Respite Granted Chief Red Wing From Electric Chair

STORY OF RED MAN STUDIED

Avers He Took Blame Of Killing to Save Another

AUSTIN, Nov. 18. (UP)—Chief Red Wing, an Indian condemned to die in the electric chair at Huntsville tonight, was saved today by a respite granted by Governor Sterling to permit officers to make further investigation.

Red Wing was condemned for the murder of Angelina Cavazos, two-year-old baby.

Red Wing told Adjutant General W. W. Sterling that he confessed the killing in order to shield the actual slayer.

Police expect another arrest soon upon the information given by Red Wing.

The slaying occurred in October, 1930, at New Braunfels.

Bizzell Gets Buck But Breaks Shoulder

Elmer Bizzell got a big buck, a bad fall from his horse, and a broken shoulder, all in one day.

The shoulder prevented him getting his limit, a custom he has observed religiously for the past few years, he said.

Bizzell, Dr. Jno. B. Thomas, Lee Haynes and Bennie Bizzell were hunting Monday in the foothills of the Chisos range.

They left their camp fire at 7:30, mounted. An hour later they had killed two bucks, one of them weighing about 200 pounds.

Bennie and Haynes got the big buck, shooting him from about 400 yards. They had missed him a few minutes earlier, at about the same distance.

Dr. Thomas and Elmer shot the small buck from about 325 yards. The big buck had 11 points, the smaller one six.

While Bennie and Haynes were trying to drag the carcass of their buck out of a canyon with their horses, Elmer went after another buck. In the low underbrush his horse stumbled and fell, breaking the rider's shoulder. The party expects to return to their "special place" near Marathon just as soon as Bizzell is able.

ITALY PLANNING FOR CONFERENCE THIS FEBRUARY

ROME, Nov. 18. (UP)—Italy is going to the Arms Limitation conference at Geneva in February of next year with a clear conscience.

Mussolini and Grandi, for many months, have been the leading disarmament spokesmen in Europe. If the conference fails—and Mussolini says if it does the world faces communitic chaos—Italy feels that she will not be to blame.

In order to prepare the way for a real reduction of military expenditures in Europe, Italy has suggested, at various times:

1. A one year naval construction holiday with France to promote a Franco-Italian naval understanding.

2. The abolition of battle cruisers over 10,000 tons.

3. If battle cruisers are abolished, the prohibition of future submarine construction.

4. A definite offer to reduce her armaments to any figure, no matter how low, providing no other European country has more—in their words equal disarmament.

5. Grandi's one year arms truce suggested at Geneva to last through the disarmament conference and designed to promote its success.

Thinking Peace

Aside from these concrete suggestions, Italy has been talking peace in a manner surprising and disconcerting to those Europeans who have always accused Italy of sword rattling.

The tone of Mussolini's speeches and writings for the past two years demonstrate conclusively that Italy considers disarmament necessary to the economic and political welfare of Europe.

Without undue exaggeration this peace spirit is contained in Italy's report to the League of Nations on her armed forces and military expenditures a document which the League requested for the preparation of the disarmament conference's labors. Italy's memorandum is a compact table carefully listing her strength in the various armed branches. There is no comment or attached reservations designed to make more difficult the work of the arms conference. It will be recalled that France appended to her figures a statement that the forces listed therein represented her minimum requirements, and further disarmament would be impossible without security pledges.

Restricted Army

In discussing her man power, Italy says that although the government is empowered to call a large number of men to the colors, "in harmony with the principle of reduction of armaments it has restricted its army to small dimensions." Each year Italy calls up less than 200,000 men for service in the army.

In addition to the total armed force the memorandum states that there are 85,098 officers and privates serving in national branches organized on a military basis—such as the National Fascist militia.

There are nearly 5,000 more serving in Italian colonies.

Of the total tonnage of 404,005 metric tons returned as Italy's naval figure, 87,917 tons are invested in four capital ships; 105,300 tons in 11 cruisers carrying guns of more than 6.1 inches; and 65,423 tons in 15 smaller cruisers. There are 86 destroyers, of a total of 91,701 tons, and 75 submarines, mostly of small displacement, of a total of 53,564 tons.

THINK CRAFT CARRIES DRUG OR RUM CARGO

EL PASO, Nov. 18.—A mystery airplane flying out of Mexico, a few miles south of Juarez and across the international boundary near El Paso about twice a week, has customs and narcotic agents puzzled.

Officers have been hunting a way to catch the plane where it can be inspected.

Narcotic agents say they believe the plane is carrying narcotics to east Texas or Oklahoma, and customs agents said they believe it is carrying liquor from Juarez to the United States.

Officers say the plane has landed several times on emergency landing fields on the Carlsbad road.

Arthur Johnson, municipal airport manager, said pilots from Mexico have tried to get near enough to the plane to identify it.

Apparently it is a fast Lockheed-Vega and faster than most planes, Mexican pilots say. The plane does not carry official numbers on its wings, as required by department of commerce rules.

The plane appears south of Juarez about every Tuesday and Thursday and flies across the boundary line east of El Paso. It is painted silver and is hard to see against the clouds or the sun.

Pilots say the mystery plane flies so high that it is hard to locate until too late to give chase.

Fighting along the Nonni river was described as the major battle. Three hundred Japanese were dead and wounded. Three hundred Chinese were killed and 3,000 wounded.

Battle Fought in Freezing Weather

MUKDEN, Nov. 18. (UP)—The Japanese army opened a battering offensive in the freezing, wind-lashed Nonni river sector today, rolling back the Chinese troops defending Tsitsihar.

The Japanese advanced to within the sphere of Russian influence in Manchuria.

General Ma Chan-Shan's defense lines crumbled before a combined attack of infantry, cavalry, artillery and bombing planes in sub-zero weather.

Casualties were reported to have been extremely heavy on both sides. Japanese headquarters announced that their troops had reached the Chinese Eastern railroad which is under joint control of China and Russia.

General Ma reported withdrawing of Tsitsihar, 25 miles north of the railroad.

Japanese troops are being heavily reinforced.

WANING JAZZ MUSIC

A New York dance orchestra leader complained the other day that present-day jazz music has lost its kick. Predicting that people soon will be sitting down to listen to the music instead of dancing to it, he asked plaintively: "What's happening to jazz, the music that's supposed to send hot and cold thrills down the spine, get feet to hopping around and get everybody excited?"

Probably a good many things have been happening to it; but quite possibly the chief thing is that the general emotional attitude of the nation at large has moved right out from under it. We are quieter now than we were a few years ago. Cold thrills along the vertebrae are not at such a premium as they were once. We are approaching a new viewpoint, and one of the results is that we like our dance music slower, smoother and less discordant.

Jazz came into its heyday just after the war. The nation then was in an abnormal emotional state. The wild jungle rhythm of the jazz band fitted its mood perfectly. The years of mushroom prosperity increased this feeling. Somehow, we got the notion that we were moving somewhere at a perfectly prodigious clip. All of the old ways were going to be discarded, and the man who saved his money and took thought for the morrow was simply a dolt. A new era was dawning. Stamp your feet, clap your hands and get excited—we're the children of tomorrow, and the sky's the limit!

Well, we've grown more sober and more wise in the last couple of years. We aren't all going to become millionaires overnight, perpetually rising stock values aren't going to relieve us of the necessity of being thrifty, and the chief problems of the ages are, after all, mainly unsolved. We had our party, and we've been suffering from a headache ever since.

So now we feel differently. Red-hot jazz music, hectic and giddy, no longer appeals to us as it used to. We're not quite so ready to kick up our heels as we were a few years ago.

LYNCH LAW

One of the most dismaying bits of current news is the report recently issued by the Southern Commission on the Study of Lynching. After a year's survey, the commission finds that there is a real doubt of the guilt of at least half of the victims of mob violence, and adds that the claim that lynchings are necessary because the courts fail to convict accused negroes is without foundation.

It is extremely salutary that this be brought home to us; yet the horrible truth revealed by the report is something to make the nation hang its head in shame. A real doubt as to the guilt of at least half the victims of lynch law! Could there, by any possibility, be a more completely damning indictment? Is there, conceivably, anything that the apologists for Judge Lynch can say in reply?

ABOLISHING MEXICO'S NAVY

A recent dispatch from Mexico City indicates that the Mexican government is considering abandoning its navy entirely. The present fleet, composed of an assortment of cruisers and old gunboats, is expensive to maintain, and its officers, in the past, have not been free from a tendency to mix in the revolutions which have disturbed the country so greatly.

But it would hardly be correct to say that abandonment of the navy would represent a step toward disarmament. After all, Mexico has very little need for a navy, and the Mexican government is simply recognizing the fact. The great grey fleets of Uncle Sam, odious as a patriotic Mexican occasionally finds them, are, in a very real sense, Mexico's ocean defense. No major power will ever be permitted to attack Mexico as long as those fleets exist. Why should Mexico bother to maintain a small and inefficient navy of her own?

Taxicabs Are Helping Solve the Unemployment Problem in the Capital; Tom Hefflin Is Likely to Speak Again in Senate.

WASHINGTON. — Taxicabs appear to have done more than anything toward solving the capital's unemployment problems. No figures are available, but virtually every unemployed Washingtonian who had an automobile with a back seat seems to have converted it into a taxi. Streets and avenues swarm with them and they soon became so plentiful that they drove the prevailing rate of fare down to 20 cents for almost any place in the District of Columbia that you care to go.

A friend and admirer of Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes saw him alight from his car the other day, assisted across the sidewalk and up the steps of his home by two other persons—one on each side. Greatly worried, he made extensive inquiries to learn whether the veteran jurist's health was poorer than commonly supposed. Finally he telephoned the residence and gets Holmes himself on the wire.

Holmes laughed. He said he had been out riding. The weather was cold and his legs had become stiff for that reason and no other. Hence the assistance. "You know, young man," he said, "I'm 91 years old and I'm not as spry as I used to be."

Charles Pergler, the American-born professor of law here who used to be a Czecho-Slovak statesman, and would be leading the National League factions in the parliament at Prague if the Benes administration has not injured him from his seat, thinks President Hoover gets off lightly when his critics merely accuse him of "abysmal ignorance." Although virtually exiled, Pergler and his ticket were overwhelming ly elected in the Prague municipal elections recently despite the ruling that Pergler was an American and not a Czech citizen. He displays a copy of Pitonkest, a national weekly friendly to Foreign Minister Benes, which attacks him at length and concludes:

"We wish him everything evil and a miserably just end."

As if the next Congress were not sure to be chaotic enough in any event, this capital is now considering the possibility that it will once more hear Tom Hefflin of Alabama on the floor of the senate. The complicating factor is that Tom is no longer a Senator. He was defeated by John H. Bankhead, who will take the Alabama seat when Congress meets, although Hefflin is contesting the election. Meanwhile, Tom, as a former senator, will have the privilege of the Senate floor. That means he can sit in the chamber, taking any seat not occupied at the moment. He is going to take advantage of the privilege, too, while the contest is being decided. Under the rules he cannot be recognized by the chair and is not entitled to speak above a whisper. But everybody here knows Tom. And that's why so many of us fear that this irrepressible orator, once on the floor, is likely to cause great parliamentary consternation by rising to spout as used to be his consistent wont. No one, in fact, is betting that Tom will be able to stand the terrific strain and remain silent.

Opera Company Plans Opening

MILAN, Nov. 17. (UP)—The world famous Scala Opera will open its winter season on St. Stephen's night, Dec. 26, with a new director and three new opera scores never before presented to the public.

During the summer the organization has been completely overhauled. Following the dismissal of Sig. Antonio Colombo, first woman opera director in Italy, and the appointment of Maestro Erardo Trentinaglia, of Venice, to the position. Music critics charged that Miss Colombo, during her one year as manager of the opera, had failed miserably. They pointed out that even America had to admit Mary Garden was a better singer than an opera director, after her attempt at directing the Chicago Opera some years ago.

The board of directors of the Scala gave no reasons for the dismissal of Miss Colombo, merely issuing an announcement that new ideas, new projects and new innovations would be tried under a new manager.

The choice fell to Maestro Trentinaglia who had made an outstanding success of "La Fenice" Opera House at Venice and who was, incidentally, a good Fascist since 1921. Although unconfirmed there are reports to the effect that the body controlling all operas in Italy will inaugurate an economy campaign to meet the trade depression. It is understood a scheme is under study whereby the leading artists will sing at several Italian opera houses during the season, instead of one as customary, a second rate company filling in while the headliner is playing elsewhere. This exchange of artists will allow each of the lead-

The Better 'Ole

A Side Glance From Real Life! Kid Would Sell Dog

EDITOR'S NOTE: As it stirred the hearts of millions of others throughout the nation, George Clark's appealing "Side Glances" drawing of the boy with the dog, stirred the heart of Jimmie Yorio when he saw it in the New York World-Telegram, which like this newspaper, is an NEA Service client and also publishes Clark's daily feature. The following story tells about it.

By NEA Service NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—All that Jimmie Yorio has in the world is his dog, Chickie. A lot of people would think Chickie a pretty ordinary mutt, but to Jimmie he's the blue-ribboner of dogdom.

Jimmie's been hearing much talk about the unemployed lately—at home where his junk dealer dad and his cigarmaker mother haven't had jobs for almost a year, and down around City Hall Park, where the jobless sit summing themselves while Jimmie hustles around shining shoes after school hours.

Then he saw a cartoon in The World-Telegram the other. It showed a kid like Jimmie giving his dog to be auctioned off for the unemployed fund. This set Jimmie to thinking. He couldn't help the unemployed with the pennies he earns, for there are six brothers and six sisters at home and often it's hard for Father and Mother Yorio to provide food enough for them all. But there was his dog, Chickie.

Jimmie marched down to the Emergency Unemployment Relief office at 401 Broadway, where Grover Whalen directs the East Side territory. Under one arm Jimmie carried a battered shoeshine box. Under the other, clutched tightly, was a brownkit mongrel with a bushy Chow and the ears of an Alaskan Husky.

"He's a Good Dog" "Please, Mr. Whalen," the voice of ten-year-old Jimmie piped up, as he handed Chickie to the startled divisional director. "I brought you my dog. His name's Chickie and he's a good dog. Maybe you can sell him and give the money to the people who can't find jobs."

And Grover Whalen, whose aids will raise several hundred thousand dollars in the lower East and West Sides in the next few weeks, reached across his desk and took the bewildered Chickie.

"I'll sell Chickie for you, Jimmie," he said. "I won't get as much for him as he's worth to you, but I'll get a hundred times more than a dog like Chickie ever brought before. I'll auction him off, Jimmie, to the highest bidder, and the money will be your gift to the jobless."

Mr. Whalen then told Jimmie that since the cartoon appeared a society girl had sold her own pet dog for $50 and given the money to his fund. While Director Whalen made plans for the auction to be held from atop a Salvation Army truck in front of Greenwich House, Jimmie went sadly and yet joyfully back to his dogless home.

Jimmie Yorio saw in the New York World-Telegram the drawing that George Clark, NEA Service artist, made to help relief funds in cities throughout the United States, so he gave his dog, Chickie, to auction for the unemployed. Jimmie is shown above presenting Chickie to ex-Police Commissioner Grover Whalen (seated) director of relief work on New York's East Side, while Irving Rosenbaum and Harry Schlaet, committee members, look on.

Swift Targets Easy for Army

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. (UP)—So precise are the new Army methods of artillery fire control that officers expect soon to hit targets moving at 45 miles per hour which are invisible to the gunners. Maj. Gen. H. G. Bishop, in his annual report to Secretary of War Hurley, said: "speedy targets when invisible from the gun positions has been devised and will shortly be promulgated into the service." Bishop's report summarized the advances of the last year in using radio communication to direct the fire of batteries, in developing efficient mounts on anti-aircraft guns and in standardizing army vehicles so that an adequate supply can be had quickly, in the event of war, from commercial manufacturers. "If the situation requires it," he said, "I want to be able to fill all motor requirements in the Field Artillery from vehicles which may be found on the streets of any American city and whose spare parts and accessories are found in a multitude of shops." American investments abroad total $25,000,000,000. The daily replacement of worn-out currency in the United States is about $10,000,000. Prices always lowest at McMullan's.

This Editorial Will Startle Here is a startling editorial that will like astonish everybody in Midland who reads it:

"It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for many years—not in the lifetime of most men who read this paper—has there been so much grave and deep apprehension; never has the future seemed so incalculable as at this time. In our own country there is universal commercial prostration and panic, and thousands of our poorest fellow citizens are turned out against the approaching winter without employment, and without prospect of it. In France, the political caldron seethes and bubbles with uncertainty; Russia hangs, as usual, like a cloud, dark and silent, upon the horizon of Europe; while all of the energies, resources and influences of the British Empire are sorely tried, and are yet to be tried more sorely, in coping with the vast and deadly Indian insurrection, and with its disturbed relations in China.

"It is a solemn moment, and no man can feel an indifference (which happily no man pretends to feel) in the issue of events. Of our own troubles no man can see the end. They are, fortunately, as yet mainly commercial; and if we are only to lose money, and by painful poverty to be taught wisdom—the wisdom of honor, of faith, of sympathy and of charity—no man need seriously despair. And yet the very haste to be rich, which is the occasion of this widespread calamity, has also tended to destroy the moral forces with which we are to resist and subdue calamity.

"Good friends, let our conduct prove that the call comes to men who have large hearts, however narrowed their homesteads may be; who have open hands, however empty their purses. In time of peril we have nothing but manhood, strong in its faith in God, to rely upon; and whoever shows himself truly a God-fearing man now, by helping wherever and however he can, will

Gilbert Swan reports the one about Will Rogers when he first began to attract attention in New York. He was in vaudeville at the time and Rogers among others was asked to do some of his wise-cracking for an uptown hostess who had the idea that she and her guests were better than the common herd. This woman telephoned Rogers and urged him to come.

"How much do you want?" she asked him. "Three hundred dollars," he replied. "That's too much but I'll pay it with the understanding that you are not to mingle with the guests," she said.

"Oh, in that case," Will replied, "I'll do it for two hundred."

This actually happened in Amarillo the other day. A woman called at a house and asked if she could have some old clothes. "I could give you one of my husband's old suits," the woman of the house said, "but the pants need a little darning."

"Oh, that's all right. I can come back tomorrow or next day," the other woman replied.

be blessed and beloved as a great light in darkness." What you have just read above is reproduced from an editorial that appeared in Harper's Weekly on Oct. 10, 1857! It preaches its own sermon in connection with the present economic situation. In July, 1857, conditions were normal. September marked the beginning of the depression. Seventeen months later, in March, 1859, business was back to normal. History repeats itself. August, 1929, was normal. September saw the beginning of the present depression. Today, in spite of much that is bad, there is evidence that conditions are on the mend. Depressions have occurred in our country many times. Every one I looked black and seemed unending. But every one has been followed by recovery and prosperity.

Old Patent Guards Roquefort Cheese

ROUEN, France, Nov. 17. (UP)—The name and integrity of Roquefort cheese, renowned for centuries, have been protected by French law. Several grocers have been fined for selling counterfeit Roquefort. The prosecuting attorney proved that the offending cheese, unless the genuine article, was neither made of goats' milk, nor made in the proper region.

He clinched his case by producing letters patent granted by King Charles VI in 1411 and King Charles VII in 1431 to the people of Roquefort allowing them only to call their cheese "Roquefort."

What a misnomer the word "living room" is when the words "Keep Out" might as well be hung on the door-knob as far as the children are concerned.

Plain deep-piled rugs or carpets that leave the definite outline of every shoe, polished untouchable furniture, curtains that hang hopelessly even—to touch them is sacrilege—books set in rigid rows toting a line, magazines in an even pile with the titles just showing at the top, "Hands Off!" they seem to scream. "We are for looks and looks only!"

Lamps set stiffly where they will show the best, regardless of utility, piano to be looked at, everything for effect and nothing for the comfort of the entire family.

Now I am a great advocate of parents' rights. I believe that certain things in the house are for parents and not for children, just as I believe that others are for the children and not for parents. Still more decidedly I believe in the right of the individual to keep private property intact.

For the Family "Club" But the living room is not one of them. It is, or should be, the club-room of the family. The untouchable all-for-looks parlor is as out of date as the glass covered wax flowers of our grandmothers.

This is what the committee on housing of the White House conference on Child Health and Protection recommends:

"The social and recreational area of the house includes the living room, ordinarily the dining room, living porches, library, play spaces and at times even the kitchen.

"The living room should be furnished for comfort, rest and relaxation, and with consideration for the desires and recreational activities of each member of the family. It should be attractive and should express spaciousness and hospitality.

"There should be comfortable groupings of furniture for social intercourse and for reading or study. Furnishing should include books, games, and at least one musical instrument. Other rooms used for recreational and social purposes should express many of the qualities of the living room."

Of course, children should be taught not to tear up—a regular Milder because they're fresh CAMELS are never parched or toasted!

FOLKS who smoke really fresh cigarettes made from choice sun-ripened tobaccos never have to give a thought to their throats. That's because such fresh cigarettes retain natural moisture—and are gratefully smooth, cool, throat-friendly, mild. Camels are the fresh cigarette—everyone knows that now—they're blended from the finest Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos that money and skill can buy. We would never dream of parching or toasting these choice sun-ripened tobaccos—that would only drive off or destroy the natural moisture that makes Camels fresh in nature's own mild way. The Camel Humidor Pack protects a fine cigarette fresh with natural moisture—it could do little or nothing to freshen a cigarette that is dried-out or factory-stale. If you smoke for pleasure, see for yourself what freshness means in mildness and flavor—switch to Camels for just one day—then leave them, if you can!

FOOTBALL CLASSIC OF SOUTHWEST FINDS TEXAS AGGIES READY

RIVALRY WITH TEXAS DATES TO TIME WHEN TOUCHDOWNS COUNTED FIVE POINTS; LONGHORNS AHEAD

By T. B. KETTERSON JR.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 18.—A perennial gridiron rivalry that began back in 1894 and which each year brings about what has become known as the football classic of the Southwest will blossom anew Thanksgiving day when the Texas Aggie and the Texas University Longhorns square off across the lime lines of the Kyle field greenward. Although both the Aggies and the Longhorns have been used more or less as stepping stones by other teams in the Southwest Conference pennant tussle this season, the Turkey day game is due to foment all of its old-time interest and a crowd of approximately 30,000 people is expected to be on hand when the piping of a whistle followed by the thrud of leather on leather starts the conflict. The record books of the games played between A&M and Texas teams are sprinkled with stories of hectic and thrilling games and reports of last minute upsets. Thirty-seven times the Cadets and the Steers have played, and twenty-three times the Longhorns have won. The Aggies captured eleven of the contests and three games ended in scoreless ties. Figuring from another angle, though, the Aggies have won ten games since and including 1909 and the Longhorns have won nine. One was tied. Since and including 1920, however, the Steers have won six games to the Cadets' four. One was deadlocked at the end.

Two breaks have occurred in the football relationship between the Aggies and the Longhorns. Each lasted for three years. The first extended from 1895 to 1897 inclusive and the second from 1912 to 1914 inclusive. "Varsity," as the Longhorns sometimes are called, won the first game in 1894 by a 38 to 0 score and won each succeeding game until the season of 1902. Two games were played that year and the first ended in a scoreless tie. The Aggies won the second 12 to 0, scoring their first points against the Steers as well as winning their first game from Texas. The 1902-1903 Longhorn student annual at A&M made little mention of this game, however, instead hailing the Cadets as Southern champions. "For years of honest effort," the Longhorn said, "A&M has at last earned her reward—the championship of the Texas gridiron—this year doubly important for it made her champion of the South. Although we did not play all of the Southern teams, yet in effect we defeated them. The 'Farmers' defeated the University of Texas 11 to 0 (records show that the score was 12 to 0); Texas defeated Sewanee 11 to 0; Sewanee defeated

Vanderbilt 11 to 0." The Longhorns again took the helm of football victory in 1903 and kept it until the 1909 season. The first of a two-game series was played at Houston and such stars as "Charlie" Dewar, "Choc" Kelly, "Mike" Balenti and "Dutch" Hohn led the Aggies in a 23 to 0 victory won in a sea of mud. Two weeks later the teams met again, this time at Austin, and a forward pass to Kelly gave the Aggies the only touchdown of the game in the third quarter. Touchdowns in those days counted five points and the final score was A&M 5, Texas 0. Following this game there were many incidents of student riots between the respective student bodies and a sign that Texas supporters had prepared and which read "Once in Seven Years" was captured by Aggie students and changed to read "Twice in Two Weeks." Concerning this second game, the 1909-10 Longhorn had the following comment: "Just after the first half ended Varsity rooters let go a balloon from their bleachers and thereby sent Varsity up in the air. This was put to proof when the second half opened. A&M went down the field for a touchdown in five minutes." The Aggies won the 1910 game also and ran their winning streak to three games, but hopes for a fourth straight victory were dashed in 1911 when Nelson Puett and Arnold Kirkpatrick led the Steers to a 6 to 0 victory. The 1911-12 Longhorn was forced to say "On Nov. 13 we met the University of Texas at Houston. The game was to have been the climax of one of the most successful seasons in the history of A&M. Alas! The Fates decreed otherwise. What should have been a brilliant victory was turned into bitter defeat." Rivalry had become so intense and so bitter between the student bodies by this time that athletic relations were severed until 1915 when the Aggies won a 13 to 0 victory in the first Aggie-Longhorn game to be played on Kyle field. ## SPORTS REPORTS

By R. C. HANKINS

Those who saw the Colorado Wolves and Midland Bulldogs play last season to a thrilling scoreless tie will be in the stands Friday to see what will happen, now that results "count."

A pretty aggregation it was that came here from the rivermen's town last season. The black shirts were aggressive, fast, clean and shifty. They were doped to win by anywhere from a dozen to 18 points. Harry Taylor, coach, believe his team would run through the Midland defense until it was tired. Even the most ardent fans of the Barrymen felt smitten with a sense of the inevitable, as one might well.

But things started happening, and in a big way. Every play launched by the Wolves faction bumped into misery. True enough, the Taylormen got close enough to the last chalk line to get lime burns, but the ball could not be pushed across. In the meantime, Midland was acting up. Pretty line plays, fast end sweeps, smart reverses and the like put Midland inside the rivermen's 20-yard line with a sort of monotonous regularity. But Midland could not shove across. That's the whole story—beyond the fact that a big crowd got so many thrills and prickly sensations they still shudder and scratch. The Sweetwater scribe makes an ill-advised statement about not believing what Bloddy Cross says about Angelo having little chance to beat Sweetwater. Without being able to point out the book, chapter and verse, we'd refer the scribe to everything Bloddy has written since the first of the season, all of which shouts defiance at a Mustang win on the Concho.

"Depression" has been shot. To those who did not cultivate the acquaintance of the fine young men and the pretty girls of Austin high school when its football team played here, Depression was the mascot of the group—a mangy, long-eared, slue-eyed hound. Official mourning marked the untimely end of the creature.

A banner year for football in Abilene, where Simmons appears "in" the T. C. Abilene shouldering its way to an almost certain district Coleman, and Captain Bennie Garity led the Aggie touchdown forays in this encounter against such Longhorn stars as "Pie" Dittmar, Paul and Bob Simmons and "Pete" Edmond. Since this game the rivalry between the Aggies and the Longhorns has been only of the friendly sort. Also since this time each team has been able to win but one game when playing on the other's home field.

One of the most brilliant of Longhorn victories probably was won in 1920 when a theretofore undefeated and unscored on Aggie scoring machine went down to defeat by a 7 to 3 county. The Aggies led 3 to 0 well into the last period when the Longhorns scored a touchdown and a victory. The Aggies had won 7 to 0 in 1917 and in 1919 and the Longhorns had won by the same score in 1918. The 1919 game saw such stars as Roswell Higginbotham, Arthur Knickerbocker and Jack Mahan for the Aggie in action. The 1920 encounter saw "Rats" Watson, Tom Dennis and "Iceky" Elam star for the Steers. Although the University was credited with having a "wonder team" in 1921, the best they could do against the Aggies on historic Kyle field was a scoreless tie. The Aggies later defeated Centre College in a post-season game and claimed the Southern championship.

In 1922 the Aggies won their first and only victory on Clark field in Austin and the Longhorns returned the "favor" in 1923 by winning their first and only victory on Kyle field at College Station. In recent years each team has dedicated a new stadium with a victory. In 1930 a pennant-bound Longhorn eleven smashed the Aggies 20 to 0, but the Cadets could recall victories of 28 to 0 and 28 to 7 in 1925 and 1927 respectively.

And A. Garland Adair, editor, had the following to say: "The McCamey-Midland football game is now a matter of history. The two high schools representing these two neighbors finally clashed on Midland's grassy grid. Both won. Midland made the highest score. McCamey received the laurels and plaudits of the day.

"It was a great game from the first whistle to final shot. Two splendid squads did their best and that is all any patron could ask. The only criticism heard was directed at the referee. He made McCamey score three times before her lone touchdown was counted. Midland made her markers fair and square and there was no question about them in the minds of those who saw the plays that won a field goal, touchdown and point after. McCamey's touchdown was the first one the local lads have made this season against Class A company."

Union Station Complete Town

CHICAGO, Nov. 18. (UP)—Few of the thousands of commuters and travelers, who pass through the Union station daily, realize that the huge building houses a jail, a hospital, a bakery, an ice cream plant, and an industrial soap factory. Both the hospital and the jail are miniature affairs, but none less completely equipped than are their larger brothers. The hospital is two rooms, equipped to handle four patients, three offices, and a supply room. It is staffed by the chief surgeon of one of the lines using the station, three assistants and four nurses. Opened in 1925, the hospital treats an average of three patients a day.

The two-cell jail, used by the station force of 25 policemen, has been utilized by state and federal officers many times since it was constructed. A score of men and women work in the station bakery to supply the pastry used in the six restaurants in the station. The ice cream plant has supplied 800 gallons of ice cream each week during the summer season. All of the soap used in the station is made in the basement, under the direction of the head janitor. Three huge vats and a mixing machine are used to supply the soap necessary to clean the floors and walls of the huge structure.

Now how would you like to eat a Leucocytosoon Anatis Wickware? Just another question that is rhetorical and not asked for an answer.

What did McCamey think "the morning after" under the head, "Great Game But Work of Officials. Bum," Bill Collins, sports writer, had the following to say in The McCamey News:

"It was a great game out here on the Midland grid this afternoon, and the Midland Bulldogs were indeed lucky to win by a ten to six score. The Badgers haunted an unending passing and running attack that held the Midland players and fans spellbound for the most of the game, and the outcome was undecided until the final whistle had been blown.

"Charlie Menefee was undoubtedly the star of the game, and with his long gains and defensive playing he was sensational. This was the first game in which Menefee has ever played in the backfield, and from the showing he made this afternoon it looks as though Coach Park has had him in the wrong position all the year. Aside from his long gains, Menefee was right in there on the defense, and on three occasions he stopped the Bulldogs from making touchdowns.

"Lawrence Colby was also right in the game, and he accounted for many gains for the Badgers. Colby is one of the best quarterbacks in the district and with good interference he would make the all-district with little or no trouble. This young man played today's game with a big hand, and he should be acclaimed an associate star of the battle.

"All the remaining players played with an added zeal today, and it was the fault of no one man that they lost the game. "The first quarter was scoreless, but early in the second period Midland made a beautiful play. It was a field goal from the 15 yard line. It made the score 3 to 0 in favor of Midland. Later in the same quarter Colby made a touchdown after the ball had been advanced to the one-inch line by Menefee, Robbins, Carl and Colby. The attempted try for extra point was no good, making the score 6 to 3 in favor of McCamey at the half.

"Toward the latter part of the third quarter, Midkiff of Midland got away for a nice gain and a touchdown, giving the Bulldogs a 10 to 6 lead after Hallman had added the extra point after the marker. The rest of the quarter went scoreless.

"The last chucker of the game was scoreless, with both teams battling in mid-field for the most part of the period. It was anybody's game but McCamey was unlucky in that they failed to receive the breaks, and they could not advance the ball with their own power. "Midland made 14 first downs to McCamey's 9."

Saunders, who ran through the whole Notre Dame team for 95 yards in that historic Chicago game in 1929, is not only a shifty runner but a smart defensive player and has won a home here.

The Packer players come from 20 different colleges and universities. When they come to Green Bay they are taught a modified Notre Dame system of football and so far it has been almost unstopable. The squad has 10 All-America players on it. They include "Red" Sleight, Purdue, '29; "Cal" Hubbard, Geneva, '25; Lavvie Dilwek, Marquette, '28; Frank Baker, Northwestern, '30; Russell Saunders, Southern California, '29; Nate Barrager, Southern California, '29; Tom Nash, Georgia, '27; Hurdis McCrary, Georgia, '28; and "Red" Dunn, Marquette, '26.

GREEN BAY, Wis., Nov. 16.—There are football teams and football teams—but a professional team from a comparatively small city in Wisconsin has won the championship of the National Professional Football League for two successive years, and has only been defeated three times in 43 games.

The three games the Green Packers lost were against the New York Giants, Chicago Bears and Chicago Cardinals last year. In 1929 the Packers came through the season undefeated. They trounced the New York Giants, led by Benny Friedman, twice, and the Chicago Bears, led by "Red" Grange, three times. The Packers were the only team in the history of the National "Pro" league to win the championship two successive times.

The Packers have played and won nine games this season. They left Green Bay the other day for an extensive road trip through the east. They are scheduled to play "pro" league teams in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Brooklyn and Portsmouth, O. They will be on the road four weeks, but the Green Zay and Wisconsin "pro" football fans are confident that when they return here they will have another national championship in their duffle bags.

The Packers are coached by Earl L. (Curly) Lambeau, a football pupil of Rockne and a halfback running mate of George Gipp. Heartley Anderson, present Notre Dame coach, was a lineman on that team. Lambeau is a Green Bay boy.

When the season ends early in December, Lambeau immediately begins building for the following season, and looks over the field of "pro" prospects—men who will graduate the following June.

Coach Lambeau has the knack of taking players cast off by other "pro" teams and making stars out of them; he also can take some players from a secondary school and groom him to compete with the best in the country.

The Packers' personnel changes from year to year. Every fall sees from five to six new faces in the squad. This year the Packers have such newcomers as "Hank" Bruder, star Northwestern back last year; Russell Saunders, All-America halfback at Southern California in 1929; Frank Baker, All-America end at Northwestern in 1930; Roger Grove, star quarterback from Michigan State; Milton Gantenbein of La Crosse, Wis., captain and All-Conference end on the Wisconsin varsity last year; and Waldo E. Don Carlos, center at Drake in 1930.

Reputations earned in college mean nothing to the paid "gridders." They take great delight in tossing some highly press-agented All-American chap for a loss. One of the best "pro" backfield prospects in years as far as the Packers are concerned is Saunders. Saunders, who ran through the whole Notre Dame team for 95 yards in that historic Chicago game in 1929, is not only a shifty runner but a smart defensive player and has won a home here.

The Packer games, played at City Stadium here, attract from 10,000 to 16,000 fans from all over Wisconsin and upper Michigan. For the Bear game, early this season, the stadium was sold out and 5000 requests for tickets were returned.

The Green Bay Football corporation owns the Packers. The corporation, a non-profit organization, is composed of Green Bay citizens. They come from all walks of life—barbers, railroad brakemen and conductors, machinists, paper mill workers, physicians and surgeons, dentists and lawyers. The affairs of the club are administered by a board of directors elected each year by the stockholders.

The president is usually some leading business or professional man, who serves without pay. If there are any profits at the end of the season, part is turned over to the American Legion, part of it is put back into the stadium, which was built with "pro" football profits and which the high school teams use, and part is put into the club treasury for use on a "rainy day."

The team is looked upon as a civic enterprise and no effort is made to show a big profit each season, although the Packers are the greatest drawing card in the "pro" league. Last year they played before 45,000 in the Yankee Stadium in New York. A few Sundays ago 35,000 saw them defeat the Chicago Bears, 6 to 2.

Old Laws Would Cause Trouble

STURGIS, Mich., Nov. 14. (UP)—It is unlawful to play any musical instrument on Sunday, or between the hours of 10 p. m. and 6 a. m., here, a reading of old statute books in the city offices has revealed. Numerous other laws, yielding a curious insight into the life of decades ago, were found to be still technically in force.

Kite flying was found to be expressly forbidden on certain of the main streets, while bicyclists were required to ring a warning bell at least 30 feet before meeting a pedestrian. The bell had to be approved by the city marshal, too.

Use of sling shots within the city limits was prohibited, while Ordinance 62 demands that "drivers of vehicles other than those motivated by horse, or other beast, shall stop some vehicle and steam or other motive power be shut off 10 rods from the horses approaching or approached and render assistance in enabling the horse team or teams to pass in safety."

Children under 16 were not permitted to loiter "in the streets, alleys, or other public places after 8

p. m. from April 1 to Sept. 30, and after 7 p. m. from Oct. 1 to March 31," unless accompanied by parents or a note of permission. A curfew warned children when it was time to turn homewards from the "streets, alleys or other public places."

A SLUGGISH liver requires stimulation. This stimulation should not be forced by drastic cathartics, but by a mild, dependable purgative that will encourage the hepatic functions, increase the natural flow of bile, induce digestion, and cleanse the intestinal canal. The "RED BIRD" liver pills are made from the prescription of a successful physician of Texas, having been used in his practice for many years, giving general satisfaction. Buy them from your druggist and be convinced of their usefulness as a family liver medicine. 214-1z

Letter Praises Work of Scouts

How the boy scouts are contributing their bit toward the solution of the complex social problems created by the depression is told by Marshall Field, 3rd, banker and financier, in a statement received here today by Claude O. Crane, publicity chairman of scouts. Field is a member of the national executive board and chairman of the National Committee on Operations of the Boy Scouts of America.

Field said: "Boy scouts look upon the present emergency as their biggest chance for service since the war. In the same spirit in which they gave their services in Liberty loan campaigns, and in other nation-wide activities during the World war, they offer their help in this winter's crisis."

"Working in full cooperation with community programs, boy scouts are engaging in many activities which range from collecting food and clothing for the needy to serving as uniformed messengers for relief committees. In no case do they perform tasks which normally would be done by employed workers. They are not permitted to collect money, nor do they receive pay for their services."

"Every boy likes to feel that he is needed, that he is a part of the things in his home, school or community. In the present emergency, boy scouts, in helping in their various communities, are but carrying out their ideal of service. There are many ways in which the enthusiasm and willingness of boys can be put to use in their own neighborhoods. While they are helping their community leaders in even the smallest tasks, they are learning in a concrete way what cooperation means. They are also experiencing the pleasure of doing something useful for someone else."

"The helpful service which the boy scouts are carrying on this winter is but a continuation of what they have been doing since the present crisis developed. Especially in the summer were they able to assist in local programs for relief. Many boy scouts gave up time during their holidays to pick fruit and vegetables, cart them to central distributing stations, collect fruit jars for canning, and make surveys of neighborhood surplus supplies which had been offered to the needy."

"Concrete services of this kind but call attention to the larger work of training for citizenship, which the boy scouts and similar organizations are carrying on through the country. Community leaders, in planning budgets in this critical year, should remember to make full provision for the work of the boy scouts and other recogniz-

Editor's Note: The following outlines the various grant schemes that are being practiced by solicitors in West Texas. The article, continued from yesterday, was prepared by the Midland chamber of commerce.

Charity appeals, through which you are urged to buy books or other commodities because the benefits are going to charitable institutions when the charitable institution does not participate, the amount is pitifully small. At any rate, you are expected to pay a very large price for the good received.

Registers, trade directories, etc., are frequently real "rackets". Some of these schemes go so far as to secure orders for large amounts of advertising when the unsuspecting customer thinks he is simply filling out a questionnaire.

Road maps, are sold with blank space for your advertising and you receive supplies of the maps. In view of the free road maps given by oil companies, motor clubs, etc., expert opinion places the value of road map advertising, even when honestly secured and paid for, to be nil.

Who's Who publications of many classes present a graft that appeals to personal vanity. This is another scheme where the hidden order is frequently used and is susceptible to all sorts of abuses.

Time books, year books, radio logs, directories and shippers guides, are pushed by some sixty organizations with representatives traveling the country securing advertising for such publications. The actual advertising value is usually entirely out of proportion to the cost and many are gross misrepresentations.

So-called railroad magazines have been for years, and probably still are, an exceedingly fruitful source of high-pressure salesmanship for advertising and very little benefit, and generally do not have the backing claimed.

Sheriffs' and peace officers' magazines are handled frequently by promoters who assume the business of getting out such magazines without any authority. In certain instances they have gone so far as to organize and conduct a convention at which they will have a few peace officers and for which thousands of dollars in advertising have been secured.

The charity bandit is a name that may well apply to a great number of people who travel the country securing the sponsorship of local organizations for cook books, programs, year books, menu covers, church song books, etc. The promoter usually makes the money and the local organization gets the experience, which is frequently very unhappy. Contracts are entered into without careful consideration of the items included or proper investigation made of the promoter.

Heavy Movement Of Expatriates

LAREDO, Tex., Nov. 18. (UP)—A heavy movement of Mexican repatriates returning to Mexico from the United States continues during November despite the fact that all existing records were broken when 7,213 repatriates passed through the Laredo port in October.

More than 200 persons have been going through here to Mexico daily during this month, immigration officials announce.

Mexican immigration officials in Nuevo Laredo estimate that about 30,000 Mexican repatriates will enter Mexico through Laredo during 1931, and that the grand total through all ports along the entire border will be in excess of 100,000.

Most of the Mexicans arriving in Laredo are those who for many years have been engaged in agricultural pursuits in Texas and other states.

"Leathernecker" Now at the Grand

A regulation Marine Corps parade ground, large enough for a battalion of soldiers to drill in close formation, was constructed on one of Radio Pictures' sound stages for "Leathernecker," now showing at the Grand.

The grounds were equipped with two 3-inch artillery pieces; four old-fashioned 4-inch lanyards (Reveille guns), flag pole, bugler's megaphone and other regulation service accoutrement.

"Leathernecker," a comedy of marine life in Honolulu, was adapted from the stage play, "Present Arms." Featured in the cast are Irene Dunne, Ken Murray, Louise Fazenda, Ned Sparks, Lilyan Tashman, Eddie Foy Jr., and Benny Rubin.

AT BEAUTY SHOP

Miss Ruth Miller of The Vogue Shop, Big Spring, will be at the Scharbauer Beauty Parlor all day Thursday when special prices on permanent waves will be offered. Only a specified number may take advantage of the rates, ads point out.

of people who travel the country securing the sponsorship of local organizations for cook books, programs, year books, menu covers, church song books, etc. The promoter usually makes the money and the local organization gets the experience, which is frequently very unhappy.

Boys Not Safe From "Babies"

NEW YORK.—The modern college girl deliberately cultivates the reputation of being a "red hot baby," and according to Dr. William Moulton Marston, visiting professor of psychology at Long Island university, "no college boy is safe from the attacks of co-eds."

Women in taking this so-called "brave" attitude, Prof. Marston said today, have merely abandoned an age-old pose of "Victorian timidity."

He believes the sexes have changed their professional status, that the hunted has become the hunter, that men students have more ideas about women than about themselves, and that a majority of men prefer to be "unhappy masters" rather than "happy slaves."

The psychologist found that men students consider women all gold diggers at heart, and that women students view all men as "patronizing" or "egotistical."

Not a single man, the survey shows, wants a "perfect love affair" in preference to a million dollars, but 92 per cent of the women want love.

Hot Fluids Are Aid to Sleep

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Nov. 18.—(UP)—Does coffee keep you awake nights?

A practical test conducted by the hospital staff of the California state prison at San Quentin would indicate the answer should be in the negative, providing a person is normally healthy.

In a report including the results of the novel coffee test, it was pointed out that "there is an indication that the taking of hot fluid on going to bed induces a more restful night than when not taken. There also is an indication that the taking of coffee on retiring induces a more restful night than when no coffee is taken."

In making the survey, a device was made by inmate technicians to record the movements of and changes of position of the subjects during sleep.

Seven men were selected for the tests. These men were considered excellent subjects, in that they were all in good health, their daily routine varied only slightly, they had no alcohol or other stimulants, and had retired every night at the same hour during their imprisonment.

For the first 18 days of the procedure a normal was established, during which the men retired each night at a definite hour, without taking nourishment of any kind. For the following 10 days a cup of hot water was given each one before he retired, and during the 10-day period following, a cup of coffee was given each subject.

For the period when no nourishment was taken on going to bed, the mean average number of movements per hour of sleep was 9.8. When hot water was given, the average went down to 8.5, and when each subject drank a cup of coffee, the average was further reduced to 7.3 movements per hour.

"While the results obtained cannot be construed to apply to each particular individual, they do give an indication applying to normal healthy persons," the report pointed out.

Boy Invents Light System

PARIS, Nov. 12. (UP)—A bad boy's prank has proved the key to a worthy invention, according to Jacques Arthuys, who conceived a new sun-lighting system from his own youthful misdeeds.

Flashing a piece of mirror about in a sunshiny window to land a glaring light in teacher's eye or on Sally's slate gave young Jacques an idea that may make him a millionaire. If a tiny piece of broken mercuric glass could make such a bright spot in a dark room, then why couldn't a large piece of mirror in the same sun light up a large surface of a dark room? That was the theory upon which the young inventor went to work.

The finished product, as it has been installed in the newspaper plant of "L'Intransigeant" by its author and inaugurated recently by Louis Rollin, minister of commerce, is called Arthel. It is a combination of mirrors and lenses and lights the interior of the building with a phosphorescent glow. From a skylight on the roof of the central stairway solar rays are reflected back from a mirror bowl on the ground floor, acting as a fountain. Smaller, angled mirrors on each floor catch the strong descending rays and flash them back along the ceiling of corridors and rooms.

"After the initial installation of the two huge mirrors in the roof, there is no upkeep except washing them," said M. Arthuys. "Paris has an average of 120 days of sunshine, which is a third of the year, and during that time this system will save a great deal of money. There is also an attachment which switches on the electric light when the sun goes under a cloud," he concluded in explaining his apparatus.

Installed in private homes, the rays could be filtered through a cooling process in summer. In the winter the unfiltered rays would furnish heat for the house as well as illumination in otherwise dark rooms on bright days.

PROFANITY NOTICE

ODESSA, Nov. 18.—The Earl S. Bailey post of the American Legion here has published an order prohibiting the use of profanity and obscene language in the meeting place of the post. "The legion is a respectable and worthy civic organization, bent on doing good for the entire community as well as for the ex-service men of this section," reads part of the ruling. The post has done much good here, and has aided greatly in bringing happiness to the needy.

Buffalo Herds Ended Ranches

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Nov. 18.—(UP)—The great herds of buffalo, which once roamed the Western plains, were indirectly responsible for the breaking up of the great cattle ranches of Montana.

Hunters by the score slaughtered the shaggy beasts for their fur during the first half of the 19th century. They left the skinned carcasses of the animals lying on the ground where the kill was made unless the hunter happened to be out of meat then he cut away the tongue and the hump of the animal.

Later when the Union Pacific railway was being built, buffalo meat came into demand to feed the thousands of laborers. Soon the prairies almost became covered with the white bones of the slaughtered buffalo.

A settler happened to think that the bones could be utilized as fertilizer and hired Indians to collect them. The Indians were paid $4 for collecting a wagon load of bones and delivering them to the nearest railroad shipping point. Soon bone gathering became one of the principal industries of the West.

After a time it became difficult for the Indians to find a large supply of bones easily and some bone hunter conceived the idea of burning off the long prairie grasses to make the bones more visible.

The burning off of the grasses sounded the death knell of the cattle baron because he depended on the sun cured hay to feed his thousands of cattle during the winter months.

The lack of winter feed compelled the cattle men to ship their stock to ranges where there was adequate feed. The price of cattle was so low that the cost of transportation consumed the small margin of profit on the low grade range cattle with which the ranches were stocked, consequently the Montana cattleman was compelled to turn to smaller herds of better quality cattle.

Dam Workers Must Wear "Tin Hats"

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Nov. 18. (UP).—War equipment is in vogue at Boulder City, near where workmen are constructing Boulder dam. Fifty dozen "tin hats" have been ordered by the Six Companies, Inc., for every man on the job.

None of the workmen will be allowed in the canyon below without one of the "hats." Falling rocks have done damage to heads, they say.

Lakes Reported to Be Drying up Fast

RENO, Nev., Nov. 18. (UP).—Nevada is going dry, not in a prohibition way, but waterless.

The level of Pyramid lake, which is about four miles northeast of here, has dropped nearly 55 feet in the last 60 years. In the last four years the level has dropped more than 14 feet.

Pyramid isn't the only vanishing lake in Nevada. Together with Walker, Winnemucca, Washoe and Tahoe, the levels are dropping at tremendous rates.

OSTER HEARING

TEXARKANA, Ark., Nov. 18. (UP).—A hearing on the ouster suit against Sheriff R. W. Turquette, of Miller county, Ark., is set for Friday, Nov. 20, in Miller county circuit court.

Instituted in August by Prosecuting Attorney Millard Alford, the suit charges that the sheriff is not a qualified elector, having failed to pay his poll tax during a specified time.

Sheriff Turquette has held office since July 30, having been appointed by Governor Parnell two days after the fatal shooting of Sheriff Walter Harris.

Wireless telegraph service has been established between Buenos Aires and Chilean cities and with Spain.

"My dad's dead and my dad's got all she can do without having a pair of shoes made special for me," Harry said as he exhibited the biggest pair of feet seen here since the circus came to town.

Harry needed size 18 1/2-D shoes and none were to be found in shoe stores. A shoe manufacturer volunteered to make a pair, and after a two weeks job, figured the cost was $85.50.

Reward Paid for Exploding Bomb

MARION, Ill., Nov. 18. (UP).—When a bomb was found on the porch of the home of Shannon Holland, president of the defunct First National bank, Marion, authorities were undecided as to what to do with the infernal machine.

The county board of supervision decided to offer a $10 reward to anyone who would destroy the bomb without destroying life or property.

Monroe Owen applied for the job and took the bomb into an orchard. Placing it in the fork of a tree, he walked back several paces and fired a shotgun at it. The shot exploded the bomb and scattered tree and earth beneath for a considerable distance, but he won the reward.

Numerous tests indicate that no snake ever strikes a greater distance than about three-fourths of its length.
