Swapping Yarns
with Col. True

Col. True maintains a standing invitation to others to write to him and tell of their own extraordinary experiences. No holds barred. Address Col. True, in care of The Reporter-Telegram.

A lot of folks seem to think the unusual things all happened a long time ago, but the fact is there are just as many remarkable things going on now as ever.

For instance, right here in Midland county, Clyde Barron was telling me about it. He went with Sheriff Andy Francis and Deputy Fish Pool to look for a still down in the south part of the county, near a farm the sheriff owns.

They got down there and were crossing a pasture when they saw a buck rabbit walk right up to a rattlesnake, pop him one in the jaw, jump right in the middle of him and eat him alive. Now anybody who knows rabbits and snakes like Clyde and Andy and Fish know they could easily recognize that as being unusual. They went on a little farther, and saw a three-week-old lamb coming over the hill, dragging a live pig by the tail.

The sheriff put two and two together, and decided the rabbit and the lamb had got into some mash or something that had been thrown out by some evil person making whiskey. By that time they had reached the sheriff's farm, on the side where his corn field is located. He commenced to wonder if somebody had the nerve to work a still right on his own land, maybe in his own corn field.

It has been raining a good deal here lately, and although the sheriff's corn is full grown, it was in a valley and the water was still standing all over the field so deep only the tassels were showing. So Andy put Fish in a boat and sent him out to look in the corn field for the still. Fish got out about the middle, and climbed out to look around, but the water was over his head and he almost drowned before Andy and Clyde could swim in and save him. But he had swallowed some of the water and found out where the rabbit and the lamb got their stimulation.

There was a sugar cane field right next to the corn, and it has rained so much lately, and the water has stood so long in the two fields that it soaked up the corn and the cane juice. The warm weather caused it to ferment, and there was a whole valley full of first class liquor.

They started back to town with a barrel of it, but before they got here it had eaten through the barrel, run out on the ground and into a prairie dog hole. They were standing there wondering if they ought to go back and get some more of the liquor when that prairie dog came out of the hole and whipped all three of them in a fair fight.

Although bridge building was a problem they would not be called upon to face normally for several years to come, a group of engineering students at Edinburgh University undertook to try their hands. The result is a foot-bridge with a fifty-two-foot span across a brook in the Scottish Highlands, that makes continuous a local traffic formerly interrupted at flood stage. Those who use the structure are doubtless of the opinion that under certain circumstances it is proper to cross a stream before one comes to it.

Sid Glances By Clark

"When they had their money it was his family who opposed their engagement, but now it's her parents who are against it."

The Town Quack

and stopped me.

"I'm going to pay you soon," he said, with his usual laugh and put-it-off manner.

"Look here," I said sternly, "You've been saying that for months. Now I'll tell what I'm going to do. If you have not paid by Saturday, I'm going to tell all your other creditors that you paid me."

He looked at me blankly for a few moments, and then he said, "Suppose I do pay. You won't say anything about it, will you?"

"Not a word," said I.

He pulled out his wallet and paid.

Leslie Floyd, A. & M. college former student, said that if his old team doesn't win this year he can lay it to the Federal Farm Board.

A news item came out about a New York woman suing a bridge expert for $25,000 in a breach of promise cause, alleging that she had waited 15 years to marry him. Miss Lotta Williams said that was too long for anyone to wait for a bid.

One of our boys said he didn't blame Gentry Bros. for having just a dog and pony show, that it takes too many passes these days to get elephants watered.

Pete Flanigan told a girl that he had a yen for her and she asked him how much it was in American money.

Old Energetic Hap Corrigan is reported to have sat on the bank of a tank out west of town and waited for doves to fly over. In half a day he had the bag limit. And look how we fellows who don't know any better than to walk the pastures come out . . . usually without a feather.

A lot of people here don't know that Bob Preston, Neal Stoton, Lee Havnes and George Underwood have police records. Neal was an M. P. and the rest served on K. P.

Jim Ferguson never would have done well in Old Mexico. When a candidate there is eliminated, he stays eliminated.

A Californian Indian tribe has "ghost" spirits called "ikzareyavs" and "itaxihars" but don't laugh. You will be reading about the Notre Dame backfield soon, and those boys go by the names Brancheau, Jask which, Sheeketski, Lukats, Koken and Melnikovich.

Addison Wadley told me this story that happened in the early days of his mercantile career:

"We had a customer who owed us a little sum of money. It was long overdue. The man had a steady job, no one to support, but he just wouldn't pay me or several others whom he owed money to.

One day he saw me on the street,

LUCKY STRIKE PROGRAM
 "Braine" Keck had ideas. He felt certain that with his intelligence and the gang's obedience, nothing they attempted would be impossible. The story of his most ambitious undertaking, a dating bank hold-up in the Bronx, will be unfolded in "The Gang in Blue Glasses," a dramatization by Tom Curtin which will be broadcast this evening, at 10 o'clock, eastern standard time, over a nationwide NBC network during the Lucky Strike hour.

"Crany" justified his sobriquet by employing a novel disguise on the scene of the crime and a heretofore unknown means of safe escape. But even the cleverest lawbreaker sometimes errs and, oddly enough, it was only a little mistake that terminated what promised to be a brilliant career in his chosen profession.

Jack Denny and his orchestra playing from New York and Walter O'Keefe, pilot of the magic carpet, will also be heard on this program.

CLOSE SHAVE
 FORT WORTH—Mrs. W. J. Stabo had a narrow escape from death here, and a resulting headache. She was leaning over a machine in the shop where she worked to replace a spindle. Her hair became tangled in the machinery and the revolving wheels pulled her head toward them. Her husband cut her hair off with a pair of shears, in the nick of time.

THE FORT DEARBORN MASSACRE

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the artist, N. C. Wyeth . . . inspired by the heartless treachery of a band of vicious Miami Indians, who massacred the settlers with inhuman ferocity . . . August 15, 1812.

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies . . . the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted" That package of mild Luckies

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, he should build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door." —RALPH WALDO EMERSON.

Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?
