Midland's Two-Year Lettermen

Three linemen and three backs—all of them two-year lettermen and veritable offensive rams and defensive boulders. From left to right, Pinnell, G. Booth, McCall, Burris (Captain), Hallman and Midkiff. Pinnell, Booth and McCall are three of the best linemen in the district. The same distinction goes to Burris, Hallman and Midkiff, a trio of speedy backs. All may be seen in this afternoon's encounter with Austin high school, El Paso. The game starts at 3 o'clock at Lackey field.

BUSINESS DISTRICT IS CLOSED FOR THE FIRST GREAT GAME OF SEASON

Austin High School Issues Statement That Midland Cannot Run Roughshod Over Eleven This Year

The greatest hubbub of preparation for a football game in Midland was ended shortly after noon today as students, players and town supporters settled down to await the 3-o'clock El Paso-Midland kick-off.

Speculation was still divided as to the strength of either eleven. Austin high of El Paso won a neat starter last week from Pecos 31-7, and Midland's first squad pyramided a 51-0 decision over Iraan, working only two quarters.

Business Section Closes Midland was closed as tight as a drum this afternoon, 41 stores having signed a petition to shut their doors. District court was adjourned for the game. The Reporter-Telegram went to press more than an hour earlier, in order that papers might "hit" the street in time to influence a greater exodus for Lackey field.

More than 700 attended a great pep rally in the high school auditorium at the assembly hour this morning. Sixty El Paso students, football players and coaches were present. The junior high school sat in a body at the meeting.

One of the greatest rallies in the history of the school was held on Thursday night at the school. The band was on the platform and cheer leaders directed an ear-splitting chorus of songs and yells. They followed a bonfire on the campus and a parade to the railway station to meet the incoming Austin high gridsters.

Captain Colozetti of the invaders brought a roster of 23 eligible players. Two of his men were injured last week, one breaking his leg, another his hand.

The coach says his club has improved 25 per cent over last year's showing when Midland staged a scoring parade in El Paso to win 53-18 over Austin high.

Dope Favors Midland Dopesters over the district have given Midland odds of 23 points, however, believing that the visitors are still inexperienced. They point out that Austin high met little opposition in the Pecos game, as Midland did in the Iraan scrimmage—but that Midland has a club that met with formidable opposition last season. Midland has added two coaches in the meantime, and their work has done much to iron out irregularities and make for play as a unit.

Concerning the new assistant coaches, Head Coach Barry had the following to say this morning: "The help of Henderson and Lingo in developing individual and team play has been invaluable. Both these men know their football and they have been highly successful in demonstrating and getting over to the boys the fine points of the game that are sometimes not fully appreciated by the average fan. I do not believe two better men could have been chosen to help put the Midland team over this year. They have their soul in the work and are thoroughly saturated with the spirit of Midland and Midland high school. Their whole-hearted co-operation and loyalty to the team and to me is deeply appreciated, and has made the team at least 50 per cent stronger than it otherwise could have been."

Ticket Sale Goes Over Ticket sales had exceeded all expectations, Supt. Lackey said at noon, and prospects for a great crowd were excellent.

The game is the second intersectional bout with El Paso and is expected to lend impetus to a decision to make of it an annual affair. The publicity reports from El Paso, which said Midland would have a difficult time scoring on the Austin crew and claimed Austin would win by 25 points, makes the game doubly interesting.

BULLETIN Ten A-3 attack planes flown by seven student officers and two cadets and commanded by Lt. Patrick, landed at Sloan field this morning, en route back to their Kelly field base. The flight began at Kelly, leading to Henssely field, Muskego, Ft. Hill, Midland, and from here back to Kelly. Cadet Davis nosed over his ship while landing at Ft. Hill, cracking it up to the extent he was given another plane for finishing the flight. He was uninjured.

MORE THAN LEADERSHIP

At a time when most Americans are looking around hopefully for a leader who can lead their country through its perplexing maze of difficulties, it is interesting to find Governor Wilbur Cross of Connecticut reminding us that even the discovery of such a leader won't necessarily solve the problem.

Writing in the autumn number of the Yale Review, Governor Cross remarks: "If we have learned anything from the war experience, it should be that leadership is not enough."

A citizen of a democracy such as ours cannot with a clear conscience delegate his authority to the expert in times of prosperity and hide behind him in times of trouble. The present period of adversity will have its uses if it recalls people in all walks of life to the elementary rights and duties of citizenship."

That paragraph goes straight to the roots of a good many of the troubles of the present moment.

For a number of years we have been content to put ourselves in the hands of others. We have fondly trusted that these others were wiser than we, but we haven't worried about it greatly.

The nation at large used to take its politics seriously. It used to get excited about the trends in business and economics. It was jealous of its rights. The country store, where farmers gathered around the cracker box to settle the affairs of the nation, wasn't quite as funny an institution as we like to pretend.

Recently we suffered a change. We let politicians run governmental affairs about as they pleased, asking only that they didn't worry us over them. We were too busy to bother about developments in finance and industry, leaving all such things to the square-jawed men in the front office. We gave up a measure of our old independence, and asked only to be led in something approximating the right direction.

Now we are getting precisely what we asked for. Corruption in city affairs, inefficiency in state capitals, a mounting federal deficit, industrial stagnation, unemployment—we refused to worry about any of them until times got hard.

Good leadership, of course, is needed. But it isn't enough by itself.

Governor Cross is dead right in pointing out that the rank and file in a democracy have got to think for themselves.

PETTICOATS BEHIND MUTINY

Nothing in all of the stories about the British naval mutiny has been more interesting than the following little paragraph, taken from a cabin dispatch from London.

"The men will be granted week-end leave and will have a chance to talk over the recent events with their wives, who are blamed by many officers in naval circles as the real originators of the strike."

This provides an unsuspected angle from which to view the whole affair. Navy Jack is apt to be a married man these days. He isn't the carefree, roistering rover of the old days. When his pay is cut the little woman will call it to his attention just as she would if he were a factory hand.

The British government, one imagines, may have a tough time smoothing its "naval unrest" down if it fails to take the wives into account.

AIR TRANSPORTATION PROGRESS

The steady increase in commercial aviation's safety factor is strikingly illustrated in the recent report from Assistant Secretary of Commerce Clarence M. Young.

During the first six months of this year commercial transport planes flew a little better than 20,000,000 miles, and nine passengers lost their lives. In the first six months of last year the planes flew less than 17,000,000 miles and killed 22 passengers.

The only thing that stands in the way of a tremendous boom in the air transport business is the fact that the average man still has a faint, lingering fear of trusting himself to an airplane. Let commercial aviation hang up just a few more records like this one and the last traces of that fear will vanish.

Daily Health Talk

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Diet of Average Child Lacks Adequate Amount of Calories

Investigators in schools, kindergartens, and nurseries have regularly found that children from average homes do not receive proper diets. An investigation made by Dr. J. C. Winters in Texas concerned the diet of 50 American, 50 Negro and 75 Mexican children in several Texas cities. The diets were carefully studied as to the total amount of calories received, body weight, protein, carbohydrates, fat, mineral salts and vitamins.

Some interesting facts were discovered. For instance, 52 per cent of the American, 62 per cent of the negro and 66 per cent of the Mexican diets were inadequate in total amount of calories taken. Moreover the food deficiencies were more serious for girls than for boys.

The Negro and Mexican intake of calcium was not much more than half that of the American diets; phosphorus and iron were low in the three groups. The average intake was lower for girls than for boys. Inadequacy of calcium affected 50 per cent of the American, 90 of the Negro and 96 per cent of the Mexican diets. Inadequacy of phosphorus affected 38 per cent of the American, 74 per cent of the Negro and 64 per cent of the Mexican. Inadequacy of iron affected 50 per cent of the American, 32 per cent of the Negro and 66 per cent of the American diets. People who insist that the average American eats an adequate diet are going to have a hard time explaining these figures.

The inadequacy of minerals in the American diets were largely associated with the failure in diets to provide an adequate amount of green vegetables, whereas the Negro diets were relatively rich in these substances. Vitamin A was supplied in all of the diets, because most of them provided enough milk to take care of this vitamin. The Negro diets contained much less butter, less egg yolk and less leafy vegetables than did the American diets. The Mexicans ate relatively more eggs than the Americans or Negroes. Fifty per cent of the American children had been given cod liver oil regularly, but the Negro and Mexican children had apparently never received it.

Vitamin D was relatively deficient in all of the diets. The Mexicans have substituted white flour for whole corn products. Neither Mexicans nor Negroes use whole wheat to any appreciable extent. However, both Mexicans and Negroes use beans, potatoes and tomatoes in fairly large amounts. Fresh fruits, and raw vegetables appear much more commonly in American than in Negro or in Mexican diets, hence the Americans have fair amounts of Vitamin C. The Negroes and Mexicans use potatoes, tomatoes and onions, which help to take care of their vitamin C lack. There is apparently less danger of the lack of this vitamin in the diet than of lack of vitamins A and D.

China Fears Communists

PEIPING, Sept. 25. (UP)—The serious flood disasters in the Yangtze valley have hastened the crisis in the battle between Communists and advocates of representative government for dominance of this country.

Communists, taking advantage of widespread suffering, are gathering their forces for an attack, which they hope will be a knockout blow to their opponents. Floods, which have pauperized 50 million people, have favored them, they believe.

The government in Nanking has accepted the challenge. General Chiang Kai-shek and his followers have realized for some time that Communists are their most dangerous enemy.

The Yangtze valley floods came as the most dangerous threat of all. One-eighth of China's 400 millions were made homeless and lost their meagre possessions. The rice granary of China was wiped out just before the harvest.

Communist agitators saw a happy hunting ground for their doctrines. Long before the floods had subsided, agitators moved among refugee camps, exhorting the people to join the communist party.

It is now admitted that the crisis will come this winter. If the government can take care of homeless millions, Communists can hardly enlist them. If relief funds prove inadequate, millions will probably join the well-organized Communist armies in the south.

Depression Shows That War Would Be Fatal to Country

Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, author of this timely and interesting article, is vice president of the Cleveland Trust Company and one of the nation's most noted economists and business experts.—The Editor.

By COLONEL LEONARD P. AYRES, Noted Economist of Cleveland Trust Company

This depression, and that of 1921, will probably be discussed in future economic histories as holding "important places among the major consequences of the World War."

Students of our own business history will note that we had a primary and a secondary post-war depression following the War of 1812, again a primary and a secondary post-war depression following the Civil War, and now once more a primary and a secondary post-war depression following the World War.

WHAT DEPRESSION HAS TAUGHT US

"Our troubles are not the result of some mysterious and hitherto unsuspected weakness in our social system, nor can they be cured by adopting a five-year plan, or 10-year, or 20-year plan of reorganization of our industries, our banks and our commerce."

"The true lesson of this depression is that we cannot afford any more great wars."

appear to indicate that they have formed parts of a specialized pattern that business activity follows after all great wars.

It is not the event of war that shapes the patterns, but rather the fact that great wars cause sudden and extreme advances in commodity prices. It is this sudden price advance which largely undermines the nature and sequence of the business cycles of the following 20 years or so.

In broad general terms we may think of all the people in the world as being divided into two great classes. In the first class are the people who live in the country, and earn their livelihoods by extracting valuable things from the earth through agriculture, mining, lumbering and fishing. In the second class are those who live in towns and cities, and support themselves by taking the things produced by the country dwellers and fabricating them, and trading in them.

Farmer Profits First In War Economic Chain When war comes, and commodity prices mount, the prompt result is a great wave of prosperity for the farmers. For some time their production costs increase but little, and the increases in the prices received for crops are almost all profit. Under such conditions of very rapid price advances, the doubling of the amount received for a crop of given size may well result in a tenfold increase in farmer profits.

The next development is the great speculation in farm lands, the use of profits to buy more land, and a large increase in farm mortgages. Production is sharply stepped up. This period proves rather difficult for the city dwellers, for while industry and trade are brisk, and everyone can find work, the cost of living is high, wages do not advance nearly so rapidly as prices, and industrial disputes are frequently as pay advances are demanded.

However, toward the end of the war, or shortly thereafter, commodity prices reach their peak and turn down. With the price deflation comes business depression for rural and urban dwellers alike. After the Civil War this came in the goods produced by the cities. Then comes a secondary decline in commodity prices, a collapse of city real estate values, and the secondary post-war depression, afflicting urban communities and country districts alike.

During this secondary depression wages, prices and profits for both city dwellers and country people are painfully jarred and jolted back into a working adjustment that enables the nation, or the nations, to make progress in the long task of paying off the accumulated indebtedness.

Apparently it takes about 10 years for the developments that have been described to take place.

The peak of commodity prices of the War of 1812 came in 1815, and the secondary depression was ushered in 10 years later by the panic of 1825.

In the Civil War the peak of prices came in 1864, and the first full year of the secondary post-war depression was 1874.

After the World War the peak of commodity prices was in 1920, and the first full year of the secondary depression was 1930.

Same Sequence Seen After All Wars In each case there seems to have been the same sequence of (1) price deflation, (2) farm prosperity and farm land speculation, (3) price deflation and depression, (4) city prosperity and speculation, (5) secondary price deflation and secondary depression.

The same sequence has been followed before in earlier war and post-war periods, but this time the whole world is involved. Instead of thinking about it in terms of country districts and city populations, we must remember that this time it affects whole nations, and almost all nations.

Our troubles are not the result of some mysterious and hitherto unsuspected weakness in our social system, nor can they be cured by adopting a five-year, or 10-year, or 20-year plan of reorganization of our industries, our banks and our commerce.

The true lesson of this depression is that we cannot afford any more great wars.

London Favors Blonde Craze

LONDON, Sept. 25. (UP)—West-end hairdressers are certain that the platinum blondes of Hollywood and the Folies are worth more than they receive, even if their yearly pay envelopes bulge to more than a million dollars.

The hair craze set by them is bringing hundreds of pounds into fashionable salons and many of the leading coiffeur houses are changing brunettes into silvery fairness at the rate of three a day.

Four or five treatments are required. The individual appointments cost from $10 to $25, and when the process of "going platinum" is started it cannot be stopped.

Once the hair is platinum, it must be re-dyed once a month. It's another case of the upkeep that counts and not the original cost.

Several hairdressers have sent experts to Paris to find out the newest and most effective methods of transforming hair to this new shade.

Nine Foot Shark Harpooned

OORACOOKE, N. C. (UP)—A nine foot shark weighing several hundred pounds was harpooned by David Gaskill here, and Carl Jacobson, of Washington, N. C. When the fish came within five feet of the boat, Gaskill threw the harpoon. It struck the shark in the back. The little boat was pulled several hundred yards down the channel by the man-eater. It was finally brought to the shore and landed with block and tackle.

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

I still say that we need all of the benefit performances we can get, as long as there is a cause like the welfare association needing the funds. Let's get behind a series of boxing bouts or wrestling matches or both and let's get up a benefit race meet in the near future.

Every day about 1:30 I hear Bill Blair call Hankins and Barron to come have some coffee. Funny how a fellow learns that their dead line on copy is 2:15 and they can't get off before then.

Dear Quack: You have been talking about Believe It or Not stuff. The depression has brought out another one. A prominent young ranchman in this territory in order to beat the high cost of living has been eating rabbit. In fact he has eaten so many that every time the dog bays he (the ranchman) runs under the bed.

Believe It or Not. E. P. Cowden, who rarely tells any news good enough to get in print, says cotton seed cake is twice as high as it was a month ago. He said a cake of cows would pay for a car cake a month ago but now it takes two cars of cows.

Flyers See Next War in 1980

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25. (UP)—The next great war will occur "any time after 1980," and to shelter the people of the world there will be bomb-proof buildings and powerful protective gasses.

This view into the future was given by Commander Willis B. Haviland, war aviator of Atlanta, Ga., here on business.

Belief that science will act shortly to provide plans for defense against predicted air raids and gas attacks was voiced by the aviator.

"Another world war will not wipe out cities and nations," he explained. "Science will develop means of counteracting warfare almost as speedily as the hazards of war increase."

"All buildings will be constructed so that bombs will not explode on hitting the roof and the walls will be built so that the force of the blast will have no effect."

Commander Haviland led the first American air attack of the World War. He was in charge of a squadron of 16 planes, which swooped down on the Austrian naval base at Porto Corsini, on the Adriatic Sea, in 1918.

Port of Stockholm Booms

STOCKHOLM. (UP)—Owing to a continued increase in trade in the Port of Stockholm the head of the Swedish Customs Service recommends the employment of an additional force of more than fifty officials and suggests the appointment of a special chief of the Stockholm Coast District besides the Chief Inspector of the Customs Department of Stockholm.

"DEAD" FOR FIVE YEARS

GENOVA, Italy. (UP)—After seven years of insanity, Signora Angela Moresco regained her reason to find out that she had been officially dead for five years. The hospital for the insane, after investigation, admitted that an error in names had been made and another woman had died under the name of Moresco. Legal steps are under way to straighten out the tangle.

Rare Fossils Loaned Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP)—Starfishes, crinoids, cystoids and trilobites—all unusually fine specimens of the Upper Devonian seas of Germany—have been unearthed and loaned to the Harvard Museum of Comparative Anatomy for study and exhibition. These fossils occur in the Hunsruck slate now being quarried for roofing slate.

YOUR CHILDREN Your children are not your children. They are the sons and daughters of life's longing for itself. They come through you, but not from you. And though they are with you, yet they belong not to you. You may give them your love but not your thoughts. For they have thoughts of their own. You may house their bodies but not their souls. For their souls dwell in the house of tomorrow. Which you cannot visit even in your dreams. You may strive to be like them but seek not to make them like you. Robinson Is Greek Gambler in Thriller

Edward G. Robinson, who was so tremendously successful in "Little Caesar" comes to the Ritz theatre today and tomorrow as the star of "Smart Money" the Warner Bros. melodrama in which he plays the part of a small town Greek barber, who climbs to the heights of notoriety as a gambling despot, and who, fearing nothing but blondes, is finally put on the spot by one he has saved from suicide. The character is the most remarkable yet portrayed by Mr. Robinson. Alfred E. Green directed.

Will Rogers at The Ritz Sunday

George Ade, author of "Father and the Boys", the famous stage success which reaches the screen under the title of "Young As You Feel" is considered by Will Rogers, star of this sensational Fox version, opening Sunday for three days at the Ritz theatre, to be the greatest living writer of humorous slang. "Ade, you might say, is the father of popular slang as we know it today," Rogers said. "I chuckled over his stuff long before I ever dreamed of writing for publication, and of late years I have become quite fond of him personally." Rogers is quite sincere in his estimation of the famous Indian, too, and his tribute carries weight because of Rogers' standing as a creator of written humor. Fifi Dorsay and Lucien Littlefield enact featured roles in the picture, which Frank Borzage directed.

Last Call! Only 4 more days CONTEST CLOSES MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, MIDNIGHT $10,000 IN CASH PRIZES FOR THE BEST ANSWERS EXPLAINING THE MYSTERY of the "HIDDEN QUART" AND TELLING HOW THIS QUART BENEFITS MOTORISTS Fact No. 1—Thousands of motorists and service station men have observed that after a car has been given its first fill of Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and is driven 200 to 350 miles, a look at the crankcase gauge shows that about one quart of oil is apparently missing . . . but Fact No. 2—These same people have noticed that on the second and later fillings with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil, scarcely a drop of oil will disappear during the first 350 miles, and practically none at 500 and up to 1,000 miles! The above facts have been checked by actual tests with cars that use six quarts of oil for the crankcase, cars in good mechanical condition and driven at ordinary rates of speed. These facts will also prove true for your car, in proportion to the amount of oil your crankcase usually holds, your car's mechanical condition and the speeds at which you drive. What becomes of the "hidden quart"? The answer is easy if you study the Facts given above and keep in mind the things that only Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil can do. The explanation of the whereabouts of the "hidden quart" is simple—no technical knowledge of motors or oil is necessary. Remember—The "hidden quart" of Germ Processed Oil does not escape through leakage . . . does not burn up, wear out nor evaporate. It is "present but unaccounted for." Fact No. 2, given above, proves all this. After you've found where the "hidden quart" goes, you can easily see the special benefits it gives the motorist—advantages that no other oil can give. Ask at any Conoco Station or Conoco Dealer for free Entry Blank which contains information about Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil that may help you win. Conoco Station and Dealer employees will gladly answer your questions. Remember, you do not have to buy anything to enter this contest. See Rules of Contest for complete details. THE QUESTION "What becomes of the 'hidden quart' and how does this quart benefit the motorist?" COMPLETE RULES OF CONTEST 1. Answers may be any length not exceeding 200 words; length of answer will not determine winners. Write answers on Official Contest Entry Blank preferably, or on plain white paper. Conoco Stations and Dealers will give you an Official Contest Entry Blank free. Elaborate presentations of answers will not count in your favor. 2. Write your answer in plain, simple language. Technical terms or special scientific knowledge will not influence the judges. 3. Contest closes midnight, September 28, 1931, and no entries bearing postmarks after midnight, September 28, 1931, will be accepted. 4. Contest open to everybody except employees and executives of the Continental Oil Company, Conoco Stations, Conoco Dealers and the Company's advertising agency, and their families. 5. In case of tie, both contestants will receive full amount of prize tied for. 6. You do not have to use or purchase Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil or other Conoco products to compete for prizes. 7. AMERICAN LEAGUE GETS EIGHT OF FIFTEEN ALL-AMERICA POSITIONS

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Editor
NEW YORK.—Eight players from the American league and seven from the National gave the two major leagues of baseball almost an even break on the choice of an All-Star big league team.

The personnel of the team, as selected by the NEA Service Baseball Board, composed of 14 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America is:

Al Simmons, Athletics, lf.
Kiki Cuyler, Cubs, cf.
Babe Ruth, Yankees, rf.
Lou Gehrig, Yankees, 1b.
Frank Frisch, Cardinals, 2b.
Pie Traynor, Pirates, 3b.
Joe Cronin, Senators, ss.
Mickey Cochrane, Athletics, c.
Jimmy Wilson, Cardinals, c.
Grove and Earnshaw, Athletics, and (these four pitchers each received three votes) Ed Brandt, Braves; Paul Derringer, Cardinals; Burleigh Grimes, Cardinals, and Wesley Ferrell, Indians, p.

Giants and Virgil Davis, Phils. Pitcher Grove was the other unanimous choice, being followed by George Earnshaw with ten votes. Brandt, Derringer, Grimes and Ferrell each received three votes; Marberry got two, and Rube Walberg, Athletics, and Bill Walker, Giants, one each.

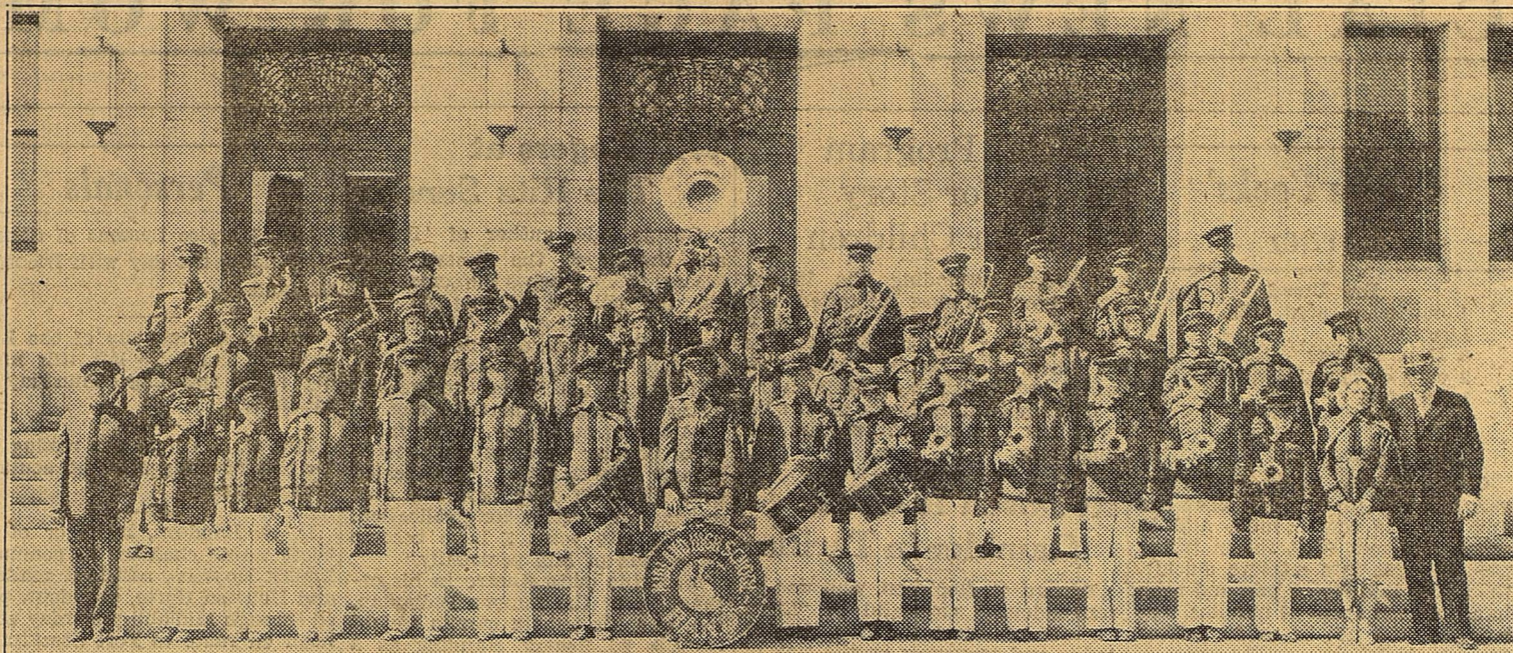

The writers were asked to select two catchers and three pitchers.

The batting average of the team, exclusive of the pitchers, is .333. Ruth and Simmons top the list with .380. Imagine these two sluggers coming up in third and fourth positions!

Next comes Lou Gehrig with an average of .354, not to mention forty-odd home runs. Cochrane's most recent batting average was .347. Next comes Cuyler, batting .334. Cronin bats .312; Frisch .309; Traynor .295, and Wilson .276.

The power of the team is illustrated by comparison with the Indians, leading the American League with a mark of .298, and the Giants, leading the National with a .290 average.

I Feel in My Bones Midland

By ARKANSAS

You ain't kidding me none about this here game with Austin high. Them Bulldogs was weaned on scrap. Ever since the time I made a record as the youngest kid that chewed tobacco in our kindergarten class I been good at dopping things—and I pick Midland to win by at least three touchdowns.

SPORTS REPORTS

By R. C. HANKINS
This and that from the scribes of the district: Marcos Williamson hopes Midland may continue to improve so that the meeting of Midland and Big Spring here Oct. 17 may give the customers their "money's worth." He says Doc Hardy of the Seaside Drive city returned home from the Lubbock dentists' convention with a new golf bag given for his winning fourth place in a tournament held in connection. Marcos has laid claim to the doc's old bag. Now isn't the doc a bit easy for a dentist? Mark "expects no difficulty in seeing" Big Spring beat Brownfield this week-end. If he sticks to "Gee! Co-las he shouldn't." Prexy Anderson took an ill advised prediction on the Ranger-Sweetwater game and Bill Mayes, Ranger scribe, cracks: "Prexy seems to have folded his typewriter and hibernated for the winter as far as his sport column is concerned." Bill has been tickling his own ribs about Cisco practicing behind closed park gates. And now that Cisco failed to do better than 31-12 against a supposedly weak Gorman team, Bill says "it's easy to guess why so little has been said about the team." About the same, Benny Butler, supposedly from Cisco, says: "The 1931 Cisco Lobos, paraded their wares before the grandstands that night in a splotchy engagement as the visiting Class B eleven, fortified with ex-stars, nicked the Lobo's escutcheon for two touchdowns that wounded their pride." Breckenridge is looking good again this year, what with its 54-0 defeat of Comanche and striking potentialities. For the information of the fans Boon Magness and Johnny Campbell, who was declared ineligible after running over Cisco early last season, are both galloping for Schreiner institute at Kerrville this year. Mr. Williamson tells us he never saw so many backs who can navigate with impeding players hanging around various sections of their anatomies. And he warns that the "supposedly second string" may start some games because of their late showing against the first squad. He says they have been rubbing first string noses in the dirt, and calls to mind an interesting story on Rockne's methods of showing a first string backfield it is not the whole cheese in a football win, that it cannot do anything without the solid front line. The famed "Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame, it seems, began to believe, just as the papers pointed out, that they were the best combination in the country and that they could gallop against anything, anytime. So Rockne starts them behind the second string line and the Horsemen can get nowhere, anytime. He sends in the "Seven Mules" and "business starts picking up." The idea penetrates—as we hope it did to Mr. Williamson's readers. Incidentally, Mark is getting quite an interesting sports column worked up each day. An old friend of ours, we're interested in seeing him grow. Wonder what Angelo will do with the Ballinger Bears this p.m.? You remember what they did with the Owls of Big Lake last week? Won 60-0, using three teams and a flock of extra subs, according to Blondy Cross. Incidentally, Cross says in "Roving the Sports World" that fast backs have showed up again at San Angelo. He reviews a little history, bringing in the old family album, showing that in 1928 and 1929 there was speed to burn, but that in 1930 the team suffered from terrapins in the back field. "Massey and Baker were the speed shots of 1928. Poosty Jones and T. B. Odam loped sensationally in 1929 and Jimmy Bussan worried a lot of the opposition silly with his tantalizing broken-field waltzes." And now, after a bad year in 1930, "the squad seems to be sprouting all over with jack rabbits again. Bill Harrison scampered handsomely in the first quarter of the romp with the Big Lakers. Herb Reed displayed some bumps, but a speed few of the sideline coaches realized he had in him. George Delker, the big fullback and letter track man, moves in a hurry. Maybe Louie McClothing is no streak of lightning, but he got across the turf with alacrity on several long runs. Then came the number two team and cotton-haired Collin Biffle sprinted up and down the touchdown aisles, seemingly with more speed than his predecessors had shown. Sweetwater plays Snyder this afternoon and the sports writer of the Red and White city says the Mustangs will sprout wings, be a veritable Pegasus, in fact. "It's going to be a passing game, with the old pigskin being hurled through the air" by Messrs. Baugh, Hicks & Sheridan, all senior partners of one of the outstanding aviation corporations of these parts. We missed Belt's name from the partnership, and find he is to be replaced, "or at least to be alternated" by Speegle Wood, the boy with "the educated toe." He was one of the lads who put the crimp in the tail of the Big Spring Steers last year, when our neighboring city decided to dedicate a stadium. Big Spring can give you the date, in case you're interested.

Estes Burgamy, of the Eastland Mavericks promises to be the leading scorer of the Oil Belt, if pre-season games are any indication of what will happen when Class A schedules start. By scoring once against Daniel Baker freshmen and three times against the Cross Plains club, he has run up a total of 24 points to take the early season lead. He is followed by Brady Thomas of Brownwood with 20 points and by Little of Cisco, McFall and Hodges of Breckenridge and Weaver of Ranger, each of whom has scored 13 points, according to tabulation made by Prexy Anderson of Abilene. These golf rules that empurple the faces of so many millions of people each year have reasons behind them, writes Grantland Rice in a recent issue of Colliers. When a rule is violated one who does not call the fault on the one he plays with is more at fault than the one who made the error, the writer seems to think—thus providing us with a cause of action when we play with M. D. Johnson or some other frequenter of the country club course. Rice says Rule 15 is the most violated. It reads—"Before striking at a ball in play, a player shall not move, bend nor break anything fixed or growing, except so far as is necessary to enable him fairly to take his stance in addressing the ball, or in making his backward or forward swing." A and B are playing, for instance, and A starts tearing up the scenery. B remonstrates. A pulls out his rule book and points to the trouble in standing on a bush or hitting through one. The trouble, says Rice, is found in the rule being poorly written. "It probably causes more arguments than any other in the code. And there are about ten thousand of these arguments every week over one thing or another among the three million players who can't understand why one game has to have so many rules and regulations." Captain C possibly wonders why he cannot brush the line of his putt. If Colonel D is up on the reason he can say as did Rice that it was discovered long ago that certain sharp workers while brushing the line of a putt were also placing small green headed pins between the cup and their opponent's ball, thereby deflecting the ball from a true line. Rice says the original code of golf rules was adopted in 1754, when the game was all match play. "Of the thirteen original rules, seven remain in the present code. The fundamental principle of golf is to play the ball as it lies and most of the rules merely provide amplifications of this lone fundamental. They arise from three sources: 1. Practices which would give you an advantage over an opponent; 2. Playing conditions; 3. The introduction of medal play." In the old days, Rice points out, when you suffered a penalty a stroke was not added to your score—but one deducted from your opponent's. Rice tells of some of the peculiar shots that great players have made. In one championship match, for instance, Bobby Jones found his ball in the rough, in an old shoe. He took his niblic and pitched both ball and shoe onto the green. The ball rolled free and he sank his putt. Rice sums up: "The rules are the basis of a square deal for all concerned and any player who breaks a rule without calling the penalty may be a number of things, but he isn't a golfer."

STAND CONVENIENT

A new stand has been built into the side of the Lackey field grandstand by the Midland school board for use of Parent-Teacher associations who conduct sales at ball games. Shelves and soda water cases are built in the stand and add greatly to its convenience, P. T. A. officials say.

The North Ward P. T. A. has announced a sale for the Friday El Paso-Midland game similar to the one held last week when $21 was received. The Blue Nile in Africa was so called from the dark color of its silt-laden waters.

FOUR MACKMEN WIN PLACES ON AMERICAN LEAGUE ALL-STAR CLUB

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Editor
NEW YORK—An all-star team of American league players, according to the 14 baseball writers of the NEA Service Baseball board, would be composed of the following men: Al Simmons, A's, lf.
Earl Averill, Indians, cf.
Babe Ruth, Yankees, rf.
Lou Gehrig, Yankee, 1b.
Oscar Melillo, Browns, 2b.
Ossie Bluege, Senators, 3b.
Joe Cronin, Senators, ss.
Cochrane, A's, c.
Dickey, Yankees, c.
Grove and Earnshaw, A's, p.
Wes Ferrell, Indians, p.

Four of the choices were unanimously—Simmons, Gehrig, Cochrane and Grove. There was one dissenting vote each against Babe Ruth and Joe Cronin, one of the writers choosing Ben Chapman for right field and another naming Hal Rhyme for short.
Bluege won 12 votes for the job at third base, Willie Kamm and Joe Sewell each getting a single vote.
Averill was accorded 10 choices out of the 14 voting. Sam West of the Senators and Earl Webb of the Red Sox got two each. Oscar Melillo, whose batting this year has been sensational following several weak years with the stick, was given nine votes. Charlie Gehringer of the Tigers got three votes and Max Bishop and Tony Lazzari one each.

None of the decisions might be called close, even as regards the pitchers. Grove was unanimously selected; Earnshaw was given 12 votes and Ferrell eight, the writers having been asked to name three pitchers and two catchers on the team. The closets to Ferrell were Fred Marberry, of the Senators with five votes and Ruben Walberg, of the A's got two. Lefty Gomez of the Yankees got a single vote.
Cochrane was named unanimously as Grove's battery mate. Dickey got eight votes. The next closest was Charley Berry, with three, and Rick Ferrell, two. Luke Sewell got one choice.
The team includes four members of the A's—Simmons, Cochrane, Grove and Earnshaw. Two of the runner-up Senators got on—Cronin and Bluege. There were three Yankees—Gehrig, Dickey and Ruth. Gehrig's victory at first base, at which position there is some pretty good talent around the league, was a triumph with emphasis.
Neither Fox, Morgan nor any of the others was even considered.
The Indians were represented by two men, Averill and Ferrell. An unusual feature of the vote was that only one second division team was represented among the final

SHORTSTOP
THE CARDINALS seem to have it on the Athletics at this position. Charlie Gelbert, with but two years of major league baseball experience, is generally recognized as one of the best shortstops in the game. He was the St. Louis hero of the 1930 world series and his work this season has been excellent. He is of the rangy type and can go far to his right or left for batted balls. His batting is only a few points shy of .300. Joe Boley of the Athletics has been having trouble with his legs this season. However, Boley can rise to supreme heights in a crisis. One of the fielding gems of last year's world series was his spectacular stop of a liner over second. He has been resting recently and should be in shape to start.

HELP! UNCLE'S GONE

SEATTLE, Wash.—"Help! My Uncle Ben's been stolen" came the voice of Thomas Kessler over the police telephone. Visions of a kidnapping aroused a flurry of excitement as policemen prepared to take up the trail. "Yep," Kessler's voice continued, "in broad daylight, too. Never did like the old chemo, but it's my wife's uncle, y'know." Excitement increased. Then it died suddenly as Kessler explained that "Uncle Ben" was in reality a picture of the old man.
