Officers Speed to Scene Where Crack Limited Derailed

2 KILLED AT CECILE LOUISIANA

Switch Manipulated; Engineer and a Tramp Die

DALLAS, Dec. 15. (UP)—A Texas & Pacific railroad special train of officers was rushed to Cecile, La., 15 miles west of Shreveport today to hunt the persons who last night wrecked the fast Dallas to New Orleans limited train.

Engineer J. W. Forman, 45, of Alexandria, La., and an unidentified tramp riding the blinds, were killed. Fireman Guy Green of Marshall and two passengers and three youths riding the blinds were injured.

An investigation showed that someone had manipulated the switch throwing the train into a sidetrack giving the engineer a green light at the same time.

The engine, mail coach, and baggage car were overturned. Two coaches and two sleepers were derailed.

The second body, taken from under the baggage car was later identified as S. P. Sutton, Jr., 23, of Arcadia, La. He was wearing a Louisiana state university sweater. Both feet were missing.

One Jailed for Petty Thievery

One man was jailed in Midland in connection with petty thieving since the colored Christmas lights have been put up, and a second person is under suspicion, having been seen stealing lights off small Christmas trees on the streets.

These lights can not be re-sold for much, but theft of them destroys the lighting effect, chamber of commerce officials say. Unless local people help watch for the thieves, decorating may be discontinued.

A reward of $25 is offered for the arrest and conviction in connection with stealing bulbs. A jail sentence will be sought, officials said. Police are cooperating.

Is There No Santa For Poor Children?

Reports continued to pour in today that there will be many empty stockings on Christmas day in Midland if response to the Welfare association's request for used toys is not made immediately.

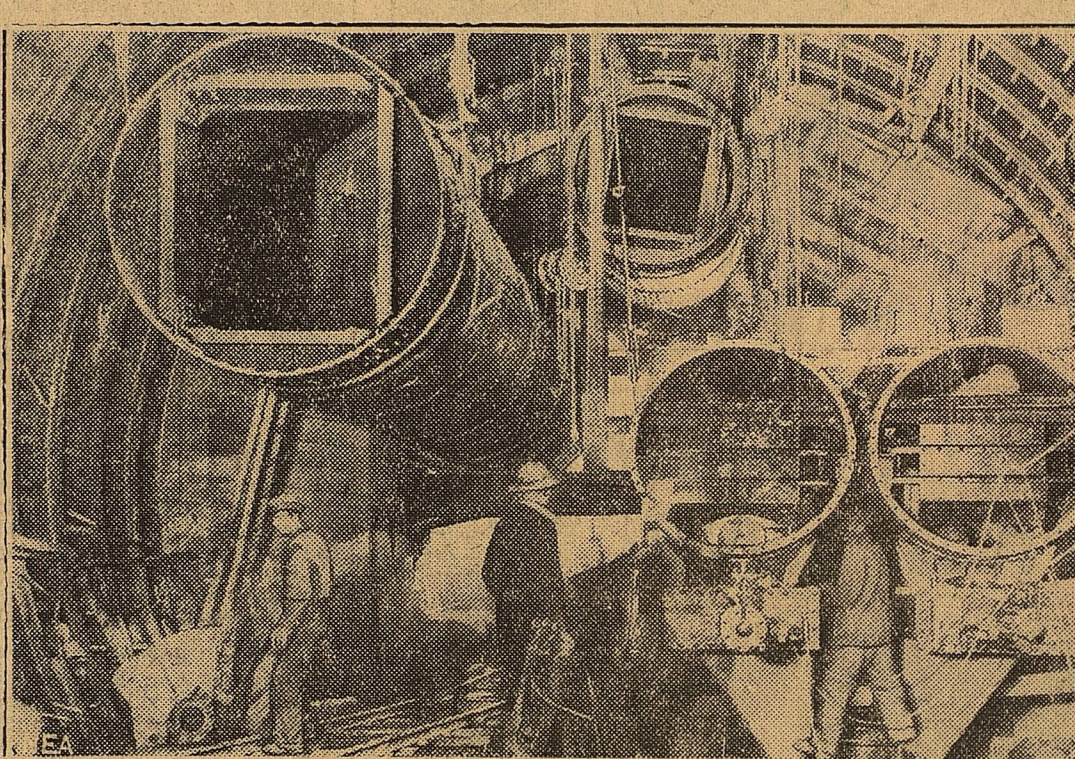

Boy scouts of every Midland troop are anxious to work daily on toys for poor children but so far they have found little to do.

Regardless of Santa Claus' love for children, it will be impossible for him to go where there is poverty unless donations are made soon.

Persons who are actually in want are numerous this year and the Welfare association requests that these calls be answered.

Names of families needy of food for Christmas may be secured from Mrs. W. H. Sloan now.

They're Crossing Boston Harbor from the Underside

Burrowing 65 feet below historic Boston Harbor, these workmen are pushing through a huge traffic tunnel at a rate of 15 feet a day. That large cylinder at the left is the compression tank where all workmen must spend a few minutes in compressed air before and after their work to allow their bodies to become accustomed to the greater air pressure beneath the surface.

FOUR DIE, 300 DRIVEN INTO A RAGING STORM

CHARLOTTETOWN, Prince Edward Island, Dec. 15. (UP)—Fire, which destroyed the Falconwood hospital for the insane today, killed four patients and sent 300 more into a raging blizzard.

Many others were injured. More violent patients battled the rescuers fiercely.

Minor cases aided the firefighters and prevented greater loss of life.

McCall to Make Xmas Tree Talk

The Rev. J. A. McCall, pastor of the Church of Christ, was named by the Midland Ministerial association to deliver the address at the chamber of commerce Christmas tree Friday night at 6:20. The minister will speak from three to five minutes.

The completed program, arranged by the Christmas tree committee, Aubrey S. Legg, Mike Connor, Addison Wadley, and George Phillips, will begin at 6:20 with the singing of Christmas carols by more than 100 children of the county library story telling group, directed by Mrs. Geo. Abell.

The chief number, the Women's Choral club group of carols, directed by Mrs. Barney T. Smith will follow. After the brief address by Mr. McCall, Santa Claus will appear and distribute gifts to all children from 2 to 12 years old. Parents are asked to come and bring all their children, but to keep those over 12 from the lines which will march by Santa Claus to receive gifts.

GUESTS OF HARGRAVES

Mr. and Mrs. Moyston of Carlsbad and Mrs. Niece of Dallas were guests this week end of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hargrave.

SPECIAL MATCHED RACES WILL BE ALLOWED BETWEEN REGULAR PROGRAM

With the advent of the Christmas racing season at Cowboy park, changes in handling of races have been announced by the management. Regular entrance fees will be paid for horses that take part in the regular programs, but when special races are matched owners will be charged from $5 to $25, depending on conditions.

Timberline Floyd, promoter, said that matched races will be allowed between the regular program races except for after the last event, a Roman race. When that race is over the park gates will be closed for the afternoon, he said.

Printers Arrest a Man Alleged to Be A Gasoline Thief

A man who gave his name as Miller is held in the city jail in connection with gasoline theft from automobiles parked Saturday evening on principal business streets of Midland. In his car were motor meters, horns and other equipment alleged to have been taken from motorists.

The man was arrested by D. E. Holster and James P. Harrison after a tip led to a chase that culminated with the two forcing the man into a ditch as he drove his car fast and without lights through the Mexican quarters.

To two men caused the man to drive ahead of them to The Reporter-Telegram office where officers arrived soon afterward and escorted the prisoner to the lockup.

The man is alleged to have drawn gasoline from Holster's car while the machine was parked in the full glare of a street light just opposite the newspaper plant. A workman of the Cowden-Epley Motor company, Jim Moore, saw the man draining the gas into a bucket and warned Harrison, who took the license number of the man's car as he drove away.

Harrison and Holster pursued in Harrison's car. The man gave up without a struggle and readily confessed when Perry Wyrick, night police officer, took charge of him. No charge has been filed.

SENTENCED TO SIX MONTHS OF SILENCE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 15. (NEA)—Six months ago, physicians told Harry Echols, 29, that he would have to be silent for six months or lose his voice. He was suffering from tuberculosis laryngitis and it was necessary that he keep silent to let two cavities in his right lung heal.

"Not even a whisper for six months, or you may lose your voice altogether," doctors told him.

Echols, absolutely silent for 180 days, was allowed to speak for the first time recently. His first word was a faint "Hello!" It will probably be a year before he regains his voice entirely.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (UP)—Chairman Simeon D. Fess of the republican national committee today appealed to party lieutenants to join the campaign to win greater recognition for Hoover's achievements, in addressing the committee assembled here to select a convention city.

Fess attacked defeatism which has spread among the ranks of the party because of the president's difficulties.

"Winsome Winnie" Judd Faces Double Fight for Life in Gruesome Crime

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 15. (UP)—Winnie Ruth Judd, a slender copper blonde of 27, known to her friends as "Winsome Winnie," will go on trial here Jan. 19 on charges of committing what is generally termed Arizona's most gruesome murders.

The trial was originally set for Dec. 15, but a postponement until Jan. 19 was granted when defense attorneys requested a later trial date on the grounds that depositions from eastern witnesses could not be obtained before Dec. 15. The nature of the depositions was not disclosed. It will be just a little more than three months after Mrs. Agnes Anne LeRoi, 27, and Miss Hedvig Samuelson, 25, were shot to death in their apartment here and their bodies, subsequently, sent to Los Angeles in trunks.

Two charges of first degree murder were filed against Mrs. Judd. She will be tried here twice, according to Lloyd J. Andrews, county attorney, in the event a death penalty conviction is not obtained at the first trial.

It was on Oct. 18 that the shooting occurred, according to the murder complaints. The bodies were placed in one large trunk and taken to Mrs. Judd's apartment, two miles away. Sunday, Oct. 18, two trunks and a suitcase, containing the bodies, were sent to Los Angeles, where a trickle of blood aroused the suspicions of a baggage master.

The state has charged, and Mrs. Judd had admitted in newspaper statements, that the body of Miss Samuelson was removed from the large trunk, dismembered and placed in a small trunk and suitcase at Mrs. Judd's apartment due to fear of excessive weight of one trunk attracting attention.

Riding on the same train with the trunks and their ghastly cargoes, Mrs. Judd was faced with a demand that she open the trunks when she called for them, Oct. 19. The baggage master suspected that deer meat was being transported contrary to law.

Explaining that 'my husband has the keys,' Mrs. Judd disappeared and police were summoned. Letters and photographs in the trunks soon identified the bodies and that same night a hunt through two states for Mrs. Judd began. She surrendered four days later. She told police that she shot in self defense.

Returned to Arizona, Mrs. Judd was arraigned on two charges of first degree murder for which the penalty, in the event of conviction, is death by hanging. She was held to answer on the separate charges which made it possible for the county prosecutor to plan for a second trial in the event he is not satisfied with the verdict at the first one.

Andrews has intimated that he would elect to try the woman first on the LeRoi murder complaint. In his opinion that conviction in this case, on a basis of Mrs. Judd's own story, will be easier.

LIES IN HOSPITAL AT HOBBS

Mabel Dale Killough Shot by Son of Jack Godsey

Mrs. James Killough, formerly Miss Mabel Dale of Midland, is near death in a Hobbs sanitarium from gunshot wounds received Monday when a four-year-old child of Jack Godsey, former Midland man, discharged a .22 calibre rifle while at play.

The 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dale was in her apartment at the Godsey home. Mrs. Godsey was in the apartment with her, aiding in the preparation of a late lunch. A shot sounded in an adjoining room of the Godsey apartment and a mushroom bullet ploughed through the thin separating wall, through a loose fold of Mrs. Godsey's dress and into the abdomen of Mrs. Killough.

Mrs. Killough gasped and fell. Killough and Godsey were summoned from the Hobbs cafe they own in partnership. Medical aid arrived and the wounded woman was rushed to the hospital for an emergency operation. Her condition was pronounced critical when surgeons found eleven intestinal wounds.

Immediately after placing Mrs. Killough on a bed and summoning assistance, Mrs. Godsey rushed into the room from which the shot was fired and found her four-year-old son, Jimmy, playing with the gun, a repeating action pump gun. The child does not understand even now the enormity of the accident.

Jack Godsey, who was manager in Midland for the Abilene Plumbing & Supply company before moving to Hobbs to secure a water franchise, told The Reporter-Telegram over long distance telephone this morning that Mrs. Killough's condition was pronounced unchanged by surgeons.

"They say that the perforation operation necessitated by the wound of the mushroom super-X lead slug was delicate," he said, and that Mrs. Killough's condition must change for the better or worse, soon. Her condition this morning was described as critical.

"She is at the Connor hospital, under the care of Doctors Terrell and Stone.

"The wounds were extremely dangerous, each of them, due to the bullet mushrooming as it struck the wall and Mrs. Killough.

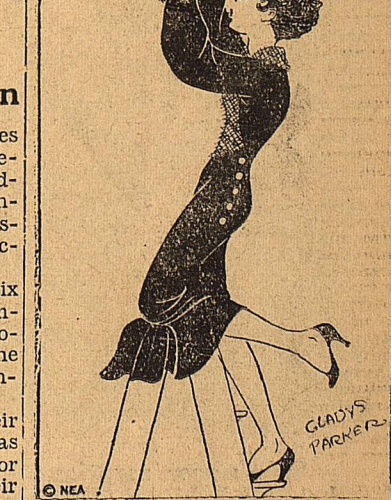

"The rifle was one that had been put away for months. We do not understand how the child found it, or how the gun chanced to be loaded. The baby had never had a gun in his hands before. And it is difficult to understand how it could have snapped off the safety device. The only thing considered is that someone had been handling the gun since it was put away and had left the safety latch snapped off and a shell in the barrel."

Godsey said Mrs. Godsey was prostrate with grief.

Mrs. Killough was married only a few months ago in Dallas. Killough worked at a tailor shop here before and after the marriage, leaving for Hobbs to work with Godsey. Mrs. Killough was graduated from the Midland high school and was active in church work. She worked with the telephone company for several months.

She was popular with the young. (See SHOOTING page 6)

Experts See Rise of Progressive Group Among Democrats, but No Alignment With Republican Progressives Is Expected.

WASHINGTON. — This congress already promises a rise of Democratic progressivism as a national political factor, if not of Democratic insurgency.

When you start counting heads in the closely divided House and the closely divided Senate, you find a small but important group of Democrats who are just as liberal—or radical, if you must—as the group of insurgent Republicans who made such a mockery of Republican control in the Senate during the last session.

In the House this little group theoretically holds a balance of power. It will hold such a balance in the Senate any time that the Democrats obtain a majority there. Such balances of power would hardly be used, however, inasmuch as no one could imagine these members in any coalition with Republicans—first, because they are progressives; second, because they are Democrats.

There is no other way for them to go and the progressive Democrats thus far show a tendency to co-operate with the Democratic leadership, especially in the House. Democratic insurgency, although it might develop against Speaker Jack Garner if his policies appeared too conservative, is most likely to appear against Floor Leader Joe Robinson in the Senate, who is accused of having gone ultra-conservative on questions of economics and taxation.

The progressives of both parties usually play together, but it seems in this session as if the cleavage between them and the rank and file of Democrats in Congress is far narrower than that which has always existed before between Republican insurgents and the administration supporters. They seem to agree, in the main, on methods of taxation primarily directed at great wealth. And on several major issues it appears that any general conservative-progressive division will find the progressive position supported by a large group of Democrats—and sometimes of Republicans—who are not insurgent.

Meanwhile it is predicted that any party program in either house must have the support of the progressives if it is to be successful.

Last session the Democratic progressives in the Senate were Wheeler of Montana and Dill of Washington. Also to a considerable extent, Walsh of Montana and Wagner of New York.

This year there is in addition to Costigan of Colorado, a fighting progressive of whom much is expected. There is also Huey Long of Louisiana, who admires "Borah, Norris, LaFollette, and those fellows."

Such men as these will revolt against any attempt by Leader Robinson to co-operate on conservative measures with the administration, and there are a dozen other Democratic senators with progressive leaning.

The House majority floor leader, is Rainey of Illinois, who says he stands for everything that Senator Norris of Nebraska, the most progressive of progressives, stands for. The progressive flavor runs strong among many other House Democrats but at least a couple of them who seem to be as progressive as anyone else are Huddleston of Alabama and Howell of Nebraska.

Of course there are Democrats in both branches of the Robinson type who are as conservative as any Republican and it is no soft job to devise a program which will permit a united Democratic front. Nevertheless that has been the task before Speaker Jack Garner, upon whom so much attention has been focused.

Garner's progressives haven't yet proved a thorn in his side. He and Rainey seem to understand each other. And others among them appear to believe that worthwhile progressive objectives can be achieved under his leadership.

An apple contains about 82.5 per cent water.

CRIME AND YOUTH

Stories about juvenile criminals are always horrifying. This is especially true of two recent news dispatches from the middle west—one telling how a group of young Detroit newsboys, the oldest 14, calmly shot another boy to death after a fist fight, the other telling of a 15-year-old hoodlum in Cleveland who had a band of seven other youngsters committing robberies under his direction.

The lads involved in these two stories have managed, somehow to get a frightfully bad start in life. Probably not more than one or two of the whole group will ever become useful and trustworthy members of society.

And this does not simply mean that the two cities concerned will have a dozen new gunmen and second-story workers a few years from now. It means that there has been, in each case, a horrible wastage in society's most precious possession—youth manhood.

It is a wastage in which all of us share the responsibility. For boys of 14 and 15 do not turn into robbers and murderers by accident. They don't get that way because of inborn perversity or original sin. Somehow the adult world has persuaded them that the red law of the jungle is a good law by which to live—the only law, indeed, worth paying any attention to.

And why shouldn't it? When the youngster who starts out under the handicap of bad housing, poverty and allied misfortunes, looks about him he can see the kings of the underworld in alliance with the politicians who rule his city. He can see "respectable" society winking at the growth of liquor rings and vice rings and gambling rings. He can see rich men conniving at graft and crookedness, and he can see how ently the courts deal with such cases. He can see, in fact, that society still lets the strong man do about as he pleases, and clamps down severely only on the weak.

So all of us, who accept that kind of society and do not cry out against it, share in the guilt. And there is an old text for us to ponder over . . . "it were better that a great millstone be hanged about his neck . . ."

SAFE-FLYING ALTITUDE

The great dangers that attend high-speed flying, exemplified not long ago in the tragic death of Lowell Bayles, were further illustrated a little bit later by an accident that gave Frank Hawks a few uncomfortable moments.

Hawks was soaring along at his customary speed of slightly less than 300 miles an hour when a bracing wire on his plane broke. Fortunately, he was flying at an altitude of 10,000 feet, and had time to regain control and make a safe landing.

After landing, however, he said that if such an accident had happened while he was flying within a few hundred yards of the ground—the altitude at which airplane races are held—he would inevitably have been killed. At that altitude, and at that speed, the slightest mishap means sure death.

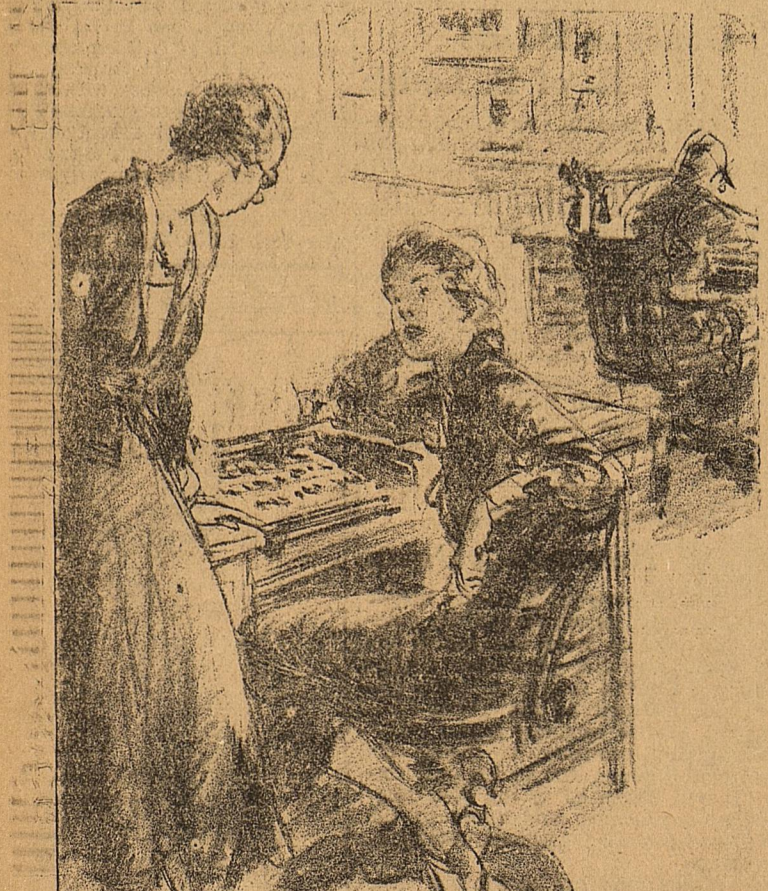

FOOTBALL EXPERTS

The defense of football voiced recently by Chick Meehan, well-known New York coach, is a little bit discouraging. Seeking a way to cut down the game's toll of fatalities, Meehan said that most of these tragic accidents are due to the "de-emphasizers," who have abolished spring practice, cut down coaching staffs and reduced the amount of time in which college football squads can be drilled.

His statement seems to be sound. The player who is thoroughly coached and who is kept in superb physical condition is seldom badly injured. It is the youngster who is insufficiently coached and trained who is in danger.

Yet this, after all, seems to mean that football is safe only for experts—for young men who, while the game is in season, make it the major item on their schedules. If this be true, has football any place on the program of a college or university where the effort to impart learning is the prime consideration?"

Germany's Black Forest!

Germany's Crisis Herewith Presented in a Nut Shell

GROENER DEFIED THE KAISER; NOW HE DEFIES THE ENEMIES OF THE EMPIRE; HATES MONKEY BUSINESS

By MILTON BRONNER
 NEA Service Writer
 LONDON, Dec. 15.—As the German republic grimly promulgated the most iron-handed measures of control it has known since the war, it placed its reliance in three towers of strength. The first is that old oak President Paul von Hindenburg. The second is the serious and scholarly-looking Chancellor Bruening. And the third is General Wilhelm Groener, head of the German army and police forces.

Groener is not well known outside of Germany as the other two, but within he is known as a firm man who will stand for no monkey-business from either Fascists or Communists. It is to him that the Republic looks to assure an orderly course in a time when recent Hitlerite gains have made a fascist coup more possible than at any time in recent years.

"Ultimate victory is guaranteed by your strength," said Adolf Hitler to his followers in Germany the other day.

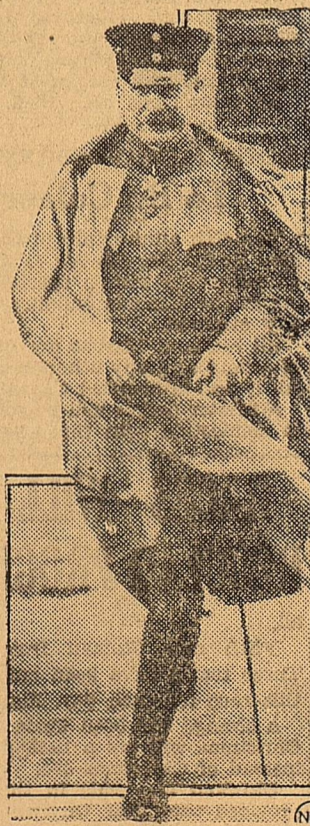

"There is no danger to the state, which is firm and watchful," declared General Groener.

Yet while Groener remains watchful, Hitler and his National Socialist "Nazis" have been effecting sensational gains in political strength.

The Extremist Program
 In Hesse a group of newly-elected Nazi deputies to the state diet met privately and prepared a set of "emergency decrees" for use in case the Hitlerites should come into full power. One decree provided for the confiscation of all food, which would be rationed by the government. The second provided for the suspension of private property rights, interest and debt payments. Another declared that every German above the age of 16 would be obliged to work, without wages, or would have no right to demand food. Martial law would be declared and disobedience to the orders of the storm troops, or the opinion has been expressed that should Hitler gain control of the country he would soon be overthrown by the Communists in the general disorder that would follow and, in this case, Germany—disarmed by treaty restrictions—might join hands with Russia in a powerful Communist alliance.

GENERAL GROENER . . . will stand for no monkey business

State Honors in Dog Contest Won

ROCKFORD, Ill.—Hugh Robert Goodrich, 5 years old, of 1521 Colquitt street, Houston, and his English bulldog, "Rawdy," are Texas' most typical boy-and-dog pair, judges in the Chappel Kennel Foundation's nation-wide contest announced today.

The judges are James E. West, chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America; Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania; Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundesen of Chicago, and Angelo Patri, noted authority on child care.

Hugh is among the 48 from whom the national prize winner will be selected within a few days. The latter will receive $250 in gold at a radio boy-dog party on Christmas Eve. His portrait with his dog, will be painted in oils and exhibited at the Chicago World's fair in 1933.

The Christmas Eve program, with announcement of the national winner's name, will reach Midland over Station KWK, St. Louis, December 24, at 7:15 p. m.

The Chappel foundation, which awards the prizes, was established about a year ago to conduct research into canine genetics and nutrition, and to foster dog welfare. More than 6000 photographs of American boys and their dogs were entered in the contest.

John Gay Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gay, 811 West Louisiana, was a contestant, along with his bulldog, Mex. The boy is now 12 years old, the dog two. Judges said the picture of the Midland boy and his dog brought much favor from those who decided the winner.

Love Me, an' You Gotta' Love My Dog!

When Betty Robinson went to the dog show at the Crystal Palace, London, to choose a pet, this was the one she selected. And it must have been love at first sight, because the huge St. Bernard, for whom Betty might have been just a couple of good mouthfuls, allowed her to lead him about. When this picture was taken the big fellow was warning the cameraman that the big black box had better not threaten any harm to his newly-adopted mistress.

Bird Gardens This is the time of year when canaries and lovebirds are apt to drop a bit for want of a bit of green in their lives. You can make a nice little bird garden by planting just a little bird grass seed or other green in a shallow box. Have the box big enough so you can take out the bottom of the bird cage and set the cage right over the garden. Then watch your little pet perk up!

Choice Cooks' Corner

Peanut Brittle One and one-half cups granulated sugar, 1-2 cup white corn syrup, 1-2 cup water, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 pound raw Spanish peanuts.

The peanuts are weighed after shelling. Blanch and let stand in a cool oven while the candy is cooking. Mix syrup, sugar, and water and cook until a few drops tried in cold water form a hard ball or the thermometer registers 270 degrees F. Add butter, salt and nuts and cook until thermometer registers 280 degrees F. Remove from fire and add vanilla and soda which has been dissolved in one tablespoon cold water. Stir and pour onto a large oiled platter or marble slab, spreading with a spatula into as thin a sheet as possible. Let cool a few minutes and pull apart to make thin and full of holes.

Caramels Caramels "that melt in the mouth" are well worth a place among the Christmas candies. You can add nuts or not, as you please. Black walnuts make a most delicious caramel, for their favor blends perfectly with the caramel flavor.

Two and one-half cups granulated sugar, 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar, 3-4 cup white or red label corn syrup, 1 cup cream, 4 tablespoons butter, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup of chopped nut meats.

Mix one cup sugar with cream of tartar and melt over a low fire until a golden syrup. Stir while melting. Add remaining sugar, syrup and cream. You may think the mixture is ruined at this stage but the lumps will all cook out.

THE LATEST BATH SALTS

An amusing gift for any woman is a large package of fragrant bath salts, packed in a smart container. Cutest of the whole cute lot this year, in many ways, is the sprinkling can of bath salts. This is a package of salts packed in a decorative sprinkling can and the whole thing wrapped in cellophane. The sprinkling can itself is cute as can be to use for a vase for flowers, when the salts are removed. The salts come in many odors, including pine needle salts, which are so popular with outdoors sports girls.

Diesel Engine May Change Sub War

WASHINGTON, (UP)—A diesel engine which may revolutionize submarine warfare by providing economical operation, long cruising radius and light weight machinery has been designed by the Navy Bureau of Engineering. This was revealed today in the annual report three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Midland Reporter-Telegram newspaper published in Midland County, Texas.

Brother-in-Law of Hoover Was Athlete

NEWBERG, Ore. (UP)—This town, one-time home of President Hoover, and of his brother-in-law Van Ness Leavitt, has one topic of conversation these days—Leavitt's arrest in Santa Monica on liquor charges.

Local residents recalled that Leavitt was a star football and baseball player at Pacific College, and became a well-known amateur boxer later.

Leavitt and Mary Hoover were married here while Leavitt was learning the plumbing trade in the shop of Frank Stief.

Unseen Genius Behind the Green Bay Champs Is Coach

GREENBAY, Wis., Dec. 15.—When a football star goes out and coaches a winning college eleven you usually hear all about it. But when he accepts the grief that goes with bullying, coaxing and pampering a bunch of All-American prima donnas in pro football he drops out of sight—unless he's a Curly Lambeau.

Earl L. Lambeau is a product of the late Knute Rockne, which makes him no different than a hundred others. But Earl, or Curly, got something from Rockne and Notre Dame that fitted him to handle a team of pro footballers.

Lambeau is 33. He learned football at East Green Bay High School and Notre Dame. It was his fortune, and misfortune, to play the other half-back post with the great George Gipp. It was an honor to perform on the undefeated team that Gipp led, but it was unfortunate that his splendid play had to be overshadowed by that of "the Gipper."

After leaving Notre Dame, Lambeau returned to Green Bay and entered business. Within a year he organized the Green Bay Packers, their first uniforms being bought by a local packing house. His team played independent ball for two years, defeating everything in Wisconsin and upper Michigan. Then Cub Buck, All-America tackle from the University of Wisconsin, came to the Packers from the famous Canton Bulldogs, one of the first pro teams in the country. In 1921 the Packers entered the National Pro League.

Since then Lambeau has been the coach. His teams have never finished lower than fourth place in 11 years of play. In the last three seasons the Packers have been pro champions. Lambeau played a half or fullback position with them until 1929, when he elected to sit on the bench and let the younger fellows play in his place.

In addition to coaching the Packers in 1920 and 1921 Lambeau was mentor of the East Green Bay High School team. More than any other man, he was responsible for the development of Sleepy Jim Crowley, who became famous as one of the four Horsemen. He also coached Red Hearden, Notre Dame halfback and co-captain in 1927.

Lambeau teaches a modified Notre Dame system which has been more successful than any other system during the last three pro league years in which the Packers played 45 games and won all but four. He has developed many secondary college football players into stars, among them Eddie Kotal of Lawrence College, who three years ago was the outstanding pass receiver in the National League. Kotal was a flashy halfback and provided many thrills during the five years he played on the Packer team.

The Green Bay coach has been more than successful in making a football machine. Though his material comes from about 20 colleges each year, he develops them into a real team. The All-Americans—and he has had as high as 10 of them on one squad—block and tackle just like the rest of the players.

As far as Lambeau is concerned, All-America rating doesn't mean a thing until the player has demonstrated his ability in the pro game. He insists that his men be capable in every department. The halfback who can carry the ball must learn to pass and block if he is to play with the Packers.

Verne Lewellen, greatest punter football has ever known, came to the Packers from Nebraska. He has been a member of the squad since 1924.

His punts have averaged 62 yards during the last five years. That is kicking.

When Lewellen came here he was just an average punter. Under capable coaching and with much practice he developed into the outstanding punter in the country. Last month Lewellen's punts in the Packer-Brooklyn game averaged 65 yards, his longest being one of 79 yards.

Five years ago the fans thought Lewellen was too light to stand the hard grind. Despite much criticism Lambeau kept him on the squad and developed him into a star open field runner, passer and pass receiver. Up until last year Lewellen played 60 minutes in every game the Packers scheduled for five years.

Lambeau now has two young halfbacks under his wing and he has high hopes for them in 1932. They are Russ Saunders, All-American at Southern California in 1929, and Hank Bruder, All-Western at Northwestern in 1930. Both played their first pro football this season and gave a splendid account of themselves. With another year's experience, the Green Bay mentor expects them to be two of the outstanding backs in the country, for both are fast, shifty and able to stand lots of bruising play.

Lambeau has received lucrative offers from other pro and college teams, but he has declined them all. Green Bay is his home and he is content to stay here and coach the Packers.

Spain Will Have Team at Olympic

MADRID, (UP)—Spain will participate in the Olympic games at Los Angeles in 1932, but has little probability of scoring many points during the events.

Whether the Spanish athletes would participate at all was left up to the government, which decided that matter by appropriating 400,000 pesetas for traveling expenses. Previously 100,000 pesetas had been granted for training.

The total grants are quite a neat sum in pesetas, but do not amount to much now that the peseta is quoted at between eight and ten cents, and therefore the team that is sent to California will be a small one.

WOULD, BUT COULDN'T

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—Samuel Fitzhand left Jacksonville for Atlanta, Ga., via a freight train. At least he thought he did. He was picked up at Jacksonville the day after he left. "Don't you know we don't have room for hitch hikers in Jacksonville?" Judge Anderson asked him. "I know that," replied Fitzhand, "but I left town yesterday." Said the judge: "You're a fast worker. Why did you come back?" Fitzhand explained that instead of being directed to a freight for Atlanta at Waycross, Ga., he had been shown a freight back to Jacksonville.

PARIS. (NEA)—On the night when Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, was to have been heard by trans-Atlantic radio at a peace and disarmament meeting held in the Palais du Trocadero, thousands of militant Frenchmen crashed the gate.
