Democrats Announce Candidacy for Wurzbach's Seat

BROTHER HOLDING THE KEY

Garner Predicts Democrat Will Be Successor

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 9. (UP)—John K. Weber, Bexar county democratic chairman and Carl Wright Johnson, attorney, democrat, today announced their candidacy for the Wurzbach seat in congress.

The election is likely to be determined by the attitude of County Judge William Wurzbach, the dead congressman's brother, who is the key to district politics.

Will Not Discuss Speaker's Chance

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 9. (UP)—Representative John N. Garner was en route to Washington today to fashion party plans for congressional control next month.

He predicted a democrat would succeed Wurzbach but was reticent about his own election to the house speakership.

Garner suggested that if Texas were divided into five states as permitted under the annexation treaty, democrats would control the senate, too. He refused to comment on the nation's politics until Hoover delivers his congressional message.

GOVERNMENT SETS ASIDE HUGE SUM FOR CARTRIDGES

ROME, Nov. 9. (UP)—Italian boys will shoot away more than a half a million dollars worth of shells next year in a sort of school for the next war.

The Ministry of War has set aside about $500,000 for the purchase of rifle cartridges for compulsory "pre-military" Sunday training. A million rifle boys between 16 and 20 will fire away this ammunition under competent military instructors.

In addition the War Ministry is spending about one million dollars for the improvement and construction of rifle ranges throughout Italy where the boys can practice on Sunday mornings and afternoons.

Adults who have a flare for military target shooting will be encouraged to spend their spare time shooting on government ranges by cut-rate prices on shells, the War Department offering them at half cost. The War Ministry is spending this money to improve the marksmanship of Italian youth, who are called to the colors for the customary 18 months of conscript training.

This fall Italy entered upon its second year of obligatory pre-military service for boys between 16 and 20. This means that all Italian boys between these years must devote their Sunday mornings to the rudiments of military tactics. Under experienced militia officers who have served in the regular army, they are taught physical training squad formation, arms drill, and target shooting.

Service Reduction
For two years they devote their Sundays to this instruction in return for which they obtain a reduction in their period of compulsory service which falls due after they reach 20.

Pre-military service is not new in Italy, but only was made compulsory last year. Nearly one million (See GOVERNMENT SETS page 4)

Tickets for the Midland-San Angelo football game, unused because of the shifting of the game from Midland to San Angelo, will be good for admittance to the Midland-McCamey game here Wednesday.

This announcement came from the office of Superintendent W. W. Lackey of the city schools, who said the use of the tickets would fit nicely due to the shift of the McCamey game to Midland following the printing of season ticket books.

Sought Death Just to Help

The $1000 from her life insurance would have brought needed food and clothing to her four children. So 22-year-old Mrs. Joseph Skrobak swallowed poison. She was treated at a hospital, however, and here you see her with her husband, who has been out of work. Many persons contributed to their welfare.

MASKED GUNMAN ROBS BRECKENRIDGE STORE OF $25,000 IN DIAMONDS; HE BINDS UP BROTHER OF MIDLAND MAN

BRECKENRIDGE, Nov. 9. (UP)—A masked bandit today robbed the Louis Dalches jewelry store of diamonds, watches and other articles valued at $25,000.

The bandit bound and gagged Max Dalches, a clerk, and C. B. Guillelte, a customer, while looting the safe as the store was opening for business.

The bandit selected the most costly articles from the safe then joined his confederate who was watching outside. The two escaped in a car.

The police believed the men were the same as those who hijacked a negro couple and a white couple last night.

The funeral will be held tomorrow in Ballinger.

Post-Gatty Ship Lands at Airport

The Winnie Mae, famous Lockheed-Vega monoplane made internationally famous by the recent round-the-world flight of Post and Gatty, was landed by Frank Hoover at Sloan field Saturday.

There were three others in the plane. The party landed here from Oklahoma City, en route to El Paso and subsequently to the west coast.

The visit was the first for the ship, but the second for the pilot. The owner's daughter, for whom the plane was named, was in Midland the afternoon before the famous round-the-world pair landed in New York.

Black Raggedy Man Who Doesn't Know Meaning of Depression Passes Through

No soup kitchens for this nigger, although he looked like the raggedest victim of depression that ever walked down the highway.

Police Chief Andy Norwood took a newspaper staff member over on Wall street this afternoon to see a strange looking individual, a negro attired in garments so ragged that he had them tied together with binder twine, bailing wire and what-not.

A thick stubble covered the negro's chin and lower jaws. His cap, one of winter variety, was so ragged at the top that its appendages appeared as ear flaps.

When accosted and asked concerning his destination, the tourist replied, "Any place."

He had purchased a loaf of bread and was walking out of town. Asked if he were demonstrating depression, the hitch-hiker said, "Just what is that?"

When advised that it meant hard times he admitted that such was the reason for his being en route. He said he came from Newport News where he was an iron worker,

HOUNDS FIND 2 BODIES

Farmer Set Dogs on Chase of Chicken Thieves

RICHMOND, Nov. 9. (UP)—Will Brumelow, Fort Bend county farmer, today found two Mexican cotton pickers clubbed to death under a pile of sacks in a cornfield.

Brumelow found blood spots and set hounds on the trail of what he suspected were chicken thieves. The dogs found the bodies.

Officers found the Mexicans had been killed in a nearby cabin which was splattered with blood inside.

Holland, Midland, Marfa Credited

Frank P. Holland, Marfa and Midland are credited with starting a movement in Texas which promises to mean a vast deal to the cattle and farming business, according to an article in the November issue of "West Texas Today," official magazine of the West Texas chamber of commerce. The article gives much publicity to Midland and the Midland chamber of commerce, which was one of the founders of the Texas Breeder-Feeder association.

The idea of the $100 state-wide prize contest to select the best trade mark for Texas fed meats was originated in the Midland chamber in collaboration with John M. Gist, chairman of the West Texas chamber of commerce Breeder-Feeder committee.

These November beans are as fine, grocers say, as any spring beans they have seen here. A field of 14 acres has paid the farmer an average of $40 a week for six weeks, and will pay many more dollars before the harvest is ended.

PINK BOLL WORMS ARE FOUND HERE

Pink boll worms are still in the cotton fields of this area, investigation by Federal pink boll worm investigators discloses. One worm found the first of this month has been positively identified as a pink boll worm, the investigators say.

A second worm was found Monday which is identified by local pink boll worm specialists as a pink boll worm, but official word has not yet been received as to its identity. This worm was found in cotton ginned from Midland county.

The first worm was either from Midland or Andrews county, the investigation showed.

The finding of these worms in the gin trash machine has been a big disappointment to the pink boll worm farmers, as well as to farmers, for it had been generally hoped that no more worms would be found.

However, even under present regulations farmers suffer little financial loss, the records show. There is no lint fumigation fee, and the gin charge only 50 cents for seed fumigation. It is claimed the cotton seed market is the same for Midland seed as at other points. Under the present regulation, farmers are out only 50 cents a bale for pink boll worm cost.

Catches Porcupine In Neighbor's Garage

Jean Roderick heard a commotion in Cecil Hodges' garage at 1804 W. Missouri street, and went in to investigate.

As a result he has a porcupine today.

The spiny animal was running back and forth over a sack, and sticking more spines in the sack every time he crossed it.

Roderick took a rake and pushed the porcupine into a box and nailed some wire mesh over it. He brought the animal to town and with a pair of pliers pulled out quills for interested spectators.

Tuesday "Poppy Day" in Midland

Tuesday will be "Poppy day." Millions of Americans will pay honor to the memory of the World War dead by wearing paper replicas of the poppies grown on the battle fields of France and Belgium, tomorrow and Wednesday. Women of the American Legion auxiliary in almost every city and town in the country will sell the little red flowers on the streets and will receive contributions for the relief of disabled veterans and their families.

The wearing of poppies in tribute to the war dead is being more widely observed each year. Mrs. Cole said. This year the auxiliary expects to sell a larger number than ever before and to receive contributions which will enable it to provide a greater measure of assistance to needy veterans and families.

B'SPRING MAN HELD AS LIFER WHO BROKE JAIL

BIG SPRING, Nov. 9.—On information furnished by the Howard county sheriff's department Sam Grant, about 44, who escaped from a state prison farm 19 years ago after being sent up from Eastland county on a life term for murder, was being held Saturday night in Elk City, Okla., while a Texas penitentiary agent was enroute to return him to Huntsville.

Grant's whereabouts were learned by Sheriff Slaughter and his force several nights ago. They informed Elk City officers, who arrested him near there.

Andrew Merrick, local deputy, said the department here began hearing of Grant six or eight months ago, when he began coming here to visit his wife and daughters, who reside on East Sixteenth street. He has one single daughter living with her mother, and two married daughters, on residing here, the other near Knott.

Sam Grant, among whose aliases was G. W. Franks, was convicted of murder at Eastland May 8, 1912, following a second trial before Thomas L. Blanton, now congressman, then district judge.

Court records at Eastland Saturday disclosed that he was charged with murder of a man named Oats, whose first name was not known to the grand jury. The victim was an itinerant, who was shot from ambush in a pasture near Okra, Texas, February 19, 1909.

In his first trial Grant was given the death penalty. He won a reversal and the second trial resulted in the life sentence.

Judge Blanton pronounced sentence on him May 8, 1912. He was committed to the penitentiary at Huntsville June 13, 1912, and escaped October 2, 1912.

He was recaptured at Rusk, Texas, the same day but escaped again December 3, 1912, and had not been heard of until recently.

The Herald was advised from Eastland that a man named Carter turned state's evidence in Grant's trials and was used as the principal witness against him.

CLAIMS LEAGUE UNFAIR

Bombardment of Chinese Sectors Continues

TOKYO, Nov. 9. (UP)—The Japanese plan to withdraw from the League of Nations if the present attitude is maintained in Geneva, official sources indicated today.

Japan claims the league is assuming a role of a super-state in its dictatorial attitude.

Japs Continue Bombardment

TIENSIN, China, Nov. 9. (UP)—Japanese artillery bombarded Chinese districts at dawn today after a riotous night.

American troops guarded American areas. Forty Japanese shells fell in the Chinese area, killing four and wounding 10. Shots from rioting Chinese soldiers fell on Japanese concessions, killing two sentries and wounding one woman. A dust storm obscured the scene, confusing details.

Chinese troops arrested some of the rioters, who said the Japanese supplied them with ammunition and bribes to cause disturbances giving Japanese an excuse for occupation.

Japanese said they were compelled to fire in defense of their concession when attacked.

ARIZONA OPENS HORSE RACING AT FAIR TODAY

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 9. (UP)—Horse racing with an "investment" form of betting adding interest was revived today and will continue until Nov. 15 during the Arizona State fair. If the six-day session is profitable, a mid-winter racing meet will be arranged.

Phoenix should be a good racing town according to those experienced in such things. It has a large tourist population in the winter, an abundance of men with leisure and money.

Arizona, however, has an anti-gambling law, but years ago a superior court judge ruled that betting on the running ability of a horse is a matter of skill rather than chance. The question never has been definitely settled—that is, the state supreme court never has ruled on the matter which is the reason anxious horsemen thought up the "investment" stunt.

Under the arrangement to prevail, those with money to wager on a horse will buy an interest in that horse for the duration of the race and if the horse finishes first, second or third a dividend will be paid to the investor.

During the races an odds board will be in plain sight and dividends on "good investments" will be in accordance to the odds listed on the board.

Seven or eight races will be run daily during the fair. There will be no harness horses in the meet.

BEYOND OUR KNOWLEDGE

Nothing flatters the race's vanity much more than the familiar and casual way in which astronomers speak of the appalling distances and emptiness of the stars and the sky.

Thus, when Dr. Edwin Hubble tells an audience at Princeton that the "universe" which comprises the milky way is 200 million light years in diameter and is surrounded by an empty, starless void half again as wide, our first reaction—after saying "Isn't nature grand?"—is a feeling that human intelligence has advanced quite a distance if it can find out things like that.

This pride, of course, is justifiable. When Dr. Hubble peers through the famous 100-inch telescope on Mount Wilson, in California, and discovers new universes incomprehensibly far off, he proves that the human mind can be an amazingly bright and keenly edged instrument.

Yet the end of all this, when you stop to think about it, is not pride but humility. For whatever may be the gulf that separates a man like Dr. Hubble from his predecessors, the star-gazers of ancient Chaldea, one thing is common to both; at the end of their discoveries there lies the self-same wall of mystery.

The empty places in the sky put a limit to human knowledge now, just as they did when Biblical Ur was the center of the world's intelligence. The limit has been pushed back an incalculable distance, but it is still there. The "facts" by which the Chaldeans lived have turned out to be myths; but, basically, the things that puzzled the Chaldeans the most puzzle us quite as much, for all our hundred-inch telescopes and our talk of light-years and whirling nebulae.

And this, perhaps, is a good thing to remember. For man's achievements in science during the past century have not, in some ways, been altogether good for him. If they are helping him to a saner and more comfortable life, they also persuade him, now and then, that he is a smarter fellow than is really the case.

We do not, after all, know quite as much as we like to suppose. At the end of the sky there is still mystery—profound, abysmal, rather terrifying. It was there 40 centuries ago and we have not lifted it.

OUR EXCITING LIVES

Sinclair Lewis told a Brooklyn audience the other day that we are living today in a "world on fire," and he added that while it may be rather unsettling it is at least exciting; and that, when you think it over, expresses the present state of affairs about as well as anything could.

Whatever else you may say about it, you must at least admit that the race is not stagnating these days. It is going somewhere at a very rapid clip. Possibly, when all is said and done, we are simply rushing down a steep place into the sea; but at least we are rushing, and, as Mr. Lewis says, the process is exciting, if nothing else.

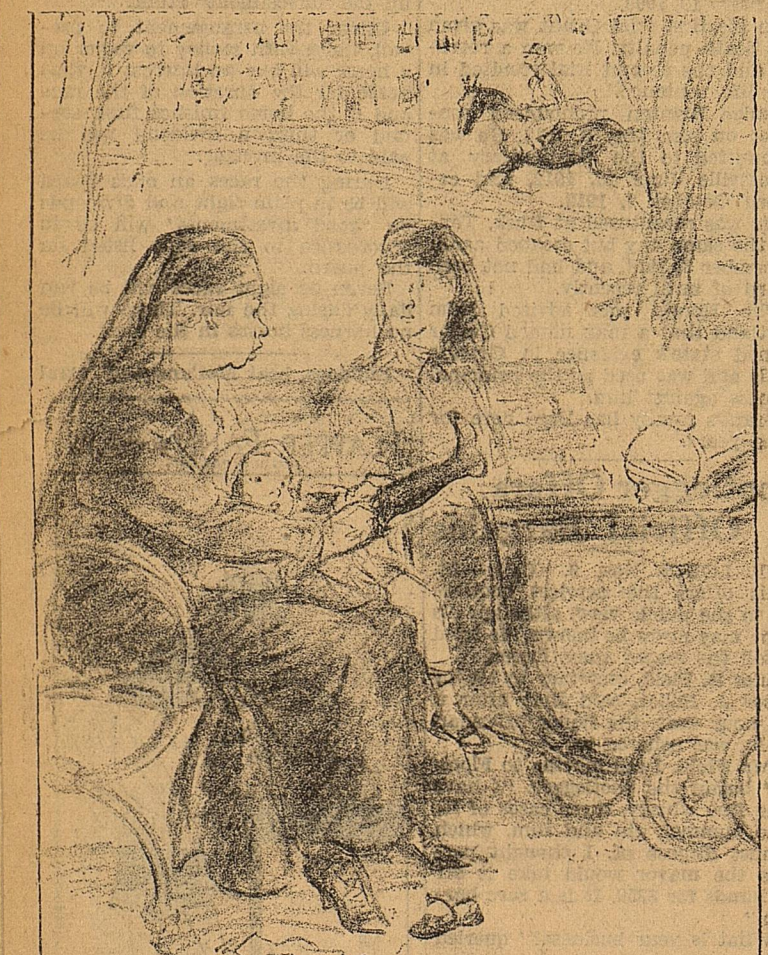

It is rather a good thing to realize this, fully, too. The present era, generations hence, will possibly be looked on as one of the great turning points of history. We are in the midst of it, watching world events come to birth and grow to maturity. It is hard to look about one without feeling a quickening of the pulse.

THE DRIVER'S JOB

When the city of New Haven, Conn., succeeded in passing four consecutive months this year without a single fatal automobile accident, the rest of the country began to wonder devoutly how it had been accomplished. The answer, it develops, lies chiefly in the fact that New Haven set to work to educate its automobile drivers.

And that, after all, lies at the bottom of the whole movement for safety in traffic. It all comes down to the driver. Regulations, stop-streets, traffic lights, police supervision—all of these things will fail until each individual driver learns to realize the responsibility that rests on his shoulders. Traffic could always move safely if the drivers would it.

Washington By Rodney Dutcher Letter

Bishop Cannon Will Be Arraigned—Same Court That Tried Garfield's Assassin and Sinclair and A. B. Fall.

WASHINGTON.—Every so often you read about some nationally famous case being tried in the supreme court of the District of Columbia.

At the moment this court is determining the Senate's suit to oust George Otis Smith from chairmanship of the Federal Power commission and soon Bishop James Cannon will be arraigned before it to answer an indictment charging violation of the corrupt practices act. The district supreme court is not the district's supreme court but it's a grand old court just the same. It is a federal court, of course. It sentenced Charles Guitau for the assassination of President Garfield and tried General Dan Sickles, then a congressman, for the "unwritten law" murder of District Attorney Phillip Barton Key. In recent years it has sent Harry Sinclair and former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall to jail and has passed on the cases of other oil scandal blacklegs—E. L. Doheny, Henry M. Blackmer and Robert W. Stewart.

Any crime committed in Washington is an offense, not against the District of Columbia but against the federal government. When you get a court summons here it is addressed from "The President of the United States." Anywhere else you commit your crime against a city or state, unless it specifically involves violation of federal law. The law enforced here is the old common law of Maryland as it existed prior to the district's creation plus all laws since passed by Congress for the district—and plus, surprisingly enough, every law of any description ever passed by Congress which is not "locally inapplicable." Congress is Washington's only law-making body.

In this court are tried all suits involving government departments or bureaus, against cabinet members and other officials here. If you want to try to compel a cabinet member to do something which he refuses to do, this is the place to bring your mandamus proceedings. And if you think a man isn't entitled to his office, as the Senate contends in the George Otis Smith case, you file quo warranto proceedings, "quo warranto" meaning something like "by what right do you hold that office?"

Some suits may be brought against the federal government and they are tried in the district supreme court. For instance, in the case of the Veterans Bureau when it acts in its capacity as a private corporation. Or in the case of the Inland Waterways Corporation. A veteran suing in regard to a bonus certificate would bring the case here filing against the Veterans Bureau director. Persons who sought to force the secretary of the interior to issue gas and oil permits also brought their cases here.

All local felonies and civil cases are tried by the same court. The Department of Justice often turns over its evidence to the district attorney's office at the courthouse for subsequent prosecution, but anyone can submit evidence and demand that it be studied with a view to action. The district attorney's office had evidence of the Nye campaign funds committee when it procured the indictments against Bishop Cannon and his secretary, Miss Ada Burroughs. There are nine judges, appointed by the president. Chief Justice Wheat and Justice Lohring were promoted to the bench from the Department of Justice. Justice Lettis came from Davenport, Ia. Justice Gordon used to be district attorney here. The present district attorney, a presidential appointee, is Leo A. Rover, who used to be an assistant prosecutor here.

Brady Man Keeper Of Light Houses

BRADY, Nov. 9.—One would not expect to find a "lighthouse keeper" in West Texas far from any sea or ocean. But such is Glenn A. Boustead of Brady, caretaker of the eleven revolving beacons and twelve blinkers along the 275-mile air mail route from San Antonio to Big Spring.

The lights, sometimes visible for 75 miles on clear nights, enable flyers to hold their course easily between Big Spring and San Angelo and San Angelo and San Antonio. The blinkers represent emergency landing fields or are connecting links between beacons. Mr. Boustead inspects the lights between Brady and Big Spring the first half of the week and the lights to San Antonio the second half. He travels by automobile. The lights are turned off and on by automatic electric clocks.

An employee of American Airways, holders of the airmail contract, for two years, Mr. Boustead has recently taken up aviation lessons under Aubrey Monsey, manager of the San Angelo municipal airport.

New Jersey Acts to Cut Down Disease in Its Schools

Medical inspectors of schools in New Jersey are given authority to a recent amendment to the school laws to exclude all children from the schools who have been exposed to communicable diseases, or who are detrimental to the health of the other children. The law provides that the teacher or the school nurse may have authority to dismiss such children in the absence of the medical inspector.

Every board of education in New Jersey must provide a medical inspector for each school, the law states. The medical supervisor has as his duty the task of examining every child to learn if there is any physical defect and he must keep a record of the examinations for the school.

The recent amendment sets the ages for children entering kindergarten at 4, and provides that no child who is under 6 years shall be admitted to the public school.

The New Jersey law requires that every child must attend school between the ages of 7 and 17 unless he is over 14 and has completed the work of the eighth grade, or is over 15 and has completed the work of the sixth grade, or has completed a substitute program of education and has received an age and schooling certificate.

Indoor Track Meet On Social Program Of City League Union

Young people of the city joined with the Presbyterian Christian Endeavor Friday evening in a religious program and merry social hour following. The event marked the monthly meeting of the City League Union.

A patriotic theme was developed in talks by Avalyn Pogue, Mrs. R. C. Crabb and Ray Gwyn. Mrs. Emily Kannon entertained with a piano solo.

Attraction of the evening centered around the indoor track meet for which guests registered from various colleges. High award for the track events was a tin "loving cup." Refreshments were served and the party enjoyed singing during the remainder of the evening.

Musical Hike Is Entertainment for Piano Students

Following directions given in musical terms which took them via several interesting locations in the city, girl students of the Wallace Wimberly studio took a delightful musical hike to a place north of town Saturday for their lunch.

Chaperones assisting Mr. Wimberly included Misses Violet Graves, Janis Wilkes, Lois Frazier and Mrs. Denton. Mothers who accompanied the party home were Mrs. D. E. Carter, Mrs. H. G. Bedford, Mrs. John Gay and Mrs. J. A. Tuttle.

SERVICE

Albin F. Schneider

That candle that I've just put out, Has served me now for half a year; Lit now and then I think about Its useful life and end so near.

Consider, if you will, with me, The light it's cast upon my way, And aided me to plainly see What I could not without its ray.

Created for its usefulness, Some simple deeds to carry out, Its life has been a true success, A worthy thing to write about.

And thinking then of you and I— Our lives are like that candle flame, We're here to serve and by and by The end will be about the same.

If in the name of service, we Were given life, and do not try To carry out that plan, you see, Just failures we'll be—you and I.

UNEMPLOYMENT AID

SAN BENITO. (UP)—Frog legs have brought relief to the Rio Homdo community, 9 miles north of here.

Unemployment among boys in that community has been virtually eliminated as a result of a thriving business in frog legs managed by Paul Affolter.

Frog legs are shipped in trucks to markets and restaurants throughout the valley and as far as Corpus Christi. More than $400 was paid in October to catchers of frogs who supplied frog legs to Affolter. One family is said to be entirely supported by the money paid for frog legs. The frogs abound along irrigation canals and drainage ditches and are killed at night with flashlight and stick.

Choice Cooks' Corner

Apple Crisp Four to six apples, 3-4 cup granulated sugar, 1-2 cup flour, 1-3 cup butter.

Choose tart, juicy apples. Pare and core and cut in halves. Put into a buttered baking dish. Mix and sift flour and sugar and work in the butter with tips of fingers or pastry blender. Spread over the top of apples. Bake in a moderately hot oven until apples are tender, about 40 minutes. Serve with plain or whipped cream.

Eggless Steamed Pudding Two tablespoons shortening, 1-4 cup molasses, 1-4 cup sweet milk, 1 cup flour, 1-4 teaspoon soda, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon each of clove, cinnamon and nutmeg, 1-2 cup stoned and chopped dates.

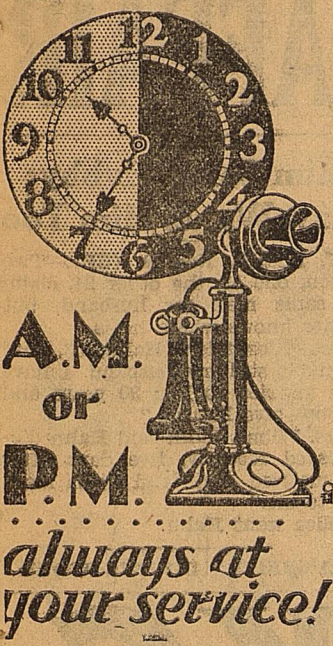

Melt shortening and add molasses. Mix and sift flour, salt and spices and combine with dates. Dissolve soda in milk and add at once to first mixture. Stir in flour mixture and when thoroughly blended turn into an oiled mold and steam two hours. Serve warm with lemon sauce. It is not necessary to use butter in this pudding for the spices and molasses furnish a definite flavor.

STANTON — Woodrow Wilson and a group of friends, had a car accident in Midland last week, that almost resulted seriously. They were going north and as they crossed the highway a car from the west crashed into the side of their car with such force the spokes were broken in the wheel on the opposite side and the side of the car was crushed in. Only minor injuries were suffered by the occupants of both cars.

SPORTSWRITER RECALLS TIME WHEN McCAMEY GOT IDEA MIDLAND TRIED TO THROW BADGER OUT OF DISTRICT

By BILL COLLYNS
McCamey News

Having been trampled over in a very roughshod manner for the past three weeks by the strong San Angelo, Big Spring and Sweetwater football teams, the crippled McCamey high school Badgers are now busy preparing for their Armistice day tilt with their arch enemy, the Midland high club, in what promises to be one of the hardest fought district games on that day.

Coach Clyde Park's warriors still feel the same toward the Bulldogs as they did last season after it was learned that the Midland officials were largely responsible for the locals being ousted from District 8, Class B for the remainder of that year, and they are anxious to get at the Bulldogs now to avenge themselves. Shortly after McCamey was tossed out of the district last season, Midland also went the same way, and then much negotiating was done on the part of McCamey officials to arrange a game between the two teams to decide the championship of the parishes, but to no avail. Coach Barry did not care to have his proteges torn asunder by an angered McCamey eleven.

The Badgers will have the opportunity of doing that Wednesday. Aside from this the Badgers are determined to win this game, and to break into the conference winning column for a change.

The Badgers, by no means, have as strong a team as they boasted last season, while the Midland aggregation appears to be much better, and just what the outcome of this game will be is problematical.

It can be said, however, that the Parkmen will be fighting as they have never fought before and if they lose it will not be because they were not doing their best.

It is hoped that Dame Fortune will smile on the locals in the form of a few breaks in change, and it is hoped that the Barrymen will not be playing the same brand of football they played in San Angelo last Saturday. If these two wishes come true the Badgers have a fair chance of winning, but if things go against them as they have in previous games, it will probably be just another lost game for the locals.

Four regulars were out of the Sweetwater game last week on account of injuries, and it is doubtful if more than two of that number will be able to take part in Wednesday's battle. Colby, Carl, Smalley and Word compose the injured list, and none of them will start the game. Colby and Carl will probably see what the outcome of the game is over, however. All of the other players are in the best of condition, and all are ready to do their part in upsetting the dope pail, and taking the Bulldogs into camp.

Midland fans will have the opportunity of seeing Homer Barnett, McCamey star tackle and contender for a berth on the all-district letter in action and it is probable that Barnett will be at his best against Midland.

Some five or six hundred fans, including a band and pep squad, are planning the trip to Midland to witness the football "classic" and the Badgers will receive plenty of support from the side lines.

SPORTS REPORTS

By R. C. HANKINS

We notice in the sport sheets where a popular young football star in Kansas broke training rules and, through mistake, went to the wrong house on his attempted return home. An irate husband fired a load of shot into his back. Just sort of misled, as one might say.

The Big Spring Cattle join battle in Sweetwater with the Mustangs Wednesday. Sweetwater appears cocky in spite of alleged injuries. We would remind Mr. Cope on the Sweetwater Reporter of what happened to Old Lady O'Leary that memorable night in Chicago. Did that cow get her foot in the bucket, or not? She did, for a fact, and that was no bull.

If there had been any doubt of the way McCamey continues to feel about Midland since last year certainly it disappears today in the face of revelations made by the sports writer of that place. He leads us to believe that Midland was definitely cut off of the McCamey social list, and we know The Reporter-Telegram was slashed from the mailing list of the McCamey paper. We're a sneaking notion that McCamey would get as much kick out of winning the game here Wednesday as our ex-advertising man, O. W. Baxley, did in dreaming last night that he hit Jimmie Harrison on the head with a hammer.

The McCamey Badgers have been jostled around for the last three games and have taken rough slugging on their bowed heads. But they see an end to the slogging around in the slow going, and may throw off their sheep's clothing and mild manners and say, "Wow! I'm a wolf!"

This fellow "Hendy" Henderson, assistant coach at the high school, is big but not so big as the country from where he hails. We broke bread Sunday with the elongated young man who used to inspire opposing opponents of Austin college with varying degrees of fear, trepidity, dread and the like. He told us his father had a farm on the top of a mountain in East Texas. The mountain is somewhat steep, so much so that Henderson elder got overbalanced one fine morning and fell off. He "got bottom" just as the sun went down. He said they had an avalanche of watermelons from higher up the mountain and that one melon caved in the house superstructure and that another lodged in the barnyard. It was too big to move, so the resourceful father and the even more resourceful son called in the neighbors and held a war council. They decided to utilize the melon for a shed. The women cooked lunch and the men worked hard all day, hollowing out the watermelon. He said field trips run along the sides of the mountain and that one has to stop when he gets to the turn row and put a piece of cotton in the other ear, so as to keep the dirt from getting in them. Henderson and his brother from Houston are insatiable fishermen, but carry bits of skin and scales in their pockets as a testimony to truth. The brother went to Aransas Pass the other day and, after an hour and a half, landed a five-foot-and-a-few-odd-inches tarpon that weighed 127 pounds. We schemed around and got an invitation to fish with Hendy three days next summer and he still thinks he thought of the invitation first. We'd already made up our mind to invite ourselves.

Armistice Program Is Attended by 108

The special Armistice day program for the children's hour at the county library was opened with a prayer by the Rev. J. A. McCall, followed by the story of the Star Spangled Banner, and the song. The children were then marched out of doors, where a copy of the Betsy Ross flag, made by Mrs. W. W. Wimberly was displayed, together with a Texas flag.

Wallace Wimberly talked on the significance of the flag and the courtesy due it. Then with the assistance of Boy Scouts Howe, Lawton and Walker, he demonstrated to the children the procedure of raising and lowering the flag, the salute, and the pledge.

A reading, "Uncle Sam," was given by Ray Veale. The children then marched back into the library and heard the story of "America," later singing the song.

The election was conducted by each member casting his vote marking the ballots which were counted this afternoon.

1931 Shooters Beat Old-Timers

CHICAGO, Nov. 9. (UP).—Dead-end Dick, the Minute Men of '76, Hopalong Cassidy, Dan'l Boone, Davie Crockett and the legend of other heroic marksmen to the contrary notwithstanding, riflemen of today are better shots. So say army and marine officers here as a result of the records hung up at Camp Perry this summer.

To the lot of army, navy and marines and the few gun and rifle clubs for civilians, has fallen the duty of maintaining the tradition of marksmanship ingrained in Americans.

Special Armistice Day Radio Programs

Three outstanding programs from Washington, D. C., on Nov. 11 will feature the Armistice day presentations of the Columbia Broadcasting system. President Hoover's address during dedication ceremonies for the District of Columbia war memorial, the annual commemorative service for Woodrow Wilson and a special Armistice day concert by the United States Navy band will be broadcast.

The District of Columbia war memorial dedication program will be heard from 11 to 11:30 a. m. E. S. T. It will open with selections by the United States Marine band. Col. U. S. Grant, 3rd, will act as master of ceremonies and will present Frank B. Noyes, chairman of the committee appointed by congress to arrange for the construction of the memorial. Mr. Noyes will present the memorial to the nation and President Hoover will accept it. Under present plans, John Philip Sousa will be present to lead the Marine band.

The annual commemorative services for Woodrow Wilson will be held in front of the war-time President's tomb in Bethlehem chapel at Washington cathedral and will be heard from 3:15 to 3:45 p. m. E. S. T. The principal address will be delivered by the Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, bishop of Washington. The service, arranged each year by a group of President Wilson's closest friends, has become an Armistice day institution. The Cathedral choir will sing appropriate hymns and a representative of the American legion will lay a wreath on the tomb.

The special Armistice day concert by the United States Navy band will be heard from 4 to 5 p. m. E. S. T. Lieutenant Charles Benter directing. The hour has been established as a regular weekly Armistice day. Lieutenant Benter is in charge of the concert arrangement for the special broadcast.

Indians Fight For Oil Land

MT. PLEASANT, Mich., Nov. 9. (UP).—Development of oil fields near here, and the gold the "White Man" is making has awakened 1500 Chippewa Indians to a renewed fight for long-forgotten land rights to the land on which it was discovered.

At a recent Council, called by Chief John Elk, the Indians studied and discussed the Treaty of 1864, which they claim gave them property now valued at $3,000,000. Chief John Elk, seasoned by years of wisdom, told his tribesmen that the government later allowed the White Man to contract for timber on the land.

"But," the Chief said, "some of the lumbermen made their contracts read 'timber and land' and by trickery defrauded both the government and the Indians. That's why the oil land isn't ours now."

The claims of the Chippewas are before the court of appeals in Washington, the chief said. However, other Indian claims occupy the attention of the court. The Chippewas await their turn.

"Meanwhile," the old tribe leader pointed out, "the White Man digs for oil and piles up gold."

Starts Campaign To Stop Fires

AUSTIN, Nov. 9. (UP).—J. E. De-weese, state fire insurance commissioner, today announced a drive to end "profit fires and spite fires."

The commissioner said carelessness had left unexplained 589 vacant house fires last year. He urged fire marshals to report every blaze.

Firemen Mend Clothes for Needy

PUEBLO, Colo., Nov. 9. (UP).—The fire siren shrieked! Firemen dropped their knitting needles, and rushed to their posts. The great red truck roared from the station. Breaks squealed as other automobiles twisted to the curb.

Flames poured from a burning building. The firemen braved death to conquer the blaze.

When it was out the bells clanged again and the firemen returned to their sewing.

Being a fireman is a fulltime job in Pueblo but there are not enough fires to keep them busy.

So somebody had an idea. Citizens have been asked to send old and torn clothing to the fire station where the fire fighters can darn, mend and patch it, and turn it over to the poor.

New Electric Car Is World's Fastest

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9. (UP).—A new highspeed, stream line electric car, which will be placed in operation on the Philadelphia and Western Railroad's line to Norristown is said to be the fastest electric car ever built. The new car, which has been described as an "electric bullet" will reduce the running schedule of the 14 miles to Norristown to 16 minutes.

The car is provided with automatic safety devices which will halt in case the motorman becomes disabled. Engineers say the car can do 80 miles an hour with safety.

boys will be enrolled this year for two years' training. Although related to the Ballia and Avangardisti movements, this particular service is purely military.

Army leaders are enthusiastic over the success of the courses. In the two years of Sundays the boys are taught all the rudiments of military service which ordinarily consumes the first 60 days of conscript service. This means that each year's conscript class reports to camp trained in marching formation, arms drill, and rifle practice.

Says Wife Should Be Purse Manager

DETROIT, Nov. 9. (UP).—The wife should be the financial manager of the household, Harry N. Clarke, industrial counselor of Cleveland, declared before the Detroit Homemakers club.

"A woman's job is to manage the home," Clarke declared. "Therefore, she should boss the family budget."

The industrial counselor scored standard budget plans. He said each family must work out its own standard.

Liths May Get Old Capital

KOVNO, Nov. 9. (UP).—The decision of the World Court at The Hague in the Lithuanian-Polish transit dispute, granting Lithuania the right to keep the rail line between Landorow and Koschedari closed, has created optimism and strengthened the hope that Lithuania may win her fight for the return of her old capital, Vilna.

The decision was featured in extra editions by all the leading newspapers. It was expected that Lithuania would be able to maintain her right to closing the rail line (which cuts off Poland from a direct route to the sea), but the court's recognition of Lithuania's political reasons for doing so was unexpected, and was taken as a proof of the justice of her claim on Vilna.

It is now hoped that the League of Nations, which ordered the Hague investigation, will take some definite action toward the Vilna problem, which has been a bone of contention since General Zeligowski occupied the historic Lithuanian city of Poland eleven years ago.

For the first time since 1925 the Aggies this year will make the game with Rice in Houston the occasion of a corps trip.

Two or three special trains will be required to transport the Aggie cadets from College Station to Houston. The cadet corps, led by its 100 piece military band, will parade in the morning on arrival.

The history of Aggie-Rice football relations dates back to 1914 when the Cadets bested the Owls 32 to 7. In an fifteen games have been played, the Aggies having won 10 and the Owls four. One game ended in a deadlock with the score 7 and 7. The Aggies have scored a total of 195 points in these contests and the Owls a total of 67. Rice was blanked in seven of the encounters and the Aggies went scoreless in three.

Although the Aggies won the first game, they lost the next two games, failing to score in either. In 1917 the score was 10 to 0 in the Aggies' favor. Probably the hottest battles ever fought between the Owls and the Aggies took place in 1921 and 1923. The 1921 game ended in a 7-7 tie and the 1923 encounter was decided in the Owls' favor by the margin of one point. In this latter game Rice scored early in the first half and was successful in the try for extra point. The Aggies came back to score a touchdown but missed the try for point. In the closing

Drawn Shades Won't Sell Goods

You say you don't draw the shades in your show windows. Well, DO you draw the shades in the biggest window of them all, in the window that everyone sees, in the window that sells thousands of dollars worth of merchandise overnight? That window is the advertising pages of The Reporter-Telegram.

A window which doesn't wait for prospective buyers to pass by, but goes right into their homes and demands attention. Give your merchandise the sort of display it deserves. The public won't buy what it doesn't know about, no matter how strong the inducements, or how big the bargain. The Reporter-Telegram show window should be YOUR show window.
