TRANSCONTINENTAL ROAD

A wealthy New York the other day suggested the construction of an eight-billion-dollar toll highway across the United States; and while the nation could do with an addition to its network of good roads, the one proposed by this gentleman is a little appalling.

His highway would be 500 feet wide, from coast to coast. It would have 10 traffic lanes in each direction, with the speed limits on certain lanes ranging up to 100 miles an hour. It would be lined with 300 modern hotels and tourist camps, and what with one thing and another it would be quite a roadway.

Of course, an affair like this would make transcontinental motoring a swift and easy procedure. But there can be too much of a good thing. The law of diminishing returns can apply to roads as well as to anything else.

What motorist, desiring to drive across the country, would care to hit a 100-mile clip? What motorist, in his senses or out of them, would care to travel from ocean to another on a strip of concrete 500 feet wide? What citizen, whether he drives an auto or not, can contemplate a highway like this without feeling a little bit dizzy?

The joys of touring do not arise solely from a smooth pavement and high speed. In constantly-increasing numbers, automobile owners are beginning to discover that a trip can be made much more enjoyable if the broad, well-paved and heavily-traveled main highways are dodged altogether. To stick to the back roads, taking stretches of gravel, worn-out macadam and plain dirt as they come, may be to travel slowly and to get a bit of jolting; but it is also a fine way of enjoying the open country and making the trip mean something more than a mere progression from one spot to another.

Already the craze for rapid travel is beginning to diminish. The novelty of the automobile has worn off, and people are realizing that the pleasure of a cross-country drive is usually in inverse ratio to its speed. The man who sets out to drive from New York to San Francisco, and plans to rival the speed of the transcontinental trains, might better stay at home. The loafer, who doesn't care how long it takes him, has an infinitely better time.

FILENE AND THE DOLE

Edward A. Filene, the well-known Boston merchant, is one business man who is not frightened by that dreadful expression, "the dole." Appearing before a Senate committee recently, he declared that every employer should be required to provide employment insurance for his wage-earners, either on a private system or on one established through the government.

The chief benefits of this, he believes, would be indirect. The man out of a job would have an income, to be sure, but Mr. Filene holds that the chief effect of this system would be to make employers take extra pains to stabilize business so that unemployment would be materially reduced.

Whether you agree with him or not, you must admit that he is at least a forward-looking business leader who has devoted some serious thought to one of the nation's most pressing problems.

COLLEGE "PROFESSIONALISM"

Harvard University athletic authorities have barred from Harvard Stadium a radio announcer who recently referred to the playing of a Harvard football star as "putrid." In making public this action, the authorities pointed out that college football players, after all, are young amateurs, and that it is quite out of place to comment on their performances as one would in the case of professionals.

This is quite true; and yet the growing tendency on the part of announcers, sports writers and the general public to treat college football players as professionals seems to us to be at least as much the colleges' fault as anyone's. No law compels any college to build a million-dollar stadium, to retain a dozen coaches on its staff or to hire a press agent to get news about its team in the papers. When a college does these things, can it really protest very convincingly when an unfeeling world applies the standards of professionalism in judging the work of its athletes?

HAZARDS OF THE GAS BUSINESS

No other public utility operation is as hazardous as the natural gas business.

The duration of the business is limited by nature, because the commodity in which the utility deals is supplied by nature alone. The supply is limited and is exhaustible, and when exhausted can never be recreated.

Artificial gas companies, electric light companies, railroad companies, telegraph and telephone companies create the basic elements of their service; their business is stable and their duration is not limited. But this is not true of a natural gas utility. When the supply of gas is exhausted, the equipment is worthless except for the price it will bring as junk.

It is vital to the progress and welfare of any community that its utility companies be extended a measure of co-operation which will permit them to give the excellent service which they desire to give—and which the citizens have a right to expect.

Robinson Good

In New Role

Edward G. Robinson, who plays with such force and naturalness the supposedly ruthless managing editor of a big town scandal sheet, in "Five Star Final" the melodrama of newspaper life at the Ritz theatre today did not attain his mastery of the part without intensive study.

"No amount of emphasis which I can lay," says Mr. Robinson, "on lines that were Greek to me could put them over. When my line is 'This galley is short two sticks. What do you want me to do? Replate the bulldog edition?' I simply had to know just what I was talking about, before I could say it in a way to carry conviction to my audiences."

That is the reason that Robinson with others who were to make the press room scenes of the picture, went so often to the Los Angeles newspapers—sat in as guest copy reader—listened to the lines—caught the mannerisms natural to the craft. When he began the part, he really knew the game. That is why his Randall is so vital.

Featured in Mr. Robinson's support are Marian Marsh, H. E. Warner, Anthony Bushell, George E. Stone, Frances Starr, Ono Munson, Boris Karloff, Robert Elliott, Aling MacMahon, Fumell B. Pratt, David Torrence, Oscar Apfel, Gladys Lloyd Evelyn Hall and Harold Waldridge. Mervyn Le Roy who directed the star in "Little Caesar" directed "Five Star Final."

Barbara Stanwyck Sensational Hit

The sweeping significance of a screen play like "The Miracle Woman" that opens at the Grand theatre today, should long remain in the memory of theatre-goers. Here is a brilliantly conceived film about the age-old but powerful theme of regeneration through love. Barbara Stanwyck contributes another of her memorable performances in the dramatic and emotional starring role. Without any question of doubt, here is a star that is sensational.

She is one of the outstanding actresses in pictures—beautiful and a performer of rare ability. Such sincerity in acting is rarely seen. She has made every one of her screen interpretations masterpiece through her ability to actually feel her way into the part. Don't miss her performance in this film.

Does Pep Squad Get in the Way?

PORT WORTH, Nov. 21.—Too much yelling and too much music at football games become monotonous and may have ill effects upon the players.

Thus thinks Coach Francis Schmidt of Texas Christian university. "If the yelling is done right, the players hear it and know the students are behind them. The yell leaders should use discretion, and instead of keeping the students yelling all the time, should keep up with the situation on the field and give the yell that will have the best effect on the team."

Most of the members of the 1931 Horned Frog team think that yelling sections are helpful to the players, at least at times. Several of them said that such support was most helpful when the team was behind.

Worn-out Suitcase Yields Tourist $60

TRINIDAD, Colo., Nov. 21 (UP).—Calvin Heeks, from Wisconsin, a tourist, bought a second-hand suitcase for $2 and enriched himself $60 thereby.

Heeks drove through Pueblo, Colo., he revealed here, and bought the suitcase at a second-hand store, paying his $2.

There were odds and ends of a battered experience in the old suitcase. Heeks was throwing away the debris, when he came upon a wallet.

In the wallet were three worn $20 bills.

The House That "Jack" Built

Hoover's Foes to Control New Session of Congress

This is the first of a series of several stories by Rodney Dutcher, Washington correspondent for The Reporter-Telegram and NEA Service, on big issues before the new session of Congress that convenes Dec. 7.

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Whatever the seventy-second congress may do will be achieved in the face of these facts:

It is chiefly composed of politicians looking eagerly and anxiously toward the elections of 1932. Effective control of the House or Senate will not be held by either major party.

In both houses there will be majorities hostile to President Hoover.

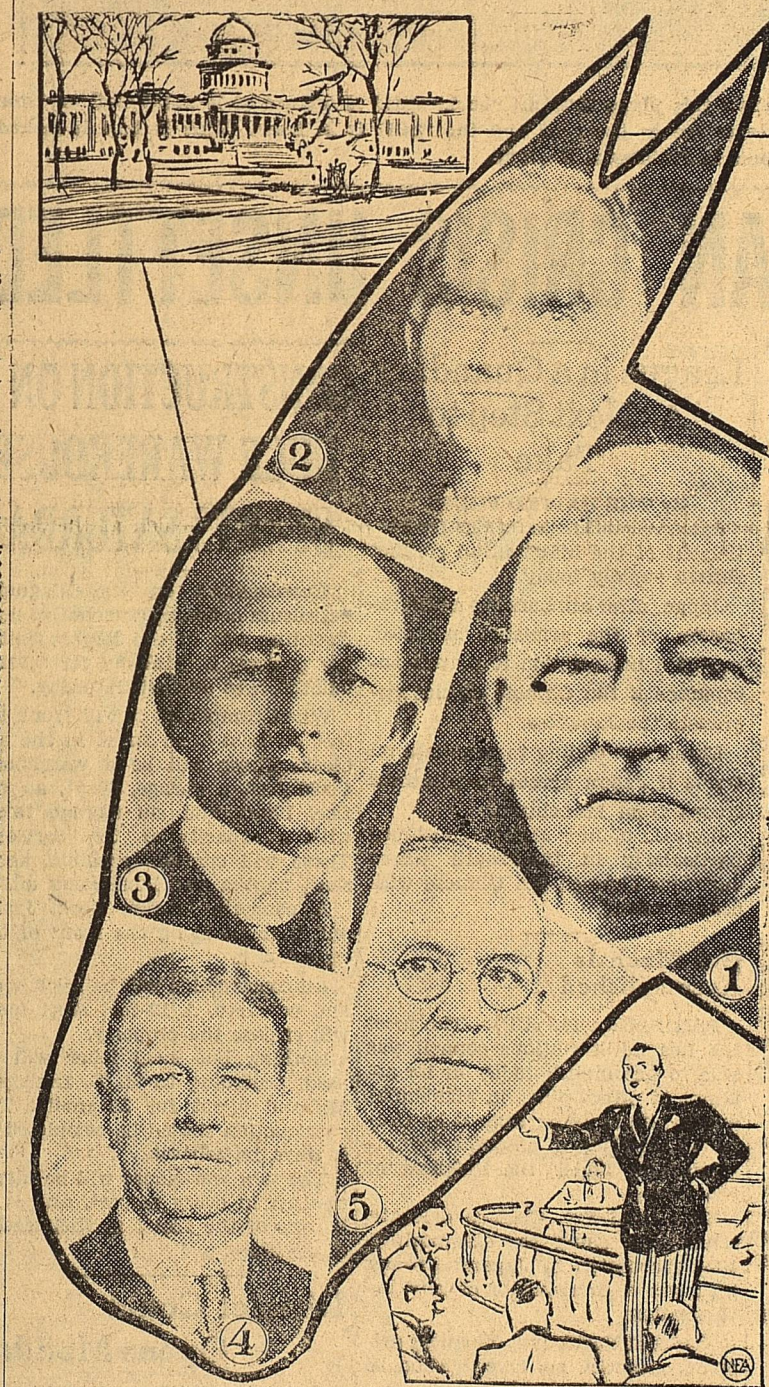

PARTY LINES CLOSE IN BOTH HOUSES

Party lines in the seventy-second congress, which meets Dec. 7, are now as follows: The Senate: Republicans, 48; Democrats, 47; Farmer-Labor, 1.

The House: Democrats, 217; Republicans 214; Farmer-Labor, 1.

There are three House vacancies to be filled by election, one in New Jersey on Dec. 1, the others in New Hampshire and Texas early in 1932.

New Jersey must elect a successor to the late Senator Dwight Morrow, whose seat will be held temporarily by an appointed Republican. The Democrats, who have just elected a governor, hope to capture that seat for a total of 48. In that case Senator Henrik Shipstead, the Minnesota Farmer-Laborite, would hold a one-man balance of power.

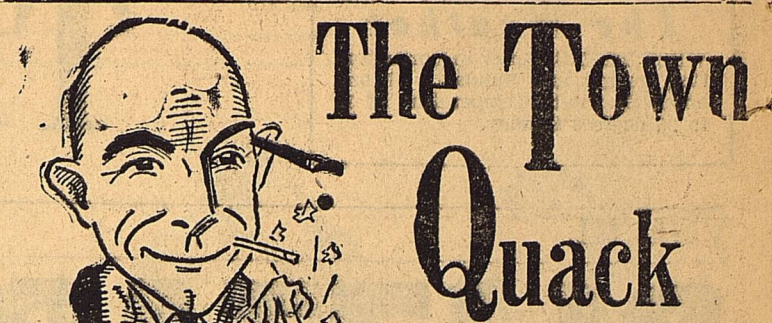

The Democratic donkey brays in the new Congress for the first time since Woodrow Wilson's administration as the result of seizure of control of the House by the Democrats and here are some of the party members in line by reason of seniority for important positions: 1.—Rep. Jack Garner, Texas, speaker; 2.—Rep. Joseph W. Byrns, Tennessee, chairman of appropriations committee; 3.—Rep. Marvin Jones, Texas, chairman agriculture committee; 4.—Rep. J. Charles Linthicum, Maryland, chairman foreign affairs committee; 5.—Rep. James W. Collier, Mississippi, chairman ways and means committee.

the World war, must assume leadership and present a genuine legislative program. Their position is delicate, for they must prove to the country, for election purposes, that they are "fit to rule."

Their policy will be to be progressive enough to attract popular support and to distinguish their tenets from the Republicans' and to be conservative enough to prevent the business interests from being worried. They must oppose Hoover as often as their consciences justify them and must make him appear as incompetent as they can. But they must also avoid—or seem to avoid—playing politics at public expense. It's a delicate job. Responsibility rests heavily on the shoulders of Jack Garner.

The unanimity of the Democratic support behind Garner for speaker is one of the blessing this Congress on which the country should have been congratulating itself since a Democratic majority was assured. The bitter contest in Republican ranks between John Q. Tilson of Connecticut and Bert Snell of New York, badly complicated by the unwillingness of Republican members to support

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

Not long ago there was a horse race between a dun and a paint. A race fan said, "What in the world would you do in a case like that? I've always been told to bet against a dun or a paint, but here are two in a matched race."

From reports I heard yesterday, there will be a race today that is worse than that. It will be between two paints. I don't know the details but I was told to bet out at Cowboy park at 2:30 this afternoon if I didn't want to miss the fun. Two paints for a quarter of a mile.

Now about those Bulldogs up at the high school. They have done everything they were expected to do and then some. By all odds, Big Spring was due to beat them and so was San Angelo. The latter team was lucky to do it. The Bulldogs were due to beat McCamey and Colorado and how they did pour it on Colorado. All that is left of the district schedule is to meet Sweetwater, the apparent champions, here Thanksgiving day. Everybody over the district expects Sweetwater to have a walk-over and expects the Bulldogs to be a push-over. What are we going to do about it? Let's show the Bulldogs the best support they have been given this season and help them spring a statewide surprise, blocking the Mustangs in their attempt to carry off state honors. The Bulldogs can do it, everything being right.

A whole fleet of anti-aircraft trucks, with guns pointing ominously toward the sky, passed through here yesterday. One man said he was sure they were headed for China. At any rate, China seems a popular destination these days for an accident going somewhere to happen.

An optimist takes the cold water thrown on his proposition, turns it into steam and forges ahead.

I heard the other day about a fellow who was so contrary that he would stand on his head to watch the sunset and then argue that it was the sunrise.

By "COKE" WILLIAMSON

Council Executive

Answering a question whether communities this winter should curtail preventive and constructive social welfare work in favor of direct relief in terms of food, clothing and shelter, Dr. George E. Vincent, president-emeritus of the Rockefeller foundation, has issued a statement in which he declares that "America will be in no position to claim victory at the end of this depression merely because nobody has died of cold or starvation."

The question was put to Dr. Vincent on behalf of civic leaders and public officials throughout the country by the association of community chests and councils, which is co-operating with the president's organization on unemployment relief, headed by Walter S. Gifford. Dr. Vincent's statement follows: "There is an ancient Greek saying: 'Cities were founded that men might live, and continued that they might live well.' America has sought to find this ideal in many ways. The city community has been more and more clearly seen as a place in which individuals and families should be able to live more vigorous, more satisfying, happier lives. We have set for ourselves a higher standard than any of the nations.

Democrats Divide Spoils The Democrats are now trying to work out among themselves a more or less amicable arrangement for dividing the spoils which come to them in the form of committee chairmanships.

Northern Democrats objected that under the traditional seniority rule most of the prized chairmanships went to southern members, especially to those from Garner's state of Texas. The first effort to smooth out the situation arising from the northern demand for recognition was seen in the general disposition to elect a northern member as Garner leader to share direction with Garner.

Next: Unemployment relief as an issue in the new Congress. What to do with six million jobless men. Federal aid vs. charity and some of the remedies that are suggested.

"American cities seek to extend to all citizens opportunities for health, recreation, education, social intercourse, enjoyment of beauty, and the development of character. To do this agencies, public and private, have been created. Gradually they have built up a remarkable system of clinics, health centers, visiting nurses, hospitals, societies for family care, social settlements, gymnasiums, playgrounds, public baths, clubs for adults, for young people, for boys and girls, libraries, schools, evening classes, art galleries, museums, public concerts. Large numbers of trained and experienced people are devoting their lives to the carrying on of these activities.

"At a time when special appeals are being made for emergency relief, it is vitally important not to withdraw support from the fundamental and permanent social services. To fail them now would be to lower American standards, to sacrifice the future to the present, to undermine hope and courage just when they need to be reinforced. Emergency relief must be a temporary addition to the community's budget, public and private, not a substitution for established obligations.

"This depression has put America's advanced social standards to a severe test. We have boasted that this is the best and happiest country in the world in which to live. If this boast is to be made good, if we are to come through this depression in a creditable manner, we must maintain all of the advantages which we have taught our people to expect. America will be in no position to claim victory at the end of this depression merely because nobody has died of cold or starvation. America can claim complete victory over the social consequences of the depression only if she insures the maintenance of the social standards toward which she has dedicated so much of her wealth and so much of her best thinking."

MIDLAND GRID SQUAD PUTS ON CIRCUS TO BEAT COLORADO CLUB

SIX TOUCHDOWNS SCORED; YARDAGE OF MORE THAN 525 PACES IS HUNG UP; TWO FULL TEAMS ARE PLAYED

Midland high school's football team scored almost as well against Colorado Friday afternoon to win 37-7 and boost its District 4 percentage to .500 with two games won and two lost. Through annexing the easy game Midland clinched leadership of the second division.

Midland scored six touchdowns and converted three added points after touchdown. Midkiff crashed through for the first touchdown in less than a minute from the opening whistle. Midland kicked off to Colorado and a Wolf back fumbled. Midland recovering, Midkiff went over for the first marker.

A bare few minutes later Midland scored again. Hallman went over and Midkiff converted the extra point. Then Midland kicked to the Colorado 22-yard line and the Wolves, after gaining to the 36-yard line, punted to the Midland 22, where Midland backs, behind good line play and superior blocking, started a drive that ended on the 5-yard line, where the ball went over. Burris made 3, Hallman 5, Burris 35, Midkiff 4, Hallman 4, Hallman 6, Burris 9, Midkiff 5. The first quarter ended with Midland in possession of the ball on the Colorado 15. Score Midland 13, Colorado 0.

In the second period the Bulldogs started straight for goal and were not headed. Hallman, Midkiff and Burris hit the line and Hallman carried the ball over from the 2-foot line. Sherrod missed his attempt to boot the extra point.

Midland kicked off and Colorado, for the first time during the afternoon, showed gasping strength. Hall, one of the fastest backs seen in the district this season, returned the kickoff from the Colorado 30 to his 43. A long pass to Stagner was good and he was in the open field. Burris tackled him two yards short of the Midland goal line, overtaking him from the rear. Sherrod leaped over the two and blocked the rolling pass from spinning over the last stripe. Colorado could not gain.

Midland backs worked the ball to the Colorado 32, but a fumble let Colorado have it on the 40. Colorado could not gain but 7 yards, and punted with the high wind over the Midland goal line. Burris romped 10 yards on the first play, Hallman 5, Hallman 3, Burris 12, Hallman 12, Long 8 on an end-around play, McCall lost 2 on a similar play, Parrott made 7, Burris 16 at right end, Burris lost 9 on a left end run, and Parrott picked up 4 at left tackle. The ball went over and Colorado punted to the Midland 44. A flock of substitutes had been drifting into the game most of the second and part of the first period. "Little" Booth ran the punt back 28 yards as the gun for the hawk sounded.

Score, Midland 19, Colorado 0.

Old-time Convicts Hail "New Day" as Pigskin's Thud Is Heard at Prison

It wasn't a lock-step, but a triumphant march onto the gridiron for Sing Sing convicts who played their first football game against an outside team within the penitentiary walls. At the head of the parade pictured here are the members of the United States Naval Militia team, who later were defeated 33 to 0, and in the rear are the convict players. The mascot, a pony painted with black and white stripes, was ridden by Joan Maria Lawes, 10-year-old daughter of Warden Lewis Lawes.

(come to me and says, 'Here, Pop, here's a football. I bet you never saw one before.')

"I hadn't either. It was sort of a sort of a symbol. You know what I mean?"

That was "Pop," a trusty who has no other name, and who was allowed on the visitors' side of the field. Five hundred persons from "outside," men and women, were jammed into the covered bleachers, and 200 more had been turned away. Along the top of the south wall, from which hidden machine guns covered the apparently unguarded prisoners news photographers and movie picture men recorded the scene and the exciting action on Lawes field.

Never Played Before

Another trusty ("Just call me Pete") aided in the identification of the Sing Sing players. Pete knows football, and as a hospital attache he has appointed himself "a sort of trainer for the boys."

"You wouldn't think, from the way we're lickin' that militia team that seven of our men out there never played before. Alabama Pitts, him that just made that last touchdown, played only a little in the Navy before he came here."

"Barrett, that left end, played with a Philadelphia high school team once, and Nelson, the right half, was on a state university team. Mariano, the fullback, is our Carideo. Looks like him, too. Messina, there, played on the Federal team at Atlanta once. Shorty Martone, the little runt that's been catching all those passes, has a bad shoulder and we didn't want him to play today. But they'll all play 'til they dropped in their tracks."

"Look at that pass! Forty-five yards—I mean yards—if it's an inch. That's Jumbo. Never mind his name—just Jumbo. There's the half."

Alabama Pitts, captain, quarterback, star and prison hero.

"We're beating 'em pretty bad because their team is too light. Besides we got a lot of good plays they didn't figure out. The New York Giants professional team has been coming up here and coaching us."

"But we've got some plays of our own, too. All the men here seem to be interested, and they come around to me with ideas about how to work new plays. They do that instead of figuring ways to go over the wall. They follow football in the newspapers and we see games in the movies here."

The Coach Speaks

Red-headed George Hope, the Sing Sing coach, was willing to talk. Hope used to play on a Navy team, too, and looks more like a lithe athlete than a man doing 59 years for kidnapping two Broadway gangsters.

"I keep the guys in shape, all right," he said. "I make 'em train, and they like it. Naturally I don't have any trouble makin' 'em keep regular hours."

"It's a great thing for all the inmates here. Of course, not all can play—only about 70 now—but it's their own fault. We had eight teams inside here not long ago, picked from the different shops. But they played so hard that half of 'em were in hospital most of the time. So now we only got two teams."

"They played four games so far. Each team won once, and two games were tied. The series will be played off pretty soon, and it's all the men talk about. They've bet their shirts

PREPARATION FOR AGGIE-TEXAS ROW YEAR'S GREATEST

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 21.—Thanksgiving day at Texas A & M college where the thirty-eighth gridiron battle between the Texas Aggies and the Texas Longhorns will be staged this year, has been designated "homecoming day" for A & M former students, and various committees at the college are rapidly rounding out plans to make of the program for the 30,000 or more visitors expected one of numerous features and much interest. It will be the first time in years that a football game at the college has been the occasion for a "homecoming" celebration and extensive preparations to make the event a success are under way.

Governor Ross Sterling is scheduled to initiate the opening of the gridiron classic by throwing the football to be used in the game from his box on the west side of the stadium to the waiting team captains. Flanking the box of the Governor and his party will be boxes for President T. O. Walton of A & M and President H. V. Benedict of the University of Texas.

Pre-game ceremonies at Kyle field will feature a memorial service for Knute Rockne, Notre Dame's iron man who was lost to the gridiron through an airplane accident. While the A & M cadet corps stands in military formation on the gridiron, buglers will sound "Silver Taps" in memory of the coach whose prowess in training young men in athletic proficiency made of him a national hero.

The college Y. M. C. A. building will be headquarters for A & M former students and adherents and Guion Hall, the college auditorium, will be headquarters for Texas University partisans. Hart Hall, one of the newest dormitories on the campus, will be vacated by A & M students early Thursday morning and will be available for visiting ladies. Space for men will be available in virtually all other dormitories on the campus.

The day promises to be a colorful one. More than seventeen special trains have already been scheduled to help in bringing the great crowd that will view the game. Spectators are promised special performances during the intermission of the game when the A & M 100-piece band and Longhorn band, the Cowboys, and the Orange Jackets from Texas will stage special features on the gridiron.

A & M cadets are preparing for one of the greatest pre-game yell practices or rallies Wednesday night, on the eve of the battle day, ever held on the A & M campus. The pile of fuel for the huge bonfire which is always lighted at A & M the night prior to a game with Texas University has already assumed gigantic proportions.

Chief Yell Leader J. U. Parker, of Sherman, will preside at this bonfire yell practice. Other Aggie yell leaders who will assist include Jaul Luckett, El Paso; George Brundett, Dallas; T. B. Goodrich, Marlin. Among former Aggie yell leaders and athletic stars invited to participate in the program are "Preacher" Durst, "Beaumont" Buck, "Dutch" Hahn, Mulvin Goodwin, Tyree Bell, Benny Garrity and Johnny Garrity.

The pre-game exercises at Kyle field will start at 1:40 o'clock and the game is scheduled to start at 2:30 o'clock. The gates of Kyle field will be opened at noon.

In opening the pre-game ceremonies at Kyle field, the A & M cadet corps will march in formation on the gridiron. Senior A & M students will form a large human "V" in the stands on the east side of the field while the corps forms in columns on the gridiron. As "Silver Taps" are sounded for Rockne, the A & M seniors in the stands will form a large "R."

On registering at headquarters at the Y. M. C. A., A & M "exes" will receive tickets to a meal in the college mess hall which will also be open from 11 to 1:30 o'clock during the day to care for other visitors. The A & M cadets will not take their noon meal in the mess hall but will be served sack lunches as they leave the building after breakfast.

The college drill field will be used as a parking ground for automobiles during the game. College officials have worked out a traffic system for the day and a number of Texas rangers and highway patrolmen will supplement the regular college policemen and the college military detachment in handling the crowds. A landing field just south of Kyle field and another just south of Bryan will be available for fans who make the trip by airplane.

Thanksgiving day dance honoring members of the Aggie football team and cross country teams will be given in the college mess hall Thursday night.

Special trains scheduled by the Southern Pacific and Missouri Pacific include five from Austin and two at least from Houston with others from Dallas and Fort Worth, Waco, Kenney, Longview, San Angelo, Temple, San Antonio, Bay City, Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange.

SPORTS REPORTS

By R. C. HANKINS

Midland schoolboy gridsters know how Big Spring felt all the way up to the ultimate settlement with Sweetwater when they dodged, and squirmed, smashed and drove all over the lot Friday.

While an insistent chill was wafted from the four directions and fractions thereof, a hot Midland club waged merry warfare with the little bad boys from Colorado. It seems Midland boys had been told by Papa Barry that no club of this high school save one had been able to lift the bacon from the Colorado Wild Dogs. While we were idly guessing at a 19-0 decision he was telling his fads to win by five touchdowns or daddy spank.

The coaches tell us every man of the first and second string played Friday. That lets a bunch of men letter, we suppose. A good idea. Men who wear the letter think, eat and dream football. We need a lot of that in Midland next season.

All Go to Games

"Be sure to put in your paper about how all this is due to the Warden. That was his little daughter—Cherie, we call her—who rode the pony painted with stripes in the parade before the game."

"The Warden lets all the men come to these games, except the ones in the death house of course. I guess there's nearly 2300 men here watching now. And for the men who can't leave their cells, and the ones in hospital, there's an announcer over there on the roof of the stands talking on the prison radio."

"I bet you never heard of anything like this in any other pen—playing teams from outside and all. Part of the admission money goes for the unemployment relief fund in Ossining, and part to our welfare league here."

"And don't forget to put in your paper about the Warden."

Frigidaire Men Meet in Midland

A district meeting of Frigidaire representatives to map out definite sales plans for the Christmas season was held at the Midland Hardware company here Friday.

Instructive suggestions were given by L. M. Van Vleck, vice president of the P. M. Bratton company of the West Texas-New Mexico division, and E. W. Kinney, district superintendent.

Ten representatives were here from Sweetwater, Big Spring, eastern New Mexico and Midland.

A carload of Frigidaire has been received by the Midland hardware, local dealer, in preparation for the demand that occurs during the Christmas shopping season.

"I am personally convinced that local business conditions are showing considerable improvement and have every confidence that retail trade during the next few weeks will show a great deal of improvement," George D. McCormick, store manager, said.

PLANES ARE WARM

Heavy, cumbersome wraps are no longer necessary for comfort in winter air travel, now a common-place form of cold weather transportation.

Air line passengers today may dress for a plane trip the same as if traveling by motor car or by train. The problem of heating passenger ships has been solved by Century Air lines through installation of a new type heating device in every plane on its middle west division.

The heaters, designed by the Stinson Aircraft corporation, keep interiors of cabin ships at even, comfortable temperatures regardless of weather conditions outside the plane.

In addition, they enable constant ventilation of planes and eliminate "stiffness" which might be as distressing as cold cabins.

ary Red Cross roll call, held Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, under the auspices of the local Red Cross chapter, has been the most successful campaign in its history.

A complete check up is not available, since workers were on the streets until late in the afternoon, but reports are in now to show that a total of near $1,200 was subscribed representing something like 650 Red Cross memberships. This indicates that nearly $850 will be retained in Midland for local relief, working in conjunction with the Midland welfare association. While we had hoped to get sufficient funds to carry our welfare program through the winter, we are happy over this success and it will go far toward relieving the situation for a time at least. Workers were unanimous in their reports that most everyone expressed a desire to do their best, especially for local relief work, and the number that gave substantiates these statements.

"As roll call chairman, I want to thank, especially The Reporter-Telegram for the splendid and generous publicity, Paul Vickers, the publicity chairman, the three boy scouts, Newbie Ellis, Walker Fuller and Lorin Grantman, who distributed the leaflets, the 60 women who made the house-to-house canvass, and any one else who contributed to the enrollment of the appreciated hundreds of donors to this merited organization. After all, the knowledge of a service well done is recompense sufficient for such a task, and I believe everyone has considered it a privilege to have had a part in this great and noble humanitarian effort for the unfortunate and suffering."

"You may expect many more former Midland oil men to return during the next few months," Mannschreck told an official of the Midland chamber. Both oil men and their wives expressed pleasure at returning and declared they believed and hoped they were here to stay.

It is a consensus of opinion among oil men that the trend is turning this way and that Midland's dreams of becoming a great residential oil city will yet be realized. Recently the Midland chamber of commerce sent a series of seven letters each to 14 oil companies and reports favorable indications, though no immediate action.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE FOR CHURCHES HERE

Several churches of Midland will meet for a union service Wednesday evening, 7:30 o'clock, at the First Presbyterian church for a Thanksgiving service.

The Rev. W. J. Coleman, pastor, will speak on "Practical Thanksgiving," using the text: "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits toward me?"

Mr. Coleman said, "We are anticipating a delightful musical program under the direction of Superintendent W. W. Lackey of the First Baptist church. The Rev. Winston F. Borum, pastor of that church, will offer a prayer of thanks. The Rev. Howard Peters, pastor of the First Christian church, will have charge of the service and will offer the benediction.

"When our Savior was on earth He became familiar with ingratitude and had occasion to ask, 'Were there not ten cleansed? But where are the nine?' Surely, the Christian population of Midland will do as well at this Thanksgiving service, meaning we shall expect at least one-tenth of those who have been cleansed, to 'give thanks unto the Lord with us.'"

Ability to convert for the extra point after touchdown, as well as a lead goat or two thrown in, were deciding factors in several games of the day.

Probably the biggest upset for the day was the defeat of Notre Dame by the eleven from southern California. Trailing by the score of 14-0 at the end of the third period, the Trojans started an offense led by Womler and Shaver that led to two touchdowns. Baker missed the try for point after the first score but more than redeemed himself when with only one minute left to play,

Thanksgiving Is Story Hour Motif

Various Thanksgiving features were presented on this program of the Children's story hour at the library conducted by Mrs. George Abell Saturday afternoon.

The Rev. Edwin C. Calhoun opened the program with prayer and the story of the origin of Thanksgiving. Motion picture slides of the 100 and 103 Psalms, Onward Christian Soldiers and the Star Spangled Banner, were shown by Mr. Calhoun.

A song, "My Texas," was sung by Eddie Jean Cole, Lady Rankin, Bob Dozier and Tad Crane under the direction of Miss Louise Rippy. Mrs. Van Camp played the accompaniment.

Dorothy Lou Speed introduced a direct descendant of an Indian, John Journeyake, who was dressed in a native costume.

Mary Margaret Fuller gave a Thanksgiving reading.

Stories told by Mrs. Abell were "Betty Doll," "The Lucky Boy of Toy Volley" and "Peter Rabbit Decides to Change His Name."

Children attending were: Frances Irene Palmer, Raymond Hundie, Jessa Lynn Tuttle, Marjorie Hall, Patsy Ruth Pope, Dolores Barron, Eileen Eiland, Bessie Lou Parker, Henry Beth Abbott, Bessie Christine Johnson, Mildred Connor, Wilford Lester, Jr., Edith Wemple, Glenn Louise Jones, Emily Jane Lamar.

MIDLAND LEGION TO BROADCAST ON RADIO STATION

Midland legionnaires will broadcast over the radio station KGKL in San Angelo Sunday afternoon, from 1 until 2 o'clock.

On the program will be Mr. and Mrs. Barney T. Smith, Mrs. Leon Goodman, Wallace Wimberly, and the "Three Jones Brothers," Oren, Leman and Amil, and Joseph A. Seymour.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Goodman will sing; Wimberly will accompany on the piano and will play a piano solo; Smith will play the violin; Seymour will speak for five minutes for the legion, and will represent the Midland chamber of commerce.

The Jones Brothers will play rag time.

The program will be under the auspices of the legion here, and will be augmented by San Angelo artists. E. E. (Pat) Murphy will act as master of ceremonies.

The station is rated at 1370 kilocycles.

Another game that might be classed as an upset was Yale's defeat of Harvard. The only score in this game came in the last three minutes of play when little Albie Booth booted a perfect goal from the Harvard 12-yard line. This was a drop kick. Fifty-seven thousand people saw the game.

Holy Cross also defeated Loyola, of Baltimore, by the score of 16-14.

In another upset of the day, Michigan defeated Minnesota by the score of 6-0. The Wolverines hammered the Minnesota goal several times during the game, but with the exception of the one time, were unable to penetrate the losers' goal line defense. Munn would punt out of temporary danger. It was said that Munn gave the greatest kicking demonstration ever seen in the middle west. And there have been some good ones in the Big Ten.

Every score in the game between Southern Methodist and the Navy was the direct result of a pass. After Mason had fumbled a punt on his own 18-yard line in the first quarter the Navy recovered, and on the first play Kirm of the Midshipmen threw a pass that gave the Navy a temporary lead of 6-0. In the second period Coach Miller of the Tars took out his starting back in breaking up the Methodist pass offense. The Texas lads were quick to take advantage of this and scored two touchdowns in short order.

The first was a 40-yard toss from Travis to Mason, who then trotted 20 yards to tie up the score. The next was a 30-yard toss by the same combination and Mason had only to step across the goal line to score the winning marker.

Tulane defeated Sewanee 40-0, but had a perfect alibi in the fact that it rained all during the game. Sewanee should have called for a snowstorm, hail and fog. They might have been able to hold the score down to 35 points.

After Saturday's games, only five schools can show a clean slate for the season and one of these teams is the Southern Methodist Mustangs of Dallas. The other four are Tulane, Davis and Elkins, North-

Midland Invited To Enter Contest

STAMFORD, Nov. 21.—Residents of Midland are invited to put their thinking caps on, maybe win one hundred dollars and do a great service to Texas. The West Texas chamber of commerce has announced a contest to select a trade-mark for Texas fed meats.

To the man, woman, or child who suggests the best trade-mark for Texas fed meats, which will be used to identify such meats and popularize their use and demand at markets, cafes, and hotels, the West Texas chamber of commerce is offering a cash prize of one hundred dollars.

Three judges yet to be named will pick the winner. The contest originated with the Livestock committee of the West Texas chamber, which is working for increased consumption of Texas meats in Texas, and the promoting of feeding Texas livestock in Texas. John M. Gist of Odessa is chairman of the committee, and Paul T. Vickers of Midland, secretary.
