POLICE GUARD GRANDI

Spectators Boo Him; Fight Is Quelled By Police

NEW YORK, Nov. 20. (UP)—A thousand police guarded the streets today as Italian Foreign Minister Dino Grandi arrived for a visit.

One group of spectators booed Grandi. Mounted police rode into a crowd when Albert Cuppelli shouted "assassin." Cuppelli was then attacked by John Lucci. A dozen Italians were fighting when police arrived.

Following rumors of a bombing, special guards were placed about the J. P. Morgan company Wall street office where Grandi was to confer today.

Builds Herd From Noted Odessa Strain

ODESSA, Nov. 20.—Roy McCauley of Pearsal, Texas, came to Odessa seeking cattle for building his registered herd. "Dandy Domino," Hereford bull who was champion of the three-year-old class at the Highland Purebred show at Marfa last month, belonging to John M. Gist of Odessa and Midland, was sold to McCauley.

Big Still Taken South of Pecos

PECOS, Nov. 20.—Federal prohibition authorities bolstered by county officials this week discovered one of the largest liquor plants ever found in this part of the country.

The plant, consisting of a 400 gallon still and a 50 gallon still, was hidden in a mesquite thicket on the prairie between Pecos and Fort Stockton, about 35 miles south of here. Officers found seventy-five 70-gallon barrels; 17 gallons of whisky; 2,550 gallons of mash; 900 pounds of sugar; thousands of fruit jars and other paraphernalia. The plant was believed to have been a source of liquor for a wide circle of towns in this vicinity. One man was arrested.

Oil Scouts at Well Shooting

Oil scouts of practically every major company with headquarters in Midland left this morning for the John F. Shipley et al No. 1 Monroe, Ward county, which was scheduled to be shot this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The well was deepened an additional three inches Wednesday with no apparent change. Still having 2,000 feet of oil in the hole. When run to the bottom yesterday, the bailer came up only one-fourth filled with water, indicating that a small amount of water was drilling and not bottom hole water.

Legion Elects 5 New Directors

Five directors, C. B. Ligon, Otis A. Kelly, J. S. Schow, T. R. Abbott, and Andrew Wilson, were elected by members of the American legion in a meeting Thursday evening.

The following officers were installed: J. A. Seymour, commander; Byron Standler, first vice commander; Dulaney Ward, second vice commander; Neal Staton, adjutant; Fred Middleton, finance officer; Dewey Pope, sergeant-at-arms; W. E. Pigg, chaplain, and Charles Berry, service officer.

A donation of $5 was made by the legion to the Midland community welfare association.

Washington
 By Rodney Dutcher Letter

As if All Figuring on Debt-Repairs Problem Went for Nil, Statesmen Are Going to Figure It Out Again.

WASHINGTON.—The long history of the debts-reparations problem has been described both as tragic and comic.

The world's great statesmen and financiers of the last decade have all had their fingers in it, and now they are going to figure it all out again.

Once there seemed to be an Allied theory that a hundred billion dollar indemnity might be collected from Germany. But since then a reparations commission, the Dawes Plan, the Young Plan, the Hoover moratorium have all taken their hacks at the huge sums involved in payment of reparations and debts. And now it is the common theory that the whole account will have to be wiped off the slate. If that is true it would appear that so many great statesmen and financiers were never before so unanimously wrong on a single issue.

Several facts which might be classed as absurdities have become increasingly clear since Premier Laval visited President Hoover and the two men worked out some sort of an understanding about a combination debts-reparations bill. Take for example the phrase, "the capacity to pay." It has been used in fixing reparations schedules and it was the keynote of our own debt funding negotiations which in effect canceled 30 per cent of the British debt, 60 per cent of the French debt and 80 per cent of the Italian debt.

The theory appeared to be that capacity to pay would remain static. Instead, it is estimated that while French "capacity to pay" has greatly increased, Britain's has dropped to the point where, if it were fair to charge 70 per cent of her actual debt then, she should be assessed no more than 25 per cent now. The funniest thought in this connection is the idea that France might be induced to increase her debt payments because of her improved "capacity."

A general re-examination of everybody's "capacity to pay"—first of Germany's—is understood to be on the program. The initial question will be whether Germany now cut and the debt foreign private loans, will have any capacity at all—or enough not to make previous estimates seem ridiculous by comparison. Germany will never resume reparations payments if she can help it, and France will try at all costs to retain the $100,000,000 a year which represents the difference between present reparations payments to her and the debt payments she makes to England to the United States.

It seems, from this side of the ocean, as if at the end of the "Hoover Year" the whole situation would prove to be badly "frozen." And just how the ice on the international pond will ever be broken is something no frank, intelligent authority here is prepared to know.

The sour thought which has been slowly sinking in for several years and rapidly sinking in quite recently is that American private loans of between two and three billion dollars to Germany have financed the Germans' reparations payments which provided the Allies with their international barter to this government.

The international bankers have been down here arguing with Hoover that it may be possible to save the private loans, but that we can't save our war loans. The prevalent attitude in Congress appears to be that the war debts are a debt to the American people and that the bankers should be told to go chase themselves.

NO, NOT LINCOLN

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP).—Because a "tall, skinny gempmum" at looked like Abraham Lincoln" forcibly ejected her from her home for failure to pay rent, a 50-year-old negro woman lived out under a tree for a while.

"I paid what I could when de rent man come aroun' but hit warn't enuff, I reckon. De Lan' lord come to my house an' snatched by screen doah offen de hinges an' come bustin' into my home.

"He went nex' doah an' called de law. One of de men was a tall, skinny gempmum 'at looked like ol' Abe Lincoln, but he didn't ack dat way. He and de othah law grabbed me, but what I was layin' on an' carried me an' de bed right out thru de doah. Then they got my othah furniture an' thowed hit over yere beside me."

The woman's cousin had rigged up a quilt as an awning to shield the negro from the sun. Her other furniture, beside the bed, was on the ground around her.

Park Your Guns Outside, Gentlemen!

In for Life, Twice-Convicted Convict Happy in Breeding and Treating Birds

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Nov. 20. (NEA)—In the federal penitentiary here to which Al and Ralph Capone Chicago gangsters, have just been sentenced for income tax frauds, there lives a twice-convicted murderer who is finding new joys in life.

For Robert Stroud, life convict, and world authority on the breeding and diseases of canaries, may continue to listen to the warbling trill of his birds. Stroud has won a long battle with prison authorities over whether he should continue to raise the canaries for sale in his solitary confinement cell.

A loophole has been found in a recent order which prohibited federal prisoners from transacting business with the outside world. The governmental ruling was followed by a storm of protests from persons who had become interested in America's strangest convict, Mrs. Elizabeth Stroud, 71-year-old mother of the slayer, led the fight to have the government rescind its order on the grounds that her son's canary business provides her with her sole means of support.

While prison authorities did not find it expedient to rescind the order, they did rule that proceeds from the sale of the canaries could be placed in the prison fund, and that Stroud could be paid a salary for raising them.

The story of Stroud and his canaries is one to put Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde to shame for contrasts in a single man's character.

When he was 18, he pleaded guilty to the slaying of a rival for the affections of a woman of 40, and was sentenced to 12 years in prison. Within a month after his arrival at the McNeil Island penitentiary in Washington he stabbed a fellow prisoner and six months more was added to his term.

Stroud was then transferred to Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and for three years was a model prisoner. He obeyed the prison rules and added to his meagre earlier education by taking correspondence school courses in rhetoric, music and drawing. There can be no doubt that he showed unusual talent in all three.

And then, just as it seemed that Stroud had determined to salvage himself from the human scrapheap, he killed his second man, Robert Turner, prison guard, was his victim. The guard was slain by a stab from a table knife, and after two mistrials, the convict was sentenced to hang.

As his mother spent her last penny in an effort to save him from the gallows, Stroud played checkers as he listened to the carpenters build the gallows on which he was to hang.

Finally, on the eve of his execution, President Wilson heard his mother's plea, and commuted his sentence to life imprisonment in solitary confinement.

Apparently as undaunted by this turn of events as he had been when there seemed little hope for his life, Stroud began painting pictures and selling them for his mother's support. But his eyes began to fail, and Stroud once more faced life which might become no more than day after day of staring at four blank prison walls.

Then one day when Stroud was "getting his exercise" in the prison yard he caught two young sparrows which were in the yard. He took them to his cell, taught them to "play dead" at his command, and conceived the idea of raising canaries in prison. A short time later he was in the canary business in earnest.

Again he was apparently balked when his canaries began dying by the dozens from diseases. And again he found a way out. He discovered remedies for these diseases, and his discoveries were hailed with delight by bird lovers in all parts of the world. He wrote articles for the leading pet-bird publications, the readers, little dreaming that the author of these scientific treatises on bird disease remedy and prevention was a life in solitary confinement in Fort Leavenworth penitentiary.

His business grew and his profits increased. Although there seemed little possibility of his ever leaving prison he had found a way to provide for his mother, and a work which he found intensely interesting.

Then came the government order which meant, in effect, that Stroud would have to give up his canaries and his magazine articles. But the convict's story was too well known by this time for his case to go unnoticed.

His organizations familiar with his work, and with the plight his mother would find herself in if Stroud were compelled to quit the canary business, got busy and official Washington was bombarded with protests. It is said that one or two United States senators interested themselves in the case and joined their voices to the others decrying what they termed "a needless blow to a man who had already suffered the tortures of the damned."

Prison officials found the loopholes, and now Robert Stroud will continue to raise his canaries and write his articles for the magazines.

AND MISS MILEY?

Mrs. A. M. Barry fell and sprained her right ankle on Monday, Nov. 16, but it did not keep her away from school. She returned in due time to hear her classes of the afternoon, after having been taken to have her leg bandaged. If it is possible, Mrs. Barry will be on the job at all times. She is one teacher who never lets her work go slack. The school is proud of such teachers, for it is this kind of teacher that keeps the school going. We hope that before long her foot will be well so that she won't have to hobble around, though she keeps on the job at that.

These teachers must be sickly. Mrs. Barry got an ankle sprained, Mr. Lingo has such a cold he can hardly talk, and Miss Mullino has appendicitis.

WHOOZIT?

Last week's Whoozit: Pauline Ashmore, senior girl; Bettie Ruth Golladay, junior girl; Audrey Tickner, sophomore girl; and Isabelle McClintic, freshman girl.

Tall, heavily built, giant of Midland high school. Has brown hair, and oh! how he loves that senior girl. (Senior boy.)

Tall, slender, brunette, with grey-brown eyes. A geometry star. (Junior girl.)

Brown hair and blue eyes. He was fond of a blonde at the beginning of school, but now he's fond of something not quite so romantic—the ranch. (Sophomore boy.)

She has brown hair and brown eyes. Boy! that "brother of hers" surely has to swallow the keys when they attend a party. (Freshman girl.)

Notice to Students: Next week is test week.

Chrystelle Steele is attending school here now. She has been attending Colorado high school.

Fred Barnes is a new student at the high school. Barney Grafa has been absent this week.

All the girls wanted Bill to take their pictures Wednesday noon. For popularity, everyone should bring his camera.

We notice certain boys hang around the foods room every afternoon.

I believe all the football boys limp around to get the girls' sympathy.

The three wreck victims seemed to be all right Monday morning. We saw Herman and Frances walking together Tuesday after school. John seemed to enjoy Jessie Lou's seeing him making a touchdown Tuesday.

Beulah Mae claims to be a good cook; step up Bill.

It's hard for the pep squad girls to get to school at 7:30.

Miss McKenzie is interested in what place she has on the stage.

Margaret Parks is going to surprise Van. She's fallen for our football boy, Tom Collins.

Mrs. Barry sprained her ankle, and Mr. Henderson carried her to her car. Immediately afterwards, Miss Solomon walked all over the school grounds, trying to sprain her ankle.

Miss Rippy says she has a new S. L. but she won't tell.

Conrad is surely rushing Frances. Read still likes Odessa. They surely have attractive Senior pins from there.

While her father was gone deer hunting, she went down to

When I walked to town this morning, I couldn't keep my mind off the thin places in my clothes. I was self-conscious.

"Svengali. His eyes make Trilby his slave." (Theatre ad.) Nothing so new or different about that. I've seen eyes that would make Trilby crawl on the floor.

There are men around here who will bet, but they are not gamblers, it is reported. Any time they can get a cinch they are ready to lay their money.

Shorty, our job printer, set a circular and it looked so good to him that he thought the merchant ought to run it in the paper. That's what he thinks of his own work.

Baxley is planning to leave soon for his old home, Kentucky. When asked what time of the year was best there, he said it was best around Louisville about the first of May. That boy's a race horse fan.

TIDE TURNS FOR BETTER AS AMERICAN GOLD LOSS HALTS

By ALLARD SMITH
 Executive Vice President, of Union Trust Co., Cleveland

Fundamental developments have continued to range themselves upon the favorable side of the economic picture. As a result there are growing indications that the tide is turning in general sentiment, compared with the dark forebodings of a few weeks ago.

What are the outstanding tangible events which have given rise to increasing confidence? Some of them are as follows:

1. The unprecedented loss of gold by America in October has been stopped.
2. Prices of wheat and some other commodities have rebounded.
3. An improved tone in steel and some other industries is beginning to be apparent.
4. Stock and bond markets have been somewhat firmer.
5. The European picture is better following the Hoover-Laval meeting.

and the election of a stable government in Great Britain.

This series of events does not prove that all obstacles have melted away, but it does show why confidence is beginning to revive.

During October the rest of the world was taking gold away from this country at a rate never before witnessed in history. For the month, total gold exports amounted to $438,000,000. Since Sept. 16, the monetary gold stocks of the country were reduced by $716,000,000. This outward movement has now practically declined as the world has become convinced that the American financial structure is impregnable.

Notwithstanding the large exports of gold, the country still holds nearly one-half all the monetary gold in the world. The amount of the metal is far more than sufficient to provide all the banking credit needs of the country.

Bugs Furnish Money For College Youths

PLATTEVILLE, Wis., Nov. 12.—Three youths are attending Platteville State Teachers college because of their ability to catch butterflies, moths and other bugs.

Last year they sold more than $1500 worth of the captured insects. The sales for 1931 will not reach this figure, Leslie Beadle, the student who originated the business, said. Disease among bugs during the past summer has cut down the supply, he said.

George Kettler and Leo Speth be-ber and football star in her home room that she can't keep her face turned to face the front of the room, as they sit at the back.

We have another senior-freshman affair—Lorena Gann and Fred Hallman.

Linnie Laura likes H. L. Haag.

Mr. Lingo does not assign long lessons.

Some Latin freshmen were not pleased with their initiation.

Phyllis does not believe Mr. Barry's story about the Wiffenpoof.

M. D. and Speck always agree, especially about band music and bicycles.

Bessie has fallen for G. B.

Miss Rippy got a call from New Orleans Sunday.

Evening Party at R. E. Witty Home Is Compliment to Mr. and Mrs. R. Clark

Mr. and Mrs. Rawlins Clark, who were recently married in Colorado, were guests of honor at a gala evening party given by Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Witty Thursday at their home. The entire entertaining suite was adorned with fall flowers of chrysanthemums, winter daisies, apple blossoms and roses.

Six tables were appointed for all kinds of interesting games, including puffed billiards, old maid, authors, pit, Dr. Quack and later, bridge.

The evening's prizes were won by Mrs. Francis Macatee and Mr. Barney Smith. Guest prize went to Mr. and Mrs. Clark.

For refreshment service tables were centered with pink and green vases of shaggy white chrysanthemums. These were won as favors by Mrs. Jim Williams, Mrs. Barney Smith, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. A. J. Florey, Mrs. Clinton Dunagan and Miss Nina Roberts.

Salads in chrysanthemum cups and heart-shaped sandwiches were on party plates passed to Messrs. and Misses. J. B. Lovejoy, Clinton Dunagan, A. E. Horst, Carl W. Covington, W. M. Schrock, Jim Williams, Barney Smith, Clark, Misses Francis Macatee and A. J. Florey, Misses Dora Wall, Nina Roberts, Kathryn Anderson and Mr. Wallace Wimberly.

Frank W. Arrington Celebrates Birthday With Jolly Party

Celebrating his ninth birthday, Frank Wade Arrington was host to a party of 14 friends Wednesday afternoon.

The entertainment included an informal gathering at the Arrington home where the birthday cake was displayed and wishes made for the host.

Later, Mrs. Arrington, assisted by Mrs. Fred Middleton, escorted the guests to a theatre party at the Ritz.

At the Midland Drug company, party refreshments were served and favors of chocolate turkeys were given to the guests.

Those attending were Fred Gordon Middleton, Billy Joe Hall, Russell Wright, Bobby Martin, James Young, Tad Crane, George Hyatt, Bob Dozier, Buster Cole, Man Rankin, Duffey Stanley, John M. Cowden, Allen Wemple, Doris Lynn Pemberton and Frank Wade.

Mid Week Members Are Bridge Guests Of Mrs. Moseby

Lovely shades of lavender and yellow predominated in the party ensemble at the home of Mrs. E. R. Moseby when she entertained for members of the Mid Week club Thursday afternoon.

Awards were won by Mrs. M. C. Ulmer, club, and Mrs. Harvey Sloan, guest. Mrs. Elliott Cowden was high cut for the party.

Members and guests attending were Misses. W. R. Bowden, W. L. Brown, Hugh Corrigan, Elliott Cowden, J. E. Daniel, J. L. Greene, R. J. Moore, M. C. Ulmer, W. E. Wallace, Alden Donnelly, Louis Link and Harvey Sloan.

Lovely Bridge Party Given by Mrs. W. M. Schrock for Club

In rooms beautifully decorated in vari-colored chrysanthemums, and roses, Mrs. W. M. Schrock was the hostess to Laf-a-Lot club members and guests at her home Thursday afternoon.

The Thanksgiving motif was reflected in table appointments for bridge and pink was the favored color. Score books were of chrysanthemum design bordered with pink ruffles.

High prizes were won by Mrs. N. W. Bigham, club, and Mrs. Elliott H. Barron, guest. Cut favors went to Mrs. E. N. Snodgrass, club, and Mrs. A. J. Gates, guest.

Plates of salads and pumpkin pies were passed to Misses. John Gay, A. J. Gates, E. H. Barron, A. C. Francis, E. N. Snodgrass, N. W. Bigham, Rawlins Clark, Addison Wadley, C. A. Tuttle, C. N. Swanson, B. C. Girdley, Fred Chapman, Ida Wolcott, T. S. Patterson, R. E. Witty and H. B. Dunagan.

A Drive in the Country Consider the Child's View-point Things That Interest Children

When I was a little girl I used to visit an uncle who was a great nature lover. He would take me for long drives in a runabout, or a "surrey" in the summer and in an old-fashioned cutter in the winter. But wherever he went he was always stopping and pointing out the views with his whip. "Isn't that wonderful!" he would say. "That's what I call country."

And I would sit and try to pretend that I had never, never seen anything like it, I would even lean over backward, in my attempts to appear interested, and ask to be taken to see such and such a view again. Chiefly because it pleased him.

But a view didn't mean anything to me then. I was only a little girl and landscapes weren't in my line. If he had hitched up to a tree and gotten out and shown me a fuzzy worm or a bird's nest, or a button-wood tree, or a long lazy pickered hiding under a weed near the shore of a pond, I would have loved it. As it happened, I was just not old enough to appreciate such a thing as a "view." I loved the little things the intimate things I could remember.

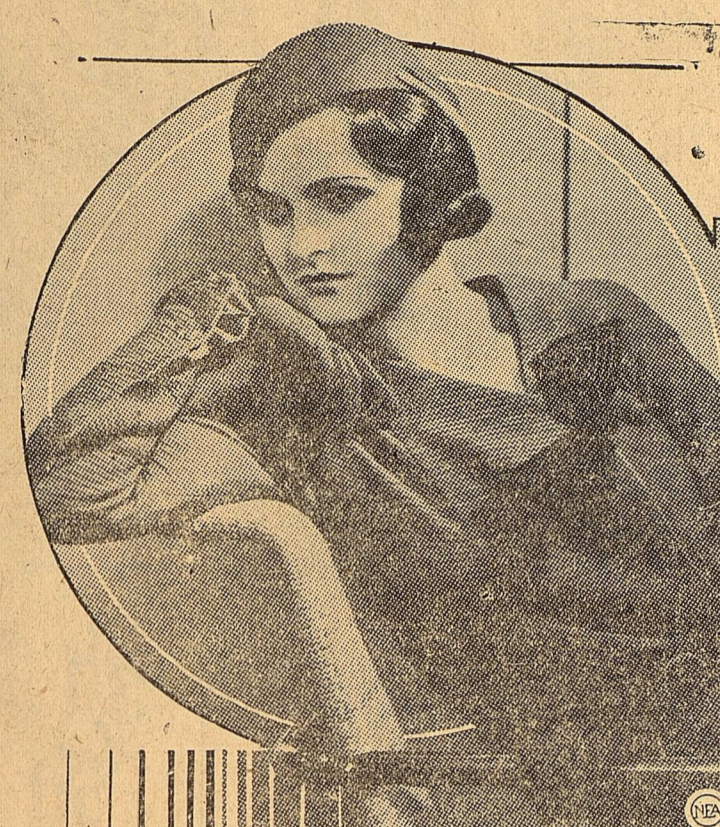

Fall Offers Scenes of Beauty
All children are that way, but very few older people know it. Later on, when their ideas of beauty are more centralized, and more profound, they are ready for views. Not that it is ever wrong to teach them, or try to teach them appreciation of everything lovely at an early age, but if we really want them to be interested and to remember, we cannot disregard this idea of detail.

Now, in the fall of the year, if we take them for a ride, we whizz through the country to get the air, and the view perhaps, and do well if we even call their attention to a patch of wine-colored oak or scarlet sycamore.

How to Go About It
Why not get out of the car in a quiet lane and show them a few things about fall? If you are interested in birds you might try to identify a few lingers who are still swarming in the wheat and oat stubble to get a few last grains on their way south. Perhaps in a corn field you may have the luck to see a quail or two, or better still, a whole covey.

Tell them that the little purple daisies are wild asters, and take some home. There are still golden-rod and wild carrot, or queen's lace. Let them get some of the lacy flow-ers and take them home also, and dip in different colored dyes.

Tailored for Daytime

There's chic for daytime hours in this tailored new dress of ribbed duren and wool, in the season's favorite color combination, brown and green. It gets its emerald touches in its green velvet bow and belt and in the quilt in the jaunty little hat which is made of rolled velvet.

queen's lace takes on pastel shades very easily and keeps lovely for a long time. You may be lucky enough to discover some bitter-sweet, or Solomon's seal, too, or matrimony vine. But, of course, do not break off trees or shrubs.

Personals

Real Ranger Plays Ranger

Bob Smith, who plays the captain of the rangers in "Border Law," Buck Jones' most recent western, which is showing today at the Grand theatre, was at one time a member of that famous organization, the Texas Rangers. The Rangers are accredited with restoring law and order along the Rio Grande in the days when outlaws made that country a happy hunting ground for border raids and stick-ups. While Bob was a ranger he captured two notorious outlaws single-handed. So he is hardly playing a part in "Border Law"—he is just reacting some life experiences.

MIDLAND CLUB IN PINK OF CONDITION JUST BEFORE KICK-OFF

CONFIDENT OF A WIN OVER WOLVES

The stage is set for Midland's breaking further into the winning column this afternoon when the grid proteges of Coach Hardy Pierce of Colorado take the field at 3 against the Purple and Gold charges of Coaches Barry, Henderson and Lingo.

Midland is resolved this afternoon to decisively whip Colorado into consciousness that one football victory a decade is insufficient for Midland. The Bulldogs have won only one game in their career against Colorado, winning their first encounter 13-0.

Injuries to the squad were almost nil and the coaching staff announced that the club was never in better condition.

Ticket sales were being boosted as the hour for the games drew closer.

A pep rally held at the high school last night was well attended.

SPORTS REPORTS

By R. C. HANKINS
Here's Rex, the movie dog. Comes in with Bill Blair and the dog's owner, Mr. (time out while we see how to spell it) Tex A. Schubach. "Do you want to write the man's story for him?" Schubach asks. The dog hops up in our swivel chair and starts pounding away at our typewriter. "How many words does he understand?" we ask. "Two hundred and fifty your language; one fifty in German." The dog wears the famed German war cross in memory of 50 messages carried through the lines by his father and 25 by the mother.

We got the idea we'd like to hide and have the dog find us. Back in Sam Warren's den of the composing room we crawled over rolls of paper and crouched down. Here comes the dog and, because he had to climb to get us, grabbed our heel and dragged us across the floor. He plays football, hide and seek, leap frog and what have you. He'll be seen in action at the football field this afternoon. Hope his yen for tackles extends to Colorado rather than Midland. When he leaped on our shoulders and bore us down, we got the idea he'd be a bad customer in the role of a flying tackler. Incidentally, he'll show in person at the Ritz Saturday, an ad says.

Bob Scruggs drives up in a Wizard control Buick and makes it do some of the things Rex showed. Free-wheeling when he wants it, never slowing down or stopping to shift to regular clutch action or from clutch action to free-wheeling. Shock absorber control that makes the car take bad roads and good roads nearly alike. Doors that spring open when a handle is turned. A mobile seat that makes perfect adjustment for the tallest and shortest alike. We took a ride but didn't want to come back in time for deadline. That's the trouble of mixing pleasure and business.

Reverend Coleman, pastor of the Presbyterian church, looks like a fullback. He was in with the Rev. Edwin C. Calhoun, who missed his calling for a Notre Dame guard when he began preaching. Incidentally he did make quite a rep as a football man when he was at Southwestern.

As the Sweetwater scribe says in quoting the ancient vintage of one of the rhythm-jugglers, fools rush in where angels fear to tread. We will give you our opinion of what the game this afternoon should result in as regards scores. We'd say offhand that Midland is four touchdowns better, but that we'd pick an 18-0 score.

That's all. We'd rather go for rides and play with dogs than guess at football scores—so there!

Cowboy Band to Make Tour

After thousands of miles of travel in eastern and southern states and in Europe during the past six years, the Cowboy band of Simmons university is now turning west for its big tour of the school year. On November 26, the Cowboys will start for Los Angeles, Calif., where they are to play a week's engagement at the Great Western Live Stock show and rodeo.

This will be the first extensive tour of the famous band in a westerly direction, although they have traveled into New Mexico several times.

The band will carry along John Regan, English-Australian cowboy, whom they picked up on their European jaunt. He will act as drum major and will furnish acts of entertainment such as rope twirling, whip cracking and other cowboy specialties.

D. O. Wiley is conductor of the band. G. B. Sandler is business manager.

Old Man Mauler Wouldn't Be Spoofing Us Now, Would He?

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Say, you don't suppose that Mr. William Harrison Dempsey would be spoofing us, do you?

Because if he isn't, the old Man Mauler ought to be presented with a pair of handsome wrought-iron bars as being the most deliberate come-back that ever was.

Almost every day the public prints tell us how those flashing fists of the Old Killer have refrigerated a couple more palookas—in consideration of a few grand.

The names of these victims of what is left of the wallop that laid Willard low 19 years ago at Toledo range all the way from Abernethy to Zilch, including Battling Joe Jeiloppy.

As we read of Dempsey scoring one knockout after another on the old familiar trail from west to east, it is almost enough to make one wonder if after all time can be cheated of its fleshly toll.

Dempsey you know is 36 years old, which is fairly aged as ring affairs go, and it has been 12 years since Toledo. A lot of whiskers can grow on a man's chin in 12 years. Sammy Mendel at 27 is a doddering old fellow. Benny Leonard at 34 has convinced even his most loyal friends that he cannot come back.

Does Dempsey really believe he can play a joke on that old Grim Reaper?

The programs in the provinces continue and the money rolls in. Meanwhile Dempsey is always "going to sign for a fight soon." He told Jimmy Johnston the other day he would be in New York about the middle of December to talk about a fight. Do you suppose the talk is as far as the comeback will come?

Out in Salt Lake, just before he started on his second mauling march across the country, Dempsey said:

"I will not accept any big offers until I'm sure I'm ready." Will the old boy ever be really ready?

He made a recent tour up and down the Pacific coast, and wherever he went the gate was juicy. Still, after that junket, he was not sure he was ready. The old punch was still there, but would the tottering legs carry him around?

Then he went on a hunting expedition into the Jackson Hole territory of Wyoming, chasing moose over mountain trails and through snow banks for a week. He bagged a 1200-pound moose, according to Jackson Hole operatives, but they fail to state whether he ran it down

PLENTY OF SEATS LEFT FOR AGGIE-LONGHORN GAME

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 20.—Despite an increasingly heavy demand for tickets to the Texas Aggie-Texas university Longhorn football game on Kyle field, there are yet many good seats available for the contest, D. W. Carlton, Aggie business manager, has announced. The Kyle field stadium, which was completed and dedicated in 1929, has a total seating capacity of 33,760 people.

Tickets for the game are being handled through the athletic offices of Texas A. & M. college and of Texas university. Price of each ticket is $3. The ticket booth and the athletic offices of A. & M. will open early Thanksgiving morning and will remain open until game time to handle the requests of those who come to College Station for the game without necessary pasteboards.

Advance sales, Mr. Carlton said, lead him to predict a sell out. Although both the Aggies and the Longhorns have been eliminated in the race for the Southwest conference championship, they will be fighting for third place honors at least. During the past few years other conference schools have scheduled their games for the week on Saturday following Thanksgiving day, the annual Aggie-Longhorn tilt having become known as the gridiron classic of the southwest.

Illinois Airship Failed in Flight

DANVILLE, Ill. Nov. 19. (UP)—Just 90 years ago the first airship constructed in Illinois, took off from a hill near here, and crashed before its inventor had a chance to test his theories of flight.

Resembling somewhat the modern monoplane, the craft was a tangible representation of "Crazy" High Newell's plans and dreams. Newell, a farmer living six miles west of Danville had studied flying birds and believed that he could duplicate their feats.

He patterned the wings of his ship after the wings of birds. The operator sat between them, and turned a crank which caused the wings to move up and down. The tail of the craft copied faithfully the spread-eagle feathers of a bird in flight.

The story of Newell's first flight was revealed in the current issue of the Journal of the Illinois State Historical society.

"According to some accounts, the ship was hauled to the top of a hay stack on a hill near the Newell home, where after the wings had been started by Newell in the cockpit the machine or car was pushed off," the article read.

"A great crowd was present. It was the climax of Newell's life and would show whether his untiring efforts and years of experimenting and study had been in vain. But the machine failed to fly. It was swept off, fell to the ground, and Newell's arm was broken."

Two wealthy neighbors, endowed with prophetic vision, or else won over by Newell's persuasiveness, joined with Newell in the "Million Dollar contract" by which they were to aid the inventor in the construction of a "flying car, or machine to soar through the air propelled upon a principle upon which the fowls of the air propel themselves."

The plans for the new ship fell through, and the three "inventors" were laughed at for several years. Sixty-three years later the Wright brothers proved that man could fly through the air.

or shot it on the fly.

Still, he is not quite ready. Now he is on the old trail to New York, and every day frantically operative, pour glowing words upon the news wires telling how great the Old Man Mauler looked last night in knocking out Hosmer Zilch in 22 seconds. And every day a little more sugar rolls into the bin.

But 22 seconds are not 22 rounds. Time cannot be fooled that way, either. And do you suppose the old Man Mauler really thinks it can?

A SLUGGISH liver requires stimulation. This stimulation should not be forced by drastic cathartics, but by a mild, dependable purgative that will encourage the hepatic functions, increase the natural flow of bile, induce digestion, and cleanse the intestinal canal. The "RED BIRD" liver pills are made from the prescription of a successful physician of Texas, having been used in his practice for many years, giving general satisfaction. Buy them from your druggist and be convinced of their usefulness as a family liver medicine. 214-12

Famous Movie Dog Seen Here Today

Rex, 10-year-old dog star of the motion pictures is in Midland. Son of a father and mother who won the German war cross for exceptional duty in the face of heavy fire, and for many trips through the lines with messages, he is known throughout the world.

His understanding of a total of about 400 words is no less extraordinary than the story of his life. His parents were shipped to Newport News after the war. Rex was the only sickly pup that was found in the first litter born in this country.

Appearing one morning at the Silver Spray Pier snake farm of Rex A. Schubach, present master of Rex, the owner asked for medical advice for the sick pup.

He was told the pup might live, but chances were pointing to his death. The other pups had been sold for $200 each, but the owner decided to take $20 for the sick pup and Schubach paid him.

He "sat up" with the dog for nearly two months, finally pulling him out of his illness. He landed a motion picture contract for him soon after the dog had learned to act his tricks before the camera.

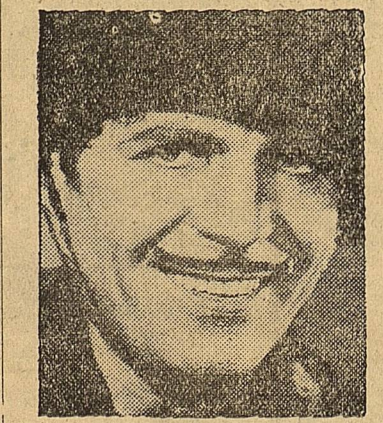

The owner of the dog has more formidable pets than Rex. He is an importer and exporter of snakes. The recent story of a huge python's running free in Long Beach related of one of his largest snakes. Rex has a picture of the constrictor playing with Rex. Rex makes serum at his own laboratory and has patented other snake remedies.

But his hobby is training Rex in additional words and signs. Notable among the pictures the dog has played in are: "Call of the Woods," "Get Your Man," "Shadows of Night," "13th Hour," "Going Some," "The Thief," "In the Far North," Arizona Cactus Kid, "Up the River" and "Danger."

One Is Born Each Minute

Another article on various graft schemes. This is prepared for The Reporter-Telegram by the Midland chamber of commerce.

Auto clubs are used as "rackets." Every once in a while a group of high-pressure salesmen offer every kind of service, protection, etc., to auto owners, agreeing to things that are impossible. Always refer for information to the Midland chamber of commerce.

Charity solicitors are numerous. Look out not only for strangers begging for out-of-town institutions but be sure and check up carefully all solicitors for charity of philanthropic institutions. Many people get credentials from orphan homes or other institutions, getting commissions on collections. The workers, of course, send in what he or she feels like. Behind all of this, of course, there are institutions that are not entitled to support; others that are founded on good but unwise motives.

Shipwrecked sailor or smuggler is frequently dressed as a sailor or in foreign costume. He is selling furs, cigars or jewelry which he intimates are either smuggled or stolen, which accounts for the great bargains. Needless to say the purchaser of such goods is always disappointed.

Then the dog became ill again. When it seemed he had a chance to recover, Schubach was offered $2,500 for him.

appointed. Carnivals and shows try to get the sponsorship of some local organization to save license money, or afford a background for selling program advertising or get members to sell tickets. Frequently there is a required guarantee which leaves the local organization in debt. Other times there is a net percentage which is very small. Frequently the entertainment is of a character beneath the dignity of the sponsoring organization.

Blankets and other punch board prizes are used by promoters to make a glittering proposition. Scores of young ladies are turned loose on the community selling 10 cent tickets for punch board clocks, jewelry or other items. Where the contract is fulfilled the biggest profit goes to the promoter and the money taken out of town for inferior merchandise.

Panhandlers and other beggars, whether on the street, calling at the office or homes, should all be turned down and referred to the organized charity service, the Welfare association. Most of them are imposters and those that are actually crippled in any way have professionalized their deformity. Stories told of being refused relief by organized sources are always untrue.

Bin drafts and hot checks are still cashed every day through scores of cunning devices. A good looking big draft, uncashed for some time will get a wise grafter a surprising amount of credit. Checks amounting to many times the total of a temporary bank account, are cashed for purchases by crooks.

Many use drafts and checks specially printed for criminal use. Use the service of the Midland Retail Merchants' association when a check artist first shows up.

NO INFORMATION

Hoyt Baker, missing Midland boy, has not been located, although news stories and a radio broadcast from Fort Worth have informed hundreds to keep on the lookout for him.

He disappeared last week and promised to return home Sunday. But his parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Baker, believe he did not intend to return. They fear he has joined the army.

Church-school, Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock. It is your duty to your God, your country and your church to go to Sunday school and church as well.

Sunday morning worship at 11:00 o'clock. Recently a young person remarked that she had never heard a sermon on the subject, "Honesty."

"Surely," said she, "we need that if we need anything, for so many christian people are not honest in heart or life."

It is in response, therefore, to a definite call and a definite need that we discuss a subject (Sunday at 11:00 o'clock) that affects every one of us—"Honesty."

Young People's meeting Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock. If you are not enrolled in any other Y. P. organization we earnestly beg of you to come with us. It will do you good and what more could you ask?

Evening worship at 7:30 o'clock. At this hour we will have our Thanksgiving Sunday service using for a sermon theme: "Say So."

Remember! It is always good to go to the House of the Lord. Now please do so.

Dead Turkey Gets Blame for Injury

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 20. (UP).—Frank Taylor, chicken picker for an Omaha cold storage company, wants compensation from his employer for injuries inflicted by a dead turkey.

Taylor states he was picking a turkey, when the bird gave a sudden, violent flop. One of the bird's wings struck Taylor's hands with such force that the bones were broken. Ankylosis developed and one of Taylor's fingers was amputated. He has appealed to the state compensation commissioner for relief.

What Instruments Are Most Popular?

In this heyday of orchestras, college bands, saxophone and rumba dance music and radio programs of instrumental music the American public is becoming more interested in instruments themselves.

In response to a questionnaire handed Raymond Paige, director of music at KHJ broadcasting station, Los Angeles, he was told something about these voices of the air—the only ones which don't get fan mail.

The bassoon has the most sense of humor, and the violin the most "it," or heart appeal. The piano organ is most practical and drums and violins likely to be most expensive. The clarinet and flute are among the least expensive instruments. The most practical instrument for the free-lance is undoubtedly the saxophone, which is very easily learned.

Paige believes the drummer gets the most enjoyment out of his instrument. Anyone who has the habit of watching drummers agrees with this experienced director.

"The drummer," adds Paige, "delights in surrounding himself with thousands of traps. A $500 tympanon cent whistles, Chinese gong marimbas, clappers, wood block triangle, chains—all his spare cash goes for his collection. His ammunition and deities are prodigious."

"The violinist is trained, but the drummer is self-made. He survives despite every discouragement."

never could imagine any parent trying to encourage his son to become a drummer. As a boy he had a passion for noise. He beat hardware until his mother was frantic. He put swed circles and fire engines and a sways had a vile whistle in his pocket.

"Stories to the effect that oboe players all become mad are exaggerated. Even oboists love their instruments, but as for the drummer—he gets the great kick out of the ensemble."

NEGRO AUXILIARY

ODESSA, Nov. 20.—A special branch of the Earl S. Bailey post of the American legion at Odessa has been organized for colored service men of this section. According to officials of the post, the negro who served in the army and can show a service record is entitled to consideration, and those in this section will be offered an opportunity to unite with this special branch of legion work.

Pure food, pure milk, pure water—in all the things you eat or drink, you want absolute purity.

Purity counts in cigarettes, too

Making cigarettes as pure as they can be made is our business. And it's your business, too—because you smoke them.

All the materials that go into the making of CHESTERFIELD cigarettes are tested again and again by expert research chemists to see that they are absolutely clean and pure. Just like the things you eat or drink.

The tobacco is pure. The right kind—mild, sweet and ripe! Handled throughout by the most modern machinery.

The paper is pure. Clean. White. The best cigarette paper that money can buy.

There is cleanliness in every step of CHESTERFIELD's manufacture. Old-fashioned methods have been discarded, and CHESTERFIELDS are made and packed in modern sanitary factories where even the air is washed, and changed every four-and-one-half minutes.

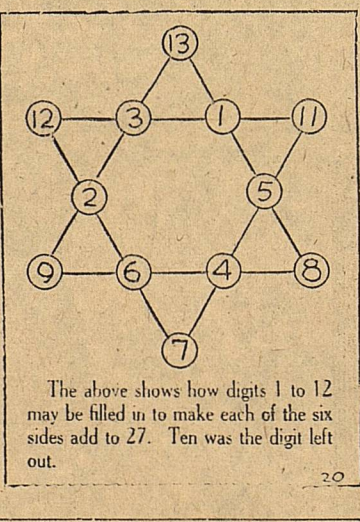

Every day more men and women are changing to CHESTERFIELD. And changing for good! Four big reasons clinch the choice: Milder—Taste Better—Pure—Satisfy.
