Omaha Markets Show Big Loss of Receipts

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Aug. 31. (UP)—Fourteen persons were reported injured Tuesday as deputies clashed with picketing farmers who had established picket lines on all highways leading into the city in an effort to raise milk prices. Stocks, stones and barrel staves were used in the melee.

Midland Sees Eclipse of Sun

Partial eclipse of the sun was seen by Midland observers this afternoon, the first evidence of the moon's shadow being noticed at 1:23. By 2:05 about 22 per cent of the sun's surface had been blotted out. It was expected that before the passage of another hour an eclipse of nearly 50 per cent would result. The eclipse will total over a half 100 miles wide. The totality runs down from Canada through Derby, Vt., across the White mountains in New Hampshire, through Fryeburg, and Eridandford in Maine and out across Massachusetts bay. Along the New England coast line the 100-mile belt extends from Beverly, Mass. to Wiscasset, Me.

The car received by Norwood said that reward would be paid. Please notify J. W. Dellinger, chief of police, Taylor, Texas.

Harrison Is Song Leader New Class

James P. Harrison will be the new song leader for the Schabarber Men's class. Harrison agreed to become the regular director when asked Wednesday by a committee headed by Clarence Schabarber. Harrison is a trained musician and expects to make the singing at the class one of its attractive features. Other changes in officers will be announced this week, as the Schabarber Men's class is no longer connected with any denomination, but is cooperating and working with all Midland churches on an equal basis. The attendance at the Men's class will not be counted in any Sunday school, and all money collected goes to the class fund. All denominations have members in the class. A large crowd is expected next Sunday to start off the new organization.

Contest Election Storm Brews, Politics Believes

DALLAS, Aug. 31. (UP)—State election returns, with 248 of the 254 counties complete, showed Sterling 473,714 and Ferguson 475,756, accounting for a total vote of 949,470. Ferguson's lead was 2,042.

Odd Tangle

(By Austin Bureau of Dallas News) (AUSTIN, Aug. 30.—This was another day of outward calm among the three persons whose names are now on the lips of nearly every Texan discussing the unparalleled closeness of the gubernatorial contest in this State. There was a suspicion that this quiet precedes a storm that is expected to break in Texas politics as soon as the last Saturday's primary election. Gov. Ross Sterling continues to attend his official duties with no visible sign of anxiety over the situation while the Ferguson men are scanning the election returns with eagerness. The upturn in their favor during the day brought them joy but apprehension still exists because of the uncertainty of the future vote and possible eventualities following the final count. Urge Investigation A man well known in Texas politics who refuses to permit his name to be mentioned because he insists that he can not afford to be in the attitude of favoring or opposing any of the contestants, Tuesday strongly urged that the legislature authorize a non-partisan commission to investigate the election just held in Texas. "Both sides in this contest have made serious charges of fraud, irregularities and violations of the election laws," this man said, "and the reputation of Texas demands that these charges be probed. The eyes of the whole nation were generally focused on Texas prior to the election, but this closeness and the charges and counter-charges of unlawful acts has resulted in a worldwide interest in the outcome and we cannot allow them to pass unnoticed. It would be a serious reflection upon this state. Must Challenge Charges "One side has charged that thousands of illegal votes were cast without poll taxes and the other side that votes have been bought by the thousands. These are too serious to let go unchallenged. I am not saying which was right or wrong, all I am trying to do is to remove any stain from the name of Texas. "I think the legislature should make an appropriation to defray the expenses of a commission devoted to the proper authorities, politician or partisan to go to the very end of these charges and if the law be violated to hand the evidence to the proper authorities for vigorous prosecution and to determine who was rightfully nominated governor. It will not do to permit any candidate to take the office of nominated illegally or improperly. That goes to both candidates in this race and I do not charge or defend either." Some members of the legislature have been recommending offering resolutions providing for a legislative investigation of the election. Discussions continued as to what action could be had by a contestant of the governor's race. Nothing definite has been suggested, only reports that some kind of proceeding is expected because of the closeness of the race and the charges of fraudulent voting. That still is uncertain. Both Candidates Silent Neither candidate is willing to make a statement pending the final result. That may be so close on the unofficial returns that silence may continue until the state committee meets two weeks hence at Lubbock to make the official and maybe controlling canvass of last Saturday's vote. Lieut. Gov. Edgar E. Witt has been renouncing without opposition and will be sure to be elected next November. That means he would be the acting governor of Texas in event there should be a hiatus in the executive chair due to any contest, court action or other proceeding that could suspend any person from that office now or later. Close Race in 1914 Texas has a precedent for a close race for state office, but not with near so many votes cast and not for the governor's chair. It was in 1914 and, it so happens, James E. Ferguson was nominated for governor in the same convention which was held in El Paso on Aug. 11 and 12 and nominated two candidates for congressman-at-large. One was the late Jeff McLemore and the other was J. H. (Cyclone) Davis, who has just gone down in defeat at the hands of young Joe Bailey for the same office. McLemore and the late W. P. Lane, then comptroller, waged a hot fight and a subcommittee of the state committee found that McLemore had won by 159 votes. The committee and the convention sustained this count, though Lane protested that returns from eight counties not reporting would have given him a clear majority. Recuse was made that the committee hold open the nomination until all counties had reported, but McLemore's counsel said the law fixed the final date for reporting. Worth S. Ray, just defeated for the legislature, in Dallas county, reported Mr. Lane be a good chance for recovery.

WEATHER HELPS COTTON CROPS OF WEST TEXAS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (UP)—Higher temperatures and less rain favored the cotton crop during the past week, but many sections reported poor to only fair progress, with considerable complaints of shedding, the weekly weather report of the department of agriculture said today. Some improvement was evidenced in western and northwestern Texas, but conditions generally were poor, the weather being favorable for boll weevils in south central Texas districts. Fair progress was reported in Oklahoma, with little or no improvement in southeastern states.

HIGH WATER HOLDS UP TRAFFIC ON BANKHEAD HIGHWAY WEST OF MIDLAND

Rains Tuesday night and early today fell over a large area of West and Southwest Texas. Heavy rains at Stanton, Alpine, Marfa, Pecos, Big Spring, and good rains from Monahans to El Paso were reported, with a lesser amount of fall between Monahans and Midland. Slightly more than an inch was recorded at Sloan field Tuesday night, with a "trace" this morning, but the fall in Midland was only .62. Rain that was gauged at from one and a half to two and a quarter inches fell in the south part of the county, near the Bryant place. IS CAUGHT IN HIGH WATER WEST OF HERE R. D. REFUNDING OF BONDS IS SAVING Interest Reduced, a Discount Made Of $6,500

Tax payers in Midland Independent School district No. 1 will be saved more than $26,000 as result of action of the local school board through cooperation of the state board of education. Midland high school bonds in the amount of $130,000 were refunded by securing money from the state department at a lower rate of interest, and in buying up the bonds the local board succeeded in discounting the principle by $6,500. The bonds were drawing five and one half per cent interest, whereas the new rate is only five per cent. The saving does not mean immediate cash relief but takes effect each year throughout the duration of retirement of the bonds. The loan secured from the permanent school fund, interest and increment from this fund being allowable for such loans by law. The department has an option on all such bonds voted but had allowed the loan fund to accumulate for the past two years. "In buying up the bonds, to take advantage of the lower interest, it was necessary for the local board to work through brokers, as the bonds had been resold to various buyers, and $11,000 worth of the paper could not be bought, this amount remaining out at the original rate of five and one-half per cent interest. The original bond issue was for $150,000, and the sum of $9,500 had been paid on the principal. This coupled with the $6,500 discount upon repurchase of the bonds, reduced the outstanding amount to $134,000. The $6,500 saving is included in the $26,000.

Opening of the four-day season on prairie chickens today sent Texas sportsmen into the brakes and prairies of West Texas for the bag limit of 10 birds. Wardens have reported game is plentiful. While the limit for prairie chickens is 10 for the four-day season, the limit for doves is 15 per day or 45 a week. Prairie chickens are particularly plentiful in Dawson, Terry, Gaines, Hemphill, Yoakum, Andrews and Martin counties. Wardens and scores of deputies stalked Texas hunting grounds today to enforce bag limits and statutes prohibiting shooting across, up or down roads, and the killing of game birds from an automobile, regardless of where the vehicle is located. The dove season begins the same day, and extends through October 31.

Etex Allowable Now 50 Barrels

AUSTIN, Aug. 31. (UP)—The railroad commission today ordered an increase of 50,000 barrels to the Etex field allowable. The per well allowable was raised to fifty barrels, effective at 7 o'clock Thursday morning, until November 1. CONVERTIBLE PLANE ROME—The Italian Air Ministry has taken delivery of the first of an order of two-seater convertible training planes. The plane can be transformed from a two-seater biplane to a combat monoplane at will. A 200 horsepower engine powers the craft.

CATTLE INSPECTOR IS HELD UP BY HIGH WATER

Joe Hogan, cattle inspector, returning from the Davis mountains, was held up over night as creeks arose behind and in front of him. He said traffic was held up between Fort Stockton and Alpine yesterday and that rains fell all the way here from Fort Stockton, Coynascoa creek, between Fort Stockton and Balmorhea, was a mile wide yesterday.

GOVERNOR'S RACE TABULATION

The following tabulation represents the last made by the Texas Election bureau, and shows the returns of counties at the time when a total of slightly less than 950,000 votes had been counted. The vote was complete from 220 counties, 34 remaining incomplete. This morning's report from Dallas said only eight counties were incomplete, but estimated that Saturday would be required for some of these to give their complete count.

CUT-OFF IS FIGURED TO COST MUCH

Breck Man Says Road Would Cost Million and Half

AUSTIN, Aug. 31. (UP)—With demand for investigation of the highway department and a call on the governor to submit the state salary reductions topic, the legislature today had already left the narrow channel defined by Sterling. The senate voted, 18 to 10, to request the governor to submit reductions. The house set consideration of highway investigations as a special order of business for this afternoon. The investigation was first test of its strength when the necessary two thirds voted to go ahead. The resolution, offered by Representative Gordon Burns of McCulloch county, asks the investigation of highway funds, the amounts of the fiscal year's expected revenue, actual construction, maintenance cost, the amount of outstanding road bonds and what, where and when the proceeds were used for. Bailey Hardey of Breckenridge broached the "Mineral Wells cut-off" topic and declared that it would cost a million and a half dollars plus the cost of building a bridge over the Brazos river.

COURT WOULD DECIDE VOTE IF CONTESTED

SAN ANGELO—If the gubernatorial run-off primary should be contested by either Ross S. Sterling or Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson the procedure would be similar to an election contest for a district office, with one exception, according to George T. Wilson, former assistant attorney general, now a San Angelo attorney. In answer to a specific inquiry Mr. Wilson said that a "split ballot" might be legally voted in the November election by simply crossing off the gubernatorial candidate not wanted, and then crossing off all except the name of the gubernatorial candidate on the opposition ticket. This would count the ballot, or the opposition gubernatorial candidate and for all of the rest of the candidates on the ticket of the name scratched.

WHISTLING COWS

Out in the cow country of Nebraska, Dr. Peter Johanna Christiansen has perfected an invention which seems likely to prove a boon both to cow owners and alfalfa growers. A cow's digestive tract is quite a complicated business, for a cow has four stomachs. But despite the extra equipment with which nature has endowed the cow, her eye is generally bigger than her four stomachs and the result is that bloating, often fatal, sometimes follows a hearty meal on alfalfa.

Now Dr. Christiansen has fixed it so that the cows can eat their alfalfa and have their health, too. By means of a perforated cylinder, fitted with a ball valve and spring, inserted into the cow's stomach, bloating is stopped before it starts. The alfalfa gas is allowed to escape—with a whistling sound—as rapidly as it forms. The thing works automatically, the valve opening when pressure reaches a given stage.

Farmers who have their sleep disturbed by the whistling will at least have the comfort of knowing that man has provided something for his cows which even nature forgot about, and that the "safety valve" is taking care of what might have been a very strenuous night for Bossy.

People are asking the identity of Colonel True, the fellow who keeps his readers from telling the biggest yarns. We don't mind letting the public in on this secret. He is exclusively a Reporter-Telegram writer.

Swapping Yarns with Col. True

Col. True maintains a standing invitation to others to write to him and tell of their own extraordinary experiences. No holds barred. Address Col. True, in care of The Reporter-Telegram.

Dear Col. True: My great-grandfather often tells me of the time he went up to the milky way in an airplane, to get milk to sell to his neighbors. He filled a pint bottle and said that it was the richest and most delicious milk he had ever tasted. After a hard night's work he was thirsty and decided to taste the milk again. He was surprised to find that it tasted like butter-milk. He was naturally puzzled and when he landed he found 23 pounds of butter on his propeller.

Sir: It is just for this purpose—the recording of true and unvarnished accounts of such unusual experiences as this that this department of The Reporter-Telegram is conducted. Historians, hampered by such uninteresting things as facts, are prone to ignore some of the most interesting things that happen, and the stories of these events have formerly been passed verbally from generation to generation, becoming distorted and exaggerated in the course of repeated tellings. I want to give you an example of how this lack of accurate records has transformed many true accounts of adventure into garbled and unbelievable tales.

BLONDIE of the Follies

By Frances Marion CHAPTER XII Mortimer Pratt was sitting on the arm of the divan, looking appraisingly at Lurline. Lurline comfortably stretched her legs below him when Larry and Blondie entered the living room. Lurline's description of the yacht was never finished, as the two came in, Larry singing gaily. "She was a village maiden, and her life was full of pain, till she met her little Larry. And she lost her heart again." As they approached the divan, Larry, with mock seriousness, said: "This is little Blondie McCune—Miss Cavendish. I've been dying for you two to meet socially. . . ."

WHAT HAVE HEALTH OFFICIALS DONE? The results of the work already done by health officials were clearly set forth in an editorial in a health magazine not long ago.

Health officials have established an accepted method of diagnosis and oratory which has been of inestimable benefit to the public and to the medical profession. They have been pioneers in the production and distribution of surgical products, such as diphtheria antitoxin. To them we give credit for stamping out the old time epidemics, cutting the general death rate in two, and in preventing millions of deaths.

replied coldly. "So long," they all chorused, but didn't wait for Lurline's reply, even if she had any.

When Blondie and Larry were ushered into their box at the theatre the curtain was already up. Blondie stood staring at the stage, wide-eyed and ager. The stage was so large, and so many people were in the number that Blondie it was a kaleidoscope of color and form and the most beautiful music she had ever heard.

Larry looked at her quizzically, then gently led her to a chair at the railing, but Blondie never took her eyes off the stage. Larry sat down besides her, and except for an occasional glance at the performance, watched her closely. During a lull in the brilliant number, Blondie asked in a whisper what it was.

"It's a ballet—it's supposed to be Paris—the artists give a ball once a year and it's a very gay affair—students and artists' models—they raise Cain . . ."

"Well, that was the ball we just saw, wasn't it?" Blondie asked, and then not waiting for an answer, "It was pretty gay—do people really cut up like that?"

"Sure they do. Didn't you like it?" "Yes—it was pretty to look at."

"Would you like to be in the Follies?" "But who would?" "Remind me to speak to Mr. Ziegfeld . . ."

"Aw, quit your kiddin'." "This then the scene changed, and Larry said: "This is the Palace de Concord in Paris—it's like our Fifth Avenue, and they're going home after the ball."

"Sure! Look!" "There's Lottie!" Blondie said excitedly. "My, but she's got a swell figure, hasn't she?"

"Wonderful," he replied, looking at Blondie and putting his arm around her waist. "Not bad . . . no, no, no bad!" he said.

"Quit now . . ." and Blondie pushed his hand away. "Oh, look! It's beautiful!"

While Blondie was intently watching the stage, there were others behind the scenes watching the box. As Lurline walked into the wings, a girl stepped up to her and in a loud whisper said: "Larry's in the box—he's got a dame with him—a blonde!"

"I know—she's a friend of mine," Lurline said quickly. "You're a bigger sap than I thought you were," replied the girl, moving on, and making way for some dancers ready for their act.

Blondie leaned back in the chair and revealed in the perfect rhythm of the bodies and the music. She could feel her throat tightening and little shivers of pleasure run up and down her spine. Almost to herself she said: "I love music . . . I've never seen anything like this before."

As the number ended, the door of the box opened suddenly and a man in a dinner jacket entered. (CONTINUED)

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES

YES, I MEAN IT, PETE! I WANT YOU TO GO BACK HOME.

BUT, I WANT TO HELP FIND BOOTS.

YOU CAN HELP BOOTS THE MOST BY HELPING ME AND YOU CAN DO THAT BY RETURNING AND KEEPING AN EYE ON MY SUGAR INTERESTS, WHILE I AM OUT OF TOUCH WITH THINGS, AND, INCIDENTALLY, I APPRECIATE THE FACT THAT YOU ARE SACRIFICING YOUR OWN INTERESTS IN ORDER TO HELP OUT HERE.

I UNDERSTAND HOW YOU FEEL, PETE! BUT YOU CAN SEE THAT EVERYTHING POSSIBLE IS BEING DONE TO FIND BOOTS! I'LL MISS YOU, OF COURSE, BUT THERE ARE OTHERS HERE WHO CAN TAKE YOUR PLACE... WHILE BACK IN EL DOZO, YOU ARE THE ONLY ONE WHO CAN HELP ME.

OKAY, BILL! OF COURSE YOU KNOW BEST! I'LL LEAVE PRONTO.

THERE'S A GOOD FELLOW! I SHAN'T FORGET ALL YOU'VE DONE FOR ME! GOOD LUCK.

Heads Up, Pete!

SLIP AND SPURT BRING CHANGE IN MAJOR LEAGUES

By CLAIRE BURCKY NEA Service Sports Writer CHICAGO—A king today—a tramp tomorrow! It goes like that in the struggle for posts of honor on the major league all-star ball teams.

Remember a year ago? Sid Keener, Stu Bell, Ken Fry, Tommy Holmes, Daniel and some more baseball writing fellows on the NEA Service board picked an all-major league team. Places of honor went to Simmons, Cuyler, and Ruth in the outfield; Gehrig, Frisch, Traynor and Cronin on the infield; Cochrane and Wilson back of the plate, and Grove, Earnshaw, Brandt, Derringer, Grimes and Ferrell, pitchers.

Now what? For one thing, Simmons and Cochrane are no longer the greatest hitters among the outfielders and catchers, respectively. Derringer was a fine rookie, but not so hot as a veteran. Grimes was grand last year and terrible this season. These gents have slipped, plenty. Some others have spurted.

You can name a half dozen left-fielders ready to take over Simmons' all-star job. Lefty O'Doul is the favorite. Others are Riggs Stephenson, Ernie Osrant, Joe Moore, Heinie Manush, Smead, Jolley, Johnny Stone and Joe Vosmik. It seems sacrilegious to count some of these fellows ahead of Al, but what can you do about it?

Most anyone would prefer Lloyd Waner, Earl Combs or Earl Averill to Cuyler in centerfield this year. The Cub flash is strictly out of it. Even Danny Taylor and George Davis, a couple of youngsters, have it on Kiki.

Ruth was the right fielder last year, but try to keep him on there another season at the expense of Chuck Klein. The slugger Phil is better than the Babe in every respect, except at the ticket window.

Brevities

Bryan C. Henderson, assistant coach of the Midland high school, was the principal speaker to the Lions club at the noon luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hamlett and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Landers of Westbrook may not have broken the season's fishing catch record while away to Peecos, N. M., but they did set some kind of a figure for mileage established in one day while on vacation.

Midland Golfers In B'Spring Play

The annual Labor day invitation tournament to be held on the Big Spring country club golf course is drawing entries from many West Texas towns, according to L. W. Croft, president.

Entries have been received from Lubbock, Cisco, Abilene, San Angelo, Lamesa, Odessa, Midland, Texas, Sweetwater and Brownwood.

Qualifying rounds will be played on Saturday, Sept. 3, the contest plays open Sunday morning and prizes being offered consist of three leather golf bags, a leather hand bag, two silver golf cups and a number of other valuable trophies and prizes.

Leaps to Death

Searching parties scoured fields near Annapolis, Md., for the body of a woman believed to be Miss Marjorie Fletcher (above) of Forestville, N. Y., who chartered an airplane, smiled at her pilot, and then leaped 2000 feet to death.
