Oil Scouts of Production Area in Check Meeting Here

LUNCHEON IS GIVEN IN HOTEL

Efforts Extended to Hold Future Meets In Midland

A. W. Wyatt of the Atlantic Oil company, Midland, was elected "head check" by oil scouts when they met in session in Midland today.

The main oil scout check meeting of the Permian Basin was transferred Wednesday to Midland. Oil men believe the scout check meeting will now be held permanently in Midland.

Eighteen scouts were cutting samples and checking here today. The Midland meeting is a well check gathering and is also the only sample cutting meeting in West Texas.

Oil scouts were in Midland Wednesday from San Angelo, Pecos, Artesia and other points. From eight to 10 out of town men will be here each Wednesday and local oil men who have been forced to travel a total of 800 miles a week to attend the meetings formerly held at Pecos and other points will now save this travel. One Midland scout estimated that all Permian basin scouts would be saved a total of nearly 20,000 miles a month by reason of the transfer here.

Guests at luncheon
The scouts were guests at noon Wednesday at a luncheon given by the Midland chamber of commerce, that institution having worked with Louis Link, R. E. Witty, A. W. Wyatt and others to bring the meeting to Midland. The scouts were allowed free use of a check room by Hotel Scharbauer through arrangements made by Manager Arthur G. Jure. The hotel arranged the room specially to receive the tables and other furnishings used by the oil men.

James S. Nolan, chairman of the chamber of commerce petroleum committee, was toastmaster at today's luncheon. Malcolm Meek, president of the organization, made a brief talk assuring the men of Midland's hearty welcome. Mary Elizabeth Newman sang and danced. She was accompanied by Mrs. Holt Jowell. "Stud" Watson of Pecos made the response for the scouts.

Midland people got "kick" out of seeing the oil scouts at work Wednesday morning on Loraine street in the former Blakeney office. Bob Patteson, Al Watts, Arthur Yeager, Witty, Link, Wyatt and other local men were assisting in getting the work started.

Men who attended the meeting Wednesday or those who will come to future meetings, as the same scouts do not attend all meetings, are:

G. M. Shelton, Simms Oil Co.; R. W. Patteson, H. H. Johnson, W. L. Brown, Gulf Production Co.; E. R. Mosby, Skel Oil Co.; R. E. Witty, The Texas Co.; Dave J. Finley, Continental Oil Co.; Erle Payne, Phillips Petroleum Co.; Joe C. Hemphill, Vacuum Oil Co.; L. C. Link, T. P. Coal and Oil Co.; S. S. Stinson, Humble Oil and Refining Co.; S. R. Self, Amerada Petroleum Co.; W. E. Whitcomb, The California Co.; J. N. Gregory, University of Texas; Bert Lywyd, C. P. Watson and W. A. Yeager, Prairie Oil and Gas Co.; Bob Brennan, The California Co.; Chester Sappington, Empire Gas and Fuel Co.; R. E. Nelson, Jr., Stanolind Oil and Gas Co.; Kane Greenleaf, Phillips Petroleum Co.; Johnnie Cram, Continental Oil Co.; R. H. Woods, Vacuum Oil Co.; Bill Brown, Shell Petroleum Co.; J. C. Cunningham, Humble Oil and Refining Co.; A. F. Loskamp, Barnsdall Oil Co.; Allen J. Watts, Midcontinent Petroleum Co.; A. W. Wyatt, Atlantic Oil Co.

Plays With Kids; Breaks His Arm

Hubert Drake's arm "ain't what it used to be," he admits. Drake, salesman for Cowden-Ephey, tried playing ball with a bunch of youngsters, tripped up and broke it in a fall. "It's old folks' games for me from now on," he said, ruefully.

AMERICAN PRESS MISUNDERSTANDS DETROIT STAND OF LEGION EARP SAYS IN TUESDAY LAMESA ADDRESS

By WM. A. WILSON
LAMESA, Oct. 14. (Special)—The press of the nation misrepresented the American legion's stand on the prohibition question in the national convention in Detroit, V. Earl Earp, Sweetwater state commander, stated in an address here Tuesday evening before the Allen Houston post of Lamesa, during the installation of officers.

Earp said the legion did not vote in favor of repeal or did not vote in favor of light wines and beers but did ask for a referendum. He declared that preachers were down on the legion due to the misrepresentation by the press and that they were calling legionnaires drunkards through the error.

Earp led the Texas vote in the convention for continuance of prohibition and favors rigid enforcement.

Injects Criticism
The commander also stated that the United States was the least prepared of any nation for war and that this fact lost America millions of dollars and thousands of lives in the last struggle.

Preparation for war is the best peace plan, he said.

The state commander quoted figures revealing an ex-service man's claim that the American legion was not trying to rob the treasury, but only seeking money to aid in the nation-wide unemployment situation.

He declared that the legion did the greatest work for the unemployed in the nation this year.

Louis B. Reed, Lamesa attorney, was installed as new commander of the post here. H. Richardson is retiring commander.

Earp spoke here following a plane trip from Oklahoma City to Sweetwater and a dash from there here over muddy roads in one day.

Old Landmark Is Being Torn Away
The old Modern hotel, where visitors to Midland 20 or 22 years ago could get room and board for $4 a week, is being razed. The old landmark at the corner of Loraine and Texas is to go into construction of a filling station at Front and Wall.

The hotel, in those days as modern as its name indicated, was once operated by Mrs. Dyer, who later married Tobe Crawford. She was killed in a highway wreck less than four years ago.

FAMILIES FLEE FROM OIL WELL

Steam Used in Effort To Extinguish Killer Well

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 14. (UP).—Expert firefighters began today attempts to extinguish the burning No. 2 Gustin well, which exploded two days ago, killing one man.

Workmen were using live steam in the attempt.

If this fails, Floyd Kinley, Tulsa, and Hugh L. Patton, Houston, famous for East Texas work, will be allowed to bid on the project of blasting out the fire with explosives.

Twenty families, living near the well, were ordered from their homes today by the militia because of the extreme hazard.

GIST CATTLE WIN AT MARFA HEREFORD SHOW

John M. Gist won additional honors when he showed his cattle at the Highland fair, Marfa, last week. Bulls of his herd won nine first, seven seconds and four thirds. One of his bulls was adjudged grand champion and a senior champion.

Stanway Lad, the grand champion, brought a price of $425, and Prince Domino V, sired by the noted Dr. Harris, a $10,000 bull, brought the top price of the fair, $800, being sold to Reid Bros., Ft. Davis. At an auction sale that followed, Gist averaged $500 for each bull sold from his herd.

R. D. Shinkle, Texas representative of Western Livestock, Albuquerque, said that Gist's animals were in better condition this year than he had ever seen them. Gist has been showing cattle for 27 years.

Cattle as a whole were better looking than the Highland fair has ever exhibited, he said. This year marked the fourth showing at Marfa.

The auction sale of registered cattle was held under the auspices of the Texas Hereford Breeders' association, Oct. 8. Twenty-eight bulls and nine cows from the following West Texas herds were sold: C. A. Broome of San Angelo; W. A. Daugherty of Alpine; Joe T. Davidson of Ozona; B. A. Elliott of Moran; John M. Gist of Midland and Odessa; C. E. McFarland of Marfa; F. C. Millard of Marfa; J. A. Queen of Big Lake, Reid Bros., of Ft. Davis; C. C. Sanders of Big Lake, Smith Bros. of Marfa, and J. Frank Woodward of Alpine.

John Lee of San Angelo was judge of the fair.

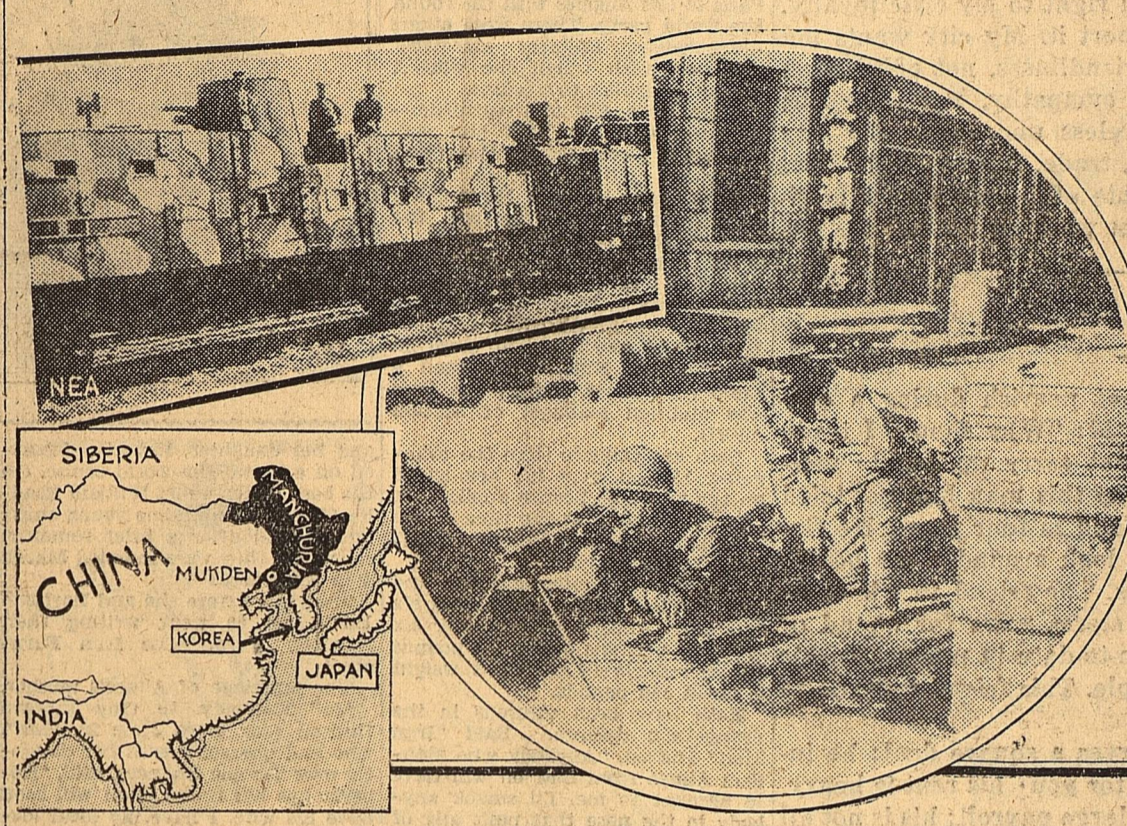

Gist won three first and two seconds at the Panhandle South Plains fair in Lubbock, Sept. 28, Oct. 3, Shinkle said. He has gone to the state fair at Dallas, but will not show, it is understood. From Dallas he goes to Colorado to buy cattle.

Angelo Officials Asked to Vacate
SAN ANGELO, Oct. 14.—The county commissioners court was notified Tuesday that a petition requesting the removal of several county officers would be presented, the court.

That the county do away with its county agent, W. I. Marshall, Miss Gladys Martin, county home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Metz Bishop, county health nurse, will be requested in the petition, the court was told. A person called over the telephone to say the petition would be offered that day, but did not divulge identity.

Manchuria—The Wild West of the Far East

Manchuria, where Chinese and Japanese troops are now engaged in warfare, is the Wild West of the Far East, resembling in many respects the American frontier lands of pioneer days.

Immigrants from northeastern Asia, pouring in at the rate of 1,000,000 a year, are building a new race and culture. In the last few decades, immigration and another powerful force—the railroads—have moved Manchuria forward by hundreds of years.

Manchuria was once the stronghold of the fierce, brutal Manchurian warriors of the Tungus race, who, scaling the Great Wall which the Chinese had built against them, moved southward to oust the Mings and found a new dynasty in Peking.

Today Manchuria is a land of trade and agriculture, threaded by railroads, and is the most prosperous and rapidly developing section of all Asia.

It has many strange contrasts. Crack trains, made in America, whizz by peasants pushing wheelbarrows with sails on them. Modern tractors roll over fields and past humble dwellings where slant-eyed men scratch gardens with wooden hoes as in ancient times.

The soil is exceptionally rich. The principal crops are soy beans, millet, wheat, and rice. The land abounds in minerals—iron, gold, and baxes for cement.

But Manchuria's new prosperity also brought new troubles. Many nations are vitally interested in the outcome of the Manchurian situation, both for political reasons and because of their heavy investments there. Russia, in particular, regards the region as its natural outlet to the Pacific and is intensely jealous of Japanese imperialism in that region.

3,580 CANS ARE DISTRIBUTED BY WELFARE ASS'N
Distribution of cans to Midland county women who put up fruits and vegetables and turn back a prescribed number of filled cans to the association continues, an official of the welfare association said today in reporting the total number of cans passed out as 3,580.

One woman who was given the assistance of the welfare association last year appreciated it to the extent that she, with the assistance of several other women, has canned 100 cans without receiving any benefit for her work, the official said. It is customary for the association to distribute the cans then to receive in payment a third of all corn put up and a half of all beans, tomatoes and peas. Meat canning will be engaging attention of county women next, he said. The welfare association takes the cans of food returned in payment for cans and distributes them to the needy here.

LONG AND CYR BOTH CLAIMANTS

Cyr Takes Oath, and Long Calls Out Militia

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 14. (UP)—State highway patrolmen and city police guarded the state capital today to preserve peace during the rest of authority between Huey Long, and Paul Cyr, both of whom claim to be governors of Louisiana.

Cyr, lieutenant-governor of Louisiana, and Long's political rival, took the oath of office last night on the grounds that Long is unable to serve as governor of Louisiana and as United States senator at the same time.

Long immediately called out the militia to prevent Cyr from occupying the governor's mansion.

Cyr planned today to file an oyster suit to back up his claim to the governor's office.

MIDLAND LEGION POST ATTEMPTS MAKING RECORD

The meeting of the Woods W. Lynch post No. 19, American legion called for Thursday night in the court house at 8 o'clock, is expected to be hot and interesting. The two membership contest teams headed by Sam K. Wassif and T. R. Abbott will report their progress in obtaining legion members for 1932. So far it has been impossible to determine how many members have been obtained as each captain, as a part of his strategy, refuses to disclose his team's activities until required to do so in open meeting.

Abbott's team is composed of Fred Middleton, O. A. Kelly, Dufaney Ward, W. I. Pigg and Horace Newton while Wassif is backed by Clarence Ligon, Charles Nolan, Neal D. Staton, Byron Standifer and Dewey Pope.

All World war veterans who have been interviewed have either signed up or expressed an intention to do so before the contest closes on Armistice day, when it is expected that every eligible ex-service man in Midland county will be carrying a 1932 legion card. If this is accomplished, the local post will rank first in Texas for membership.

Other matters to be taken up at the Thursday night meeting are Armistice day celebration and a moving picture program showing sound movies of the Detroit convention. Plans for the picture program are now being formulated, with the assistance of Manager Hodge of the Grand theatre.

Every ex-service man, whether a member of the legion or not, is invited and expected to attend this meeting.

WORTH WHILE FEATURES

Eight distinct features to make life worth living are offered in Midland, it was determined Tuesday by a citizen who paused to make a mental survey of why he liked Midland. He said: "My city is the place where by home is built; where my business is situated; where my vote is cast; where my children are educated; where my neighbors dwell, and where my life is chiefly lived. It is the home spot for me. My city has a right to my civic loyalty. It supports me and I must support it. My city wants my citizenship, not partisanship; friendliness, not offishness; co-operation, not indifference; sympathy, not criticism; my intelligent support, not careless unconcern. My city supplies me with law and order, trade, friends, education, morals, recreation and the rights of a free-born American. I believe in my city and am working for it."

NOT UP TO SNUFF

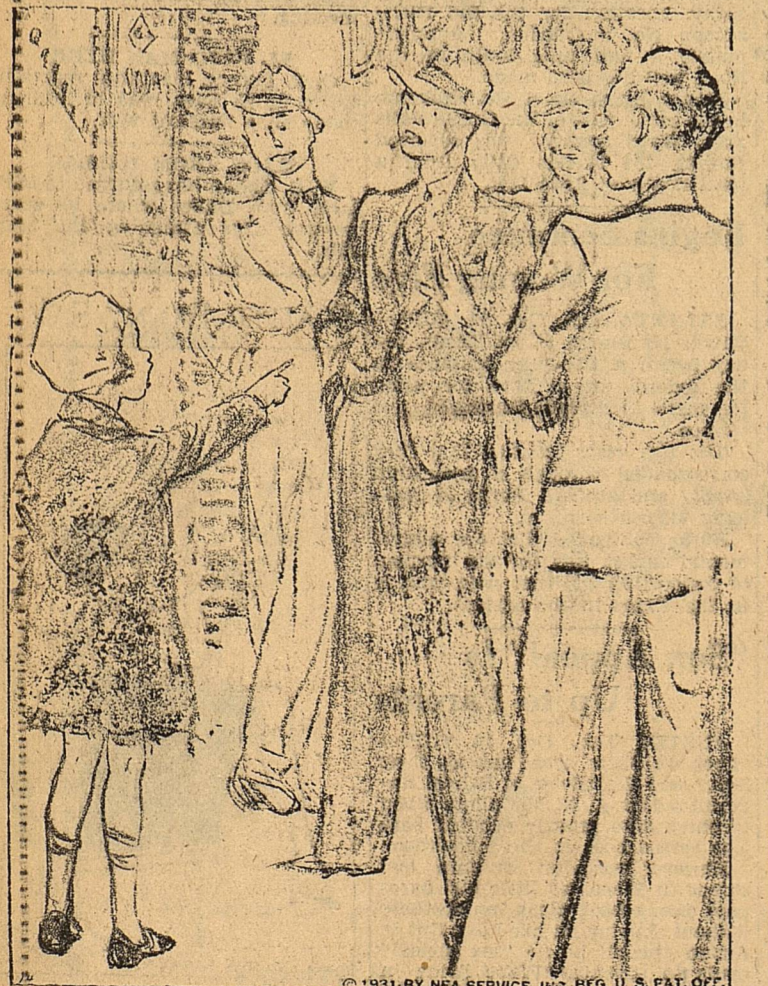

Monday a Midland man got peevish during a conversation on civic affairs and said: "Why should I trade at home? The stores here do not carry up-to-date merchandise." Inquiry developed that this man had not tried to buy any merchandise in Midland in four years. He finally admitted that he ought to look around a bit before making such unfounded charges. The friend to whom he was talking declared Midland stores were far ahead of the size of the city, being as up-to-date in many respects as stores in a city of 25,000 people. This friend went on to say:

"The man in business deserves a square deal; he invests his money in merchandise for you, his rent is heavy, his taxes are large and he has a large payroll; his is not all a bed of roses. When charity is needed, when help is the call, when any thing of a public nature is needed it's your business man who is the first to respond. So many people think that a business man is "Setting pretty" when he has a business and his name is over the door, but few people know the worries, the cares, the days and evenings of work that it takes to make it possible for this "Setting pretty" business man to keep his name over the door. Human nature is the same all over; the fields farthest away are always the greenest. So it is with the shopper or buyer who goes to other cities to buy. He may see goods that look better, and cheaper, than he thinks he has at home but if he will investigate he will find that these goods are right here at home and just as cheap."

HOARDING MONEY

The people of the United States have taken to hoarding their ready cash, according to figures compiled by the Investors Syndicate of Minneapolis. This organization discovered that Federal Reserve statistics show that the amount of currency in circulation today is approximately 25 per cent, or one billion dollars, higher than the average for the last five years. But business is far below normal. This vast amount of money isn't moving as it should. In 1929 a dollar bill was estimated to change hands 10 times in a day; today it hardly changes hands once. "In past depressions," the syndicate points out, "this hoarding has been one of the last developments before a general upturn. With such a large amount of money in the hands of the ultimate consumer, it takes only a small increase in the speed of circulation to make a significant improvement in trade."

AIMEE'S Love Story

Editor's Note: This is the last of six features on the events in the amazing love story of Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, Los Angeles evangelist, who recently embarked on her third honeymoon.

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN NEA Service Writer

(Copyright 1931, NEA Service, Inc.) When three-married Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, in bridal negligee of white satin and chiffon, gazed at her six-foot, 235-pound bridegroom, David L. Hutton and declared, "He's the man of my life!" she dismissed summarily a long list of men who have been mentioned in her romantic life.

There was a Hungarian count whom she met in Alexandria, Egypt on her round-the-world trip. There was Homer Rodeheaver, band leader for Billy Sunday's evangelical campaigns. There was C. W. Walkum, Jr., her secretary, and musical arranger who made the trip from Paris to Los Angeles with the round the world party. There were others—evangelists, business associates, and men with whom she worked during revivalist campaigns.

There was Kenneth Ormiston, and the mysteries that still surround the association of those two.

Comparison between Hutton, the bridegroom, and Ormiston, the mystery man, are inevitable.

Both are associated with radio. Ormiston was engineer at Angelus Temple broadcasting station and after the sensational court proceedings established a radio store in Los Angeles. Hutton has been a radio entertainer and at one time was a station manager of Station KFVD.

Both are younger than the evangelist. Hutton gave his age as 30 on the marriage license application. Ormiston was 32 at the time of the kidnapping episode—three years younger than Aimee.

Both men are unusually tall and distinguished looking. Hutton is six feet one. Ormiston also is over six feet. The hairline weighs 235 pounds but is reducing. Ormiston's weight is about 150 pounds.

Both have been vigorous in the evangelist's defense. Said "Iron Man" Hutton, "Anybody who slanders Aimee from now on will have to account to me. I'll smack anybody in the nose that pulls any of that stuff."

Five years ago Kenneth Ormiston was declaring, "If I can do anything to clear her name, I will do it."

Aimee and Hutton went to Yuma, Arizona, for their airplane marriage. It was out of the Arizona desert that the woman preacher came in June, 1926, after the disappearance in which it was charged she was with Ormiston.

Another odd circumstance is that when Ormiston told the jury not Mrs. McPherson but a "Miss X" was with him at Carmel he said the unnamed young woman was a nurse.

It is another nurse, Miss Myrtle Hazel Joan St. Pierre of Los Angeles, who is the principal threat to the newly-wed Huttons' marital happiness. Miss St. Pierre, one of three women whose names were linked with Hutton's after the marriage, is leading off with a $200,000 suit for heart balm.

All of the men in whom Aimee has shown an interest have been musical. She said once:

"Music belongs to the Lord, but the devil stole it and I am giving it back. The saxophone has often been called the instrument of the devil but I am converting it to the Lord's use. There is room in the church for all kinds of music."

The evangelist has traveled widely since the days of the California trial. Every journey has brought persistent rumors of romance.

In 1928 she toured Europe, visiting the "pitfalls" of the Paris Latin quarter and denouncing London's night haunts. In 1930 she led a group of Angelus Temple worshippers on a Holy Land crusade and returned to deny that she did a "disappearing act" while on the continent.

"I left the party to go to visit my daughter, Roberta, who had been injured and was in Ireland," she said. "I stayed there until she was pronounced out of danger and if some of the Pilgrims thought I had forsaken them, they were mistaken." It was after this journey that Aimee's bright red tresses turned to brilliant blond.

In November, 1930, she left Los Angeles on a steamer bound for New York by way of the Caribbean cruise. She sailed under the name of Betty Adams. Again, on reaching her destination, denials were in order.

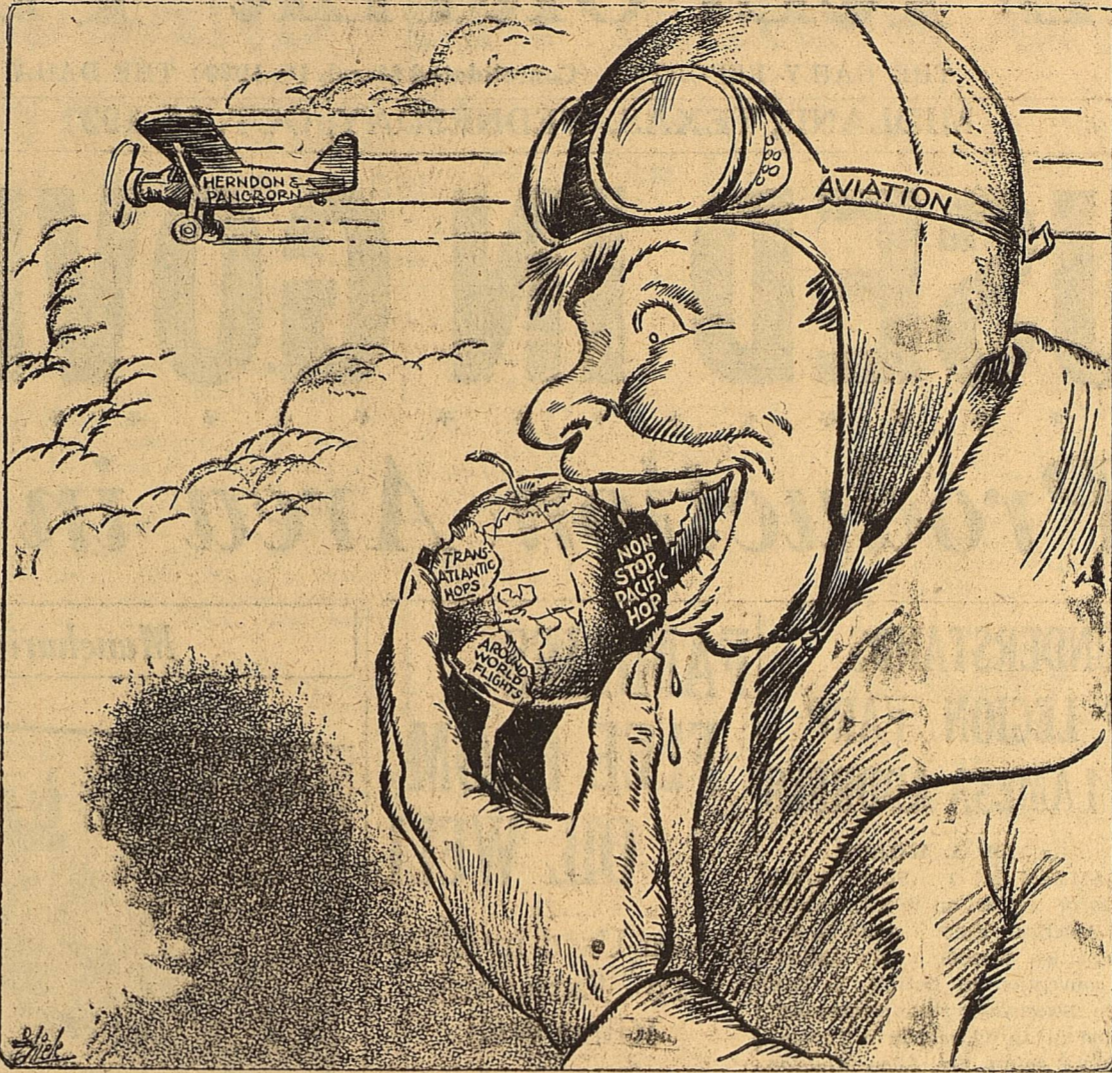

With sizzling emphasis Aimee denied taking part in "whoopie parties" in Havana and drinking a "Hallelujah cocktail."

Early this year Mrs. McPherson and her daughter, Roberta, departed on a round-the-world cruise. On the boat Roberta met William Bradley Smyth, a handsome young ship's purser, and after a brief romantic courtship, they were married March 4 in Singapore.

That was before she and Bartone David set to work writing their religious opera, "The Iron Furnace."

The marriage of Aimee's mother, "Ma" Kennedy, to Guy Edward Hudson took place June 28. "Ma," who had quarreled with her daughter over Temple finances, said, "Roberta has her hubby. Rolf will soon have his wife. I have my ideal lover. And with the Lord's help Aimee—that lovely little sparrow—will soon get married to a nice man, too." The Hudson marriage was annulled when a former wife appeared and charged Hudson with bigamy. Divorce solved the difficulty and Sept. 20 "Ma" and her "ideal lover" were rewed.

In July, Rolph McPherson, 18, and Lorna D. Smith, daughter of a wealthy Oklahoma oil man, took the marital plunge in an elaborate service at the Temple. Aimee read the service which united them.

With their surprise elopement on Sept. 13, Aimee and "Iron Man" made the newly-wed group a foursome.

"I've always had the ideal of the woman I wanted to marry," Hutton said. "Aimee was that woman. I knew it as soon as I saw her. I used to be breathless and with a sinking feeling every time I looked at her."

Said Aimee, "Isn't he wonderful!" So the love story of the enigmatic evangelist has led to the man of her dreams. Previous marriages, court scandals and public condemnation sing into the past.

Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton has found "her man."

DREAM CAME TRUE

LURAY, Va. (UP)—Mrs. Hattie Yates recently dreamed she saw Mrs. Harry Kemp's baby fall in a creek near the Kemp home. She told Mrs. Kemp. The two-year-old Kemp child later wandered away from home and shortly afterward the mother heard it scream. Remembering the dream, she ran to the stream and saw the child going down, apparently for the third time. Unable to swim she plunged in, caught the baby, fainted and was in grave danger of drowning when Otis Woodward, passing by, saved the two.

BEACON GUIDES YOUTHS

ORLAND, Cal. (UP)—Orland's airplane beacon brought seven-year-old Eddie Wilder and his brother, Carl Andrew, five, safely home after they had been lost in the prairie country near here. The youngsters strayed away from their father, who was driving a herd of sheep. When night fell, they watched the flashing of the air beacon and set out in that direction.

Eight of the eleven were in the middle-price field, one cost three thousand dollars, and the last is a Ford I purchased thirteen months ago. "In the light of this experience I can say in all sincerity that I have derived more genuine satisfaction from the Ford than any car I ever owned. In saying this, I am thinking in terms of comfort, safety, driving pleasure, ease of control and economy. Someone has said that kissing has put an end to a large number of bachelors. A tenderfoot was missed at a ranch and upon investigation it was learned that while the tenderfoot was brushing his teeth one of the cowboys thought he had hydrophobia and shot him.

I see in yesterday's paper where the state-wide unemployment conference is going to be composed of men whose names read like who's who. At least it will give some of them jobs with transportation paid from their home towns. This two-bit haircut proposition comes as good news to those who have been going a little longer between clips recently. Now they can go about as well sheared as ever before. As to whether or not Midland will beat Big Spring, I would give you my version of it if you didn't think I was trying to cut in on Hankins' sport column. You see I haven't had any correspondence with Marcos Williamson, so there is very little to get me roused or riled except that I am strong for the Bull Dogs, individually and collectively. Anyway, here's one bird that will believe Midland will take the game, at least as long as there is a chance. I say the Bull Dogs have the speed to rush Big Spring off their feet.

HEART-SONG
Vera Penick Lively

Your smiles feed my starving, withering heart,
As the raindrops feed the brook,
And each little smile I set apart,
In a quiet sheltered nook.

I keep them and fondle them one by one,
Until my heart overflows,
And like the brook that glistens in the sun,
My heart-stream ripples and glows.

As my heart overflows with its precious flood,
My own smiles come to light,
And I give to the world all my good
That I might have hidden from sight.

TICKET SALES FOR MIDLAND-BIG SPRING GAME SATISFACTORY

RESERVATIONS FOR SPECIAL TRAIN POUR IN

Ticket sales for the Midland-Big Spring game are occupying the attention of both combatant cities as campaigns have been conducted on street corners, in business establishments and at high schools. Football men, in the meantime, are working in comparative secrecy, being groomed for the eye-opener, the first official game of the season for either team.

Dispatches from Big Spring indicate that the pasteborders for the special train to be run from the scenic city here are going fast. The fare has been reduced to 80 cents and the numbers who will ride are legion.

According to Marcos Williamson, sports writer on The Big Spring Daily Herald, the special will steam out of the station at 1 p. m. Friday and leave Midland about 6:30 that afternoon. Williamson indicates an appropriate "time out" will be made on Midland streets for a grand victory march; but it is understood that T. & P. officials could not see a concrete certainty of the Steer machine doing enough damage in Lackey field to warrant holding the special train for the nighttime parade.

California Company Wins Bowl Contest

California Oil bowled Tuesday night to defeat Texas Electric by a margin of 348 pins. Gemmill of the winners had the highest individual score, 502.

Suggest Change In Gridiron Rule

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 14. (UP)—When the National Collegiate Athletic association's football rules committee meets this winter, food for thought may be found in a proposed clause whereby the offensive team would be allowed the option of taking a ball on the sidelines 15 yards out and proceed to second down.

The idea comes from L. C. Campbell, athletic director at Jefferson high school here, and resulted from a play which Eric Waldorf, former Washington State college gridiron star and now coach at the prep school, uses when his team is in action.

BEE'S ROB OF SPEECH

UNIONVILLE, N. Y. (UP)—John Reamer, veteran bee tender, has virtually lost the power of speech as a result of severe stings on his face and throat. A real bee lover, he had scoffed at arm and face protection. One day his swarm turned on him.

JOHNNY SALO, HERO OF LONG SPRINT, ACROSS COUNTRY, KILLED BY THROW

EDITOR'S NOTE: This story concerns a man who was seen in Midland in an appearance at a local theatre, when the "Bun-ion derby" was here.
Angeles ahead of the bewildered Pete Gavuzzi of England, winning first place by 2 minutes, 47 seconds. That was a triumph. He came back to Passaic happy, his first great ambition realized. He was fated.

PASSAIC, N. J., Oct. 14.—In those days when he was a stocky, yellow-haired boy back in Viborg, Finland, Johnny Salo couldn't have foreseen the ironic tricks fate was to play upon him in his adopted country of America.

Some soothsayer had predicted that he was to live in obscurity until he was past 30, then suddenly break into print into every newspaper in this country as a haggard, bronzed figure running wearily upward over mountains, across blistering stretches of sand and through rain and wind, he couldn't have believed it.

And the last ironic touch, ending his career and his life—that was a typical Henry climax that couldn't have been predicted at all. Fate—and Fate.

His training as an athletic Finnish lad certainly indicated he might be a runner. But that he would some day win C. O. Pyle's "Bunion Derby" from New York to Los Angeles while the public by turns laughed and jeered and applauded—that was a caricature of the fame he expected.

All his life Salo wanted to be a great runner, like Paavo Nurmi and other illustrious Finns. Yet his first job was being a sailor. It didn't matter. Salo trained anyway. He sprinted around the deck until he was dizzy from running in a circle. His shipmates kidded him good-naturedly, but he didn't mind. He kept in condition.

He was in America first when he was 15 years old. He liked it and within three years he had accepted it definitely as his home. Yet, since he was a sailor, he could not do what he wanted to do—run and win races. He lived in New York when in port.

Eventually the World war broke out and soon America entered. Johnny joined the Naval Reserve, became an ensign. Meanwhile he had married a girl from his own native Finland. There were two children.

After the war he moved to Passaic, N. J.—and for the first time could train as he desired. It was sometimes difficult to get a job, but he got along.

Through the Mill
Then in 1928 Pyle announced his first coast-to-coast race, from Los Angeles to New York. Salo scraped together $125 and entered. He paid $100 of that to Pyle, thus assuring the promoter that there would be enough for transportation back home if he became ill.

Salo was second in that race. And when he came down the home stretch of that grueling 3500 miles and entered Passaic, the whole city was out to greet him. He was famous, though his cheeks were sunken, his body emaciated and his gait stumbling. Behind him came a startling succession of vagabond runners, in tattered clothing, bearded and hollow-eyed.

America laughed at the grotesquely pathetic array. Passaic applauded—Johnny Salo, Commissioner Benjamin Turner appointed him to the police department and he started pounding a beat.
Then the next year—in 1929—the sturdy Salo staggered into Los

Scouts Are Scouts For a' That; They Preserve Spirits

Production may not be what it once was, but the spirit of oil scouts, these ubiquitous lads always seen in the march, is unchanged. This was seen when the group met for a luncheon given by the Midland chamber of commerce today.

A solid patter of conversation ran the gamut during the luncheon and in the program that followed, talk of development that appears certain and of the days that have been and are expected to return.

Cy Stinson, "the grand old man of the oil scouts," one of the "first five" in this area, was the center of attention. Everyone listened carefully while he talked with those across the table from him or those to either side. When Stinson came to West Texas in the spring of 1925 there were only four other scouts.

These were: Bob Patteson, head of the land department of the Gulf office in Midland now; John Nichols of the Texas Company; Jim Charlton of the California and Bill Brown of the Gulf. Stinson still scuffs. He is with the Humble, and lives in Pecos.

When Stinson and the other four came to Midland there was no organized scout check. San Angelo had just begun advocating such meetings, but the "initial five" met one week in El Paso, possibly next week in Rankin, next week in Midland, etc.

Scouts got a "man-size kick" out of the clever singing and dancing of Miss Mary Elizabeth Newman, especially when she put her arms around Stinson and sang in his ear. They laughed uproariously at Stinson's expression.

Jimmy Noland, whom his father, James Noland introduced as "Ex-novo," entertained with readings. Malcolm Meek, president of the chamber of commerce, assured the scouts that Midland would do everything possible to make the stay of scouts in this town enjoyable, and pledged the offices of the chamber towards any assistance that would make for convenience to them.

Red Man to Die In Chair Nov. 19

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Oct. 14. (UP) Chief Red Wing, scion of a long line of Cherokee Indian chiefs, must die in the electric chair here Nov. 19 for killing two-year-old Evangeline Cavazos.

The Indian, who spends his last days fashioning trinkets of beads, signed a confession that he stole the child from a house where her parents were staying last October, in New Braunfels, killed her and hid her body behind a signboard near the railroad tracks. He said "fire-water" was to blame. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Cavazos, and Chief Red Wing, were all troupers in a carnival playing at New Braunfels at the time.

COUNTY CUTS ALIMONY

DETROIT, (UP)—Alimony payments by Wayne county to divorces whose husbands are in jail in default of payment, have been pared along with other public expenses. In the past the county has paid the wives of defaulting alimony dodgers at a flat rate of $14 a week regardless of their status. Under the new sliding scale, a woman will receive from $5 to $12, depending on whether she has remarried, and the number of children she has.

Sues Father for Being Spinster

SAN JOSE, Cal., Oct. 14. (UP)—For 30 years Miss Gertrude Hoover stayed single.

Her father, Henry Hoover, 86, agreed to give her all his money if she did not marry, and cared for her she explained.

But now he refuses to give her the money, and she is suing him for $80,000, charging that she refused an offer of marriage, gave up a romance of her own, and an opportunity for a home of her own under the agreement.

Hoover, she claims, is incompetent.

Prefers Prison to Life at His Home

MISHAWAKA, Ind., Oct. 14. (UP) Life on a prison farm sometimes is preferable to the comforts of home, Samuel Beck believes. As a result, he is spending this year on the penal farm.

Beck was brought into court on a charge of assault and battery against his wife. Judge Albert Doyle, inclined to be lenient, asked Beck if he thought he could return home and behave.

"I'll take the jail any time to living at home," Beck replied. Judge Doyle gave him a year's sentence.

Reno Disgusts Famed Scotty

RENO, Nev., Oct. 14. (UP)—Death Valley Scotty, that mystery man of fortune and sand, is sticking his tongue out at Reno. He doesn't like it at all, at all.

Why? Because someone hit his car and it was brand new. Scotty says of Reno, the biggest little city in the world: "Reno is overdone. Gamblers are playing solitaire, and women are taking in washing. The town is overadvertised. I tell you you can't build a city on gambling and a court house."

Death Valley's man of fortune, who has previously found Reno "an interesting little city" was plain mad. The old scout had gone down to San Francisco and taken delivery on a powerful new car. When he was driving here another tourist ran into him. Scotty said that man was a gambler and told him that business was so poor he couldn't pay the $20 repair bill. Scotty paid it.

While he admitted he had no hard feelings for Reno, Death Valley Scotty seemed to emphasize the fact that it was cluttered with divorcees whom police give the "run of the town" and who know no traffic rules.

Petrified Woman Is Found in Texas

EDINBURG, Tex., Oct. 14. (UP) A petrified woman was found in a petrified forest near Rio Grande City the other day by E. A. Brown, retired automobile dealer of Edinburg.

The contours of the body are so perfect that since it has been removed here, and cleaned, Brown has been wondering whether a woman was really petrified, or whether it is a piece of ancient statuary, perhaps discarded from one of the early Spanish shrines in the lower Rio Grande Valley.

Roots up to three inches in diameter were interlaced above and around the reclining form, which was found buried in six feet of earth.

The average velocity of a baseball after it leaves a pitcher's hand is about 90 feet a second.

WINDSHIELD CAUSED CRASH
HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—A desire to equip his glider more luxuriously brought Leon Swift injuries and a smashed machine. Accustomed to judge his air speed by the rush of wind against his face, he stalled and plunged 50 feet to earth when he installed a windshield.
