ONE DROWNS, 12 SAVED FROM SEA AS PLANE FALLS

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 28. (UP)—Edward Banwell, 70, of Auburn, Maine, was drowned last night and twelve others, including three women passengers, the pilot and a radio operator were rescued when a transport plane was forced down by fog into the sea.

When the cabin filled with water, passengers were ordered out on the wings of the ship. Mabel Ryan, school teacher, made a distress flag from her petticoat, attracting a passing ship which rescued them.

Nine of those saved were taken to a hospital, none seriously hurt. The wrecked plane, a twin-motored Amphibian bearing the register number MC41V was sighted by fishermen between Baker's Island and Halfway Rock, near Marblehead.

Coast guard patrol boats, which sped to the scene, immediately began a search for one passenger reported missing. Capt. Leo Savaloro of the schooner Nova Julia told police that his craft was proceeding by Halfway Rock when a group of persons was sighted clinging to a rubber boat.

Captain Savaloro said he was told that one of the passengers was missing.

Predicts Midland Be on Race Circuit

Belief that Midland would become a part of a racing circuit after the horse races to be held here September 5 and 7 was expressed today by Tom Nance, ranchman, horse owner and race fan. Nance predicts that the races next week end will be far better than any seen on the local track before and that the increased interest will result in establishing the city as a permanent racing center.

Membership in a racing circuit would bring to the local track some of the best race horses in West Texas, he pointed out.

Throngs Rally to Declare War on Gangs As New York Buries Hero Policeman

ABOVE—Here's the answer of an aroused New York populace to the shooting of innocent citizens by gangsters. The crowd of 20,000 which jammed famous Madison Square Garden, as shown in the upper photo, cheered speakers who demanded the immediate end of gang rule and organized crime.

Fifteen to twenty-five thousand others were unable to gain admittance to the auditorium. Below you see Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, one of several distinguished speakers, as he addressed the mass meeting and called for the application of "unmistakable force" in the war on crime.

RIGHT—No gangster, buried in an expensive casket amid false mourning, ever received a funeral like this. While New York policemen and high officials stood by in a last salute to their fallen comrade, the flag-draped casket containing the body of Patrolman Edward Churchill is shown leaving his home. He was one of the two policemen killed in a recent running gun battle with payroll bandits. Hundreds of citizens joined with high officials of the metropolis in solemn tribute to the dead heroes.

ACTION BY LAW ASKED AT MEETING

350 Farmers Attend Session Thursday On Relief

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 28. (UP)—Governor Long announced today that he would charter an airplane tomorrow to deliver the Louisiana cotton holiday bill to Governor Sterling at Austin in answer to Sterling's statement that the plan was "Long's baby; let him wish it."

Long promised to deliver the "baby" to Texas before the week end.

Farmers of Midland county, in a mass meeting at the county court room Thursday afternoon, passed a resolution favoring legislative control of cotton growing and requested Governor Ross S. Sterling to call the legislature together to pass such measures. No vote was taken as to whether a ban on the 1932 crop or a control of acreage was favored.

The court room was crowded to capacity and dozens stood in the corridors as County Judge M. R. Hill called the meeting to order at 2 o'clock yesterday.

Legislator Speaks Representative Lee Satterwhite of Odessa spoke in favor of some degree of acreage control by legislation, pledging his best efforts toward having enacted such legislation as his constituents might desire that would revolve to the benefit of the farmers.

J. H. Greene, secretary of the Colorado chamber of commerce and an official in the cotton cooperative, spoke on the orderly marketing of cotton through the cooperative.

Legislation Opposed M. C. Ulmer, of the First National bank, J. R. Martin, of the Midland National bank, and Leon Goodman, mayor of Midland, spoke in opposition to any legislation dictating to the farmer what he should plant or grow, declaring that in their belief the increase in price, if any, would accrue after the cotton was out of the farmers' hands and that the reduction in acreage would be offset by increased production in Russia and other countries, thus denying to farmers of the south any benefit from such legislation.

J. G. Arnett, J. N. Wells, E. N. Snodgrass, Pat Bodine and other farmers spoke in favor of legislative control of cotton acreage and motion was made by Bodine that a resolution be passed favoring such control. County Judge M. R. Hill was given authority to wire Governor Sterling the following message:

Ask Called Session "At a mass meeting this afternoon, farmers of Midland county went on record almost 100 per cent favoring legislative control of cotton growing and requested you to call your legislators together and pass some measure for their relief at an early date."

Details of recommendations as to the kind of legislation that would be most beneficial were withheld pending a decision by Sterling as to calling the legislature into session.

NEED ONLY HAND SIGNAL

No one can drive very far on American roads these days without reflecting on the decline of an extremely useful custom—the custom of signaling with the left hand to the driver behind you whenever you are going to stop or make a turn.

For a time this custom was widely observed, and it was very handy. In the last few years it has been almost abandoned. Cars are equipped with stop-lights these days, and the motorist probably depends on this flashing gadget to convey the information to the fellow behind him.

But the light can't do it all. It can't tell the next driver whether you are going to turn or stop, or whether you simply put the brake on for a second because you saw a speed cop in a side-street. It helps, but it doesn't help quite enough. There ought to be a revival of the old hand signal. It would make traffic a good deal safer.

U. S. INTERVENTION IN CUBA

Although the Cuban revolt has proved more serious than early reports indicated it would be, the United States government has not yet given any indication that American intervention in the island's affairs is even being seriously considered at Washington; and there is encouragement in that fact for those who want to see more cordial feelings between the United States and Latin America.

The American government would have ample legal excuse for intervention, of course, but the act would create an abundance of ill-feeling in the republics to the south, no matter how good the United States' case was. It is far better to let the Cubans settle their own troubles—violently, if necessary—than to arouse more ill-will by a new display of officious paternalism.

MEETING GUN WITH GUN

This business of being an innocent bystander on the streets of New York seems to be advancing to the status of very unhealthy occupations.

New York has a lot of quick-on-the-trigger gangsters. To cope with them, the police have been ordered to be quick on the trigger, too. The net result is that when cop meets gangster bullets fly with a wild abandon, and anybody within the adjoining three blocks can consider himself lucky if he doesn't stop one.

For a long time it was Chicago that gave the nation an object lesson in the fearful plight a city can get itself into by tolerating its gangs. Now, apparently, it is New York's turn to present the lesson. So far the nation's leading city has been presenting it very graphically.

RUSSIA'S ADVANCES

An Ohio girl returning to the United States after living for nearly a year in Russia finds that there is a striking contrast between college men of the United States and Russia—a contrast that isn't exactly favorable to the Americans.

If she were asked for a date, on the same evening, by a Harvard senior and a senior at Moscow University, she would unhesitatingly decide to go out with the Russian. Why? Because:

"I'd prefer the Russian because he's more mature, more intelligent, not so flippant and doesn't neck."

All of which seems a little tough on Harvard; but the Harvard man, in this case, is simply a symbol for the American university man generally, and the young woman's remark is a sharp criticism of the current collegiate product.

DON'T SWAT THAT FLY!

By NEA Service
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 28.—Don't swat the fly! It may be a cane fly.

Nor the wasp. It may be a cane wasp!

Both the fly and the wasp—regardless whether they are the pestiferous kind or the cane kind—are winning comfortable immunity in certain sections of rural Louisiana. For they are lined up on the side of sugar planters against the nefarious cane borer which has cost Louisiana untold millions in the past 25 years.

A cane fly or a cane wasp is death to the cane borer. And since both look like their commoner relative, each gets a second look before any swatting is done.

Louisiana is dependent on her sugar crop and must, in fact, continue to be the "Sugar Bowl of America." When sugar crops are right and prices the same, Louisiana is sitting on top of the world.

Other Efforts Failed
But since the advent of the cane borer, Louisiana has been all but distracted. Poisons were used. Dried-out fields were burned over. Sprays from airplanes were used. All in vain.

From 1922 to 1926, the government estimates, the cane borer caused a loss of from 31,000 to 85,000 short tons of sugar each year—with an annual loss of 19 per cent of the crop each year, on the average. Then the distraught sugar planters who saw their crops being ruined called in government experts to aid them.

Then word came from Peru and Argentina that there was a wasp that lived on the borer's larvae, and a fly which also devoured the cane pest. The insects were natural enemies. The wasp closely resembles the common American wasp, and the fly looks almost exactly like the ordinary house fly.

But how different they are! Rather than pests they are honored guests in Louisiana. Rather than enemies, they are saviors. Both lay their eggs on the borer larvae. When the borer eggs hatch, the new life devours the old. It works 100 per cent.

The flies and wasps are gathered at Trujillo, Peru, where a station has been established. Natives catch them in nets. Then, with all the care of precious jewels, they are brought to Louisiana.

Planes Rush Wasps
The wasps are brought by planes. The planes make a bee-line from Peru to New Orleans, making as few stops as possible.

The flies are brought in the pupae stage in iced containers aboard ships. Arriving in Louisiana, they were given time to rest and to be conditioned for the battle. Then they are taken to the cane fields. And then the slaughter begins.

Hitherto, the cane borer has been wiping out the planter's profits overnight in many cases. Cane so attacked withers and blows over with the first wind. Other crops are also the borer's prey. Corn fails to produce. Rice turns brown and withers.

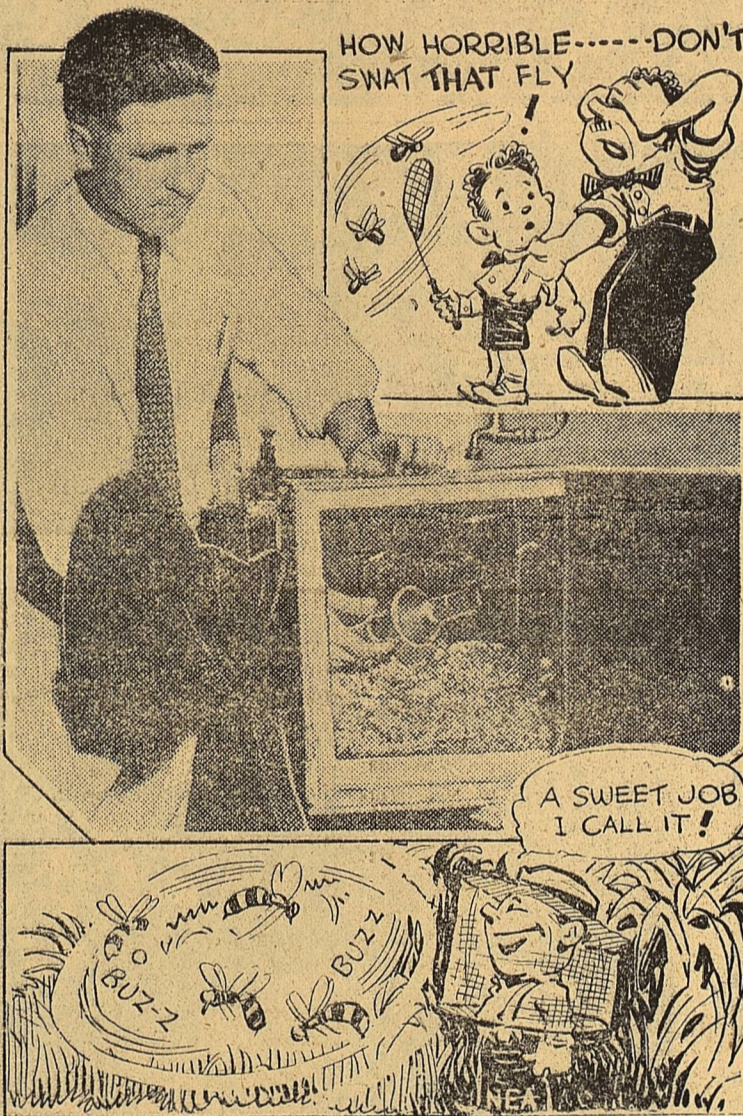

Now the wasps and flies are winning Louisiana's battle and death knell for the cane borer has been sounded.

Sugar Is Major Crop
In sounding this death knell, Louisiana is pulling herself into economic stability. For in Louisiana sugar is the "money crop." The greatest sugar refineries in the world are there; enough sugar may be produced to sweeten the coffee of the world. Louisiana business men discuss sugar like the middle west talks wheat and California talks fruit.

And the pivoted points of it all are the cane fly and the cane wasp.

That's why today the average Louisianan never kills the wasp buzzing about the front porch—it may be a "cane wasp" straying from his duties.

The house fly gets a break these days—for he may be a "cane fly." And the war goes on.

IN DEADLY WAR BETWEEN INSECTS—T. E. Holloway, senior entomologist at New Orleans' insectary, is shown here collecting Argentine flies through a modified vacuum cleaner to be released in the sugar cane fields where they will devour the eggs of the deadly cane borer. A female cane borer lays 200 eggs at a time and a single pair of the insects will multiply to 200,000,000 in a year, but their insect enemies are getting the best of them.

Milk Rich in Vitamins

Vitamin B is found in many substances. Ordinary meats are poor in Vitamin B, while heart, liver and kidney contain it in somewhat larger amounts. The amounts they contain are about proportional to what is found in milk, eggs and whole cereals. The average sized hen's egg is equivalent in vitamin B to about one-sixth of a quart of cow's milk.

In other words, the amount of vitamin B in a quart of milk is about the same as could be found in six or seven eggs. Human milk is perhaps a little richer than cow's milk. The whole grains of cereals are fairly rich in vitamin B, but most of the vitamin is found in the germ.

The use of highly milled products in preference to the whole grain decreases the vitamin B content of the diet. This raises the question of the whole wheat versus white flour, which will be discussed more extensively in relationship to other subjects. It is sufficient to say here that the diet of civilized man is sufficiently varied to include enough vitamins from other sources than cereals so that he need not be concerned about this from the vitamin point of view. When the diet becomes greatly restricted, he may have to give it careful consideration.

Daily Washington Letter

By Rodney Dutcher
Construction Industry, Always Recognized as Forecast of Business Conditions, Is Far Below Volume of 1928, and Contractors Are Hoping It Has Lost Potency as Barometer

WASHINGTON.—The construction industry, largest in the United States except agriculture, considers itself a faithful forecaster of general business conditions. Study of previous periods of depression and recovery show that this industry has always led the way toward recovery from six months to a year ahead of any general upturn and that declines in construction have uniformly been followed by general declines from nine months to a year later.

Contractors now, however, hope that construction has temporarily lost its potency as a barometer. They say the present volume of construction is about half what it was in 1928 before it began to decline and that the outlook for the near future is not encouraging. Even President Hoover's efforts to stimulate public works and the lead taken by the federal government have failed to prevent a great decline in volume of public and semi-public construction.

The industry gets its figures from the F. W. Dodge Corporation whose surveys covering 37 states are used by the Department of Commerce and by The Constructor, organ of the Associated General Contractors of America. The Dodge organization surveys both contract awards and contemplated construction, looking six to nine months ahead on work a fluctuating percentage of which will be done.

The volume of contemplated work in the first seven months of 1930 was $5,889,000,000 and the volume of contemplated work reported in the first seven months of 1931 was $3,166,000,000. It is impossible to predict whether a greater or lesser percentage of this year's contemplated construction will actually be carried out.

Contract award statistics, however, are more certain and $2,092,000,000 in contract awards is reported for the first seven months of 1931 as compared with $3,005,000,000 for the first seven months of 1930. Last year, however, was comparatively dull and the peak year was 1928 with $4,028,000,000 for the first seven months. Contemplated work volume reported in those seven months of 1928 was set at $6,127,000,000, so that there has been a reduction of somewhere near 50 per cent in both classifications.

Public and semi-public construction contract awards dropped from about $1,710,000,000 for the first seven months of 1930 to $1,250,000,000 for the first seven months of 1931, according to the Dodge reports. Thanks to the federal building program the amount awarded for public buildings rose from 76 millions to 86 millions. But the amount awarded for public works and utilities—including highways, bridges, lighting systems, railroads and sewer systems—dropped from 1147 millions to 838 millions in spite of greatly enlarged federal highway appropriations and plans which proved only a drop in the bucket. Other declines for the same period were from 239 millions to 156 for educational buildings, 108 to 71 for hospitals and institutions, 64 to 35 for religious and memorial buildings, 75 to 61 for social and recreational establishments.

Meanwhile, the Portland Cement reports show that concrete surface pavement awards—for streets, alleys and highways—were 39 per cent ahead of 1930 on May 1, 18 per cent on June 1 and only four per cent on July 1 and only four per cent on August 1. Congress increased the federal aid highway appropriation from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000 and appropriated $80,000,000 as an allocated loan to the states to be matched back against future highway appropriations.

The contractors say that the states taking the federal money, consequently put everything into the contract award state during the first part of the year and that the total street, alley and highway paving probably will be less than in 1930.

"The failure of municipalities to undertake street and alley paving work under the exceptionally favorable price conditions prevailing this year is nullifying the efforts of the federal government to increase employment through accelerating highway work," says a recent editorial in The Constructor. Such paving is largely bought and paid for on the order of abutting property holders, is explained, and "when such property holders stop buying other commodities, thereby contributing to depressions, they likewise stop buying paving."

vitamins in much more abundant quantity than is absolutely necessary is often advantageous. He argues therefore that the use of whole grain in preference to highly milled products should be encouraged, except in cases in which there is reason to fear that the roughage of whole grains will unduly irritate the intestinal tract. Beans, peats and fats in general provide fairly good amounts of vitamin B. Potato has it. Oranges and lemons, grapefruit juice and fresh prune juice have about as much vitamin B as milk.

FEWER FARMS, BUT LARGER ONES, A RESULT OF USING MACHINERY

BY ALLARD SMITH
Executive Vice President, The Union Trust Co., Cleveland, O.

America has no five-year plan for the mechanization of her agricultural areas, but the mechanization proceeds at a steady rate, nevertheless, with accompanying decrease in the number of farms and increase in the size of the individual farm.

Statistics of the Federal Census Bureau show that mechanical power is replacing animal power in farm work. In 1930 there were 13,383,574 horses on 6,288,648 farms, whereas there were 19,767,161 horses on 6,448,343 farms in 1920. The number of mules decreased in the same period from 5,432,391 in 1920 to 5,353,993.

Farm implements and machinery, on the other hand, increased in value from $2,691,703,629 in 1925 to $3,301,663,482 in 1930. Total values were higher in 1930 than in 1930, but prices of farm implements were considerably higher and the larger total does not represent as much machinery.

As might be expected with farm work animals decreasing and the use of machinery increasing the acreage of the individual farm is growing larger, indicating consolidations and the application of mass production systems. The average of acres per farm increased from 145.1 in 1925 to 156.9 in 1930, while the average value per acre decreased from $69.38 in 1920 and $53.52 in 1925 to $48.52 in 1930. Owner-operation of farms decreased and manager-operation increased.

It was once argued that concentration of the population of the United States in cities and in industrial employment constituted a threat to the food supplies of the country. These Census Bureau statistics indicate that the same principles of efficient mass production which have made the country's industry great are being extended to food production.

All threat of food scarcity is removed by the showing that agriculture can operate as economically as industry and on the same systems. At the moment, of course, there are great surpluses of wheat and certain other kinds of food, reflecting the world depression.

CLASSIFIEDS DO THE WORK

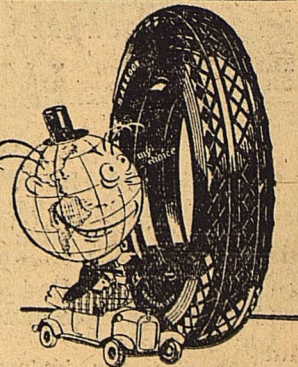

Helpful Health Suggestions

By Martha Bredemeier

Health is a Matter of Business. Public health work is good business. Realization that the human factor is the most important of the resources of the wealth in this country and that conservation of the human factor has lagged behind that of the natural resources has led chambers of commerce in many cities to adopt aggressive health policies.

To illustrate the attitude that business men have assumed, H. W. Stanley, former assistant manager of the East Texas chamber of commerce, now of the Dallas chamber of commerce, in an address at the recent meeting of the American Public Health association described an accident in a saw mill. A boiler exploded and killed three workmen. Investigation showed that the fireman had allowed the water to get too low and further study showed that the fireman was suffering from malaria, which apparently caused him to become negligent. Preventable illness caused this disaster with its heavy loss of life and money. In addition occurrences of this kind made group insurance rates high for this group of workers.

Mr. Stanley outlined the health program adopted by the East Texas chamber of commerce as follows: a county health unit in every county; a standard milk ordinance in every incorporated town; state-wide malaria control campaign; rural sanitary program for every farm home;

Mary Forbes Plays In "Chances" Film

Mary Forbes, now at the Ritz theatre in "Chances", the first National picture starring Douglas Fairbanks, was born in London, England, and educated by governesses. From earliest childhood she was stage-struck and studied dancing, fencing, elocution and singing. Her first opportunity came in "Oscar Ashe" at His Majesty's theatre, London.

Her father and brother were painters and it was natural for her to be artistically inclined. She played on the London stage for some years in Shakespeare and modern drama and then came to New York where she quickly found a niche as one of the leading character actresses.

When talking pictures came in she went to Hollywood. Films in which she has appeared are "Her Private Life," "The Circle," "The Trespasser," "Sunny Side Up," "So This Is London," "East Is West," "The Devil to Pay," "The Man Who Came Back" and "Chances."

DOG'S SOLILOQUY

Vera Penick Lively

I'M just a little dog,
All homeless and alone,
Wandering about the empty streets
Searching for a bone.

No one ever wants me;
They all chase me away.
No one that I ever met
Had one kind word to say.

Look! There comes a little boy:
He looks so very good;
Wonder if he'd give me a home?
Gee, I wish he would!

I'd be so good and faithful,
I'm better than any toy;
Say, he's whistling for me!
There's nothing like a boy.

THURSDAY GAMES FAIL TO CHANGE LEADERS IN NOCTURNE LEAGUE

CROWDS FLOCK TO GAME TO WATCH CHEWNING PITCH HIS LAST BALL BEFORE LEAVING

The Reporter-Telegram stopped a last-inning spurt of the Midland Hardware last night to take the first ball game last night, 5 to 3, and Scruggs Buick and De Luxe laundry had a nice track meet in the second game, the Valve-in-Head boys taking the orgy 21 to 11.

Hardware pulled only 1 error in the 7 innings and made the newbies tighten up to win, the Reporter-Telegram making 6 errors.

The first few innings of the Scruggs-Laundry game proved to be interesting. Then the race track started and errors flew thick and fast.

Chewning, in his last game, pitched good and bad ball for Scruggs. The ace of the Nocturne pitchers is leaving today for Borger.

English Railroads Report

LONDON, (UP)—Seventeen million animals, 200,000,000 tons of coal and 63,000,000 tons of minerals traveled by rail in Great Britain during the year ending July 1. Tons of merchandise transported came to 55,000,000, while 218,000,000 gallons of milk and 76,000,000 parcels, apart from those carried in His Majesty's mail bags, were carried.

Sidestepping Failed Farmers

HARPER, Kan. (UP)—Bert Cristes and Dewey Calton, who have farms on the county line, evaded arrest on charges of violating the prohibition law by stepping over the county line in either direction when the Harper and Sumner sheriffs called. Recently the sheriffs "got together" and met Cristes and Calton at the line, declaring "there'll be no sidestepping the issue now" and lodged them in jail.

Huge Turtle Ferocious

TURIN, Italy. (UP)—The new turtle, aged 80 and weighing 245 pounds recently purchased by the Acquarium here, started off badly. It took six men to get him out of the receptacle in which he traveled from Fiume, where he was caught. When the keepers of the Acquarium here sought to put him into his nice new tank, he bit off the little finger of one of the crew.

Time Changed For Tennis Go

The time of the Tri-City Tennis tournament has been changed from 9 o'clock Sunday morning to 1 o'clock the same afternoon.

Several of the Midland stars cannot leave the city before 12 o'clock and the players of Lamasa and Big Spring consented to starting the match later in the day.

Frank Stubbeman has challenged Theo Ferguson to a match this afternoon at 5 o'clock for No. 1 position on the Midland team. This match will be played at the Thomas court and promises to be full of punch.

Pleasant View Upsets Tigers

The baseball team of Pleasant View journeyed to Big Spring Wednesday and gave the Tigers of that city a cleaning 7 to 6.

This game evened matters with the two teams, the Tigers having won 7 to 4 last Saturday.

The Coahoma team will play the Pleasant View nine here Sunday, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

AUTOS REPLACE TRAINS

GENEVA, (UP)—The auto is fast supplanting the train as the favorite means of travel for tourists in Switzerland. In spite of the economic depression, the number of tourist cars entering Switzerland so far this year is 34 per cent higher than for 1930. The number of auto tourists is estimated at half a million.

I'd surely hate to be as popular on the diamond as "Iron Head." He got more razzing at the game last night than any person this season. But the beautiful thing about it is how old Iron Head takes it. He can stand it and if you're not pretty careful, he'll stick a wicked one back at you.

Midland is actually the mecca of West Texas sports. I'll challenge any city within 200 miles to show more interest in sports than we have right here.

This week has been filled to the brim with sports and now that some of the jellybean jockeys have returned more things are picking up.

GOLE as the STARS play it by ART KRENZ

Why are water holes a hoodoo to the average golfer?

FAILURE TO CARRY A WATER HOLE OFTEN IS DUE TO MENTAL ATTITUDE.

PLUNK

Failure to carry a water hole or deep ditch often is due to mental attitude. The player encountering such a hazard usually is keyed up to a high tension. Invariably his anxiety will cause him to look up before the clubhead has had a chance to do its part in getting the ball across the hazard.

Pressing or hurrying the shot at a water hole often brings on a slice, a topped shot or something equally as disastrous. Again, the player may be dropping his shoulders in an effort to get the ball into the air. Dropping the shoulders means that the clubhead will strike the ground behind the ball, catching it in the up swing and topping it into trouble.

Relax when trouble looms. Try swinging as smoothly as you know how and the hoodoo hole ought to disappear.

German Stores Show Decrease

BERLIN, (UP)—The sales in German department stores during May and June, 1931, show a decline of over seven per cent from the corresponding period last year. It was during these months that the German economic crisis was foreshadowed in the form of announced cuts in wages and salaries, and sales fell off accordingly.

WOMEN WILL PLAY BENEFIT GAME AFTERNOON

The Betty Co-Eds and the Business Girls will grind out a game this afternoon at Rainwater diamond that promises to be an interesting one.

Dorothy Blackman and Adilee Abell have shifted from the Petroleum club to play this afternoon with the Co-Eds, who are short two players.

This afternoon's game will be a benefit affair to raise money for the purchase of basketball equipment.

Managers of the two clubs have asked that as many as possible attend the game and help them all they can.

Knocked Out by Golf Ball

OMAHA, Neb.—Willard D. Horsford vice president of the John Deere Plow company, has recovered from being knocked out by a sliced golf ball. About to finish a match with friends on the eighteenth green Willard was rendered unconscious when a ball driven by another player from the 17th tee sliced 50 yards and struck him in the temple.

Jail Better Than Idleness

HUTCHISON, Kan. (UP)—Prison walls look less gloomy now to two paroled inmates, who returned voluntarily to the Kansas state reformatory here. Unemployment drove the boys back to the reformatory, which they thought a more comfortable place, with its three meals a day, than the outside world, with no jobs for them.

Figures Given on Etex Production

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 28—The East Texas situation continues to hold the center of attention of the oil industry, according to the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas. "During the period from November 5, 1930 to July 29, 1931, the East Texas field has produced slightly more than 45,500,000 barrels of oil, which was approximately 5 per cent of the total production of the entire United States for the year 1930," the Bureau's report said. "It may be noted that the 1,000,000-barrel mark for the East Texas fields was first passed for the week ending April 1, 1931. The production of this field for the week ending July 29, 1931 was 4,183,088 barrels.

"Since the field was opened seventeen trunk pipe lines, totaling 1,845 miles, have been completed, are under construction or are planned for the immediate future to serve as outlets of this field. They will have an aggregate capacity when all are completed of 706,500 barrels daily. In addition, there are 45 short lines to loading racks by which 100,000 barrels were being shipped out daily by tank cars at the time all wells were closed; also there are seven local refineries in the area which can take care of 45,000 barrels daily, and when several plants now under construction are completed, this capacity will be increased to about 75,000 barrels daily.

"A most important factor in the immediate oil situation in Texas and probably for the nation as a whole has been the determining of the approximate area of the East Texas oil field. This field is authoritatively reported as embracing about 188 square miles whose reserve has been variously estimated at from one to two billion barrels. The major portion of this field occurs in Gregg

You'll use less oil per mile and have less carbon per month with 997

Yes sir, those are facts. We proved them in the laboratory, and you can prove them on the road.

Starting with only 2% of the crude (see barrel at the left) we know right away that we've got the part of the crude that contains natural friction-fighting molecules only. Then we refine, drill and realign them until there's only .03 of one per cent carbon content in 997.—That means the oil is practically 100% carbon-clear.

And we keep on until 997 attains a new high in heat resistance. That means the oil is more stable, lasts longer and won't break down under the severest summer heat.

No wonder Texas motorists by the thousands have switched to 997.

SURVEY SHOWS WORST DAMAGE OF EARTHQUAKES WAS TO BUILDINGS

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 28.—The maximum damage effected in Texas due to the recent seismic disturbances was felt in Valentine in Jeff Davis county and in Lobo in Culberson county, according to Dr. E. H. Sellards, associate director of the Bureau of Economic Geology of the University of Texas, who has just returned from a trip to that territory, where, accompanied by H. A. Hemphill, geologist of the Board for the Lease of University Lands, he made a personal investigation of the results of the tremors in that region.

"In a large area around these towns the earthquake caused slight damage," Dr. Sellards said. "To the south as far as Presidio minor effects of the quake were observed, including slight breaking of plaster on a few houses, opening or enlarging of minor cracks in walls and some slight disturbance to chimneys. Similar results were seen to the east as far as Alpine, where some chimneys were knocked down and minor damage done to buildings. To the north slight damage to buildings was observed as far as Monahans, and small breaks in plaster on one or more buildings at a greater distance from the Valentine region were noted. The quake though it flew over a wide area, was not of sufficient intensity to damage buildings severely. To the west, similar minor effects were seen as far as Sierra Blanca. Within this area of minor damage, some localities seem to have escaped with practically no appreciable effect. This is true of Shafter, Marfa and of several towns on the Rio Grande river, including Porviner, Delerles and Candelaria.

Valentine Hit Worst
"The damage in Valentine was very considerable. It was not possible to individually check all damaged houses, but a conservative estimate indicates that between 50 and 100 or more adobe houses were more or less seriously damaged, including the shattering of plaster, breaking of walls, etc. Some of the walls actually collapsed while others are in danger of collapse. The school building in Valentine is in two parts, the front being hollow tile and the rear, brick. Both parts were severely damaged by breaks extending through the walls. With only a few exceptions, all chimneys in Valentine were either destroyed or damaged. The cement cap weighing 100 pounds or more at the top of one chimney at the school building was thrown northward clearing the roof of the building. Another chimney on a private house was broken at roof level and that part of the chimney above

Polo Is Tight Game
Troop 51 had only a slight edge over Troop 1 in water polo, although it got away to a fast lead of three goals before the Big Spring lads had scratched. Midland players were larger, but Big Spring employed good team work and lacked only two roof level, weighing at least 150 pounds, was thrown northeastward, clearing the roof and lighting in approximate upright position in the yard. These instances indicate the intensity of the shock in this locality and also the north-south trend of the vibrations. Many chimneys at Valentine and Lobo were offset or twisted but the direction of the twist was not consistent, some being clockwise and some anti-clockwise.

"In the cemetery at Valentine seven of the monuments were found to show twisting from the position previous to the quake. Of these, five were twisted clockwise and two anti-clockwise. The information concerning the earthquake which is being assembled by the Bureau of Economic Geology has not yet been completed. Information on Mexico in particular awaits completion. This information is being sought through the Geological Survey of Mexico."

Weber and Fields Join Orchestra

So enthusiastic has been the response to the humorous sketches of Weber and Fields, who became a feature of the Saturday night programs of B. A. Rolfe and the Lucky Strike Summer Party orchestra recently, that they have been engaged for all three weekly periods of this popular dance orchestra, according to an announcement by the American Tobacco company. They will make their debut as a regular feature, Tuesday evening, August 25, during the orchestra's broadcast from station WEAJ over a nation-wide NBC network, beginning at 10 o'clock Eastern Daylight Saving time, and will appear thereafter on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturday evenings.

Weber and Fields joined forces 53 years ago, and with the exception of one eight-year separation, have been together ever since. They are, without doubt, the most famous vaudeville team that ever stepped before the footlights, and their jokes and dialect set a style in humor that has been imitated by hundreds of com-goals of tying the score, which was 6-8. Troop 1 was second, Troop 65 third.

Two Accidents
Two slight accidents were reported during the day. Malcolm Brennehan, son of Scoutmaster Guy Brennehan and one of the entrants in the diving contests, stayed at home in the afternoon to doctor an eye that had been gouged by a finger of another swimmer.

One scout received a slight scalp laceration when struck by a swing. Chas. Berry, chairman of the committee serving the dinner Thursday, praised the men who helped him, declaring that their cooperation and hard work made possible the handling of the dinner with dispatch. Committeemen assisting Berry were Joe D. Chambers, Walter Cowden, J. L. Barber, Felix Stonehocker, G. T. Romans, Newlie Ellis, Percy Bridgewater, and James S. Noland.

L. J. Stevens and Joe Roberts furnished their trucks for hauling to and from Pagoda pool throughout the day.

Through the columns of The Reporter-Telegram I wish to thank every citizen of Midland for the wonderful reception given the boy scouts, scoutmasters and visitors during the scout carnival, not only on my behalf but also upon the behalf of the scoutmasters and scouts.

Midland has conclusively proved to us that it is the city of hospitality, vigor and keen-sighted business men.

Chickens, Doves In Season Tuesday

Several local sportsmen are preparing to be on the "firing line" in the Seminole country Monday night for the opening of the four-day open season on prairie chickens, September 1-4.

The "big push" of gunners will begin Tuesday, also, for doves. The dove season lasts through September and October. The bag limit is 15 per day and the birds may be shot 30 minutes before sunrise and 20 minutes after sundown and during the day. It is against the law to kill them from a road or from an automobile.

In accordance with President Hoover's proclamation of Tuesday the open season on duck, geese, brandt and coots in Texas has been reduced to the period from November 16 to December 15, inclusive, according to William J. Tucker, state fish, game and oyster commissioner.

Hoover's proclamation reduced the hunting season on these birds, whose ranks have been seriously depleted by the drouth this year both in the United States and Alaska. The season in North Texas on 6-3.

ducks had been October 16 to January 15 and in South Texas from November 1 to January 15. These are the dates printed on hunting licenses but hunters were warned by Tucker to disregard them.

DEFEAT BRITISH TEAM

BROOKLINE, Mass. — Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, last year's runners-up, Thursday gained the semi-final round of the national doubles tennis championship by eliminating the British Davis cup pair, Frederick J. Perry and George Patrick Hughes, 4-6, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

"I'm older than you think I am . . ."

"BUT I remember some of the things that I heard when I was younger.

"I was told to watch out for one of those so-called friends who is so mighty glad to see you today—almost going to hug you; and the next time you see her, is holding her head high up in the air and won't even speak to you.

"I was thinking about this while I was enjoying a CHESTERFIELD cigarette. You know, I have been smoking CHESTERFIELDS quite a long time, and they are not like some of our friends—one thing today and another thing tomorrow. They are always the same—always mild—always so pleasing in taste. They just satisfy all the time.

"By the way, that reminds me of something. I was playing bridge recently with a girl friend of mine and two men, and after we finished the game they began lambasting a whole lot of things and folks. Some of the talk was right funny, you couldn't help laughing; but, really, they pulled down a whole lot of things, and didn't build up anything.

"And that reminded me of a salesman who called to see me the other day to tell me something about CHESTERFIELD. The thing that pleased me more than anything else was that he didn't lambast and cuss out any other cigarette; but, of course, he thought that CHESTERFIELD was the best . . . And I rather agree with him. They do satisfy."
