information" about other abortions allegedly performed by the Schwartzes. He declined, however, to comment directly on a report that an unidentifled woman told police in nearby Mrs. Schwartz $500 in 1953 for an unsuccessful abortion.

Dist. Atty. Samuel Dash, who is heading the probe of the death of the beautiful red-haired Food Fair

Stores heiress, said yesterday:

The Schwartzes, who have denied any knowledge of the cause of Mrs. Ostreicher's death, are charged specifically with perjury, of con-spiring with the dead girl's griefstricken mother Mrs. Gertrude Silver to perform the abortion and with being accessories before the fact of the illegal operation.

Mrs. Silver was charged with conspiracy and being an accessory but her hearing was postponed indefinitely after psychiatrists testi-fied Monday she was not mentally "face her accusers. She was ordered to submit to psychiatric treatment. Dash said the Schwartzes face a possible maximum sentence of 19 years in prison if convicted. Mrs. Ostreicher eloped with Miami Beach motorcycle policeman Earl Ostreicher June 24 and re-turned alone to her Philadelphia home several weeks later. Ostreicher said she came here to try to reconcile her parents to the mar-

Skies Clear Over Nation

There were a few wet spots-in the South, Midwest and Pacific Northwest-'ut skies were clear in most of the nation today.

The hot weather persisted in the Far Southwest but pleasant late summer temperatures were in rospect for most other areas. Thundershowers were reported this morning in Wisconsin, Lower Michigan and extreme northern Illinois. Rain fell in parts of the South Atlantic states and in the Pacific Northwest.

Warmer weather spread from the Southern Plains states northeastward across the middle Mississippi and Ohio Valleys to the Great Lakes region.

man Communist regime. Some reports say that at one point Adenauer was prepared to break off the talks, refuse diplomatic relations and go home because the Soviets were unwilling to yield on the prisoner problem. It thus appeared in the final outcome that a Russian concession on the price Adenauer wanted for opening diplomatic relations made the final agreement possible,

The Soviets presumably want to prevent or at the least slow down the rearmament of West Germany within the Atlantic Alliance and the Western European Union. They may hope to use a diplomatic mis-sion in Germany to work for that

It is also believed that the Soviets are interested in developing trade and other relationships with West Germany which would be profitable to them in solving of their pressing agricultural and industrial problems.

Harmony Can Be Persuasive

Probably if he consulted his own wishes and his own personal welfare President Eisenhower wouldn't touch renomination with a ten-foot pole. The Republican Party accumulates trouble as a stone attracts moss, and the results of last year's congressional elections proved conclusively that its ancient affinity for trouble in large hunks has in nowise abated.

could quit at the end of his first term and go down in history as one of the most popular Presidents, whereas if he serves another the law of political averages may make his second term as thankless and ineffective as Hoover's first and only.

We do not believe, however, that any consideration of personal concern would count in the scale against a second Eisenhower term, if he is convinced the situation at nominating time requires it. His party has been trying manfully to convince him that such is the case, that he alone could carry the party to victory in 1956. The national chairmen who met with him in Denver last weekend, however, received no such assurance. It is true the occasion was a sort of lovefeast, but there was absolutely no commitment to a second term his part. The President said he likes the GOP more than ever, but there was a blunt reminder, in his words, that "humans are frail - and they are mortal." For this reason the party members should never "pin your flag so tightly to one mast that if a ship sinks you cannot rip it off and nail it to another."

That could be taken as a warning not to expect too much, or simply as a reminder that if the party expects him to put aside whatever reluctance he may have, the party had better fish or cut bait.

That, we believe, will be the real test whether Ike runs or doesn't run, If all elements of the party pull together, and convince him that they will continue pull together come what may, and pat all their collective energies into the fray, he probably will run. But if there is bickering and backbiting and holding back and the crossing of fingers, he probably won't for in that event not even an Ike Eisenhower-could pull the party

Insecurity Of Snowballing

As the fellow said about shoes, he could wear nines, but tens felt so good on his feet he decided to wear elevens. And the lure of tax-cutting to please the voters is so tempting that instead of cutting a billion dollars out of the nation's defenses the economizers may wind up by whacking off two billion. It would be easy to cut even three or four billions off the national defense, if one ignored the consequences. So off to Secretary Wilson's vacation hideaway went the secretaries of Army. Navy and Air Force, buttressed by their military advisers, each determined that the threatened cuts won't come out of their respective services' hides. The usually well-informed U.S. News & World Report all but takes it for granted this week that the big cuts to balance the budget will come out of the military, in spite of some bumbling denials that such will be the case. The magazine says the military budget called for $35.7 billion by the end of June 30, but that was the original goal. This estimate, it says, has been reduced to $35 billion, but with promised savings will be lowered to $34 billion. and "hope is now held that this can be reduced to $33 billion."

The big effect, it says, will be felt in a major slowdown of new plane deliveries, in a cutback of Army manpower by January, and in slashing Navy shore installations.

The way the magazine envisions it, a $2 billion cut would fall heaviest on the Air Force, which would lose a billion dollars, as against $600 million for the Navy and $400 million for the Army,

This would not only slow plane deliveries, but inevitably close down many installations among the three services.

The trouble with arms reductions to balance budgets is that it's hard to call a halt. Once started, the movement accelerates - as it did on the eve of Korea. Thus these arms reductions at this time could pose a dire threat to national security. Make no mistake about that.

J. A. Livingston Many Companies In Atomic Energy Work

This is a question-but without a $64-600 answer. Here are a half dozen companies. You're to decide what they have in common besides the initial A:

American Cyanamid Anaconda Armour & Co. American Tel. & Tel. Amer, Machine & Foundry

Allis-Chalmers Get it? If not, try another half dozen companies. What have they in common with one another and the foregoing six? Philadelphia Electric Foster Wheeler

Bendix Aviation Monsanto Chemical 11. S. Steel

Stoker.

Union Carbide & Carbon

Give up? All right, I'll tell you. In one way or another, all 12 are in the queue to profit from atomic energy

Yet, you wouldn't discover their names. You don't find "uranium" emblazoned in their titles. Let that be a lesson: When you find uranium in a company's name, be careful.

Standard & Poor's Corp. notes that about 200 corporations have a stake in atomic energy. The list includes such well-known enterprises as duPont, Dow Chemical, American Tobacco, Bethlehem Steel, International Nickel and Eastman Kodak, as well as smaller companies such as Foote Mineral, Nuclear Instrument & Chemical, Bechtel Corp., Fluor Corp., and Riley

In most cases, atomic energy is only part of the company's business-often a small part. As Standard & Poor's puts it. atomic energy's an investment "kicker." Earnings from other sources will tide these companies over until their investment in the atom produces income. Most distinctly, these are not fly-by-night enterprises founded by stock promoters to flush the unwary.

Standard & Poor's names ten favorites: Babcock & Wilcox, manufacturers of steam generating equipment, which holds contracts to build reactors for the Consolidated Edison Co., New York City, and the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor Mich. Recent yield, 3.1 per cent.

Beckman Instruments, manufacturer of instruments used in precision electronic equipment. Military, industrial, and medical radiation instruments constitute about 10 per cent of its sales. Yield, nil:

Combustion Engineering, manufacturer of steam generating equipment, which holds an Atomic Energy Commission contract to develop an atomic power plant for a small submarine and is constructing reactor components. Yield, 4.4 per cent.

which built and for a time operated the Hanford, Wash., plutonium plant, and is completing and partially operating the Savannah River Plant at Aiken, S. C., for the Atomic Energy Commission. Yield, 2.9 per cent.

General Dynamics builder of the Nautilus, atomic-powered submarine, and producer of military planes and guided missiles, Yield, 3.7 per cent,

General Electric, which now operates under AEC contract, the Hanford plant and the Knolls Atomic Power Laboratory at Schenectady. Its atomic activities range from basic research to the design, construction and sale of equipment. Yield, 3 per cent.

Phillips Petroleum, tenth among oil companies, is developing atomic knowhow as the operator of the AEC's Materials Testing Reactor at Idaho Falls, Idaho, Yield,

4.20 per cent. Union Carbide & Carbon, which has atomic energy interests ranging from mining to the operation of AEC facilities at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Paducah, Ky. Yield, per cent. Vanadium Gorp .- a major supplier of uranium as well as ferro-alloys. Yield, 3.8 per cent.

Westinghouse Electric, like General Electric, a leader in basic atomic research. It manufactured the reactor for the Nautilus, is currently working on a reactor for power for large ships. Yield, 3.8 per cent.

The logic of these selctions is obvious. Standard & Poor's wants companies which will survive. Like the auto and radio industries, atomic energy will strew the path of progress with names future generations won't recognize.

Remember the Chandler, Locomobile, Pierce-Arrow? Great automobiles. Remember such well-known radios as Atwater-Kent, Radiola, American-Bosch, DeForest, Ortho-Sonic. Kolster - Brandes, Freshman, Cleartone, Audiola, A - C Dayton? If you do, you're an old-timer.

Hummm, Diddy-Ummm, Diddy-Ump

You might get the impression from listening to radio and TV that this is the age of the fingle.

The old singing commercial moved into such a vacuum when it first was employed extensively that overnight every radio advertiser had one. Naturally, many of them attained a high degree of absurdity, and critics seemed correct in prediction that excesses had killed the golden goose. But along came TV with a sort of jingle vitamin and the old jingle bird went practically on mass production. Antimated cartooning furnished a visual accompaniment of the sales pitch so that viewers wouldn't forget fun or product.

The field has become so lucrative that our musical geniuses must surely be concentrating in this field. At least, the catchtest music of today is coming off the hucksters' pens. The thirsty are asked "What'll you have?" or are reminded of the "yellow mellow darlin'," or the brew comes "from the land of the sky blue water." In the softer vein they are reminded of a "friendly pepper upper that will never, never let you down." Smokers are admonished to "relax, it's light up time." Drivers are told that they can "go, go, go" in a certain new model ear. Coffee imbibers are urged to reach for a particular brand "if you want more flavor." The list is without end. The return of popularity for the little short chorus fits into the jingle trend. Nowhere is this better exemplified than in churches where congregations today seem to enjoy singing these infectious choruses which have a peculiar lilting, harmonious quality. People may not remember the sermon, but they go away humming, singing or whistling the new little tune. Contemporary music, which seems about as infertile as our times, have more than once relied on the jingle to provide fodder. for the hit parade-"Da-d-dum-dum!" and

"Sound Off." Remember? If the trend continues, effectiveness of the medium is bound to sink into the consciousness of educators, who probably started the whole thing ages ago with kid songs and nursery rhymes. It is not inconceivable that they will once more employ this saucy means to get over little bits of unpalatable information such as

The sum of the square On two sides so bare Of right triangles choose

To be equal, when applied' To the square on the side Of ye olde hypotenuse!"

Wow! Geometry was never like this before the jingle. -JOE PICKLE

Ike's Sincere Interest In The People

WASHINGTON - Small wonder that Eisenhower is the most popular President America has had in half a century - every time he makes an impromptu speech he says the common-sense things that Americans enjoy hearing again and again. He is today the living symbol of traditional Americanism - the kind that started with a sturdy invidualism at Plymouth Rock and has continued to this day as the backbone of the free-enterprise system.

The President in just a few sentences in his speech at Denver over the weekend reaffirmed the faith and the philosophy that have been primarily responsible for America's position today as the most powerful country industrially in the whole world.

Interpreting Lincoln's famous phrase about "government of the people, by the people, for the people," Mr. Eisenhower said:

"'For the people': We have seen the phrase tortured by demagogic types to mean that an over-wise and over-busy government takes over all the functions of living. They say: 'Now go on boys, do just what you are told and we will take care of the 165 million people.' And they tortured the general welfare clause of the Constitution "I don't believe that is what Lincoln meant at all. If we are for the people, which means for the individual as such, we go first to the ten first amendments of the Constitution - to the Bill of Rights. That was written for the people.

"That Bill of Rights does not guarantee to each of us a profitable living. It guarantees to each of us an equal opportunity with all others to earn our living for ourselves and our families and to protect our future.

"We could discuss further what we mean by 'for the people.' But I refer to another quotation of Lincoln's which was generally to this effect: The function of government is to do for the people what the individual cannot do at all, or do so well for himself, and in all those things which the individual can do for himself, the government ought not to interfere.

"Now I think today that is as good a prosentation of the Republican case as I know how to make."

The President was tactful and restrained. He might have referred to the way the New Deal and Fair Deal packed the federal judiciary including the Supreme Court of the United States to distort the Constitution and tear down decisions of more han 150 years standing.

Not only in procliaming party doctrine, moreover, but in dealing with the delicate subject of the "indispensable man," did Mr. Eisenhower speak sensibly. He was modest in acknowledging the loyalty of the party to him but at the same time pointed out logically that a party must not allow the impression to be cultivated that it has only one good man who could serve in the presidency. This is by far the wiser approach for the future even though in 1956 Dwight Eisenhower, barring any physical mishap, will be renominated

What a refreshing contrast between the Eisenhower utterances and those of Adlai Stevenson on the same day. The 1952 candidate could only paraphrase Lincoln to say that today there is a "government of the rich, by the rich and for the rich."

Happily the rich today constitute almost the entire population. There c.e, for instance, according to the latest figures obtained from the Federal Reserve Board. about 18,800,000 families with an income of $5,000 a year or over out of a total number of 49,400,000 families in America. While the $5,000-a-year-and-over group is about 38 per cent of all the families. This same group now buys about three-fourths of all the new cars sold each year. There are indeed about 5,000,000 families that own two or more cars.

Where would the automobile industry and its hundreds of thousands of workers be if the individuals constituting this important market did not have the initiative and the opporunity to earn $5,000 a year which is certainly "rich" in terms of half a century ago? Incidentally there are in addition about 15,000,000 families with incomes between $3,000 and $5,000 a year which isn't exactly "poor" either,

Indications are that the next set of figures issued will show - according to the present rate of growth - that there are about 36,000,000 families earning $3,000 a year or more, which is about three-fourths of all the families in the country. There are a lot of votes in that mass of families and if the Democratic party leaders intend to revive Huey Long's doctrines of redistributing wealth, they will find a lot of protests against tampering with incomes of those above the $3,000 mark.

trial production. Tight supplies, particularly in metals, are sending purchasing agents scurrying-and paying premium prices. The shortages, despite the great postwar gains in production capacity, have taken many businessmen by surprise-just as the extent of the business boom took them by surprise earlier. Copper has been lifted almost to the class of a precious metal in recent days. So tight is the supply that some users, caught short, are said to have paid as much as 51 cents a pound to keep their mills running. A dock tie-up in the east has kept some foreign copper from being unloaded, making the pinch even more se-

Strikes earlier in the year in the mines and smelters caused the present world-wide shortage. Hooming European and American industries have been snapping up all the available metal at steadily increasing prices for months. Metal users who could turn to aluminum as a substitute for copper are finding es of the light metal are light alsoand its price on the rise, too.

Steel users complain about slow deliveries. The steel mills are pushing most of their available facilities but can't meet the pressing demand. As the backlog of orders piles up, they see near-capacity production well into next year.

Lumber orders have exceeded production so far this year. And so have shipments. Mill stocks have declined steadily. Imports of lumber have run 43 per cent ahead of last year.

Shortages have caused a number of industries-steel, aluminum and cement, for example-to plan further plant expansion. New production facilities, in time, will overcome the shortages which plague purchasing agents today. he observed. Registration continues to 5 p.m., and then there will be a final period for enrollment from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Among the 344 registered are 30 young men at Webb band boosters in the Senior High band room. Members of the band will seek the memberships. Emphasis will be placed in enlisting the support of parents, for more than 200 of them should be active, officials said.

Dr. Hunt appealed for places for students to room and board. He said several students were needing such places.

board runabouts, speeding in foggy darkness, crashed on Lake Leelanau last night, costing the life of one of five teen-age riders.

Sheriff Robert White said 13year-old Robert Deo was presumed killed outright or drowned. The body has not been recovered. His four companions escaped injury.

The sheriff said the boats had been taken without permission from boat liveries.

The sheriff withheld their names as juveniles. Their ages range from 14 to 17. The sheriff said he planned to question the boys further to determine whether any charges should be brought against

Franklin's Title About To Vanish

WASHINGTON UP-A title that has been borne by world-renowned Americans from Benjamin Frank-lin to Perle Mesta seems about to disappear.

It's "envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary." Until 1893 this was the highest title given any U.S. diplomatic representative. In that year the first U.S. ambassador was named.

He was Thomas Francis Bayard, accredited to Britain's Queen Victoria. Since then the upgrading of legations headed by ministers to em-bassies headed by ambassadors has gone on apace. The total of embassies reached 72 last week with the promotion of the U.S. legation to the grand duchy of where Mrs. had served as minister for a time until 1953. There are only five U.S. lega-
