MIDLAND SET FOR SWEETWATER

STATE-A & M. ROW TOPMOST SMU - TCU Game Is Ace of Week-End Card

By IRVING ISRAEL
AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 26.—The premier gridiron struggle of the year between two perpetual rivals, the University of Texas Longhorns and the Texas Aggies, will be staged on the green turf of Kyle field this afternoon. Notwithstanding the Texas Christian-Southern Methodist struggle for Southwestern supremacy Saturday at Fort Worth, the Thanksgiving day football clash easily headlines the curtain week of this fall's program. Rice and Baylor will pit forces against each other Saturday at Houston in the final conference fray for both elevens. Season's records go for naught when the Longhorns and the Aggies annually face each other in the Southwest's pigskin climax—and this year will be no exception. The two age-old adversaries will not be battling for a conference wreath this season, as both have tasted the bitter dregs of defeat and are out of the conference running.

Neither Finishes High
The best either can attain by a victory will be third place in the league standing. The Longhorns, however, have a more grim purpose than a third place ranking in the conference. A rugged determination to administer defeat to the Aggies on Kyle field is the aim of the Steers this year. In alternate years since 1923 the Steers have encountered the Farmers at Aggie land and each time their victory thrusts were thwarted, even though the Orange and White were favorites in practically every one of these contests.

The Aggie line this year appears to stack up in a way that the Longhorn forward wall. In the end, tackle and guard positions the Farmers look to be the most formidable, while the Steers hold the edge in but one, the pivot position. Steer Backs Stronger
Back field laurels decidedly belong to the Longhorns, Koy, Stafford, Elkins, Craig, Clewis, Burt, Weaver, and Baldrige have no peer in the conference. Koy, Stafford, and Elkins will be fighting for all conference honors against the Aggies.

Both schools are laying extensive preparations for gigantic rallies in a last concerted effort to urge their respective teams on to victory. Texas' notable, including Governor Ross Sterling and wife, will journey to College Station. Dedication of a memorial to Knute Rockne will be a pre-game event.

Saturday Big Day
Four conference foes will swing into action Saturday, with two battles for conference honors. Southern Methodist and Texas Christian tangle up at Cowtown in a game marked by a last desperate effort of the Christians to earn a tie for the Southwest championship. A Horned Toad victory is the only possible chance for a co-championship, but a SMU loss seems unlikely.

S. M. U. one of the five remaining undefeated and untied elevens in the United States, should experience little difficulty in overcoming the Toads, losers to the Longhorns two weeks ago. However, the Toads have everything to gain and little to lose, while the Mustangs have a conference leadership at stake.

Baylor-Rice Fray
Rice and Baylor will shoot the works against each other Saturday in an attempt to better one another's standing. There is little to choose between the two teams, although the Owls have a decided advantage of playing at home.

Last week's games heaped no insults on the heads of the experts, for all contests resulted as expected. The Longhorns journeyed to Shreveport, La., Friday and toyed with the Centenary Gentlemen, preparatory to their annual classic with the Aggies on Thanksgiving day. Using his regulars but sparingly, Coach Littlefield expressed satisfaction in a 6-0 win.

The Mustangs silenced Navy guns, 13-6, although the victory margin proved disappointing, for the Midland (See SMU-TCU page 4)

WOMAN SOLON IS FAMED FOR CULINARY SKILL

JONESBORO, Ark., Nov. 26. (UP)—Mrs. Hattie Caraway, the first woman from Arkansas to serve in the United States senate and the second ever named to the upper house of congress is a brown-haired, slightly built, motherly appearing woman. She long has been a favorite of senators and their wives. Her southern dishes are known here and in Washington as specialties that she only can prepare, or direct their preparation. Her three sons, two of them officers in the United States army, vouch for her cooking.

Mrs. Caraway recently was appointed by Governor Harvey Parnell to temporarily fill the position left vacant by the death of her husband, Thaddeus H. Caraway, to January 12 when a special election will be held.

Cue From Governor
Taking their cue from Governor Parnell, who said when he nominated her that she should be named to serve until March, 1933, Arkansas politicians believe she will receive the nomination of the Democratic central committee when it meets here Dec. 1. The Democratic nomination here is equivalent to election.

The Caraway sons will tell you their mother is a great deal more than a good cook. Lieutenant Paul Caraway, the eldest, who has many of the physical characteristics of his father, told of the part his mother played in the life of his distinguished father.

She was, he said, his counselor and advisor. She was the first to drive an automobile in the Caraway family, though since an accident three years ago, she does little driving. The rest of the family had their first driving lessons from her.

Hangs to Back Seat
"Now when we drive," said Forrest Caraway, who like his brother is a lieutenant in the army, "mother hangs onto the back seat."

Mrs. Caraway and her husband moved to Jonesboro in 1902. They met each other while attending Dickson Normal college, a Tennessee school which has been closed since the Caraways were students together there.

Their honeymoon took them to New Orleans, the spot where Mrs. Caraway was first interviewed by newspaper men. The interview took place last winter when she was the only woman delegate at a national cotton relief conference.

She has become accustomed to interviews. She speaks quietly without raising her voice. Questions of controversial matters are dismissed with the rejoinder: "Now, you don't think I should answer that, do you?" And she doesn't.

Never Campaigned
Shortly after she was nominated she said she never had made a political speech in her life, or gone on a speech making campaign for her husband though she worked in his headquarters whenever he ran for office.

While the senator was living, she said, she was too interested in him to become interested in politics. None of the sons said they were interested in politics to any great extent. Robert, the youngest, has not made up his mind what profession he will follow.

She said they often discussed legislation the senator was interested in, but she was firm in her belief that Senator Caraway made up his own mind about legislation before even conferring with her.

Special Musical Features Offered
Two special musical features are offered at the Men's class of Hotel Scharbauer next Sunday. A crack orchestra will play, and a men's chorus will sing. A minimum of 200 men are expected, as every man and boy in Midland not attending Sunday school elsewhere is invited to this class which is for men of all denominations, and for those who do not believe in God or Christ.

What will Midland do for Thanksgiving?

Many will remain in the city, having dinner at home or with friends, later going to the Midland-Sweetwater football game.

Several have gone to other cities of the state to be with friends and family members enrolled in colleges and universities.

Several high school faculty members will eat Thanksgiving turkey with their families in other towns. A check-up showed:

Mrs. John B. Thomas and children, Reed and John B., Jr., are spending Thanksgiving and the remainder of the week with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Hurt, in Big Spring.

Miss Cordella Taylor, Miss Lotta Williams and Jess Rogers will leave Midland Friday for Fort Worth to attend the TCU-SMU football game.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Holmsley are spending the holiday with their son, Jack Holmsley and Mrs. Holmsley in Big Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Patten and the J. B. Lovejoys left this morning for Fort Worth for Thanksgiving. They will remain for the Southwest conference game there Saturday.

Mrs. Alma Thomas left Wednesday afternoon for Austin to visit friends during the holidays. She was accompanied by Mrs. T. Paul Barron and son, Charles, who will go from there to Range to visit her mother, Mrs. E. B. Rutledge and sister, Mrs. C. W. Boyce. Miss Francis Lomax will go with the party as far as Abilene where she will spend Thanksgiving.

Miss Beulah Mae Brunson and her sister, Mrs. Roberts, have gone to Breckenridge for a Thanksgiving visit with their mother, Mrs. Bernice Brunson.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Myrick and her mother, Mrs. J. S. Cordill left Wednesday afternoon for Austin to visit relatives and attend a Thanksgiving game. They will return Sunday.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Knight Thanksgiving day and visitors at the ball game include Mr. and Mrs. Louis Collier and Mr. and Mrs. Lige Lamb of Colorado, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Hardy of Sweetwater and Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Cannon of Odessa.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Butler and daughter and Miss Velma Winborne are spending Thanksgiving at Kermit with Mrs. Butler's and Miss Winborne's sister, Mrs. Walton.

Miss Mary Lou Throver, former Midland high school student, is here for Thanksgiving as a guest of Miss Drotha Johnson. Her home is in Ranger.

Miss Lillian Dunaway of Fort Worth and Howard Dunaway of Houston, have arrived here to spend the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Dunaway.

Principal D. D. Shifflett will remain in Midland for the game this afternoon, leaving later for Fort Worth to see the TCU-SMU game Saturday.

Supt. W. W. Lackey, after attending the Midland game, will leave for Amarillo to attend the state teachers' convention.

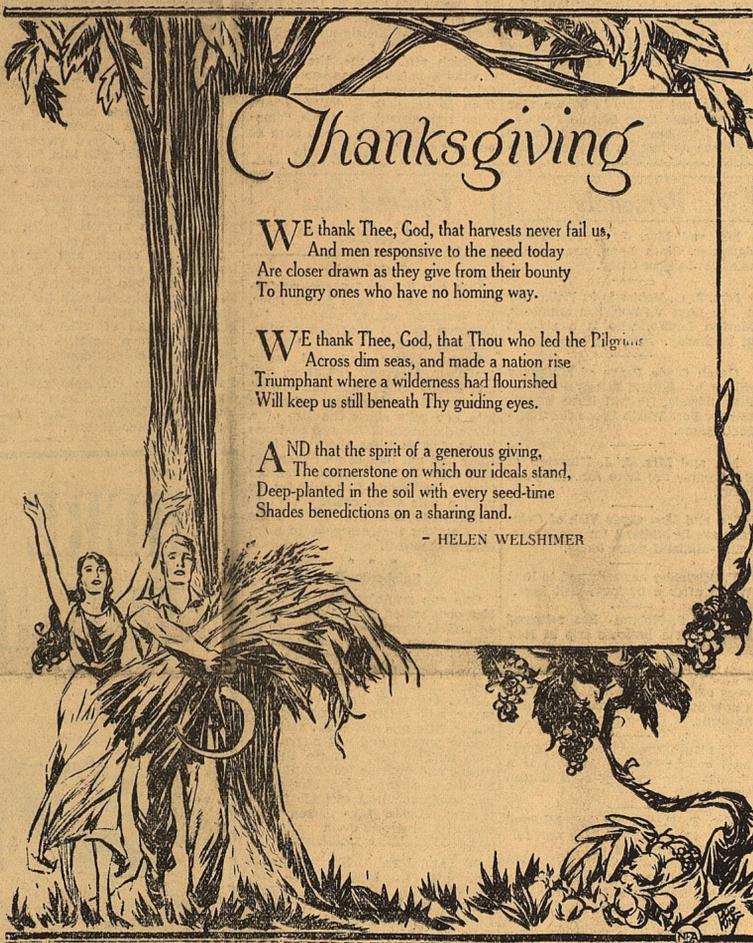

Miss Vera Heifer will be in Amarillo attending the state convention. Some of the leading business men of Midland are so impressed with the opportunity to improve their sales knowledge and that of their clerks that they are requiring all of their men and women employees to hear Stanley in these free lectures.

Stanley is now director of the trade extension division of the Dallas chamber of commerce, and that organization bears the expense of his lectures in Midland. He talks from the standpoint of the practical man, having himself been a store clerk, a big city newspaper man and a former lecturer for Alexander Hamilton institute of New York City.

He has lectured in such cities as Memphis, Tenn., Dallas, Houston, El Paso, and scores of smaller cities. His talks are not the dry kind, those who have heard him declare. It is said that every man who makes his own living, whether as a farmer, cattle man, merchant or professional man, must be a salesman. Stanley talks on sales personality, courtesy, merchandising, advertising, salesmanship and other elements requisite to success.

Every man and woman in Midland not too old to learn, and ambitious to succeed in whatever he is doing is urged to hear the three lectures. At least 150 people are expected next Monday night.

Mrs. Van Camp will visit relatives (See THANKSGIVING page 4).

Business Institute to Be Conducted by Midland C.C.

Business men, clerks, lawyers, filling station attendants, school teachers, cafe workers—all men and women who make a living and young people who expect to, as well as owners of businesses are urged to keep their dates open for next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights.

Henry W. Stanley, said to be the greatest merchandising authority in the South comes here under auspices of the Midland chamber of commerce to conduct three courses in the Crystal ball room of Hotel Scharbauer at 7:30 the evenings of Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 and 2.

Thanksgiving

WE thank Thee, God, that harvests never fail us,
And men responsive to the need today
Are closer drawn as they give from their bounty
To hunger ones who have no homing way.

WE thank Thee, God, that Thou who led the Pilgrims
Across dim seas, and made a nation rise
Triumphant where a wilderness had flourished
Will keep us still beneath Thy guiding eyes.

AND that the spirit of a generous giving,
The cornerstone on which our ideals stand,
Deep-planted in the soil with every seed-time
Shades benedictions on a sharing land.

— HELEN WELSHIMER

GIVE THANKS

"Thanksgiving day is not a day of ancestral pomp and glory. It has not been celebrated like Christmas with the imperial song of a Milton, the dove-like notes of a Herbert or it gathers to itself all pleasant and fragrant memories; photographs on the heart the image of peace and contentment; transports the minds to the scenes of childhood and recalls the brightest scenes of other days. It is the day that sets memory in motion and unveils the pictures that hang on the wall—pictures which fill our souls with joy or sadden our hearts with grief. There is a joy that is born of sorrow and often the pictures appear more beautiful when we see them through tear-dimmed eyes."

—The Rev. Howard Peters, Pastor First Christian church.

"Paul said, 'Pray without ceasing.' Prayer is spiritual breathing. In spite of the smallness of the present boon, we have much for which to be thankful."

—The Rev. Winston Borum, Pastor First Baptist church.

"My theme for this Thanksgiving is to be thankful not for what we have but for who we are."

—The Rev. Edwin C. Calhoun, Pastor First Methodist church.

"Texas has much to be thankful for. Its condition is fundamentally sound. Its farm people have food and feed. Its people have the spirit to carry through. We have been spared from storms and pestilence. Even difficulties met during the year have brought about a greater spirit of co-operation and mutual helpfulness that will long survive."

—Ross S. Sterling, Governor of Texas.

"With an abundant crop of health, optimism, happiness and God's many blessings, Midland people are glad to rejoice on Thanksgiving and show their appreciation for the finer things of life."

"Despite the hardships and the suffering of the past year, God in His wisdom, has given us many things for which we may express our gratitude and appreciation."

—The Rev. J. A. McCall, Minister Church of Christ.

"Thanksgiving is here and I find myself asking, now what have I to be thankful for? This is a question which, after all, no one can answer for me. Some spirit tries to beguile me into a state of bitterness, tries to make me believe that I have nothing to be thankful for. But now, let's see, what do I prefer above everything else? Why, life, of course. So I am thankful for life and for all the things which makes life possible: such as, air to breathe, water to drink, sunshine to glow my cheeks and food to live upon. I am thankful that I live in a land of such sterling opportunities and have for friends and loved ones such charming personalities. . . . To the reading public, I would say: I have merely started for you a line of argument which I would think that you would follow with yourself. Material (See GIVE THANKS page 4)

"S. Baugh, quarterback, No. 21, showed by his two touchdowns in San Angelo and good work all season that he is a man to watch at every stage of the game. He can pass like Tack Dennis of Big Spring, hit a line, punt, circle ends or anything else that is expected of a triple-threat man."

Wood, No. 20, fullback, hits with more power than either Delker of San Angelo or Dennis or Heblson of Big Spring. A line groans when he crashes against it. He weighs 180 and is fast for his weight.

To top the entire matter, Sweetwater is a neat blocking team, powerful on defense and noted for perfect interference running.

On paper, Midland has nothing but a bare chance to stop the wandering herd.

BULLDOGS DETERMINED TO PLACE CANDIDATES ON ALL MYTHICAL CLUB

Midland, However, Does Not Underestimate Crushing Offense and Well-Caulked Defense of Hennig's Titlists

Beyond the asserted intention of eight Midland high school men to beat Sweetwater here this afternoon in their last game in Purple and Gold livery, there has developed quite another reason for eleven men to "fight their hearts out" in an attempt to tumble the proud Red and White titlists in the dust.

Three Midland men are being considered as all-district material, are to be weighed in the scale for the mythical eleven. This information was received Wednesday from Sweetwater, where the chairman of the district football committee resides.

Midland Lighter
Out-weighted, out-numbered, out-classed in practically every respect, Midland holds only one advantage over the vaunted Mustangs: the morale of the club is better. In its entirety it is the equivalent of eight Midland men.

Midland has nothing to lose and everything to gain—and everything to lose. A Midland win could do little more for Midland but place the team in the first division; whereas, for Sweetwater a Midland win would lose that club into a tie with Big Spring for first place, assuming Big Spring beats San Angelo, which is deemed practically certain.

Sweetwater Powerful
Sweetwater's big team, which has humbled everything in the district to date and has lost by the smallest margin games only to Abilene and Ranger, does not expect to lose the Midland game. It is natural, however, that the Mustangs will have more confidence than is good for any club to possess on the day of a game with a fighting Midland club. The Doggies have showed in recent engagements they are not to be toyed with. They have developed a strong offensive, the lack of which caused their downfall in San Angelo, when the Bobcat quarter, Bill Harrison, got loose only once. Last week's crushing of Colorado, 39-7, showed fans much of the change in the club. Sweetwater beat the same club 28-6. Both Midland and Sweetwater used reserves much of the time.

Sheridan Watched
A parade will be formed at 1:35, made up of the Midland and Sweetwater bands and pep squads. The kickoff will be at 2:30.

Midland's interest in Sweetwater will center in Red Sheridan, the powerful and clever No. 18, the man who has supplanted Mike Hicks, Roscoe Rambler, as the ace of the club. This man ran 71 yards for the touchdown against Big Spring and 66 yards for a counter against San Angelo, but had the misfortune to have the ball brought back through an infringement of the rules. He has galloped for distances of lesser and greater yardage all season, and can punt, pass and do everything in the football category.

Then, too, Midland has heard too much about Hicks, No. 24, to entertain any doubt of the big fellow's ability. He hits a line like a locomotive, a bit high but with the crushing force of a pile driver. He, if he ever is shaken loose, will show a bewildering speed down the field, a speed that is not deceptive to would-be tacklers but, coupled with his manner of carrying his knees in the stratosphere, makes him almost impossible to stop.

S. Baugh, quarterback, No. 21, showed by his two touchdowns in San Angelo and good work all season that he is a man to watch at every stage of the game. He can pass like Tack Dennis of Big Spring, hit a line, punt, circle ends or anything else that is expected of a triple-threat man.

Wood, No. 20, fullback, hits with more power than either Delker of San Angelo or Dennis or Heblson of Big Spring. A line groans when he crashes against it. He weighs 180 and is fast for his weight.

Smith's Hot Jazz Orchestra to Be Heard Over Radio

Should you like to hear the red hot strains of Barney Smith's Midland Melody Makers this evening as it plays for the American legion dance at the Home Furniture company building, light your fires and twist your dials over to 960 kilocycles.

The program may not come in like a house afire—The Connor Electric company must comply with Federal Radio requirements—

—but everyone in the city will be able to hear it. Outside the city, however, there will be no need to tune in the waves will not carry with sufficient strength to be picked up.

The broadcast will be made possible through the courtesy of the Red Cross Pharmacy and the Midland Hardware & Furniture company.

Joseph A. Seymour, commander of the American legion will announce.

The dance begins at 9 o'clock and will last "untill"

Man Struck by Hit And Run Driver

Knox Williams, 511 West Tennessee, suffered injuries of the face and hands when struck by a hit and run driver during an early evening rain Wednesday. The occurrence was at the corner of Main and Wall.

He was able to be carried home in a cab.

Williams said he was dazed by the blow and could not get a good impression of the vehicle that struck him. He was knocked to the street and appeared to be only semi-conscious when talked with.

His injuries were not expected to prove serious.

IS FOOTBALL SLIPPING?
As the autumn football season approaches its close, it is becoming apparent that the gate receipts at the college ticket offices have fallen off sharply from former years. A part of this, undoubtedly, is due to the business depression; yet there are indications that some of the shrinkage, at least, is due to a failing in public interest.

"GLORIOUS ISOLATION?"
James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, advocated in a recent speech that Uncle Sam maintain an army of 500,000 men, an adequate navy "and a resolution to sit tight and mind his own business."

THE BRITISH TARIFF
Great Britain thought up a nice, fool-proof scheme to bring about a better trade balance between Britain and other countries, particularly the United States, and parliament speedily enacted it into law.

WHAT IS MORAL?
Notions of what is liberal in governmental supervision of community affairs differ. If you take the traffic in intoxicating liquor as a standard, the states below the Canadian border are exceedingly strict and the province of Ontario is very liberal.

New Service Is Made Available

A new communication service is made available today by The American Telephone and Telegraph company and its associate companies in the Bell system of which the Southwestern Bell Telephone company is one. This new service consists in the establishment and operation of central switching exchanges for teletypewriter machines that typewrite electrically over wire to a distant teletypewriter.

Any subscriber to this service can obtain connection with the teletypewriter of any other subscriber to the service within the same city or in a distant city and this will permit immediate transmission of letters, typewritten statements and other information between the two subscribers. In effect the methods used are inter-connection of the instruments, the same as they now employ in the telephone systems.

The present teletypewriter service of the Bell system is furnished only in connection with private wires which are not connected to central switching points. This private wire service, now widely used, for inter-office communication, will be continued as heretofore. The new switching service to teletypewriter exchanges is now possible because of developments of apparatus and operation. These permit inter-communication by teletypewriter on a nation-wide basis just as the development of the telephone switchboards made possible the inter-connection of telephone instruments.

The new teletypewriter service will thus have the flexibility that characterizes the regular telephone service of the Bell companies. The establishment of the switching offices similar to telephone exchanges enables subscribers to the new service to call and receive connection just as they do for local or long distance telephone conversations. While their teletypewriter lines are connected they may send or receive typed messages as desired.

Soon after the American Telephone and Telegraph company was organized to develop long distance service it became apparent that the telephone wire system could be adapted to provide circuits to concerns needing private wire facilities.

Editor's Note: The concluding article of a series on graft schemes, prepared by the Midland chamber of commerce.

Break insurance agencies offer policies for marriage, births, jobs, limited accidents, etc. Always consult an established, well known insurance agency.

Baseball schedule graft. These grafters claim to be sportsmen. They garner their coin from sports lovers who because they like baseball, give these grafters money for advertising on baseball schedules. These schedules like church calendars, stay in sight about three days, then nobody knows where they are any more forever.

Foreign paper special edition advertisers. Advertising in some distant special editions is often lost in the multiplicity of other advertising and its actual worth with a circulation mostly distant from the advertiser is doubtful.

Special celebrations. Frequently a group, sometimes an organization, sometimes an element of the population of a city, stages a celebration and seeks advertising on programs, banners, etc. Such advertising is classed as spurious by competent judges.

Recital programs. Advertising printed on programs for recitals.

And when Barry says that it's time to check your overcoats at the gate. Something's going to get hot and there's a lot of yelling to be done. And the whole team will try to push across those three men who have all-district chances.

This Dr. John R. Brinkley Has Quite A Habit of Doing Things as He Darn Well Likes, Authorities Now Think

Under the heading "Goat Glands & Sunshine," the excellent news magazine "Time" in a recent issue gives the history of Dr. John R. ("Goat Gland") Brinkley, who has opened Radio Station XER at Villa Acuna, across the river from Del Rio.

The article follows:
"We want to broadcast sunshine. Give Dr. Brinkley your medical problems. He will tell you the truth even if it makes you mad. I discharge my obligation to society when I urge you to have an examination every six months. Ninety-nine out of 100 won't, but I'm after that hundredth. Before you have your prostate gland removed send 25c to the Brinkley Hospital for booklets."

The merchants of Del Rio, Tex., chuckled and rubbed their hands together. Kansas politicians shook with apprehension. Quack-baiting Editor Morris Fishbein of the American Medical Association's Journal cursed through his teeth. Goat-bearded, goat-gland-grafting Dr. John Richard Brinkley was at it again last week.

Thorn in Side of A. M. A.
Long has Dr. Brinkley been a thorn in the side of the A. M. A. More recently he gave Kansas politicians the scare of their lives. Soon after the war he appeared in the crossroads village of Milford, Kan. and set himself up as a physician after obtaining a license by reciprocity from Arkansas. (His Arkansas license had been granted on the strength of a diploma from the Kansas City Eclectic Medical University, since exposed as a "diploma mill.") Dr. Brinkley built a radio station, KFKB, broadcast jazz music interrupted by lectures on rejuvenation. Soon he had transformed the lectures into a clinic, prescribing medicine by radio to patients whom he had never seen but who had written to him describing their ailments. The prescriptions were identified by code numbers; patients were told where to purchase the medicines. Kansas druggists, who had suffered because many Kansas physicians filled their own prescriptions, soon found that Dr. Brinkley's prescriptions paid the rent. His Milford Drug Co. made up the prescriptions.

Brinkley Prospers, Milford Booms
Dr. Brinkley prospered, Milford boomed. The broadcasting business was augmented by a hospital, where Dr. Brinkley or one of his corps of assistants would transplant goat glands into senile patients for $750 to $1,500 per operation. From his station he would advertise his hospital, which grew and grew, soon was using 60 goats a month. Milford got a second-class postoffice as a result of Dr. Brinkley's 3,000-letters-a-day mail.

The doctor built a $100,000 sanatorium, bought four new automobiles, planned apartment houses and bungalows for employees, $50,000. "Brinkley Methodist Memorial church," with chimes and a "Brinkley Memorial organ," and a tablet that read:
"Erected to God and His Son, Jesus, in appreciation of many blessings conferred upon me: J. R. Brinkley."

shipmen have played lamentable football this season.

T.C.U. invaded Bear land Saturday and returned to Fort Worth on the top side of a 19-6 score. The Baylor aggregation played stubborn ball, nevertheless, and the Hoads were compelled to use their utmost in football power to win.

The final conference match of the day between Arkansas and Rice resulted in the first Owl conference victory since their early season win over the Longhorns. The 26-12 score typifies the fight the Razorbacks put up in their last attempt to win a single conference battle for the year.

Why We Are Thankful

Everyone has many things for which to express thanks at this Thanksgiving time, most of all for the Peace and Health of our land and for the bountiful harvests over our nation.

We desire again at this season to express our appreciation to our many friends and customers for the business accorded us during the past year and also extend thanks for the good will they have shown this institution.

Sweetwater, claiming a cinch on the district championship and confessing to ambitions of a STATE CHAMPIONSHIP, brings to Midland the strongest and most widely heralded team that has ever invaded Midland.

The Midland Bulldogs dispute Sweetwater's every claim and aim to wreck the Mustangs' hopes.

At least 8 of the Bulldogs will fight their last great fight for the Purple and Gold of Midland Hi: Captain Burris, Midkiff, Hallman, McCall, Pinnell, Booth, Straughan, Hawkins.

AN OLD FASHIONED THANKSGIVING

This year we are able, as were our forefathers, to voice, sincere gratitude for the privilege of living in a nation such as America.

It is with a feeling of pride that we consider the national ideals, the citizenship, the resources.

And, on this occasion, we thank you for your valued patronage.
